In selecting the all opponent team for the Bulletin it was taken into consideration the work that these men did against Albright, and not their playing for the entire season. Stacking up against such stars as has been chosen here, one can see that the Red and White has not had an easy games this season.

Judging from the types of teams Albright has played this past year, one can look back on the season as one not to be ashamed of, but one to be proud of for the team that represented the Red and White fought gallantly and most nobly with the great odds against them at every turn of the week. It has been a team that has gone thru thick and thin together for the glory of dear "OLD ALMA MATER" and the sacrifice that has been made by our best friend and coach John S. Smith, the one who has been back of the boys and has put his heart and soul into the game each time the team went onto the field.

Anyone who witnessed the game, last week with Lebanon Valley will long remember and carry a deep impression of the gallant fighting spirit shown there by the boys that was playing their last game for their Alma Mater. It was one of noteworthy and one that deserves a world of credit and one to be long looked back to when as the years come and go. It is these boys who have donned their suits for the last time, we make mention of their outstanding work throughout the season. It will be they who will hand down the OLD ALBRIGHT FIGHTING SPIRIT to be carried on by the ones that will be back next year. Let's not look back on the past season as one that has been discouraging, but let's look forward to next season as one that will bring glory, fame and honor to the School, the Coach, and the Team. Thus with this recognition, rings down the curtain of the 1928 football season for the Red and White.

FRESHMAN GIRLS OUTPLAY SENIORS

Enter Inter-Class Volley Ball Race By Taking Best Of Three Games

The Freshmen took a great stride toward winning the Interclass Volley Ball championship, when they defeated the strong Senior team on Tuesday afternoon. The play was nip and tuck, and it was anybody's game until the final point was scored. After being defeated 15-7 in the first game, the Seniors tightened up and won the second 15-13, but were defeated in the deciding game 15-10. Marked improvement was shown in the performance of both teams over previous games. The contests scheduled for gym classes during the next two weeks will create much interest. "Mim" Youse and Effie Shenk were outstanding for the Freshmen, while "Clara Ray" and "Deckie" starred for the Seniors. The teams: Seniors: K. Deck, C. R. Wilkes, Stauffer, Miles, Steltz, Jones. Freshmen: Shenk, Youse, Immel, Wissinger, Keetz, L. Dech.

FOUR GRIDDERS REPRESENT A. C. FOR LAST TIME

Careers of Asper, Reisinger, Clemens, And Gunther Terminate As 1928 Grid Season Comes To Close

"DAVE" THOMAS SUCCESSFUL AS GRADUATE MANAGER

Last Thursday, with the Lebanon Valley Gridiron Classic, brought to a close the football career at Albright of four men who have seen considerable service under the Red and White banner.

These four men, all seniors on the team, have played together for about four years, and have always done their bit in helping their teammates come through battle after battle victorious. In the last two seasons especially they have been a mainstay on the elevens representing Albright on many foreign fields. The players Asper and Reisinger, Captains this year, Clemens and Gunther, have come through time and again to help their team overcome many disheartening circumstances, and when defeat was staring them in the face, brace themselves sufficiently to spell victory for their Alma Mater.

Captain Asper, playing the center position regularly during his college career was always in the game fighting with the old Albright spirit. No matter what the circumstances may have been "Russ" displayed to his opponents as well as his teammates that he would fight to the end. Nothing better can be said than the fact that his being chosen captain for the 1928 season was a mark of distinction both in regards to his playing and leadership.

George Reisinger, who played tackle since his Sophomore year when he came to Albright has also always displayed the same fine spirit on the field. He helped in the task of leading the team thru a season filled with disasters, so far as scores are concerned, but along with Asper, George did his share in keeping up the spirits of the other men who were playing against great odds.

"Pat" Clemens, although small was a "big gun" in the playing and winning of many games on the gridiron by elevens representing Albright.

Playing at the quarterback position Clemens could most always be depended upon to pick up a few yards when they were needed to give his team a first down. His speed, running and ability to catch forward passes, as well as his excellent punting ability were important features in the team's play.

The fourth man who finished his gridiron career, last Tuesday, in the Lebanon Valley Game is Carl Gunther. "Guns" outstanding abilities on the football field were his line bucking and forward passing. Cool-headed, he could almost always be depended upon to pick out his man, and throw him a pass before the opposing players were able to close in upon him. He showed superb passing ability es-

The Blue and White of Lebanon Valley College fluttered above the Red and White of Albright after the Big Thanksgiving Day tilt on Bethlehem Steel Field, for the Myriads had subdued their traditional rivals in as gripping and exciting a game as the most rabid fan could want to see. The final score was 13-6 in favor of Annville youths, but the cold figures can give no idea of the fierce battle waged by the two teams. Outclassed in the first half of the game, the Smith coached men came back and made a noble bid for victory.

