'The Madwoman of Chaillot' To Be Presented As Annual Domino Spring Production

The Domino Club will present "The Madwoman of Chaillot" for its spring production on March 29, 30, and 31, announced Mrs. Annadora Shirk, who will direct the play.

Written by Jean Giraudoux, French poet, novelist, and philosopher, as well as playwright, "The Madwoman of Chaillot" is the mature work of a man who can laugh at human nature because he loves and understands his fellow man. Adapted for the American stage by Professor Maurice Veleny of Columbia University, "The Madwoman of Chaillot" presents the story of a charmingly mad Countess, who, pausing at the Chez Francis for her daily bones, overhears a group of money-mad financiers plot to destroy Paris. In order to thwart their scheme, the Countess summons to tea at her apartment, 21 Rue de Chaillot, her three trusted advisors—the Madwoman of Passy, the Madwoman of St. Sulpice, and the Madwoman of La Concorde. There follows the maddest tea party given since the Dormouse, the March Hare and the Hatter entertained Alice.

Albright Trustees To Enlarge Board

The annual session of the Albright College Board of Trustees will convene on Wednesday, February 14 at 1 o'clock in Selwyn Hall Parlor. There will be reports of the administration officers and the standing committees of the Board.

A faculty-trustee dinner will be held at 6 o'clock in the Walnut Room of the Berkshire Hotel. Following the dinner, the special committee of the Board Session will meet at the Hotel.

Due to Charter Change

On February 15 a morning meeting will be held at which time the board will take up the business of electing additional members at large to the board due to the change in the college charter. The change has provided for four new members. The board will select five members to fill the new positions and a vacancy on the board. The change was inaugurated to provide for a greater representation from Reading and Berks County. The charter change was approved by the Berks County Court on January 19. The name of the college was also changed to Albright College of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The session of the board was preceded by meetings of the standing committees: executive, administration of the Theology School and the faculty and curricula committee.

With the new charter change there will be 34 members on the board. Three are elected by the Alumni, one by the Board of Bishops, 18 by the conferences in the supporting area and 12 members at large elected by the board. At the present time there are 15 Albright alumni on the board, although only three are elected by the Alumni Association.

Bishop Stamm Ends Tenure on Board; Notes Progress During 16 Years

By Bishop John S. Stamm

Sixteen years ago I became officially connected with Albright College. I had on previous occasions visited the campus but my knowledge of the college was limited. During these 16 years, I have been a member of the Board of Trustees and the Executive Committee. I have also served on many different committees and for six years was President of the Evangelical School of Theology. These contacts have given me many opportunities to become more intimately acquainted with the spirit and operation of the college.

The present financial status is indeed a most satisfying contrast to the financial problems and struggles of 16 years ago. The enlarged enrollment also evinces the academic growth and service of the school. The generosity of the church and friends of the college, the devotion and loyalty of the members of the faculty and the constructive leadership of the administrative heads of the school have made this great achievement possible. It has been a most satisfying experience to note this progress during the past 16 years. The impending national crisis with its heavy tax upon life and resources presents added problems for the immediate future. I have confidence that the friends of the college will continue to give it loyal support and help this school to render still larger services.

There is today an unprecedented interest in higher education. There are also some searching facts.

Council Approves New Constitution Of Musical Club

Meeting last Tuesday for the first time since January 9, Student Council approved the constitution of the Albright College Band and Orchestra Club, discussed the advisability of supporting a foreign student and rejected a proposal to send delegates to a conference on human relations.

The constitution for the new musical organization was read by Vincent Gentile. The group, he explained, will be composed of active members of the Marching Band, Concert Band and Symphony Orchestra.

Constitution Passed

Purposes of the new organization are to encourage pride on the part of the members in their organizations, to promote a spirit of unity, to make suggestions for the selection of music, to encourage individual effort and to provide for adequate maintenance of the musical instruments and equipment.

The constitution was passed without opposition. Before the group can be recognized officially by the college, it must be approved by the faculty committee on student organizations and activities.

Council debated at length the advisability of supporting a student from one of the foreign areas of the Evangelical United Brethren Church. Such a plan was suggested last month by Dr. Carl Heimiller, general secretary of the Department of World Missions of the denomination. The responsibility of the student body would include the expenses of room, board, books and incidental items. The student would study at Albright for one year.

