

Senate Aids New Dutch War Orphan

Marietje 'T Hoen, an eight-year-old Dutch girl, has been adopted by the Women's Student Senate under the Foster Parent Plan for War Orphans in place of Jerome Anseume, who is no longer in need of help under The Plan.

Marietje is the youngest of six children of Johannes and Johanna Kerkmans 'T Hoen. Johannes is 17, Thomas 16, Cornelis 14, Cornelia 12 and Batholomeus 10.

Father Killed

Mr. 'T Hoen was killed during the bombardment of Rotterdam when the Germans invaded Holland. Mrs. 'T Hoen and her little children were forced to evacuate and fled to the country. The years that followed brought great privation and suffering. Lack of proper food and extreme exposure left Thomas easy prey for tuberculosis from which he is only now recovering. When they returned to their home after liberation, it had been completely looted and they had nothing with which to start anew. Clothing and bedding is a crying need.

Mrs. 'T Hoen has tried earnestly to keep her children with her, but recently this became impossible without outside aid. Their plight was brought to Plan attention and the younger 'T Hoen children are now in Plan care. Johannes, the eldest boy, hopes to be accepted in the Royal Dutch Navy as soon as he reaches the proper weight requirement. All the children are sadly underweight and suffering from undernourishment and the aftermath of war. The immediate needs of the family have been met by The Plan.

Adopted

World Federalists Plan Local High School Programs

At the last meeting of the United World Federalists on Monday, January 10, Larry Bott, chairman of the Speakers Committee, reported that arrangements are being made to hold World Federalist programs in the local high schools.

A discussion group on world government will meet every Tuesday afternoon in Room 106, announced Lamarr Kopp, president of the Albright World Federalists.

A campus drive for people who are interested in the World Federalists, is being planned.

European Worker On Chapel Agenda

The Rev. O. Walter Wagner, a representative of the program of European relief and reconstruction of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, will speak about "Rehabilitation of Europe" in Chapel next Tuesday, January 18, and 20, at 11:10 a.m. in Union Hall.

Rev. Mr. Wagner spent the months from May to September in both 1946 and 1948 in Europe. In 1946 he worked in the interest of the interdenominational "Save the Child" program, and in 1948, in the interest of his denomination's relief and reconstruction program. His office is located in St. Louis, Mo.

Council Continues Talks on Women's Senate Problem

For the past several weeks the Student Council has been working on a proposal to combine the Daywomen's Organization and the Women's Dormitory Council under the Women's Student Senate. The plan would probably simplify the "go betweens" of the organizations and blend them into a more compact group.

Plans were in order until it was pointed out during a Council meeting that the Women's Student Senate has not gone through the necessary steps to become an authorized organization on campus. Although the group has been receiving appropriations from the College Administration, they have never submitted a copy of their constitution to Council for their approval. Until these necessary steps are taken care of, the Student Council cannot combine the two credited organizations, Daywomen and Dorm Council, with the supposedly non-existent Women's Student Senate.

Joan of Lorraine Posted as Spring Domino Production

Joan of Lorraine, famed dramatically by Maxwell Anderson, will be the Domino Club's spring production, Mrs. Annadora Vesper, director, announced yesterday. The play will be presented on March 9, 10, 11, and 12.

Evil for Good

The playwright has given new meaning to the old story of the maid of Lorraine, who, after leading the French Army to victory against overwhelming odds, is burned at stake.

Mr. Anderson shows how evil means may be employed to achieve ideal spiritual ends. He uses the theatre as a temple where any man can preach, provided he can attract an audience.

Cast Tryouts

Following try-outs this past week, the cast will be announced by Mrs. Vesper.

Radio Workshop Makes Plans for New Semester

At an executive meeting of the directors of the Radio Workshop on Tuesday followed by a regular staff meeting at station WFEU Wednesday evening, plans for the new semester were announced by Walter Hayum, Student Director. At the same time the following appointments and staff changes were made: Betty Ann Conn to be Apprentice Assistant Director, Allan Peyser to be Technical Producer and Robert White, Director of Research. The three newly appointed heads will pick their staff shortly from the Radio Workshop members.

Students Favor Purchase Cards

The NSA Purchase Card Committee announced today the results of the recent consensus of opinion, taken, with regard to the adoption of the Purchase Card Plan by Albrightians. The facts are as follows: 90% in favor of the plan, 9.99% no comment, and .01% not in favor of the plan.

A sincere thank you is extended to the student body for their cooperation in this matter, and with this splendid basis to work from, the committee is seeking to inaugurate the plan as speedily as possible.

IRC Plans Panel, Talk, Ursinus Visit

Plans for the next three meetings of the International Relations Club include a panel discussion, a joint meeting with the Ursinus College I.R.C. group and a talk by Dorothy Lewis, broadcasting director of the United Nations at Lake Success, N. Y.

The panel discussion will be the feature of the meeting to be held Wednesday, January 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lower Social Room. The joint meeting will be held in February, to be followed in March by Miss Lewis' talk.

