Y-Retreat Features Genne On Sex, Love And Marriage

"Sex, Love and Marriage" will be the general discussion topics at the semi-annual Y retreat tomorrow and Sunday at the Blue Mountain YWCA camp near Hamburg.

Ernie Geise, '61, and Beverly Barthold, '61, general chairmen for the affair sponsored by the Albright College combined Y's, announced that the Rev. William H. Genne, executive director of the Department of Family Life of the National Council of the Church of Christ will be the feature speaker. The Rev. Genne, who has studied at Bucknell University, Yale Divinity School and the University of Chicago, has written several books and pamphlets on family life and is an accepted authority in this field.

During the two-day period, the Rev. Genne will lead four discussion sessions, covering such topics as attitudes towards sex, campus dating problems, engagements and mixed marriages. Heading these programs will be John H. Weaver, '61, devotional leader, and Lenore Barth, '62, discussion leader.

Other student chairmen are John S. Weaver, '61, kitchen, Lawrence Bergstresser, '60, recreation, Cell Ruano, '62, life guard, Mary Ann

IRC Elects New Officers At Meeting

A delegation from Albright who represented the Russian block at the Model U.N. in Albany, N. Y., April 8th to the 11th, was a great success. Several faculty advisors told Mr. Charles Raith, professor of Political Science, that the Soviet delegation was the best prepared group. West Point was the group representing United States. Schools from all over the country were represented.

There was a General Assembly, and Committees with regional blocks; however, no Security Council was represented. The various committees and their representatives were: Disarmament: Stanley

Greeks Have Hell Week To Terminate Pledging

"Hell Week," the informal initiation period for spring sorority and fraternity pledges, will appear on the scene — 1960 version — next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. The three-day period, followed by formal induction ceremonies early the following week, will officially conclude the, roughly, six weeks of spring pledging.

Colorful attire will be characteristic of the pledges' appearance as the neophytes replace dinks, caps, hats with their organizations' traditional "Hell Week" costume. Kappa Upsilon Phi pledges will be garbed (?) in stovepipe hats, sack cloth and tennis shoes. Tuxedo jackets, straw boater hats, and sunglasses will identify pledges of the Zeta Omega Epsilon brotherhood. Alpha Phi Omega pledges will sport white knickers, dark blazers, blue brim cap, and tie.

Pi Alpha Tau pledges will create costumes around three themes: "pre-historic woman", "flapper era", and "space age." Attire for the pledges of Phi Beta Mu sorority

Two Obtain Leaves For Next Year

Two Albright College professors have been granted sabbatical leave for the next academic year beginning in September.

Consuelo Rodriguez Jordan, of the Spanish department, and William R. Bishop of the history department will further their study toward the doctorate. Mrs. Jordan will be studying at Columbia University, while Professor Bishop will be completing his dissertation at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Jordan joined the Albright faculty in 1945, Bishop in 1947.

Sutton, Masters Talk In Chapel, Assembly

The Rev. Charles Sutton, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, and Dr. Harry V. Masters, president of the college, will speak in chapel and assembly next week.

Rev. Sutton has been the pastor here for six years. He was educated at Drew University and Seminary, and has done other work at the General Theological Seminary in New York City. During the years 1943-46 he served as a Chaplain in the United States Navy and served with the Marine Air Corps in the South Seas and later in the Aleutian Islands.

Montclair, New Jersey, was Rev. Sutton's last charge. He now serves on the Berks county Committee on Alcoholism and as president of the Family Service Committee of Berks.

Dr. Masters will deliver his annual "state of the college message" during assembly Thursday. He will comment on finances and present future plans.

which will center about three different themes also, and outfits for the Pi Tau Beta pledges were not announced in time for publication.