Vote Results in Tie

Gentile told Council that the expenses for which the students would be responsible would be at least $425. Total expenses would be not less than $725, of which the foreign student could be expected to earn $280.

The vote on a motion to support one student resulted in six in favor, six opposed and six abstentions. Consequently the matter was tabled until next week, when final action will be taken. Council president Raymond C. Schlegel has requested that all members attend the meeting because of the importance of this issue.

To Reign Over May Festivities

Ruth Tyson

Eleanor Spring

Tyson Elected May Queen; Spring Voted Maid of Honor

Ruth Tyson was elected May Queen for the May Day Events to be held on Saturday, May 12 in an all college election conducted at the beginning of the week. Eleanor Spring was selected to serve as maid-of-honor.

Miss Tyson, a resident of Northmont, is president of the Pi Alpha Tau Sorority. In addition to this duty she is a member of the Home Economics Organization, Future Teachers of America and a pledge to Phi Delta Sigma, the honorary Alumnae sorority. A home economics major, Ruth is now doing her practice teaching.

Miss Spring, who lives in Trenton, N. J., is Girls' Sports Editor of the '51 Cue, corresponding secretary of the Pi Alpha Tau sorority and a member of the varsity cheerleading squad. She also plays on the girls' hockey, basketball and softball teams. Eleanor is a psychology major and a sociology minor.

Approximately 48 percent of the student body voted in the election, which is conducted by the Women's Athletic Association in conjunction with Student Council. On Monday and Tuesday, February 12 and 13 another all-college election will be held to select six senior women for the court of honor for the May Queen.

Nan Heckman, mistress of ceremonies, and Kathleen Guenther, custodian of the crown, were selected by the senior women last year for their posts. All arrangements for May Day, the dances and festivities are in charge of these two.

Thirteen Students Receive Degrees

Thirteen students graduated from Albright College on Wednesday, January 31 at 2 o'clock. The first part of the program consisted of remarks by President Harry V. Masters. Dean George W. Walton then presented the candidates for degrees after which President Masters conferred the degrees. The program was concluded with Alumni induction by N. S. Danford.

Candidates for degrees were as follows: Bachelor of Arts—Gerald George Oplinger, Oldrick Fischer Von Seekamm and Selig Oscar Wassner; Bachelor of Science—Stanley Joseph Boczar, Robert Finger, Roderick Henry Horning, Lewis Irvin Krimen and Helen Ross Mallon; Bachelor of Science in Economics—Harold Albert Altenderfer, Howard Carroll Bell, Donald Wayne Walter and Guy Leon Wildermuth, Jr.; and Bachelor of Science in Home Economics—Kathryn Collins Marquette.

The graduation ceremony was held in President Master's office.

Students to Plan For Stunt Night

Campus organizations that wish to participate in Stunt Night should send representatives to a meeting which will be held in Room 103 on Tuesday, February 13 at 2 o'clock. Preliminary plans will be formulated at this time for the evening of stunts to be presented on Friday, March 16 in Union Hall.

All other students interested in helping to organize the affair are requested to come to the meeting or give their names to Terry Connor, chairman of Stunt Night, who was appointed by Marilyn Himmelstein, chairman of the Student Council social committee.

The Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity and the Pi Alpha Tau sorority won the competition last year.

better if certain representatives of evil would disappear. So they blithely entice all these—into the cellar of the Madwoman of Chaillot. Then the Madwoman elegantly springs a trap door through which all the evil of the world passes into the sewers of Paris.

"In my opinion 'The Madwoman of Chaillot' is one of the most interesting and rewarding plays to have been written within the last 20 years," wrote John Mason Brown beginning his review of the play for the Saturday Review of Literature. "The first vintage champagne the French stage has sent to Broadway since Dunkirk," wrote the reviewer for Time Magazine.

The play, of course, is a fantastical satire, and one which will appeal to sophisticated, imaginative college students.

Theatre Month Announced

As it was produced professionally "The Madwoman of Chaillot" included 40 in its cast. Try-outs were held at the Domino Club meeting on Thursday, February 8. Howard Platzker will serve as technical director.

March is International Theatre Month, sponsored by the Panel on Dramatic Arts of the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO as part of an over-all objective to increase international understanding. During March, college and professional theatres all over the country will focus their spotlight on productions which best promote international understanding. To share in the UNESCO program, the Domino Club is producing this appropriate play which is the work of a foreign playwright, and emphasizes the universality of human experience.

