Council Opens Committee Probe Of Student-Faculty Relations

Student Council last week unanimously decided to appoint a Council committee to investigate student-faculty-administration relations in student affairs. The motion arose after a lengthy discussion of the fairness of the social probation which the faculty voted to impose on the Pi Tau Beta fraternity for an incident which occurred several weeks ago.

The issue, as stated by Council members, is that there is no representation of students when the faculty and administration make a final decision which concerns student groups. This statement was illustrated by the fact that the Pi Tau Beta fraternity was not invited or permitted to state their side of the issue at the faculty meeting where the decision was made on their case.

Tripp at Party

Dr. H. C. Tripp, a faculty adviser, who was also present at the social function for which the Pi Tau's are on probation, was asked by Council to give his views of the affair in question.

Kenneth Good, president, appointed the following members to compose the investigating committee: Marie Bonner, Virginia Woerle, Reed Frederick, Ira Custman, and Herbert Hyman.

Student Council also unanimously approved the amendment to the constitution which would give the Veterans' Club of Albright College two representatives in Council as long as the club is an officially organized group on campus.

The motion will again be raised at next Thursday's meeting, and if approved again by the group, will be passed on to the faculty for approval. If the faculty votes affirmatively, the amendment will go to the student body for final ratification.

New Typewriter

Newell Wert entered the motion that Council buy a new or used typewriter for the use of publication of The Albrightian. Council approved the motion and appointed Reed Frederick to investigate possibilities of the purchase of a typewriter.

Good also announced two appointments, Wert to succeed Richard White as head of the constitution committee, and Frederick to take charge of Council's part in the W. S. S. F. canteen this week.

Student Council decided again to send Easter greetings to Albrightians still in the service. The Men-in- (Continued on Page 3)

Ethel Hicks to Bring Teaching Guidance

The Women's Student Senate has ordered gold plated, silver pins from Tyack's Jewelry Store in Reading. These pins, designed especially for this organization, will bear the letters A.W.S.F. and their purpose is to acquaint the students with the members of the Senate. The committee who worked on these pins was headed by Margaret Ball and includes Margaret Shalter, Mary Alice Lippert, and Joy Cutler.

Miss Ethel Hicks will give some helpful ideas on the opportunities in the field of teaching for women at the career conference on Wednesday, March 27. Since 1944 Miss Hicks has been the vice-principal of Reading High School. She received her A.B. degree from Syracuse University and her M.A. from Pennsylvania State College.

For three years she taught in New York, then came to Reading in 1922 and taught until 1944 when she became the vice-principal. This long period of teaching and experience in an executive position, qualifies Miss Hicks to give advice to any women who are interested in the teaching profession.

"China, U.S.A." Will Be Subject Of Glick Lecture

Carl Glick, Iowa-born author and playwright, will appear in the College Chapel this Thursday as a Cultural Program Series speaker. Glick gained an ardent interest in the Chinese in New York City which began with his boyhood impressions of San Francisco's Chinatown. With a background of literary, theatrical, and musical interest, Glick now devotes a great deal of time to the lecture platform, where his subject is "China, U.S.A." Through close association, he has come to know the Chinese in America intimately and he presents a new introduction to them.

Chinese Qualities

Carl Glick knows the instinct of the Chinese, their loyalty to their adopted country and the characteristics which have enabled members of this race in their own land to put up such a gallant fight against oppression. These same qualities, Carl Glick has found in the citizens of Chinatown and he discusses them in a lecture to which his own personality adds dramatic emphasis.

Interesting and varied has been Carl Glick's career. He has been a social worker, a professor of the drama and English in western universities, director of Little Theatre productions, a newspaper columnist, and author of two best sellers, "Three Times I Bow" and "Shake Hands with the Dragon," which present interpretations and customs of the Chinese in America.

Glick has written fiction, juveniles, and two studies, "Curtains Going Up," telling of the little theatre, and "Double Ten," the story of Captain O'Banion's adventures in the Chinese Revolution. His "The Unconquered," a full-length play, was presented by the Federal Theatre and was the first original play, according to the author, to be produced under government auspices.

Social Worker

With the writing of "Shake Hands with the Dragon," his most famous book, Glick invaded this new field. During the early thirties, through the Emergency Work Bureau, he had become a kind of social worker in the Church of All Nations in New York City. About every third day the Chinese Athletic Club had use of the settlement's swimming pool; and with this group—after a static, silent, and totally discouraging beginning—a whole new sphere of interest was opened to him.

