DEDICATION

AS this humble volume finds its way into the world, in order that its mission may be more successfully realized, we beg to present it to one who has helped make the rough endeavor here represented reach the highest state.

To the one who has patiently tried to cultivate a love of the world's golden store of literature, which may result in a love almost akin to his own; to the one who has been our teacher, friend, and for three years our trusted class-counselor; to do we dedicate this book, and hope that he may find its contents worthy of approval.

A decorative frame surrounds the text. At the top left, a quill pen is shown writing on a scroll that extends across the top. The scroll contains the title 'Foreword'. The quill pen is positioned vertically on the left side of the frame. The frame itself is composed of a thick, textured border. A diagonal line runs from the bottom left corner towards the center, and another diagonal line runs from the top right corner towards the center, meeting at the middle of the page.

Foreword

S the casual reader glances over these pages they will not relate to him the tale of the effort and thought put forth to make this book unique, both in excellence and originality.

To the Class of its source, however, may it ever be a relaxation in times of tension, a spur to the jaded imagination, a memoir of the most intimate associations and the truest friendships of a lifetime. Suffering as they may have, "the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune", it remains but for the future to erase all troubled memories and to supplant them with only happy recollections.

history of the class of 26

it is hard to imagine more promising auspices than those which ushered into being the class of 26 fair albright fresh from the process of construction and renovation that she had been undergoing for the past year stood spotless and white ready to welcome her first freshman class under the new conditions it proved to be a class worthy in numbers at least of the reception which awaited it the second week in september we came fifty-eight strong the largest group of freshmen in the annals of albright history hardly had we become aware of the fact that the freshman class was a reality when we discovered that the sophs had pulled one over on us by slipping off for their banquet on the first day of school that discovery waked us up however and we believe that we have stayed awake from that time on when the sophs got back to mohn hall wednesday night sometime in the wee small hours they received a rather gruesome greeting for which they justly held responsible the newly born class of 26 on the following friday we neatly gave the sophs their due by taking a truck for reading right before their eyes the truck ride to and from reading the afternoon spent in reading and the delightful banquet at the berkshire hotel in the evening will never be forgotten by any members of the class who shared the fun it was during this trip that the class became conscious of itself as a definite unit in the college organization the interesting little entertainment which the sophs had prepared for our return only served to strengthen our feeling of mutual fellowship this new class consciousness was very much deepened when the next week the three upper classes formulated a set of regulations which they presented to us as a body for our thorough and obedient consideration being responsible for the carrying out of certain definite requirements was the bond that made firm the others clinching our spirit of unity for the rest of the year when the time for the frosh-soph contests arrived the class of 26 was prepared to enter worthy representatives and to stand solidly back of them the first contest was in the realm of track proficiency with a few other events thrown in by a margin of ten points the sophs took the victory so that a spirit of vengeance was in the air for the tug-of-war on the morning of november 11 the frosh easily pulled the sophs thru the canal making the score tie at twenty-six but if vengeance had been in the air before bloodshed was there now for there was still to be played the football game the deciding event of the season each class went into the struggle with a determination to win but the fates were with the hardy frosh who won to the tune of 14 to 6 not long after this thrilling victory the part of the freshman class that resides in main building received a mysterious invitation to put in an appearance at mohn hall at eight o'clock sharp on a certain saturday evening the occasion was the annual freshman party on the girls this decidedly successful affair was another feather in the caps of the frosh for it was carried thru entirely without the knowledge of the sophomores not only in these activities however has the class of 26 made its mark on the varsity teams both football and basketball the freshmen have been unusually well represented as we review the events of our class life up to the present time we are convinced that the gods favor us but although through our common experiences thus far we have come to feel a loyalty to 26 which shall bind us together for the remainder of our college life yet it is our purpose to stand together not alone for the advancement of our own class but in order that we may give all that we possess of loyalty faith and ability to enhance the glory of our alma mater

As I ponder over the history of my class to date, I am impressed by the exceptional characteristics it has shown. Verdancy is popularly supposed to be the unfailing prerogative of the Freshmen, Green is their universal emblem. Why does this tradition exist unless the genus Freshmen has shown itself, during the centuries of existence of collegiate institutions, as unsophisticated and more or less at the mercy of upper-classmen?

Let me try to show you how on all occasions the class of 1925 has risen superior to difficulties, outwitted its natural enemies and accomplished its purpose with flying colors. For example, let me call your attention to—well—our Freshman banquet, the Frosh-Soph football game and our Freshman party. Enough said!

A year has passed and no more are we servants as before. Albright has recognized our worth and to us has said:

I'm proud to tell of your work,
I'm proud to tell of your fame,
I'm proud to say that you ne'er shirk,
I'm proud to say you've a high aim.

I'm glad for all the deeds you've done,
In upholding your Alma Mater,
So knowing you'll go on as you've begun,
I delight to knight each one Soph.

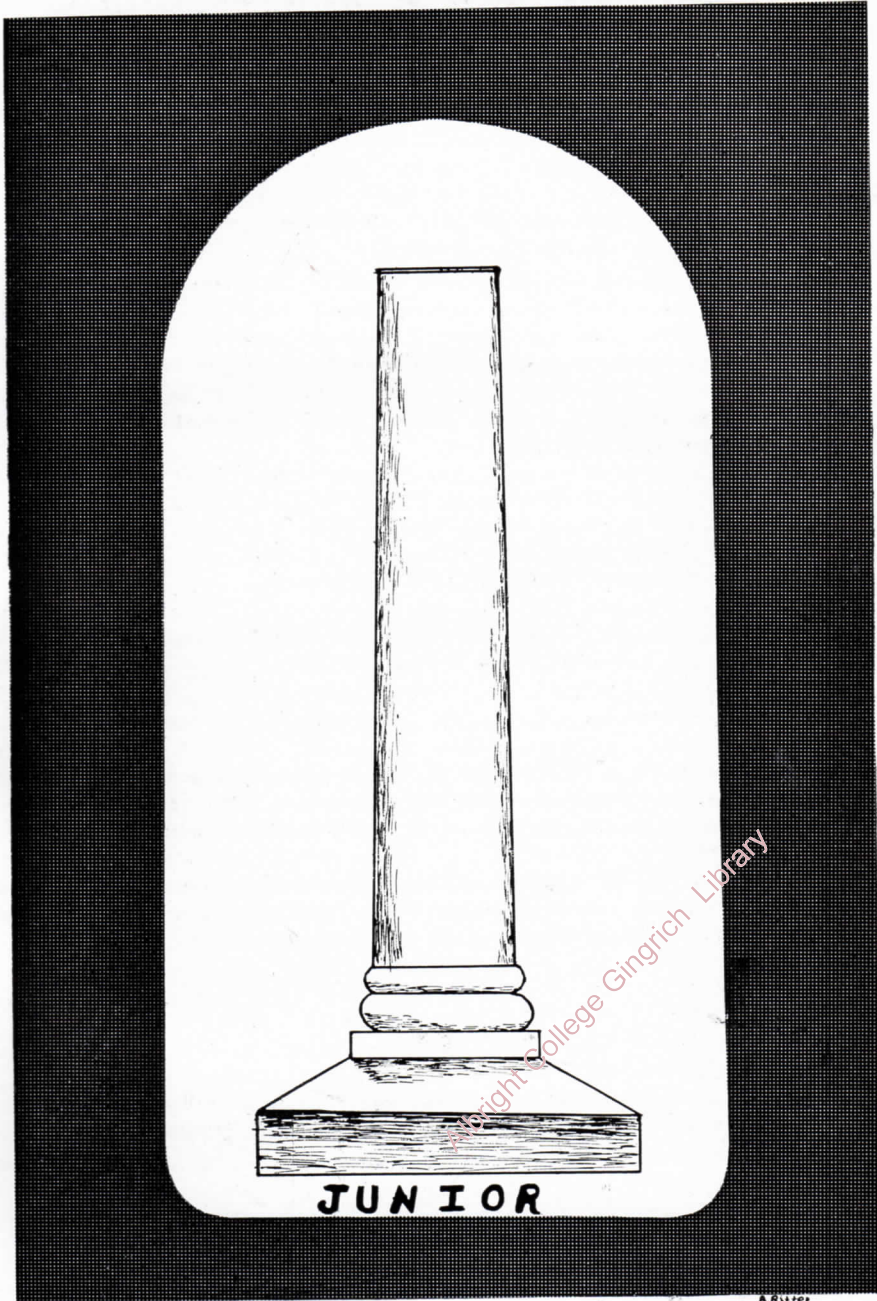

We directly hurried forth. Many and diverse were the deeds we accomplished. Our Sophomore banquet was a great success. No one can adequately express the joy we felt when, enroute to Harrisburg, we rode past "Old Main", astonishing and surprising the Freshmen. Even though the Freshmen said that we were frightened by their number, they learned their lessons under our capable tutelage and we are sure that neither the teaching nor the lessons themselves will ever be forgotten by either class.

We know that we are few in numbers, but then it's quality not quantity that counts. Albright could not possibly have gained the athletic and scholastic standing that she did without the help of our class.

We helped to gain for our football team the reputation that it has. We helped to gain also many of the other records that the school has. We helped to make the old "Bhoom Yell" a bit noisier. We are right there with lots of "pep" for everything.

And also in the future,
Trust us to do our best,
In loyal firm endeavor
We will excel our past.

Junior Class History

Three years ago in September, 1920, Albright College assumed the role of host, and warmly received the curious looking aspirants from every section of the country, who later organized as the class of '24. This group was about to begin its journey thru the valley of Inexperience, which wound over the hills of Discouragements, until Perseverance would lead us into the infinite turmoil of Life's Trials. The Juniors and Seniors saw at a glance that we were an unusual class, and even the Sophs felt quite subdued on noticing the superiority of their class enemy.

Our class was then the largest class enrolled. Altho losing some of our members at the end of our Freshman and Sophomore years, several new students joined us during our Junior year, thus making our enrollment about forty-seven. Our Sophomore year was greatly enjoyed, as our sharp and keen wits triumphed over the discordant and disorganized mass of blatant Freshmen. At 4 A. M. on a moonlight September morning, we cleverly eluded the "Froshies", and enjoyed a sumptuous feast at the Berkshire in Reading, which shall go down in history.

We have always shown great courage, sportsmanship, and ability in all our class contests. The Sophomores could do no more than tie the score in the football contest during our Freshman year, and in that same year we were the only team to defeat the champion team of the class of '21. During this last year we defeated the Senior team in one of the best basketball games ever seen on the Albright floor. Three extra periods were played, but we won the game.

Our boys make good football captains, for since we entered Albright, our boys have led the team. In debating and oratory they are equally efficient, for six of the eight debaters chosen to represent Albright in the Inter-Collegiate debates are Juniors. Their ability as orators was recently manifested in the Junior Oratorical Contest. In the Y. M. C. A. and the Glee Clubs they are also well represented. The girls deserve no less credit. Our girls have been on the Inter-Society debating teams, and partake in the religious, social, and musical activities. Moreover, if we were given an opportunity to participate in athletics, we know not where fame would lead us. Was ever a class so versatile and energetic?

Beginning with our Junior year, we gradually dispensed with anything that was trivial or beneath our dignity. The Hedonism of our former years was replaced by a greater determination to perform all tasks and duties which would confront us. Now the time was ripe to impress upon our characters the majesty and dignity which are befitting to upper classmen. During this year we have made many strides toward our ultimate goal.