Miss Lewis will discuss her observations at the recent Paris Conference and the importance of broadcasting in acquainting the public with the work of the United Nations.

Daywomen Amend Group Constitution

The Daywomen voted to add an amendment to their constitution at their last meeting on Wednesday, January 12. The amendment stated that the five representatives of the Daywomen's Council who become Student Council members are automatically the Daywomen's Council representatives.

All women interested in representing the Daywomen on Student Night are asked to see Joyce Thompson.

Evil for Good

Mr. Anderson shows how evil means may be employed to achieve ideal spiritual ends. He uses the theatre as a temple where any man can preach, provided he can attract an audience.

Cast Tryouts

Following try-outs this past week, the cast will be announced by Mrs. Vesper.

Greek Statesman, Author Slated for Cultural Series

Andre Michalopoulos, statesman, scholar, author and authority on international affairs, will address the Junior-Freshmen Chapel in Union Hall on Tuesday, February 15, announced Dr. Milton W. Hamilton, chairman of the College Cultural Programs. Mr. Michalopoulos, a former member of the Greek cabinet, is also recognized as an authority in the field of cultural criticism. He has been heard on various cultural radio programs in the country including "Invitation to Learning," for which he also served as moderator, "The Peoples Platform," "In My Opinion," and "The American Forum of the Air."

Registration Set For Next Friday

Registration for the second semester will take place on Friday, January 21, in Union Hall, announced Professor Newton S. Danford, College Registrar. Juniors and Seniors will report from 9:00 to 12:00 noon; Freshmen and Sophomores will register from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Students are requested to make out their programs well in advance by using the College Catalogue in order to avoid confusion at the time of registration," stated Professor Danford. No student will be allowed to carry more than 1 1/2 credit hours except by special permission of the Dean. A request for change of roster form must be submitted to the Dean for approval by those who desire to carry more than the maximum credit hours; this request is usually granted to "B" - average students.

Michalopoulos began his eventful career as private secretary to Prime Minister Venizelos of Greece in 1917, and in 1918 was appointed Civil Governor of the islands, Lemnos, Imbros, Tenedos, and Samothrace in the North Aegean Sea. He graduated as an Honor Graduate of Humanities from Oxford University in 1920 and spent the following year touring the United States, Central and South America. In 1922-23, he attended the peace conference in Lausanne, Switzerland for the settling of Near Eastern affairs and before retiring in 1926 to become managing director of the Athens Waterworks Corporation, he served two years as Governor of the island of Corfu.

Greek Cabinet Member

During the Greco-Italian war, which started in 1940, Mr. Michalopoulos broadcast nightly from Athens a fifteen minute news commentary in English. Later, he was sent by the Greek government to Egypt where he established the National Committee of Greeks in Egypt, of which he was the secretary-general.

In September, 1941, he accepted a cabinet appointment as Minister of Information with the Greek Government-in-Exile in London. He held this post until May, 1943 and it was in this capacity that he came to the United States in July, 1942, for six months.

In 1945 Michalopoulos became the Minister Plenipotentiary for Greece to the United States, but resigned in the spring of 1946, being out of sympathy with the reactionary government then established in Athens. Since that time, he has written, lectured and broadcast on international and European affairs.

Council Again Makes Chapel Hit With "Homo Sapiens Are Funny"

Well, char my face and all me Mrs. Vesper, Albright has finally proven that "Homo Sapiens are Humorous!" and Tuesday's Chapel had some good illustrations.

Jack Gounder started the program of like a shot out of a cannon by sending that ex-football, John Scholastico, off to Penn Square to try to sell a ring to some female by-passer. While he was gone the show continued as John Kucha and Mrs. Vesper, both blindfolded, fed each other tasty little charred marshmallows. It was a dark sight, believe me. For this performance Mr. Kucha won a pair of rubber pants for the new addition to his family and Mrs. Vesper won a refrigerator.

Next Mrs. Robert Reed found that after three months of marriage she still didn't know her own husband's lap. Mr. Gounder had four handsome specimens of Albright men, Robert Bardorf, Thomas Barnett, Ed Anlian, and George Baumgaertel come up and sit on the stage. Mr. Reed was supposedly placed among them, but he was replaced by Sterling Rickenbach. Unfortunately, Mrs. Reed, who was blindfolded, thought Bob Bardorf was her husband. As a prize Mrs. Reed won a can opener and Mr. Reed received some Alka Seltzer.

Piano Selections

Finally we discovered that Albright had different talent. Rickenbach aptly played two Russian piano selections, Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Minor and Sabre Dance. Dorace Hornberger beautifully sang "All the Things You Are" and "Sweethearts." Janet Tonkin accompanied her.

Albright Quartet

Glenn Bailey brought us back to the realm of good music by singing "David and Goliath." Miss Tonkin again accompanied. The Albright Quartet put the finishing touches to the program with those good old barbershop renditions of "Goodbye My Coney Island Baby," "Eight Bells," and "Climbing up the Mountain."

