

Mus, Pats Stage "Memory" Formal Saturday Evening

This Saturday from 9 to 12 p.m., the Phi Beta Mu and Pi Alpha Tau sororities will hold their annual spring sorority dance in the ballroom of the Berkshire Hotel. Tommy Ellsworth and his orchestra will provide the music; dance programs will be in the form of small record albums with a "record of memories" for each dance.

The sororities have invited Dr. and Mrs. Gerrit Memming and Treasurer and Mrs. Charles Gordon to be chaperones. Guests will be Dean Mary Jane Stevenson and Lieutenant and Mrs. Edward L. Davis.

Mae Jean Picking is the general chairman of the dance committee, which is composed of Ruth Smith, Mildred Ruebsamen, Gayle Haupt, Helen Grass, and Margaret Ball.

Phi Beta Mu sorority will hold a formal initiation tomorrow evening, April 26, in Sherman Cottage at 8 p. m. President Polly Brossman will preside. Informal initiation took place Monday evening. At a meeting held last week, the Mus re-elected Ann de Farges as their Council representative.

Pi Alpha Tau will also initiate their pledges formally tomorrow evening at 8 p. m., the meeting to be held in the home ec corner. Lillian Schwencke, president of the sorority will be in charge.

According to custom, the Pats will hold their annual tree-planting ceremony on Sunday afternoon May 7. Marie Bonner and Mary Jane Weber were elected to represent the Pats on Council.

Thirty Women Picked For May Day Dances

Music for the processional and recessional of the May Queen and her court will be provided by records over a public address system for the May 6 festivities. Betty Claire Voeste will play the piano to accompany the May Day dances.

The Junior women will perform the traditional May Pole dance, while thirty freshman and sophomore women will do modern dancing. The latter are Christine Schweimler, Elizabeth Pottlienger, Margaret Hendricks, Helen Ancona, Margaret Ball, Anna Wardluff, Marian Latta, Gayle Haupt, Mildred Kaufman, Doris Snyder, Virginia Schwyer.

Freshmen include Ruth Stirn, Anna Mae Kemmery, Fernie Allen, Roberta Calamara, Elaine Schwartz, Ruth Rehr, Mary Beth Schofer, Mildred Abrams, Betty Burnett, Mary Jane Werley, Jane Miller, Louise Trostle, Joan House, Alice Albright, Minnie Silbermann, Dorothy Bennett, Joy Cutler, June Weidner, and Elaine Kyle.

Candy, Cakes, Cookies, Soda-Pop Offered at 'Service Men's' Canteen

Mothers will be sleeping later, daywomen will be awake, and the book store will contain only half its capacity this week when the Servicemen's Canteen beckons to hungry students—all 200 of them—to grab a bite. Hurry, hurry, hurry—there are only three days left to buy this delicious, this delectable—well anyway, it's food! Potential cooks of campus female organizations will prove (?) their ability by providing the canteen with tasty morsels. If anyone wants to make a fortune selling bicarb, here is your golden opportunity.

The Kappa cooks, that is, the Kappa women, have the responsibility for selling "grab-bags" which, to quote Mildred Ruebsamen, are parcels for which you "pay a price and then hope you get something good to eat." The contents, as you have probably gathered, are a surprise—to the Kappa girls as well as to the prospective guinea pigs. It seems like a fine time for Miss Ruebsamen to advertise the Community General Hospital, we're thinking.

From the culinary capabilities of the Daywomen—and their mothers—are expected homemade cakes and candy, with which they hope to tempt the taste buds of the passers-by and to taunt them into becoming victims. Guard your fillings and remove your

Receives Degree

Vera Micheles Dean

Induction Service Held for Prexies

Paul Deyscher took the oath of office as the president of Student Council, and Jack Teger received the mantle as Senior Class president last Friday morning in chapel. Five senior members received Council awards: Louise Auchenbach, Lucy Griswold, Polly Walls, Vester Peters, Gerald Heilman, and Dorothy Leiby. The latter two received their keys in absentia.

