

Election Managers Discuss Candidates

The ALBRIGHTIAN

Serving Albright College Since 1904

No. 17

Candidates for the office of Student Council president selected their campaign managers and placed their nominating petitions in circulation during the past week. The Albrightian contacted the various campaign managers in order to learn why they had accepted the positions for their respective candidates.

George Mack, '59, president of the Kappa Upsilon Phi social fraternity, cited several reasons for accepting the position of campaign manager for Herbert Zakrisson, '59. Among these were, "his (Zakrisson's) leadership ability, proven during his successful term as president of the Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, his understanding of the needs of the day students and his positive attitude toward fraternities and sororities."

Mack Cites

Mack also named as important in making his decision the fact that "Herb has no ties with the administration and can deal with them openly, he has the time to devote to this most important job and he is personable and sincere."

Mack continued, "I have discussed Herb's platform with him, and I am convinced that it represents a comprehensive coverage of the needs and desires of Albright students."

Stanley Michalak, '60, Paul Reetz's, '59, campaign manager, stated that he is backing Reetz, "because I firmly believe that Paul is working for the common goals and interests of all."

Opinion Given

Michalak stated that he can not as yet discuss Reetz's platform, but he can "prove Reetz's competence by his unblemished record of past experience in the service of Albright."

In substantiating his claim, Michalak cited Reetz's success as chairman of the Friday night activities committee and his record of integrity as treasurer of the Daymen's Association.

"And most of all," said Michalak, "none of Mr. Reetz's motions made in Student Council have been approved by the administration; judging from our administration this certainly proves that Mr. Reetz is working in our behalf."

Ed Traves, '60, and Lee Swartz, '58, explaining their reasons for accepting the positions of co-managers for Robert Goldsmith's, '59, campaign said, "we are convinced that he (Goldsmith) will do a most outstanding job."

Grant Elected Yearbook Head

Thomas Grant, '59, was elected editor of the 1959 yearbook, The Cue, at a meeting of the junior class recently.

Candidates for the position of yearbook editor wrote letters of application which were submitted for approval by the faculty committee on student publications. These letters were then read before the junior class.

Grant received the necessary majority vote. Janet Weber, '59, and Anne Young, '59, were also candidates for the editorship.

One Applies

The only applicant for business manager is Robert Chernok, '59. Yesterday the class was approached concerning the election of a student for this position.

The committee on student publications suggested there should be at least two candidates in such an election. If there are no other candidates for the position, the committee and new editor would meet to select a business manager. These suggestions were submitted for a class vote.

Grant is the newly elected president of the Pi Tau Beta social fraternity and has been class treasurer for the past two years.

A political science major and an English minor, he is chairman of a Religion-in-Life Week sub-committee. He also served as Pi Tau representative to Student Council last semester.

Baptist Clergyman Selected To Speak For Religion Week

The Rev. Dr. Lynn Leavenworth, administrator of the American Baptist Convention, will be the guest speaker for Religion-in-Life, beginning Monday, Mar. 24.

According to the Rev. Eugene H. Barth, college chaplain, Dr. Leavenworth will be available for chapel and vesper services as well as private conferences during the four-day religious emphasis period.

Director

A Baptist clergyman, Dr. Leavenworth is currently Director of Theological Education for the Board of Education and Publication for the American Baptist Convention.

He is a graduate of the University of Redlands and the recipient of the Ph.D. in contemporary theology from Yale University in 1950. He holds the B.D. degree from the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School.

Following pastorates in California, Washington and Connecticut, Dr. Leavenworth served for six years at the Merrimack Street Baptist Church, Manchester, N. H. During the last pastorate he was a trustee of the United Baptist Convention of New Hampshire and president of the Manchester Minister's Association.

Auto Registration

H. Eugene Pierce, superintendent of buildings and grounds, has requested that students bring their automobile registration up to date by filing their new license tag numbers, when received, at the treasurer's office. New students and those Albrightians who have recently acquired cars have also been asked to register their automobiles at the same office.

Noted Actor Will Appear In Final Culture Program

Arnold Moss, noted actor touring under the management of National Artists Corporation, will appear at the final cultural program in chapel Thursday. He will present his popular solo dramatic program, "Seven Ages of Man."