But wait! Solostico is back with a woman. He had quite a time. One woman he asked to buy the ring even threatened to call the police. Finally he had some luck and sold the ring to Miss Josephine Rendazzo who came back to school with him. Thus ended Albright's version of "Homo Sapiens Are Humorous." Before trudging back to the dorm we want to add a hearty thanks to all who put on such a terrific program.

Shall We Sit or Stand?

We, as college students, are considered capable of judging between right and wrong. We are generally thought of as people who use good judgment. However, many times we fail to realize the damage that we unintentionally cause.

Three truckloads of classroom furniture have been repaired since last September. Or, may we say, that three truckloads of classroom furniture have been broken and damaged since the beginning of school last fall. During the Christmas vacation, all the broken furniture was repaired before classes were resumed last week. Two days were spent in repairing broken chairs alone.

Last week four more chairs were broken in classrooms in the Science Hall. Do these facts point to evidence that we have been taking care of the classroom furniture which we use?

No, we certainly do not mean to be destructive. However, there are so many of us who do not realize how much damage can be done merely sitting on the arms of chairs, twisting our feet around the rungs of the chairs, or propping our feet on the seats of the chairs.

We sincerely hope that the mere mention of this problem will correct it. College students need only to be reminded of a wrong that they are doing unintentionally. Can't we try to be a little more careful in the use of our classroom furniture so that we have furniture that is in good condition?

A Step Outside

With exams only a week away, we know fairly well what we'll be doing for the next few weeks. But after the exams, we will want a breather. Just for vacation, we might try to critically evaluate a few of the things which have been popping up around the world. A number of these items we should not want to take at face value.

How about the snow-job which Russia has been giving out all along? The most recent strategy has been to propagandize the Germans into thinking they ought to join the Russian orbit. The general idea which they expound runs something like this: The French are the traditional enemies of Germany; England is a weak power; the U.S. will forget Germany for domestic issues; and Russia and Germany were friends from the days of the Weimer Republic, even in 1939 and 1940. To cover themselves with angelic white wash, the Russians have rumored that they might shortly pull their troops out of Eastern Germany, just as they did in Korea. That, on the surface, sounds mighty noble. It makes the U.S. appear, unintentionally of course, as the big bully who insists on keeping her troops in Germany. But the real meaning comes out when we examine the situation more closely. A country which uses terror, intrigue, and purges to establish itself, need not keep troops in an occupied country, not after the aid of all the power-seeking turn-coats of the country have been enlisted to carry on the work.

Another little item which deserves our attention is the indignation U.S. customs officials have caused Lucky Luciano. He was blamed for the shipment of illicit drugs to a Mr. Ralph Jimenez in New York. The fact that Mr. Luciano was one of our first class gangsters back in 1945 is no reason, to him at least, that he should be suspected of shipping the drugs which come out of his district in Rome. Mr. Luciano was deported from the U.S. to Italy in February, 1946 with the charges of white slavery and narcotics peddling against him. Lucky Luciano has been working during the past year and a half to legally regain entrance into the U.S. For this purpose he has employed publicity agents to cause him to appear acceptable for re-entrance.

So what have we been writing about up to this point?—national gangsterism, and an individual international gangster. How about the situation right here at home, here in Reading, Pa.? Are we free of shady doings? A situation came up about

There's magic in a smile, and enchantment in dark eyes that crinkle charmingly at the corners, in dimples that appear suddenly in smooth cheeks. There's charm in every one of this diminutive lass's sixty inches. She radiates it and her friendliness compels response. You acknowledge the fitness of her name, which means First Blessing. Kazuye Kiyono, or Kazie as she is called, may well be a blessing wherever she goes.

Kazie would shrug deprecatively if you ever complimented her on her activities. Her modesty, however, does not alter the fact that she is secretary of Skull and Bones, vice president of the Y.W.C.A., a member of the International Relations Club, and also an excellent student. Our Dandy Lion's pleasant speaking voice suggests that she has been a decided asset to the Mixed Chorus, and incidentally, her drawing talents far exceed the stumbling efforts of the average victim of a Fine Arts Course. They contributed much to her success last year as chairman of the Publicity Committee of the "Y."

Kazie claims reading, knitting, listening to music, and drawing as her favorite diversions. Though she dislikes perfume, we hear that the scent of American Beauty roses is in a class by itself, especially if a certain person sends them.

The lady takes a science course and is a biology major. After graduation she plans to enter the field of laboratory research. We're sure she'll be successful, but then it's hardly necessary to wish her a lot of Good in the future, is it?

Committee File . . . Council Publicity Always at Work

by
Chairman, Ray Schlegel

Publicity for all-school events under the jurisdiction of Student Council is the primary purpose of Council's Publicity Committee. As an innovation in the 1948 season, the committee endeavored to provide the spark of school spirit by placing signs around the campus announcing each football game, and the Lions' determination for a victory.

