Kressler To Fill Y Presidency As B. Pomroy Resigns

Evelyn Kressler, '53, vice-president of the Y.W.C.A., will take office as president for the second semester in place of Mrs. Barbara Pomroy, who had to resign because of the press of other duties. Mrs. Pomroy stated that she felt the Y would suffer if she continued as president because of her inability to devote sufficient time to the group.

Miss Kressler, a sociology major, was Y secretary last year. She has served as chairman of the racial equality commission and is a member of the Y choir and Phi Beta Mu.

Co-chairman of the sports night program to be held Saturday, March 28 will be Max Nuscher, '54, and Ramona Latorre, '52, it was announced at last Tuesday's cabinet meeting. The program has been postponed from the original February 29 date. Lloyd Sturtz and William Glant, '53, will be in charge of soliciting patrons for the programs.

Patricia Miller, '53, and James Barrett, '54, were named co-chairmen for the spring Y retreat. Leonard Buxton, '52, resigned his commission chairmanship.

Haslam to Speak

Herbert Haslam, the new director of Fellowship House, will be the guest speaker at the Y meeting on Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m. in the lower social room.

Since Haslam has spent the past eight months working in Mexico for the American Friends Service Commission, he will talk about the social reform in Mexico and how they are related to problems in the United States.

Haslam has been working with the Philadelphia Fellowship House for the past four years.

Staff Tryouts Planned for Spring

Tryouts for 1952-53 Albrightian editorial board positions and plans for the spring issues will be discussed at the first second-semester meeting of the entire staff, William A. Heck, '52, editor-in-chief, announced. The meeting will be held Friday, February 15, in room 203 of the administration building.

Three positions now filled by seniors will be open to present underclassmen in the fall. These are editor-in-chief, business manager and copy editor.

The other editorial board positions—news editor, feature editor and sports editor—are currently filled by underclassmen. Heck pointed out that these students may retain their present posts next year or apply for other duties.

Any present member of The Albrightian staff who expects to return to Albright in September may apply for editorial board positions, Heck said. He noted that unless unusual circumstances warrant otherwise, candidates for the editorship and business managership should be prospective seniors.

Trustee Session Looms

The annual meeting of the board of trustees will be held Wednesday and Thursday, February 6 and 7.

The first session will begin at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in Selwyn Hall parlor. At 6 there will be a faculty and trustee dinner in the Berkshire Hotel.

WAA, Council Plan May Queen Election; February Graduates To Be Honored

Students Criticized For Blocking Doors

Election of a May Queen, maid of honor and queen's court will take place early in the second semester, William A. Heck, '52, chairman of the student activities committee of student council, announced at Tuesday's meeting.

The exact election dates will be determined after a consultation with representatives of the Women's Athletic Association, sponsors of the May Day activities, Lynn Russo, '52, mistress of ceremonies, and Margery Mansfield, '52, custodian of the crown.

May Day is scheduled for Saturday, May 10.

Dinner Scheduled

Council voted upon a menu of breast of chicken at the annual dinner for February graduates and council members, to be held next Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Thomas Jefferson Tea Room. Seventeen graduates will be honored at this affair.

A communication was received from the faculty committee on religious activities concerning a council request that the doors to Union Hall be kept open until 11:15 a. m. on the days of chapel. Council felt that many students were unable to get to Union Hall in time and hence were locked out of chapel.

The communication indicated that the committee feels that the chief fault lies with the students, who block the entrance by standing in the lobby and outdoors until the last minute. If council acts to correct this situation and students still are locked out, the doors may remain open until 11:15.

Vincent Gentile, '52, chairman of the social committee, informed council that last Friday's dance was well attended during the hour following 10 o'clock, but that very few were there before that time. He stated that a dance will be held tonight in Union Hall with music provided by records.

Since only 15 of the 16 council members necessary for a quorum were present at 4:25 p. m., 15 minutes after the time the meeting was scheduled to start, it appeared as though no business could be transacted. However, two more members put in their appearance shortly before 4:30, and the meeting was called to order.

Ping-Pong Balls Stolen; Stults Asks For Help

Theft of several ping-pong balls from Union Hall was noted by Thomas Stults, '54, chairman of the social hour committee of student council, at last Tuesday's council meeting.

Stults asked council for suggestions in combatting similar losses in the future.

Human Relations Seen As Threat

Dr. Martin Chvorowsky, director of the center of human relations at the University of Pennsylvania, spoke before chapel last Tuesday.

Human relations concern religion, race, politics and nationalities and constitutes a real threat to mutual understanding among the American people today, Doctor Chvorowsky said. He stated that while the Constitution guarantees equality to all, regardless of race, creed or color, the American Negro has little more equality today than during the days when he was a slave.