Geil Directs Program For Sales Training

Twenty salesmen from Bower's Battery and Spark Plug Co. arrived at Albright's campus yesterday to learn the practical art of salesmanship and merchandising. A week of intensive training has been planned by Mr. MacRay at the factory and Dr. Milton G. Geil, head of the psychology department on campus.

The mornings will be spent at the factory; the men will be at Albright from 12:45 to 5:00 p. m. After one week of rigid training these men will have acquired a fundamental knowledge of the manufacture and maintenance of batteries and spark plugs and the title of "specialty distributors."

Plans have been made to teach twenty men every six weeks until the five hundred odd salesmen from all over the United States have been instructed. A publicity campaign will be established, reaching all of the cities from which these men

Fraternities Draw Up Objectives For Return To Campus Normalcy

Representatives of the four Albright fraternities met last Tuesday evening to discuss plans and objectives for the future. Their united thought and purpose they set down in a letter which they submitted to President Harry V. Masters. In a reply to the representatives of the fraternities, President Masters said

Little Cultural Series Brings John Swomley To Speak in Chapel

Carl Glick, who will present "China-U.S.A.," will be the Cultural Series speaker appearing in the College assembly program this Thursday, March 14. Glick, is a well-known playwright and a leader of the Community Theatre movement.

The Student Council Little Cultural Series will present John Swomley, of the American Friends Service Committee, on Tuesday, March 19. Having lectured in nearly every state before churches, colleges, universities, and community groups, Swomley is touring the Pittsburgh area colleges Monday through Friday, March 18 to 22, and has included Albright in his roster.

Mr. Swomley, Associate Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, is best known as editor of "Conscription News," which places him in a position to be one of the best informed men in Washington, D. C. on the political developments as they are related to conscription and international relations.

Sociology, history and religion are the fields of interest in which Mr. Swomley specialized at Dickinson College, Boston University, and Boston School of Theology, where he has attained degrees.

Sigma Tau Delta, in this morning's assembly program, presented student literature. Professor Paul I. Speicher spoke last Thursday on the necessity of learning cooperation in order to have world peace.

Zetas Choose Ertel To Head Fraternity

Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity unanimously elected Dennis Ertel as its president on March 4. Assisting him in the executive offices will be Herbert Vogt, vice president; Newell Wert, secretary-treasurer; and Robert Ziegler, chaplain.

Before the election, the names of Robert Ziegler and Warren Pfost were added to the previously published list of nominations for chaplain and vice president respectively.

The fraternity extended a vote of appreciation to the retiring president, Charles A. Russ, for his leadership of the past year.

Domino Club Presents Play Tomorrow Night

"Romantic Interlude," the Domino skit which was postponed from last Thursday night, will be given at the Domino meeting tomorrow night in the College Chapel. The program was postponed to allow members to attend the final basketball game of the season.

Margaret Hendricks, chairman of the program committee, announced that Forest Compton and Rita Duncavage will participate in the skit and Phyllis Stock will handle properties. Miss S. Helen Ahrens is the director.

Thus, beyond its stated purpose, this publicity will extend the ramifications of Albright's psychology department all over America.

Committee Organizes To Plan Celebration Of Ninetieth Birthday

A committee formed to plan the celebration of Albright's ninetieth anniversary held its first meeting last week. The committee consists of two members of the alumni association, five members of the administration and faculty, two trustees, and three students.

Administration members are President Harry V. Masters, Public Relations Administrator Lester L. Stabler, Dr. Milton W. Hamilton, Professor Lewis H. Smith, and President Emeritus J. Warren Klein. Students are Margaret Ball, Phyllis Carter, and Herbert Vogt.

At this meeting Dr. Masters was chosen as chairman, and Margaret Ball as secretary. The committee discussed various suggestions, determining how they might be fitted into Commencement Week. Definite plans will be made at a later meeting, the date of which has not been set.

Sing Again!

Rehearsals for the "Seven Last Words" and secular numbers for Music Night will be resumed this Thursday evening at 6:45, announces Professor John H. Duddy, director. By beginning earlier than usual, Professor Duddy hopes to make up time lost in the past two weeks through his illness and the final basketball game. All singers who are participating are urged to be on hand to make final preparations for the two imminent concerts.

Juniors Will Swim At "Y" Friday Evening

A highlight of the Junior class social functions of the year will be a class swim Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. building, Reed and Washington Sts. The swim which will be held from 9:45 to 11 p. m., will be open to members of the class of '47 and one guest each. Admission will be twenty five cents and swimmers are asked to bring their own suits.