Homecoming was fittingly advertised with signs welcoming the alumni, as was the Pennsylvania Regional Convention of N.S.A. with a huge banner to make the delegates feel at home here at Albright.

The chairman of the committee wishes to extend his thanks to Jim Raab, the amateur sign painter with the professional touch and also to John Weiss, who tried earnestly to make a student trip to Lebanon Valley successful.

As an added feature, the committee has assumed financial responsibility for the Student Council "Whip." It is hoped that this addition will boost Council's attendance 100%.

We, of the Publicity Committee, sincerely hope that our efforts have been keeping you, the student body, aware of the many important activities under Student Council's jurisdiction.

fourteen days ago; it isn't a closed case to date. New Year's Eve, our local get-rich-quick boys ushered in a full-blast operation of slot machines. The peculiar part of this story is that at almost the same time, slot machines which had been picked up a few months before were being destroyed in the basement of the Court House at Sixth and Washington Streets. It seems that these machines had been outlawed by some sort of edict. The new machines came in en masse as though the operators had watched the horoscope for the opportune day. The law banning slot machines is still in effect. However, our mayor and D.A. Messrs. Davis and Ruth have made little comment on what's to be done about the new machines.

We might find some of these items interesting to look into after all. In spite of exams and in spite of our attending college, we are still very closely connected, for better or worse, with what takes place around us.

Reds Infiltrate Campus; Paper Launches Probe

No sooner had the All-American Chicago Tribune announced its discovery of communist-activities in colleges like Harvard, Princeton, and Yale, when our Feature Editor called me into the office. "Dahling," she purred, "we can't lag behind the Ivy League. Go out and find some communists!" That evening I trotted home, "Das Kapital" under my right arm, a pumpkin under my left arm. I needed the pumpkin to store my information in, because I realized that a pumpkin is so much safer than a vault.

My first observation of communist activity took place in the College Dining-Hall. As I was about to enter, I overheard three fellows comment that there were to be seating-arrangements with Seniors serving as hosts. "Class distinction!" shouted a little Freshman with all the bitterness of an old party member. I decided to observe him for the rest of the night. Once seated at a nearby table, I noticed that two of the girls at his table wore red dresses, and extremely short hair. This entire investigation seemed almost too simple for a reporter who successfully completed Dr. Doud's Journalism class with a D. An assignment was an assignment, however, and in my devotion to duty I almost forgot to eat my enriched Mystery Balls a la Albright. My conscientiousness paid off. Suddenly the little freshman smiled at the waitress and whispered "Don't work too hard!" An obvious trick to spread dissatisfaction among the working classes, I thought to myself (proud of my foresight for having enrolled in Professor Rusby's class on Labor Problems). The chain of revealing exposures in the Dining-Hall made the entire meal pass in a matter of seconds. Once through dinner, I rushed home and typed my notes on my first undercover discoveries. Then I turned out the lights, pulled down my shades, and hid the first results of my labor in the pumpkin. Next I carried the pumpkin to the porch and attached to it a sign. "Please do not touch!"

New Facts Uncovered

The telephone rang, and upon answering it, I found to my delight that one of my old flames was at the other end of the line. We still remained friends for the intellectual companionship we were able to give to each other, she being one of the few girls that delights in reading a paper once a week, or even twice during the rainy ones. No sooner did I inform her of my assignment, when she gave me many valuable additional hints. There was the matter of Professor Gates being left-handed, and Professor Harding slighting the Puritans on occasions. There was the matter of non-paid Junior Class fees. Not easily overlooked was the bitter fact that the Pi Tau Beta pledges last spring wore red helmets, and were stopped in this mass-demonstration only by the daring courage of a faculty member.

Explosive Issue

The entire issue seemed so involved and dangerously explosive to me that I decided to break the case wide open. I ran back to campus to the Freshman House, and pulled the little frosh, whom I suspected to be the ring-leader, out of bed. "Confess, you un-Albrightian scoundrel," I shouted, "who sent you to this College?" He looked at me, his face ashen with fear, and whispered in reply: "I came on an American Legion Scholarship!" I withdrew, disgusted and bitter, with the promise to devote my remaining days at Albright College to exposing communist activities. I may have been misled once, but through it I have learned that in this business you can't trust anyone, any hunch, or anything—not even pumpkins.

W.W.H.

• UP and OUT •

Chalk one up . . .

To the W.A.A. for a swell dance last Friday night.

To our basketball team. Let's keep the wins going. We're all behind you!

To our little Dutch girl, Maria T. Hoen, our new Xmaser Child.

To all Juniors who have paid their dues.

To Prof. Rudy . . . on general principals.

To all newly engaged couples.

To the Student-Faculty talent show presented in this week's chapel program. Who knew where what talent lay within our midst?

To last Sunday's Student-Faculty Vespers and buffet dinner.

These are some of the things that make Albright the friendly place it is.

Cross one out . . .

For our Student Council representatives who don't attend Council meetings?

For all students who have to be reminded daily to PAY THEIR DUES. Don't you know it's for your own benefit?

For old man winter who seems to have fallen down on his job!

