

Snyder, Shafer Manage Retreat Rev. Goodwin Leads Worship Services

"Into Our Hands" is the theme Rev. Kelly O. Goodwin, pastor of the Zion Baptist Church in Reading, will develop at the Fall "Y" Retreat to be held October 13 and 14 at the Blue Mountain Camp at Hamburg.

The theme will be presented in three seminars: at the first, on Saturday afternoon, Newell Wert will be student worship leader; at the Saturday evening seminar, Robert Holtzapfel will lead; and the final one on Sunday afternoon, will be in charge of Marian Gerberich. Martha Friedericks will lead the Saturday evening closing vesper services. A Galilean service, conducted by Marvin Helfrich, will be held Sunday morning. Professor Lewis E. Smith will aid Rev. Goodwin in administering Holy Communion on Sunday afternoon.

Warren Pfof and Mildred Kaufmann, who form the recreation committee, will have charge of the supervised recreation on Saturday evening. The song leader, Martha Friedericks, will be assisted by Marjorie Christ, pianist.

Co-chairmen of the Retreat are Agnes Snyder and Jack Shafer. Miss Anna R. Benninger and Faculty Manager of Athletics Eugene Shirk will be chaperones for the occasion.

Registration was handled by the registrars, Grace Miller and Stewart McCleary, from October 3 to October 5. The number of people who can be accommodated was limited to 70. The entire cost of the Y Retreat is three dollars, one dollar of which was to have been paid upon registration and the remainder of which is due upon arrival at camp. (Continued on Page 3)

Daymen to Redecorate After Electing Officers

The Daymen's Organization met today under the leadership of their new officers, whom they elected last week. The new officers are Edwin T. Biehl, president; Richard Derr, vice president; and Russell Luck, secretary-treasurer.

The business at the club's first meeting was primarily to redecorate the club rooms by securing new furniture and other necessary items. Edward S. Daniels was placed in charge of this "rehabilitation program."

The new freshmen were present at the meeting en masse and were introduced to the mechanism of the Daymen's Club. These frosh were invited to join the ranks, dues being set at $1.50, payable before the end of the first semester. Keys to the rooms may be obtained at the Treasurer's Office by members.

A plea was made that all members should make an effort to keep all rooms clean and clear of refuse. The frosh will be enlisted in a "Cleansing Campaign."

Dean of Women Speaks At Daywomen's Meeting

The first Daywomen's meeting was held in the Lower Social Room on October 2, with President Anna Wartluft presiding. New freshmen Daywomen members were welcomed into the organization by Dean Helen L. Cunliffe.

According to a vote taken by the Daywomen, the weekly teas will again be sponsored in collaboration with the Dorm Women. A committee from each class will be appointed to execute plans, under the general supervision of Mildred Kaufmann. The Daywomen also voted that the Ivy Ball be a dinner-dance held off campus.

Marian Fiedler, the Daywomen's Council representative, was requested to bring weekly reports concerning the activities of Student Council.

Student Council Names Kenneth Good To Act as 1945-46 Prexy

Kenneth Good will fill the presidency of Student Council, acting as president pro tem until the regular spring election, announced Council. Good will continue in the position he has held since the graduation of Bohdan Procko.

In a statement to "The Albrightian," Good said, "It will be the policy of Council to try to strike a happy medium between students and Administration, and to make Council an outstanding organization in the minds of students."

The new Council president, who is sports editor of "The Albrightian" and a member of the Alchemists' Club, also holds the office of treasurer in the International Relations Club. A junior, he is an Alpha Pi Omega and a member of the "Cue" staff.

Dinner-Dance

Council also announced that the Ivy Ball dinner-dance will be held October 26 at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel, with Eddie Degler's orchestra providing music. Mary Beth Schofer is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Reports made by representatives to Council stated that every organization unanimously defeated the proposal made last week to hold the ball on the college campus.

The publicity committee, headed by Mary Jane March, reported that dance programs will be in the form of the traditional Ivy Leaf and that the programs will be used as tickets.