In religious matters, men have learned to look at stereotypes and have disregarded individuals. Many national groups are discriminated against merely from prejudices formulated against the groups as a whole.

Americans must learn to understand and control discrimination and segregation because this practice is against the whole democratic background and religious ideal, the speaker noted. It is also necessary to widen and deepen group memberships. Loyalties and emotions are more important than facts in human relations, according to Doctor Chvorowsky.

The chapel program for Tuesday, January 22 will be conducted by the Rev. Robert S. Smethers, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelical United Brethren Church, Reading.

Lillian Freundlich, Pianist, to Appear On February 14

Lillian Freundlich, pianist, will appear at the third cultural program of the year, Thursday, February 14, at 11:10 in Union Hall.

Miss Freundlich is a former member of the faculty of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music and the Juilliard School of Music. A graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory, she received a fellowship to the Juilliard Graduate School. She has studied under Alexander Siloti, Josef and Rosina Lhevinne and Edward Steuermann.

Since her New York debut in 1941, Miss Freundlich has given numerous recitals.

Yesterday Ivan T. Sanderson, naturalist, lectured on "The Enigma of the Seas" in the second cultural program. Sanderson described such things as ice ages and unusual sea animals. He noted that since man has penetrated only one-half mile into the ocean, which reaches a depth of two and one-half miles, many mysteries remain.

Reading Hospital Orients Albright Women to Duties of Nursing Profession

Talk, Slides and Tour Highlights of Visit

Eight Albright pre-nursing students toured the Reading Hospital last Monday under the guidance of Olivia Barnes, directress of nurses. The group included Evelyn Nantz, '52, and Roberta Crimbling, Joan Currier, Nancy Geissler, Marie Noecker, Jean Schaeffer, Barbara Smith and Patricia Upczak, all '55.

The students who made the trip are enrolled in the pre-nursing program under which they spend two years at Albright and three at the Reading Hospital, receiving both the B.S. degree and the R.N. certificate.

The group heard Miss Barnes discuss the details of the nursing profession, requirements, advantages and possibilities. She dis-

Council Members Urged To Vote on Amendment

"It is imperative that all student council members attend next Tuesday's meeting in order to vote on the proposed constitutional amendment on disciplinary powers," Russell F. Weigley, '52, council president, declared this week.

Weigley pointed out that unless action is taken at this meeting, it will be impossible for the trustees to act upon the amendment at their annual meeting the first week in February.

17 Slated to Get Degrees on Feb. 8

Seventeen seniors will be awarded their degrees by Dr. Harry V. Masters at an informal ceremony on Friday, February 8 at 11 o'clock in the president's office. Four of the February graduates will receive the degree of bachelor of arts; eight, bachelor of science; and five, bachelor of science in economics.

The following expect to graduate: Bachelor of arts, Richard Connell, Robert Lezenby, Elwood Schall and Eugene Snyder; bachelor of science, Franklin Cappel, Barnett David Jr., Walter Drazek, Collin Linkletter, Robert Lippincott, Roderick Murphy, Wellington Printz and Peter Shanaman.

Bachelor of science in economics, Charles Booser, Edward Flemming Jr., Robert Long, John Miller and William Wahl Jr.

All but six of the graduating seniors are day students from the Reading area. Other Pennsylvania students are Murphy, from Cole-dale, Booser, from Lemoine, and Long, from Girardville. Graduates from New Jersey are Drazek, from Trenton, Linkletter, from Union and Wahl, from Mechantville.

Auxiliary to Meet

The Women's Auxiliary of Albright will meet on Wednesday, February 13, at 2 o'clock in Union Hall. The date of the meeting has been changed from the usual first Wednesday of the month to the second Wednesday because of mid-semester vacation.

Scheduled for the meeting is a "Friendship Fiesta in Latin America" under the direction of Prof. Consuelo Rodriguez.

Council Votes Changes In Amendment

Final Decision Blocked By Low Attendance

Lack of the necessary two-thirds majority of student council kept the organization from voting last Tuesday on a proposed amendment and by-law to its constitution. However, council was able to modify two parts of the proposed by-law.

The proposed constitutional amendment and by-law empower council to formulate a code of conduct and student ethics and to exercise authority over infractions of the code.

Sauertieg Offers Change

The changes to the proposed by-law were offered by Eliot Sauertieg, '52. One adds the stipulation that whatever code may be formulated by the proposed judiciary committee must be approved by council as a whole. The other indicates the time when members of the judiciary committee shall be appointed.

With the addition of Sauertieg's change, part "a" of the proposed by-law now reads as follows:

a. This work shall be done by a judiciary committee of the council, and the formulated code and any subsequent changes shall be approved by a majority vote of the council as a whole.

