Faculty Approves By-Laws For Campus Center Boards

The Albright College faculty, at its recent staff meeting, unanimously approved both the By-Laws of the Campus Center Policy Board and the Campus Center Student Board By-laws.

The Policy Board, which will act as advisor to the Director of the Campus Center and the administration of the College in matters relating to the use of the Campus Center, will adopt the "house rules" governing the use of facilities in the Center.

Approval by the President of the College and the Board of Trustees is needed for the adoption of the "rules", which include hours the Center will be open, conduct standards to be observed, and prices to be charged for recreational activities.

The Dean of Students, Dean of Women, two members of the Faculty appointed by the President, the President of the Student Council, the Director of Food Service, the Director of College Relations, the Director of the Campus Center, and the three student officers of the Campus Center Student Board will sit on the Policy Board.

With the assistance of the six other members of the Student Board, which must include at least two juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman, the three officers are responsible for providing a meaningful social and cultural life on the Albright Campus.

Nominations for membership on the Campus Center Board will be made by the senior members of the Board, the Director of the Campus Center, and the Executive Committee of the Student Council. Upon approval by the Student Council during the Spring Semester, nominations shall be declared elected.

Decisions of the Board, which may be convened by the Director of the Campus Center, President of the Board, or a majority of the members of the Student Board, shall be made by a majority of the Board members.

The standing committees, chaired by members of the Board, include 1) Social, 2) Recreation, 3) Publicity, 4) House (host and hostess), 5) Cultural, and 6) Special Events.

Formulating a budget to be approved by the Student Council prior to the beginning of each semester is the responsibility of the Campus Center Board and its Director. Unused funds at the end of a semester shall revert back to the Student Council.

The Campus Center Student Board, whose meetings will be open to non-members, is now responsible for promoting, scheduling, and coordinating student use of the Center.

McBRIDE DETAILS PURPOSE OF 4-1-4 SEMESTER PLAN

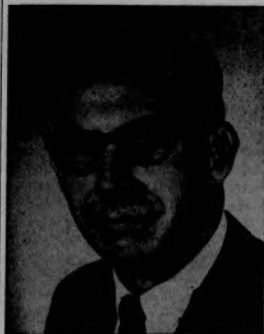

In trying to formulate an acceptable calendar year based on the 4-1-4 semester year, Dean Robert E. McBride suggested that our students might benefit from the following proposals:

(1) To allow for more elective freedom than now exists within our required program; (2) To take advantage of the varying educational backgrounds of our students by allowing for greater recognition of individual abilities and interests.

(3) To allow for the opportunity of expressing an intrinsic interest in the content of a course free from the extrinsic pressure of grades alone; (4) to allow for a semester of study experience which would not suffer the disruptive effects of the Christmas vacation; (5) to allow for a greater concentration on a less number of courses; (6) to allow for some exposure to the interdisciplinary connections of basic fields of knowledge.

Besides benefiting the students, Dean McBride also elaborated the manner in which the program would benefit the faculty: firstly, to provide a teaching program involving less number of total preparations during the academic year; secondly, to provide a program allowing more free time for study, research, and professional development during the academic year; thirdly, to provide an opportunity to explore areas of knowledge apart from their own specific field of professional competence, or adjacent to it.

To achieve all of the above proposals, Dean McBride has suggested

Dr. Robert E. McBride

Freshman exposure to a contemporary issue, Sophomores a program of off-campus study, Juniors an independent study project, and Seniors a course in Interdisciplinary study.

The 4-1-4 program as now envisioned, would contain a curriculum based upon 32 basic semester courses plus 4 interim semester courses. The 32 course sequence

Large Crowd Expected For Concert Tonight

The sale of tickets for tonight's concert with "The Happenings" is far ahead of previous concerts and the Campus Center Board is very optimistic on the turnout from both Albright and Reading.

"A great deal of time and effort has been put into advertising and we feel it has reached a large percentage of the population," said Don Yanich, President of the Center Board. The Concert will begin at 8:00 P.M. in the fieldhouse.