Elaine Schwartz is in charge of the affair and is aided by Mildred Abrams and Virginia Woerle on publicity. Ruth Rehr is handling the money, which will be payable at the door.

Debaters Meet at Penn In Current Discussions

A Debaters' Convention will be held at Penn State College on Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23. The representatives who plan to represent Albright are Harry Koussaros and Umberto Tucci, who will be members of the committee favoring free foreign trade.

Robert Holtzapfel, and possibly Elwood Snook, will be representatives on the committee favoring compulsory arbitration in labor disputes. Geraldine Wentzel and Henrietta Morrison will favor compulsory military training as members of the compulsory military training committee.

have already been given serious consideration by the proper bodies, and that he intends to meet with fraternity representatives soon to discuss the contents of their communication. The letter submitted to Dr. Masters reads as follows:

March 5, 1946

TO: Dr. Harry V. Masters, President Albright College, Reading, Pa.

We, the duly constituted representatives of Alpha Pi Omega Fraternity, Kappa Upsilon Phi Fraternity, Pi Tau Beta Fraternity and Zeta Omega Epsilon Fraternity consider that with the return to normalcy at Albright College the following are necessary to the continuance of fraternities as an integral part of a full campus life.

Return Of Houses

1. That each fraternity must have a house or a series of rooms in which the boarding members may live and in which the fraternity may hold meetings and social functions.

2. That each fraternity must have the right to invite any male student to become a member provided that that student is academically eligible for membership in a fraternity and that his becoming a member will not give that fraternity a total membership exceeding that permitted by trustee rulings.

3. That any student invited to become a member of a fraternity must be free to accept or decline any invitation tendered to him as he sees fit without any interference or influence from any member of the faculty or administration.

Initiation

4. That each fraternity must have the right to initiate pledge members according to former fraternity customs.

5. That each fraternity must have the right to hold social meetings and social functions at any time and place decided upon by the majority of its members, provided that such meetings or social functions do not conflict with curricular or all-College affairs.

6. That the president and two representative members of each fra- (Continued on Page 3)

'Y' Features Services With Lenten Themes

"Purity" is the subject the Rev. Sheldon Mackey, of Reading, will develop in the "Y" meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Chapel. Richard Catermole will lead the devotional period in keeping with the Lenten season.

The Rev. R. S. Smethers, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelical Church in Reading, spoke last week on the "Steadfast Face." Rev. Smethers recently wrote the discussion material for the Evangelical Youth Fellowship in the Evangelical Crusader. Shirley Miller had charge of the devotional period.

K. T. X. Opens Meeting To Pre-Min Students

Robert Schneider, president of Kappa Tau Chi, announced today the next K.T.X. meeting will be an open meeting to all future members of the pre-ministerial honorary fraternity. It will be held this Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Dean's Parlor. The program will consist of an informal discussion. All pre-ministerial students who have completed one semester are urged to attend.

We Are the Students

When Student Council tackled the problem of student-faculty relations last week, they picked up a bomb of higher incendiary power than many people realize. The outburst of discussion in Council was not the product of rattle-brained adolescents with a persecution complex, as some of the Administration would likely diagnose it; it is rather the first mild eruption of a smoldering student resentment.

We know we are tossing dynamite around when we use adjectives on the faculty and Administration; they probably do not like it. But neither do we like some of the attitudes they assume toward us. We have two ways of expressing our opinions: through Student Council and through THE ALBRIGHTIAN. This is our share.

It is a very peculiar thing; if we were to discuss faculty members one by one with the majority of students, those faculty members would probably be amazed at how many friends and admirers they have among students. But take the word "faculty" or "Administration" and open that for discussion; that is a different matter. "Bitterness" is not too strong a word to describe the feeling most students have toward these bodies; and the longer they have been here, the more they feel that way. Why do students feel as they do about the faculty and Administration? Let us enumerate a few of the most frequently heard arguments.

1. We resent being treated like the feeble-minded who must have all decisions handed down from above. We are fairly reasonable and rational and are capable of understanding reasonable explanations and rational decisions.
2. When we ask for an explanation or reason for some action, we are tired of getting the phrase "It is our policy," as a reply. To us that means nothing, and is merely a blanket to hide obscure reasoning and unwillingness to act.
3. When we feel we have a real problem and try to present it to the Administration sensibly and forcibly through petitions or committee action, it makes us mad to have faculty members describe our actions as "adolescent phenomena" and a "phase that will pass." Such things are important to us, and if that does not make them important to the Administration also, then the Administration is not doing its job.
4. We resent the attitude of the faculty and Administration that the opinions of the student body do not really matter in the running of the school. It is the student body, not the Administration, that IS Albright. The College and their jobs are not worth a nickel without the students.