Arnold Moss

"Seven Ages of Man" is a panorama of dramatic literature interpreting the seven major steps through which Shakespeare said all must pass in a lifetime.

The growing pains of the teenager and the golden-wedding quarrel are two touches of high comedy which bring balance to a program that also includes moments of both serious and inspirational flavor. The program culminates in a philosophy intended to give the listener renewed strength and faith for each stage of life.

On Broadway

One of America's most versatile actors, Moss has been starred and featured in the Broadway theatre, in motion pictures and in television and radio. His face and voice are familiar throughout the country.

Broadway plays in which he has appeared include: "King Lear," "The Tempest," "Twelfth Night," "Measure for Measure," Christopher Fry's "The Light is Dark Enough," with Katherine Cornell and Tyrone Power, Ernest Hemingway's "The Fifth Column," George Kaufman's "The Land is Bright" and Elmer Rice's "Flight into the West."

Among his films are, "Cassanova's Big Night," with Bob Hope, "Salome," "Kim," "Viva Zapata," "Loves of Carmen," with Rita Hayworth, and "My Favorite Spy."

TV audiences have seen him on "Omnibus," "The Kraft Theatre," "Studio One" and "Suspense."

Wins Acclaim

On the New York stage, Moss has won highest acclaim for the many leading roles he has played in productions of The Theatre Guild, the Playwrights Company, Cheryl Crawford, Guthrie McClintic and others. He is the only native-born American of his generation who has received critical honors for his interpretation on Broadway of three Shakespearian roles.

He has appeared with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra and as speaking soloist on several occasions with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Coffee Hour Scheduled

The annual International Coffee Hour for students and faculty will be held today at 3 p.m. in the Blue Room of Selwyn Hall.

Sponsored by the Woman's Student Association, the affair is under the co-chairmanship of Margaret Brookes, '60, and Nancy Foote, '60, and will feature exhibits from the various countries represented by foreign students on campus.

'Pygmalion' Opens; Committees Listed

"Pygmalion," the Domino Club's spring production, opened yesterday in White Chapel Hall. It will be presented again tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15 p.m.

Patricia A. Hostetter, instructor in English, has announced the production committees. Richard Matthews, '60, is stage manager.

The lighting is under the direction of Robert Schor, '60, and Gary Stone, '60. The stage crew is made up of Mitchell Cohen, '61, Merrill Cohen, '61, and Steven Roth, '61.

The set was designed by George Walck, '61. Howard Deck, '61, and David Bloomgarden, '61, are in charge of sound effects.

Costumes

Costumes are under the direction of Margaret Schultz, '60, chairman, Rosalie Knight, '61, Mary Lou Frahn, '61, and Joyce McQuay, '61. Nancy Linton, '60, chairman, Miss Frahn, Miss Knight and Sandra Miller, '60, are on the make-up committee.

James Garofalo, '61, chairman, Curtis Keller, '61, Nancy Hartman, '61, Marilyn Evans, '61, and Beverly Barthold, '61, make up the properties committee.

Publicity is under the direction of Clair Graffius, '59, and Vaughn Mervine, '59. Tickets are under the direction of Eleanor Schmickly, '60.

Janet Weber, '59, chairman, Anne Gilbert, '60, Frances Jervis, '60, and Margaret O'Rourke, '61, are on the prompting committee. Grace Engleman, '60, is in charge of the ushers.

Democratic, Republican Candidates Face Primary Election Challenges

Benjamin Disraeli, the nineteenth century English statesman said, "Variety is the mother of Enjoyment." If this statement is true, Pennsylvania voters will have a very enjoyable spring. They will have the opportunity of selecting from a variety of possible choices their candidates for governor.

As usual, the state machines of both the Democratic and Republican parties are at work grinding out slates of approved candidates for the coming primary elections. All is not peaceful within the two parties, however, with respect to the gubernatorial nominees.

The Democratic leaders selected the erstwhile David Lawrence, mayor of Pittsburgh, as the organization backed candidate for governor. He faces an intra-party challenge in the person of Roy Furman, the present Lieutenant governor.

Arthur McGonigle, Reading manufacturer, was named as the Republican's organization-backed gubernatorial candidate. While facing no expressed challenges within the party, he is opposed by an independent Republican, Harold Stassen.