Campus activities include traditional note hunts, announcing of the time from lawn opposite Ad building, and skits. Mu and Pat pledges will each present skits Wednesday evening beginning at 6:45 in front of White Chapel, and again on Thursday beginning at 12:30

"APO's have termed this week as "Help Week" and will begin it tomorrow morning with a "work day." Pledges, through arrangements with the Reading Rotary Club, will offer their services in putting up awnings, screen doors, etc., to elderly needy persons in the community. Other service projects include Pat pledges serving as baby sitting volunteers at St. Joseph's Hospital on Saturdays, and Kappa pledges in charge of arrangements for the fraternity's annual orphans' party held Wednesday night in Krause Hall.

Clinic Obtains New Director From Temple

Stanley K. Smith, Jr. of Audubon, N. J., will join the Albright College faculty this summer as associate professor of psychology. He will also assume direction of the Psychological Service Center.

In the latter post he succeeds Dr. Milton G. Geil, who, after organizing the center and directing its activities, has requested a full-time teaching assignment.

Smith has been associated with the Psychological Clinic at Temple University for the past six years and has also been a teaching member of the psychology department since 1955.

An honor graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Smith received the master's degree from Temple in 1953 and will be awarded the Ph.D. degree from the same institution in the June graduation exercises.

Smith has served in the U.S. Army Air Force, is a member of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots

Cue To Include Record In Class Of '60 Issue

In a few weeks when Albright students receive their copy of "The Cue" it will have a new dimension. This year students will not only be able to recall college memories through the two dimensions of word and picture, but they will have the added third dimension of sound.

"A 45 RPM recording of all major campus activities will be placed on the inside front cover of every yearbook," Ed Traves, editor of The Cue, relates.

The entire project, an original idea, was produced and directed by A. Alan Botto, Pottstown day student. Narration for the record was done by Tom Bamford, Reading sophomore. All the events on the record were recorded live and on location, and involved the use of thousands of feet of tape.

"Dr. Luther Brassman, associate professor of German, along with many others, made significant con-

New Officers Presented At Traditional Mantle Ceremony

Stephen Lipkins, '61, the new president of Student Council will propose numerous new ideas to the Council and student body concerning campus activity.

Plans for a revision of the Council constitution including a provision for voting by one hundred percent of the student body have been revealed. Voting for all major offices would be held at the same time.

Lipkins also will request that tests not be given on the day immediately preceding Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter vacations. All committees will be named and the 1960-61 calendar presented at the next Council meeting.

In addition to his newly acquired responsibility as president of the student body, Lipkins is vice-president of the Kappa Upsilon Phi social fraternity, secretary of the Inter-Fraternity Council, past treasurer and house manager of his fraternity for which he also plays intramural sports, and associate editor of the Albrightian.

Four Moods Star At Jazz Concert

Tonight Student Council is sponsoring a jazz concert in Krause Hall at 8 P.M. Performing in the round will be the Four Moods along with Patricia Cush, '60, and Ed Ettinger.

The program, consisting mostly of modern jazz, was arranged by Robert Schiaffino, '62. Stanley Michalak, '60, and Wilbert Wollenhaupt, '61, are the two members of the Four Moods who are Albright students. Danny Brosey and George Grimes are the other members of the group. Wayne Selfarth, '60, will also perform.

Y Presidents

The president of the YMCA and YWCA for the 1960-61 term, Ernest Geise, '61, and Agnes Oaks, '61, respectively, met Wednesday evening to discuss plans for the Y Program. The new cabinet members were selected at this meeting of the past and new presidents and the chaplain. Results of this meeting will be presented to the 1959-60 cabinet at its next meeting. New officers and cabinet members will be installed at the annual picnic May 17 at Egelman's Park.

The May 3 Y meeting will include a presentation of the air force "brain washing" tapes with clarification given by a member of the Temple University faculty.

The new YMCA president is a member of the Pi Tau Beta social fraternity, past vice president of the Y cabinet, treasurer of the International Relations club and vice chairman of the Student Council of the Pennsylvania State YMCA. Geise is a political science major looking

Open House Slated For Campus May 15 By Berks Alumni

Plans for an open house May 15 on the Albright College campus were drawn up at a dinner meeting last night in the college dining hall.