To Cheat or Not to Cheat

We suppose that on the majority of college campuses any protest against cheating is regarded as a voice crying in the wilderness. Nevertheless we believe that there are still many students who wish that something would be done to remedy the situation.

The problem of cheating at Albright was accentuated again during the recent period of final examinations. In more than one case information was passed from person to person during the exam, crib notes were only partially concealed and, we have heard, even textbooks were consulted. Moreover, reports are current that copies of the finals in certain courses were in the hands of several "lucky" students prior to the announced test period.

The blame for the prevalence of cheating cannot be placed entirely on the shoulders of any one group: students, faculty and administration alike are responsible, as is the general temper of our civilization. There is some justification, we suppose, for the professors who contend that what a student does is primarily his responsibility, that if he wants to cheat he harms only himself in the long run. But we contend that this policy is unfair to the honest students who must either cheat or accept the consequences of comparatively poor grades since they cannot compete with open textbooks or advance copies of exams.

Probably an honor system like the one which has proved so successful at the University of Virginia can be established only over a period of years. Perhaps such a system would be impractical at Albright. But if we are not ready for an honor system, the least we can ask is more careful proctoring and more careful guarding of the exams in order to eliminate the prevalent cheating which does exist.

A Desperate Situation

The Albrightian is desperate.

We need your help.

With the present editorial staff slated to retire before the end of April, scarcely half a dozen Albright students have expressed an interest in editorial positions for next year. About ten vacancies must be filled. Unless there is a sudden upsurge of interest, the entire responsibility for next year's paper will rest on the shoulders of a few.

The situation this year is accentuated by certain unusual circumstances. The draft threatens to take its toll of prospective editorial staff members; others will be lost by transferring to greener pastures. Graduation, of course, will create its usual number of vacancies.

We admit that Albrightian staff members get scant recognition except a quarter of a line of six-point type in the masthead. We admit that the editors must devote a great deal of unappreciated time each week to the publication. Yet we feel that there should be more than six students in a college of over six hundred with the talent and interest to try out for editorial positions on the staff.

If The Albrightian means more to students than a handy paper with which to cover textbooks, the challenge to try out for positions on the 1951-52 staff must be accepted.

Science Slants

After the rehabilitation period following exams, Albright's science personnel returns to the laboratories as a retreat from the exhausting week of social life. The vacation was a needed one for individuals such as the senior pre-meds. This group collectively felt the heat of the p. chem final, yet knowing thermodynamics they found it possible to keep their systems isothermic by applying an alcohol heat absorber.

Dr. Lin will give an award of a "gold star" to students in his general organic chemistry class who show achievement in recitation. On Monday Jim Mann did his best to gain this coveted reward yet no matter how hard Jim tried Elliot Sauerbieg held his own.

A sad incident occurred in the anatomy class. It seems that one of the students worked all morning dissecting a "stinking lousy fish," and upon finishing he realized that the fish wasn't his own. For further details we refer you to Jack Greenspan or Mike Ronco.

All the "students" are back to the biology lab under the able direction of Mrs. Woyanowski. They began work on their worms this Monday. All the girls, of course, have been looking forward to this great moment of their lives ever since the beginning of the first semester.

Prof. Hollenbach began work in the bacteriology lab Monday, preparing it for those members of the student body who will spend four hours each week for the rest of the semester looking for those "little beasts."

A mathematics professor has been calculating the "probability" of his name appearing in this column. To shatter all mathematical formulae we will now submit his name—presenting Professor Dunkle.

And now we leave the science hall which will now suffer under the stress and strain of its occupants for another terror laden semester. C.W.

This 'n That

Welcome back, welcome home. We flocked to the campus in cars, by taxi, on trains, busses, and planes. The vacation (it was all too short) is over, and after spending this week in class, we can look at ourselves in a mirror and say, "Huh, I never left." Back to the long hours of books, classes, bull sessions, basketball games, fraternity and other meetings, parties, dates, dances (say, this isn't so bad after all, is it?). One's Canasta game is apt to suffer a bit if one stays away from it to long, and home is a bad place to play cards. But the Dorm girls must reorientate themselves to the proper hours during which young ladies are (or aren't) allowed to roam the streets.

While reading some of the exchange papers that the Albrightian office receives, my limp eye fell on the picture of a burning building in "The Sandburr" published at York, Nebraska. The caption said, "Old Main dies after 60 years of service." Standing in front of the fire were several stary-eyed students. "187 Fellow Arsonists, now is the time..."

