Fellow Albrightians,

A yearbook is an excellent opportunity for students of the past and present to recall memories of an awesome year. The yearbook is especially made to show all the accomplishments of our fellow students who have completed their education at our dear old Red and White. For this reason, with this book, the Student Government Association will adopt the policy of purchasing a complimentary yearbook for every graduating senior. It is our hope that this gift will help those Albrightians leaving our place at the base of Mount Penn, remember their Alma Mater in a fond way and recount all the great times that were shared throughout, not only their senior year, but also all four years dedicated to becoming a member of the Albright Community.

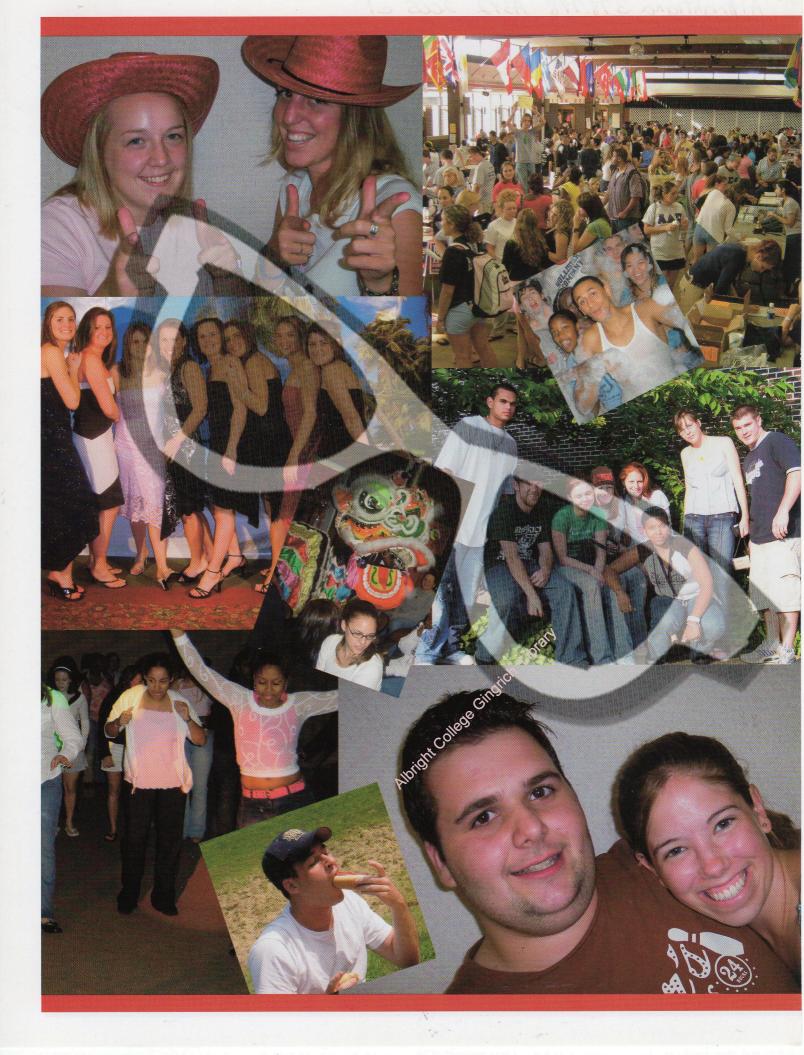

For all the underclassmen, we hope that you will find this book full of your contributions on campus and that you will continue to provide your support and participation in the numerous clubs and organizations that are offered. The yearbook is only as good as the students that make it and provide the material for it. This is every Albrightians' book so take advantage of it and keep in mind that when senior year comes you have a free book coming your way too!

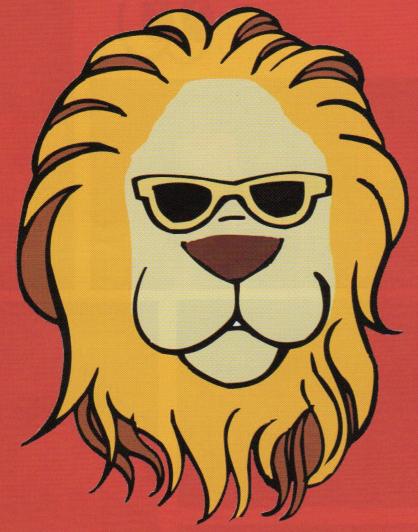

Best wishes to all those seniors who have entered the ranks of being an alumnus; and to all the returning students, keep a heads up for future editions of the CUE.

Sincerely,

The Student Government Association 2004-2005

Junior Bethann Pagano set new school records for goals and points in a season this fall.

Sophomore Erin O'Brien spent most of her time as the sweeper for a vastly improved Albright defense. She anchored a defensive effort that saw the Lady Lions surrender only 21 goals in 2004.

Freshman Megan Gring made a big impact in her first college season, scoring 13 goals and added three assists for 29 points in 2004. Her goals and points totals surpassed the previous all-time school marks entering this season. Gring had four gamewinning goals this fall, tied with Pagano for the team lead.

Kara Fitzpatrick

OUR DEAR ONE

You've grown from Daddy's little "punkin" and Mommy's petunia and from bathing beauty and dancing princess to a beautiful and accomplished young woman. If success is measured by a willingness to work and a warm, caring attitude, then the future holds endless possibility for you. Remember that the future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams.

Our love and support always, Dad, Mom, Ryan & Evan