Under the sponsorship of the Berks County Alumni Club, residents of Reading and Berks County are welcome to visit all campus buildings from the hours 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. George E. Koehler, 10 Valley Rd., Wyomissing, is general chairman.

Visitors to the campus are invited to gather in the new Chapel-Auditorium on the hours of 2, 3 and 4 p.m. At these times Albright President Harry V. Masters and Berks Alumni President William T. Shirk will greet the campus guests.

Representatives of the faculty and student body will be stationed in the various classrooms, laboratories and the library to receive the visitors. The campus tours will end in the dining hall lobby, where refreshments will be served.

Assisting Koehler and Shirk are Gaylord A. Crozier, Fleetwood R.D. No. 3, chairman of publicity; Raymond C. Schlegel, 1001 Bellevue Ave., Laureldale, program; Dr. John W. Kopp, Albright dean of men, faculty participation; Mrs. Ray Borda, 1801 Hampden Blvd., refreshments; and Francis J. York, 640 N. 11th St., buildings and tours.

WHUM Studios

The master tape was recorded and prepared at the studios of WHUM, under the auspices of manager Robert Magee, in the basement of the Berkshire Hotel. Al Lane, WHUM Program director, announced plans for a feature program on the finished recording.

Orphans Feted By Kappas

Fifty children from the Children's Home of Reading, Center Avenue and Spring Street, were entertained last Wednesday evening by the Kappa Upsilon Phi social fraternity at their annual orphan's party. The children saw cartoons, received toys, played games and were served refreshments. The program was planned by Donald Price '61, and Guy Smith '61, and the toys were collected by the Kappa pledges.

The entire student body was invited to attend the party and about 100 members of the student body were in attendance.

Many delegates became involved in their own arguments, but Albright presented the issues with calm deliberation. Some of the issues under discussion included the Kashmir problem, resettlement of refugees, recognition of Red China, and disarmament. In fact, the Soviet delegation even managed to get a resolution passed in the General Assembly. Valentin I. Obrenko, who many of you remember addressed the International Relations Club, and is the Counsellor to the Permanent Mission to the United Nations from U.S.S.R. was a big help to the delegation.

The International Relations Club would like to express its appreciation to President Dr. Harry V. Masters, Student Council, and YM-YWCA for their support.

Officers for the coming year are: Robert Schiaffino, '62, president; Ernest Giese, '62, vice president; Arlin Haas, '62, treasurer; Kathryn Bailey, '62, recording secretary and Linda Hershberger, '61, corresponding secretary.

Lipkins To Change Council Organization

Stephen Lipkins, '61, president-elect of Student Council, accepted the gavel from Willard Stitzell, '60, president, at Tuesday's meeting of Council. Once again the meeting was unofficial because there was not a quorum.

Lipkins outlined several procedures which he hopes to include during his term of office. They are as follows: Every even Tuesday when there is not a Council meeting will be an executive meeting at which time reports will be submitted from the chairmen of various functions so that there is a record of how to plan programs; any new business which is to be brought before Council must be submitted before the meeting, so that the most important items will not be neglected; any organization (including Y, Student Council, the Albrightian, the Cue) which desires money must submit a budget from this year with recommendations for next year to Council for its consideration about how much they will be allotted; more representatives should come to meetings and various ways will be tried to encourage attendance.

President Stitzell thanked the Council for their support and urged them to give as much support as possible to Lipkins next year.

Albrightians Study Abroad

Perhaps those of you who know David Eller, '61, will recognize him in this photograph seated third from the right. A seminar in phonetics conducted by Professor Faure of the University of Aix-Marseille at the Institute for American Universities at Aix-en-Provence, France was being held. Mr. Eller is an English major who is spending his junior year at this university.

Eileen McCracken, '61, an English major at the Sorbonne, and Pamela Lewis, '61, majoring in History is at the University of Montpellier. The two girls are spending their junior year abroad, also.