Western Politician

Lawrence, at 68, heads the Democratic machine in the western part of the state. His selection was a compromise between Richardson Dilworth, mayor of Philadelphia, and Furman.

The compromise was necessitated when the Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, present Governor George Leader, favored Dilworth and opposed Furman, with the party organization frowning on the Philadelphia mayor because of recent controversial statements by him.

Furman, not at odds with Leader for the first time, decided to enter the primary against Lawrence without the party's support.

McGonigle, in his bid for the Republican nomination, is aided by the full backing of the party organization. Stassen, who recently resigned as President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, has returned to Pennsylvania to campaign for the gubernatorial post.

He has maintained a residence in the state since his term as president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Rejected by the party organization, Stassen is campaigning as an independent Republican, and seems to be seeking support from voters disillusioned with the state's two political machines.

WUS Week Deserves Albrightians Support

World University Service Week will begin on campus Sunday. Eustace Renner, '59, chairman of the YMCA-YWCA sponsored program, has been tireless in his efforts at promoting the cause of WUS. These efforts reached a highpoint this week with the presentation of an excellent panel program in chapel. Albright's foreign students sketched life in Hungary, Jamaica, Hong Kong and Switzerland.

WUS Week, which will culminate in Sports Night, deserves the support of all Albrightians. Renner, who came to Albright from Sierra Leone in Africa, has stated, "Throughout the world, including our own country, university students are in urgent and great need of help. Tomorrow's leaders are in the classrooms of today—or would be if given the opportunity."

"The future of our world depends upon the trained leaders, especially in the countries which are working toward self-government. This is the only way Albright students are able to help others all over the world have an education."

"With a spirit of co-operation, let us help show real concern. The peace of the world hangs very heavily on the education of the to-be leaders. Let us give to WUS not because we have to give, but because we want to give. We pray for your support and help."

Four Freshmen

When the Four Freshmen were booked at the Esquire Lounge in Dayton, they had no idea it was to prove one of the most important dates in their career. For seated among the patrons on opening night was Stan Kenton. He was so impressed by their imaginative arrangements and standout musicianship, that he brought the group to Hollywood to cut their first sides for the Capitol label. This was the first real break that was to bring the combo within months to their first motion picture and great heights of popularity.

Composed of Ross and Don Barbour, Ken Albers and Bob Flanigan, the quartet had a humble beginning in 1948 at the Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music in Indianapolis where they first met. Discovering that they had mutual tastes and a happy blend of voices, the boys decided to try to apply their talents commercially.

Beginning

Playing all types of towns throughout the country, the four Indiana boys soon established big local following. Before long, fans were rushing to such spots as the Crest in Detroit and the Blue Note in Chicago to hear the combo. However, it was not until after their recent Capitol Recording successes that the FOUR FRESHMEN hit the big time. Their success on records have made them one of the hottest groups in the country, both in colleges and in clubs. For three consecutive years they have managed to be chosen by the readers of both DOWNBEAT and METRONOME MAGAZINES as the top vocal group in the nation. They were chosen to record the love song for the sound track of the Paramount picture, LUCY GALLANT, starring Jane Wyman and Charlton Heston. Their tremendous success at the Hollywood Bowl awakened the entire nation as to their power as a concert attraction. In view of this fact, the Four Freshmen were booked to join the NAT "KING" CELESTED HEATH tour in 1956.

Versatility

The foursome is especially noted for its versatility. Ross, the drummer, doubles on trumpet. His brother, Don, the guitar man, splits vocal solos with Ken, who handles trumpet, bass and mellophone. Bob plays bass and trombone.

Next Saturday night, March 22, they will be appearing at Rajah Temple. The vitality and refreshing originality of the Four Freshmen continues to amass even greater favoritism.

History Of Retreat Near Bangor Noted

By JOHN RAMSEY

Kirkridge is probably nothing more than a name to most Albright students. To a few, however, it is much more than that; it is a living fellowship and Christian concern.

Physically, Kirkridge is a farmhouse located near Bangor, in the Pocono Mountains. It was purchased several years ago for a retreat center and serves now as an experiment in living together.

John Oliver Nelson of Yale Divinity school was one of the individuals who saw the need of such a place. It is modeled after the Iona Community in Scotland, under the leadership of George MacLead.