For some of the unnecessary red tape we have to go through in order to get things done.

For all those who can't find time to come out and root for our team.

We'll bet that the B-Tween Club at the Y.W.C.A. is still buzzing about Kay Collins' budget lecture, illustrated with a fashion show which revealed the modeling technique of campus co-eds. Who wouldn't be glad for a few hints on what's best in a limited wardrobe? If the numbers in front of those dollar signs continue increasing, we'll have lectures on what to wear instead of clothing.

Demonstrations

Speaking of demonstrations, Peggy Pringle, Beverly Morgan, and Janet Coombs are practicing for one on "The Theory of Meat Cookery." The Ladies' Auxiliary will be the audience, and it's surprising how much the women are impressed by the knowledge of cooking of this younger set.

Kitzmiller's Discovery

The freshmen are busy planning their term problems on experiments with food or methods of preparation. There should be plenty of samples if you happen to pass the lab at the right time. Ginny Kitzmiller discovered last year that a juicy steak has the most helpful effect on chemistry lab assistants. Note to freshmen who are chewing their nails about chemistry marks

Watch It Men

The sophomore nutrition class found that they had an interesting term problem when they started collecting the diets of dorm and day students to determine what kind of mumbo-jumbo is consumed. At last we know why Ronnie Romig is passing biology with flying colors; he eats Wheaties every morning. Al Sheffer will soon be saying mo instead of hello, if he continues drinking three quarts of milk a day. Fred Neuroth really took us literally when we said record everything you eat, so the result was—Sunday supper, dessert, and six sensens.

We'll let you know the detailed results when the problem is finished, and our only advice for now is keep eating to keep living.

Pigskins Have Two Victories to Lead In National League

Pi Taus, Rockets, and Kappas Vie For American Laurels

Getting off to a good start in the Intramural Basketball Leagues last week, the Pigskins assumed the number one slot in the National League by defeating the Sleepers, 26-25 and by virtue of a forfeit win over the Warriors. Leonardo and Savage led the attack with six points a piece.

In the same league the Sleepers trounced the Hot Shots 40-29, in a rampaging game. The Hot Shots were leading until the last period when the Sleepers suddenly caught fire with Moyer and Reaser sinking seemingly impossible shots from every angle. For six minutes the Sleepers did not miss a basket they attempted, dropping 17 straight points.

Furious Frosh Split Two

The Furious Frosh team split two games, beating the Shooting Stars 39-26 and losing to the Hot Shots 35-31. John "Ace" Angstadt was high scorer in the win, and bagging 16 in the win, and 15 points in the losing cause, in the final game the Warriors dropped their second straight by forfeit, this time to the Shooting Stars.

In the American League, the Pi Taus tripped the KTX, 39-15, and the Red Rockets led by Fred Roland and Mart Rosen with 8 points each, triumphed over the APO's 30-23. The Kappa's displayed considerable power beating the Zeta's 33-13. Gene Schollenberger and Stew Beyerle were high for the Kappa's, accounting for 11 and 8 points respectively.

Kittens Ready to Meet Frosh Hawks; Bounce Docs, 41-20

Leitham, Mogel and Moyer Spark Drive

When the junior varsity Lions come on the Northwest floor tomorrow against the topnotch St. Joseph's Frosh, they will be proudly sporting a record of five victories in seven starts.

The Baby Cats downed Dickinson 65-51 and the Wernersville Docs 42-20 in two easy contests last week at Carlisle and Northwest. An undefeated team of "old men" couldn't do much against the stamina-packed youths, as the Docs fell quickly in the first quarter 17-7. Dick Leitham, Blacky Moyer, and Ossie Mogel paved the way to a 25-13 half time edge. Although the Docs worked desperately to pull down a 30-17 deficit during the final period, no combination could muster enough power to overcome the Kittens who confidently purred on to the last second. The Docs had previously copied nine straight encounters.

Trim Dickinson, 65-51

Adding a soothing touch to the varsity's fateful journey to Carlisle, the J.V.'s shot-out a decisive 65-51, triumph over the Red Devil freshmen. The starting five of Dick Leitham, Walt Fox, Mogel, Moyer, and Leitham added up 63 of the total markers. Mogel headed the pack with a nice sum of 21 for his evening's labor.

The Cat's Meow by Scratch

Watching him perform on the hardwood, you'd guess him to be a seasoned senior with years of collegiate experience behind him instead of a mere sophomore just up from freshman team of last year. By now you ought to know who the Cat's Meowing about this week. He's a dead set shot—that ought to give it to you. Yes sir, it's Danny Bieber, the boy who looks as relaxed when he runs that he seems to float along. Our 6' 2" forward plays with the smoothness and finesse of a veteran, being an accurate shot with either hand and a capable floor man.

