Ten Albrightians In Who's Who

Albright College To Honor Dads; Council Plans Special Program

Special Price Given To Fathers For PMC Game

Tomorrow is the day when Albright honors its dads with a special program and a day of scheduled activities prepared solely for the dads of students. This does not exclude mothers, sisters, and brothers, however, as they fit into the plans also.

Invitations have been extended to 354 dads to share in the good time arranged for them. Dorothy Gaul is in charge of registrations. All students are urged to bring their dads to the registration desk to get their souvenir identification buttons which were made under Mrs. Anna Smith's supervision. Mrs. Smith will be in the Public Relations Office until 12 o'clock noon, in the dining hall during the lunch hour, and at the student entrance to the stadium from 1 o'clock until 2 o'clock.

Lions Play PMC

The main event of the afternoon is the football game with Pennsylvania Military College at 2 o'clock. If reservations have been made, football tickets can be purchased up until 1 o'clock for the small sum of seventy-five cents.

Dinner to Be Served

A special Dad's dinner will be served in the college dining hall at 6 o'clock. The price is fifty cents for dads and non-boarding students. A brief and appropriate program will be presented during the dinner hour.

The student council student activities committee in collaboration with the Public Relations office has charge of the program. The committee is composed of the following members: Dr. Graham Cook, faculty supervisor; Ray Swett, chairman; Sally Weaver, and Bruce Knisely.

Albright Graduate Speaks In Library

Art Supervisor Talks On 'Modern Art'

Miss Dorothy Butler, an Albright graduate, was the speaker at the first library book-talk and tea which was held in the library on Tuesday afternoon. Her talk on "Modern Art" was supplemented by demonstrations of water-color techniques.

Miss Butler, a member of the class of '37, is supervisor of art in Exeter Township. While at Albright, she was an active member of the Domino Club, for which she designed many original sets. She was also a member of the Pi Alpha Tau sorority. After leaving Albright, she studied art education at Kutztown State Teachers College, and later received her master's degree from Columbia University.

Answer To Cryptogram

The answer to the cryptogram in the last issue of the "Albrightian" is as follows —

"The first person to work out the correct solution to this cryptogram before the issuance of the next copy of this paper will receive a free movie pass to one of the local theaters."

Virginia Black received the movie pass, having handed in the correct solution by 1 p. m. on Friday.

Frosh Elect Spaan For Class President

Fisher, Schubert Get Other Posts

With the nation, states, cities, counties, and townships all voting for their governing offices on Tuesday, Albright College freshmen were not to be outdone. They held their election for class officers on Wednesday. No voting machines were used, and no one got a chance to stuff the ballot box.

When the polls were finally closed at 4:30 p. m., 88 out of the class of 126 had voted and chosen as their future leader none other than that freshman boy scout, Marshall Spaan. Two other candidates, Warren Loesch and William A. Fisher were tied for second, giving Spaan a slight margin of safety.

Fisher Wins Close Race

In a close race for the vice-presidency, William C. Fisher eked out a victory over his nearest rivals, John Smythe and Paul Deysler.

All rivals were put to shame in the contest for the minute-writer and money-bag job, by that genial lassie, Eleanor Schubert. Placing second was Donald Grimm, who managed to gain a fairly good advantage over his nearest competitor, "Big Bill" Dearden.

Y Social Committee To Give Peace Play

On Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11, the Y. M. C. A. social action committee will sponsor a peace play to be given in the College Chapel at 10 a. m. called "Three Who Were Soldiers."

At 11 a. m. the Y. M. C. A. requests that all students and faculty members, pause, wherever they may be, and for a moment, pray—first, for those who have given their lives in service for our nation, and then, for peace in our day.

That evening at 7:30 p. m. in the Y Social Room the committee with the Y. W. group will conduct a special peace program to which all students are invited.

Camp Croft, S. C.—Albright College alumni are making deep impressions in the red sands of South Carolina as they near the completion of their basic military training at Camp Croft, named after the late Chief of Infantry, Major General Edward Croft, during the World War.