Devotion

The Kirkridge community consists of people who have felt the need for a deeper awareness of Christ in their everyday living. They are laymen, coming from factories and other places of employment to live and work together. They then return to their occupations and work among their neighbors.

Groups of people come to Kirkridge for retreats lasting from three days to a week or more. The size of the group, varies, but it is usually about 20 or 25. They prepare their own meals and take care of other necessities as well as doing something to improve the property itself.

Poconos

In addition to the farmhouse, there are many acres of land and a lodge on a mountain top commanding a superb view of the countryside. This can be reached by car or by walking. A popular, though arduous, way is by climbing a path up the mountainside. The view more than makes up for the long hard walk.

Each year a group from Albright goes to Kirkridge during the semester vacation period. It is a dynamic experience and each individual who goes comes away with a heightened appreciation of humanity and a deepened faith in God and Christ.

(The weekend of Saturday, April 12 and Sunday, April 13 will feature a Kirkridge retreat by the Student Christian Movement with several delegates from Albright in attendance.)

LETTERS To The Editor

To the Editor:

In your last issue of the paper you covered a number of things very adequately and your wholehearted support of the student-faculty dinner is helpful.

In your editorial you said: "As plans now stand, all award winners will be announced at this dinner—except the recipients of the Gold A awards." This is not in keeping with the facts. The Faculty Committee on Honors and Awards has been engaged in the problem of determining just which awards can be made as early as May 19 and the matter of Gold A's is also being given consideration. The Committee has not yet reported to the faculty.

Sincerely yours,
 H. V. MASTERS

(Editor's Note): Oops! The information received by The Albrightian indicated that it had already been decided just which awards would be presented May 19. The Albrightian is glad that the issue is still open and continues to hope that the winners of the Gold A's will be announced at the all-campus awards dinner.

Pre-Law Student Chosen Personality

By CEIL CALIENDO

Lee Swartz's activities began in his freshman year when he became varsity manager of the basketball team. This year he was sports editor of The Albrightian and the Cue and is a member of the Pi Tau Beta social fraternity.

Besides reading, going for walks and fishing, Lee enjoys writing as one of his hobbies. He has a job this summer with the Patriot News of Harrisburg.

For his own enjoyment he writes poems and is interested in poetry. Next year Dickinson Law School will welcome Lee. He has long years of study ahead before he becomes a lawyer but Lee is sure of himself. And we have confidence in him, too, for with a driving spirit such as his success will come in whatever he does.

IN THE LION'S DEN

By MIKE TEITELMAN, Sports Editor

The following is a reprint of a letter sent to the sports editor of the "Hawk," the student newspaper of St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia.

Dear Sir:

I have read in your special edition of the Hawk that quote, "an inferior Albright team beat the Hawks on one of those nights by one point." Perhaps you would want to delete the word beat and claim victory also.

We have been referred to as a poor team, weak and as just plain bad, but never as inferior. Where, sir, do you get the nerve or the idea that Albright is inferior to your supposedly high flying Hawks who are in the National Invitation Tournament in New York? All one has to ask is who won and your argument is shot full of holes. But let me rip it to shreds also.

Albright Shot 46% . . .

Albright, in conquering St. Joseph's shot 46% from the floor. St. Joseph's shot 48%. If shooting 48% is experiencing a bad night, then the Hawk gunners have better eyes than the eagle eyed owl. St. Joseph's outbounded Albright by a considerable margin and had much more success from the foul line. Yet that "inferior" team licked St. Joseph's. That "inferior" team, with its captain and leading rebounder both out for the season, licked St. Joseph's. That "inferior" team, trailing by nine points with nine minutes to play, rallied for 26 points to lick St. Joseph's.

Against some common opponents, an "inferior" Albright squad beat LeMoyno by 10 points away from home at Latrobe and I read in the papers where the high flying Hawks beat LeMoyno by one point, 69-68 in the last seven seconds, at the Penn Palestra. Albright bowed to Muhlenberg by nine points, the Hawks lost by 12.