Thru our spirit, interest, staunchness, loyalty and sportsmanship, the members of the class of '24 will strive to make Old Albright a cherished Alma Mater. The zealous endeavor and perseverance which so characterizes our class, will enable us to heed the call from humanity in this world of action. We who have been bystanders for a score of years will willingly give our service, and implicitly share with them all that God has given us. We realize full well that—

"Not what we give, but what we share;
The gift without the giver is bare;
Who feeds the starving beggar, feeds three—Himself, his hungering neighbor, and Me."

"She that laughs and loves, Must sure do well."

Gaze upon her, our dear reader, this is "Kay", the best natured girl in Mohn Hall. We have only one objection to offer and that is that as a rule we cannot have any fun kidding her, as she takes it too good naturedly. She readily admits that she is thin, and that her greatest ambition is to get fat, and in that way takes all the joy out of teasing—for us. But they say every rule has an exception. Do you want to start a fight? All right, just go to "Kay" and start to "knock" Mt. Carmel, then stand back and watch the sparks fly. At times like these "Kase" would have us believe that Mt. Carmel is a heaven on earth, which leads us to wonder whether such loyalty has been appreciated. Her chief interest is the Y. W. C. A. She is a hard and willing worker in all its phases, but has distinguished herself especially by her excellent service as treasurer. We do not know what "Kase" intends to do when she finishes school but we do know that with her willingness to serve and her sunny disposition, she is bound to succeed.

Known to us as: "Kay", "Kase".

Favorite way of killing time: Strolling up town.

Most prized possession: The Y. W. C. A. money.

Famous sayings: "Toby, O Toby, where are you? I want my roomy."

"Amidst the soft variety I'm lost."

Hail to thee, friend of our best days! "Henry Ward" has led a checkered rotatory existence since entering A. C. for "Prep" work. As a leading spirit among those fun-loving "Preps" he gained much distinction, and the general opinion was that "shades of the prison house begin to close about the growing boy". The life was too strenuous, and Beecher left us for a year, taking his Freshman work at Dickinson. However the homing instinct called strongly and he returned, tamed to a small extent. As a Junior we see the unfolding of abilities which were unnoticed during years of pranks. As one of the vertebral members of the Political Club, he can discuss intelligently any subject brought up. He displays this ability as one of the "Gossips of the Breakfast Table". Henry is also a competent photographer, and is responsible for the snapshots of this book. We of the Staff will never forget how easily the meeting was sent into hysterics when his imagination began to flash. We believe that "Beech" will be successful in spite of his strange affection for town girls. Genius must out!

Known to us as: "Henry Ward".

Favorite way of killing time: Stealing snapshots for the Speculum.

Most prized possession: His camera.

Famous sayings: "What the Sam Heck?"

"Lady you have a merry heart."

"Yea, I thank it; it keeps me on the breezy side of care."

We know that you would like to know Blanche, one of the few day students of which the class can boast. General opinion has it that she is the prettiest girl around the school. If this is true, we can readily understand the reason by noticing her cheery and carefree disposition. Blanche does enjoy a good laugh and is always at it; but, then, wouldn't we all laugh a lot if we had a wonderful set of dimples to display? She takes an interest in all the social functions held at school, as well as in all her lessons. She shows partiality toward her studies in Education, in fact she has become quite a favorite with Prof. Zener, being the recipient of most of his comments on good behavior and excellent recitations, and incidentally, his famous "bawling-out" process. All joking aside, Blanche is popular with not only the girls of the school, but with the opposite sex as well. She wears an "A", but our best attempts to find out who the owner is have thus far been in vain. She is studying to be a teacher, but we hardly think that fate would be so unkind as to bestow upon her that hard lot. It is whispered to us that she may follow the bright lights. Enjoy life, Blanche, we all wish you well.

Known to us as: "Blanche."

Favorite way of killing time: Having dates.

Most prized possession: Chewing gum.

Famous sayings: "Prof. Zener makes me sore." "Why I don't understand that."

*"As the rolling stone gathers no moss,
So the roving heart gathers no affections."*

There is a fellow in every class that starts a rumpus, and "Freddie" is "it" in '24. Many times he emphasizes Prof. Heck's points by a dull hollow thump on Beecher's head, contagion carrying the uproar back through the other eighteen seekers of Biblical enlightenment. This scene characterizes "Freddie" exactly. Pleasant, active, fun-loving—he can't be down-hearted even in the depressing environment of English class. You couldn't call him a "fusser", although he has many of the ear-marks. His attentions to the ladies come in spurts, which are earnest and interesting while they last. His chief concern seems to be to stay in his home town, Harrisburg, where he spends each week-end; probably helping to get Gov. Pinchot's administration in smooth running order. His activities at school lie mainly in athletics and music. He has played scrub basketball and baseball, being a fast, dependable man in both. He is also one of the first bassos in the Male Glee Club. Whatever his work after graduation, Old Man Trouble will have a hard time flooring him.

Known to us as: "Freddie."

Favorite way of killing time: Sleeping until class time.

Most prized possession: Athletic ability.

Famous sayings: "Hot Pups!"

*"She gives a side-long glance
And then looks down. Beware! Beware!"*

Yes, this is Esther! We were quite surprised when we returned for our Junior year to find that she had her hair bobbed. We should not say surprised because there wasn't one of us that did not say, "It was just what I expected, leave it to Esther to start something". We would like to bear witness to the fact, however, that she was not alone in the attempt. Esther's four strong points are music, art, French, and men. She plays the violin creditably and holds down her place in the basso end of the Glee very skillfully. She is quite talented along artistic lines and spends quite a bit of her time in the Art Studio. She was on the Staff as Assistant Art Editor and rendered very valuable service. Somebody told us that her ambition was to go to France. We don't know just how true this is but we do know that she speaks French like "Mademoiselle herself". As for the last of her strong points we can only say that she is heartless and cruel and we would caution all men to beware, for she can certainly use her eyes to good advantage. "Oh Esther, have a heart."

Known to us as: "Esther."

Favorite way of killing time: Flirting.

Most prized possession: Violin.

Famous sayings: "Gee, he's cute."

*"It's guid to be merry and wise,
It's guid to be honest and true."*

Someone said, "Everyone loves a lover". Buck is a lover, not of the suffragette, but of the out-door world in all its changing forms. Coming from the hills of Williamsport, he likes to hark back to the days of hut-building, camping, and exploring, when studies were considered an evil. He is following his inclinations in the Biology Course. This is a pleasure to him because of the field of work and the hikes it affords. Few are the fellows who don't have some object which they like to use every day. Buck has two of them—his pipe and his violin. With the first he is seen only in lounging hours, and with the second he expresses his love of music as a member of the College Orchestra. He is also a tenor in the church choir. Not claiming brilliance in any line, yet he is liked as a fine fellow, loyal to his home town, his school and his class. Buck has been a big factor in helping us to turn out a winning team for the Class by his faithful assistance at all times.

Favorite way of killing time: Starting a game.

Most prized possession: His pipe.

"'Tis good will makes intelligence."

Claire came to us at the beginning of our Sophomore year. She graduated from Bloomsburg Normal and then went to Goucher for a year. At the end of that time she decided that her brother Freed needed someone to look after him, so she joined him in our class at Albright. Claire comes from a family of five sons and one daughter, which probably accounts for the fact that she is very athletic—the tomboy of the class. Her hobby is Biology and she is never so happy as when she is in the "lab" cutting things up and dissecting plants and animals. Despite this evidence of cruelty and heartlessness she is indispensable at a social function. She can produce more ideas in five minutes than most of us could in a week as to how to put "pep" into a crowd, whether it be at a Faculty Reception or an inter-class basketball game. We are sure that this talent, along with her cheerful disposition, will make her a success in any line of work which she may choose.

Known to us as: "Claire."

Favorite way of killing time: Working in the "lab".

Most prized possession: Her brother Freed.

Famous sayings: "I just got in a fresh line of candy today." "Freed and I took a long hike out in the country, it was great."

"Can be sure in his purpose and strong in his strife"

Frequently you hear, "Isn't he the most unconcerned, easy-going fellow you ever met? You'd think he doesn't give a rap for anything." Appearances are very deceiving in this case. Through helping to move the household goods of an Evangelical minister, "Crumb" has gained a physique which is often the subject of admiration. On the football team, where he has been guard and center for two years, he has gained recognition as a steady, aggressive player, well able to give the opponent a hard game. His work has gained him the coveted office of football captain for next year. In class work, also, he is a student of ability. His development in Public Speaking has earned him a position on the Inter-Collegiate Debating Team. Most commendable of all has been his work as Business Manager of the Speculum. He has helped to make possible the publishing of a book of which no class would have to feel ashamed. This combination of ability and application is sure to bring him a touchdown in the teaching profession.

*"Bashful and quiet the whole way through,
But steadfast, kind, sincere, and true."*

One of the first ones in our class to have a "case" just after we entered college was "Toby". Since then she has fallen often and hard, but she had fallen hardest the first time, so back she went to the original heart-breaker. Her mind is quite settled and now she is engaged. She is one of the few left-handed members of the class. She can sew, eat, write, and even play the piano with the left-hand. Sounds like a fable, doesn't it? During her palmy days she had a record for "sneaks," successful ones at that. Never caught. Her good nature and kindness are almost traditional at the hall and we have never heard her say anything unkind of anyone. From her love of French, perhaps someday she will hold a position of "Mamselle," although she has started to take music lessons, and from what we hear she is progressing quite well. Perhaps we may hear of her and "Honk" as partners on the concert stage, possibly in Paris.

Known to us as: "Toby."

Favorite way of killing time: Writing to "Honk".

Most prized possession: Her daily letter.

*"'Tis the voice of the sluggard: I hear him complain,
'You've waked me too soon, I must slumber again"*

When we think of the experiences this young man has passed through, we wonder that he is not practicing his favorite indoor sport at Monte Carlo instead of settling in Myerstown. During our trouble with Mexico, the adventure bug bit him and he enlisted for service on the border. On his return, after eighteen months service on the border, he claims that his greatest discomfort came from the absence of close-fitting army-breeches in cold weather. His sleep was interfered with so much that he is now trying to get revenge, and issues a standing challenge to anyone to out-sleep him, expending the same audible horse-power in the feat. Somewhere along the line of existence, Dice developed a streak of witticisms and a manner of delivering them which is distinctive, and by which he has broken up many gloomy hours. He has also acquired a steadiness in his work that gives him a good standing in all his classes. He is active in all his classes and in the Science Club, as well as being Treasurer of the literary society. He will, no doubt, carry this energy into his chosen field, teaching.

Jane is just a helpful sort of a person, one you like to have around, for she is always thinking of something nice to do for someone else. As for doing favors, you've only to express a wish, and presto! Jane is on her way to fulfill. Her nomadic life as a minister's daughter has led her away into many places, once even 'way out to Iowa, and she has friends everywhere. Jane is one fortunate mortal who has escaped the horrors of Mohn Hall life, but, even though she lives across the campus at Dr. Hunt's, she often visits the Hall. Jane is never idle. She is first of all the student. Proficiency in the line of languages will probably bring a high position some day in Madrid, so the Senore thinks. Music is another consuming interest in her life. Her singing would melt anyone, and she leads off quite ably in Glee and Choir. She isn't a bit selfish with her talents and will sing for you at any time. When she isn't trilling, she is at the piano, playing something that you like. With this variety of accomplishments, we hesitate to predict her future profession, but we are almost certain it is to be teaching.