Pvt. Willard Bollinger '42, acting corporal in the 40th training battalion, commanded by First Lieut. Clyde F. Simpson, registered the highest mark for Company B in 30-calibre rifle marksmanship, according to Lieut. Col. Robert J. Kirk, battalion commanding officer. He scored 216 out of a possible 250.

Pvt. Samuel R. Moyer '37, who recently visited the Albright campus on his 15-day furlough, is a member of the post band and directs the Camp Croft quartet. Pvt. Leonard Stephan '37, a member of the 29th heavy weapons training battalion, sings with his classmate. On Sunday, they presented "The Creation," by Willy Richter, former director of music at Albright College, as one of the special musical selections rendered at the dedication of six Post Chapels.

William Ogan and Morris Pagnogliati are also stationed at Camp Croft.

Day Student Women Elect Miller to Council

Betty Miller, non-sorority junior, was elected to represent the day student women in student council for two terms. Betty is a home economics major from Reading High School. She is a member of the Heo Club and a member of the table tennis team.

Blind Committee Selects Students For National Fame

People Chosen For High Honor On Rigid Basis

Once again Albright students have been honored nationally. This time it is through the medium of the publication, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Ten honor students have been selected by a blind committee to represent Albright College in this volume of the biographies of the outstanding college students of the nation.

The ten students who were eligible and measured up to the high and rigid requirements of character, leadership, scholarship, and potentialities are Natalie Brant, Harry Buck, Marjorie Frundt, Dorothy Gaul, Esther Gingrich, Raymond Hain, Arthur McKay, Seymour Mendelsohn, Charles Miesse and Woodrow Witmer.

In all cases these students were selected carefully and impartially after thorough consideration as to all of the required requisites. All students who have completed two full years of college and are rated as a junior or a senior, and those in advanced study are considered for selection.

No Fee Connected

The motivating idea behind this project, which was started nine years ago, has been two-fold. First, it is to serve as an outstanding honor among students, an honor which is void of all politics, fees and dues; second, it is to establish a reference volume of authoritative information on the great body of American college students.

The purpose of Who's Who is to serve as an incentive for students to get the most out of their college careers, as a means of compensation to students for what they have already done, as a standard of measurement of students comparable to such agencies as Phi Beta Kappa and the Rhodes Scholarship Award, and as a recommendation to the business world.

We Are Here As Servants

By ART MCKAY

Last Tuesday, thousands of free citizens in this nation, as part of their heritage of individual independence and freedom, exercised a privilege that is rapidly becoming unique in this world of totalitarian regimes.

It seems to me we should never allow ourselves to forget in these days of totalitarianism abroad where sovereignty rests under our Constitution.

About two years ago Chief Justice Hughes, speaking to the President and both houses of Congress, as well as the Supreme Court, said: "We are not here as masters, but as servants, not to glory in power, but to attest our loyalty to the commands and instructions laid down by our sovereign, the PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES, in whose name and by whose will we exercise our brief authority."

Though it is difficult to determine exactly how many people availed themselves of the privilege of voting this week, past experience suggests that a great number failed to exhibit enough interest in the democratic processes to go to the polls.

You may be wondering what this has to do with us as college students, for many of us are not yet of voting age. We feel little responsibility laid upon us by the right of franchise. Politics and officials seem far distant to us.

Well, this is why I reflect on such a topic. Some of us (Continued on page 2, column 1)

A Salute To The Service

The ALBRIGHTIAN feels deeply honored to be able to serve both its country and its school by being chosen as the medium of fellowship, the tie of friendship, between Albright College and its graduates and students who are present in the services of Uncle Sam's armed forces.

In a time such as this, when the world as a whole watches us continually and eagerly for the next move which will affect the present world crisis, we in this country are constantly under a tension. This is especially true in the United States army. The men have been drafted into this great machine of war because of a crisis. Many of them have already served countless months of sacrifice and hardship. Under such conditions, with the future one of uncertainty, it is very difficult for any man to stand up strongly, upholding the army's morale.

With this fact in view, the ALBRIGHTIAN will hereafter be sent to all the Albright graduates and students in the service of our country. We hope that it will enable them to maintain closer ties with their friends and alma mater and aid them in overcoming the hardships and the feelings of depression which their present mode of life harbors.