The Associated Women Students at West Virginia University has squelched a plan to have a majorette appear during halftime at basketball games. Association president Jean Bowling justified the action by saying that "these appearances would not be in accordance with standards which have always been maintained by University women."

Freedom of the press hung in the balance for a time at Butler University when the student newspaper was threatened with disciplinary action for publishing the views of two queen candidates on whether girls should wear falsies.

Editors of the Collegian created a furor by carrying a banner story headlined, "ELLEN AND HELEN ARE FIRM ANTI-FALSIE CANDIDATES." School authorities were particularly unhappy over the story's subhead, which said, "Experts see win by a bust." J.K.

The Ivory Tower

The accumulation of last semester has crowded out reality? The ivory tower is what we strive for, never, never succeeding. Bismarck, Goethe, the Federal Reserve, the Civil War—all crowding and jamming the brain that refuses their admittance after they're secured there. The ivory tower, illusory, non-existent, a dream of the past. Knowledge for its own sake—for the pure joy in utilizing our gift, maybe soon to retrogress (or cease) on its evolutionary path. Like our now silent and dumb predecessors we, for their once sublime state, yearn. To be free from the "bete noire," the world, its impermanence, its death, its war. Not to escape, but to transcend, to feel gloriously free, drinking in the abstract, surveying objectively the world's dark folly, analyzing movement. Even nature, the vain, unguided force movement is now radiant, impersonal, emitting the glow of our own transcended beings.

But how? Where lies the elusive key to the door of this unlocked world? The attempt to transcend today and the immediate—it falters; it fails and results in stupid anguish. To escape is possible, it seems, but never to transcend. Can we refuse? Perhaps never, yet we must so as not to be in the blissful world of abstraction; away from a bungling, idiotic, mechanistic world. Yes, this is man's great option, the only discovered key, not impliedly to happiness, but only to existence. Man's great option, is it? This is the rational man's fate, to have to choose one key while the other lies undiscovered. Morality, happiness, in short, all appealing that man imagines lies within the unlocked world whose key we have possessed since birth.

No longer the ivory tower, nor transcendence, nor escape, least of all. Cope with "bete noire" we must, it being the only hope for the rational man forced to accept an option. Stuck for an average of more than a half-century, living on the "bete noire's" back, lowered into its bowels at death, we see the ivory tower vanish. But carry on, fools, and fail to see our only solution while ivory towers in multitudinous forms are created second per second. R.M.

Courage, Men

It was 0600 Monday, February 5, 1951 and the wind was lashing and tearing at Captain A's military garments. His helmet was being pushed away from his head and its strap gnawed at his neck; he turned to his men, good men, strong, dependable, courageous, and cracked out the command, "Forward!" They began the perilous, icy ascent of the seemingly unclimbable mountain. Foothold to foothold, handhold to toehold, teeth and nails digging into every tiny crevice in the glass-like side of the mountain. Captain A gave encouragement to his men. "If we finish this one we'll be there! We can do it—on, on, on!" They struggled; hours became like minutes, the small company was exhausted, near the end of their bodily resources; only their leader's will kept them going—pulling here, pushing there.

Finally, Captain A reached the summit. A glorious conquering feeling soared within his chest and—he looked out. Despair smashed his features into an unrecognizable mass. The men, they would probably die where they stood. He thought it must be an illusion—a cloud formation—But, no, no, there at an almost infinitesimal distance up the parking lot interrupted by peaks and gullies even more tortuous than the one they had just ascended, was the S.U.B.

Captain A, of the Queen's Royal Army of Ants, turned to face his men. L.S.

Wild Day In Reading

It's just another case of small town boy coming to the big, friendly, open-hearted city. I arrived in town on Saturday morning from Philly. Since I was to be a student at Albright, I thought I'd spend my first few hours wandering leisurely about the campus. This was to acclimate (big word!) myself to my new home. Due to the fact that this trip didn't take too long, I found that I had a whole day and evening on my hands, and, since I didn't know a soul in Reading save myself (and I often wonder if anyone of us ever really knows himself), I had a problem. So to solve it I did as many before me must have done, I took a trip "downtown".