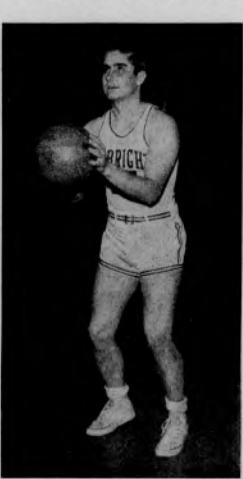

He is best known for his deadly set-shot which he can flick off his finger tips in a second. The shot takes a very high arc but rarely fails to drop through the net. His other talents include just about everything necessary for being a standout ball player; height, deft passing ability, and that old "moxie", the competitive desire to win.

Received R.H.S. Award

Although Dan is only a sophomore, he has already established an impressive record as a hoop star both in high school and in last year's Freshman competition. At Reading High Danny played J. V. and varsity ball and received the coveted Johnny Smith Most Valuable Player award in his senior year while amassing 159 points. Last year, as most of you remember, Dan was the high scorer and sparkplug of our Lion J. V. outfit tallying the convincing total of 237 points.

Mr. Bieber learned a lot of his basketball practicing with his older brother, Pat, on the famed Oliver Boy's Club floor, where all four walls and the ceiling are 22 bounds and two and a half steps takes you from one basket to the other. But if Danny is the type of ball player the "marchbox" produces, maybe we ought to send a few more boys down there to practice.

Ursinus First Foe Of Lionesses Sat.

Tomorrow morning the girls' varsity basketball team will raise the curtain on the 1949 season when they travel to Philadelphia to meet the classy lassies of Ursinus. Still smarting from last year's one point defeat, the Albrightians are looking forward to an avenging change.

Besides having a psychological edge in their favor, the phys. ed. majors have the advantage in games already played having had an early start last month. Our Red and White, in addition, will be finding themselves on a strange floor for their debut. With only a scattered few, but hard work-a-scrimmages to back them up, the Lionesses will be banking on plenty of enthusiasm to put them through.

Zeock Sets Pace

Pace-setter, Mary Zeock and co-partners, Nancy Stump, Jean Schwartz, Jean Long, Micky Roney, and Jaet Price will pair with the other side of the line, Anna Lauver, Shirley Johnson, Betty Sarge, and Sylvia Happaugh, who share the work with the newcomers Barbara Wisley and Mary Swartz, in trying to hold down the fast cutting Bears. With games definitely in view for next semester, the girls are concentrating on this one early season target-Ursinus. There will be time later to think of Beaver, Temple, East Stroudsburg, Drexel, and Millersville.

SIDE LIONS

Statistics for the season including the Juniata game show Albright has on the average been scoring on a very equal basis with the opponents. The Cats had collected 458 and their foes 459 up to that time. Anlian was the leader in the scoring parade with 142.

In 1946-47, the Harris coached team reached their peak in total game scoring, when in 24 contests they hit the hoops for 1487 points. Last season under Bill Horine the opposition had their largest total with 1272 in 28 frays. The win-loss records was 15-9 and 11-12 respectively in those years.

Lions Engage St. Joe Again Wednesday in 8 p.m. Opener At Convention Hall Debut

Furious Contests Expected with Hawks After Juniata Drubbed, 83-45 To End Losing Streak of Five Games

Back on the long end of the score once again with a spectacular comeback-victory of 83-45 against Juniata after a five-game skid, Coach Neal Harris' Albright charges will be traveling in fast company tomorrow night when they entertain the dangerous St. Joseph's Hawks in Northwest at 8:30. Our jayvees oppose the St. Joe frosh in the 7 p.m. prelin. On Wednesday the Red and White visit the Hawks in a return engagement in Convention Hall, Philadelphia. Game time for this opener will be 8:00 p.m. The second half of the twin bill will find La Salle meeting the Temple Owls at 9:30.

If the Harrismen expect to pull any major upset during this 1948-49 court campaign, tomorrow is their best opportunity left, inasmuch as the Albrightians will be in their home-waters against the nation's best quintets for the last time this season.

Three Veterans Replaced

At the opening of the basketball warfare, St. Joe Coach Bill Ferguson was faced with the task of replacing three veterans of last year's mythical Philadelphia champions. Missing from that bunch which won 13 and lost 11 are Captain Bill Maher, lost by graduation, Al Guokas, who signed a pro contract, and Ed O'Halloran, who did not return to the team this year. But the Philadelphiaans still have on tap sharp-shooting Paul Senesky, last year's leading Philly district scorer with 419 points; Jack Ramsey, one-handed shot artist; Tom Frein, 5' 10" junior, and big Hank Dudek, 6' 4" center. Coach Ferguson is also using 6-foot Paul McDermitt to fill Maher's shoes, Jack Welsh, 6' 4" junior, at Guokas' pivot spot, and sophomore Jack Lister, a fast, aggressive fighter under the backboards. Also included on the roster are Bob Benson, Don Clifford, John Grohene, John Neifert, Frank Sillits, Joe Vessner, and Bob Didyoung, a Reading Central Catholic product.