We want them to feel free at all times to use this publication as an instrument of correspondence, as a medium of exchange for ideas and reports.

We dedicate this issue as a salute to the Service in gratitude for the protection it gives us and offer a supplication to God for the safety of its servants and a speedy return to peaceful conditions.

(If any students know the whereabouts of men in service, please send the addresses to the Editor of the Albrightian.)

A Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In reply to the letter printed in the Albrightian last week taking me for a ride, I wish to come back with the following. Freedom of speech surely gives the one attacked the opportunity to answer the attacker. Following is my reply:

Dear "Bewildered" (and misinformed):

Surprise is hardly the word to describe my reaction upon reading your most interesting and unlightening letter in the Albrightian last week. I must apologize for not answering you explicitly and my reasons for doing so are simply as follows:

First, to refute the half-truths in your letter would take more than this column would permit. Secondly, the question you have raised is a class issue if not a personal issue, and I don't intend to bore the whole student body with the details. Thirdly, your letter has done so much irreparable harm to the college already that I do not care to add anymore to that damage. And finally, since you are too modest and timid a soul to sign your name, I do not feel that I am required to answer you at all since the absence of a signature oftentimes implies that there is an ulterior motive present.

Anyway, "Bewildered," I'm harmless. You could have very easily spoken to me about the matter personally and ascertained the facts before going off on a verbal tangent. The complete files, letters, contracts, data, and material belonging to the "Cue" are open to the personal inspection of yourself and anyone else at any time. Some students have asked questions about the yearbook and I have politely invited them to discuss their queries with me.

You, "Bewildered," may please take this as a cordial invitation to pay a visit to the "Cue" office in the very near future. It is with eagerness that I await your coming, realizing that together we may reach a satisfactory understanding in this matter.

Your obedient servant,

Seymour Mendelsohn, editor.

We Are Here

ARE voters; others will be very soon; ALL will be when the end of college is reached. And it is here that we ought to be training ourselves to be better citizens and keener custodians of the values of democracy.

I heard a Hungarian clergyman speak Tuesday evening on the topic, "The Challenge of Being an American;" the things he said struck home in many instances.

He was able, as you and I are not, to sense the real freedom that we have compared with the enslaved peoples of Europe. Perhaps one simple illustration from his talk will serve to make a point.

In the days when LaFollette was Governor of Wisconsin, he and Louis Adamic, a pool Slovak immigrant boy who had won his way to respect and security, were leaving the state capitol. As they did the doorman said to the Governor, "Hello, Bob;" the Governor responded, "Why, good morning,

STRICTLY

RALPH FLEMING

Hello, folks,

Well, it finally happened! It was bound to sooner or later, but I didn't think that it would all happen at once. Yes, you've guessed it—my foreign correspondents have all let me down flat.

Take Gaston Jerk, for instance. Gaston, despite the fact that he did write with a terrific French accent, managed to wuzzle me an occasional report thru the German censor. But now, alas, I fear this source of information will shortly be shut off. Gaston, to put it bluntly, has run afoul of the law. It seems (according to his cousin Isa, another Jerk, of course) that some Frenchmen have taken up whittling rather seriously. As a result, several German sentries have been found well carved and sprawled out at their posts on various occasions. If these were the pranks of French boy scouts try to do their daily good deed, it didn't go over very big with the Gestapo. These worthy gentlemen promptly sent their stooges out to round up fifty Frenchmen for every dead sentry, and that's where Gaston came into the picture. ("Passed out," would probably be a better expression.) Gaston, at the time was at Collin's night club handling some important business. Before he could push the important business off his lap and make for the nearest exit, the door of the ice box fell open and out piled five Gestapo agents armed with machine guns and driving an American "jeep" car. (Built, of course, from plans which the German consulates copied from the backs of Wheaties packages and sent to the fatherland.)

Thus ended (temporarily at least) the career of one of my best reporters.

Then too there's the sad tale of Abu, our Suez reporter. This wily Arab while returning home with a date juice "jag" one evening, mistook a British sentries' sun helmet for a cuspidor. We haven't heard from Abu since.