To say we resent the word "inferior" is being diplomatic. We feel it is a slur against our team, our college and our faculty. Anyway you want to put it, "inferior," "lousy," "decrepit," the Albright Lions beat St. Joseph's 77-76. Unless you are Hitler or Stalin, history will record that victory. And to show what good sports we are at Albright, good luck in the NIT.

Intramural Situation . . .

A most unfortunate situation occurred this past weekend when the Intramural All-Star game was cancelled because of a mistake in the schedule. Many members of the intramural team were vigorously complaining, and justly so in this reporter's opinion, about the action of the athletic department. Many members of the All-Stars were seniors and were looking forward to playing in their last All-Star game. Mistakes like this can be prevented by careful scheduling of athletic events and no last minute deals as in the past. The Intramural All-Star game idea is only two years old, but it is almost a fixture on campus. That the student body was disappointed is a mild statement. Let us hope that no further incidents as this occur again.

Congratulations to Fred Dietzel, the recipient of the Ron Regar Award as the outstanding player on the Albright varsity quintet. Dietzel justly deserved the award. He became the third player in all of Albright's basketball history to score 500 points in one season. Dietzel surpassed Eddie Anlian's record of 501 points per season by one point, but fell way short of the all time record set by George Conrad who tallied 614 points in 1955-56.

Lion Triumphs Over Pirates, Hawks, Diplomats Highlight 1957-58 Basketball Campaign

By CRAIG LEFFLER

Albright's 1957-58 court season was inaugurated December 3 with a 92-74 loss to the Scranton Royals and ended in the same manner with Wilkes trouncing the Lions Saturday, by a 73-67 margin.

In the interim the Albright banner flew high in the wake of victories over Seton Hall, St. Joseph's, Franklin and Marshall's pennant-hungry Diplomats.

The Seton Hall affair terminated in a 75-68 indication of good prospects for Albright as the Lions' compiled a 7-5 home record. Unfortunately, the away schedule presented a marked contrast with a log of only three wins and 12 losses.

Those wins were gained at the expense of Lemoyne, Lebanon Valley, and Dickinson.

The Lions' 10-16 overall record was filled with surprises and disappointments. Their peak was probably attained in the St. Joseph's fray, as they mustered 26 tallies in nine minutes to rally from a 60-51 deficit to ground the high-flying Hawks, 77-76. The Lions were a different team in this game from the group that defeated Seton Hall since Merrill Eckhart and Wayne Hudson had left the court scene by the injury route.

Beat Dickinson

The Renkenmen made their final splash in the shimmering pool of success against Dickinson, 89-76, but that was an anti-climax to the F&M battle in which Albright battered the MASC southern division leaders. Much prestige was added to Coach Will Renken's squad with this victory, regardless of the Lions' 7-9 mark in the northern division.

The season's scoring records reveal that Albright notched 1,812 tallies and yielded 1,930 markers

Baby Lions Defeat Wilkes In Finale

Four Baby Lions scored in double figures as the Red and White thumped the Wilkes freshmen 63-51 recently in the season's finale. Ken VanDine led the scoring parade with 17, Chuck Quinn had 14, Cordell Rinehart netted 13 and Mike Varano tallied 11 for the Lions.

The junior varsity finished the year with seven wins and 12 losses. The biggest win for the jayvees was a 54-48 triumph over Seton Hall. The St. Joseph's freshmen barely triumphed over the Albrightians, 59-57. Another heartbreaker was a 72-71 loss to Moravian.

The team was composed of Ken VanDine, Montoursville, who scored 122 points in 11 games. Chuck Quinn, Bloomfield, N. J., netted 201 points in 15 contests. Dick Greene, Asbury Park, N. J., netted 239 points in 12 games.

Greene High Scorer

Greene was the high scorer for the Baby Lions. Charlie Smith, Asbury Park, N. J., scored 146 points in 17 games. Cordell Rinehart, Union, N. J., tallied 169 points in 19 games. Dick Moylan, New York City, scored 189 counters in 16 games. Mike Varano, George James, and Frank Hoffman complete the junior varsity team. The team was coached by "Hops" Guldin.

VanDine, Moylan, Greene, Smith and Quinn alternated on the varsity as the Renkenmen were forced to use replacements from the freshmen team because of the herd of injuries that hit the varsity contingent.