The singing quartet will arrive in Reading early today for an interview with WRAW, a local radio station. The group entertained the National Student Union Directors' Convention last spring and according to Yanich, most of the directors agreed that it was the finest singing group they had seen, due to their ability to entertain as well as sing.

"The Happenings" have had several big hits during the last several months. "See You In September," "Go Away Little Girl," "Goodnight My Love," and "My Mammy" have all reached the top ten in many parts of the nation.

Following the concert, a dance with the Traditions will be held. The Traditions has just cut a new single record which will be on the market at the time of this printing.

"The Happenings" will sing and entertain in Fieldhouse tonight.

Dean Explains Changes At Council Meeting

Dean of Students Louis F. Weislogel announced his lack of sympathy for the student parking problem on the Albright campus, created by the cancellation of student parking privileges in the tennis court parking lot, at the first meeting of Student Council on Tuesday, September 18.

Several members of Council maintain that more area should be allotted for student parking, since the student in paying for his education at Albright is also paying for use of the facilities whereas the members of the faculty do not share in the upkeep of such conveniences.

If resident students would park in the lot behind the field house rather than near their dormitories, pointed out the Dean, the day students could park along the streets bordering the college. The parking problem, thus, would be solved.

The administration, however, is considering opening the lots after 5:00 p.m. and on weekends for student parking.

Weislogel also explained the ban on using drinking cans for decorative purposes in the dormitories. Last year students were found with beer cans pyramided in a corner of their room. When asked if they had been drinking, they declared that the cans were ornamental.

To eliminate confusion and embarrassment in future incidents, this rule has been enacted. It does not apply, however, to wine bottles covered with the wax drippings of a candle one may buy in a restaurant or other containers from which the student has not drunk while at Albright.

Beginning Monday, September 25, traffic tickets will be issued to those students violating the traffic code. Until this time courtesy warnings will be given to motorists who break the rules.

The sock hop scheduled to follow the Happenings Concert has been moved from the field house to the Campus Center, announced Campus Center Board president Donald Yanich. In addition the by-laws of the Campus Center, which have been in effect ever since the Center opened, were officially approved earlier this week.

A student-faculty judiciary board has now been approved of by the faculty and will go into effect soon. Five students nominated by the executive board of student council and approved of by the council will serve with five faculty members of this disciplinary body.

Council also gave its support to the efforts made by President Arthur L. Schatz to establish an R.O.T.C. center on campus.

President Al McKenney informed the council that the names of those Albright students elected to Who's Who by the nominating committee last spring were not turned in to the national body until recently, since the national organization changed the date for admission to Who's Who from spring to fall. A different committee is being formed to choose candidates for next year.

A member of the National Student Association will visit Albright to invite council to join. After he has explained his organization, Council will then vote on whether or not to become a part of the Association.

The procedure for electing the Homecoming Queen was also established. A girl must have her name submitted to her council representative. The representative will then nominate her to council for this honor, and the student body will vote for a winner.

Through the Recommendations Committee council is now tabulating the results of the questionnaires filled out by the students last year to judge which improvements the students want implemented on the Albright campus.

ALBRIGHT TO GET NEW COMPUTER

Albright is soon to join the growing number of colleges with its own computer. In addition, the school may be participating with twenty other charter colleges in a computer time sharing project.

Dean Robert E. McBride informed The Albrightian that an IBM 1130 computer will be installed possibly as early as November or December. The computer will be used to train students in the use of the computer and also in simplifying administration chores such as the filing and storing of student financial and academic records.

The student education program is planned to go into operation first and the administrative use will be gradually employed.

The Dean stated that many details have yet to be worked out. Among these are the location of the computer and the selection of supervisory and clerical staffs. Questions of personnel for, and administration of the computer services are being considered by President Schultz, who has been a prime mover in getting the project underway.

The time sharing project, known as MERC, Middle Atlantic Education and Research Center, will not go into effect until late 1968 or possibly 1969. The central computer will be centered on the Franklin and Marshall campus where the MERC idea first originated last fall.