And when we went down to defeat, it was with colors flying, for we fought courageously, and more than once had the Lebanon Valley lead tottering. It was a moral victory, since our opponents had been generally conceded victory by a comfortable, if not large, margin. After crashing and smashing their way to two touchdowns, the Lebanon Valley gridmen were compelled to recognize the power and strength of our team—a force which seemed to come suddenly from nowhere, and which threatened to sweep all before it.

The battle possessed all the color which one has come to associate with the meetings of the Old Rivals. The crowds were huge, and intensely enthusiastic. Both on and off the field there was a spirit of great rivalry, but beneath it all was the friendly and good natured feeling which makes this particular game so different from all others.

Lebanon Valley won the game in the second quarter, when they crossed the Albright goal line twice. The first score of the game came on the first play of this period, and it was Daub who was responsible. Daub advanced the ball from the Lebanon Valley 45-yard line to Albright's 29-yard line, when the first quarter ended. And it was Daub who raced 29-yards for a touchdown. However, it was Zappia who took out an Albright man just as he was tackling the runner.

Albright scored Lebanon Valley's second touchdown. And Albright himself was the big gun in this second.

DURING LEISURE HOURS

The right use of leisure is a problem of extreme importance which is now confronting many economists and leaders of society. Of late years an increased amount of leisure has come into the life of a large portion of our population. "Shorter hours" is usually the slogan of the working men, but with shortened hours more leisure naturally results. Then arises the problem of what to do with the leisure thus obtained. The right use of leisure is a harder problem than the right use of our working hours. Quoting Dean Inge, of England we find that, "The soul is dyed the color of its leisure thoughts."

The uses to which we devote our leisure time largely influences our individual development. Wherefore it is up to us to make the most of the spare time granted to us so that our lives may not be failures, but may reflect the ambition which we display during our leisure.

BACK HOME

Nearly all of us have fathers and mothers at home who are sacrificing that we might go to school and so be better prepared to go out into life with a better conception of what life really is.

None of us do too much studying. In fact most of us do too little. Opportunity knocks at our door every day and we are always ready to admit him and receive what he has to give? Examinations are not far hence. Those wonderful people back home are expecting each one of us to do our level best. We can't do our best if we wait until examination week to do our studying.

Each year one can hear the seniors telling what they would do if they were to start their college career over again. Their stories are nearly alike. They would pay more attention to their class work and less to other things.

When those who do not intend to continue their schooling are about to graduate they face something that most of them never faced before: to go out in the world, figuratively speaking, and earn their bread and butter. The world is not so ready to give you a re-examination after you have made a fizzle of it.

You will need all the book knowledge you can possibly get and to be able to do one thing well is better than to be a jack of all trades and master than none.

These are plain words and I need not explain them but Benjamin Franklin used small words with big meanings, too.

and drove down the field, which did not stop until Albright fell across the Albright goal line, buried under Red and White jerseys.

The lone Albright tally came in the third quarter. Albright got possession of the ball in midfield—not in scoring territory. And then the ball was on the five yard line. A forty yard pass thrown to Clemens by Gunther had turned the trick. Several line plunges and then Clemens was across.

First Period

Lebanon Valley kicked off. Piela booted the ball to the 10-yard line where Clemens gathered it in. Clemens returned it nineteen yards before he was nailed. Cruttenden hit the Blue and White line for a gain of one yard. Gibbons broke away from the line for a seven yard gain, and Gunther plunged the line for three more yards, winning a first down. Gibbons carried the ball on the next play, and fumbled, recovering on the 29-yard line. Clemens' pass was incomplete, and the little quarter-back kicked to Albright on the 28-yard line.

Sweeney Light hit the Albright line for a two-yard gain, and Daub was downed without gaining an inch. Daub punted more than forty yards, Clemens receiving the ball on the 40-yard line and advancing it three yards. Gunther tore around left end for a seven yard, but both teams were off-side. Gunther hit left tackle for a gain of four yards and placed the ball on the 50-yard line on a plunge. Gibbons gained a first down, putting the ball on Lebanon Valley's 45-yard line. Gunther gained three yards after racing around left end. Cunjac shot out of the line and nailed Clemens before he could gain an inch. He blocked Clemens' pass and Pat was obliged to kick. Albright, the Lebanon Valley quarterback, received the ball on the 20-yard line and was tackled in his tracks.

