Assemblies, Social Events, Surveys Highlight Orientation

Program Begins September 13 to Prepare 200 Freshmen for College Life at Albright

Orientation week for approximately 200 freshmen will begin Tuesday, September 13, and continue until Monday, September 19. The program will include worship services, surveys of which this year there are only six instead of eleven; discussion of the various phases of campus life by upperclass leaders and faculty members, personal consultations and recreation. Boarding students will arrive Monday, September 12, and eat in the College Dining Hall Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock.

The program will open Tuesday, September 13, at 9:30 a.m. with an assembly in Union Hall. Lester L. Stabler, Director of Public Relations, will preside and introduce President Harry V. Masters, Dean George W. Walton, Dean of the College; Dean Ruth E. Williams, Dean of Women, and Dean Levan P. Smith, Dean of Men. At 10 o'clock the Psychology Center, directed by Dr. Milton G. Geil, will conduct a college aptitude survey. At 11 o'clock talks will be given by Robert M. White, Student Council president, about student government; by Hazel Moerder, president of the Women's Senate; and Gene Pierce, Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds, concerning the bookstore grounds and buildings. Lunch will be served all freshmen at 12:15 p.m. A second assembly will be held at which time "Albright History and Tradition" will be discussed. At 2:30 there will be a football pre-

109 Gain Dean's List Recognition

Thirty-eight students compiled an academic rating above 1.8 during the second semester of the 1948-49 school year, according to a recent announcement by the Dean's Office. This group comprises the Dean's "A" List. The "B-plus" list, comprising students whose academic rating was between 2.2 and 1.8, includes 71 names, while an additional 19 juniors and seniors are entitled to voluntary class attendance during the first semester in 1949-50.

On the "B-plus" list are Edward Anlian, Stewart Beyerle, Kenneth

Given N.Y. Post

Dr. Milton W. Hamilton

Hamilton Named Senior Historian

Dr. Milton W. Hamilton, head of the history department at Albright College since 1926, has been granted the newly created office of Senior Historian of the State of New York on a provisional appointment. In this position he will have charge of the program of research and publication for the Division of Archives and History. One of his duties will be to carry on the editing of publication of the Sir William Johnson Papers.

"The opportunity to do an important job of research and editing under the fine auspices of the State of New York is an unusual one," Doctor Hamilton told The Albrightian. "My students who have heard me talk of opportunities for research in history will appreciate my interest in this, and my colleagues know my inclination in this direction," he said. In Albany, N. Y., I shall not be too far removed from Reading, and I shall be pleased to hear from any of my students and to give them advice or aid which I can. Having served for twenty-three years on the Albright faculty, I certainly shall find it a little strange to be doing a different type of work. But I think that this change—a long overdue sabbatical leave—will be beneficial to me."

Doctor Hamilton went to say "In accepting the sudden temporary appointment, I am conscious of the surprise my leave of absence will occasion, especially among my history majors. I wish to assure the latter," he continued, "that they are much in my mind and that I regret exceedingly that I shall not be with them this year. However, I know that adequate provision will be made for a substitute and that they will be well cared for by members of the history department. The professor stated that he hopes to return to Albright, "greatly refreshed and inspired."

The International Relations Club, which Doctor Hamilton formerly sponsored, will be advised during his absence by Prof. William R. Bishop, as requested.

Dean of Women, Greek, Math Professors Added to Staff

Ruth E. Williams, a native of Cuba, N. Y., and specialist in guidance counseling, has been appointed new Dean of Women at Albright College. President Harry V. Masters announced last week. Dean Williams succeeds Helen Baker Silverthorne who resigned in June to take a similar post at Concord College in Athens, W. Virginia.

In other faculty changes since the first of July, Edwin R. Dunkle, Jr. has been named instructor in mathematics and physics in place of Garland L. Thomas and Mrs. John Woyanowski has been appointed graduate assistant in biology replacing Franklin O. Ritter. It has also been announced that the courses formerly taught by Dr. F. W. Gingrich, now on leave, will be divided between Professor John W. Khouri, Dr. Edith B. Douds, and the Reverend James A. Aloupis minister in the Greek Orthodox Church. No substitute has as yet been assigned to Dr. Milton W. Hamilton's history classes.

Dean Williams graduated from New York State College for Teachers, Albany, in 1935 with the A.B. degree. She majored in biology. In 1942 she received the M.A. degree from New York University. Since then, as a result of taking graduate courses at St. Lawrence University, Albany State College and Utica College of Syracuse University, she has been awarded a Guidance Certificate by the State of New York. She has also studied at Cornell University and Syracuse University.

Valedictorian of the class of 1931 at Cuba High School, Dean Williams won a New York State Scholarship and was inducted into the Alpha Phi Gamma, national honorary journalistic fraternity. She was co-editor of the "State College News", a member of the College Board of Finance, Y.W.C.A. and science clubs, and was house president of the Beta Zeta sorority.

From September, 1935, to February, 1945, Dean Williams was a teacher of biology, health and general science and adviser of the school newspaper at Mineola, (N.Y.) High School. During the next year she met with examination committees and edited and rated examination papers of the Biology Regents' as an employee of the University of the State of New York, State Education Department, Albany. Since September, 1946, she has taught biology, health and general science, assisted in guidance work and been student council adviser at Herkimer (N.Y.) High.

Registration Set For September 19

Those students who are returning for the year 1949-50 will register on September 19. Juniors and Seniors will register from 9-12:00 a.m.; Sophomores will register from 1-3:00 p.m. A late registration fee of $2.00 will be charged if you register after the 19th or if major changes in your May registration are made. Regular classes will begin on Tuesday, September 20.

30 Graduate in Summer Exercises

Thirty seniors, mostly veterans and Reading residents, graduated from Albright College in the annual summer commencement exercises, held August 12, in the Student-Union Building auditorium. The commencement address was delivered by Dr. S. Wilbur Gingrich, professor of Greek, who was recently granted a five year leave of absence to help edit a new Greek dictionary. Speaking about "The Earliest Predecessors of Albright College," Doctor Gingrich traced the history of Albright at its inception as Union Seminary and Central Pennsylvania College at New Berlin, Pennsylvania.