"It is up to you and your Council representatives to do as the student body wishes" said Mr. Deyscher in his remarks upon induction. After Vester Peters, retiring president of Council, administered the oath of office, Mr. Deyscher presided over the induction of the 1944-45 Council.

Dean Mary Jane Stevenson, chairman of the Student Activities Committee, presented the Council awards, explaining that the basis for the awards was excellence in service and attendance of three-fourths of the meetings called during their term.

Anthony Cagiano, president of the 1944 class passed the mantle to Jack Teger, president of the class of 1945. In accepting the mantle, Mr. Teger said, "Next year's Senior Class will try to keep up Albright's traditions."

Doctors' Degrees To Be Conferred By Local College

Albright College will confer honorary degrees on Dr. Vera Micheles Dean, Lieutenant General Carl Spaatz, Reverend Joseph Willard Kroecker, and Reverend Charles Kachel at commencement on May 21 at 3:30 p.m. General Spaatz will receive his degree in absentia.

Dr. Dean, the commencement speaker, will receive a doctor of laws degree. A graduate of Radcliffe College, she is Research Director of the Foreign Policy Association. After receiving a masters degree in International Law from Yale, she got a Ph.D. from Radcliffe.

Native Son

Lieutenant General Carl Spaatz, Commander of United States air forces in Europe, will be awarded the doctor of laws. He is a native of Berks county. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, and also the Distinguished Flying Cross for records established in 1929.

Last Year's Speaker

The Rev. Joseph W. Kroecker, who graduated from Albright in 1926, will be granted the degree of doctor of divinity. Rev. Kroecker, who has St. Paul's Evangelical pastorate at Red Lion, Penna., preached the baccalaureate sermon at Albright's graduation exercises last year.

On the Rev. Charles Kachel, eastern district superintendent of the East Penna. Conference of the Evangelical Church, will be conferred the doctor of divinity degree. Rev. Kachel received his B. A. degree from Albright in 1924. He served as religious counsellor of Albright College from 1936 to 1942 and instructor of Practical Theology in the Evangelical School of Theology, Reading, during the same years.

Domino Club Chooses Four Freshman Plays

Four students in the English 15b class under the supervision of Dr. John B. Douds, have had their plays selected to be produced as the May Day one-acters by the Domino Club on Friday, May 12, at 8:15 p. m., in the College Chapel.

"A Circle of Pictures" by Hazel Couden, "Where Glory Waits" by Joan House, "Wouldn't You?" by Jerry Schlegel, and "For the First Time" by June Weidner have been selected as the winning plays.

Four students will serve as directors. They are Helga Brown for Miss Couden's play, Fannie Epstein for Miss House's play, while Dorothy Scheib and Lucille Griswold will direct Miss Schlegel's and Miss Weidner's plays, respectively.

German Club Chooses Officers, Plans Outing

The German Club plans to hold its last meeting, which is to be an outdoor social, at the home of John W. Young, 2727 Penn Avenue, West Lawn, during the second week in May.

At the club's April meeting held last Wednesday at the home of Jean Zwoyer, 813 Pear Street, the following officers were elected for next year: President, Jean Zwoyer; Vice President, Betty Clair Voeste; Secretary, Mary Briner; and Treasurer, Alice Volt.

The program of the meeting was made up of reports on famous men born in April, including Friedrich Koenig by Jane Fenstermacher, Friedrich Frelbe by Mary Briner, and Karl Lieberlich Immerman by Eleanor Wentz.

Dean of Women Will Leave To Take Westminster Post

In order to accept a similar position at her alma mater, Westminster College, New Wilmington, Penna., Mary Jane Stevenson has resigned as Albright's Dean of Women. The Board of Trustees has not named her successor. Dean Stevenson will remain at Albright until September.

As successor to Mary E. Turner as dean at Westminster, Dean Stevenson will assume duties similar to those she performed at Albright. Under her guidance will be about 350 women. The normal enrollment of the college is 700 students.