The undue amount of ill will and bad feeling on campus cannot be denied; we are not dreaming this up to have something to editorialize about. Every student you meet has one or more specific instances to cite which have made him lose faith in the College. We laud our Alma Mater, and talk about the good old Albright spirit. But the students, especially upper classmen, are sick to death of it, and cannot wait until they are through.

Why are they so vehement in their disgust and disillusionment? Because they feel that they are on one planet and the faculty and Administration are on another, and there is little sympathy or kindred spirit lost between the two. Distance and unfriendliness create resentment and distrust which eats through that thing called school spirit and manifests itself in ugly ways that do the College no good. The powers-that-be do not seem to realize that the antagonizations and bad feeling they sow will grow and mount up and finally return to them in many unpleasant ways.

The last thing we want to do is to call nasty names and brew mischief; the betterment of Albright is our real and constant concern. This issue is no more pleasant for us to write about than for the Administration to read. But it is vital, and therefore we feel we would be shirking our responsibility if we side-stepped it.

We know that as individuals, the faculty and Administration are fine and likeable people. We as students want the best Albright possible; the Administration has great plans for a better future Albright. Can we not get together on that? Can we not work, not as separate bodies, but as one College united in the true Albright spirit of friendliness and good fellowship?

Dandylions this week presents one of Albright's most versatile and best liked students—Mary Eschwei. This 5' 5" senior never opens her mouth unless she has something to say, and her droll remarks are a part of campus legend. Her subtle wit is exceeded only by her ability to pull A's in organic chemistry. Therefore, Eschwei hopes to return to her home in Sea Cliff, New York, a research chemist.

In sports she has received a numerical letter, and sweater for such varied sports as baseball, hockey, and basketball. One would think that four years of these three sports would keep anyone busy, but not Mary! She has participated in the duties of the Alchemists, W.A.A., German Club, Delta Phi Alpha and the Pats. This year Mary has been made treasurer of all five of these organizations. This experienced money-handler has been treasurer of her class for two years. If anyone is short on dough, she's the gal to see.

Eschwei is an ardent Pi Alpha Tau member and her wit is responsible for a large part of the entertaining skits performed by the Pats last Friday night at Stunt Night.

From first hand information it is reported that she spends Fridays under her bed or in the closet, as she has a bad case of fishophobia. However, she's a second little Abner when it comes to pork chops; a second Babe Ruth in the field of baseball; a first Michaelangelo when it comes to wood-carving.

Our Mary will leave a big gap in Albright's campus when she leaves us this summer, but we know that she will be one of the best representatives of Albright that we could ever find.

Pats Win Stunt Night Trophy With Antics, Zany Doings In Dean Partitionton's Office

Albrightians were given a taste of old times last Friday when Stunt Night antics had the Chapel audience giggling, shouting, and screaming. Not since 1944 have we seen such slapstick, punning, and just plain corn.

The fun, though hilarious, was rather short-lived, as only three organizations — the Daywomen, Zeta Omega Epsilon, and Pi Alpha Tau—took part. The others defaulted because of illness in the ranks and other difficulties.

The Daywomen, under the direction of Doty Bennett, presented a short skit somewhat resembling an old-fashioned peanut scramble and egg throw.

The Zetas followed with Chick Crozier acting as an energetic master of ceremonies. The Zetas had almost everything imaginable in their skit — a grenade-throwing drunk, an absent-minded professor, a magician with truly super-natural powers, their own commentator, Prew Dearson, a rope stunt, a juggling act, a sleepy white puppy, and an honest-to-goodness rooster. Mix them all together, and you have hilarity plus. Nice going, fellows.

Pi Alpha Tau Sorority presented their delightfully daffy version of what goes on in a dean's office. The play, cleverly written by Phyllis Carter and Mary Eschwei, was full of bright dialogue. The Pats, appropriately, though zany, costumed, ambled across the stage to present their grievances to Dean Partitionton played by Marjorie Christ, who was absolutely out of this world. An interpretation of the modern dancing learned in gym class had the girls in stitches, and Marie Bonner's sentimental ditty about her long red undies "with a hinge in the back" brought down the house.