Degrees were conferred upon the robed graduates by President Harry V. Masters and Dean George W. Walton. George S. Zehner, newly elected vice-president of the Alumni Association, conducted the alumni induction ceremony. The response for the class was given by Earl C. Koenig. David DeWitt rendered a vocal selection, "The Blind Pilgrim." The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. Eugene H. Barth, Director of Religious Activities. Janice M. Miller was the organist.

Recipients of degrees were: Bachelor of Arts, Sarah Rishel; Bachelor of Science, Richard Baldauf, Chauncey DePugh, Robert Eitzel, James Feeley, Dorothy Henry, Earl Koenig, Joseph Kubisen, James Maracani, Anthony Morfy, Wasil Plaskonos, Elaine Reichlein, Gerald Schaeffer, Nicholas Sheetz, Ralph Sonen and James Yeakel. B. S. in Economics, Herman Bernstler. David Bickel, Leonard Cote, Norman Dresher, William Frantz, Julian Greenspan, John Griesemer, Jr., Howard Guldin, George Keener, Stanley Raezer, Sterling Rickenbach, John Rowe, Vernon Stoop Jr. and John Yocum. Koenig, Cote and Griesemer graduated with honorable mention. Ap-

Doris Chanin Wins Regional N.S.A. Office; National Congress Opens

Doris M. Chanin, Albright College senior, was elected vice-president of the Pennsylvania Region of the United States National Student Association at its semi-annual meeting in the John Bartrum Hotel, Philadelphia last June. As such, Miss Chanin will assist the regional president in carrying out his duties, attend the two annual mid-West National Executive Committee meetings as a voting representative and travel extensively throughout the state to increase non-member colleges in the N.S.A.

Albright College was chosen by the regional convention as the center for the Student Government Clinic of Pennsylvania previously centered at Bryn Mawr College. Miss Chanin has submitted to the committee the name of Joyce Thompson, also a senior, to head the important clinic. Miss Thompson has been the capable chairman of the student government sub-committee at Albright.

The seven regional N.S.A. officers represent over 26 colleges in Pennsylvania and almost 54,000 students. Other executive committee officers, in addition to Miss Chanin, are Elmer Brock, LaSalle, president; L. R. Levitsky, Muhlenberg, vice-president of domestic affairs; James Duffin, St. Joseph's, vice-president of international affairs; Marie Minnick, Pennsylvania, secretary; Frank M. Trozzo, St. Vincent's, treasurer; Robert Lewison Lehigh, publicity director.

75 delegates were in attendance. David Roland, Miss Chanin and Miss Thompson were Albright representatives.

Miss Chanin and Kathleen Guenther, a junior, are representing Albright College at the National Student Congress of the United States National Student Association, being held from August 24 to September 3 at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill. Billed as the annual intercollegiate event of the year, the congress has brought together more than 650 delegates, representing the more than a million students enrolled in 150 American colleges and universities.

Miss Chanin, vice-president of the Albright Student Council and managing editor of The Albrightian, was instrumental in the organization of the Albright chapter of N.S.A. She is a member of the Student Government Commission at the National Student Congress. Miss

Doris Chanin

Guenther, who is active in numerous Albright organizations, is a member of the Education Problems Commission.

Through informal round tables, committees and plenary sessions, delegates to the congress will develop policies and programs on major student problems for the coming academic year. Among the topics being considered are the Student Bill of Rights, Communism and education, Federal aid to education, international student relations and the role of the student in education and in public affairs. Particular attention will be given N.S.A. finances, membership and administration.

It was expected that Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, former Governor Adlai Stevenson and other prominent men would address the congress.

D. P.'s On Way

Robert Asthon and Selig Wassner, Albright's two Displaced Students whose ways to the United States and to our college have been financed through the efforts of students last semester, will arrive in New York City early next month and will probably be in Reading by September 15.

Albright has joined the ranks of other universities and colleges who are cooperating with "Operation Unprecedented" of the World Student Service Fund and the National Student Association in continuing the training of foreign students whose education was interrupted by World War II.

Yes, We Have No Employment

Yes, national and international politics, Congressional proceedings, and a thousand other headlines hit us in the face daily, but the one in particular which directly hurts (in the pocketbook) everyone, including Albrightians, is the fact of a slump in employment. 'Sorry, we aren't hiring this summer' has dinned into a lot of students' ears. More than ever one must take the "anything he can get" job or be retired over the next few months.

Tramping around for work will probably serve as good experience for most returning college men and women, but for the new graduates it will be more of a hardship. What good does an education do you, they might ask, if there is nothing open and the unskilled have as good a chance to find work, often at a more profitable figure, as a person with four years or more training. The only advantage comes when you pick a position which takes a certain skill. And for us, at least this summer, there is not much picking.

To You New Albrightians

To you new Albrightians, we offer words of welcome, caution, and encouragement. First of all, we upperclassmen not only sincerely welcome you, but also your new ideas that may catch and become customs, your new faces which may help to take the place of last year's seniors whom we will miss at first, and your attitude of expectancy which always gives us a boost. Your coming is every bit as important as graduation day, because it means that Albright is rejuvenated and that it will continue its work.

Second, by way of caution, be prepared! Not only by putting the right things in the trunks, bags, and boxes (incidentally, no matter how little you bring, you'll always wish you hadn't brought so much), but also getting the right things into your attitude. You won't come to Albright and conquer it—you may only be able to conquer yourself. Albright isn't a kind of factory where you enter, and after four years of classroom grinding, emerge a finished product. You'll get sufficient book larnin,' (the profs have ways of assuring that), but the larnin' you'll get from interested participation in extra-curricular activities is up to you. If you want it, you can have it. If you're going to be an Albrightian, you'll want it.