Dean Mary Jane Stevenson

Graduating from Westminster College in 1937, Dean Stevenson majored in French and states that at that time she did not think that she would later return to her alma mater as dean of women. As for leaving Albright, she says: "I have enjoyed my two years at Albright, and I shall hate to leave."

Like Albright, Westminster is a liberal arts college. One of the many "war" colleges, it had on campus approximately 500 servicemen in the Navy V-12, the A.S.T.P., and the air corps college training detachment. The latter two are in the process of being disbanded at this time.

Assisting Dean Stevenson will be nine housemothers who have charge of the dormitories. There are three large dormitories for women and six smaller housing units, about the size of Linden House. A few of the dorms are cooperative houses in which the students manage the house themselves. Dean Stevenson will have a six-room house on campus and an office in the administration building.

As a "wartime" dean at Albright, Dean Stevenson supervised the relocation of resident women three times in the last two years. When the Seventh College Training Detachment selected the Selwyn Hall and the Annex as part of its barracks in March, 1943, the women moved to the Kappa, Zeta and A.P.O. fraternity houses, and to private homes off campus.

Dean Discloses Plans For Summer Session

Plans for the two six-week terms of this year's summer session were revealed by Dean George W. Walton. The first term will extend from June 12 to July 22, and the second from July 24 to September 1.

Classes meet daily from Monday to Friday with the regular three-hour courses in one and a half hour class periods, and two hour courses in one hour class periods. The maximum schedule, except by special permission from Dean Walton, is limited to seven semester hours per term. One semester's work is completed in each six-week period, and whole year courses are continued through both sessions.

Tuition fees for summer courses are $10.00 per semester hour plus a $3.00 registration fee, a $2.00 library fee, and laboratory fees. Room and board will be provided on campus, at the price of $13.50 per week. Arrangements for rooming on campus are made through the Office of Public Relations.

Orchestra to Present Spring Concert May 1

Professor Hans Nix announces the following program for the Annual Symphony Concert to be held in the College Chapel, May 1 at 8:15 p. m. "Processional March," Woodhouse; "Overture Rosamunde," Schubert; "Keltic Lament," Foulds; "Entrance of the Sardar," Ippolitov-Ivanov; "Fantasy from Operas," Wagner. "Thunder and Blazes," Fucik; "Ballet Music," Ponchielli; "Calm as the Night," Bohm; "Intermezzo Russa," Franke; "Love Dreams After the Ball," Ciaikovka; "Hungarian Dance #5," Brahms; the Alma Mater; and "National Game," Sousa.

'Y's' Hike Tonight, Induct Presidents

In place of their usual meeting, the combined "Y's" will hold a treasure hunt tonight. The group will leave from the rear of the Administration Building at 7:30 p. m. In case of rain, an informal hymn sing will be held in the College Chapel. Joanne Miller and Gerald Heilman are in charge of planning for the evening.

Last Tuesday, April 18, the newly elected officers and their cabinets were installed at a service held in the College Chapel at 7:45 p. m. Gerald Heilman and Joanne Wentz, former "Y" presidents passed lighted candles symbolizing the light of service, to their successors, Cecil Pottlienger and Ruth Ritzman, who accepted their responsibilities for coming year.

With this evening, the presidents lighted the candles of the other members of the executive committee. These included vice presidents Paul Mattson and Gene Teltsworth, secretaries Neris Wert and Mae Jean Picking, and treasurers Orlan Pottlienger and Joanne Miller of the Y. M. and Y. W. respectively.

Following this, the newly appointed cabinets also lit their candles from those of the presidents. The cabinets consist of chairmen of the following committees: worship, Fred Clewell (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

S.T.D. Will Honor New Members With Dinner

Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, will hold a dinner at the Thomas Jefferson Tea Room, Franklin St., at 6:30 p. m., April 27, in honor of their pledges. Jane Reday Kriebel, president, will preside over the program and induction ceremonies after the dinner.