I sent a special man to come to find out what happened to Virginio Gayda. Musso's mouth piece has been so ~~late~~ lately that I'm beginning to think that he's having trouble with his mother-in-law. (If other-in-laws aren't prohibited in Italy). Poor Muss. If he ~~thinks~~ he's having his troubles now, just wait until the spaghetti and olive oil begin to pile low. If only the Italians could be like Mahatma Gandhi, there'd be no food problem, but wouldn't the bambinos look sweet in nice white loin cloths and big shiny safety pins? I ask you.

Jim. How are you?" Said Adamic, "That could happen only in America."

The close relationship which our individual independence and freedom should create in reference to our servants in public office is peculiarly American. Through the system of elections we are able to exercise a close check on our representatives.

But we must eventually go a step beyond that. We must introduce more of the element of personal responsibility. The people must feel it toward the opportunities and privileges of democracy; the office-holders toward the people who are their sovereign and "in whose name and by whose will" they exercise their brief authority.

Lions vs. PMC On Dads Day

A TRIBUTE

When you speak of courage, spirit and loyalty think of Steve Plaskonos. He is the personification of all three. Steve has played his last college football game. An elbow infection that refuses to heal has forced Steve to lay away his uniform.

How well we will remember his fierce, rugged play that earned him the respect of every opposing linesmen in his three years of varsity competition. Plaskonos was a good college tackle. The players will tell you that Steve was the hardest worker on the squad. He will be missed by his teammates, coaches, fans.

The game is called touch football but it still is a rough sport. Ask the Pi Tau and A. P. O. players? From the reports we heard last Monday's game between the two clubs was a "knock 'em down and drag 'em out affair." The Chapel boys won, 12-2.

Big Frank Bertino isn't smiling much these days. The varsity right end lost a tooth in the second quarter of the Franklin and Marshall game. Pat Nappi, who missed the game because of an injury, spent the halftime intermission looking for the ivory but couldn't find it.

This is just a rumor. Stefanik, Moravian's powerhouse tackle, who has been the subject of debate between Gordon Williams of the Reading Times and Mr. Robert Basset, publicity director for the Greyhounds, is employed part time at the Bethlehem Steel Works. The burly Stefanik is also reported to be married and supporting a family. He is listed as a freshman but we haven't been able to find out which high school he attended.

Kappas Dominate In Frat Football

PI Taus, APO's Each Win One

	STANDINGS				P.A.	Pls.
	W.	L.	T.	P.F.
Kappas	6	0	1	156	12	13
Zetas	3	1	1	48	36	7
Day Men	2	2	2	26	42	4
Pi Tau	1	4	1	20	72	3
A. P. O.	1	5	0	12	71	2

Crushing everything in its path, the mighty Kappa's touch football aggregation continued to dominate the picture in the intra-mural football league. The Horn, Schneider, Kane, Hopkins, Shollenberger, Rhoads outfit ran its total of points scored to 156 by drubbing the second place Zetas 24-6.

The Pi Taus and A. P. O. entered the win column for the first time this year when in a series of two games the Pi Taus won 12-0 and lost 12-2.

15 Candidates Answer Court Call For Basketeers Start Practice

First Game With Moravian On December 6

Fifteen candidates will answer Coach Neal O. Harris' first call for basketball practice next Monday night on the 13th and Union grade school court.

First game is scheduled for Saturday, December 6, on the Northwest Junior High floor with Moravian. The Lion basketeers are slated to play 12 contests in the Eastern Penn Collegiate League Conference with eight exhibition tilts listed with some of the outstanding teams in the nation. Long Island University, University of Wyoming, and Villanova are among the top flight attractions.

Big Bill McKinney, Paul Petrucka and Leonard Sheffer were the only three cagers lost by graduation. McKinney and Petrucka were starters. Harris will be relying on a junior crew of Ken Hopkins, Chin Rhoads, Dick Shollenberger, Jim Kane and Bill Spangler. Other candidates are Burd Miller, Raymer Kent, George Horn, Samuel Sehl, and Paul Leinbach. Dewey Boltz, Tony Stish, George Manderbach, George Urosevich and Ralph Frymoyer are the newcomers up from last year's Frosh team.