We won't caution you about fresh hazing (that may scare you.) No one has been seriously damaged that we know of, and it can be fun—that too depends on you. We won't caution you about profs, either. They're good guys, and some of them even have a sense of humor.

Now for some encouragement. We won't give you that "four-best-years-of-your-lives" stuff. You've undoubtedly heard that, and besides you have to find that out for yourselves. You'll have all the opportunity you can use here at college, and advice and encouragement is free for the asking. Our desire is only that you will become a part of Albright in spirit and in reality, and that Albright will become indeed a part of you.

Did We Have Fun!

People everywhere! The occasion was the annual summer school picnic; the place—Egeman's Park, and the time—August 4, from 4 to 10 p.m. We hadn't realized how many were attending summer school until we discovered a number of Albrightians we hadn't seen since the end of the '48-'49 session. And you should have seen the younguns running around. The profs and the vets and families really turned out en masse.

We arrived just in time to see a crowd gathering on the shore of the "lake." We scooted over to see what had happened, and just then, up from the depths came Al Wagner, Esq., with the volley ball. (Medal please!) Some strong soul had connected with the ball and sent it, for a boat ride. It must have been Rev. Barth; he was playing a terrific game.

About that time, Dottie Rath, after a turn on the seaways, and Kitty Guenther announced from the pavillion that the chow line formed on the right. Food—hot dogs; tomato and cheese sandwiches, pickles, olives, pretzels, potato chips, and (birch) beer tapped by "Sup" Gene Pierce. Not only seconds but thirds, too! And how could we forget the watermelon! How many pieces did you have Prof. Gates? If President Masters only knew—he almost got caught in the cross-fire of a watermelon seed-splitting contest when he accidentally "crossed the Maginot line."

Then some of the stronger sex (giving the men the benefit of the doubt) began a softball game. We still don't know who won, but before it got too dark, we noticed that Bill Skinner, wearing his traditional hat, was catching for one team, and Mr. Shirk, as outfielder, was blazing new trails through the woods every time the ball sailed past second base.

And at the same time, there were several big pinocle games and quaits in progress. Joyce Costenbader, Ethel Hill, Walt Drazek, and Bill Frantz really know how to get ringers. Of course, Walt and Bill have kept in condition as campus guards during the summer interim.

To top off the eventful evening, there was dancing in the pavillion, records flipped courtesy of H. G. Koursaris. There was Dr. Memming, pipe in mouth, paper cup in hand (for the ashes). And we even had a floor show provided by Bill Moyer. Just how double-jointed can one be?

And still we habied our tape-worms with watermelon, birch beer, and pretzels. The administration and Student Council had made possible a really wonderful time, all of it free. Also, our hearty thanks go to two girls who worked like beavers to make the affair a success—Dottie Rath and Kathleen Guenther. So until next year rolls around, we find ourselves behind desks in the good old summer time, let's not forget the summer school picnic. Fun, wasn't it?

Dandy Lions

Dandy for the day is quite a DANDY. It is none other than John Yocum, one of the best known "Men barrel of fun has kept the place howling with his crazy stunts and mad capers, assisted at all times by his partner in crime and fellow summer grad, "Hops" Guldin.

"Yoc," by popular selection, was the Senior Class wit. When asked for a comment on his day of graduation, which was extremely cloudy, he immediately quipped, "Well, they said it would be a dark day when I graduated!"

Quite a few momentous occasions have occurred since he first entered Albright's Ivy covered walls. During the fall of his sophomore year he acquired a dark-eyed beauty, named Ann, as his wife. Just last spring they were blessed with a bouncing baby daughter, who will be known to the world as Patty Berg Yocum. The name of his daughter backs other information that Pop Yocum is an avid golf fan. He was a top player with our Varsity Golf team and also lent his abilities to our basketball squad.

John W. is a protégé of Prof. Gates in the Bus. Ad. Curriculum. After his graduation he will probably make use of his outstanding personality-plus as a high pressure salesman.

A loyal Kappa, Yoc will forever be telling the story of his induction banquet and trip to Adamstown.

Grads' Report

Anybody who tried to get a job this summer must have wondered what the seniors were doing now that they were out in the very hard, very cruel world. We've checked up on a few of them and find them in positions of all descriptions. Locally Mary Fry and Dorothy Seiser spent the summer working at the Reading playgrounds. Jean Long is working as a field secretary with Capital Blue Cross. Nancy Crouse and Mary Bechtel are working in the Reading Public Library and Theodore Templeton has been nominated to the Public Assistance staff of Berks County.

This fall, Dorothy Rath is going to Okinawa as a recreation director for the U. S. Army, and Bill Marlow shoves off for India to do student missionary work. Mike Plaskonos is making big news these days. He is signed up to play with the Eastern All-Stars on September 1. Good going, Mike!

Those going back to school include the grads who are headed for the seminary here, among them, Lamar Kopp, Carl Bretz, and Dick Cattermole. Tom Young will go to Drew Seminary. Dick Dexter, is entering med school at Cornell. Werner Kaese at Maryland University and Fred Roland at Jefferson. David Koch was accepted in the Duke graduate school, Violette Seibert will enter the Yale school of Religion, and Esther Messersmith, the Yale school of Nursing.

Entering the teaching profession are Rose Marie Baylor, at Hamburg, Doris Hornerger out west in Washington, Harry Kophart at Portstown, Ed Koenig at Bethel, Dorothy Holl in Womelsdorf, Joe Ruth at Shillington and Helen Sieber at Bloomingdale, Pa.

Kazuyo Kiyono is doing medical research at Brookhaven Long Island. Doris Downes is on the Public Assistance staff of her home county in New York state. Elmer Davis has a job with the Insurance Underwriting program of American Casualty. Mark Guss with the F. B. I., and Polly Swope, with a social agency in Lock Haven, Pa.