Albright was penalized fifteen yards, the ball being put in play on the 35-yard line. Zappia gained two yards, and Daub came within inches of a first down. Daub hit the line again, and although his gain was hardly noticeable, it gave Lebanon Valley a first down. Albright tore through tackle for a gain of nine yards before Gilbert brought him to earth. Albright again carried the ball and made the needed yard for a first down. Light hit right tackle for a five-yard gain, and Asper, the Albright captain, was knocked out in the play. Asper came around all right and continued play.

Albright shot out of the line and raced twenty yards before he was downed. Albright was thrown for a three yard loss. Daub made up these three yards and one more, putting the ball on the 20-yard line. Albright gained only two yards through the line, and his pass to Cunjac was knocked down by Gunther, Albright

"Parrakeet's Prattle"

Howdy, folks! Parrakeet hopes everybody had as good a time as he did. He's sure quite a few did 'cause they said so. Evelyn was at York. Who else? Oh, yes! Bennie, too. Why not? Eva went home after the game and didn't come back until Sunday nite. Pretty late, too 'cause traffic was heavy, mebbe, somebody didn't want to rush back, either. But anyway, an Essex is almost as nice as a LaSalle; isn't it, Eva?

Well, football season's over. Yes sired, all done now. Parrakeet's sorry. He says he'd be glad to go to another game like Thanksgiving day. Wouldn't you? The team sure played a bang-up game and the season ended swell. But now, folks, Parrakeet wants you all to get lined up for basketball season. Both girls' and boys' varsities have mighty tough schedules. If you don't think so, ask Marion Shaw or Magnifiso.

Anybody hungry? Well, the Y. W. is prepared to satisfy your ravenous appetites. (If you've recovered from vacation so soon.) At any rate, Parrakeet's advising you to go to the Parish House tomorrow between 11 A. M. and 11 P. M. Just think, folks, you can eat to music and it doesn't cost you a cent more. Make your dates in advance, fellows, and adopt the slogan, "Meet you at the Confetti Tea Room!"

Parrakeet noticed some of the rooms at the hall look different. Marty got flowers for her birthday and her room surely was fixed nice. Enjoy it, Marty? The ones responsible sincerely hope so. But just what was wrong with Sally? Her room has an addition too. Guess what? You can't. Well, ask her. And mind you she that it was a prize at a fair. Can you imagine that? Parrakeet wonders just what it is causes people to get that way. Anybody know?

The cheering squad was greatly aided at the L. V. C. game by the addition of four or less girls who surely were interested observers of the game. What were some of the wise-cracks? Parrakeet missed them. He was too excited about the game. If any of the brilliant students on the campus can recall them, please add them to the list on the Bulletin Board in Main Hall.

What do you suppose? Parrakeet heard that A. C. authorities are giving the students two days extra Christmas vacation. Nice goin'. Now all these ambitious young men can go home contented and earn some money for Xmas gifts. But Parrakeet's so tired and worn he can just about talk anymore so he's decided to "shut off steam" and leave you to create more news for next week.

getting the ball on the 20-yard line. Gunther's right end run netted only two yards, and after Clemens was held without gain, he kicked.

Albright received the ball and it bounced from him when he was tackled, Gilbert recovering. The referee ruled that play had been stopped before the fumble, and Lebanon Valley was given the ball. Maslow was laid out for a few minutes, but came around all right. Daub hustled around left end for a gain of sixteen yards. Daub made two more yards, and Light hit the line for five, putting the ball on the 30-yard line. Daub made a little over three yards and won a first down, as the quarter ended.

Score: Lebanon Valley, 0; Albright, 0.

Second Period

Daub carried the ball on the first play of the quarter, and raced thru a broken field for a touchdown. Zappia furnishing pretty interference. Joe Wood's kick went to the left of the uprights, but Lebanon Valley was given the point because Albright was found off-side. Hagen substituted for Maslow. Piela kicked off for Lebanon Valley, Gibbons receiving on the ten-yard line and returning it twenty yards. As he was tackled on the 80-yard line the ball bounced from his grasp, and Lebanon Valley recovered.

Light missed Albright's pass. Horn substituted for Cruttenden. Albright gained five yards. Bowman went in for Light. Lebanon Valley was penalized five yards for off-side, Bowman made five yards, advancing the ball to the 15-yard line. Zappia gained one yard and Albright hit the line for two more. Albright completed a pass to Zappia, and the ball was on the 3-yard line.