J. Calwell Pomeroy will serve as senior manager with Paul Carls and George Marfogen as his aides.

Harris will also drill seven freshmen cagers who have served notice that they will try out for the yearlings team. They are Bill Dearden, John Patrician, Dick Stark, Russell Guensch, Tom McDonough, Walter Hauser, and Jimmy Bunn. Harris will welcome all other freshmen who are interested in trying for a place on the team.

Albright Hockeyites Receive Drubbing

Next Game With Lebanon Valley

Playing their first varsity hockey game of the year, the Albright girls were defeated by the Moravian team, who managed to roll over one lone goal. Although the Albright girls outplayed their opponents defensively, the forward wall didn't click when they were near the Moravian goal. The main stays of the Red and White team were diminutive Jeanie Bomgardner and fleet-footed Esther Whitehead who more than once sent the ball flying past the Moravian forward line. The girl who saved the day for Moravian was Gracie Lacy, the right inside.

The members of the Albright varsity team are Jean Seidel, Mary Levan, Kitty Geib, Bert Blauch, Lucy Griswold, Joanie Belmont (captain), Betty Laverty, Esther

3 Frats Receive Trophies

Three fraternities were honored with the presentation of awards for winning the championship in each of the four sports sponsored by the intra-mural athletic council last year.

The Zetas received a trophy for winning the softball championship last spring while the Kappas took two first place honors in touch football and track. The Alpha Pi Omega frat received the basketball award.

Freshman Gridders To Face Collegians

Green Gridders Aim For Win

Fresh from their 3-0 win over the Gablesville Owls, the Albright yearlings will pull their football machine out of the shadows of inactivity tonight when they meet the Neversink Collegians under the lights at 8 o'clock.

The Collegians, current holders of second place in the Greater Reading Football Conference, are coached by Andy Stopper, former All-American back at Villanova and now assistant coach at Reading High. Stopper will shoot the works in an effort to down the Cubs. John Smerick, six feet four inch end, and a backfield composed of Steve Homyack, George Grabowsky, both former Frackville High Stars, and Johnny Montz are the offensive aces.

Coach Harris will probably start the same line-up as faced the Owls. At left end will be Ralph Wagner, with Bill Dearden at the other terminal. Leon Cooper and Tiny Kratz are slated for the tackle berths. Bill Miksch and Bud Fromuth are sure to be in the middle of the line, separated by Ken Faylor, aggressive center.

In the backfield will be Ted Szela calling signals while Marty Greenberg and Ronny Ridolfi will occupy the halfback positions. At fullback will be Wally Duncavage, who will probably do most of the ball carrying. Probable lineups:

Collegians	Albright
Smerick	L.E. Wagner
Hick	L.T. Cooper
Pacifico	L.G. Fromuth
W. Grabowsky	C. Faylor
Kuhns	R.G. Miksch
Wainhold	R.T. Kratz
Arbuckle	R.E. Daerden
Daron	Q.B. Szela
G. Grabowsky	R.H. Greenberg
Montz	L.H. Ridolfi
Homyack	F.B. Duncavage

Whitehead, Jeanie Bomgardner, Irene Snyder, Polly Walls, Ann DeFarges, Irma Peoples, Ginny Morris, Mary Potteiger, Alda Matz, Dorothy Reber, Worm Leinbach, Betty Bradley, Jean Miller, Joanna Wentz, Elaine O'Shadey, and Aida Seltzer.

The next varsity hockey game is scheduled for Friday, November 14 at 3:30 p. m. At that time, the Albright team will tangle with Lebanon Valley. The Lebanon Valley girls will be guests of the college at dinner after the game, and they will also be invited to attend the sweater dance which is being sponsored by the W.A.A. that evening in the dining hall.

Bennett and Nappi Strengthen Offense By Their Return

Harpster, Plaskonos Confined To Bench Due To Injuries

Albright's footballers will attempt to gain their fifth win of the season tomorrow afternoon in the stadium at the expense of a well balanced Pennsylvania Military College eleven.

The Lion gridders have an added incentive to win for the benefit of an anticipated large "Dad's Day" crowd. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

Albright's offensive will be strengthened with the return of triple threat Bob Bennett and quarterback Pat Nappi. Bennett and Nappi missed the Franklin and Marshall tilt because of injuries but will be ready for action against the Cadets.