This is a very small list, we know, but many have not contacted us as yet. To all these we wish the very best of luck and success. We'll miss you around here!

At any rate, most Albrightians weren't idle this summer. It's just a matter of weeks before the campus will be buzzing again. Prof. Danford says, "The new Freshman class looks good," and of course we're all looking forward to meeting Robert Ashton, Selig Wassner, and another foreign student Gertrude Klecklich. She is a member of our new freshman class and has just come from Reutlingen, Germany where her father is a minister of an Evangelical church. Let's give all three a big welcome, and here's hoping that this year will be better than ever. Be seeing you!

Puerto Rico to Wisconsin—Our Faculty Gets Around

Our professors found interesting things to do this summer. Of course summer school kept many of them busy for part of the period. Professor Danford, after he got back from Summer Work Conference of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities, spent the rest of the time personally interviewing 300 of the prospective freshman class, and working out the new schedule.

Professor Duddy represented the music department at Princeton's Westminster Choir College, College and at the Christiansen Choral School. In his spare time, he turned out the new new collection, one of which has succeeded in selling to the Neil Kjos publishing house, which is, by the way, quite an accomplishment.

Lloyd Parsons took "un viaje" to Puerto Rico, aboard a U. S. Navy patrol craft with the Naval reserve. Coach Parsons, the four other officers and sixty-four men went directly to San Juan, and when they found this they went to see the old Indian section of the city and at El Morro castle, built in the sixteenth century by the Spaniards. All in all, it was a very enjoyable experience and Coach Parsons says he looks forward to future such cruises—(for the next twelve years, as a matter of fact), and recommends the reserve to all adventurous young men. He spent the rest of the summer at the University of Pennsylvania, working toward that master's degree.

Dean Walton represented the college at the Conference on Curriculum in General Education of the church related colleges. The conference was sponsored by the Northern Baptist Assembly and was held at Green Lake, Wisconsin, from June twenty-four through the twenty-ninth. The interdenominational group was divided into clinics. Dean Walton was on the clinic on techniques of curriculum building under the general workshop on curriculum construction. The chairman was Dr. W. W. Charters, director of curriculum research at Stephens College in Missouri. There were about two hundred presidents and deans representing more than sixty colleges from all over the country. The general theme of the conference was the obligation of church related colleges to prepare students for their places in the community and the world. Throughout the meeting there was emphasis on the opportunity to present the real significance of the type of education which should be fostered by this type of college. The two thousand mile round trip by car was the high spot of the two week vacation which both Dean and Mrs. Walton enjoyed very much.

Miss Raepel added to her list a fourth degree, M.S. in L.S. She finished her thesis at Columbia University and is now "looking forward to getting the general's autograph." Also, she was on the staff of the School of Saint-Mary's-In-The-Field, an Episcopal girl's school at Vahalla, N. Y. She worked with girls from the eighth grade to third year high school.

In the Good Old Summer School

What do Albrightians do in the summer time when there is no school? No school? Izzat so! It seems that due to an alarming lack of jobs, heartless professors who give F's, and pure habit, a large percentage of Albrightians went to school this summer. Among those who literally and figuratively created it out in summer school were Marilyn Himmetstein and Joan Laveson at Temple University, Walt Hayum, Nan Heckman, Doris Channin at Adelphi, Jane Reynolds at George Washington University, and of course, our two "Y" prexies, Joann, Shienkemeyer and Jack Snook at Union Theological Seminary, Columbia University. Albright's halls were far from empty this summer, too.

Influencing the younger generation were camp counselors Kay Collier and Marilyn Metsker at Camp Kenwood in Connecticut, and Dorothy McFarland at Blue Mountain Camp in Hamburg, Pa. Frank Bird, Jerry Dersh, Stan Taub, Bill Hutchinson, Joe Czutno and Ernie Yarnoz all went to Camp Winaukee in New Hampshire; but with the outbreak of four cases of polio, the camp closed down. Working at the Reading playgrounds were Anna Mae Grimes, Phyllis Guldin, and Mary Swartz.

The SCM Conference at Camp Michaux had Jay Shenk, June Christman, Shirley Johnson, and Pat Pierce as representatives of the Albright YWCA. This summer's gang at the shore included Dottie Dean, Seigrid Richter, Virginia Fox, Betsy Beard, Shirley Johnson and Beverly Morgan.

We can add a few more married couples to our list of students and alumni. Arthur Lockner and an ex-Albrightian, Patricia Strasser were married on September 3, and Wilson Dickert and his new bride are living in Reading now. Stewart McCleary, an alumnus finally made it this summer, and Edward Anlian was another who marched up the aisle. Gwendolynn Bachman was the bride.

FOOTBALL CAMP SCHEDULED FOR MONDAY

Neal Harris Leaves Albright Position

Chooses U. S. Army Duties in Japan

After a successful nine year tenure at Albright College, as physical education director and head basketball coach Neal O. Harris resigned July 18, with the approval of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees, then meeting in regular session. His resignation was effective immediately.

From among the several offers he had received, Harris chose a position with the United States Army in Japan as chief specialist with the U. S. occupation forces, and will coach basketball, baseball, and football in the area, in addition to organizing other athletic activity.

It was immediately announced that the new head football and baseball coach, Ed Gulian, would take over Harris' basketball duties.

Winning Record

Harris' record since his first season in 1938-39 at Albright was a winning one of 133 victories, 81 defeats in varsity competition and 93 victories and 25 defeats in junior varsity play. After eight unbroken years with the Lions, he took a leave of absence during the 1947-48 season in order to tutor Egypt's basketball entry in the 1948 Olympics. During his last season with the Lions he piloted them to 37 wins in 29 games and also the league and Middle Atlantic States Tournament championships.

Beginning his career as a football, basketball, and baseball star at Ringtown High, Kutztown State Teachers College, and Franklin and Marshall College, Harris continued as an able high school and prep school coach. In addition he played professional football as an end with Coaldale and Stapleton, L. I., professional baseball as a catcher for Cumberland in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League, and pro basketball as a guard for Chester in the Eastern Professional Basketball League.