Part "b" was changed as follows:

b. The judiciary committee shall consist of the vice-president of the student council as chairman and four student council members appointed by the executive committee of the council following student council elections and confirmed by a majority of the members present at a council meeting. The committee members shall hold office for one term of council.

Motion Tabled

Ray Weitzel, '54, moved that the council constitution be amended to include the proposal. Because only 17 of the necessary 20 council members were present, his motion was tabled.

Provided that council approves the proposed constitutional change, it will have to go to the faculty for approval before being submitted to the student body. A majority of the student population must approve it before it can become part of the constitution.

Because the amendment will effect a major policy change, approval of the board of trustees may also be needed.

Glee Club To Make 2 Trips in Spring

The Albright College Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. John H. Duddy, professor of voice, will begin its Southern tour at noon on Friday, February 22. The club will journey to Chambersburg, Hagerstown, Md., Frederick, Md., Baltimore, Alexandria, Va., and Washington, D. C. and will return late Monday night February 25 after a concert to be given that evening.

A second tour is also being planned. This tour will be taken near the beginning of the Easter vacation and will start at Allentown. During this trip the club will broadcast over one of the national networks in New York City. The tour will be climaxed in New York State.

played slides of nurses at typical duties in the operating room, laboratories and the supervisor's office and of spring and fall scenes of the hospital grounds. Refreshments were served in the recreation hall.

The pre-nursing students met several Albright graduates who are now at the hospital. They include Dr. Willard Grubb, '43, and Dr. Robert Deach, '45, internes, and Jean Long, '49, social activities supervisor for the training school.

Students who last year completed their two years at Albright under the pre-nursing program and are this year at the Reading Hospital are Joan Boyle, Carol Krecker, Anna Mae High, Mary Phillips, Julia Thran, Wanda Moore and Dorothy Miller.

A Semester Ends

The end of a college semester is one of those occasions which twice a year deserves at least passing editorial mention. At the risk of repeating what everyone should be aware of, we would like to point out several implications which the end has.

In the first place, the end of the semester is a milestone. For the seniors, it is the last milestone before graduation. For the freshmen, it is one of the first major milestones in their college careers. It is a time for taking stock of ourselves, for reviewing the progress we have made and, perhaps, for resolving to make better use of our opportunities next semester.

In the second place, the end of the semester is a time for work. Indeed, for some of the students it may be one of the few times that they really work hard, academically speaking. The final book reports, notebooks, outlines and term papers must be handed in; the final chapters in the textbooks must be read. And last but not least, adequate preparation must be made for finals.

The time between now and the official start of mid-term vacation on Tuesday, February 5, may prove to be very important for many students. Used wisely, it will result in the successful completion of a semester's work and in the earning of credit and respectable grades. Wasted it will lead to mediocrity or perhaps even failure. It's up to us to make the next few weeks really count.

Lebanon Valley Sets the Example

Even though their team was beaten last Saturday night, we feel that the students of Lebanon Valley College taught us something by their enthusiastic cheering and support of the basketballers. Not only did a small L.V. band provide music between games and during time outs, but also was the cheering of the Valley's large rooting section highly enthusiastic.

Fortunately, the usually apathetic Albright partisans responded to the challenge and the tenseness of the situation by cheering louder and longer than they have for quite some time at a basketball game.

We hope that the enthusiasm shown by both sides at the Lebanon Valley game will continue. We also hope that the band which Albright is planning to have at the game with Bucknell tomorrow night will bring credit to the school.

Knowing that the students and faculty are genuinely interested and desirous of victory may in some cases mean as much or more to a team as knowing some of the technicalities of the game being played.

Good Luck, Graduates!

Our congratulations go to the 17 members of the class of 1952 who expect to complete their college careers this month and graduate early in February.

We wish these students every possible success in their chosen fields of business, graduate study or whatever else it may be. It is our wish that they may never forget their student days at Albright, and that they may always be a credit to their alma mater.

Speaker's Aids

You students who are taking English 4 (public speaking) have probably been wondering, "duh, how can I pass?" As a public service, we are presenting a few rules to help these students and all others who may find English 4 on their schedules some day.

1—Breathing is important. We suggest you carry a bottle of fresh air at all times and take a swig now and then. Be sure the air's fresh by punching two holes in the bottles.

2—A good breather has saggy pants from breathing from the stomach. This is easily achieved by opening one's belt buckle a few notches before every speech.

3—Look your audience in the eye. In fact, it helps if you can hypnotize the teacher.

4—Use bodily movement to distract the audience. Doing a jig will also entertain them and is good footwork training for dodging tomatoes.

5—Always have a SMASH ending. Not too long ago an Albright student achieved this by jumping out the window. Another good ending is achieved by looking wistfully at the prof and saying, "Is my time up yet?"

6—Exercise your jaw in every class by yawning and saying A-gong, A-gong, A-GONG? Between classes walk along muttering, "Guns and drums, drums and guns," and practice classic gestures, like pointing heavenward.