Women Bow To Ursinus

The women's basketball team was defeated 48-28 by the well-balanced Ursinus squad from Collegeville recently. Ursinus, with a fast-breaking, sure-passing offense, jumped to a 19-12 lead in the first period, and maintained that margin during the rest of the game.

Eileen McCracken and Ruth Shaffer led the Albright scoring with 12 and 10 points respectively.

The varsity closed their season this week with games against Elizabethtown and Immaculata. Albright's record consists of a close victory over Millersville, and losses to Drexel, Lebanon Valley and Ursinus. In two playdays, which included teams from Cedar Crest, Moravian, Kutztown and Albright, the Lionesses placed second and tied for first.

The junior varsity met with defeat at the hands of the Ursinus jayvees, dropping the contest 58-17. Suzie Schick and Claire Vogel were high scorers with five and six points, respectively. The jayvees are at the .500 mark with two wins and two losses.

Dietzel Scores 29, Kelly Pumps In 27

Dickinson and Wilkes provided the Lions' last win and loss, respectively, for the 1957-58 basketball season. The Renkenmen closed the campaign with a 10-16 log.

Trailing by 10 points, 47-37, at halftime, the Lions roared back to defeat the Dickinson Red Devils 89-76 on the losers' court. Scoring honors went to Fred Dietzel, who pushed through 29 points. Dick Kelly and Stan Kaminski gathered 27 and 10 points, respectively.

Dick Greene got the Lions off to a short-lived 2-0 lead, but the Red Devils came through with 11 straight points to take command of the situation.

Lions Control Boards

The second half was the Lions'. Albright controlled the boards and penetrated the Red Devils defense with ease. Kelly, who came off the bench last year to score 14 points as the Lions won 81-79, found the range in the second half and the Lions hit 60% of their shots.

Dietzel teamed up with Sam Preston on a series of steals and fast breaks to record most of his points.

The Lions closed the score to 53-51 on Bruce Storms' deuce, and then Kelly dropped in five straight points to give the Lions a lead they never relinquished.

Morgan Has 35

Wilkes, led by George Morgan's 35 points, ended the Lions' two-game winning streak and the season with a 73-67 triumph in the fieldhouse. Kelly led the Lions with 22 points, while Dietzel, who was given the Ron Regar Award at the end of the game, had 17, and Kaminski 13.

Wilkes managed a 32-24 lead in the first half, which was the biggest of the night, but the Lions came back to take a 33-32 halftime lead. Albright opened up five point leads at 54-49, 58-53 and 60-55, but Morgan tied the game at 60. Storms dropped in two for the Lions, who then ran up a 67-64 lead. Wilkes closed the gap and went into the lead on Morgan's basket, and added another five points for good measure in winning their fourteenth contest of the year.

He was a consistent scoring threat and the iron mah in court duty.

Bruce Storms was a tremendous asset in whipping a countless number of rebounds off the boards and in supplying the necessary scoring punch when it was lacking.

Preston Brilliant

Sam Preston was brilliant in court maneuvering as he displayed in the last F&M encounter with eight assists and six steals. His essential value is partially concealed because it doesn't appear in the scoring column, but he represents a sparkling future star.

Dick Kelly and Ernie Firestone were valuable both as starters and reserves. Their significance was revealed against St. Joseph's. Seniors Storms, Firestone, Dick Spayd and Ken Eberle saw their final action in a Red and White court uniform.

for an offensive average of 69.6 and a 74.2 defensive average per game.

The highest offensive total was 89, which was accumulated against Dickinson, and the most notable defensive performances were turned in against Lebanon Valley, who was granted only 50 and 49 points, respectively, in two games.

Fred Dietzel was named the team's outstanding player and received the Ron Regar Award for his accomplishment. He garnered 502 counters in leading the Albright point parade, giving him a 19.3 average per game.

His most valuable contributions were 32 tallies in both the Gettysburg and Moravian encounters, and a 17-point last half spree against F&M.

Stan Kaminski was the second highest point producer, averaging about 16 markers per game, and grabbed a heavy load of rebounds.

Educator Notes Arts Advance

Kingston, R. I.—(I.P.)—"There has been a great movement forward in the arts in the United States since the Second World War and this is reflected in the growth of art education in our colleges and universities." This is the opinion of Joseph L. Cain, head of the art department of the University of Rhode Island, after a four month tour of more than 20 art departments in colleges and universities throughout the East and South.