Master's Degree

Continuing his education after a B.S. from F. and M., he coached intramural athletics for two years at the University of Pennsylvania where he obtained his master's degree. He also attended summer school at New York University and the East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College.

During his stay at Albright Harris, a systematic coach and great showman, earned national recognition for his Lion basketballers in many exciting intersectional frays. There appeared on the schedule such names as Wyoming University, Long Island University, Seton Hall, LaSalle College, and others such as the powerful University of Arkansas, Brigham Young University, and Detroit University, which three were defeated by the underdog Lions. Harris climaxed his career at Albright in 1944-45 when his Red and White netmen turned in an astounding 19 win, one loss record. Also in the three years from 1941 to 1944 his basketballers won 65 out of the 77 games they had played.

In addition to his purely coaching duties, Harris was also a popular lecturer and author-editor of "Who's Who in Coaching" and "Secrets of American Basketball."

Used Year Round

Work Year Round

Summer does not necessarily imply disuse of Albright's present athletic facilities. The tennis courts have been kept occupied with the City Recreation Dept. Men's and Women's Tennis Championships matches and also the Jewish Community Center's boys' training classes. Three parties—the Firemen's Softball League, the 17th Ward Girls' Softball Team, and the Blue Sox, Jr. Baseball Team—have been making use of the Lion's home baseball diamond.

Lions to Face Nine Football Battles; Five Under Lights

The initial battle for this year's Lion football squad will take place Friday, September 23, with the Rams of West Chester State Teachers College the object of revenge on the foreign gridiron. It will be the first meeting of the two opponents after a two years lapse and the first of four straight frays for the Roaring Lions at night.

On Friday, September 30, Coach Eddie Gulian's gridmen will face a completely new foe as far as football is concerned, when they battle Lincoln University, an all negro school, under the lights on the home field. If Lincoln is anything like Md. State, watch out. A week later they will journey to Bethlehem to face Moravian, a team that Albright vanquished in 1948 to the tune of a 19-0 score.

Mules Fourth

Powerful Muhlenberg will be the Lion's fourth foe at Allentown on Saturday evening, October 15. An outstanding show of defensive spirit against the Mules last fall ended only in a heart-rending 13-0 defeat for the Albright gridmen. This will be their chance to even the score with the Allentown squad. The annual Homecoming classic will find Franklin and Marshall facing the Cats in their first daylight fracas, Saturday, October 22. No speculation can be indulged in at this point, since last year's game with the Diplomats ended in an indecisive 0-0 tie. A cross-country run will be held at half-time. Lebanon Valley, a surprised 19-13 victim of the Lions' claws in 1949 and their traditional gridiron enemy, will arrive on Friday, October 28, for the last night battle of the season. At Scranton, November 5, Albright will tangle with the Royals who gave them an unpleasant 48-0 shutout last fall, hoping to turn the tables on that fine eleven. Gettysburg and Pennsylvania Military College will be the Lion's last opponents for the 1949 season. Last year they handed Albright hard-to-take 26-6 and 39-0 defeats respectively.

Athletes Continue Careers in Summer

Enter All Sports

Stars In Local Play

Although the official season for College athletics ended at Albright in May, many of the Lions' best are continuing their sporting careers throughout the summer.

In the field of golf Earl Langford became the new Green Hills country club champion by defeating George Kreidler 2 and 1 in the title round, after having also defeated Malcolm Schaeffer, 2 and 1, in the semi-finals.

Bob Batdorf lost his Berks County junior golf crown to Rod Eaken, Reading High's champion P.T.A.A. golfer after having garnered it last year. He was eliminated by Jackie Weitzel, who in turn lost to Eaken. Batdorf later paired with Eaken in the Berkshire Invitation best ball of partners tournament. In the first annual Schuylkill Country Club tourney at Orwigsburg, Pa., he was defeated 6 and 5 by Harold Everett of Phila. after having reached the finals. Art Dunlop was also entered in this tournament.

Reach Semi-finals

John Yocum and his partner Bill Eben managed to reach the semi-finals in the Lebanon annual best ball golf tournament before being eliminated.

Baseball competition keeps many other Albrightians busy during the summer. In the first annual Schuylkill County Club tourney at Orwigsburg, Pa., he was defeated 6 and 5 by Harold Everett of Phila. after having reached the finals. Art Dunlop was also entered in this tournament.

Dohner Leads List

On the tennis courts of Pa. can be seen many other Albright hopefuls. John Dohner entered four tournaments throughout the summer to lead the list. He competed in the local City Tennis Tournament, the Lancaster Red Rose and the York White Rose Tournaments, and the Reading Country Club tennis tourney. Also entered in the city competition were Jim Mengel in the singles, and Bob Ruoff and Paul Kissinger in the doubles. Lion Coach Leo Bloom was entered in both the City and RCC tourneys, while Tom Kane only ventured into RCC competition.

'48 Lion Captain To Face Pro Giants

One of the Lions' best all-time defensive backs and '48 full-back-captain during the 1948 season, Mike Plaskonos, was honored with a berth on the Eastern College All-Stars team, which will face the pro-ball champion New York Giants on Thursday, September 1. The squad, coached by Yale University's retired Herman Hickman, is made up of 40 men and has begun to work out at Bear Mountain, N. Y., in preparation for the 11th annual Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund benefit contest at the Polo Grounds.

"That's My Baby"

Plaskonos, a 1948 graduate from Albright with a bachelor of science degree, is expected to back up the line at center for the All-Stars. As Mike puts it, "That's my baby." Although he is the first to represent Albright with the Eastern All-Stars, Mike, a four-letter man, is not the first Lion to play on a dream football team. Back in 1938 the illustrious Dick Riffle represented his school in the East-West game of that year. Like Riffle and Moose Disend, a great tackle 1934-38, Plaskonos will probably step into pro-ball for a time before entering his chosen field of teaching social studies. He has tried out with the New York Bulldogs of the professional National League at Hershey, Pa.