Follow these rules and you too may pass public speaking (if the men in the little white coats don't capture you first!)—P.W.

At Sunset 12 31st

Wind the clocks and keep the second hands a' spinning. 'T would be a sin—primeval sin—to step into the New Year after time. Wind the clocks and watch the sunset. Let tomorrow come and yet . . . hold tight today. Tomorrow's brave new world can wait; though clocks are wound and bells will sound, I'll yet embrace this day. I watch with never-yielding, ever-penetrating eyes the westward sun's decline—hold back the skies! Sticks and stones will break my bones, but oh what time will do!

Let me sit within my timeless den and read the works of ancients—Aristotle's stuff. Two thousands and two hundred twenty-two long New Year's Eves ago, he sat and watched his latest old year's sun go down. Yea these many centuries (these musky, dusty centuries . . . so keep those watches going, keep the minutes spinning. Never let the second hands slow down—'t would be a sin, primeval sin.)

Here dog! Oh Gyp! Stay, zere, do not go down the steps! Pass not beyond the barrier to brave new world below, or maybe I should come along. Together we'll go down the hall, passing through the space-time's clock to many years ago, and there I'll bright the Christmas lights (turn back the sun, nor keep those watches wound!)

The Christmas lights which burn tonight with bright red-yellow-green will surely blot away the day—our passing day—then once again I'd be among my children's toys beneath the brightened Christmas tree. Oh brave new Years past! As in Primeval—banned beyond the clocks and bells to boyhood's happy carousels!

Oh brand new toil and trouble world, oh brave blue-busting bubble word, oh red and green and yellow world—of week-old pines and broken chimes, this evening make your first mistake! Take back this young recruit! Wreak havoc with the calendar and ban away the time. Leave me within my sheltered den amongst the thoughts of boyhood's strives, with windless clocks and spendless lives.

Sumpin' Different

A group of us were sitting in the bookstore, discussing very little in very fancy language, when talk got around to language itself. Someone suggested that we eliminate articles a, an and the from our conversation as a move to simplify our grammar. Admittedly, these three words have some specific value in our language, but with a bit of practice, they could be effectively put aside. For instance, "Let's go up to library" or, "Do you have calculus assignment for today?" or "I want names of all those who can participate in program." It sounds bit queer, but is entirely effective.

Another, somewhat more drastic device would be elimination of all vowels to save ink and paper. Y cn rd ths, cn't y? Thr wld b sm cnfsn, bt phrps t cld b srkd t. Somewhat simpler, but along same vein, would be to eliminate just silent, unnecessary letters. In this way we could cut down considerably on the number of letters we use without making it entirely unreadable.

Man disadvantage of these types of simplification is necessity of educating ourselves to new systems but it is not impossible. Try it some time.

Doris

This week's senior personality, Doris Hill, hails from Teaneck, N. J. but now resides in the belfry. Doris is quite popular on campus as president of Pi Alpha Tau, co-chairman of W.S.S. Friday afternoon teas and a member of student council, Heo club, Skull and Bones and the Domino Club.

She is 5' 4", 118 pounds, has blue eyes and light brown hair. Majoring in home economics and minoring in biology, Doris plans to do commercial food work after graduation. Marriage also holds a place in her future for she is one of the Albright girls already engaged.

Sports, chocolate ice cream, her three Belfry roommates and John's piano playing rank high with this lass. Among her favorite memories are her freshman year, pledging and Sherman Cottage.

Ah! Wilderness

"A giant rocket ship was built to escape from the earth," brought me back from the wilderness of the ancient sages with a jolt. The fellows across from me were discussing "When Worlds Collide." The earth, it seems, was destined for destruction by an approaching star and a ship was constructed for escaping. Hm—tell that to the ancients with their hobnailed sky. "There was an argument as to who would go on this modern Noah's Ark." I wonder if they escaped—oops, there goes my coffee. I just had my pants cleaned, too. If all people wore baggy pants we would be better off. Now take the English—a tweed isn't fashionable until it mildews in the garden for three days.

Now there's a spot. Wonder if sun spots really do affect the business cycle—doesn't seem plausible, but it's as reasonable as any other theory. Oh, theory! What are they discussing at the next table? "Lamarck and Darwin have me confused." Maybe if I lean back in my chair I can catch it. "Forget it, it's silly and ridiculous—that Jean Shepherd has a terrific show." Did I say wilderness of the ancients, or have we passed from light into darkness? Ah, wilderness!