Dietz received a blow on Monday when it was learned that Jim Harpster suffered an injury against F. and M. and will not see action tomorrow. Harpster had been doing a fine job filling the shoes of Steve Plaskonos at the right tackle station. Now with both Harpster and Plaskonos sidelined with injuries, the hard-working Sid Disend gets his chance. Herb Derr, ponderous tackle, will be available for relief duty.

There is a possibility that Dick Weber may move over from his regular post at right guard to spell either Baum or Harpster at tackle. John Gasper, junior husky, will occupy Weber's place in that move. The rest of the starting line remains intact.

P. M. C. has a record of three wins and three losses. The soldiers from Chester, Pa., scored their biggest triumph over Lebanon Valley, 14-0, while the Roaring Lions lost to the Dutchmen, 27-13. The Cadets have registered wins over Blue Ridge and Washington College. West Chester, whom Albright beat 6-0, defeated P. M. C. 14-0. On the basis of comparative scores the outcome can be considered a toss up.

The Cadets, coached by Si Pauxtis, will field a starting forward wall that will match the Lions in weight. Stars are Bill Wilkins, left end; Bob Watkins, 220 pound tackle, and Captain Louis Dignazio, a veteran center. The Chester Countians are loaded with triple threat performers in the backfield. Pauxtis utilizes two complete sets of backs in his system.

The ball carriers will probably be Bennett, Jim Breen, Vic Gigli and powerful Stan Kukulis. In reserve will be hustling Wash Maholke, Mike Dutzer, Nappi, and powerhouse Chuck Klein, former Tamaqua High flash. Probable starting lineups:

P. M. C.	Albright
Wilkins	L.E. Spangler
Watkins	L.T. Baum
Orsini	L.G. Demidovich
Dignazio	C. Cocodrilli
Schaivo	R.G. Weber
Smith	R.T. Disend
Russo	R.E. Bertino
Lapolla	Q.B. Gigli
Glenn	L.H. Bennett
Bartolomco	R.H. Breen
Hartnett	F.B. Kukulis

Incensed by Incense

The "eathen Chinees" has taken one step too many. I don't mind giving him war materials to fight his battles. I don't mind being bothered by his pink elephants on a Sunday morning, but when he ships his (—) incense up to the science building and pollutes our sanctum sanctorum with it, then it's time to draw the line. As I entered the science building the other morning, I saw Prof George, handkerchief in hand, tears in his eyes, lamenting the evils of allowing the harbingers of fate to defile his sanctuery with smelly incense. Dr. Horn excitedly cornered me with this command—"Administer artificial respiration to the rats—immediately—use an oxygen tent if necessary, but save those poor rats. Well, finally things cooled down, all except me. My back is still sore from administering artificial respiration to one hundred rats, but not nearly so sore as I am at the "eathen Chinees" that sent — that incense over here.

Syntans—Synthetic Tanning

Speaking about innards, here's some inside dope on the recent Alchemist meeting. President Heisey, handling his first general Alchemist meeting of the year, very favorably impressed all the members of the organization by his dignified and academic presentation of Dr. Malcolm Reider. It hardly seems possible that a man of the chemical research world like Dr. Reider once occupied the shoes we now fill. Fortune will surely shine upon us if within the next ten years, we can educate ourselves to present a lecture on a par with Dr. Reider's lecture on "Syntans."

Super-Highway to Albright

On Monday evening at 8 o'clock, the Skull and Bones Society will hold their monthly meeting for November. Pictures on the super-highway of Pennsylvania will be shown by Mr. MacGovern, who is a member of the Super Highway Commission and director of landscaping for the highway. All members and interested students are cordially invited to attend.

IS FOR ZAMAK

ZAMAK is an alloy of zinc, aluminum and magnesium. It was most widely used in the manufacture of "housings" for telephone sets.

Now, however, new telephones are being made with plastic instead of Zamak "housings."

This is only one of many substitutions already made in the Bell System's program to cut down its use of vital defense materials. These substitutions are being made promptly because Bell Laboratories have been foresighted—preparing to meet the shortages before they happened.