Gulian to Coach 41 Prospects In Annual Pre-Season Drill

Football camp will return for another pre-season workout period on Monday, August 29, 9:30 a.m., when the Lions' new head coach, Eddie Gulian, begins using the old piskin eye to select a smoothly working gridiron combine out of the 41 prospective players attending. Aiding him in this, the toughest job of the season, is assistant coach Lloyd Parsons who has already had working experience with the 24 returning veterans. Coach Gulian expects to conduct two workouts a day in the local stadium until September 12, when he will ease the burden to only afternoon training and conditioning periods.

Although the disadvantages of making a totally new start with men of unknown capabilities against tough opposition are many, Coach Gulian hopes to better last year's record of three wins, five losses, and one tie compiled under Levan P. Smith. He will look, of course, to the returning players for the best starting and offensive combines, but expects also to watch the 17 frosh aspirants in this pre-season workout.

Hope to Bounce Back

After losing only last year's captain and ace back, Mike Plaskonos, beefy tackle, Larry Delewski, burly center, Bill Frantz, and reserve back, Tom Snyder, the Lions are expected to bounce back hard on their opponents this year. Leading the roster is 1949 team captain, Bernie Kosulitz, hard fighting end on the squad. To the backfield will return such offensive players as Al Harnly, star tasser, kicker, and signal caller; Billy Krohto, fleet-footed halfback pointmaker; and Kenny Kohl, Albright luminary of three years ago. Additional candidates for backfield positions will be "The L.V. express" John Krouse, Joe Czutno, Bill Wesner, Wilson Serfass, and Tom Savage.

Walt Cizewski will lead the competition for guard positions, along with such hardhitting linemen as Charlie Martone, Bernie Yanoski, Sid Howarth, Rudy Leonardo, and Dave Lattanzio. Also competing for line positions are ends Gerry Potts, Jim Boaman, Dick Koch, and Jerry Pedata; tackles Andy Hydock, Frank Bird, Fred Rosen, and Bob Bernhardt; and center, Dick Lee.

Freshmen Appear

Thirteen entirely new faces will appear on the practice gridiron, all freshman trying out for a berth on the lineup. Novice backs to arrive at camp are William Locher, quarterback for his home school at Roselle Park, N. J.; Augustus Morganti, star Central Catholic back; Floyd Rightmire, Hanover fullback; Rod Shippe, Muhlenberg end; Dick Martone, Bernie Yanoski, Sid Carmel, quarterback; Bob White, local Reading High halfback; and Bruce Tenley, Bucks Montgomery halfback. Line prospects are Paul James, an end from Pittman, N. J.; Don McCarthy, another end hailing from Doyestown; Pete DeMarco, Muhlenberg Township High tackle; Ed Oberly, a guard with experience at Shillington High; Don Wealand, Robson High tackle; and Andy Antolovsky, a guard from St. Clair, Pa.

Four other freshmen are scheduled to try out later for positions. They are Carmen Christiano, Scotch Plains, N. J., fullback; Bob Laventure, Pottstown High tackle; Bob Lippincott, both a tackle and fullback for the Hershey Industrial School; and Jim Rouse, a guard who claims McAdoo for his home town.

Head Manager for the squad is Art Diaz, assisted by Ben Reynolds; Gerry Crawford, and Mike Ranco.

Closure Request

Approved by City

Acting on a request from the college and a subsequent resolution introduced in April, the Reading City Council approved the provisional closing of the portion of Bern Street between 12th and 13th on August 3, so that there may be an unused way for athletic teams going between the Lion Stadium and the proposed field house which will contain locker facilities.

Albright granted the city the right to open the street to make repairs, sewage connections, etc. Other plans for the combined 4,000 seat fieldhouse and modern swimming pool are progressing.

Coach Advocates Strict Training

When Albright's new head football mentor, Eddie Gulian, looks over his 1949 football aspirants next Monday, he will expect the boys to "be in the best physical condition possible."

Emphasizing his strong advocacy of strict training in a letter sent to all prospects, Coach Gulian went on to say, "It is understood that in accepting this invitation you agree to observe training rules, to compete to the best of your ability for a position on the team, and to cooperate with the coaches and authorities." Gulian had stated earlier in an interview in May with The Albrightian that to him there is no short cut to a good football team except hard work. The candidates were also advised that the training roster may be revised from time to time at the discretion of the coaches. Meals and lodging will be furnished on campus.

Desires Strong Team

As far as the coming season is concerned, Coach Gulian said that he wanted players "to do everything in your power to build and maintain an Albright football team which will be resourceful, creditable and strong both in morale and in its performance on the field."

Gulian felt that it was absolutely essential that every one be at camp on time with no excuses for lateness accepted, because, "With a new coach every minute of available time must be taken up in learning a completely new system." He saw the need for extra key men, since "playing both a defensive and offensive team will mean carrying a little larger squad than has been done in the past." Gulian uses the T-formation with flankers and spread ends and the line calling blocking assignments as his system of play.

A native of Norristown, where he was a star athlete in high school, and captain of the 1930 Gettysburg football team, Gulian last year was backfield coach at Lafayette under Clipper Smith. He has a long record of active participation in sports.

Gulian will follow through his coaching duties on the basketball floor and baseball diamond for Albright also. As head of men's physical education, he will be in charge of the school's intramural program. Assisting him in orientation to Albright is Assistant Coach Lloyd Parsons.

Netmen Use Three

New Tennis Courts

Those groups and individuals who used the Albright tennis courts had three new courts at their disposal. The rolling and lining of the grounds were finished shortly after the summer vacation began. The six beautifully kept courts, next to the Student Union Building, are a valuable asset to the campus.