Air Troubles

Student Council spent a major part of its last meeting in a discussion of the misunderstandings arising over the rejection by college authorities of many of Council's ideas for frosh orientation. Council members decided the student orientation committee should discuss with the faculty committee a way of settling the misunderstandings.

Miss Schofer revealed that the four fraternities on campus will sponsor Friday night record dances this fall under Student Council's auspices. Plans are under way now for these affairs.

Mu's Arrange Hayride For Freshman Women

An old-fashioned hayride will be featured by Phi Beta Mu as entertainment for the first frosh rush party of the year to which all freshman women and transfers are invited.

The sorority women and their guests will meet the wagons at the bank in Sinking Spring, which they may reach by taking an Albright trolley to Eleventh and Penn Streets and transferring to a Sinking Spring trolley there. The party will stop at the Green Valley Country Club for refreshments.

Professor Ernestine Elder, sorority faculty member, and Miss Consuela Rodriguez will be chaperons for the affair.

The committee in charge is composed of Margaret Ball and Beth Sanger as co-chairmen with Ruth Homan and Jean Borgstrom assisting.

German Club to Sing Folk Songs on Thursday

Singing of popular German folk songs will be a feature of the first German Club meeting Thursday night at 8 p. m. in the Lower Social Room. The musical program will include "Schnitzelbank" and "Die Lorelei."

The social meeting is open to all students, with a special invitation to freshmen. Refreshments will be served.

"Y's" Receive Frosh In Tonight's Service; Fisher and Russ Preside

Tonight the annual Recognition Service of the combined "Y's" will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the College Chapel. The Rev. Rollin Reiner, guest speaker, is pastor of the West Lawn Evangelical Church. In a traditional ceremony, "Y" Presidents Irene Fisher and Charles Russ will receive the freshmen into "Y" membership.

Next Tuesday evening the meeting is scheduled to be held in the College Dining Hall. Guests for this meeting will be the Reading "Y's." A worship service is planned, and there will be an interchange of programs in the form of skits.

Infirmiry Schedules Nurses for Day and Night

Round-the-clock infirmiry hours are announced by Dr. Clarence A. Horn, Director of Student Health. Mrs. Elsie Nuding, R. N., will be on duty from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., as she was last year. From 4 p. m. to 9 a. m. Esther Downs, R. N., a freshman, will be in charge. In case of an emergency during mealtimes — the only time when no one is in the infirmiry — the nurses may be reached in the Dining Hall.

Mrs. Nuding urges students to report all illnesses as soon as possible, especially colds, because special precautions are necessary when so many people live close together.

All students visiting patients in the infirmiry must have special permission from the nurse in charge.

Pat's to Initiate Rushing With October Party

Pi Alpha Tau Sorority will hold its first rush party for all freshman women on October 22 in the Lower Social Room. Plans for this party and a dinner and a dance will be formulated at the next sorority meeting, Monday, October 15.

Rita Duncavage, head of the social committee, and Gloria Salfetty, head of entertainment, will manage the rush party.

Lecturer Opens Cultural Series

The Russian way of life will be described to the students of Albright by Markoosha Fischer on October 16, at 10 a. m. in the College Chapel. Born in Russia during the Czarist regime and well-equipped to discuss the results of that rule, the Russian revolution, and the current Communistic policies, Mrs. Fischer will give a view of the family life in Russia. The speaker is the wife of Louis Fischer, American author, newspaperman, and lecturer.

She lived in Europe from 1921 to 1939, and during that time she served as secretary to many important Russian statesmen and officials. While serving as a secretary in the Russian diplomatic corps, Mrs. Fischer attended the Near East Conference at Lausanne.

Upon returning to the States in 1939, she was immediately urged to write a book about her experiences. "My Lives in Russia," the fruit of her literary efforts, was highly praised by the critics. Now, as a lecturer, Markoosha Fischer is attempting to present a better understanding of the Red allies.

Plowfield Names Publication Aides For "Cue" Work

June Plowfield, elected editor-in-chief of the "Cue" last spring, has started the ball rolling by naming her assistants who will aid her in the task of editing Albright's yearbook. Published every two years by the junior and senior classes, the "Cue" now in preparation will appear next spring.