Here's a fellow accustomed to being in the center of things. In his "Prep" year his room was the center of mischief; Freshman year—center of "stacking"; Sophomore year—center of "ducking" parties; Junior year—center for those who wish to read or argue about anything. Indications point to it as the center of dignity and wisdom next year. John is a busy man. Up to the middle of the year he was preaching near his home, Columbia, enabling him to follow up the results of the letter which he sends daily. His work is arranged so well that he finds time to swing back in an easy-chair and enjoy his favorite magazines. In this pose we are best acquainted with him, not forgetting the candy which he rarely lacks. He is also a checker enthusiast, and, if you include hiking with his "roomies," you have his chief interests outside the class room. Always ready for fun or argument, Ginter is liked by all who know him—a fact which will aid him much in being a successful minister.

"To whom music is a part of life."

You never see much of Helen, because she is always so busy. Every morning the seven-fifty brings her to Myerstown and after that the Studio and the Day-Students' Room swallows her up for the day. It isn't necessary for her to be talkative because she can make the piano do it for her. A pupils' recital is always more delightful because she is on the program. The scales and cadences just seem to ripple from her finger-tips. In her Art work she is equally interested, although she takes both these talents with a modest and unassuming air. Helen joined '24 this year as a Junior, but since she belongs to the class she has taken part in nearly every social function. She is extremely careful in all her work, and even practices scales, those frightful things, in a most faithful way. She says that she doesn't expect to teach after graduation; perhaps we will hear of her as a famous illustrator or designer in New York some day.

"The mildest manners and the gentlest heart."

"Center County against the world!" challenges this sturdy young giant-in-miniature. He has seen some of the world, too, having served for eighteen months in France as one of the "peanut squad" in the U. S. Army. On returning he came here to complete entrance requirements, and gained almost immediate distinction. He is renowned as the only student who has occupied, solely and unaided, an entire program in Literary Society. Since that seventy minute talk, "Russ" talks of army life only to other ex-service men. A classmate has aptly said, "His name describes him fully". A good heart he has, which, combined with an unassuming manner, make him a friend worth while. Many think of "Goody" as always bashful and quiet, but they would be surprised to hear him when he gets "het up" and orates on one of his favorite topics; girls or the future. When you consider how studious he is, and that he rooms with Ginter and Kaufman, you can be assured, as we are, that he will make his mark in the ministry.

About ten years from now, if you are in Washington, just drop in on Congress. You will see on the platform a fair-haired, distinguished looking woman, speaking earnestly for the Democrats, most likely it will be on a suitable memorial for W. Wilson. The speaker is Alice, who graduated from Albright in '24. Surely now you remember her? Of course. But beside her Democratic distinction, Alice has made herself known in the other phases of Albright life. She's popular with everybody, she can sing 'way up and is in the Glee. The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet has her for its Secretary, and she has been a member of the Cabinet for two years. Her pretty pink and white complexion is the envy of every girl in Mohr Hall. Her one awful fault is that she is a woeful addict to sleep. Eight o'clock classes are the bane of her existence and she revels in sleep on Saturday and Sunday mornings. Alice, we regret to say, has tried to fool us by blaming a "Frat" pin that she wears, on her brother—she also says that that is the reason that she defends Lehigh so staunchly. Somehow we doubt it, but at the same time wonder who "he" might be.

"Charlie" is no drone, as his classmates will testify. Of an active disposition, his interest is divided among study, the ministry, literary work, and athletics. However, he has managed to keep a good standing in his studies. He was class-president in our Sophomore year. As Editor-in-Chief of this Speculum he deserves much credit for its quality. He is a member of the Inter-Collegiate Debating Team, and is one of the strongest speakers. In addition to this work, "Charlie" is preparing for his life work by filling an appointment while going to college. His pride and interest in his church augur well for future achievement. His plans seem to look toward a Lancaster High School classmate as permanent housekeeper, and we feel sure that her musical talent will be a material aid to the man in the pulpit. This impending future is by no means dark, since it places "Charlie" in the occupation for which he seems to be best fitted. May his success and friends be as numerous then as they are at school.

Allow us to introduce to you now the veteran member of '24. After a two year Albright Preparatory School career, uneventful but valuable to her future, Bertha decided that she liked '24 the best of any class that had yet come along, so she just "dropped in". If you have been deceived by her company manners into thinking she's quiet, please don't be fooled any longer. Come to Mohn Hall, 'most any time will do, and listen to the girl's giggle (a most contagious performance) or hear her engage in the arguments which go on. Besides being an accomplished talker, she is a tennis star. Few ever beat her at either. She's kidded a lot but we have to hand it to her that she is a dandy good sport and takes it gracefully. The men give her little concern, but she does notice eyes, and not a few arguments in which she indulges relate to the merits and colors of the lustrous orbs possessed by the opposite sex. Bertha is an ambitious student and we feel sure that her love of "larnin'" will lead to following the teaching profession.

Doesn't his face betray him? The chief delight of this young fellow is to emit a pun or a witty remark just when everyone is trying to be serious. He is the life of the waiters' table. When only a few months old, he realized deeply that, being named Ralph Waldo Emerson Kaufman, he had a name and a record to uphold. Thus he has developed into one of our very fine students, possessing the keen mind of that elder Emerson. His service as alternate on the College Debating Team has been invaluable. He is also one of the cornetists of the College Band and his muscular frame finds expression on the gridiron, where he is one of the few faithful "scrubs". The skill he gained there stands him in good stead when a rumpus starts in his room, and his study depends on the ousting of the radicals. Kaufman sometimes passes as a Russian, merely by leaving his beard untamed for three days. He will be a wide-awake, tireless minister, and cannot miss success.

For years there has been a representative of the Hetrick family at Albright,—at present there are two. Well "Peg," my dear people, is one of the Hetrick's. John thinks, of course, that she is the nicest one. That is natural. Membership in that family implies many notable qualities—small stature for instance, and musical qualities. "Peg" sings very nicely and is in the Girls' Glee Club. She has been known to give pleasing talks in public-speaking class also. You hardly ever find her angry or extremely ruffled, and she displays a rather well-developed managerial sense, ability to take care of herself, even when others insist. She has a cool head and can think things out quite well. We have a natural aversion to jumping to conclusions, but observation tempts us to believe her to be one of the engaged members of the class. Are we correct in our conclusions, "Peg"?

After graduation from the Pen Argyl High School, "Deddy" shelved his diploma and spent many months in France as a U. S. Marine. This training no doubt gave him the vigor and reserve power which he shows in athletic contests. "Deddy" is conceded to be the best all-around athlete at Albright. His fast, heady work as football quarterback gained him the captaincy in his Junior year. He is a flashy guard in basketball, and far outscored opposing forwards. In baseball he is always dependable in his outfield position. If he continues as a three-letter man, he will have earned all possible athletic letters. He also has a pleasing tenor voice which he has dedicated to the advancement of the Boys' Glee Club. Although he claims to be bashful, he has never been able to prove it. He has a suspicion of dimples when he laughs, and is liked by both girls and fellows as a clean athlete and an always-cheerful friend. We are sure to hear of "Deddy" as an able coach.

Leah, one of our town students, is a credit to '24. Her pluck and perseverance in climbing the ladder of scholarship are worthy of imitation by all of us, for she always gets there. Her stellar roles are played in mathematics and Latin. But with all her duties as a good student she can find time to be a star athlete, and a mighty likable girl, too. You've never played tennis with her? You'd probably remember the hard game and that she won. Leah is a lightening forward on the Girls' Basketball Team, and can shoot fouls that make the score mount up. This year when the class was looking around for a good reliable Treasurer, Leah fulfilled the requirements and has shown much skill in handling our finances. He is not a bad hand at talking himself, having received his training as one of the "Gossips of the Breakfast Table". He and Mohn can entertain more girls than can crowd within hearing distance. He came here from the Navy, where he spent several months. His interests are centered largely in music; as a member of the band, orchestra, and the Glee Club. He plays the drums, banjo, and xylophone, and delights in serenading Mohn Hall beneath a full moon and protecting trees. As manager of the Boys' Glee Club this year, he made possible the very successful concert tour to Johnstown and Pittsburg. While at Johnstown High School, "Josh" mastered the wood-working trade, and he will probably teach in this line after graduation. We are sure that he will never neglect his bent toward music. It was a pleasant surprise for '24 to find that after successfully completing a preparatory course, Ruth would enter our class as a Junior this year. "For she's a jolly good fellow," everyone will testify, and Mohn Hall would be strange minus her pranks and laugh. But she isn't always frivolous and mischievous; Ruth has her serious times too, as when she is in the studio practising her music lessons, or interested in her Art work. She can also sing prettily and often graces our society programs. Her heart has been free from any entangling alliances to anyone visible, but frequently mysterious boxes of flowers and candy arrive, to the glee of "Mohn Hallers" who "Oh" and "Ah" delightedly over them. Ruth will graduate with the white tassel of the music course and we are sure she will have success.

Not many in this position would succeed in winning the friendship of both girls and boys, but he has done it. He outshines "Josh" in the art of entertaining the fair ones. Since our entrance to college, Mohn has been prominent in arranging our class banquets and social activities, a line of activity for which he is naturally fitted. His work gave him chairmanship of the Y. M. C. A. Social Committee, where he has served very efficiently. He was Vice-President of our class in our Sophomore year. He is a member of the Boys' Glee, and also plays the piano very well. Through illness he is overloaded with work now, but will graduate with '24. Mary is one of the accomplished girls of the class, for whether it be music, work, or play, she is always a leader. She is interested in her studies and is one of the shining lights of the class, especially in Professor Keller's classes. She has also filled the position of Literary Editor of this book very capably. Don't get the impression that Mary is a book-worm—she isn't, for she doesn't have the time. She has also served very well on the Bulletin Staff during this last year. But her talents do not all lie along literary lines. In the capacity of Chairman of the Social Committee of the Y. W. C. A. she is responsible for the clever parties that the girls have had. Mary ranks among the leading heavy-weights of the class and occasionally takes a notion to diet, but it never lasts very long as she likes to eat. Another affliction of hers is that she is addicted to sneezing. This is a source of worry to Professor Zener but we are wondering how such an infinitesimal sneeze can come from one so large. Her ambitions for the future are many and we feel certain that through her natural ability and persistent effort they will be realized.

At the waiters' table he holds the record for "bum" jokes, which are usually greeted with a moan. "Deacon" has steadily set himself to better his ability in Public Speaking, and is getting commendable results. This improvement was manifest in the Temperance and the Junior oratorical contests. The members of his English class, however, advise him to specialize on funeral sermons, for his voice is naturally fitted for that type. He is quite proficient in sketching and Art work. He holds the honor of having designed our class pennant, and also contributed much to this book as a member of the Art staff. The zebra-colored floor of his room could be the work of none other than an artist's fertile imagination. The ministry is gaining a good exponent in "deacon".