Hoopsters Face Bucknell Here Tomorrow Night

In the Lion's Den

By Tom Masters

MASC Race

With the start of the most important part of the schedule for Albright's hardwood forces, namely the defense of their MASC Western Division crown, it has already become evident that this will be far from an easy task. The surprising defeat at the hands of Scranton has put us down one, and all who saw the rousing scrap with Lebanon Valley on Saturday night will agree that this is a good sign of what we'll encounter when we visit Annville later on.

The score of neither game, of course, was at all decisive, so it looks like the struggle will mainly involve the three teams mentioned, with Moravian not likely to figure in the spoils. This doesn't mean, however, that Gil Gillespie's squad will have nothing to say in the final accounting, for it's very possible that a Greyhound victory or two may be the determining factor in naming the winner.

The results of our next encounter will probably depend on how our defense stacks up. The offense seems to be clicking much better than it had earlier in the season, but the defense has been less effective in the last games. The opposition doesn't damage us much from the outside, but once the opponents drive in close they have little trouble in scoring.

Our rebound percentage was also poor against Lebanon Valley, although we had more height advantage than we will against any other team this season. It may be a matter of unfamiliarity with the zone that lies behind this, so if that's true we can expect a tighter defense as the season progresses.

Winter Running

The high-point of the winter season will come for the track men this Friday at the Inquirer Invitation Meet in Philadelphia. The runners have been working out for some time now on the stadium track as well as the Central Y.

Winter track will be another sport to get a real boost with the completion of the new gymnasium. Although it never receives the attention that the spring variety gets, it is a valuable aid for runners who hope to start the spring season without need for a long period of conditioning.

Junior Varsity Loses To F. and M., Valley

Facing a tall F. and M. squad on January 9 at Lancaster, Coach Bobby Hicks' J.V. club went down to its third loss by the score of 66-48.

Last Saturday's 51-44 defeat at the hands of Lebanon Valley, brought the Baby Lions' season record to two wins and four losses.

Goss High

Jim Goss was high man against the Dips with 14 points, all of which he garnered in the first half. Bob Dey chipped in with 10, all on one-hand jump shots.

Though the Red and White dropped in only one less field goal than the Flying Dutchmen last Saturday, they were outscored by five foul tosses to make the L.V.'s margin of victory seven points.

Bisons Bring Veteran Crew To Test G-Men

Visitors Split Starts In Boston Tournament

With a three game losing streak finally broken, Coach Gulian's Albright basketballers will play host to the Bisons of Bucknell tomorrow night at Northwest.

Although all but two members of the Orange and Blue squad reach six feet in height, the two tallest performers for Coach Jack Guy's outfit are but 6' 4". Height has been the main problem for Guy in this year's campaign, but even so his boys pulled a mild upset by stopping Arizona State, 75-67, in the Boston Invitation Tournament. This victory came after a loss to Boston College, 86-68.

Led by Gallagher

Leading the Bisons again this year will be their two high scorers of last year, Joe Gallagher and Don Strasser. The former ranked 17th nationally with an average of 19.1 points per game, while the latter had a 14.6 average. These two combined scored a total of 701 points throughout the season's play.

Last year Albright traveled to Lewisburg to meet the Bisons and dropped a 74-58 decision. This game was played without this year's captain, Gerry Potts, who was bothered by an infected foot. Also the squad members were fatigued by the long trip and the fact that they had been carrying mail at the Reading Post Office during the holidays.

First Bucknell Victory

This victory was the first for Bucknell over Albright in ten years, and the Lions will be out to start another streak tomorrow.

To do that, Coach Gulian will use his customary starting five of Amole, Whitman, Dettling, Potts and Leitham. It is very likely, however, that subs Jim Croke and Ossie Mogel, a new addition to the squad, will see much action during the contest.

Coach Guy will floor a line-up consisting of Strasser, Gallagher, De Luca, Stella and Webber in hopes of making it two in a row over the Lions.

The J.V. teams of both schools will meet in a 7 o'clock preliminary.

Probable starting lineups:

Albright	Bucknell
Amole	f Strasser
Dettling	f Gallagher
Potts	c De Luca
Whitman	g Stella
Leitham	g Webber

Winter Runners Go To Inquirer Relay

Alberts, Seltzer, Enter Other Meet Events

In competition with 30 other eastern colleges and universities, a mile relay team from Albright will be entered in the Inquirer Invitation Track Meet this afternoon at Convention Hall in Philadelphia.

The Lion runners to compete in the event, as announced by Coach Eugene L. Shirk, will be Mahlon Frankhouser, Rudolph Becker, James Rochtassel and Harold Kretzing.

The Albright team will run in the third heat of the relay and will have a position second from the post. Other teams in the "C" heat will be Fairleigh Dickinson College, St. Peter's College and Muhlenberg College.

Other Albright representatives at the meet will be Elwood Alberts, entered in the pole vault, and Donald Seltzer, slated to race in the 1000 yard novice run. Seltzer, a freshman, will also be the alternate for the relay team.