The judges, Professor Rodriguez, Dr. Tripp, and Miss Benninger, after admitting the difficulty of deciding between the last two presentations, awarded the prize to the Pats. The well-deserved award was a silver cup, first presented to the winner of Stunt Night by Student Council in 1943. Meg Hendricks, president of the sorority, accepted the trophy from Steve Winter, able M.C. of the whole affair.

Refreshments in charge of Fred Prefect were sold for the benefit of the servicemen's fund of Student Council. Don Gittleman was in charge of sound apparatus.

The applause of the audience should certainly have proved to those who took part how much their efforts were appreciated and how much Stunt Night was enjoyed by the college. We look forward to an even bigger and better Stunt Night next year with full participation of all organizations. In the meantime, may I borrow your handkerchief, Mister? I've got to get this egg out of my hair.

Brook Turns Platters As 86½ Dancers Jive At Zeta-Kappa Affair

A goodly crowd of Albrightians turned out for the last dance before Lent, an affair sponsored jointly by the Zetas and Kappas and held in the College Dining Hall Friday evening from 8:30 to 11:30. The proceeds, a total of $14.60, were added to the campus-wide World Student Service Fund drive. Herbert Vogt and Dennis Ertel, who manned the gate, are still trying to work out the why's and wherefore's of that sum, for according to their figures that made the attendance exactly 86½ persons.

Warren "Brooklyn" Pfost handled the mechanical details of the dance, keeping the music flowing from the record-player and producing the chocolate milk and doughnuts at intermission time. Miss Anna R. Benninger and Professor Ernestine Elder performed the chaperoning functions. Robert Ziegler released the attendance and profit figures as a preliminary step to telling about the W.S.S.F. activities on campus and throughout the entire world. He also announced that a canteen will be open from March 11 to 15 opposite the Book Store. Since all proceeds are to go to the W.S.S.F., it is worthy of the support of the entire student body.

Veteran Airls The Exserviceman Problem—Or How It Feels to Swap a Gun For a Book

Recently the literature on the ex-serviceman returning from wherever he was to home and to college, has been as omnipresent as spring fever on a sunny, sappy day.

Every newspaper, magazine, pamphlet, circular, and soap opera has appointed an Editor in Charge of the Problem of the Returning Veteran and his Pursuit of Higher Learning. Each detail pertinent to this delicate metaphysics has been attended with the greatest theoretical and practical science; from the care and feeding of the individual to the devising of a mnemonic for the immediate remembrance of the declensions of a Latin verb.

Educationalists have been astounded at the tremendous influx of applications and alarmed at the inadequacies of both housing facilities and faculty personnel. Congressmen, sincerely grateful, and with perhaps just a casual eye on the matter of votes, elections, constituencies and other data peculiar to this popular science, have amended the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (G. I. Bill to you and us) to increase the educational privileges of veterans. College entrance requirements, while not being appreciably lowered, have been modified to extend the greatest possible opportunities to the would-be veteran collegiate.

Removing our attention from the national scene and focusing it on the local, let's look at Albright and us.

Weeks and months ago we were certain of one or two things—this was Albright, and the name was so-and-so (less the serial number was raised). All else was a confusion of persons, places, and things.

Over the brief "basic training" the "rookies" disappeared and we were just one big happy pride of Leos (Lions to you). In addition to the academic curricula certain other facts were crystalizing. You could distinguish Pop's place from the library (Pop's is generally quieter); the Ad Building was that place in which the entire student body massed on the first floor between classes, blocking all exits and entrances; the chapel plays twice daily on Tuesday and Thursday; and on the campus walks could be seen phantasmagorical females introducing such items of apparel as scrub brushes, hot-water bottles, blankets, feathers, and other fantasies practically in the class of unmentionables (Note: as none of the above have yet graced the more reserved pages of Vogue, they may be just fads).

Few or none of the present book-toters or fact-crammers had envisioned, during the war years, a future that was to be enjoyed in commuting from building to building on these pleasurable grounds, and absorbing, twixt trips, the pedagogy of the enduring profs now becoming well-known to us.

Which brings us to the present and to a greater familiarity of who's who and what's what around the village. One thing is clear, we regard all of it as serious fun (if you can unravel that) and most of us are happy about it most of the time.

Life Goes to Pop's—Calls Kibitzing Pinochle Favorite Occupation

Were it not for Pop's, many an Albrightian would have nothing to do during the lunch hour, except a little studying maybe. The day students welcome old man Moser's abode for, for them, it is a place to eat.