Where does a stranger in town go if he has several hours to kill and piles of money ($3.80) to burn? A movie! Ah I rue the moment that idea permeated my tiny brain. But there I was inside of the motion picture house seeing my first, but by no means last, movie in Reading. Entering at 12:00, I came out at 3:30 with still quite a few hours on my hands. Soooooo!! Where does a stranger in town go if he has several hours to kill and piles of money ($3.10) to burn? A movie! And I did. I got out of there at 5:00 just in time for supper. Being a naive young gentleman (and I use the term with extreme reverence), I asked someone where was a good eating place in town. "Uh! Go to the Gem," he said. So without further ado I ran all the way to the Gem, screaming for directions as I whizzed (I'm a fast runner) past several policemen. I came; I ate; I left. It's now 6:00, and I've got a whole evening to kill. Soooooo!! Where does a stranger in town go if he has piles of money (the pile has dwindled somewhat by now to $.90) to burn? A movie! And I did. When I got out it was at last time to go to my room? Blinded by the disease of motion pictures, I staggered to the bus station, hopped aboard a bus and set sail for my bed. After I had undressed, washed and dressed for bed (quite meticulous, eh?) I lay down to a peaceful slumber. But one thought kept skipping through my head? Reading, the town wherein could be found the spice of life—variety—a variety of movies. R.B.

Those lusty cheers that stem from the student's section at our home basketball games are apt to originate from this week's Dandy, John Wise. A Dayman hailing from West Reading, John has long been a supporter of the college teams, and hopes to continue this avocation even after he graduates this year.

Who is John Wise? Well, he drives a Chevey convertible that has been a familiar landmark on campus. He may be seen almost anywhere—in the library, talking in the halls between classes, or in the S.U.B. munching lunch and drinking coffee. Physically, John is tall, has black hair, and is the possessor of a friendly smile that makes you want to listen to what he says.

This, his senior year, finds John busily at work in many campus organizations. As business manager for the Cue, a job requiring no small amount of paper work, John is kept quite busy. A new organization that he hopes will become a success is the Inter-Fraternity of which he is vice-president. Keep plugging away, John, we're all for it. A staunch fraternity man himself, John has been a member of the Pi Tau Beta group ever since his freshman year. He has been treasurer, vice-president, and is this year president of the Pi Tau's in addition to serving as Student Council representative for them. How active can you be? In addition to the above, John also belongs to the Future Teachers of America.

John has defined his future as much as it is possible in these uncertain days. After graduation, if the Navy doesn't call him, teaching will be his chosen profession. And then, too, there's always Winnie. John tells us that he'll always remember the friendliness of the students on campus; and those New York trips with the business department will always occupy a place in his book of memories. Best of luck, John.

Last Monday evening's intramural basketball league results moved closer to the final standings as first place was narrowed to one team in the "A" league, while the same three teams in the "B" league remained deadlocked with five weeks of play remaining.

Loss of four players to the armed forces failed to stop the Pi Taus "A" team in the first game of the evening, as they scored on almost everything they threw at the basket to hand the Kappas their first loss, 55-29, and take sole possession of first place.

Lulu Brenner and Bill Heffner led the winners with fifteen and thirteen points respectively, while Walt Grigsby tallied nine for the losers.

Sperryak Tabs 16

Pete Sperryak's sixteen counters and Tony D'Apollito's fourteen led the Joy Boys to a close decision over the Zetas, 46-43, despite the fourteen, thirteen, and eleven point efforts of Norm Dettra, George Peiffer, and Bill Cohrs, respectively.

Led by Bruce Tenley, who garnered sixteen tallies and Paul Miller, who had thirteen, the APO's handed the KTX quintet their fifth consecutive defeat without a win, 50-35. Charlie Klinger netted fourteen for the losing cause.

The Stars failed to field a full team and had to forfeit to the Kappas, thus enabling the latter team to retain their share of first place.

Frosh House Wins

The Pi Taus' "B" team could muster only a few points, which proved vastly inadequate as Frosh House reeled off a 62-14 triumph, behind Don Wilkinson's sixteen, Dick Fechtman's fifteen, and Dave Paschon's thirteen point contributions. Tom Pepe was ejected midway in the first half for malicious verbal assaults upon the referee.

Bruce Eichoff scored twenty-two points to lead the Racketeers' 82-44 assault on the Spades, despite D'Apollito's twenty-four counters. Bill Lovett, Art Warner, Ernie Zelena, and Jim Rutter contributed sixteen, fourteen, thirteen, and eleven markers to the winners' total. Conspicuous by his absence was Dick Stephan, who is now in the Navy.