Coming here as a "prep" student, his talents quickly gained him positions on the Football team and Glee Club. This was his fourth year in the Glee, and he has become one of the very valuable men, being a member of the Quartet and an accomplished reader. For several years he coached a Dramatic Club composed of students, and gave very good presentations of plays. He was honored as President of our Class in our Freshman year. He haunts the "Y" room and has checkers down to a science. If you can beat him—well you just can't. "Dave" prefers to assume the role of a modest violet, but all the same, we've found out that his modesty is only a cloak for talents and abilities that can do more than speak for themselves. He's a first class student—we are told that he is a regular night-hawk in studying—and finds time for social activities as well. He was a member of the Staff and did very excellent work. In basketball he is a tower of strength to the team of '24. He gets most comfort in life out of the old cello, and he says the bluest blues can be chased away by sawing up and down. They rushed to the windows expecting to see some of their feathered friends, who might have come North too soon, but it was just a tall girl with brilliant red hair practicing her vocalises, on her way to take a lesson. "Red" is the baby of the class, and, when she came to us, was the most innocent creature. In three years she has advanced so far that, even though still innocent, she says that she is willing to learn. "Red's" sweet disposition is all that has carried her through a lot of kidding. She is very good in languages, especially Spanish and French. She even aspires to sing in French. Besides being able to sing, she is also very good at the piano. "Red" can play any kind of music that you ask for, and has sung for two years a leading soprano in the Glee Club. As for jazz—when "Red" is at the piano we just cannot keep our feet quiet, rules or no rules. Here we have one of our day students. Mabel hails from the little town of Avon and makes good use of the trolley car in coming to school every day. She is one of the few really experienced girls in the class. After graduating from Lebanon High School, she went to the Millersville State Normal School. From there she went to State College for a summer course and then taught for a few years. At last her desire for a college diploma got the better of her and she came to Albright and joined the class of '24 in our Junior year. To most of us she seems to be very reserved and shy, but the girls in the day-students' room testify that, although she does not talk very much, she has quite a fund of quiet, dry humor. Mabel is deeply interested in her studies and has proved herself very capable in all lines of work. She intends to return to teaching after leaving Albright, but we hear that she intends to carry on her work out in the "wild and woolly" west. *"Oh, truth is easy and the light shines clear,
In hearts kept open, honest, and sincere"*

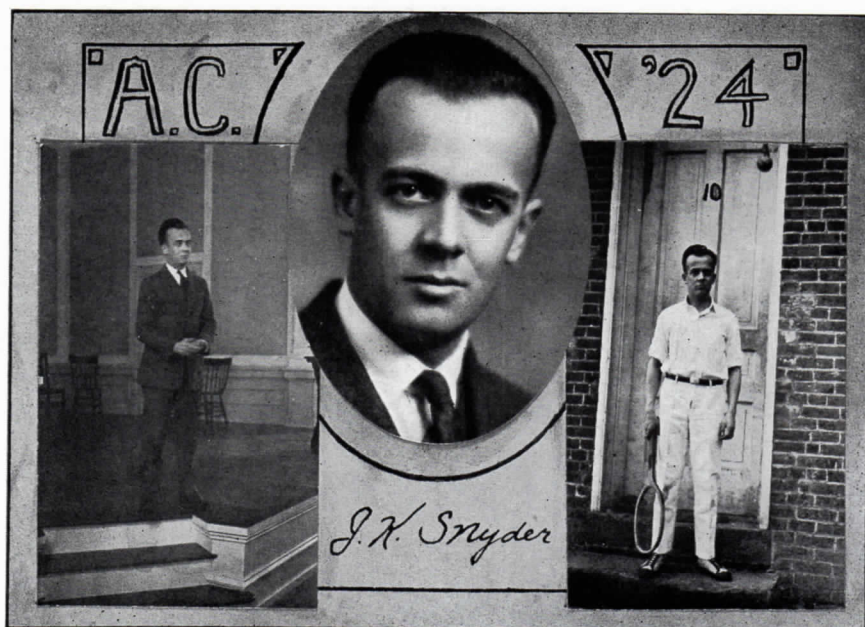

A certain boyish frankness, the kindest of hearts, an independent toss of a bobbed head, and a mischievous twinkle of blue eyes—put them all together. There you have "Ann". She tried the life of a business woman for awhile, but college and someone else wanted her here, and here she is. "Ann" really studies a lot, but when Ray coaxes hard, it is so hard to resist an alluring "sneak". As an Art student she is becoming quite proficient. You can judge for yourself from the Art work of the Speculum, as Ann was Art Editor. Of course she is interested in athletics; if there were a girls' football team, she would surely play tackle. As is she must be content with the tame sport of basketball. Ann loves to sing—especially the scale, you know, the second note, (pronounced ray). She claims that her future will be occupied in teaching but we think that even if those days ever do come, they will be of short duration, for she has evidently made up her mind as to who is the "best man".

Known to us as: "Ann."

Favorite way of killing time: Thinking up some new scheme in Art.

Most prized possession: Her dimples.

Famous sayings: "Oh Ray, you're so funny." "No, I must go to the Studio."

"Haste is of the devil."

Snyder has two characteristics which place him alone in a class. No comb is a strong enough magnet to destroy the molecular disarrangement of his unruly hair. The photographer had to employ hypnotic powers to make it lie quiet for the above picture. "Ken" is also a fluent speaker, due to summers spent as a salesman. He delights in any kind of argument, and for two years has been one of the strongest members of the College Debating Team. At the waiters' table he likes to concoct remarks which make Kaufman hustle to keep his title of King Wit. "Ken" is also a tennis enthusiast and a checker "shark," in addition to which his voice is often heard in song in the "Y" room. His favorite song seems to be, "Lift me 'Higher'". He tickles the clarinet in the band, and blows the harmonica and mandolin. He is the President of the local E. L. C. E. and is Assistant Business Manager of this Speculum. "Ken" is almost certain to enter some work where he can employ his speaking ability, and we are confident that he will succeed.

Known to us as: "Ken." "Kenny." "Rip Van."

Favorite way of killing time: Playing checkers.

Most prized possession: Divided among his mouth-organ, mandolin, and clarinet.

Famous sayings: "Confound it." "Sh-h-uks." "Blame the luck." And seventeen others.

"'Tis a most capable and wise Head we have here."

From the mountainous regions where the coal-cracker, the foreigner, and the Irish flourish, comes this tall Welsh agitator, espousing warmly the cause of Americanization. You simply have to believe what she says, because she has always lived there and she knows. Her hobby is little foreigners. Two things she is very proud of, the first we have already mentioned; her Welsh ancestry, and the other is that she has at last learned to play tennis. She is a would-be star in that sport. But where "Edie" really shines is in debating. She has helped the Themisians keep the cup for two years. We boast her as one of the "brainy" members of the class, for she is a good student. French is her specialty along scholastic lines and we expect great things for her, perhaps a career in Paris. She may appear very dignified, but if you have ever attended a game at Albright, have you heard the loudest rooter? That, dear people, is "Edie". Her throat never seems to give out. See you later, and maybe we will call you in Paris.

Known to us as: "Edie."

Favorite way of killing time: Sleeping or speculating on a career.

Most prized possession: Her hair curlers.

Famous sayings: "I can talk about Americanizing the foreigner, I know, because I live there." "Such colossal conceit."

"A man of polite learning and liberal education"

This classmate is one of the husky representatives of Lebanon County. He is a graduate of Millersville State Normal School, and entered our class as a Sophomore in the Scientific course. He is listed as a Day Student, and it is a familiar occurrence to see him walking to or from the train, carrying his Boston Bag. Thus his activities are confined mainly to classes, where he is known as a good student. His interest in and knowledge of current topics show him to be a wide reader. Of a quiet nature, he is yet a very interesting conversationalist, and is liked by those who know him and meet him in classroom and laboratory. "Sam" is an ice-skating enthusiast. He also plays tennis and baseball, although his schedule does not give him a chance to compete here. He is proficient in sketch and cartoon work. He has made good here at school and will be heard of some day in the field of Science.

Known to us as: "Sam."

Favorite way of killing time: Spending it in the Chemistry "lab".

Most prized possessions: His Boston Bag.

Famous sayings: "Say do you know what?"

"Virtue is like a rich stone,— Best, plain set."

When '24 came to the glory of the Sophomore year, among the strangers who had come to join us was Clara. Although she had graduated from Kutztown Normal, and had taught at Leesport for several years, 'way back in her pocket of ambitions was a college career, and her good intentions are now materializing. Clara lives at Dr. Hunt's but visits the "Mohn Hallers" frequently and takes a live, active part in Y. W. C. A. activities. We also have discovered her talent as a reader in our Literary Society programs. She attracts by her quiet, sympathetic spirit, and is a worthy friend. Predictions cannot go far astray in planning for her a few years of teaching after graduation, and then—as the wife of a minister or a foreign missionary.

Known to us as: "Clara."

Favorite way of killing time: Always being useful.

Most prized possession: An ivory manicure set.

Famous sayings: "Oh, now that's too bad."

"A man who consecrates his hours by vigorous efforts."

Here is one student who doesn't know the meaning of procrastination. Somewhere—perhaps in the U. S. Army Training Camp, where he spent some months—Swank developed a habit of preparedness and dispatch. It has been a valuable acquisition, for his work is always finished ahead of time, and is in presentable shape. His chief interest seems to lie in literary work. He has served well as Society Debater, and for two years as alternate and a main speaker on the College Debating Team. He was President of the Press Club this year, and is also an active member of the Political Club, and the Bulletin Staff. "Al" is built for speed and has upheld '24 in inter-class athletics of all kinds. He has also played scrub baseball for two years. He is a member of the College Band, playing the alto horn. His hint of Irish speech is an attraction to the town girls, and he is frequently seen with fair ladies. He has already had teaching experience and will be all set for a successful career after graduation.

Known to us as: "Al."

Favorite way of killing time: Courting town girls.

Most prized possession: His Army underwear.

Famous sayings: "By Cripes." "I'll tell you, gentlemen."

*"She shows she has a heap o' wit,
And loses no chance in using it."*

For two long years this daughter of Eve commuted from Lebanon, requiring that she catch the 7:15 every morning. But seeing the happy industrious lives of Mohn Hall inmates, and thinking of the bliss of a few more minutes sleep each morning, she decided that that was the life for her. So now, happily esconced in Old Maid's Row, "Betsy" has learned to lead the nerve-racking, terrible form of existence which goes on under that roof. As a warning, kindly take it from us that you should never attempt to get ahead of her in a battle of wits. You are bound to come out the lesser light. Spare you? Never! She is possessed with a native Irish cleverness in witty sallies, and also an Irish temper, which adjective speaks for itself. Her interests in school life are varied: literary, musical and social. "Betsy" was a member of the illustrious staff and did a noble share of the work. She is also an interested member of the Glee Club. Social duties, visiting, and talking take up nearly every night. Her future plans, she says, are not yet definitely decided upon, but we are willing to bet on a teaching career.

Known to us as: "Betsy."

Favorite way of killing time: Getting into a scrap.

Most prized possession: A weekly letter from Philadelphia.

Famous sayings: "You're darn tootin'." "Well, I'd be willing to bet money that it isn't so!"

*"Of a truth, thou art fair and wise—
A combination which makes success a certainty,
And failure an impossibility."*

Further education plus "Somebody" held out a strong enticement to this member of our class, and, when we were Sophomores Martha became one of '24. She had graduated from Shippensburg and had been a school "marm" for several years, but to one so ambitious that was not enough. We were mighty glad that she came, and now she is one of the most loyal members we boast. Martha's talents are so varied and her abilities so varied, that we pray for words to recount them. She is busy all the time, and at graduation three diplomas will be handed to her. Primarily interested in her academic work, she is also a student of art and music, both voice and piano. You can imagine how industrious she must be, for she is among those at the top of the list in standing. She was also a member of the Themisian Team that kept the Cup this year, and is a member of the Glee Club. When the Themisians presented several extracts from Shakespeare's plays, "Lady Macbeth" was wonderfully portrayed by Martha. Nothing but success can be in store for one so talented.

Known to us as: "Martha."

Favorite way of killing time: Putting it to good use.

Most prized possession: His picture.