Patricia Cush, '60, would like to travel abroad this summer and after a short tour of France, will study French at the College Cornot in Cannes, France.

Cynthia Cook, '61, plans to leave for Europe on June 13th. She will travel in Britain and Italy, after which she will study French at the Sorbonne.

It will be interesting to hear the various experiences of these students when they return.

Committee Named To Choose Albright 'Book Of The Year'

A "Book of the Year" plan submitted by Dr. Harry V. Masters, president of the college, has been recently approved by the faculty. A subcommittee of the circulation committee consisting of Dr. John B. Douds, professor of English, Dr. Charles E. Kistler, professor of history, and Dean Mahlon H. Hellerich, academic dean of the college, has been established. This committee will work with a student committee appointed by William Stitzell, '60, which is composed of Steven Pripstein, '62, Eva Damen, '61, and Lynn Shivers, '63. They gathered April 20th to prepare a plan by which the program could be inaugurated.

The "Book of the Year," to be decided upon by the committee, should be read by everyone on the Albright campus for the purpose of providing a common intellectual fare for students in an effort to provide a united inquiry.

Various speakers in several capacities such as: minister, humanist, dramatic critic, and poet may be asked to lecture in chapel to present the book from a particular standpoint. The exact form the program might take has not been decided.

Study Tour Open To Campus

A European study tour for those interested in home furnishings, arts and crafts will be sponsored by the Home Economics Department of Western Washington College of Education this summer. It is open to all Albright College students and professors.

Scheduled for departure from New York City by jet airline, June 24, the tour will include visits to England, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Denmark, Germany, Italy, Switzerland and France, and return to New York, August 1.

"Watching a skilled Danish craftsman as he works in his own workshop, observing an Italian glass blower perfect a vase, meeting top notch Scandinavian furniture designers, there are just a few of the personal highlights for the students on the tour," Miss Dorothy B. Bland, head of the home economics department, and also tour leader, said.

Points Of Interest

There will be visits to museums, leading craftsman's shops and factories, opportunities to meet and hear lectures by experts in the field

In this photo of a seminar in phonetics conducted by Professeur Faure of the University of Aix-Marseille at the Institute for American Universities, Aix-en-Provence, France, you might recognize David Eller of Albright College seated third from the right. Mr. Eller is spending his junior year abroad with fellow students from forty-three American Universities. This photo was obtained through the courtesy of Stars and Stripes.

Glee Club, past member of band, a representative to Student Council last year, chairman of 1959 Parents' Weekend, a dormitory council representative for two years, a member of the Religion-in-Life week committee and an actress in "The Diary of Anne Frank," is planning a career in social work after graduate study.

May 7th at the Gulf Station, located at New Holland Road and Lancaster Pike, the brothers will wash cars and pump gasoline. All the proceeds from the car washes and a percentage of the money for gas will go to the chapter's treasury.

Tickets at the price of one dollar can be obtained from all members of the fraternity. These tickets can be used for gas, oil, lubrication, wash, etc., and the chapter will benefit from the sale of each ticket.

The Maddening Crowd

The time was shortly after noon. The day was last Saturday and the weather was bright and hot. The scene was Penn Square. Hundreds of people thronged the area as traffic was stopped. Evidently something important was about to happen; something which could draw people in droves to pack Penn Square. What could possibly have created such an interest, such an awesome response on this warm, uncomfortable day?

There were about thirty of us. What's that? Oh, yes. I mean that small contingent of college students who joined with the Reading chapter of the NAACP to protest racial discrimination at certain lunch counters in the South. We were planning to picket the local stores of the chains which had stores involved in the racial conflict in the South. We walked across Penn Square with our picket signs and after finally getting through the packed crowd, we took our positions at three of the five and ten stores between Fifth and Sixth Streets.

Of course not! The crowd hadn't come to see us. The folks were there for something more important—balloons with gift certificates were going to be dropped from the sky. Now, what was the reaction of the folks to our small contingent of pickets? Those who noticed us (and how could they miss us) seemed to register confused, questioning expressions. As NAACP literature was being handed out to explain the purpose of the picketing and the pickets began to move in single file, the questions were soon answered.