Albright Campus Corner Brightened By Paint Brush and Whisk Broom

News Flash! (Courtesy W.N.I.P.—We Needed It Press)
 "Campus improvements costing thousands of dollars have been and will be completed in time to greet Albright students when they return in September."

Workers have literally invaded the Administration Building to almost revolutionize its interior decorations. No longer has it the dark, gloomy, well-worn look within its walls. The entire interior, including the walls, classrooms, professors' offices, doors and hallways, has been repainted and refinished. In most cases a two-color, easy-on-the-eye, light reflecting scheme has been used. Even names and numbers were repainted. New red tile coverings were installed on the stairs, and the floors were recovered with green bordered, light brown linoleum. All this should give students inspiration and encourage study.

A spacious, beautifully furnished and decorated conference room was made out of Room 106, while 312 was fitted with black shades for full use as a projection room. The lavatories were also repainted and given additional lighting facilities, as was the basement.

For the laboring science students, the lecture room of the "slave shop" was redecorated and new "green" chalk boards were installed. Chem students can be thankful a special coating was administered to the floors to preserve them from destruction.

The ladies can now enjoy the evenings in a renovated Selwyn Parlor. Complete new wall coverings and paint were applied and in the Dean of Women's office. Dorm walls were washed and the chapel dorms are due for a coat of paint.

Zeta House inhabitants will be able to look at replastered and repainted walls. New coverings were given the floors and walls. All venetian blinds were repainted and re-corded.

A remodeled cafeteria and kitchen area awaits the campus diners. For better eating, a new steam table

Dunkle, the new math and physics instructor, graduated from the University of Illinois in 1948 with the B.S. degree. This past spring he received the M.S. degree from the University of Illinois. His specialty was mathematics. A native of Peach Creek, Pa., Dunkle graduated from McCaskey High School, Lancaster, where he has his permanent address.

Mrs. Woyrnarowski, who has replaced Ritter as graduate assistant in biology, is a native of Reading, now residing at 1227 N. 5th St. She received the B.S. degree from Albright in 1948, when she graduated with honorable mention. While at Albright she was associate editor of the "Gue" and a member of Student Council, Skull and Bones, and the German Club. From June, 1948 to August 1, 1949, she worked in the department of analytical chemistry of the Glidden Paint Company in Reading. As an undergraduate at Albright she spent two years as a laboratory assistant in general biology. While at Reading High School, Mrs. Woyrnarowski was a member of the National Senior Honor Society.

Thomas, who recently resigned his instructor's post in the math and physics department to work on his doctor's degree, came to Albright last year from Topeka, Kansas. He had served as an assistant physicist with the Dequassing Section at the Boston Navy Yard, as an electronics officer in the navy, and as a graduate assistant in physics at the University of Missouri, where he received his master's degree in 1942. Ritter has been commissioned as an ensign in the Navy at Pensacola, Florida.

The classes which were formerly taught by Dr. F. Wilbur Gingrich, who has received a leave of absence to work on a new lexicon of the Greek New Testament, will be divided among three professors this year. Prof. John W. Khouri, of the history department, will teach the course in Classical Civilization. Dr. Edith B. Douds, of the English department, will teach the course in the Introduction to the Historical Study of Language.

The Rev. James A. Alopous, recently appointed pastor of the Green Orthodox Church, Sts. Constantine and Helene, at Eighth and Court Streets, Reading, will teach the Greek courses. A native of Marlboro, Mass., Rev. Mr. Alopous graduated from high school in 1935. He received his A.B. degree from

Popular Profs Finally Make It

Eugene H. Shirk, Faculty Manager of Athletics and mathematics instructor at Albright College, and Mrs. Annadora Vesper, professor of speech and director of dramatics, (the Domino Club) were married on Friday, August 26, at 12:30 p.m. in Ben Avon Methodist Church, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Vesper's former home city. Reverend G. W. Smucker, brother-in-law of the bride and pastor of the church officiated at the short, simple service.

The two popular professors will return to Reading around Labor Day after a short trip and will resume teaching duties at the college. They will reside at 1503 N. Twelfth Street.

Mrs. Vesper was enrolled in the University of Wisconsin summer school, studying for her doctor's degree in philosophy and speech. Since the conclusion of summer school on August 20, she has been in Pittsburgh. While at Wisconsin Mrs. Vesper was honored by being given the leading women's part, Antigone, in the Greek drama, "Oedipus," which was put on by the graduate students.

Orientation Program

view in the stadium, taking of the class picture and cheer practice. Following this the athletic program will be explained by Eugene Shirk, Faculty Manager of Athletics. An informal "get-acquainted" program will be held in Union Hall at 5 o'clock, followed by dinner for all freshmen at 6. At 8 o'clock all freshmen boarding women will meet with Dean Smith for discussion of dormitory rules.

The general daily schedule will include a worship service at 9:30 a.m. on the theme "Making My Dreams Come True," surveys, analyses by the Psychology Center from 10-11 o'clock, discussions and social events later in the day. Highlights for the remainder of the week include library instruction on Wednesday, consultation with faculty members Thursday afternoon, registration and taking of activity book pictures Friday; a tour of the Reading Fair, panel discussions on college life, physical examinations for the men and women; and a doggie roast planned by the Student Council and College Y's a Sunday Vesper Service, and the traditional Fellowship Dinner, with President Masters speaking, Thursday evening.

Other speakers will include: the Rev. Eugene H. Barth, Director of Religious Activities; Dr. Clarence Horn, Director of Student Health; Dean Walton, who will discuss academic and extra-curricular activities; Prof. Newton S. Danford, who will explain registration and curriculum; Robert Hoffman, Editor-in-Chief of The Albrightian, who will discuss student publications; Prof. Clyde A. Harding, who will discuss social activities; Frank Bird, senior class president, who will stress class unity and organization; and Rev. Mr. Stabler, who will talk about the Alumni Association.