"The Pledge's Polly", a one-act play by Marian Christ, will be presented by a cast to be chosen from the pledges and directed by the author. Miss Christ's play was the prize one to be chosen from those which all the pledges were required to write as part of their initiation.

English majors or minors who are being inducted into the fraternity are Betty Bradley, Marian Christ, Felice Epstein, Marian Latta, Eleanor Platt, Jean Rhodes, and Doris Snyder. The committee on initiation was composed of Robert Klenck, Helen Brown, and Mary Jane Weber.

This will be the final fraternity meeting of the year.

On Your Mark

After Friday morning's induction and mantle ceremonies, congratulations and best wishes are in order. Two of the new "big shots"—Council president Paul Deysher and Senior Class president Jack Teger—arguing to have tough jobs in a wartime Albright.

Now that the Council constitution has been written, the first step has been taken. It is up to Mr. Deysher to see that Council takes its second and important step, the carrying out of their new laws. It is 1944-45 that will spell success or failure for the constitution, and therefore for Council itself.

To Mr. Teger goes the responsibility of keeping his class unified in spirit and action as the seniors on campus. You are the leaders now, class of '44-45.

Take over, fellows; it's all yours.

Final Exodus

Dean Stevenson's resignation came to Albright as an unfortunate announcement. It is hard to lose someone as interested in Albright—from its squirrels to its students—as Dean Stevenson is. We are grateful that hers was the guiding hand during these times of dorm exoduses and date bureaus.

On the brighter side of the situation, we can be assured that, although she is taking care of other "girls," she will still retain her interest in Albright and its doings. As for her successor, we just might be lucky enough to pick another ace from the deck.

The Party Doesn't Answer

If you glance at the next column, you will notice the absence of the usual "Inquiring Reporter." This was not intentionally omitted to save space. It seems that Albright students are the strong, silent type when it comes to answering THE ALBRIGHTIAN'S weekly queries.

The question-for-the-week was to be about what should be done for our Lions in the Ranks by the Servicemen's Committee. In addition to proving good reading, the suggestions would have been appreciated by that committee. Our reporter tried—with the net result of two similar answers. Answering these questions is doing your part to make this paper representative of student opinion. When you are handed a question again, give it a second thought. Your thought might be a good one.

Six seniors or juniors will be inducted into Delta Phi Alpha, national honorary German fraternity, this Thursday evening at the home of Louise Auchenbach, president, 61 Howard Street, Springmont. New members include Jane Fenstermacher, Betty Claire Voeste, Joanna Wentz, Jean Zwoyer, Jack Teger, and John Young.

June and Ruth Plowfield represented Albright in a debate with Ursinus College last Monday night in the College Chapel. Albright upheld the affirmative side on the proposed international police force.

Geraldine Bowker will preside at Bible Class next Sunday, when Professor Lewis E. Smith will discuss the lesson. Ruth Stirn and Rillie Lee Wright will conduct vespers.

May 1 is the deadline for submitting entries to Dr. John B. Douds for the poetry contest.

Dean's 'Pepita' The Flurry With The Fur on Top

Horrified and bewildered were the occupants of Linden House when a series of eerie wailing sounds emanated from Dean Mary Jane Stevenson's downstairs apartment. Curiousities reached the breaking point when six pairs of scurrying feet were heard. What new specie of vacuum cleaner was this? A door was opened, was shut with a bang, and all was serene.

Canine Surprise

Within a few hours the process was renewed. A few brave gals ventured down the stairs, and with trembling fingers opened the door. An amazing and riotous scene greeted their eyes. A little black flurry was racing madly from room to room, and breathlessly trying to catch it was Dean Stevenson. Pepita slowed down to a trot and took on the shape of a dog. The dean collapsed in a chair and proceeded to answer multitudinous questions.

Advertising Not Classified

The scene of her tale was a rainy windy street in the vicinity of the school. A lone occupant crawled painfully on all fours seeking companionship. Miss Stevenson stumbled upon this bedraggled object of nature and carted it home with her. Thence appeared her ad in the paper implying that if no one claimed her treasure within three days she would be its owner. The only response was the following telephone conversation: "Hello, are you the party who found a dog?" "Yes," replied the dean. "Really? I found one, too."