Famous sayings: "Let's go over early tonight." "I asked Harry about it and he said he agrees with me."

*"Tho always happy and very gay,
Both full of fun and loving play,
Her mind to serious thots doth turn,
As she her music learns."*

Katherine came to Albright during our Junior year and suffered all the indignities of a Freshman until the second semester, when it was discovered that she was really a Junior, one of the nobility of '24. She is one of our 'musical' girls, and thinks quite a lot of her music. Most of her time is spent in the studio practicing. At different concerts that the Music Department has given, Katherine has performed in such a way as to reflect honor on herself, her teachers, and her class. She may be serious with her music and other lessons she may have, but any of the girls in Mohn Hall will say that whenever they hear a racket in the west end of the third floor, they are safe in surmising that "Kit" and "Peg" are having their nightly fracas. These two are the best of friends and generally inseparable. Each one has a mania for throwing water on the other, and when a real fight begins, Mohn Hall gets out galoshes, umbrellas, and raincoats. She is also noted as a giggler, her giggle being quite a remarkable possession. "Kit" is a good sport and never does any unnecessary worrying. We feel sure that these two qualities will lead to success in whatever she may undertake.

Known to us as: "Kit."

Favorite way of killing time: Doing foolish things.

Most prized possession: Her little giggle.

Famous sayings: "Oh, well I should worry."

You've all probably heard of Johnstown before—it must have been in relation to a rather notorious flood. But listen! and you shall hear of Johnstown's fame in other matters at Albright, and among the most famous is this dear, shy, brown-eyed "Ruthie". She came into our fold just this year, but we have already gathered her in so closely, that she says she feels as though she'd always belonged. She has accomplishments galore and is in demand everywhere. "Ruthie" is a concert pianist, can "jazz" divinely, accompanies the Boys' Glee, and as for the orchestra—they frankly admit their dependence. Blush! She does it beautifully on the slightest pretext, but then the boys tease her so! Her heart is already ensnared in parts far from here, but that doesn't keep her from being friends with everybody. We are very fond of you, Ruth.

Known to us as: "Ruthie."

Favorite way of killing time: Jazzing 'er up.

Most prized possession: A "frat" pin.

Famous sayings: "Is there any mail for me?" "Oh, I love his heart."

"Morning, evening, noon and night, Ever faithful."

"We will now have the Secretary's report." At this announcement, we are accustomed to see Mamie rise from her place in the Sunday School and proceed—"Officers present—" and so on. For Mamie is a very important cog in the machinery of the local church. Besides being the efficient secretary, she very often plays the piano in the Sunday School, and every Sunday she sings in the choir. She trips her way from North College Street to school every morning, where her interest is largely manifest in scientific work. For the first year Mamie was quite active in chemistry classes, but for some reasons, rather vague, she has shifted her affections to Biology. She is extremely fond of field trips. Sometimes English classes have been sent into gales of laughter by a particularly original answer from Mamie. Thoughts of the opposite sex worry her but little except for the teasing that the boys just delight in giving to her. With musical and academic traits equally dominant, we cannot quite decide where the future will find her. She is an ever faithful member of '24.

Known to us as: "Mamie."

Favorite way of killing time: Being teased.

Most prized possession: Her umbrella.

Famous sayings: "Now wait for me girls." "Let's hurry, or we'll be late."

*"She bears a mind,

On Commencement Day at the end of our Sophomore year, the hearts of members of the class of '24 swelled with pride when the prizes were awarded and we learned that one of our girls had won two of them. We certainly were proud of Ethel that day, and for that matter we still are, because she has kept up the good work and ranks among the best in the class. She is rather a quiet girl but takes an interest in all the social affairs around the school. Her chief interest outside of her studies is the Sophomore Class, or rather one member of that class. Over in Mohn Hall she lives in what is called "Old Maid's Row," but our private opinion is that the name of that row is a misnomer. Ethel is one of our tennis stars and, in the Spring and Autumn of the year, she spends quite a lot of her spare time on the courts. We feel that with her brains and ability to work, she will make a name for herself when she gets out into the world.

Known to us as: "Ethel."

Favorite way of killing time: Burning the midnight oil.

Most prized possession: A Sophomore pennant.

Famous sayings: "Are you ready, Martha? Let's go over early tonight."
"Oh, Miranda."

*"To follow knowledge like a sinking star,

We're glad that education offered so tempting a lure to this member of our class. Not satisfied with having graduated from West Chester Normal and being on the records of Ursinus and the University of Pennsylvania as a Summer Course student, she is seeking further knowledge at Albright. The class of '24 was glad to welcome her during this Junior year, and is proud to own her, for she is a good student, a congenial classmate, and all in all, a creditable addition to the ranks. Certain rumors from the Day Students' haunts tell us that her ambitions are largely centered in a Y. W. C. A. secretaryship. We're certain that, whatever her office, it will be wise and successful.

History of Class '23

We are somewhat modest in reporting the history of our own class, but since we are aware of the fact that none of the lower-classmen understand human nature well enough to portray our peculiar characteristics, we must do it ourselves. However it is with mingled feelings of sadness and joy that we enter upon this task; a sadness because of the many mistakes that we have made and the realization of a final separation from our college and companionships—a joy because it is ours to grasp some of the many opportunities which lie in the world before us.

As we reflect upon the events of our college days, hosts of recollections flash into our minds. As we entered upon our first collegiate year as "Freshies" we were no exception to the rule of being "diamonds in the rough". Because of our crude condition upper-classmen doubted very much the possibility of our becoming polished like themselves, but before the end of our Freshman year the rough edges were wearing off.

With the swift flight of time we were ushered into our Sophomore year. The experience of one year at school only added to our feeling of importance without compensating with an equal amount of knowledge. In our Junior year, as we assumed the duties of upper-classmen, we felt keenly the responsibility of our influence upon the vigorous lower-classmen.

We have now reached the last mile stone of this preparatory school life. Yet, before leaving, we are wont to picture the happy days spent here together, and each spot around our campus is a permanent symbol which has some particular significance attached to it. It has been ours to watch the rapid growth of our college not only so far as students are concerned but in the expansion of her buildings. Part of our hopes have been realized. The Senior Class leaves this year with bigger and brighter hopes for Albright. As we go out into life we are resolved to make another record, a greater record that will reflect honor upon our Alma Mater.

URING the past five years Albright Science Club has been occupying a prominent place among the regular college organizations. It is composed of the Professors of the Science Department, scientific students, and other students who are interested in science and its development. The present membership is larger than in any previous year, and nearly every meeting one or more new members are added to the register of the club. The meetings are very well attended and much interest is manifested by all.

In the regular bi-monthly meetings, which are held Monday evening at seven o'clock, current scientific topics are presented and discussed, scientific processes are explained, and the results of experimentation and research are given by the various members of the club. From time to time different professors address the club, each selecting material from his own department for his subject. Thus the Science Club relates its work to the other departments of the college.

The entire college reaps a benefit from the work of the Science Club, for under its auspices, three prominent men have lectured before the student body during this year on subjects of general interest. The club takes pleasure in sharing these things with other students and friends of the college.

No one phase of the large field of science is emphasized, but it is the aim of the President to provide varied programs which will touch the many phases of our school life. This tends to make the meetings always interesting and instructive. The Albright Science Club holds a distinctive place in the college, and it is its aim to fill that place well.

T is true that the college Y. M. C. A. is a religious organization operated by men not directly connected with Christian work; but who use this as an avocation. Through recreation, association, socials, games and meetings these men desire to get into the inner life of individuals and help them to reach a higher plane of social thinking.

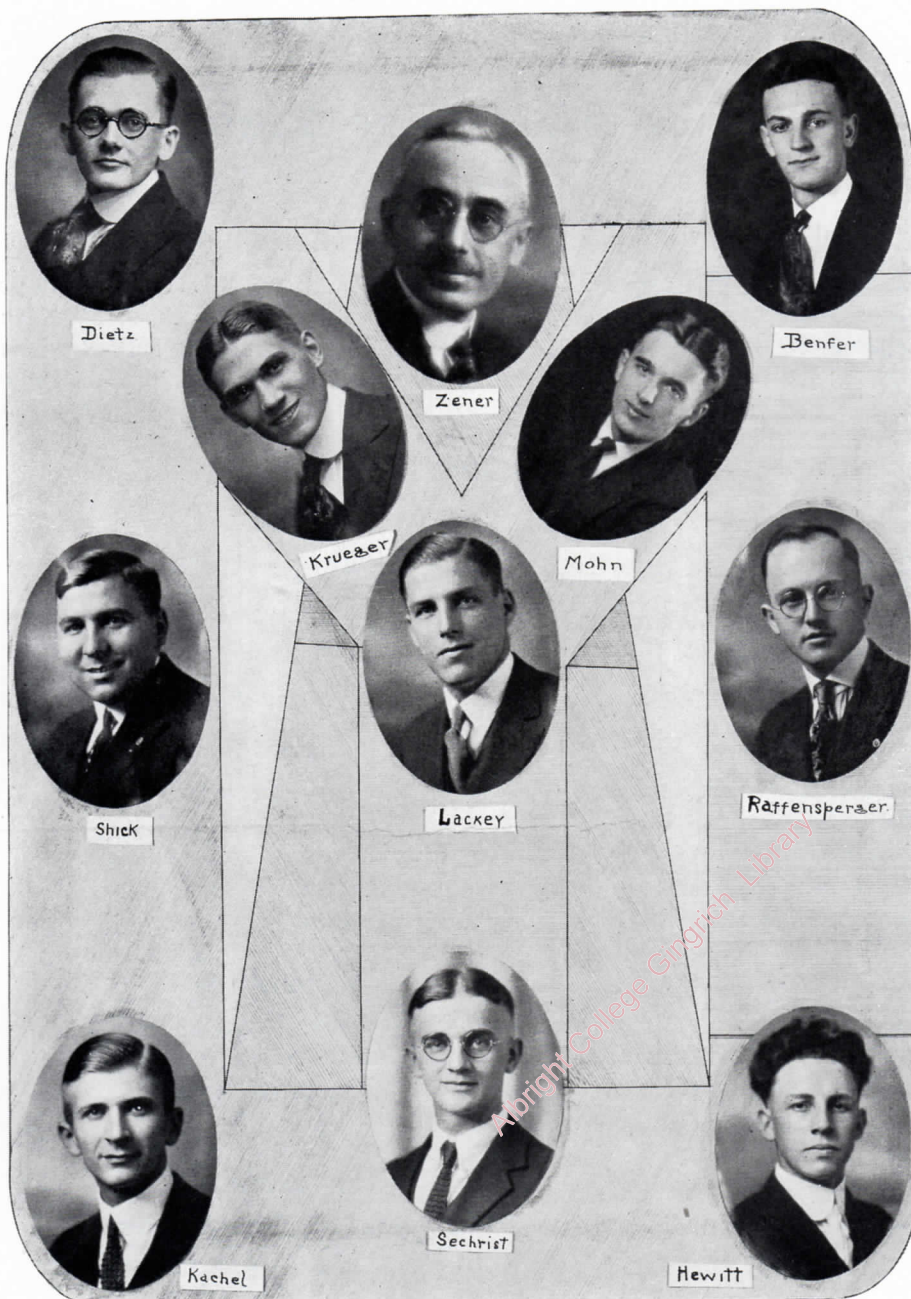

When the present Y. M. C. A. Cabinet was organized, it was decided to keep in view as a main thought a deeper religious awakening here at college. All socials, meetings and entertainments were planned in accordance with this aim. This year we were extremely fortunate in having with us men like J. Stitt Wilson, W. H. Tinker, Eugene Bond, Lyman Hoover, and various members of the faculty. These lectures opened up many of the various avenues of life, and gave the students a much deeper and broader conception of life and that which was expected of the individual in life.