Great Development

"The creative side of art education is experiencing a great development," Cain says. "A number of colleges which had strong programs, exclusively in art history and appreciation are introducing courses in creative art. The changes of the past twenty-five years have been surprising. More and more professional artists are teaching in colleges and universities and undoubtedly this is an important reason for the trend toward the creative workshop type of art education."

In the 22 colleges, large and small, public and private, men's and women's, that he visited, Cain found great variety in the approach to art. "The liveliest cultural development, however, is in the South. Art is the big thing there and art centers, combining painting, sculpture, drama and music, are springing up throughout the South in connection with institutions of higher education. The Universities of Georgia and North Carolina are outstanding in their teaching of creative art," he says.

Losing four basketball seniors. The team just won't be the same without Dick Spayd, Bruce Storms, Ernie Firestone and Ken Eberle. Oh well, we still have Fred Dietzel, winner of the Ron Regar trophy as the outstanding player of the year.

Albrightians Defend Women's Rights To Gain Modern College Education

College Prof's Idea Rejected By Most

"Is space in college being uselessly devoted to women?" Seventy percent of Albright students say no.

A Syracuse University professor has proposed the idea that the mounting pressure on the nation's colleges could be eased by reducing the number of women students. The idea is based on the premise that men need a college education more than women.

Seven of 10 Albright students, in a survey conducted by The Albrightian, voiced objection to this idea recently.

Objection Based

The greater objection came from the women students interviewed, largely on the basis of the equality of the sexes.

"Women deserve the same rights as men," said one coed. "Education is for all, not just males."

Other reasons for rejecting the idea were, "Intelligence is not a gift to men only! Don't forget there is such an animal as an intelligent female."

"Women need higher education for their own careers and to be more compatible with their husbands."

"Women are the ones who will mold the lives of the children of tomorrow. We should have educated women to do this."

"Men no longer prefer their women, 'beautiful but dumb.'"

"Today women have just as much responsibility as men, and they need an education to fulfill this responsibility."

Other Comments

"Democracy entitles each person to an education."

"Women have as much ability to learn and perhaps exceed men in many fields, such as home economics and interior decorating."

One male student objected because, "Women instill in me the will to do better work."

Albrightians in the 30% that favored the plan for less women in college stated, "Women belong in the kitchen, not in colleges."

"Most women just come to college to catch a man. Why waste the standing job as president of the voice of the student body, the Student Council."

They continued, "Through our association with Bob we have known him to be reliable and interested in the common good of his fellow students. Being a veteran, he will attack the problems of the student body with a mature mind, delving into his backing of experience in dealing with pressing issues most efficiently."

Zakrisson and Goldsmith each have approximately six petitions circulating. Reetz obtained the required 50 signatures and turned his petition over to Pete Wagner, '58, who is responsible for receiving all the petitions.

"Let's face it," said Reetz, "I was the first one to announce my candidacy, the first one to have my petition signed and I'll be the first one to get my campaign on the road."

Goldsmith and Zakrisson, who have both obtained more than the required number of signatures, maintained silence as to their plans.

space on them, when a number of men can't get into college?"

"Too many women are just looking for the 'Mrs.' degree."

Science played an important part in several minority comments, "With the growing need for scientists, we need to train our men."

"Most important jobs in science, government and world matters are given to men."

"Not enough women students take the science courses, which are needed for the country's advancement."

28 Women To Begin Sorority Pledging

Formal sorority pledging will begin Monday for the 28 spring pledges of the two social sororities. Pledging activities will continue until sorority induction ceremonies, Monday, April 18.

Informal pledging took place this week, following pledge induction ceremonies Sunday. The Phi Beta Mu meeting took place in the Pine Room of Selwyn Hall, while the Pi Alpha Tau exercises were held in the Inter-Sorority Lounge.

The Agon Dies

For the second straight year, lack of sufficient funds has forced cancellation of plans for publishing a campus literary magazine.

The first such publication, The Agon, was distributed in the spring of 1956. Since that time, financial difficulties have restricted the printing of such a publication.

The limited funds now in The Agon's treasury will be retained for possible use in issuing a literary magazine next year.