Welcome

And so, after three nerve-racking days, Pepita's name was erased from the Linden House guest book and she became "one of the family."

Not Burglars

If the residents of Linden Street are concerned about two shadows prowling the streets at all hours, they need only look closer to discern our proud dean holding the leash of the cutest little canine ever to find her way into so many hearts.

Besides keeping his owner busy exploring Hampden Heights and cooking up new and delicious dishes with Doggie Meal, Pepita provides the neighborhood children with endless hours of entertainment. They stand on the back porch and yell, and sure enough, Pepita yells back.

Wanted:

Anyone with a few hours to spare should apply at once to the office of the Dean of Women. Pepita needs exercise, and Dean Stevenson needs rest.

HOME EC OMELET

So few students here at school realize all that is going on in the home economics department—so we decided to bring the home ec department to you, via THE ALBRIGHTIAN.

An important event occurred last Wednesday night when the meal planning class invited several faculty members to an informal buffet supper. The lucky (?) people who were confronted with an array of delicious food were Dean Mary Jane Stevenson, Dr. Milton G. Geil, Dr. Clarence A. Horn, and Florence Finger. Faculty of the home economics department were in attendance. Student teachers present were Mildred Ruebsamen, Adele Bast, Jean Seidel, Aida Matz, Edith Bittler, Betty Rex, and Polly Brossman.

The arts appreciation class, under the supervision of Ernestine Elder, took a field trip to the Reading Museum last Friday afternoon. Purpose of the trip was to observe a textile exhibit.

Keos Meet

Journeying to the Red Cross Headquarters last Wednesday night, the Heo Club held their meeting at that place. The Heos spent the evening wrapping bandages.

Sophomore home ec'ers strutted their stuff at a fashion show Thursday morning at the clothing lab. The clothing class considered the show an opportunity for dress criticism. Students are welcome to come to the lab and examine the masterpieces!

Pledges Frantic

These past two weeks you may have seen six harassed-looking coeds scurrying around the campus, but probably you did not know that they were Saroyans or Shakespeares in the making. The six were pledges of Sigma Tau Delta, the national honorary English fraternity, and for initiation, they were assigned to write a one-act play. Maybe you think dashing off a one-act play isn't anything to tear your hair out about, but you haven't heard the half of this story yet. The plays were to be built around five characters dreamed up by Pledge Master R. H. (Simon Legree) Klencz, with extras consisting of a greengrocer, two maids, school children, camels, pirates, ruffians. This cast of characters would be enough to turn even the hair of Leo, M.G.M. lion, a lighter shade of yellow, but the pledges set to work with scores of pencils in readiness. The plays have been completed and handed in; the judges have made their decision as to which one shall be produced (see another story in this issue); and now the contents of the plays themselves can be revealed to a waiting world.

First, here are the five main characters. As you read over them, imagine what you yourself would have done with them. (Homicide not permitted.) Whipoorwill Wattleboro, poor but honest, a struggling archeologist; Phoebe Ives-Pope, born with a silver spoon in her mouth; Geoffrey Ives-Pope, her sire, a philanthropist interested in catatonics; Ahab Szpiskid Smythe, an Arab, in attendance at Oxford University on a soccer scholarship; and John Ferguson, a plumber.

In all of the plays, Whipoorwill Wattleboro was the hero for some time or other, but in Jean Rhodes' and Doris Snyder's plays, he is outdone by Ahab, the sheik, who carries off the ever-lovely Phoebe. Being very literal playwrights, Eleanor Platt and Marion Latta had Phoebe suffering from the affliction of having the silver spoon permanently in her mouth. Eleanor got the spoon out by means of a blow torch, but Marion merely said it made Phoebe's speech a little blurred. In Felice Epstein's pantomime, Phoebe tries unsuccessfully to get Whipoorwill, while Marian Christ's play is the only one with a boy-girl ending.