The other colleges in the program will have access to the computer via special telephone hook-up. (Continued on Page Four)

4-1-4 PLAN

Albright College needs the 4-1-4 semester plan. This college has the opportunity to get into the mainstream of educational thought in assuring that its student body will receive the most varied and flexible experience possible. In any institution the forces which exhibit a resistance to change are formidable. However, in a paper presented to the faculty dealing with the 4-1-4 program, Dean Robert E. McBride stated, "Too often the final outlines of such a curriculum are based upon the accommodations of power present in the faculty structure of the college and do not represent educational programs that are determined by the primary consideration of the needs, abilities, and interests of the students as such."

The Albrightian, in desiring to see Albright College come closer to achieving its inherent potential, urges that all inter-disciplinary competitions or unjustifiable resistances to change within the faculty be broken down, and that the faculty move speedily to the approval of this plan. If we are to progress, we must act now.

ELECTIONS?

It is with a keen sense of disappointment that The Albrightian feels compelled to criticize the manner in which the recent Student Council elections were carried out. After failing completely to effect satisfactory communications with the students in regard to election petitions, the election committee compounded their error by demonstrating a complete disregard for the constitution they are supposedly sworn to uphold.

Nevertheless, The Albrightian wishes to offer its congratulations to those who were victorious in Monday's elections, and to charge them with the responsibility of improving upon Council's inauspicious beginning. It is only through the enthusiastic efforts of the representatives that this council will be able to fulfill the hopes which we hold for it.

ROOM AT THE INN

With a new clause in the Terms of Occupancy, the College is showing male residents of Walton Hall that it will no longer tolerate such overt civil disobedience and massed revolt that occurred last year over the housing of basketball players. The inclusion of this clause also precludes any admission that the will of the student body deserves to have even minimal influence in questions concerning the weighty Athletic Department.

The Albrightian still feels that it would be grossly unfair to oust the residents of Walton Hall to house visiting basketball players. Not only would that procedure inconvenience board-paying students, but would also be insulting to tournament athletes who might expect more usual and higher-class housing at a hotel.

Faculty Okays Judiciary Board

The formation of a Judiciary Board was passed by the Albright faculty last Monday. Professor Philip A. Eyrych told The Albrightian that the Judiciary Board is intended to give the Albright student a greater voice in school policies and to provide him with a stronger student government.

Several years ago all non-academic disciplinary action was taken by Dean Louis F. Weislogel. Recently, a faculty board of six members was set up to advise the Dean on all non-academic disciplinary matters that merited his attention. Last spring William Stoyke ('68) chaired a committee to incorporate a student voice into this group, thereby forming a student-faculty-administration judiciary board.

The following are excerpts from the syllabus explaining the judiciary board:

The Albright College Judiciary Board shall be composed of ten members, five students and five administrators and/or faculty. The chairman shall be the Dean of Students. The five students shall be nominated by the Executive Committee of the Student Council and the senior student members of the Board, and shall be approved by a majority of the Student Council. No more than three students shall be selected from any one class.

Members shall be selected during the spring semester of each year before May 1 and shall serve for one year.

The Dean of Students shall determine when a student infraction of the rules is so serious that disciplinary action is advisable. The facts of the case shall be presented to the board by the Dean of Students. The Board shall consider all facts given. The students involved in the case may wish to appear before the Board and present their own position. The Board shall then decide the disciplinary action to be administered by the Dean of Students.

NSA: Increase Student Power

By Ralph Horwitz

In its recent convention at the University of Maryland this past summer, the National Student Association (N.S.A.) adopted a resolution calling for a sweeping increase in "student power".

Apparently, the association felt that students should have complete control, through student governments, over such areas as chartering student organizations, dormitory hours, the financing of student activities, social and housing rules, and all disciplinary actions concerning the violation of student regulations.

Even more important, the students asked for joint control with the administration and faculty over such issues as course requirements, admission policies and college services.

These students have assumed a remarkably novel attitude, one certainly not prevalent on this campus, that the students as integral and intelligent members of the college community should be permitted a significant voice in the functionings of that institution.