Last year's winner of the event was Villanova College, and the Wildcats are expected to be in contention again this year.

F. & M. Edges Lions, 82-80

Potts Registers 28 Points in Fifth Loss

Although Gerry Potts hit the cords for 28 markers, his season's high, the Albright Lions suffered an 82-80 reversal at the hands of the Franklin and Marshall Diplomats on January 9 at the Lancaster Army before 1200 persons.

The Dips initiated a last quarter spree which cancelled out a 10-point Albright lead at the three-quarter mark and brought victory. The winners registered 21 points in the final frame while holding the Red and White to 9.

Dips Control Ball

Albright led throughout the contest and had a 15-point lead in the second quarter, but the superior ball-controlling of the Dips, especially of glue-fingered Walt Lenz, paid off in the last period drive.

Dick Dunn of the victors matched Potts in his point total with 28. He scored most of his points on a driving lay-up which proved almost impossible to stop. Potts' familiar hook shot accounted for most of his scores.

In the last quarter the Dips popped in six straight points before Albright could dent the scoring column, thus reducing the lead to four points, 71-67. Dunn's lay-up finally gave the hosts the lead at 77-75, whereupon Potts scored a field goal and foul shot to put Albright ahead for the last time. Dunn then scored again and a bucket by 6' 6" Lovett settled the issue.

Albright will have a final shot at the Dips later in the season at Northwest.

Lions Meet Lizzies, Pirates, Indians, In Next Outings

After the Bucknell game there will be no basketball activity until next weekend, when the hoopsters will meet a squad from Elizabethtown at home on Saturday night.

Last year the Lions split with the Lizzies, taking a 47-39 decision in the Lebanon Valley Tournament but dropping a 55-45 contest on the E-Town floor.

Wednesday, January 30, the Red and White will make the long trip to Huntingdon, where the Juniata Indians will be engaged. Last year the Red Men came out of the hills to Reading and took a 78-59 trimming. They will be looking for their first victory over Albright on this trip.

Seton Hall Here

Saturday, February 2, will bring the Pirates of Seton Hall to Northwest for what promises to be one of the toughest games of the year for the locals. The Jerseyites are a sky-scraping outfit who are flirting with a "Top Ten" rating in the Associated Press basketball poll.

Faculty Bowlers Show 161.3 Average

Faculty bowling resumed activity at the Mansion Bowling Center at Fifth and Penn Streets on January 10.

Lions Defeat Dutchmen In Overtime Fray

Take 77-75 Decision To Even MASC Record

Paced by two last-minute field goals by substitute Jim Croke, the Albright Lions came from behind in the last period to tie the Lebanon Valley Flying Dutchmen at the end of the regular time, and then went on to take a 77-75 decision in an extra period.

High man for the night was Leon Miller, Dutchman forward, who threw in 21 points for his night's work. Gerry Potts, Lion captain, was again high for his side with a total of 17 points. Connie Dettling and George Amole each contributed 14 points to the Lion cause.

Albright had a 25-16 lead at the end of the first period, but the Dutchmen struck back and the Lions could garner only five points in the second period, and found themselves behind, 35-30, when half-time arrived.

The last quarter had Lebanon Valley leading 58-45 before Connie Dettling dropped four straight field goals to narrow the margin to five points. Big Connie then fouled out, but Ken Nase and Lefty Leitham took up where he left off and after a vigorous exchange of

Shirk Announces End of Balloting

Eugene L. Shirk, faculty manager of athletics, has announced that ballots for the Anthony J. Lanshe Football Trophy must be received in his office by Tuesday, January 22 to be counted toward the selection of the winner.

The ballots were included in every program at home games and the spectators were asked to vote for the outstanding Albright player of the day. Last year's winner was Bruce Tenley.

This year a trophy will be awarded to two Albright players, the outstanding back and lineman.

field goals, with Leitham's field goal finally knotting the count at 67-67. Ozzie Mogel then sent the Lions ahead, 69-67, for the first time in the second quarter. L.V. took the lead at 71-69, but Bunny Witman's one-hander sent the game into overtime.

The extra period started with a score by Lou Sorrentino, but Mogel matched this on two foul shots. Leon Miller then hit twice for Lebanon Valley from the free-throw line, but Croke's tap-in and one-hander gave the Lions their final lead. After a shot by Herb Finkelstein had been batted down by the alert Croke in the last fifteen seconds, Sorrentino had a shot from close in with two seconds remaining, but missed.

Umpire Kenneth Kresge suffered a knee injury on a jump ball in the last quarter, but after some taping by Bill Beyerle, Albright trainer, he was able to continue in the game. The two officials called a total of 67 fouls in the hard-fought battle.