A list of the settings will give an idea of the variety of the plays. Three take place in England: Doris Snyder's in a garden, Marion Latta's in the locker room at Oxford University, and Marian Christ's in Waterloo Station, London. Felice Epstein's setting is a park in front of an insane asylum in any city; Jean Rhodes put her play in the Sahara Desert, while Eleanor Platt used an old mysterious temple for her scene.

The titles were just as unusual as the plays, as witness Platt's "The Nightmare," Chris's "Pledge's Folly," Epstein's "Strollin' in the Park One Day," Latta's "He Was Unconscious, But . . ." Snyder's "Name It and You Can Have It," and Rhodes' "Two Loves Had Phoebe."

We are going to suggest to Sigma Tau Delta that they put the plays on display in the library for everyone interested to see. However, we are also going to suggest that they are put under glass so that no odor of ripe corn or ham may creep out on the unsuspecting public.

Pledges' Antics

Although the past six weeks may have heralded in many innovations on campus, nothing could equal the antics of the poor pledges of the Pat and Mu sororities.

Many a Mu pledge will long remember the "lopsided" times they had. Their fancy hair-do's may forget the hair styles in the years to come. They were beautiful up with an up-sweep in one side and a dejected looking pigtail on the other. Another one-sided arrangement was the one-white-stocking-and-black-shoe and sneakers-and-anklet combination worn all at once. All day the pledges went "hippy-hop" around campus.

Then there was the collection of autographs and data on heights and weights of male students on campus. How revealing that must have been, and how disappointing too, in some cases. If you saw a lone Mu strolling along with her head in the air and a faraway look in her eyes, chances are that she is learning the Greek alphabet backwards and forwards.

The Phi Beta Mu shrine, which is the lone tree standing in the driveway in the rear of the ad building, was the place of many faithful hours of worship for the pledges.

As for the Pat pledges, remember "Schiaparelli Day" and the original hats. Everything from slippers to soap boxes came into view perched on the crowning glory of each pledge. Another great day was "Sinatra Day," when the bow ties and zoot suit jackets dominated the pledges' attire.

Unforgettable was that day of torture, the "Day of Silence." Pledges were seen waving their arms in mid-air to better emphasize what they weren't saying or scrambling for a pencil to make the task simpler.

The last were first when the Pats had a "Backwards Day" as they came strolling down the paths showing a good view of their backs, probably praying that there wouldn't be a big tone behind them.

Well, there you have a few of the hectic experiences of the long weeks of initiation. Although the pledges were the essence of humiliation this year, they will be able to "dish it out" when there are real members. Watch out future pledges; you're probably in for it.

Thirteen County High Schools Enter Annual Cinder Carnival

With a surprising turn out in view of the times, the twenty-first Albright College invitation scholastic track and field meet was held last Saturday afternoon at the college stadium. There were a total of 13 schools entered in the meet, an increase of three entries over last season's event. The new schools participating were Boyertown, Robesonia and West Reading. There seemed to be manpower shortage for the affair, as there were 269 boys slated to exercise their talents.

As was the case last year, only one class was again conducted. This was due to the fact that not enough schools entered the meet to make it necessary to arrange an A and B schedule. Officials were well pleased that 13 schools registered for the event, however.

Leading the list of schools, so far as numbers are concerned, was Muhlenberg with a squad of 27 boys. Mohnton High ranked a close in this department with 26 entries, while Shillington's defending champions came through with 25 runners.

The list of schools entered include: Birdsboro, Boyertown, Hamburg, Kutztown, Mohnton, Mt. Penn, Muhlenberg, Oley, Robesonia, Shillington, West Reading, Wilson, and Wyoming. Kutztown brought the smallest squad to the stadium, a group that listed only 12 participants.

Dark horse of the meet was Birdsboro, who was particularly strong in the running events. Their roster included the somewhat famous name of Tony Dadamio, who has been winning races for that school quite consistently during the past year.