No matter what time you come into Pop's the pin-ball machine is always working. The tinkling of the bell as games are racked up echoes throughout the place followed by the gleeful yell of the lucky one. During evenings Messrs. White and Lyon have the exclusive use of the machine. Once that combination is let at it, there is no stopping the free games they manage to put up.

Pinochle is another favorite at Pop's. Mobs of people can be seen kibitzing or giving their unwanted advice. Games like bridge are left for the more serious hours of the evening. One can always predict when a bridge game is about to begin, for Miss Thompson always starts looking for a fourth, and when she can't find any decent players around, she comes and pulls me away from the pin ball machine.

Another one of the favorite things at Pop's is the juke box. It must gobble up about as many nickels as the pin ball machine. A certain girl always screams when someone plays "Symphonie." I wonder why?

"Hot Stuff Moser" has two male assistants, namely "Baldy" and "Junior." Pop spends an interesting day making hamburgers, cokes, etc. and telling people not to put cigarette butts on the floor. When the crowd thins out, Pop reaches deep into his vest pocket, fishes out a few slugs and tries to beat himself playing for score on the pin-ball machine.

In Memoriam

Joseph Zeock, of the class of 1944, who had been missing in action in the South Pacific since January 1945, has been officially declared dead, according to word received by his parents from the War Department. Albright, who already mourns the loss of seventeen of her men in service, is shocked to learn of Zeock's death so long after the cessation of hostilities, and extends the deepest sympathy to his family.

Chartered Buses Take Frosh to Hershey

Three chartered buses carried members of the freshman class and their guests to Hershey last Saturday evening to witness an ice hockey game in the Hershey Sports Arena between the Hershey team and the Buffalo Bison.

A committee composed of Perry Matz, Jean Long, and Shirley Miller planned the event and carried out the necessary arrangements.

The following were absent from the March 7 meeting: Marion Fiedler, of the daywomen; Irene Fisher, of the dorm women; Mary Jane Painter, of the daywomen; Marybeth Schofer, of the daywomen; Professors Lewis E. Smith and Anna H. Smith, and Lester L. Stabler, of the faculty.

Kiwanis Club to Hear Glee Club Tomorrow

For their fifth appearance of the season, the Women's Glee Club will sing before the Kiwanis Club tomorrow at noon in the Berkshire Hotel. As both Public Relations Director of Albright and Program Chairman for Kiwanis, Lester L. Stabler was responsible for bringing the Glee Club to Kiwanis.

The women sang last Thursday night at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel for the Annual Birthday Dinner of the Advisory Board of Salvation Army.

Both of these performances were under the direction of Elizabeth H. Pottier, and were accompanied by Marjorie Christ. Martha Friedericks is business manager of the organization.

Club Studies Career Of German Immigrant

Carl Schurtz, the German immigrant who attained the highest position in this country possible for an immigrant to attain, will be the personality under discussion at the meeting of German Club this Thursday night at 7:30 in the Lower Social Room. Carl Kern will present a paper on Schurtz; refreshments and singing of German songs will follow the club's discussion of the topic.

Schurtz, who was one of the liberals forced to flee from Germany in 1850, became a prominent general in this country, was a close friend of Abraham Lincoln, and at the highest point in his career was Secretary of the Interior under President Hayes. It was Schurtz's wife who introduced the kindergarten into America.

Ferdinand Thun, a businessman of Wyomissing, is president of the Carl Schurtz Memorial Foundation which has its headquarters in Philadelphia.

Garrigan Tells Veterans Of Details of G. I. Bill

Representing the local Veterans' Administration office, LeRoy Garrigan, Training Officer, appeared before the Albright veterans in Room 103 of the Administration Building at 4:30 p. m. Monday, March 4.

Through a crossfire of questions and answers, the Veterans' Administration representative clarified the technicalities of the G. I. Bill as affecting the veterans in their attendance at Albright.

The main purpose of the visit of Garrigan was to take a census of the number of veterans who had received the monthly subsistence allowance as specified by the G. I. Bill.

Wednesday: Clarence Unger, Thursday: John Spindler, Friday; and Newell Wert, Monday, March 18. This service is held each day in Sylvan Chapel from 1:05 to 1:20 p. m.