It is inconceivable to the N.S.A., as it should be to all of us, that a student's life and education should be dictated to him by a group of men too caught up in their own more conservative viewpoints to consider properly the position of the student.

And, therefore, what is proposed is that students be permitted to duly inform these masters of their fate exactly what the student position is and what his needs are at the present time.

Certainly, it appears to me that the student body should be given the greatest degree of autonomy feasible in the development of the total college program; moreover, it is essential that such an attitude be assumed by the responsible officials of this institution.

One must concede, however, that the N.S.A. was somewhat too demanding. It is contradictory for students to request on the one hand that the administration give them complete freedom and responsibility, and on the other hand to expect that the campus be a sanctuary from the law if this freedom fails to be judiciously exercised.

It is for these reasons that the faculty and administration must still maintain equitable, not overbearing, control with the students over social regulations.

In academic affairs, it has been argued that the transient nature of the student's tenure at a college or university should preclude his making decisions which will have lasting effect upon an institution's philosophy and curriculum.

However, when successive student communities have been stimulated to oppose certain inequities year after year, satisfactory action which would rectify the situation should be initiated.

Finally, the N.S.A. represents a national student voice which should be incorporated into the vocal atmosphere of this college.

More important, we must become aware of its message and begin to establish here at Albright many of the reforms which are already realities at other colleges.

To this end, and to the further advancement of the student's involvement in the college functionings, I overwhelmingly support the action initiated before Student Council Tuesday, September 19, 1967, by President Allan McKenney to investigate the feasibility of Albright College joining this organization. I further encourage all students of this college to inform their representatives of the need for the National Student Association on campus.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

A rose is quite definitely a rose, but a talent show is not a talent show if it only exhibits talent. I strongly disagree with the impudently posed plea for decorum and sobriety which was voiced in "A Rose is a Rose" from the Albrightian on September 15.

The talent show which was sponsored by Adelphi was intended solely to entertain, and entertainment is not the result of talent alone. Entertainment springs from the sharing of a pleasurable experience in an atmosphere of friendship and mutual respect, which I think was the situation at the "talent" show. It is certainly a pleasurable experience to see authoritarian figures step out of their "images," and try to communicate on the often neglected level of humor.

Decorum and sobriety are certainly important in an academic situation; however, they are not the standard to which everyone must yield. As with any other form of conduct, neither decorum nor sobriety are absolutes; they must be evaluated for each situation.

Even though our faculty did not demonstrate themselves to be particularly "talented" in the formal sense, their acts were highly entertaining. I think it speaks well for our faculty that they are not so averse by their own position, and that they are so interested in reaching the students that they are willing to run the risk of changing their images by performing in a talent show.

Nelson Braslow

Dear Editor:

There is an air of stiffness and brittleness about the mind that cannot bend with laughter, that insists upon academic decorum and sobriety. What is being called for—powdered wigs, long, academic robes, and equally long, academic faces? Our professors act human, and the shout goes up, "Get serious!" But education is not a serious business—it is an all-involving life experience. It is the original psychedelic experience, in which the mind expands beyond the old, dichotomized stereotypes and bends to encompass all aspects of life united in an experience of growth, communication, and being.

This experience in living involves not only serious academic discussions and the gripping nightmare realities of the world's problems, but also laughter — "hacking around", "goofing off"—taking time out to see people instead of images, and just enjoy being alive. It involves the ability to laugh, just for the sake of laughing, and to keep our perspective by being able to laugh at ourselves—at the images and roles we assume so pompously and wear with such dead-seriousness. Khalil Gibran has said, "A sense of humor is a sense of proportion." From an ant's perspective, man is a glorious giant clothed in glowing light, full of wisdom and power. From a god's perspective, man is a presumptuous, blind, insignificant, and often absurd, little creature.

Without laughter, without the reminder that we are (all of us) part king and part fool, we begin to lose our sense of proportion, and our sanity. Nietzsche realized the importance of laughter when he wrote in THE WILL TO POWER, "Man alone suffers so excruciatingly in the world that he was compelled to invent laughter."