Shillington was again regarded as the favorite due to the large number of hurriers they had returning from last year's entry. Boys like Art Hassler, Ken Kohl, Paul Young, Richard Fister and Grant White were expected to come through with a large portion of the ribbons.

Old Man Rain held off long enough last Saturday to enable Muhlenberg High to cop the twenty-first Albright College Invitation scholastic track and field meet at the Albright Stadium. In piling up 39 points, six and one half more than runner-up Birdsboro was able to snare, the Mules captured only two firsts in the field events. They bunched enough points, however, in the 880, mile, mile relay, hurdles, discus, javelin and shotput to put the meet on ice.

The winner's trophy will not be too conspicuous in the Muhlenberg High show case, as the Mules also came through victorious in 1929, 1930, 1938, 1940, 1941 and 1942. Thus the Muhlenberg trackmen regain the toga they lost temporarily last year to a strong Shillington squad.

Shillington evidently could not find suitable replacements for the men they lost via the graduation route and ended in third place with 21 1/2 tallies. Other team scores were: Mohnton, 21; Mt. Penn, 15; Oley, 15; Wyoming, 11 1/2; West Reading, 8; Hamburg, 5 1/2; Boyertown, 3; Wilson, 3; Robesonia, 2; Kutztown, 1.

The outstanding individual performance was registered by Bill Kline, Oley sprinter. Kline racked up the season's first triple, when he took firsts in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, and the broad jump. The Oley High entry almost equaled the record in the 220 by turning in a 23.4 second performance.

Tony Dadamio, Birdsboro luminary, came through as was expected by registering wins in the 880-yard run and the mile run. Tony experienced little difficulty in heading the field in these events and was never hard pressed.

Two new marks were set despite the cold weather. Nick Deeter, Mohnton lad, established a new mark in the pole vault with a leap of 10 feet 10 inches. Wesley Brown, from Mt. Penn, flew over the hurdles in the record time of 13.4 seconds.

"THE BEST IN BOWLING"

Meet your college chums at the MANSION

By PAUL DEYSHER
Campus Carrousel

Since the last issue of The Albrightian hit the streets, we have received numerous complaints about the line-ups of the inter-fraternity softball games. Some assailed us because we had the positions of the players marked down in an erroneous fashion. Others claimed we had the hits and errors columns mixed up.

Not wishing to pass the proverbial buck, we nevertheless feel that it is not entirely our fault. It seems that there is a lack of an official scorer to record the games in a satisfactory manner. Therefore, as the situation stands, the line-ups we receive may have been recorded by Umbrigo. We have no reliable source with which to check our information.

Students Interested
Since there seems to be some interest in how the line-ups appear in The Albrightian, it is the duty of Kenneth Faylor, I.A.A. president, to appoint someone to keep score who understands the game. Better still, why not appoint two or three persons to record the hits and errors? In this way, someone would surely be on hand who is capable of doing a good job.

No One's Fault
We are not criticizing Mr. Faylor in any way. We feel that it has just been an oversight on the part of everyone. We are as much to blame as anyone, and thus, we hereby volunteer for the job, if no one else wants it.

Pigskin Predictions
We noticed that an article appeared in one of the local newspapers during the past week concerning one of Albright's favorite sons, John Durko. The article related that Big John was about to be drafted, not by the armed forces, however, but by a professional football team. Rumor has it that it may be the Philadelphia Eagles, who are willing to give John a chance.

Albright Immortals
If Durko makes good in the big time, his name will go down in Albright football history with the other Lion luminaries who have distinguished themselves in the pro game. Such names as Dick Riffe, who played with the Eagles and the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Moose Disend, who played the line for the Brooklyn Dodgers, will long live in the memories of all Albrightians.