Early in the fall the college Y. M. C. A. was extremely fortunate in securing the cooperation of the faculty, alumni, and students in pulling across a budget drive in cash and pledges of $372.50. This is the largest canvass ever made in the college Y. M. C. A. Of this amount we intend, according to the plan of the budget, to spend $130 for student delegates to conferences, $55 for socials and outside speakers, $100 for foreign missions, and the remainder for State and International Budgets, student relief work, and supplies.

The Y. M. C. A. is also very fortunate in having a social room equipped with three marbleized slate checker-boards, a piano, and a Victrola. The walls have been beautifully decorated and this room is fully equipped to meet the need of caring for the leisure moments of the male students.

For it must be remembered that during the school year there is a tendency for the student to become one-sided, unless there is some means of association in helping him to secure various viewpoints. The aim of the college Y. M. C. A. is to create a closer bond of fellowship and to strive to get all students to adopt the common aim for bigger and better service to humanity.

HE year of 1922-1923 has proved the most successful for the Y. W. C. A. in the history of the college. Never has such enthusiasm and energy been displayed on the part of both old and new girls to bring about the success of the organization. This spirit of good will of the girls combined with the tireless efforts of the efficient cabinet, has made possible the great success which has been achieved this year.

At the beginning of the year a very impressive recognition service was held at which time all the new girls, as well as some of the old, joined our ranks. This seems to have started the year out well, for each weekly meeting has seen a large attendance. These weekly meetings prove to be a source of inspiration to every girl.

This year the Christian Organizations had the unusual opportunity of hearing the lectures of J. Stitt Wilson. He brought before us the great problems confronting mankind and also brought us face to face with world conditions. These meetings induced great thought on the part of both students and faculty.

Aside from the religious and social phases, the Y. W. C. A. has been successful financially. Before the Christmas vacation a bazaar was held at which time we netted about seventy-five dollars.

Considering all phases of the Y. W. C. A., we can see that it has been very successful this year in many ways. May the high aims of the emblem, the blue and white triangle, ever be foremost in the mind of each girl as she goes through life.

AMONG the various organizations of Albright organized to be of aid to the students in finding their place in the practical world after college days, is the Cleric; the society for the ministerial student. As its name indicates, a student must be a "clerk in holy orders" to be a member.

The purpose of the society, as was indicated above, is to give the ministerial student some practical knowledge of his life's work. It endeavors to enable him to catch a glimpse of the vital work expected of him in his field of labor. It goes further. It also attempts to prepare him to meet these needs and to produce results equal to his high expectations.

It does this by arranging for the most practical meetings possible. The ones in charge secure men in the actual work to present to the members various problems that are likely to prove troublesome to the young minister; and to present facts and ideas that prove invaluable to a young minister. It further advances its practicableness by using different members of the society in giving articles, sermons, or other helpful material. In this way the ministerial students of Albright are prepared in a larger way for the work that faces them after college days are over.

NA, in Amore, More, Ore, Re,"—rightly did our organizers choose, some seventeen years ago, for we, the Themisians, have proved steadfast to our motto in our progress ever onward. Not once have we faltered or questioned when our competent officers gave forth the call to advance, so thoroughly are we united.

The Themisian Literary Society has proved its birth was justified. Each girl is given the right to prove her worth, an opportunity to develop her particular gift, and readily does she respond, be her contribution of an instructing or merely entertaining character. Thus the society was well prepared and indeed anxious to adopt a new and more difficult type of programme. Consequently our society has been divided during the present year into three groups, each studying and presenting the works of a great poet. On three successive Friday evenings we witnessed what was termed a Shakespeare, a Tennyson, and a Browning night. At these meetings the scheduled group presented the work of its chosen poet in a manner both unique and instructive. Each programme, portraying originality of design and execution, was highly commended by the witnesses.

The Themisians are not only interested in the literature and dramatics of the past, but thru the columns of current events, extemporaneous speeches and debating, they also keep the topics of the day before the society. This training is carried on in order to develop speakers to represent the Themisians in the inter-society debates. The "Mudge Loving Cup", thru debating, has stimulated a healthy rivalry between the three literary societies. The friendly back-fire of this rivalry has developed marvelous debates among the girls. This is proved by the fact that the Themisians again hold this coveted "Cup"—now for two years in our possession; last year won from the Excelsior Society, this year from the Neocosmian Society, next year with the same spirit, ours again.

Themisians, we can most truly sing,—

"Here's to our team
Our glorious team—"

Thus with the competent leaders we choose each term, our society continues to march forward, keeping the motto before it as a guiding star.

EBRUARY ninth, 1923, marked the celebration of the sixty-fifth anniversary of the Neocosmian Literary Society as a student organization. These sixty-five years have been years of fluctuating development, as is evidenced by the fact that at one time the membership of the society dwindled to one individual. In spite of the numerous reverses of the past year, this year finds the society flourishing with an enrollment of forty-seven active members.

The object of the founders of the society was to provide the means whereby the literary ability of its members may be advanced and developed, and this aim continues to be the goal of the society and continues to govern its activities.

The programs rendered during the past year have been of exceptional quality. They are varied and very interesting. The musical, debating and public speaking talents are the ones to which most attention is given. The Neocosmian programs reached their zenith in the excellent anniversary program. The results are shown by the fact that the Neocosmians have their quota on the inter-collegiate debating team and in the other literary spheres of the college.

The Neocosmian Literary Society may rightly be called the laboratory of English and the drill-field of personality. Not only are the benefits of membership in this society revealed in school life but the alumni of the organization testify to its success and benefits, and their success proves our success as a society. As yet we have not reached the goal of perfection, but the goal always lies before us. May the motto of the Neocosmians in school or out ever be "ONWARD".

In the hall of the Excelsior Literary Society there is a picture of a youth climbing a mountain. Below him is a long way fraught with difficulty over which he has come. Ahead, far ahead perhaps, is the summit of the mountain on which he has his eyes fixed and toward which he is resolutely pressing. In his hand is a banner bearing the inscription "Excelsior". As one looks at the picture he is impressed with the youth, the difficult way, the mountain and its summit, and the banner.

The picture is symbolic. The youth is the Excelsior Literary Society; the difficult way is its history; the mountain and its summit are its literary attainment and goal; and the banner is its banner bearing its name and motto.

Like the youth our society is spirited, determined, and pressing on to its goal. The celebration of its 67th anniversary on November 10, 1922, showed that the society is talented and ambitious, partly so through the rich heritage of its history.

The society began its existence in 1856, just fifteen years after Longfellow had written "Excelsior". In 1861 it was duly incorporated by the Court of Common Pleas in Union County. In 1887 it became a literary institution of rank in Central Pennsylvania College, and in 1902 when that college united with Albright, the achievement of the honored society became the foundation of its larger life.

In its larger life the society is advancing toward the summit of the mountain of literary achievement, but that goal is yet far ahead. Progress is sure but slow, for such attainment is reached only through hard work. This the society is willing to do, being unceasingly inspired by the spirit symbolized by the banner and the inscription "Excelsior". Long ago New York State chose that name as her motto. In its meaning is also the motto of the Excelsior Literary Society, "Higher". The society, enlivened by the spirit of that motto, shows superior quality, for

" 'Tis not in mortals to command success,
But we'll do more, Sempronius; we'll deserve it."

R. E. KAUFMAN, '24, Historian

Debating

We have now reached the second year of Inter-Collegiate Debating at Albright. Four of last year's men remained as a nucleus of this year's teams. Around these four men, powerful teams were built up, teams of which no college would have to be ashamed. Professor Keller deserves much credit for the courage and spirit that he constantly instilled into the teams, and for his unflagging interest that constantly spurred them on to greater efforts. Six of the eight men on the teams were Juniors and this gives us a good foundation for next year.

Gettysburg dropped out of the league this year, so that we had only two colleges to debate. However, by next year, we are hoping that there will be at least six colleges on our lists, as this fact would tend to stir up more interest and enthusiasm both among the debaters and the student body. In addition to the league debates we will also probably debate Bucknell University in an open forum debate some time in April.

Football Resume for 1922

The final whistle sounding over the waters of Lake Cayuga in New York State marked the close of another successful football season for Albright College. Just eleven weeks before this game, Coach Benfer called out his squad for the first practice. He had, as a nucleus for his team, eight letter men from the 1921 team. The squad swelled to thirty-five men when school started, but not long after they began to desert until at times hardly enough were out for scrimmage. Those that remained were hard and determined fighters and stuck until the last game, always giving the best that was in them. Night after night they battled until dark in order that Albright should be represented with a formidable eleven on the gridiron. Manager N. E. Escott had arranged the following schedule:

September 23	Franklin-Marshall	at Lancaster
September 30	Juniata	at Myerstown
October 7	Dickinson	at Carlisle
October 14	Penna. Military College	at Chester
October 21	Susquehanna	at Selinsgrove
October 28	Schuylkill	at Myerstown
November 4	Ursinus	at Myerstown
November 11	Western Maryland	at Myerstown
November 18	Cornell	at Ithaca

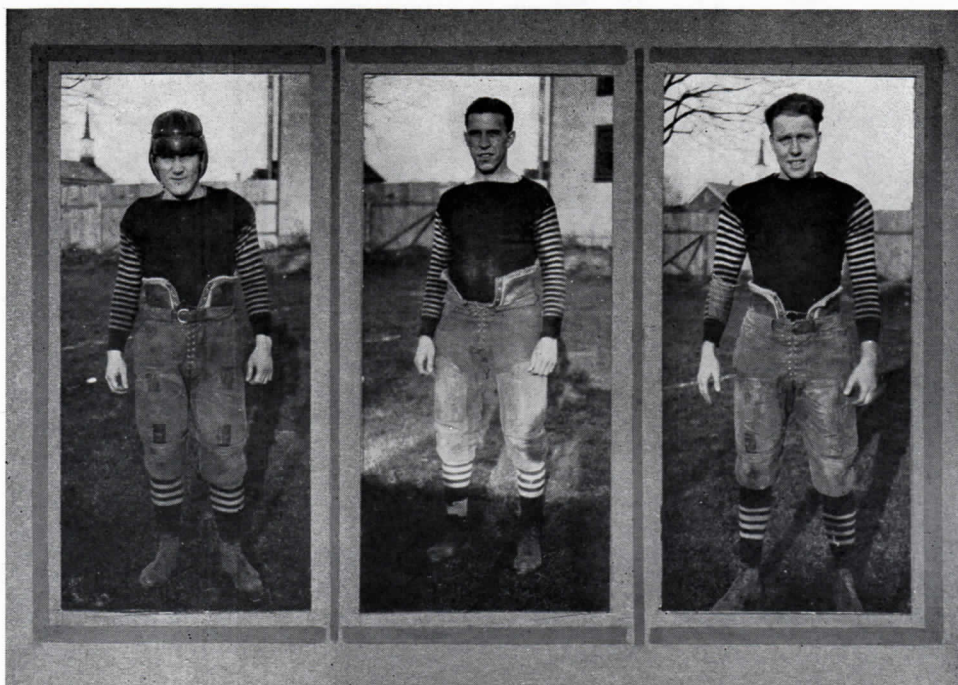

In playing through the schedule our Red and White team won six and lost three. Franklin-Marshall, Dickinson, and Cornell being the only teams to defeat us. In every game we managed to cross our opponents goal line for a score. Amid the cheering of the students and the playing of the band our team left on Sept. 23 for the first game with our old rivals in Lancaster. There, underneath a sweltering sun, we were forced to take the small end of a 23-2 score, but only after a hard game of close football. Sheeley, a star tackle on the 1921 team, was forced out of the game with injuries that kept him on the side lines the rest of the season.