It was ironic that such a large crowd should be present on the same day in which the picketing was to take place. It was also ironic that the large crowd should be there for such a completely different purpose than that which our little group of pickets had in mind. Our small group was there to defend a moral principle, but the crowd was there for material gains. This fact certainly doesn't glorify our attempts, nor does it necessarily degrade the purpose of the crowd on Penn Square and the attempts of Penn Street merchants to boost business.

The point to be made (with due respect to those who sponsored the "balloon dropping") is that the whole thing reflects the philosophy of the modern, complacent American who is interested in pursuing materialism as an end in itself. The really important moral principles on which this nation was established have taken a back seat. Sometimes even the "back seat" is empty of such impractical, over-idealistic considerations. Business is business! This statement always rings loud and clear.

No, business is not being "picked on" in respect to the racial issue. This is only one of the fields in which the fight for racial equality is being carried on. The attention centers on the five and ten chain stores now, but this is only one small part of the big fight which must be won in these United States.

'Dear Violet'

The following is submitted for student interest through the courtesy of the librarian Dr. Josephine E. Raepel. It is taken from "The New York University Alumni News," June 1958.

"Browsing through turn-of-the-century Heights yearbooks, we came upon the Class of '01 in the classic college pose of tongue-in-cheek. Time robs none of the humor from this tale of retaliation we share with you from the 1901 Violet. We quote from page 157:

"Daily attendance at chapel of every student, except seniors enrolled in a professional school downtown, is required, under the following conditions: For every ten absences a student will be required to hand in, within three days after the tenth absence, an original theme of 1,000 to 1,200 words upon a subject assigned him by the Chancellor, touching morals and religion . . . Failure in handing in themes will be noted at the end of each term and treated as a failure in a term examination . . ."

"On the two facing pages which followed, the editor published a tabulation. The heading read, 'Faculty Chapel Attendance—Being a correct record of the daily attendance of the members of the faculty since the adoption of the compulsory attendance rules.'

"There followed an attendance roll—name by name and day by day. Of 29 professors listed, only three would have escaped owing themes under the rules imposed on the students. (Chancellor MacCracken was one of those who got by—he had only five absences). Only one had perfect attendance, Dr. Ernest G. Sihler. Two embarrassed profs were exposed as having never attended. Another was present for only one sermon.

Hawk Mountain Is Sanctuary For Hawks And Bird Watchers

By George Schildt

With spring usually comes an increased attentiveness toward nature. Students and other citizens as well often take a keen interest in wildlife such as that of the birds winging their way northward. One center of birdlife, well known by many Albright College students and faculty members, is Hawk Mountain.

Hawk Mountain Sanctuary in Eastern Pennsylvania is a haven for hawks as they migrate from the far north to the southern states. The sanctuary spreads over 1,401 acres of mountain top-woodland and rocks, beloved by birds and apple feasting deer. Along the mountain road is a little old stone house which once may have seen the marching soldiers of the Revolution and later the soldiers of the Civil War, but now is the Sanctuary headquarters, locally known as "Schaumback's". This property lies above a quiet Pennsylvania Dutch village, Dreherstown, in Schuylkill County.

The Exodus

Each year from September to November thousands of people make the trip by bus or car to the Sanctuary and watch the hawks as they glide southward on set wings. The people who visit the Sanctuary are of scarcely less interest than the birds. It has become a center for bird students, teachers, artists, scientists, and "just folks". In seven seasons 22,000 people from 40 states and from a dozen foreign countries have registered and have climbed the trail to Observation Rocks.

In the summer of 1934, Mrs. C. N. Edge, chairman of the Emergency Conservation Committee, leased Hawk Mountain and obtained an option to purchase and proclaimed it a sanctuary. She engaged as custodian, Maurice Brown, now curator of the Sanctuary, and a sheriff, whose duty it was to keep a small army of loud squawking hawk hunters off the property, and put an end to the wholesale slaughter of hawks.