Riffe, it will be remembered, proved outstanding among the pros. He

With one game postponed, last week's inter-fraternity softball play resulted in a three-way tie among league teams. Alpha Pi Omega came from behind twice last Wednesday afternoon to back up Harry Hantzes' six hit pitching and post a 7-6 victory over the Zeta-Theolog softball ten on the science hall diamond. Ken Bower, massive Theolog twirler, crashed a homer for the loser's cause. He was touched for eight hits.

Harry Hantzes

The Zetas scored first with the aid of some interesting A.P.O.'s atoned for these defense lapses in the fifth. With "Muscles" Taub on first, Lippert drilled a triple to right center, scoring a moment later on Hantzes' infield roller. Klenck then pated a home run over the bank in left center driving in Harry ahead of him.

Zetas Rally
Rallying, the Zetas notched three runs in their half of the fifth. Jim Snelbaker had trouble with Peters' hoist and Pete wound up on third from where he tallied on Bower's long fly to left. Strausser coaxed the only walk of the game and rode home on Dietz Pottelger's double. Texter's single scored Dietz.

Clutch Game
Lippert opened the seventh by dashing to second while the same Dietz and Paul Ackert were knocking each other down trying to catch his pop fly. Hellman sent a sharp drive past third. Hantzes' infield tap scored Lippert and Hellman, who had pilfered second and later moved to third. Klenck's fly brought him in. By this time Hantzes was in position to score, which he did when Mattson beat out a bounder to Jim Pottelger for the final A.P.O. run of the game.

FEM SPORTS

With the spring sports program in full swing, class leaders for softball and tennis were chosen by the women. Senior softball leader is Alda Matz; junior, Jeanne Miller; sophomore, Mary Eschwei; and freshman, Mary Ellen Hill. Tennis leaders are Edith Bitter, senior; Joyce Moyer, junior; Marie Bonner, sophomore, and Phoebe Gerhart, freshman.

Softball schedule for this week is: Tues., April 25—Seniors vs. Fresh. Thurs., April 27—Juniors vs. Sophs. Scanning sportdom the women put in a busy week:

OF THE Bat
Women's softball began on Monday when two make-shift non-league teams played a game, after the junior team had forfeited its game to the senior women. On Tuesday the sophomores beat the freshmen by a 7-6 score. Monday and Wednesday found the girls tripping the light fantastic to the "Blue Danube" in preparation for the May Day extravaganza. Tennis and badminton flourished outside and inside the Thirtieth and Union Streets gym.

Archery Popular
Archery was found on the hill in back of the science hall, along with spring (and the archers). Mrs. Eva Mosser, physical ed instructor, found the enrollment for this popular spring sport had increased considerably, the newcomers wearing khaki of the air forces.

Sophs Take Seniors
Thursday afternoon saw the slug-ging sophomores outdo their senior opponents for a 15-1 triumph. Extras-basers were plentiful as Marie Bonner helped along the winners' cause with two home runs. Alda Matz also hit a four-bagger, this one for the seniors.

Rained Out
Friday's softball contest was postponed because of rain.

SIDE LIONS

Let's talk baseball. Newell Wert and Charles Russ came up with some spectacular stops of hot grounders in the A.P.O.-Zeta game last week. There were rumors of Yankee scouts looking on . . . Aaron Taub has agreed to play with the under-manned A.P.O.'s during the season. Taub should bolster the team quite a bit . . . When the regular officials failed to show up for last week's game, Teger, Strausser and Dover-spikes took over and did a good job. Naturally they came on for the usual criticism, but who can't help taking a crack at the umpire? . . . Hottest player of the season in the interfrat league is Kenny Hantzes. When Harry is up at the plate making the popping pitchers wish they had never been born.

The Kappa-Pi Taus were unable to engage in the softball festivities during the past week due to sundry causes. Some of their players were working, some were sick, and others were out of town. The boys will probably have to play two games during this week to round out their schedule, that is, if the boys have gotten together by this time . . . The softball league has emerged into a three way tie during the past few days. This means that all of the squads entered in the race are tied for first place. How's that for a tough league? . . . The fellows seemed to have their eye on the ball in the only game played last week. The extra base blows were thick as flies.