Shirk Attends MAS Confab On Tourney

Faculty Manager of Athletics, Eugene L. Shirk, attended a meeting of the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference planning committee held at the Hotel Bethlehem in Bethlehem on Thursday, January 25. The committee, which met for the purpose of investigating the possibilities of a court tourney, decided to do nothing about a tourney this year but to try to schedule one next season. Albright won the last MAS tournament held two years ago.

Eleven Athletes Join Armed Forces

Eleven athletes have temporarily abandoned their college careers for service in the armed forces during the past semester. Enlisting in the navy for four years are Sid Howarth, tackle; Carmen Christiano, halfback; James Klein, guard; and John Santo, center.

Joining the Air Force are Donald McCarthy, tackle; Edward Oberly, guard; Floyd Rightmire, fullback; Rod Shippe and Paul James, ends. Jim Boaman, co-captain of the 1950 football team, was called with the 148th Fighter Squadron. Dave Nicholas, the lone hardwood member, enlisted between semesters.

Cats Defeat King's College, Wagner, Scranton; Lose to Siena, Seton Hall In Last Five Frays; Post 11-7 Card

Three wins and two losses, bringing the Albright basketball team record up to a total of 11 victories and eight defeats, were the results of the Gulliammen's activities for the past three weeks. The Cats opened the three week session with a decisive 87-65 victory over King's College at Northwest on January 20 and continued the trend with a 73-53 win over a powerful Wagner College quintet.

A 59-55 overtime loss to Siena College at Albany, New York on January 30 opened the three day tour for the Lions but ended their victorious trail. Seton Hall further humbled the Cats at South Orange, N. J. the following night when they handed the Red and White their worst loss of the season to the tune of 81-49. On Saturday, February 3 the Lions returned to their home den and to their winning ways when they romped over the Scranton Royals, 76-51, for their fourth straight victory in the Western Division, Middle Atlantic States Conference.

Cappel Scores 21

Outstanding in the Red and White's victory over Scranton was Lee Cappel's total scoring of 21 points for the night, while close behind him in the scoring column were Bob Ruoff and Danny Bieber, each with 15 markers. The Royals nabbed a short-lived 4-3 lead early in the first period but when the Cats began their bombardment they remained in front for the rest of the contest. They led 19-15 at the end of the first stanza, 38-24 at halftime, and 55-37 at the third quarter mark. The loss was the fourth for the Royals in league competition and the 16th out of their 21 games this year.

The ultimate results of the Cats' road trip were two losses to Siena and Seton Hall. The former game showed Albright in perhaps its best form thus far this year. In this contest Danny Bieber and Gerry Potts had each sunk foul tries to tie the game at 49-49 after the regulation four periods. In the ensuing extra period, scores for Siena by Billy Hogan and Ralph Fedullo and for Albright by Connie Dettling and Dan Bieber gave the Gulliammen a 55-54 lead with a minute and a half remaining. But with only 40 seconds to go in the fracas Billy Harrell tossed in a set shot from the side to wipe out Albright's lead and later padded the victors' margin with another field goal while Bill Knott sank a free throw. In spite of the close defeat, the Cats achieved a moral victory in almost downing one of the country's top hoop quintets.

On the next night, however, the Lions fell victim to a surging Seton

Hicks' Baby Lions Boast 9-4 Record After Last Victory

Albright College's Baby Lions under the tutelage of Bobby Hicks nabbed three out of their last four contests to bring their season's record up to the admirable total of nine victories and four defeats. The Baby Cats topped the King's College Jayvees, 53-24, nudged Wagner's junior varsity, 52-50, in an overtime duel, lost to the mighty Seton Hall freshmen, 63-36, and trounced the Scranton Jayvees, 50-42.

Rod Shippe was high scorer for the Kittens with 12 points in the King's College fray in which the winners led throughout the contest without any difficulty. In the preliminary to the Wagner game the Baby Lions had a more difficult time icing the contest. Although they led, 47-45, with only seconds to go, Wagner's Don Briggs sank a layup shot in the final second on a throw-in to toss the game into an extra period. In the extra stanza Dale Baker tossed in a field goal to knot the count at 50-50 and then put the Lions ahead with two free throws. Baker was high scorer for the victors with 13 points.

In the contest with Scranton last Saturday evening newcomer Jim Croke, Earl Gernert and Jim Bachman each had ten points to lead their squad to a 50-42 victory. This was the ninth victory for Coach Hicks' quintet.