All Students Must File Registration Next Thursday

"Registration day is not a day off," Anna R. Benninger, newly-elected registrar, said this week in disclosing that registration for second-semester courses is scheduled for next Thursday. "We expect all students to register on that day," Miss Benninger added.

The registrar pointed out that students who have problems concerning courses or scheduling should consult their major professors during their regular office hours prior to registration day.

Seniors and juniors will register at 8:30 a. m. and sophomores and freshmen at 1:30 p. m. Registration procedure will be the same as in former years.

Final examinations for the first semester will start Friday, January 18, and continue until Tuesday, February 5. Students will have mid-term vacation from the time of their last examination until Monday, February 11.

Albright Represented At R.H.S. College Night

Seven faculty and administration members were scheduled to represent Albright at Reading High School's college night last Wednesday, W. Dean Moore, field representative, announced. These people discussed the college with prospective students from city and county high schools.

Those scheduled to represent Albright were: Prof. Marcus Green, science department; Dr. E. B. Douds, English department; Prof. Donald S. Gates and J. Howard Widdowson, business administration department; Prof. Harry W. Mengel, education and psychology departments; Dr. Charles Kistler, history department; and Moore, general information.

Convention Delegates Discuss Role of Church

Delegates from more than 600 colleges in the United States and Canada discussed the present-day mission of the Christian church at the 16th quadrennial convention of the Student Volunteer Movement at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas, from December 27 to January 1. The attendance of nationals of 45 foreign countries who are studying in North America made the conference an international event.

Albrightians attending this conference were Evelyn Kressler, '53, and Gertrud Kuechlich, '52.

25 Students Tour Allentown Plants

Twenty-five students of Prof. Donald S. Gates' business administration classes and Mrs. Anna H. Smith's home economics classes visited the Arbogast and Bastian plant and the Food Fair Store in Allentown on Wednesday, January 9.

The program was arranged by Leo Finkelstein, district manager of Food Fair Stores. The tour of the Arbogast and Bastian meat plant, including killing and cutting operations, was in charge of James Burdette, personnel manager.

Following lunch at the plant cafeteria, the students were conducted through the Food Fair Store and details of the operation of various departments were explained. The group then went to the Americus Hotel to see films of Food Fair stores.

Troubled By Taxes? Let Bus. Ad. Give You Quick Relief

Accountants and Clerks Learn the Value of Slide Rules and Calculators

By Patricia A. Schearer, '53

Having trouble with your income tax? ??? Do deductions and withholding tax keep you awake at nights? If so, your troubles are over if you drop into a small office, third floor, East, administration building.

Here four busy teachers of the business administration curriculum will gladly show you one of the features of their department, "Prentice-Hall Federal Insurance Tax Service," a thick volume full of recent information issued by the government covering all recent interpretations, court cases and decisions along with congressional acts concerning income tax. This is but one of the services the college maintains through the business department.

Gates Has Vast Library

In addition to this, Prof. Donald S. Gates, head of the department, has a vast library of supplemental literature concerning all phases of the economic situation. Examples of these are the "National City Bank Letter" and "The Lamp," a monthly publication of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

If you're the kind who likes to dabble with numbers, you will enjoy working with anyone of the three calculators of which the department boasts, estimated at an approximate value of $800. Out-

Polio Foundation Plans Four Week Campaign

Faced with a $5,000,000 debt for the year 1951, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has planned a four-week drive for 1952 rather than the usual two-week campaign. The appeal started on January 2 and will run through January 31.

At the beginning of 1951 the National Foundation was pledged to care for a cumulative caseload of an estimated 45,000 persons. Thus far 1951's cases have edged ahead of the number for 1950, when 33,351 persons were struck in the second severest polio year in history.

Steel Expected

The steel for the physical education building is expected next week, barring no new defense orders.

Navy Seeks Men for O.C.S.

Procurement Officer Visits Local Campus

Lieutenant Commander John H. Cornwall, Jr., representing the office of naval officer procurement in Philadelphia, was scheduled to be on the Albright campus yesterday to discuss the Navy's Officer Candidate School with members of the graduating class.

The navy has recently removed all specific course requirements for enrollment in its OCS. Any college graduate, or any senior whose graduation is less than four months away, may now apply for this program regardless of his college major. A previous requirement of some mathematics training has recently been eliminated.

The navy's officer candidate school is located at Newport, R. I. Classes convene every two months, with the majority of each class remaining for four months training for duty afloat.

A portion of each class, however, is assigned to special fields and commissioned after two months. This group completes its training at various navy centers for specialized duty. These specialist commissions require specialized educational backgrounds. Major college fields which may qualify candidates for specialist commissions are engineering, business administration, chemistry, physics and mathematics.