About Hawks

There are 32 species of American hawks, but most people call them chicken hawks and believe that they kill only for sport. It has been found that they kill only when hungry and wage a ceaseless battle on rodents, destructive birds and insects

Cue Record

"As soon as the record is available in a release pressing it will be broadcast by WHUM," said Lane. No definite time for the broadcast had been set when Albrightian whose fertility, if unchecked, could overwhelm our production of foodstuffs. According to an estimate by Professor Harrison Tordoff of the University of Michigan, a single hawk saves farmers $110 a year in rodent damage.

Tom Bamford is doing a "take" as Alan Botto monitors the master tape in the WHUM studios in Reading.

Wide Range

In seven autumnal seasons almost 110,000 hawks of seventeen species have been identified. They range in size from the Sparrow Hawk, that trim and brightly colored little falcon, not much larger than a robin, to the great Golden Eagle with a wing spread of seven feet or more.

Observers at the Lookout see the hawks, like leaves in the wind as they come drifting along the crest of the ridge, sometimes high above them and sometimes very low. The hawks are seen to best advantage when strong winds prevail from the north.

The Hawk Mountain Sanctuary Association was incorporated in Pennsylvania in 1938. "The object of this corporation shall be to create a sympathetic understanding for birds and wild life, to provide means of educating the public thereto . . . and to establish and maintain parks and preserves and other places where birds and wild life generally may be protected, encouraged and permitted to live without molestation."

Reporters talked with studio personnel.

Student council, seeing the uniqueness of the idea, commissioned Botto to produce the record.

They are paying for the cost of production and placing it in the yearbook as a student service.

IN THE LION'S DEN

By JIM ADAM, Sports Editor

The other evening I was babysitting my godson, who is not quite two years old. After he had put away his supper, half where it ought to have gone and half on the floor, he waddled into the living room in search of amusement. I sat behind a book, paying him no attention, in order that I might observe him, for I was intently interested to know what babies did between feeding time and bedtime, other than create a need for their diapers to be changed.

I looked on as he came to the window to watch children playing outside, played on the floor with toy cars, and then return to the window. After a while it became apparent that he was bored with it all, so he approached the television set. Now he had seen others operate the TV before, how they reached up and turned one of the dials. So he, too, reached up and turned one of the dials—the channel selector. Oblivious to his error, he ambled to his accustomed position on the floor in front of the set, sat down cross-legged, and waited for the picture to light up the darkened screen. When it did not appear, there came across his face a mixed look of impatience and wonderment which is unable to be described.

I relate this incident in order to point out that at his young age my godson has already come to think in that habit of mind which is peculiar to the "Age of Automation", in which one is induced by various inventions not to engage in physical activity and to seek recreation in relatively unrewarding fashions. New machines in industry, the increasing availability of automobiles to almost every American family, and household labor-saving devices all contrive to make us a sedentary populace whose individuals sooner or later will be conditioned to seek the easiest, most effortless, and usually most unsatisfactory way of solving problems.

I went through the Hershey Chocolate Company plant a summer ago, and there I saw a woman sitting on a stool beside a conveyor belt which transported cans of chocolate syrup. Her sole job was to pass her fingers over the cans as they rolled past her; I have yet to discern the object of that soul-dulling operation.

The sit-down, do-little type of work brings about a certain laziness on the part of the adult, and he in turn transmits same to his children. Some day when you have a nine o'clock class, observe as you pass the neighboring grade school how many children are driven to school by their parents on perfectly lovely days when a walk in the outdoors surpasses by far the floating-in-air ride of any 1960 automobile.

How are we to compensate for this "no exertion theory" of living? Is there anything that can breathe new life into the modern worker's rapidly-flabby frame? Dr. Delbert Oberbauer of Ohio State University thinks he has an answer—sports. This physical education professor asserts that athletics will replace man's prime activity of work in the coming age of automation. Says Dr. Oberbauer, "When all industry boils down to pushing buttons, man will have to revert to physical activity for survival."