Daub crashed the line and put the ball on the 1-yard line. Daub again rushed the ball and was only inches from the final line. For the third consecutive time Daub tore into the Myerstown line, and this time he was thru for a two yard loss. Nye substituted for Bowman. On the fourth down Nye fumbled, and although he recovered, Albright got the ball on downs.

Clemens immediately kicked. He dropped behind the line to kick, the ball travelling fifty yards and being down on the 40-yard line, by Albright. Albright's pass to Zappia was incomplete. Daub gained five yards through the line, but Lebanon Valley was penalized fifteen yards on the play. A long pass thrown by Daub and intended for Heller was incomplete. After Albright kicked, the Myerstown aggregation got the ball on their 11-yard line. Clemens immediately kicked back, Jap Albright getting the ball on the 39-yard line.

Nye advanced the ball five yards and Albright gained one yard thru the line. Lebanon Valley got another first down when Nye broke away for a ten-yard gain, putting the ball on the 25-yard line. Gilbert was hurt on the play. His left arm was injured and he was removed from the field, Reitman substituting. Daub hit the line and it gave to the extent of five yards. Nye was held without gain and on the next play Lebanon Valley was penalized five yards. Lebanon Valley gained nine yards in the form of a pass, Albright to Heller, and Albright was penalized five yards. Daub gained several yards through the line, putting the ball on the 9-yard mark. WRITERS CLUB HOLDS
"THANKSGIVING DINNER"

What proved to be one of the most interesting and certainly the most original program ever given by the Writer's Club was the Thanksgiving Dinner, Wednesday night.

Each member was given a different topic to be developed in his, or her own individual style, consequently no two were reproduced alike. This proved to be especially interesting to the members of the Club, since no one knew the contents of another's paper.

The "Pilgrim, With Staff" was a poem, written by LeNora Hemstreet, but in her absence was read by Orpha Hangen.

"Turkey" by Helen Uhrich, consisted of a diary of red letter days in the life of a Thanksgiving Turkey.

"Filling", a short story with a blank filling contest was given by Norma Michael.

Alfred White, in his "Cranberries", gave the origin of the name, by means of a short story.

An episode "Baby Dines Out," by Myrtle Wolf, developed the "Celery."

"Mince Pie," by Catherine Steltz, demonstrated, by drawings, the four stages of a Mince Pie; cold, hot, cut and not, respectively.

"Apple," was the story of a Thanksgiving apple, as told by itself, by Blanche McCauley.

Haveling McCracken, as "Nuts," read his conclusion to the story "The Lady or the Tiger."

"Pumpkin Pie," by Miss Garlach, was a poem, "The Writers' Give Thanks," in which each member was mentioned.

The next program to be given by the Writer's Club, will be on Wednesday night, Dec. 12th, and will be in the form of a Christmas Shopping Tour, the persons will be dressed accordingly, and will give, in original style, individual interpretation of a Christmas Shopping Tour.

To-day, you can see big buildings erected noiselessly—by electric welding.

The structural steel worker is dropping his clattering hammer for the electric arc. Silently, swiftly, rigidly, economically, buildings are being fabricated by electric welding, which knits steel with joints as strong as the metal itself.

Building silently! Nothing seems impossible in this electrical age.

Not only in building construction, but in every human activity, we instinctively turn to electricity to add to the comforts of life and to eliminate the wastes of production—another evidence that the electrical industry is maintaining its leadership in this changing world.

Not only industrial equipment, but electric refrigerators, MAZDA lamps, and little motors that add to the comforts of home, are manufactured by the General Electric Company. All are identified by the G-E monogram—a symbol of service.

To another person who graduates this year goes considerable credit for the work which he has done in trying to make the 1928 football season a successful one. This person is the manager, "Dave" Thomas. He worked hard, arranging the schedule for the season, looking after the needs and wants of the players, keeping them in supplies, doing odd jobs here and there such as having the field lined, and what-not. To him must be given his just credits, for without a manager there

Who's Who At Albright

DORSEY WILLIAM BRUNER

Bruner is one of those scientifically minded persons, of whom there are a goodly number on the Albright campus. Most of his time is spent in either the Biological or the Chemical Laboratory, and time well spent, judging by his scientific knowledge. But don't get the impression that Dorsey is one of those chaps with weak eyes and heavy shell-rimmed glasses, who always walk around bending beneath a stack of books—oh no! Dorsey's a very neat, good looking fellow, with a friendly light in his eyes that never fails to shine in recognition of co-Albrightians. First impressions are rather deceiving—since we took Dorsey to be a quiet fellow—but instead find him full of fun—and a most obliging friend, on whom we can always depend.