So maybe a rose is a rose is a rose—but if you discover underneath its academic petals a bit of the squirting plastic petunia which lies in all of us—don't cry. Rejoice—a rose by any other name just might turn out to be the best joke you've heard in a long time.

YM-YWCA WILL HOLD WEEKEND RETREAT

By Becky Espenshade

Each year at Albright, the members of the YM-YWCA plan a fall weekend retreat with the main purpose of giving the students an opportunity for concentrated discussion with a well-known authority on a pertinent topic.

This fall the weekend of discussion and recreation, to be held on October 14 and 15 at Camp Swatara, Bethel, Pennsylvania, is centered on Sex and Sexual Relationships.

Dr. William H. Genne, Executive Director of Family Life of the National Council of Churches and a member of the National Student YMCA Council, will lead three discussions on "Some Influences on Psycho-Sexual Development," "God's Gift of Sex," and "What Shall We Do With Ourselves?"

Students from nine area colleges will attend the weekend. Registration will be held in the Campus Center from Sept. 27 to Oct. 6. The cost for the weekend is $3.00.

Changes Made In Regulations

Three major changes have been introduced into the 1967-68 Terms of Occupancy and Parking Regulations of Albright College. Alterations involve the housing of guests during vacations, room decorating, and parking facilities on campus.

Reworded was clause "N" of the Terms of Occupancy, according to Dean Louis F. Weislogel, to allow the College to house members of a convention or visiting athletes in the dormitories while the rooms are unoccupied by students during vacation periods.

A new rule which prohibits the decorating of rooms with empty beer cans or alcoholic beverage bottles was introduced to bolster the College's present drinking regulations and to help the College enforce these regulations by eliminating ambiguous situations.

The Dean also stated that the parking lot beside the tennis courts is now closed to student parking during the day, but will remain open for overnight and weekend use. This change was necessitated by an increased need for faculty parking space.

Lions Will Face Tough Defense Tomorrow

By Larry Goldstein, Sports Editor

The Albright Lions will face Lycoming College tomorrow in the first football game of the 1967 season. "Lycoming again has a top team and we expect a tough game. We lack the desired depth due to the loss of key personnel through numerous injuries," said Coach John Potskian.

Denny Zimmerman, sophomore tailback, and John Longanecker, senior quarterback, are Albright's top threats for the 1967 opener with Lycoming tomorrow. It will be the ninth meeting between the MAC rivals. Albright won, 10-0, last season but the Warriors hold a 5-3-1 edge in the series. Bill Cooper kicked a 25 yard field goal and Zimmerman scored on a 25 yard run in last year's match. Coach John Potskian is starting his 13th season as head coach. He has posted a 52-51-3 record for 12 seasons.

The Lycoming Warriors have a strong defensive unit which during pre-season practice has shown to be ahead of the offense, according to Lycoming Coach Budd Whitehall.

Veteran juniors Bill Andes and Dave Dickson look particularly powerful in the middle of the defensive forward wall.

There is a five man battle for Lycoming's quarterback position, including two brothers and a senior who never played college football. The brothers are senior Wayne Miller and freshman Steve Miller. Both were star quarterbacks at Bald Eagle-Nittany High School in Mill Hill, Pa.

Warrior captain Bob Higgins, senior pro prospect and outstanding defensive lineman for the past three years, has been shifted to offensive tackle to fill a gap at that position.

Even though Lycoming is a favorite in the contention for league

YEARBOOK EDITOR OUTLINES PLANS FOR 1967-1968

By Bonnie Reheard

Dora Morrow ('68), editor of the yearbook, would like to "Cue" all Albrightians in on the importance of student cooperation, especially on the part of Seniors, in creating an outstanding yearbook.

She and members of her staff, which now include Peggy Van Driel, Editorial Assistant, ('69), and Arnold Laiken, Photography Co-ordinator, ('69), aim to have all material in by an earlier deadline than previous years.