Athletics is becoming increasingly more vital to healthful living as our technology advances, and the teaching of physical education in colleges and public schools is realizing more and more the importance of its mission.

Mifflin Takes Albright Meet

The 39th Annual Albright Invitational track and field meet was held in the Lions' stadium last Saturday afternoon. Governor Mifflin high school took top honors for the fourth year in a row, scoring 42½ points in competition with other Berks County schools.

Four new records were set, two by West Reading's Ron Krick, of basketball fame, who tossed the shot put 49 feet 1¼ inches, breaking by 7¼ inches a mark set by Gerry Potts, an Albright alumnus, while he was at Shillington high school in 1948. Krick also established a new record of 142 feet, 2½ inches in the discus.

Harry Dewolf of Exeter high school high-jumped to a new mark of 5 feet, 11 inches. The Exeter 880-yard junior high relay team covered the distance in a record time of 1:37.

Second place in the meet went to West Reading, which tallied 30 points, largely on the efforts of triple-winners Krick and Ed Goodwin. Krick took the javelin event, and Goodwin won the 100- and 200-yard dashes and the broad jump.

INTRAMURALS

The first half of the men's intramural softball season came to a fitting close Monday, April 25, when the Zetas battled out a victory over the Dorm team and the Pi Taus hit the mark as the higher scorer over the Kappas, 9-6, to alleviate a tie for first place.

Eight contests had been waged previously to these games on the four succeeding Mondays and Wednesdays in April. The Zetas, credited on April 20 with the highest number of runs for any one game—13, had been the only undefeated team by virtue of their three wins. Next on the ladder was APO, with two wins and two losses.

The remaining teams all carried a record of one win and two losses. The tabulations for Monday transformed the records noticeably, leaving the Zetas first, Pi Tau and APO tied for second position, and the remaining two teams tied at one win and three losses. The second half of the schedule began April 26 when the Pi Taus battled against the Dorm, and the APOs slugged with the first-place Zetas.

The women's intramural softball season opened Monday, April 24, when the Mus battled the Pats on the hockey field at 4:15. The pitchers, Rachel Hinman (Mu) and Janet Smith (Pat), worked hard as the game went on for three extra innings. In the eighth inning the Mus tallied three runs and the Pats two to unbalance the score at 17-16.

All remaining contests will be played today, Monday, May 2, and Thursday, May 24, at 4:15 on both the lower field and the hockey field.

Lions Take All But One

Albright's fabulous netmen won their fourth match of the year last Saturday by defeating Muhlenberg, 8-1. In the first court Bruce Bowen annihilated Leon Silverman 6-1, 6-1. And in the most hotly contested singles match of the day, in court two, Jack Reinhart defeated Bob Levine of Muhlenberg, 6-4, 6-4.

The Red and White racketeers suffered their only loss of the afternoon on court three as Dick Kirschenbaum defeated Gleen Ruoss of Albright. However, Alan Kutner defeated Nate Hirsch, 6-3, 6-1, Bill Ruoff defeated Bruce Feyer, 6-0, 6-1, and Ken Kurtz defeated Barry Kusner, 6-1, 6-1, to give Albright five victories in the six singles matches.

Sweep Doubles

The Lion netmen kept up their winning ways by sweeping the three doubles events. In the first doubles Bowen and Ruoss defeated Silverman and Levine, 6-2, 6-0. Meanwhile in court two, Kutner and Reinhart defeated Kirschenbaum and Hirsch, 6-2, 5-7, and 6-0, in the most hotly contested doubles match. Sam Zehner and Kurtz easily disposed of Barry Weisman and Jerry Sweder, 6-2, 6-1, on court three.