Tenley's Photograph In Life Magazine

Bruce Tenley won national recognition last week when his picture, showing him grunting, groaning and puffing, appeared in the "Speaking of Pictures" section of "Life" magazine showing him running the first leg of the four leg mile relay at the Inquirer invitation indoor track and field meet held in Philadelphia on January 19. Although the Albright team finished last, there was only four seconds separating the first and last place runners. The Lion's team, which had little opportunity to practice, covered the mile board court in 5:43.8.

Dr. Arnold T. Greene, the Indians' practicing dentist coach, had to build his present squad around the core of two of last year's regulars and five other varsity squad members. Of Dr. Greene's 13 man squad, five are freshmen, two are junior college graduates and one is advanced from the junior varsity.

Only Four Victories

The results of last season for the Juniata Indians were a total of only four victories out of the seventeen contests played. The Lions last year eked out a 66-64 victory over Juniata on the latter's home court at Huntingdon, Pa. The Indians headed the scoring throughout most of the contest with the Cats making continual efforts to pare down their lead, and the nip-and-tuck fray was not in the victors' hands until Danny Bieber sank the winning field goal with but 45 seconds to go.

Captain Ray Korody, a three letter winner and the only senior on the team, and Dave Bayer, sophomore holdover, form the nucleus around which the Juniata varsity five has been moulded. Two other varsity starters are juniors Tom Green and Karl Park; while the fifth member of the quintet is a six foot, one inch freshman, Ed Weirauch. Since Bayer is the tallest member of the starting five at six feet, three inches, and since two other starters are only five feet, ten inches tall, the Lions will have a decided height advantage over the Juniataans.

Hawks Seek Revenge

The Hawks of St. Joseph's will be seeking revenge on their home court for the 81-74 defeat which the Lions handed them on the Northwest hardwoods on Wednesday, January 10. In this contest the Cats fought their way through the last period to the tune of 30 points which enabled them to overcome a 58-51 third period deficit. Danny Bieber, Al Pollack, and Bob Ruoff led the Lions' fourth stanza spree, while Danny was also high scorer for the winners with 19 tallies. High scorer for the visiting Hawks was Tony Papaneri; while Mike Fallon racked up 16; Johnny Dooan, 13; and John Hughes, 11. The Lions hope to pull a changeover from last year's record in which they copped the home contest, 50-46, but dropped the fracas in Philadelphia by the same margin, 58-52.

Two additions have been made to the Red and White varsity since the end of the first semester. George Amole, former top scorer for the Jayvees, has moved up to a varsity slot while big Connie Dettling climbed up the ladder to the varsity after successfully completing a full year of academic work at Albright. Dettling, who starred as a hoopman for Reading High School, and spent his first collegiate semester at Villanova, matriculated at Albright last February. Because of the transfer rule governing hoop players which states that no one who has enrolled at in institution of higher learning shall be eligible for varsity competition until one calendar year has elapsed and one college year of academic work has been successfully completed, Dettling was not eligible for the Lion varsity until the contest with Wagner College on January 27.

Here are the probable starters for tomorrow's contest with the Indians:

Albright	Juniata
Cappel	f.....Green
Ruoff	f.....Park

Library Displays Interfrat Awards

The Scholarship Trophies bought by the Interfraternity Council are now on display in a case in the library. The scholarship trophy on the right of the case will be presented by the president of the Council to the fraternity having the highest combined academic average for the first semester. It will be given at the informal Interfraternity dance on Friday, April 6.

The trophy on the left of the case will be permanently displayed on campus with the name of the annual recipients added to the labels each year.

The Council is composed of three men from each fraternity, organized for the benefit of the fraternities by helping each other at the same time at Albright College. The purpose of the academic award is to enhance an added effort, by a combined competitive spirit on the part of the individual fraternities, in maintaining a high scholastic standing.

After this year the trophy will be awarded for the period beginning in February and ending in January of each year, thereby covering two semesters.

Lion Quintet Tops Lafayette Five, 64-59, in Thrilling Hardwood Fray

The basket happy Lion quintet rallied in the last period to reverse the Leopards of Lafayette last Wednesday evening on the losers' court, 64-59. Last Wednesday's fray was Albright's twelfth triumph against seven setbacks.