Not dismayed by the defeat at the hands of Franklin-Marshall at Lancaster, our warriors came back and prepared for the Juniata game at Myerstown. Mistakes, and the rough edges that were evident in the former game, were smoothed out, and the team that lined up against Juniata was better by far than they were the week before, and the final score of the game was 34-0. Marked by brilliant line plunging by Edwards, and wonderful defensive work by Robinson, the Red and White presented an assortment of plays that had the lads from Juniata baffled. The scrubs saw their first action in the second half, and all did commendable work.

"On to Dickinson" was the slogan for the next week. Practice was resumed with more "pep" than ever and feeling ran high with the prospects of making it two straight over Dickinson. In the meantime Glenn Killinger had been oiling up his warriors for the fray, and was determined that we should not win. Well, even the weather was in their favor, for the game was played in a drizzling rain which prevented our speedy little backs from getting started. It was easy for their heavy men to keep their footing and we were defeated by the score of 28-7. Miller and Lackey were the outstanding stars of the game. Lackey was a tower of strength on the defense. Time after time attacks were thrust at him only to be stopped dead. On the offense he was especially adept in getting through their lines. Miller, standing on his own 20 yard line caught a punt and carried it through the entire Dickinson team for a touchdown. It was a magnificent run of eighty yards from one corner of the field to the other corner for a touchdown. It was the prettiest piece of open field running seen on Biddle Field this year.

"Parson" Rabuck came to the rescue and promised ducks for a banquet providing they won the next four games. With this incentive in mind the Red and White embarked for Chester for their annual battle with the Cadets. We were victorious after a hard fight, and then by the low score of 13-6. P. M. C. was laying for our far-famed aerial game, but Captain Miller crossed all the dope by playing straight football throughout the entire game. Once again Miller was the shining star. His dazzling open field running paved the way for the winning touchdown. He was not alone in his glory, however, as "Herb" Jago was also a conspicuous figure in the victory. Jago pulled Craig out of the air when the latter was headed for the goal line with the tying score under his arm. He also was clever in breaking through the opponents line and spilling perfectly good plays that never got started.

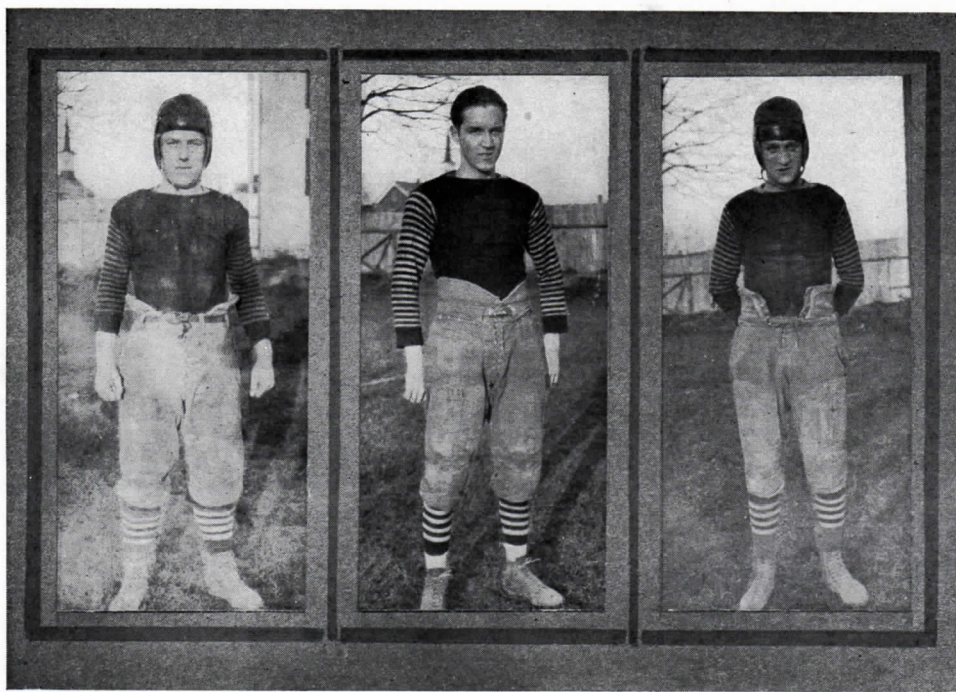

Albright was the attraction at Susquehanna for the Alumni day. Smarting under two defeats, all the old graduates came back to see Coach Peter's proteges "polish off" the Red and White invaders. By failing to score when they had the ball on our two yard line and by reason of being held for downs, and Bolig's falling in the open field, they threw all chances of winning away. The game was really a battle between Saltern of Albright and Rogawicz of Susquehanna. Time after time the big fellows crashed into the opposite lines for gains. It was Saltern's lot to score the winning touchdown, when he pulled a pass out of the air and fell across the goal line. Kline, at end, was also a prominent figure in the victory. Nothing got around his end, while he broke up many plays that were barely started.

The "Scrubs" had a frolic in the Schullkill Seminary game. This was a substituted game and the score of 61-0 tells the tale. The Varsity started the game but in a few minutes all the "Scrubs" were in the game and were taking care of the Seminary lads. Ziegler of the Varsity and Krueger of the "Scrubs" distinguished themselves. Krueger was robbed of a touchdown in the final period when one of his players was detected holding. It has been "Rip's" ambition to secure a touchdown in a Varsity game, but, after four years of reserve football, he was denied the honors because of a misplay. Time alone prevented him from carrying it across a second time, as he had the ball on the five yard line when the whistle blew.

The fourth win came when Albright triumphed over Ursinus by a 27-0 score. The victory was a costly one, as Saltern, the big half-back and star line plunger, was carried out after the first play. Later it was found out that his shoulder was broken. Miller, our plucky little quarter-back, was also taken out with sprained ligaments in the leg. Dech, who piloted the team after this, did commendable work. Zievers jumped into the limelight when he pulled down a seemingly impossible pass from Miller and fell across the line for the third score of the game. Besides this he played a sterling game at end. Prigg, our 210 pound guard, also pulled down a pass intended for an Ursinus man, and headed for the goal line. He almost reached it but a lone tackler stopped him near the goal line, thus robbing him of a touchdown.

Displaying an excellent brand of passes, end runs, fake plunges, and cross bucks, taught by the crafty "Haps" Benfer, Albright defeated Western Maryland by the score of 20-0. Neither team scored in the first half, but in the second the Albright machine got to functioning properly and rolled up three touchdowns, Ziegler by his fine plunging and defensive work, was easily the star of the game. Crumbling was also an outstanding figure in the victory. The big center stopped everything that started his way, and also went to meet the opposition before they got to him.

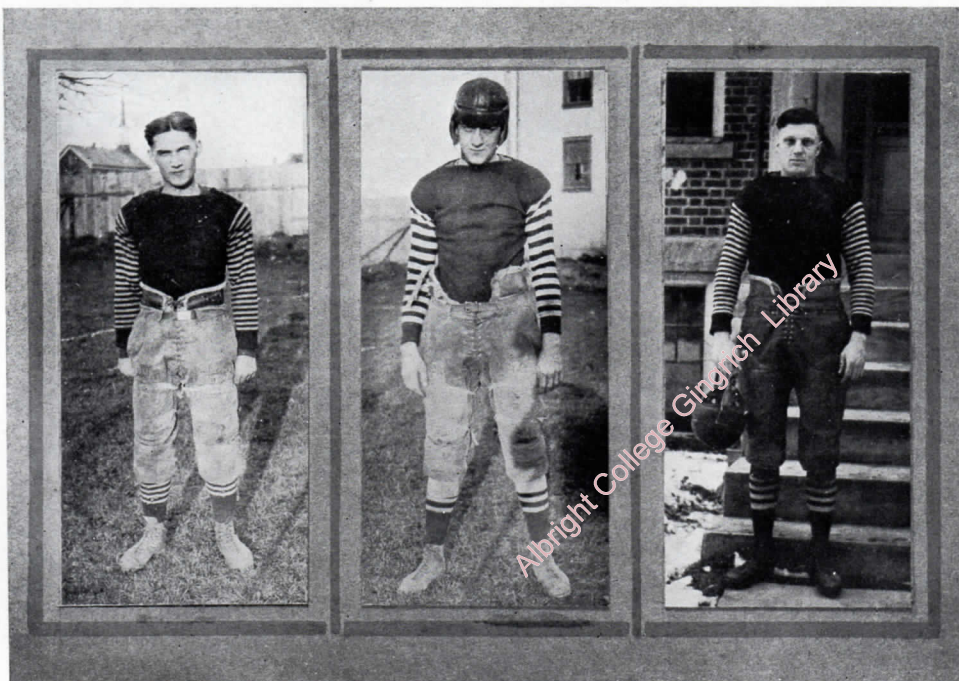

The spills and thrills were saved for the last game. This was with Cornell, the Champion team of the East. We were defeated 48-14, but we also scored more points on Cornell than had been scored by any one team in two seasons, and more than the rest combined scored this year. We broke two records that day. Hollenbaugh, standing on his own three yard line, caught one of "Swede" Hanson's kickoffs and started for the goal line 97 yards away. By fine running, combined with excellent interference on the part of his team-mates, he succeeded in placing the ball between the goal posts. It was an excellent piece of open field running through the entire first Varsity of Cornell. Eclipsed only by the marvelous run of Hollenbaugh was the run of Dech in the third period. Starting our own five yard line on a trick play, Dech ran the length of the field for our second touchdown. So completely baffled by the play was the Cornell team that Dech was well under way before they noticed him, and then he was too far in advance to be caught.

To the reserves should go part of the success of the season. J. Lackey, Leh, Derr, Mehaffie, Benfer, Shoenley, Leinbaugh, Hoffman, McFall, Weiss, and Kaufman all did good work the entire season.

To our coach goes the real praise. When it is considered that our male student body is less than one hundred, it is remarkable that any kind of a team can be gotten together. But Benfer, by his knowledge of the game, his selection of material, and his handling of men, has moulded out of this student body a team that any college can well be proud of. All hail to our Coach and his team.

Now that the referee's whistle has sounded for the last time of the season; now that the forwards, centers, and guards are turning into pitchers, catchers, and fielders; it is fitting to turn back and view the past basketball season. The record books show that the quintet played fourteen games, seven of which were on strange courts. Eight of these fourteen games were Albright victories. There were six defeats, but every defeat of the season was suffered at the hands of a team playing on its own court. This is a noteworthy fact.

With the return of three letter men; Kline, Dech, and Miller; "Haps" had the nucleus around which to build a strong team. At first call many men turned out, the most promising candidates being, Raffensperger, Zellers, Hollenbaugh, Derr, Ziegenfus, Abel, and Hoffman, the last five being freshmen. After a few weeks the team was working together in fine shape due to the fine coaching of Benfer.

As a season opener we defeated St. Luke's of Lebanon in a one-sided game. During the following weeks our coach took sick and the team had to practice alone in addition to making the trips without their leader. During his sickness the team lost to Swarthmore, Bucknell, and Susquehanna. The following week, however, we came back strong and defeated the strong Villanova crew. This started Albright on a winning streak which snowed under the University Club of Reading, the Alumni, State Forestry, Moravian, and Muhlenburg.