Four Wins

This victory gives the Red and White racketeers a 4-1 season log. They opened the season by downing the St. Joseph's Hawks, 6-0, as Reinhart, Ruoss, Bowen, Kutner, Ruoff, and Kurtz all posted victories. Albright next won a hard fought victory over West Chester, 6-3, with Bowen, Kutner, Ruoff, and Kurtz winning singles victories, while Bowen, Ruoss, Ruoff, and Kurtz defeated their West Chester opponents. The Albright netmen then defeated F and M, but lost to Bucknell in a close match, 6-3. Albright's netmen were unable to capture a singles event, but did capture all three doubles events.

This Thursday the netmen will try to increase their seasonal victories to five and six when they encounter Susquehanna on Thursday and Juniata on Saturday with both matches being played at Albright.

Lions Pound F&M, 20-7

Albright College brought its baseball record up above the .500 mark last Saturday at Lancaster by overpowering Franklin and Marshall, 20-7.

The Lions own a log of three wins and two defeats, having been beaten by Seranton University and Ursinus College. The Diplomats have yet to record a victory this baseball season.

In turning back F&M, the Lions supported winning hurler Joe Wertz by amassing a total of seventeen hits in 40 times at bat. Wertz himself went three for four, scoring once and bringing two teammates across the plate. The Dips contributed nine miscues to Albright's winning cause.

F & M Leads

Franklin and Marshall led after three frames, 3-1, but Coach John Potskian's tossers got four in the fourth to command a 5-3 advantage. The Lions ran wild in the sixth inning as they scored ten runs before the Dips could engineer the third out.

Wertz was believed of his pitching duties in the sixth inning by Bob Edwards, who threw until the ninth, when Dick Greene came in. Altogether the three Lion hurlers gave up seven runs on five hits, while their teammates committed seven errors.

Among Albright's top hitters in the contest was shortstop Bob Shoup, who hit safely on three of his four trips to the plate. Two of his smashes were good for two bases, and he scored twice. To his credit is one rbi.

Freshman centerfielder Tom Kelly scored the most for the Red and White, crossing the plate on three occasions. He singled twice in four trips to the dish and stole two bases.

Each Albrightian scored at least once in the contest, except Greene, who entered the game in the last of the ninth, and leftfielder Mike Morano, whose lone hit of the game drove in two runs. Harold Buck, a freshman, also batted in two.

Juniata Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon Albright travels to Huntingdon to meet the Indians of Juniata College. Their next home game will be on Wednesday, May 4, with Muhlenberg College.

Next Monday LaSalle will furnish the opposition on their 20th and Olney Avenue diamond in Philadelphia, at which time the Lions will attempt to reverse last year's 9-0

Krow, Barry Goodhart, John Derr, Jerry Polyascko, and George Muraski.

Beat Muhls

On April 6 the Shirkmen opened their 1960 season with a 65-61 win over Muhlenberg College. The Mules were strong in the track events, but the Lions prevailed in the field. Diehm scored a triple victory by latching on to a first in the 120 and 220 yard hurdles and tying with Smith and Krow in the high jump; he also placed third in the broad jump, which was won by Smith. Breneman and Kerry Oslpover tabbed firsts in the pole vault and the 880 yard run, respectively.

At Chesterton, Md., Albright scored 55 points to finish second behind Haverford, with 77 markers, and ahead of Washington University, which accumulated 30 points in a triangular meet. First places were chalked up by Krow in the high jump, Smith in the broad jump, and Sheeler and Breneman in the shot put.

Trounce Ursinus

The Lions trounced Ursinus, 84-43, at Collegeville, with firsts going to Burkholtz, Derr, Salanek, Diehm, Smith, Breneman, Sheeler, and Davis. Breneman broke the Ursinus field record in the pole vault with a leap of 12 feet, ¾ inches. Swarthmore downed Albright 74-52 with freshman Creighton taking advantage of the Shirkmen's weak spot to notch first in the half mile, mile, and two mile runs. Diehm took the 120 high and 220 low hurdles and tied with Smith and Krow in the high jump. Burkholtz won the 100 yard dash and Davis the javelin throw.