Some improvements which will greatly enhance the quality of the yearbook are being introduced. The staff, currently being filled, is working for a larger yearbook with more color pictures. Perhaps two of the best innovations are the employing of professional layout artists and photographers.

Already work has begun on "The Cue" and operations are now well under control. Faculty pictures will be completed on October 12, when a professional photographer will return to snap some candid shots of the student body. Clubs and organizations will be photographed at a later date.

"Seniors can do their part by signing for an appointment to have their individual pictures taken," said Marron. At the end of September, a poster will be placed in the Chapel basement, near Chaplain Marlow's office, for this purpose. A local portrait photographer, from Primrose Studios of Reading, will be on campus the week of Oct. 16. All Senior pictures must be taken during that week. Location of the temporary studio will be announced later.

"The Cue", Albright's annual yearbook, is distributed during Registration in May. There is no additional fee for the yearbook as this charge has already been included in the comprehensive fee.

A few energetic Albrightians are working hard to make this year's "Cue" really outstanding. The student body can show their gratitude by cooperating in any way with photographers and "Cue" personnel.

Speaker Browne Gives Views On War In Viet Nam

By Barbara Bearse

The second convocation of this year began at 7:30 P.M. Tuesday, September 19, 1967. Dr. Robert Browne, member of the Economics staff at Fairleigh Dickinson University lectured on "Questions on Viet Nam—The Moral Issue." A native of Chicago, Illinois, Dr. Browne has been involved in many committees on problems that face the world. He is the author of several articles and a book entitled Race Relations in International Affairs. An authority on the Viet-Nam situation, Dr. Browne recently revisited there in July, 1967.

During his lecture, Dr. Browne posed several issues that we should consider: What are our objectives in Viet-Nam? Do we have any right to destroy Viet Nam? He said that the U. S. policy is destroying the Viet Nam culture and reducing Viet Nam to complete dependency on the United States. There is also a great moral problem with the children that are affected by the use of chemical warfare. Dr. Browne received an ovation when he said "I can't think of a more healthy thing than for the U. S. people to think about what they do before they do it."

Following Dr. Browne's lecture, a panel composed of four political science majors and Dean Robert McBride, asked questions of Dr. Browne. An informal discussion was held in the Pine Room of Selwyn Hall following the formal convocation. This discussion group marked the opening of the Y-sponsored coffee houses that will be held every Tuesday evening throughout the year.

Y Plans Workshop

By Kathy Yin
Want to find out what coming "Y" activities? An all-campus Y workshop provides the opportunity for students to become involved in the Y's plans. The workshop, which is open to all students and faculty, will be held next Tuesday at 7:00 P.M. in the Chapel.

The first few minutes of the workshop will be allotted to Y honor. Coach Potskian feels that the Lions have a high morale and strong spirit to help battle the eleven field opponents.

DORM ELECTIONS WILL BE HELD MONDAY

Elections for presidents and council representatives in the women's dormitories will be held on Monday, September 25, at 11:00 p.m. in each dormitory. Election of daywomen representatives will also be held on Monday.

As a result of the adoption of new AWS, Daywomen's Organization, and Dormitory Organization constitutions last spring, a new election procedure is being used, involving the use of petitioning and several other changes. It is hoped that this procedure will insure more responsible representation and active participation in women's government.

Judy Hemenway, president of AWS, stressed the importance of active interest on the part of every woman student, not only in voting for the best candidates, but also in keeping informed on new activities and problems concerning all women students.

On Tuesday or Wednesday following the elections, each dorm council will meet to elect its other officers. All dorm officers, and the daywomen's officers will then meet on Thursday, September 28, at 4:00 p.m. for the first AWS Board meeting of the year.

Film Scheduled

"I Live in Fear," a Japanese film directed by Akira Kurosawa, will open the Fall-Winter season of the Albright College Film Classics Club on Friday night, October 13, 1967. The films will be shown in the new campus theatre if building plans continue according to schedule.

The Film Club, which is showing four films this semester instead of six in order to present better films, announced that season's tickets are available in the book store and treasurer's office at three dollars each.