Besides being Assistant in the Biological Laboratory, Excelsior President, and member of the "Y" Hand Book Staff, Dorsey plays in the College Orchestra and Band. Whisper—Dorsey, in his splendid Red & White uniform, has caused several female hearts to flutter—which doesn't disturb him any—although there is a rumor of some new-old developments. Anyway, not all of his interests are confined to the campus—but one lives conveniently near.

Its rather hard to find a fellow with all the qualities Dorsey has for success—good features, a sense of humour, earnestness in whatever he attempts, real ability, a friendly, obliging disposition and Christian Character; all qualities which the outside world is searching for in selecting worthy men to carry on, and in whom it places its confidence and trust for the world's future success.

The culmination of the careers of these men bring to us the realization that we are losing the services of valiant and excellent players on the gridiron. Their "never-say-die" spirit has done much to put "pep" into other players when fighting a losing battle. They have been supreme examples of the Albright fighting spirit.

And now with the realization that they shall never again represent our school upon the gridiron, the students, faculty, and friends of Albright College do but look back upon the work they have done in so faithfully serving us, and look forward to the things which they shall do, and bid them a sad farewell, hoping that their lives shall forever be filled with the success which they have achieved on the gridiron while here at school.

LENORA HEMSTREET LEADS Y. W. MEETING

The last Y. W. meeting before Thanksgiving vacation was held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 25th, with Lenora Hemstreet in charge.

The meeting opened with the customary exercises, conducted by the chaplain, Marian Shaw. The group was favored with a solo appropriate to Thanksgiving by Eva Loucks. A brief talk on Thanksgiving and its meaning was given by Miss Hemstreet. After a discussion on preparations for the "Y" tearoom, Dec. 8th, the meeting adjourned with the Y. W. benediction. Another discussion followed the benediction.

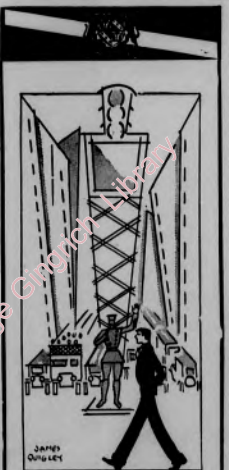

CLARA RAE WILKES

Here is a Wilkes, one of the Wilkes, formerly of Baltimore, Maryland, now of York, Pennsylvania. Miss Wilkes certainly has done her bit towards keeping up the illustrious history.

Clara Rae is one of the peppy, sporty, full-of-fun girls. She knows as many tricks, jokes and pranks as the rest of them, and can match her tongue with any of them. Sports finds Clara Rae at her best. In basket-ball she is that black-haired guard who always gets the ball and keeps the other side wondering whether there is any connection between the flash and the disappeared ball. Hockey and tennis find her an enthusiastic player.

The alto section of the Girls' Glee Club has claimed Clara since her Sophomore year. This year she has showed her ability along another line. If anyone doubts the existence of a flourishing Girls' Literary Society, he should come around some Thursday evening and have his fears alleviated. She wields the gavel with authority and so far under her efficient leadership there have been unusually interesting programs and other forward strides.

We dare not forget to mention that Clara Rae has a shadow that goes in and out with her. Even if the shadow is a bit taller and has light hair. Clara Rae does not mind and so the duck-path chuckles and writes another page in its history.

Wilkes, Rae expects to teach and coach. If jollity, wit and pep are any indication of success, we know what lies in store for this young miss, and if she "missus" with these qualifications,—well—it's up to her.

Y. M. C. A. Discusses Factors of Man's Value

At the Y. M. C. A. meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 27th, the question, "What Determines the Value of a Man?" was discussed. This was very interestingly led by Robert Lundy, Vice President of the association. Everyone in the meeting entered into it with enthusiasm.

Some of the things brought out were that the following characteristics determine the value of man: ability, honesty, friendship, determination, development, wealth, courage, love, and character. Also it was stated that it isn't always what appears on the surface, but what is underneath that determines the value of a man.

Then the discussion drifted to, "On what basis should a man be paid in industry?" On what he is at the present, as for example a laborer or president of a bank or should he be paid on another basis? One question that was raised was, "Could business be run on the Golden Rule?" Everyone seemed to be agreed that it could.