The Leopards grabbed a 6-0 lead during the early minutes of play and held a two point edge at the end of the first frame which they extended to six as the gun sounded at half time. Not until the final chapter did the Albright basketballers catch the hosts to surge ahead by the five point winning margin.

The Lions clawed their way into the lead as the fourth quarter opened on Danny Bieber's deuce and a pair of free tosses. Bob Ruoff canned an ace and again Danny Bieber layed-up a two pointer to ice the contest. Pat Bieber and Gil Shor exchanged

Council Approves New Musical Club

A communication was received from the Committee on Discriminations in Higher Education of the American Council on Education, notifying Albright of a national student conference on human relations. This conference has been scheduled for March 29-31 at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind. Albright is entitled to two voting delegates.

Jay Shenk made a motion that Council send two delegates. The motion was defeated.

Doris J. Chanin, class of 1950 and former regional vice-president of the National Student Association, sent a letter to Schlegel praising Council for reversing its decision to disaffiliate from N.S.A. "The students of Albright should be proud of their council members," she wrote.

An investigation by Council of the Pennsylvania Sons of the American Revolution was reported by Gerald Englehart. The Americanization and Patriotic Education Committee of this organization had written to Council in November asking for information about "any teaching . . . which might be considered in the nature of propaganda for a socialistic, communistic or totalitarian government."

Englehart noted that a letter which he directed to the headquarters of the group in Harrisburg had never been answered. In this letter he requested information about the purpose of the survey and the nature of the organization. Englehart's motion that Council take no further action concerning the survey was approved.

William A. Heck, chairman of the student activities committee, told Council that the all-college election has been set for April 9, 10 and 11. Candidates for the presidency of Student Council will be nominated on Tuesday, March 13.

Tryouts Announced For Easter Play

Try-outs for the Easter play will be held on Monday, February 19 in the Chapel from 2 to 4 o'clock. Eleven men are needed for the play. David Smith and Nancy Lou Walker will direct the play which will be given on March 20 at the regular Y meeting held in the College Chapel.

Bishop Stamm

will cease with the meeting of the session of the Board in 1951, I will always maintain a deep interest in the life and activity of the college. I commend most heartily, to the friends of the college and to the college family, Bishop G. E. Epp, who takes over the work in this area. He has had large experience in the field of education and will bring to these schools in the area added strength.

Dr. Ralph Stewart, traveling for the Student Volunteer Movement for Christian Missions, spoke on the Christian education work in West Pakistan at the regular meeting of the combined Y's on Tuesday, February 6 in the Lower Social Room.

"The mission began the first educational movement in this area in 1805, but only in the last few years has it grown to any great degree. Today we have an elementary school, grammar school, high school and colleges for both men and women."

Dr. Stewart also said that most of the students come from the poorer class of people known as outcasts and therefore their biggest problem is meeting expenses.

There is a need for any specialized women particularly women doctors because of the inability of a male to attend a female in this Moslem area. Although females are permitted to receive an education, they are very much in the minority.

The mission has done much to alleviate the problem of leprosy with the establishment of leper colonies. But as yet the mission does not have a hospital.

Dr. Stewart feels that even if the Americans are forced to withdraw, as many have had to do in China, the Indian Christians will carry on the work and the work done by Americans will not have been in vain. More, however, should be done to help the Asiatic students. Dr. Stewart stated that they too have dreams, hopes and aspirations that every American youth has.

Cultural Program Features Actor

Ralph Clanton, popular actor of stage and screen, surprised the chapel audience by his appearance yesterday morning. Mr. Clanton replaced Alan Lomax who was scheduled to appear for the fourth cultural program as listed by the Public Relations Office.

Mr. Clanton has established himself in the field of classical theatre through performances in such recent successes as Octavius Caesar in Katherine Cornell's production of "Anthony and Cleopatra," Comte de Guiche in the Jose Ferrer production of "Cyrano de Bergerac," and as Charles in the Theatre Guild production of "Othello." Last season he was co-starred with Martha Scott in "Design for a Stained Glass Window."

The performer is featured in the motion picture "Cyrano de Bergerac" playing the same role which he did in the stage production. He is co-starred in the J. Arthur Rank production "They Were Not Divided" which is playing in England and Canada now and will be released in New York on February 20.

In his "Theatre Pageant" Mr. Clanton brought to his audience excerpts from great plays through the centuries, which illustrated the different styles of acting and writing, from the present century back to the ancient Greek and Chinese theatre.