Albright Loses to Valley Forge In Tight Game to Close Season

Lions Play Well as Medics Score, 44-42 Win; Albright Record is 12 Wins to 10 Losses

Valley Forge's high powered quintet nosed out Albright 44-42 in the season's final game last Thursday night. Valley Forge, led by Joe Greenberg and Aaron Tanitsky, had a much tougher fight on their hands than when they laced the injury-riddled Lions last year, 58-35. The Medics, by snapping the Lions' four-game win streak, ran their season total to 27-6, losing only to Temple, Bainbridge, and the Philly Navy Base. Albright ended the season with a 12-10 record.

Albright started strong, and after Cappel put the Lions in front with three field goals, Tanitsky and Greenberg tied it up. Valley Forge never pulled ahead in that quarter, although the score was tied up once again before Valley Forge tied it 11-11 at the end of the quarter. Unfortunately for Albright, big Lee Cappel had three fouls called on him by Referee Pete Lewis and was pulled from the game.

Glickman Battles

The Lions continued carrying the battle to the soldiers in the second period with Julius Glickman doing most of the damage. After Valley Forge took time out with the score 16-14 Albright, Kubisen and Glickman each sank a field goal and three foul shots between them, while only Tanitsky could score for the Medics, and Albright had the biggest edge either team ever held, a 23-16 lead. However, Tanitsky, a former Penn star, racked up two more field goals to close the gap to 26-23 at the half.

After the intermission Russ Guensch connected for a field goal and a foul, but Greenberg sank two pivot shots and Schwille sank a set shot to knot the score 29-29. Guldin and Schwille exchanged shots to knot the count again, but Valley Forge went on a spree that proved disastrous to Albright and took a four point lead at the end of the third period.

Medics Lead

Shortly after the final stanza started, Valley Forge hiked their lead to 40-34, their highest of the evening. But Guldin, Glickman, and Cappel each connected to tie the count at 40-40 with three minutes to go. Niemiera sank his second field goal of the quarter to give Valley Forge the lead again, but fouls by Cappel and Glickman once more tied the score at 42-42. At this point, with a minute to go, Ed Davis, former Notre Dame star, raced in to score the final point.

Holds Ball

Two fouls on Niemiera, also a former Notre Dame star, gave Albright the ball, but Valley Forge tightened and the Lions were unable to crash through. The game ended when Greenberg intercepted a pass

Albright Lassies Split Two Games

Albright's women's basketball team chalked up one victory and suffered one setback during the past week.

In the first contest of the week a win was registered over Gettysburg College at Gettysburg on Saturday, March 2. Ginny Woerle, turning in one of her best performances of the season, hit the hoops from all angles, accounting for 24 of the total 33 points. Gettysburg forwards scored 22 points.

In the other game on Tuesday, March 5, the E-towners avenged their earlier setback by producing a decisive ten point lead in the final score of 42-32. Continually breaking through Albright's defense to score on lay-up shots, Elizabethtown held the upper hand all the way. Ginny Woerle, alternating between pivot and center duties, proved the scoring mainstay of both contests, accounting for 31 tallies in the home game and 18 at Elizabethtown.

By KEN GOOD

As the 1946 season draws to a close, there is one member of the Albright quintet who indelibly puts his name on the list of the Albright immortals. In winning the Ron Regar Trophy as the most outstanding player on the 1946 squad Leland Cappel becomes the first freshman ever to acquire this coveted award. In fact Cappel is the first freshman in the College history to win any all college athletic award.

In coming to Albright, Cappel little expected his own achievements. Even though the Butler Township youth had three years of high school experience he was not too sure he could make Coach Neal O. Harris' varsity. Following in his brothers footsteps and playing the pivot post since his 10th grade in high school, Lee under pressure soon adapted himself to the Harris methods and became the coach's number one pivot man. The 6 ft 4 in. boy from Butler, even though handicapped with a lack of college experience and mid-season illness, turned in a wonderful performance and came through with 209 points to become a Regar winner.

If draft officials permit and Cappel stays at Albright, the freshman award winner is bound to do some record breaking in the following years. With three more years to go, Cappel is at the threshold of a most successful collegiate basketball career.

Albright at present can boast of having the coach with the nation's best basketball record of the year. Yes sir, none other than genial Gene Shirk with a perfect record of one win against no losses. Shirk took over the Lion court team the other night when they played Elizabethtown and in spite of many "griping" handicaps he won the game.

Ode to an Athlete

I think that I shall never see
An athlete who does not impress me.
A man with muscles jutting out
A pushed in face—a broken snout.
A football hero—a whiz at chess
Limbs all broken—what a mess.
Vitalis scent, a rugged face
One who loves the human race
Harris produces the Atlas style
But any will do for my file.
I'll take six o' these and half a dozen of the other . . .