St. Joe made an auspicious opening of this year's campaign with six wins in a row over St. Francis, 90-65; Lock Haven, 83-53; Tennessee, 63-68; West Chester, 63-41; Oklahoma, 46-45; and Mt. St. Mary's 63-57. (Zen the going got rough as the top western teams invaded the East and toppled the Crimson and Gray in the following fashion: Texas; Utah, 78-54; Western Kentucky, 86-69; and then C.C.N.Y., 60-53.)

Lions Seek Revenge

Because of these recent setbacks Zeock's fellows will really be tough to stop from starting another win streak at the Lions' expense. Last year St. Joe tripped Albright 57-48 at Northwest when Jack Ramsey and Bob O'Driscoll shared 25 points and Ed Anlian showed the way for the locals with 18. Near the end of the season, the Cats trocked to the City of Brotherly Love and received a cordial 92-72 thumping. In that scrap, nevertheless, Ossie Kriebel and Ed Anlian divided 44 counters on the loser's scoring sheet.

Two platoons and the fast break were the Albright combination that snapped a five-game losing streak in overwhelming the Juniata Indians, 83-45, on the spacious Northwest floor last Saturday night. It was the third win posted in eight starts. Coach Neal Harris initiated the new brand of basketball after dropping temporarily the old pivot-play system which had failed to prove as crushing to our opponents. The effect was devastating for the visiting tribe and pleasing to all spectators.

Centers Lead Attack

Lanky centers, Lee Cappel and Ossie Kriebel showed the worth amply by ably recovering rebounds and executing varied types of lay-up shots. Cappel, playing in the second and fourth quarters gained 13 markers, while Kriebel, a member of the first platoon racked up 11. Eddie Anlian topped both teams with 20 points. For Juniata, Holmes Ush, and Bud Kridler divided 25 tallies.

Coach Harris started the game with an entirely new quintet consisting of Mort Witman and Eddie Anlian in the forward slots Kriebel at center, and Elmer Davis and Hops Guldin in the guard positions. This swift moving, ball-hawking, sharp-shooting combine built up a quick Lion lead of 18-7 in the first period, the Indians only scoring after lagging behind 9-0.

In the second quarter, Harris' second five appeared. At the forward positions were Danny Bieber and Bob Ruoff; in the center slot, Cappel; and in the guard spots were Forest Saylor and John McKenna. This squad upped the Albright lead to 37-14.

Mort Witman began second half scoring with an early field goal. Hops followed with a perfect shot from the side, only to be outdone by two field goals from the skillful hands of Eddie Anlian. This was a typical panorama of Albright's third quarter scoring which gained 25 points to the Indians.

Tickets Available for Convention Hall Fray

Tickets are available in the office of the Director of Athletics, first floor of the Ad Building, for the doubleheader basketball game at Convention Hall, Philadelphia, Wednesday, January 19. Albright meets St. Joseph's in the opener at 8 p.m. and Temple versus La Salle at 9:30 p.m. in the nightcap. The cost for the two games is $1.30 for students and $2.60 for regular patrons.

dians meager 12 and placed the count at 62-26. Anlian sparked the Lions for 13 of the 26 total. Another team of Lillis, Chelius, Cappel, Yocum, and Saylor kept the substantial lead in tact during the final stanza.

Dickinson Hot

On January 5, however, the Lions has surprisingly lost their fifth in succession to a hepped-up Dickinson College team, 56-41, at Carlisle. The fiery Red Devils led all the way, the Lion's closest approach being a 46-37 count early in the fourth frame.

Elmer Davis started a futile third stanza rally with a pair of field goals, and was followed with a basket and two free throws by Guldin, that placed the score at 40-31. Anlian's two duces and Cappel's one only countered three more by the Red Devils who went on to ice the 56-44 verdict.

Eugene Evans piled up 19 markers and Bill Overholt 12 for the victors, as Anlian and Guldin split 23 points.

Greek Statesman

In his address, Andre Michalopoulos will discuss more specifically the problems of Europe, the Mediterranean and Balkan Nations, as well as those of his own country, Greece. Unlike the Utopian idealist, he is fully aware that the attainment of a federal union of the West is no easy matter. He most definitely holds that accommodation with Russia does not mean appeasement and that until Russia gives proof of a sincere desire to seek accommodation with the West, the West must remain ceaselessly vigilant in safeguarding the liberties and human rights which are the fundamental principles of its civilization.

Dr. Harry V. Masters, President
Albright College
Reading, Pennsylvania
Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Albright College NSA Committee, we would like to take this opportunity to thank you and the administration for your very wonderful help and cooperation in the planning and administration of the recent Pennsylvania Regional Conference of N.S.A. We were deeply grateful and proud of Albright College when we learned that the executive committee of PRUSNSA felt that this conference had been the most successful one held to date on any campus. Our NSA committee is justly proud that our campus was selected for this conference and more than ever have come to realize how necessary harmonious student-administration relationship is to everything we do.

Harry Brown, President of the PRUSNSA, requested our committee to extend his thanks for the administration's help and to present to the College a check for the inconvenience caused them by the conference.