Organization Write-Ups Needed by Cue Staff

All write-ups on organization activities for The Cue should be given to a staff member as soon as possible, Dorothy Deam, '52, editor-in-chief, said again this week. The write-ups were due last Saturday, and already The Cue has been unable to meet its printing deadline because of the delay in receiving them.

Further delay may result in an increase in printing costs and, consequently, the assessment of a fee on all seniors.

Philosophers Plan Open Discussion On Nature of Man

"The Nature of Man" will be discussed by a panel of three faculty members at the annual open meeting of the philosophy club, Francis Carney, '52, president, said this week. The affair will be held Monday, February 18, at 7:30 p. m. in the lower social room.

Members of the panel will be Dr. Milton G. Geil, professor of psychology; Paul R. Rusby, professor of economics; and Clyde A. Harding, professor of English. Discussion will follow the formal presentation of the topic.

Carney announced that an invitation to attend the meeting will be extended to all students and faculty members.

Last Monday the Philosophy club met at the home of William A. Heck, '52, to hear a paper on existentialism by the Rev. Eugene H. Barth, director of religious activities.

Joint Meeting Scheduled

A combined meeting of the Domino Club and radio workshop will be held Thursday, February 14, at 7:30 p. m. in the chapel. Harold Miller, general manager of station WGAL-TV, Lancaster, will discuss both television acting and the operation end of TV.

Several technical advisers will accompany him to discuss technical points of TV transmission. Miller has been secured to speak through the cooperation of Frank Voss, station manager of station WRAW.

The second half of the meeting will be a Valentine party under the direction of Virginia Seams, '53, vice-president. Games will be played and refreshments served.

French Students Discuss Carmen

The opera, Carmen, by George Bizet was the highlight of the program of Le Cercle Francais presented last Monday evening in the music studio. Marilyn Yatron, '53, was narrator for the program.

Gordon Gockley, '52, president, announced that the club will continue to send Care packages to its French family.

Connell Presents Program

At the meeting of La Sociedad Cultural Espanola held last Monday afternoon, names and addresses of foreign students were distributed to members. Barbara Finch, '52, president, noted that if any other students desire pen pals, the Spanish club will gladly supply them with names and addresses.

The program presented was an original one written by Richard Connell, '52. Entitled "El Regalo en la Navidad," it dealt with the coming of the three wise men on January 6.

English Group to Read Play

The next meeting of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, will be held Thursday evening, February 14, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John B. Douds. The club will read "You Can't Take It With You."

Chessmen Elect Butkys

Adolph Butkys, '55, was elected president of the Albright College Chess Association last Friday. Other officers chosen were Roger Spang, '55, recording secretary, and Edgar Wanner, '53, corresponding secretary.

Smith to Address I.R.C.

Prof. Lewis Smith will address the International Relations Club at its January meeting next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the lower social room.

Plans for sending a delegation to the Model UN to be held at Barnard College, New York City, this spring will be discussed. The Albright group will represent Byelorussia in the model general assembly sessions.

standing among these is a Friden electric calculator which performs all the arithmetical functions and can produce a twenty digit number by multiplication. The value of this machine is estimated at about $500 and this has been in Albright's possession for about three years.

Calculator Used

Another modern machine is the Monroe mechanical calculator valued at $275.00 and used for accounting and statistics courses where instruction is given in operation on an individual basis. Besides a Burroughs adding machine, the accounting laboratory room is equipped with a large slide rule, examples of which some of us have seen in various campus classrooms. In spite of its size, (about 84") it was purchased by the department for but $10, at such a reasonable rate because of its advertising value for Keuffel and Esser Co., producers of the 10" pocket slide rule.

Has Access to Machines

Since the department does not teach office practice, it does not have machines which are part of office equipment, but it does have access to the multigraph, addressograph and electric typewriter, all a part of the administration's equipment.

Because the department recognizes that it is essential for students to have a knowledge of business equipment which Albright could not begin to have available, field trips are made, at least twice a year, at which time pupils can see equipment in use.

Visit New York

A notable example of this is the New York field trip where tours are conducted to the New York Stock Exchange, the Federal Reserve Bank, the home office of an insurance company, an auto assembly plant and the International Business Machine office where the "electric brain" is observed in action.

As part of the Philadelphia trip, the group is taken to the fruit auctions where goods are auctioned off as they come in in carloads. The group also visits the sugar refineries and a grain elevator. Also a part of a special field trip planned for this spring, will be a tour of neighboring industries, the Bethlehem Steel Company, the Textile Machine Foundry and the Container Corporation.

Marketing Described

Like other departments, the business department has its library with its share of textbooks, teaching materials, reports, brochures and descriptive material pertaining to various courses and fields such as marketing, accounting, sales and advertising.

And in case you're curious about the little white mail box outside the business room on the second floor, it is for "accounting paper only," handed in by all the perspicacious business students who complete their assignments before the date due!