Track Men to Meet

All people who are interested in track and field sports are being asked by Coach Gene Shirk to report on Thursday, March 14 in room 103 of the Administration Building.

Shirk has several meets pending which depend entirely upon the degree of interest shown at this meeting. The track meets scheduled tentatively are Juniata, St. Joes, and West Chester. The track mentor has also filed an application for membership to the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Track and Field Association.

Red and White Quintet Downs E-Town, 65-55, In Second Half Rally

Albright's Roaring Lions put on a second-half rally to gain their twelfth victory of the season at the expense of a tough Elizabethtown quintet, 65-55 on the Lancaster County floor.

From the opening gun the game was a close one. Albright jumped to an 11-6 lead midway through the first quarter, but Franker Keath and Dick Shiffer each sank two buckets to knot the count 12-12 at the period's end. With Shiffer and Keath again leading the way, E-town broke the deadlock. Using a fast break they seemed to run circles around the Lions, and by controlling the backboards, ran the score to 33-20 at half time.

Gene Shirk, who ran the Albright club in Coach Harris' absence, must have said the right thing during the intermission, for the second half was an entirely different story. Mort Witman started things with a lay-up, and Hops Guldin dropped a foul shot before Keath could score for the Lizzies. When Joe Cappel and Guldin each sank one, E-town called time while the score was still 35-29 in their favor. The teams exchanged two-pointers, and again the Lizzies called for time, but to no avail, for a trio of buckets by Russ Guensch, Cappel, and Guldin tied it up.

Shirk dropped four free-throws to match field goals by Cappel and Red Glickman and the third period ended in a 43-43 tie. Cappel collected his fifth personal in the process and was sent to the showers, but even the loss of their tall pivot-man couldn't stop the Red and White as they quickly pulled away from their rivals. Guensch sank a field goal to give Albright the lead again, Shiffer collected a foul, but four straight from the floor put the Lions so far out in front that the Lizzies never recovered.

Joe Kubisen and Glickman continuously stole passes from the confused Elizabethtown players, turning many of them into Albright scores. Hops Guldin led the Lion scorers with 18 points, 15 of them gathered in that second half flare-up. Guensch with 17, Glickman with 12, and Cappel with 11 markers all helped to swell the Albright total.

Coach David A. Strong

Hopefuls Meet Coach Strong

Lions To Play 8 Tilts In 1946 Grid Season

Albright's new football coach, Dave Strong, met with his football hopefuls for the first time on Wednesday afternoon. Strong, in speaking about his hopes and plans for the next season, said that the Roaring Lions will play a full schedule of at least eight games. He also mentioned that he will use the Crisler single-wing as his basic system, with short-punt and spread formations added for deception.

Strong plans to draw as many as possible of his future players from nearby schools in the hopes of increasing local interest in the Red and White eleven. He also stressed that he is not a conservative coach—that his team will play open football and have not be afraid to gamble when the chances are good.

About thirty grid enthusiasts were present at the meeting including eight who have worn the Albright colors under "Lone Star" Diets. This octet of veterans is made up of Joe Laucks, a tackle from the '39 squad; George Morfogen and Herb Votg, who played halfback and end positions in 1941; and Guy Wildermuth, center; Dick Hagemeyer, tackle; Bud Fromuth, guard; Red Lamberson, center; and Gene Shollenberger, end; all from the last pre-war team of 1942.

That many of the court squad also have the desire to give the grid sport a try was shown by the presence of Joe Kubisen, Lee Cappel, Bill Emmerich, Jim Delp, and Red Glickman. If his first get-together is any indication, Albright should be back on the football map in very short order.

FEMME SPORTS

Now is the time for all good studentes to come to the aid of their class or sorority for this week the intermural and interhouse basketball league will get under way. With the last varsity game in the background, the way has been paved for intermural basketball.

Each class will have a team. There is however some doubt whether the seniors can get away from important activities to play. Each sorority will have a team and the non-sorority women will also compose one.

All varsity squad members are barred from the league in order to give other persons a chance to play. That's the dope so let's see you coeds come out and support your class! Get those basketball legs in shape!

Every Tuesday, a group of Albright coeds scramble down to the Paradise Bowling alleys to take up the war against the ten-pins.

Last Tuesday, Dolores Reinhart sparked the group with a game of 135. Tagging close behind came Dorace Hornberger, with 112, Ginny Reinsel with 111, Dot Seisler with two games of 109, and Vil Griesemer and Doty Frederick with 101.