Upperclassmen will register in Union Hall Monday, September 19. Regular classes will begin on Tuesday, September 20. The faculty reception for all students will be held in Union Hall Saturday evening, September 24, at 8:30 o'clock. The President's Reception to Freshmen is scheduled for Sunday, October 2, at 3:30 p.m. Induction of the Class of 1953 will take place on Tuesday, October 18.

Albrightian Staff Asked to Report

This is the second of two summer editions of The Albrightian and number one of volume forty-six. It is also the first issue to be received by our Class of 1953. We hope we have made the right impression on our paper and of our college. On September 23, the first of our first 1949 football tussle, all students will receive the initial publication of 26 that will be printed during the regular school period.

We invite all veteran reporters and staff members to visit The Albrightian office on the afternoon of registration and sign up for another year's duty. Any other upperclassmen who desire to work on the writing, business or typing staffs will be welcomed at the same time. Freshmen will be advised during Orientation Week about trying out for positions. Experience is helpful but not absolutely essential. We request also that all organization presidents or their representatives contact us for sure on registration day. It will help us give each organization coverage in the week's edition.

Staff meetings for the editors and for the reporters will be held the first week of school, and will be announced on the bulletin boards.

We're gunning for the best this year!

Mrs. Haskell Appointed Auxiliary President

Mrs. Ellery B. Haskell has been elected president of the Albright Women's Auxiliary by the College's Board of Trustees, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Harry V. Masters, who has held the position for the past ten years.

Mrs. Haskell, wife of Ellery B. Haskell, associate professor of philosophy at Albright, was formerly the auxiliary's publicity chairman. She has served as chairman of the Faculty Dames.

A native of Prospect Park, Pa., Mrs. Haskell has a B.S. degree in education from the University of Pennsylvania. The new president has also done graduate work in public speaking and dramatics there and at Pennsylvania State College. At Prospect Park High she taught English, French, and mathematics. Rev. Haskell and family came to Reading in 1947 from Chester where he was the pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church.

Hamilton Named

degree in 1924. The next year he received his master's degree. In 1935 he was awarded the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Columbia University. He is a native of New York and since 1933 frequently has written various books and journal and magazine articles on historic subjects especially dealing with journalism and printing. At present he is editor of Pennsylvania History and The Historical Review of Berks County.

He has served as visiting professor of history at the summer sessions of Penn State and the University of Pennsylvania. Last month he was a faculty member of the seminar sponsored by the New York State Historical Association at Cooperstown, N. Y. Other summers have been spent in research and as a student in Vermont, Michigan and Mexico. Doctor Hamilton is in demand as a speaker before historical associations and educators, and is very active in the work of the national, regional, state and county historical societies.

Besides being adviser of the Albright chapter of the International Relations Club, and secretary-treasurer of the college chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, Dr. Hamilton has been chairman of the Cultural Program Committee which sponsors the outstanding lecture and concert series.

Approximately 750 students are expected to enroll in Albright College for the academic year 1949-50. Although this number is somewhat smaller than the enrollment last year, the decline is not as great as in other colleges and universities. The decrease results largely from a decline in veterans' enrollment.

Over 1,000 inquiries for admission to the freshman class were received, of which 800 were formal applications. After 300 prospective students had been personally interviewed, approximately 200 were accepted. Of this number 20 per cent are veterans.

Memming Attends Goethe Festival

Dr. Gerritt Memming, Professor or German at Albright, left this country on August 17, for a month's visit in Europe. He will attend the International Congress of Goethe Scholars at Frankfurt-on-Main, birthplace of Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, and return to the United States on September 20. The Goethe celebration, to which Doctor Memming was personally invited, marks the 200th anniversary of the noted German philosopher's birth and follows the huge program presented in the United States at Aspen, Colorado. Great men of letters, art, and science participated.

Doctor Memming plans to visit his relatives in the British zone of Germany, to renew acquaintances in Germany and in Paris, where he formerly studied at sorbonne, and to do folkloric research in libraries and universities and with German young people. This will be his first visit to Germany since 1939.

The professor will make the round trip in a DC-4 chartered from the Student Travelers Service. Leaving from New York, the plane made brief stops at Newfoundland, Shannon, Eire and Brussels, Belgium in its one-day flight to Frankfurt, Germany.

Albright Secretary To Teach First Grade

Dorothy Becker, secretary to Dean of Men, Levan P. Smith, the Rev. Eugene H. Barth, Director of Religious Activities and Mr. Eugene Shirk, Faculty Athletics Director, since September, 1947, will leave Albright on September 3 to teach the first grade in the Whitpain Township School District at Blue Bell, Montgomery County, Pa. She will be replaced by Joan Shultz.

A party was held for Miss Becker by the office staff in Hampden Park on August 10. During her stay at Albright she has been most efficient, accommodating, and patiently pleasant. Without her the trio "might all have gone crazy."

Albright Host to Two Summer Conferences

Albright College was host to two important conferences over the summer, with its full facilities being used. From August 12-21 the Twentieth Annual Pennsylvania Institute of International Relations were for the fourth year on campus. The theme was "Non-Violence in a World of Hunger, Tyranny, and Violence." Approximately 100 were registered, including a faculty of ten.

A Y-Teen leadership training conference, a part of the teen-age program of the Y.W.C.A., was held June 18-25.

Bates College in 1939 and graduated from the Greek Theological Seminary, Pomfret, Conn., in 1944. Before moving to Reading, the new professor taught Greek part-time at the University of West Virginia. At the same time he was pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church at Clarksburg, W. Va.

It had been previously announced in the June 24 issue of The Albrightian that the college had received and accepted the resignations of Prof. Roy T. Merkel of the math and physics department, who has taken a position with Pa. Military College, Miss Virginia Woerle of the home economics staff, and Mr. John W. Vanderwerf, lecturer in the business administration department; and that Dr. Thomas P. Gerritt of Simmons College, Boston, will head the department of math and physics. Mr. James R. Kane, practicing Certified Public Accountant of Reading, will teach the advanced accounting, auditing, and tax courses next year.