This winning streak was checked by P. M. C., and the following week Lehigh and Lafayette handed us defeats. The last game was played with Susquehanna on our home floor and the old saying "revenge is sweet" was found to be true. The letter men are Kline, Dech, Miller, Raffensperger, Zeller, and Hollenbaugh.

1922 RESULTS

The season of 1922 is history. It was featured by flashes of good, bad, and indifferent baseball. Although the team was defeated seven times, eight victories were won, which gives us a season of average success. Despite the fact that Coach Benfer had but four regulars from the preceding season; Hartzler, Wagner, Miller, and Knecht, yet he succeeded, with these as a nucleus, in rounding out a snappy combination. Much credit is due the coach for the success of this team.

The following are the 1922 letter men:

MILLER, L. F.
MAUREY, C. F.
JONES, C. F.
WAGNER, I B.

HARTZLER, 3 B. (Captain)
DECH, 2 B.
KNECHT, S. S.

Baseball Prospects for 1923

If future events can be successfully predicted, then prospects point to a great success in baseball this year. Practice was called early and a large number reported and are rapidly getting into condition. Although Coach Benfer once again has only four regulars; Captain Dech, Miller, Yost, and Jones, to build his team around. Yet, because of the wealth of material, we predict a most successful season. A large schedule of games has been arranged by Manager Kline.

The 1923 Schedule

April 14F. and M. (away)
April 20Blue Ridge (here)
April 21Dickinson (away)
April 28P. M. C. (away)
May 2Swarthmore (away)
May 4Pending
May 5Blue Ridge (away)
May 9Ursinus (away)
May 10Washington (here)
May 11Bucknell (away)
May 12Susquehanna (away)
May 19Mercersburg (away)
May 25Muhlenburg (away)
May 26Dickinson (here)
May 30Moravian (here)
June 1Susquehanna (here)
June 2Moravian (away)
June 9Univ. Club (here)
June 11Muhlenburg (here)
June 12Alumni (here)

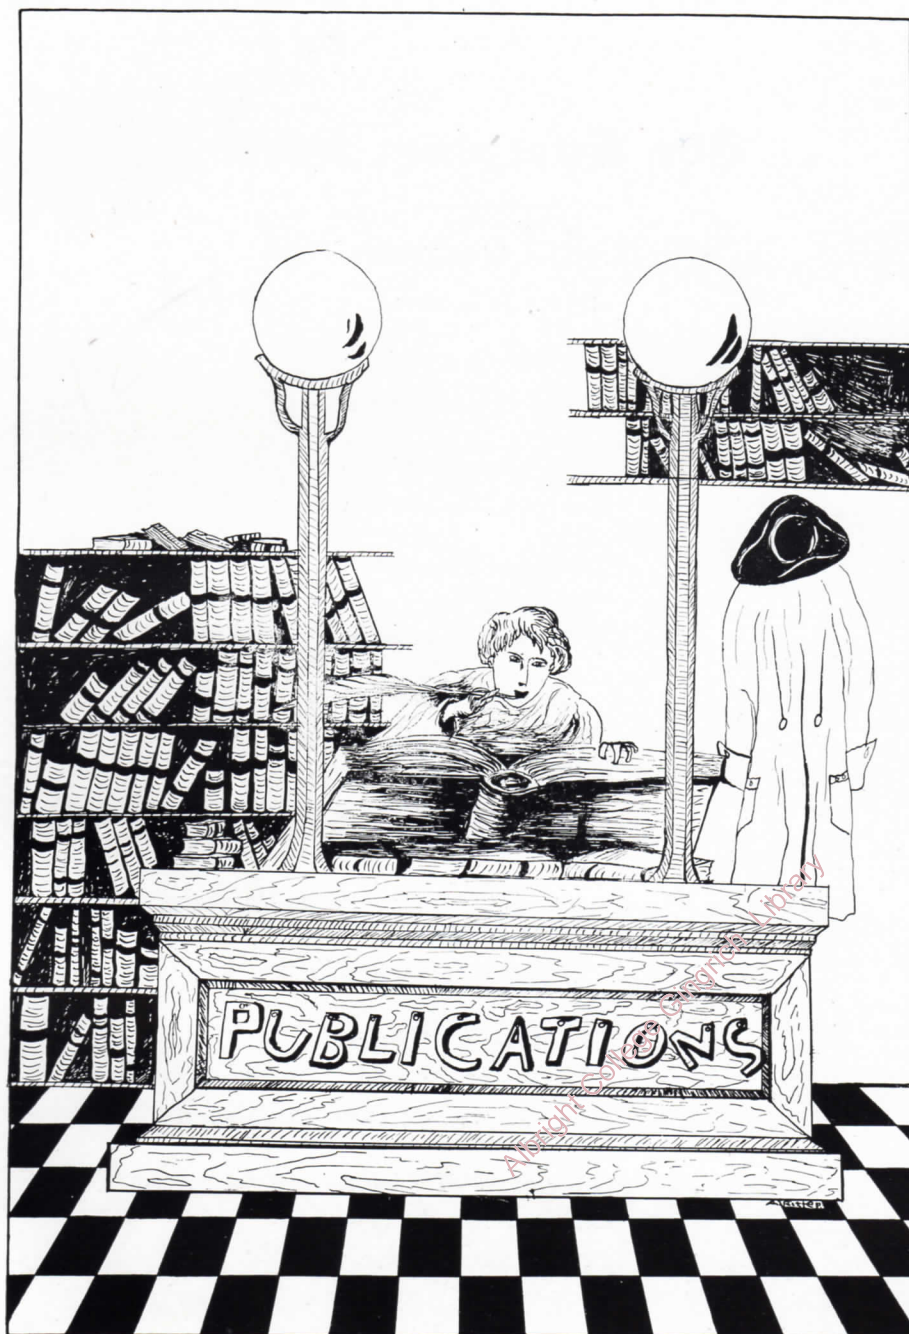

With this schedule and the material that we have for the teams, we feel that this should be a great year for baseball in Albright. Baseball spirit is running high, and practically every position is being contested. The following new candidates have reported:

Hollenbaugh—Mt. Union High—Catcher
 Leh—Allentown High—Outfielder
 Ziegenfus—Bethlehem Prep—Pitcher
 Leinbach—Robeson High—Infielder
 Zeller—Myerstown High—Infielder.

There are also a large number of last year's "Yanigans" who are contesting for regular berths this year including, Grumbling, Raffensperger, Henninger, Swank and Hoffman.

"Spanish Jokes"

Professor Eisenmenger: "A book which was returned today looks as though it had passed through a certain portion of eternity."

Freshman: "Say, does Miss Rosser have a 'case' on Willard Miller?"

Sophomore: "Why?"

Freshman: "Yesterday he leaned over and buckled her galoshes, and she said, 'Oh, that was darling of you'."

Escott: (Making an announcement in his church) "The Janitor and I will hold our regular weekly prayer-meeting on Wednesday evening."

Rev. Heck: (Reading the Scripture Lesson.) "Blessed is he that sitteth not in the seat of the scornful."

Prof. Eisenmenger: "That means the two back pews in church."

Deacons: "Reverend, we are going to raise your salary to three hundred dollars."

John Ginter: "Raise my salary to three hundred dollars? Don't you attempt it! I won't stand for it! It pays me out to collect those two hundred dollars."

Professor Eisenmenger: "An object appears larger when luminous than when dark."

Kyle: "Is that why a fellow takes up so much room when he's 'lit up'?"

Shick: "Are you going to the 'Harp-Vocal Concert'?"

Snyder: "No."

Shick: "You're taking an awful chance. You're not likely to hear any harps in the next world."

Prof. Keller: "Holmes gives us a beautiful thought when he says that he grants his intimate friends the side door of his friendship."

Kachel: "Oh I don't know. Today it is the ice-man, the rag-man and the peddler that we have come to the side door."

Miss Garlach had just finished asking a blessing at the noon meal.

Dubs: "Holy Cats! I thought he called on Miss Scott. I wondered."

Miss Phillips: "Boys, what do you want to use as the closing number of your concerts?"

"Rip": "Let's sing 'Ah, How I Hate to go Home Alone.'"

Ray Lackey: "Well, Clyde Hewitt, is your mind 'Clarified' today?"

In Logic Class the other day someone maintained that Manney was a fallacy because he had an undistributed middle.

Mail went to Mohn Hall for 'Mrs. Herman Mowery'. All the girls immediately laid claim to it.

Heard at the Waiters' Table.

Snyder: "What would you gentlemen say if I would raise a mustache?"

Burgett: "We wouldn't say anything. We'd never notice it."

Snyder: "Ministers' sons are of three classes; one class rules the world, a second class goes to the devil, and the third class just floats in between."

Kaufman: "Well, you don't rule the world—."

Mowery: "And I don't see you floating."

Burgett: "Therefore—."

Teter: "In York County the farmers wrap tissue paper around their potatoes when they plant them. It gives a much bigger crop."

Snyder: (Who always "bites".) "How do you account for that?"

Teter: "It keeps the dirt out of their eyes."

Kaufman: "She fell down the steps and hit her head on the piano. She didn't hurt herself, however, for she landed on the soft pedal."

Mowery: "Kaufman was out with a girl this afternoon."

Barnhart: "Did you take her arm?"

Kaufman: "Only once when she threatened to fall in a mud-puddle."

Sechrist: "Study on this labor question has made you resemble Gompers."

Kaufman: "Rats! I don't resemble Gompers any more than you resemble Cupid."

Sad Reports of the Glee Trip.

Roland: (As the elevator descended) 'Now we'll find Who Swallowed Jonah.'

Kemmerer: "Is there a place in town where they launder shirts while you wait?"

Kemmerer: "Gimme some talcum-powder, I wanna dry-clean a collar."

What did he mean? "Rip": (On the train from Pittsburgh.) "Get up, 'Zeke', I want to pinch your seat."

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE FACULTY.

The Crape Hanger preferred a serious charge against Dr. Shick, viz. that he came late to breakfast. After much discussion pro, he received one demerit.

After Dis-Cussing the church question in brotherly love, they dispersed.

SCANDAL FEATURES

Martha Sheeley entertains friends at forenoon tea. Time was pleasantly spent in gossip and forecast of fashion. Mabel Polk and Peggy Raffensperger assisted the hostess in serving. Owing to the high price of sugar, coffee was served instead of tea.

Among those present were Clara Hewitt, Ethel McFall, Anna Luckenill and Leah Andrews.

The Faculty has at last decided that College work must no longer interfere with social activities.

UNITED STATES HOTEL

Hot and cold dancing. Dyspeptic sandwiches, hair salad, and a tooth brush attached to key.

THE ALBRIGHT FOLLIES A HOWLING SUCCESS.

Large crowds witness the Passing Show of '24 on Mohn Hall campus on May Day. Fair lassies in picturesque costumes sway to the rhythmic strains of Miller's all-star colored jazz-hounds dance orchestra. Front seats were filled with weak-eyed gentlemen equipped with field glasses and smoke-colored glasses were conspicuous by their absence. Everyone came provided with Evangelical Hymnals and Prof. Manney conducted singing.

Proceeds for benefit of home for retired college presidents.

ALBRIGHT COLLEGE

Situated on a high bluff and run on the same principle, altho there is a redeeming feature in that she heads the "black list". Weak student body; weaker faculty.