Very truly yours,
William Carson, President Student Council
Doris Chanin, Co-Chairman of NSA Committee
Jerry Dersh, Co-Chairman of NSA Committee

Mr. William Carson, Jr.
President Student Council
Albright College
Reading, Pa.

Dear Mr. Carson:

A letter such as the one which I recently received under date of January 3, signed by you, Doris Chanin, and Jerry Dersh, is greatly appreciated. The check for $50.00 is a splendid evidence of the appreciation of the PRUSNSA for the use of facilities here. Much as this material evidence of appreciation means, the still greater satisfaction to us is the very evident, fine reaction from the visitors who were here on our campus during those days, and the pride which our students have in Albright College. It does all of us good to have others make commendatory statements regarding institutions with which we are closely associated, in this case, Albright College.

Our Albright College students who had responsibilities in connection with this convention did a very fine job. I have heard a number of comments to that effect. I can truthfully say that the administration of Albright College was proud of the contributions of our students to this convention. It was a very profitable occasion, apparently, for both students and the College. We were happy to have had a part in it. I would appreciate having you express to the Student Council our commendation of the fine manner in which the convention was handled, and particularly our appreciation of the very splendid work of our own Albright College students.

Sincerely yours,
Harry V. Masters

Rev. Wetzel K.T.X. Speaker

Rev. Daniel J. Wetzel, pastor of the First Reformed Church of Reading, spoke on "The Church and the Individual," at the Kappa Tau Chi meeting on Thursday, January 6, in the Daymen's Room. Following a short devotional service led by Fred Meek and Art Lockner, Rev. Eugene Barth, advisor to the K.T.X. introduced the principal speaker.

Rev. Wetzel said that there are four conceptions of the church today: the congregation, the denomination, Protestantism and Catholicism, and the Universal Church. "The minister's biggest problem," he said, "is combatting the small, localized conception of the church."

Stressing the last of the four, he brought out the fact that the Universal Church is more than a mere fellowship; it is a belonging together of all peoples. The realization of the sense of belonging must be constantly fostered. By means of the four conceptions he lifted the group's idea of the church from the local congregation to the mind of God.

After the address, a business meeting was held. Plans for the forthcoming annual banquet, to be held next month, were discussed.

The next meeting of the K.T.X. will be held on February 20, when new members will be inducted.

The business meeting was conducted by Helen Capozello, president. Plans were discussed for a theater party to see the movie, "Joan of Arc," which is expected to come to Reading late in February.

Miss Capozello announced that the next meeting will be held on February 14 and will have a Valentine theme.

Mr. William W. Carson, Jr.
President, Student Council
Albright College
Reading, Pa.

Dear Bill:

I want to take this opportunity to thank you, the members of Student Council, and all the students involved for the splendid public relations job done through the NSA conference recently held on our campus.

Good public relations for a college does not just happen, nor is it the result of the work of one individual only; it is the sum total of all good impressions made by the institution itself and by all the persons connected with it.

Because our students so willingly accepted and efficiently discharged the responsibilities of the conference, Albright is held in greater esteem by the college students of Pennsylvania. We appreciate it and know that both students and faculty will continue to assume their share of responsibility in building good public relations for Albright.

Sincerely,
Lester L. Stabler
Director of Public Relations

Congrats W.A.A. For Swell Dance

That enjoyable dance you were at Friday night, January 7 in Union Hall was sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association.

If you had taken your eyes off your date for just one second you would have noticed the charming decorations which made for a delightful atmosphere. The music of the "Celebrities" added to it.

After dancing from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m., you were probably dying of thirst and partook of the tasty refreshments that were served. Mrs. Eva Mosser, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Harris, and Mr. Lloyd Parsons acted as chaperones.

All in all we'd like to thank the W.A.A. for a wonderful dance and a terrific evening. Our special thanks go to Jane Roney, Jean Magee, and Betty Sarge, decorations; Jean Long, orchestra; Anna Lauer and Clea Rein, refreshments.

Rev. Price Discusses

"High Visibilities at Faculty-Student Vesper"

Speaking on the theme "High Visibilities," the Rev. Paul Price, pastor of Park Evangelical United Brethren Church, told a large audience at Faculty-Student Vespers last Sunday that men today must rise in ideals, for vision and spiritual power. "We must face forward up the hill of God to find the true expression of life inspired by the blessings from the heart of God," he said.

Rev. Mr. Price declared that a college career is a test of one's powers of perception. Tomorrow all of us must be greater than today," he challenged. "We must make the dream of God for the world of tomorrow to become the dream of man." The speaker said that life's goodness comes only as man keeps his ideals high and gives his best to life. He noted that one should pray for tasks to exceed his powers so that these powers may increase and one's life deepen.

Robert Close and Phyllis Oberholzer participated in the devotional service. David DeWitt sang "Teach Us to Pray." The hymns were "Rise Up O Men of God" and "A Mighty Fortress is Our God." A buffet supper followed the service, which was sponsored by the campus "Y" organizations.