Single admissions to the shows, which are scheduled one-a-month from October to January, will be seventy-five cents.

Letters . . .

Dear Editor:

It is a wonderful feeling for a student to realize that his professors and the administration of his college will work with the student body toward the development of mutual friendships. This communication, which can mean so much to the individual student, was exemplified when President Schultz opened his private home to receive Albright students, faculty, and administration.

Faculty participation in the "Big Ten" Program, the ADELPHI Talent Show, and numerous other clubs and organizations enable the "Albright Family" to develop a feeling of unity.

Chaplain Marlow has also done a great deal to bridge the gap between what he calls "my generation" and those of us who spend our nights cramming for hourlies. The atmosphere which results when such campus leaders choose to act as human beings, rather than figureheads, gives Albright a broad advantage over larger campuses.

"Thank you" to all members of the faculty and administration who are striving to develop a sense of comradeship with the students as well as maintain the respect they deserve in their respective positions.

4-1-4 . . .

would be divided into 16 courses allotted to our general studies sequence, eight courses allotted to a concentration requirement, and eight courses allotted for extra-ordinarily demanding programs. It would be anticipated that a large number of courses would meet on a four day a week plan rather than a three. It is further probable that all courses could be scheduled on a five day instead of a six day schedule.

The interim semester would consist for freshman, of a seminar on contemporary issues; for sophomores, a program in "Broadening Horizons"; for juniors, a semester of independent study in consultation with his major professor; for seniors, a basic interdisciplinary seminar. The freshman seminar, the independent study project, and the senior seminar would be considered credit courses, but they would be offered on a Pass-Fail or Honors level.

Dr. Paul M. Leininger, Professor of Chemistry, expressed a position of responsible opposition to the program based on the following reasons: firstly, a decrease in the flexibility of the semester program; secondly, inadequate amount of time in the 4-1-4 calendar to cover the material required for graduate and professional schools; thirdly, it would be financially undesirable in that science laboratories would lie needlessly idle.

Dean McBride concluded his report on the 4-1-4 program by urging the faculty to enter into a spirit of sincere dialogue and self-study to create the best educational experience for Albright students.

Computer . . .

The MERC machine is designed for educational research and offers a much more sophisticated tool which will in time supplement our limited 1130 computer.

The services of this larger computer will eventually be offered to all students for whom computer use is educationally important, and for the use of faculty members involved in research.

A Phi O Lists Officers, Plans

The brothers of Alpha Phi Omega, National Service Fraternity, held election of officers late last spring. The results showed the following brothers serving as officers for this fall semester: Terry Welcomer, senior from Wauwatosa, Wis., as President of the fraternity; Mark Bippes, junior from Rochester, N. Y., 1st Vice-President and Service Chairman; Paul Balbresky, junior from Philadelphia, 2nd Vice-President and Pledgemaster; Howard Kaufmann, Treasurer; Ronald Reichman, Corresponding Secretary; Richard Barado, Recording Secretary; Jeffrey Zwerin, Alumni Secretary; Dennis Hughes and Roy Ochs, Historians; Richard Schempp, Chaplain; and Robert Auerbach, Sergeant-at-Arms.

As this fall semester begins, Alpha Phi Omega is looking toward another busy year in service to the students, the college, the commu-ity, and the nation with such projects as ushering at chapel programs, operating the Albright Foreign Film Classics, participating at Fellowship House and Operation Threshold (Halfway House), the March of Dimes, and the Ugliest Man On Campus (UMOC) contest to name a few. The academic year 1967-68 will be a very successful year for the fraternity.

Terry Welcomer, President

Despite fiendish torture dynamic BIC Duo writes first time, every time!

BIC's rugged pair of stick pens wins again in unending war against ball-point skip, clog and smear. Despite horrible punishment by mad scientists, BIC still writes first time, every time. And no wonder. BIC's "Dynamite" Ball is the hardest metal made encased in a solid P.S. nose cone. Will not skip, clog or smear. No matter what devils' abuse is devised for them by sadistic students. Get the dynamic BIC Duo at your campus store now.