Students named for the literary staff include Edward Daniels, Catherine Frantz, Marion Latta, and Jeanne Schlegel. Those selected for the art staff are Jean Borgstrom, Mary Eschwei, Gayle Haupt, and Virginia Woerle. The sports staff has Kenneth Good, sports editor of "The Albrightian," as men's editor, and Margory Plowfield as women's editor; William Ebbert and Jeanne Flickinger are their assistants.

The composing staff will be managed by Phyllis Carter, Rita Duncavage, and Humbert Manzollilo. The business staff, managed by Joy Cutler who was elected last spring also, is composed of Herbert Hyman, Eileen O'Neil, Agnes Snyder, and Robert Sokol. Advertising manager, Warren Pfof, will be assisted (Continued on Page 3)

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star, How I wish you were a star!" is the theme song of a certain veteran who turned in his gold bars for silver ones recently—First Lieut. Robert Starr. Debate Squad Gets Holtzapfel as Manager

"That the Foreign Policy of the United States Should Be Directed Toward the Establishment of Free Trade Among the Nations of the World" is the subject that will be debated by the intercollegiate forensic teams this season by the Albright Debate Squad, announces Dr. John B. Douds, sponsor of the organization.

Old members and all aspiring debaters are invited to meet in room 106 in the Ad Building at 12:50 p. m., October 22, to plan this season's activities.

Robert Holtzapfel, newly appointed manager of the squad, with Dr. John B. Douds attended a meeting of the Debating Association of Pennsylvania Colleges held in Harrisburg last Saturday. This is the first meeting of this organization since before the war, and it points to a revival in collegiate debating which slumped during the war because of transportation difficulties.

Prof to Note Columbus In Assembly Programs

Dr. Milton W. Hamilton, in the assembly programs Thursday, October 11, will talk on a subject appropriate to Columbus Day. Dean Helen Cunliffe had charge of the morning's worship services today in the chapel periods.

Professor Clyde A. Harding, on October 4, presented an informal review of philology, giving illustrations of such language peculiarities as spoonerisms and acrostics. Last Tuesday's chapel programs were presented by Professor Lewis E. Smith, who spoke on "The Way, the Truth, and the Life."

It was the morning of May 17, 1943. It was foggy and cold when orders came in to report for briefing. Little did I realize while riding to the briefing room what was in store for me and that I would not ride back that way again.

Nerves and Chills

Reporting in to briefing I saw my crew number posted along with nine other crew numbers. Chills ran along my spine as I realized I was going on a raid. Everyone seemed rather nervous and cigars were being lit one after the other. Rumor had it that we were going to strike in Holland on the same target that had been hit by our ships two days before. Finally, after what seemed hours, we were given our target. Rumor was right — a low-level strike near Utrecht. After briefing was over we went to our ships, gave them a final check, and waited for the take off signal. Every man was in his place, waiting and wondering. At last the signal was given and we taxied for the take-off. One by one, our heavily-laden Marauders took to (Continued on Page 3)

Society Holds Ceremony For Ten New Members

Ten new members were received into the Skull and Bones Society by the president, June Plowfield, at the first meeting of the club last Wednesday evening.

The new members are Edwin Biehl, Betty Burnett, Richard Gable, Larry Haag, Joan House, Herbert Hyman, Vladimir Kolton, Dorothy Moyer, Mary Louise Schappell, and Catherine White.

There's Life in the Old Boy Yet

A spark of life flared up into enough flame to warm at least one room in the Ad Building last Thursday, when Student Council members forgot their bump-on-a-log attitudes and became aroused enough to air their views. A unanimous vote turning down the suggestion to have the Ivy Ball in the College Dining Room proved that representatives had really reported the matter to their organizations and that those organizations really cared what Student Council did about it. If that kind of a student attitude continues, Student Council may yet become the potent force it should be on campus.

Student representatives and faculty members also came closer to mutual understanding, as expressed opinions from both sides cleared the air. Students balked at being treated like children and asked that they be given credit for enough intelligence to understand a reasonable explanation for veto actions of the Administration, instead of the "No, no, children" way they have been treated recently.

So Student Council members can stand on two feet and talk. Hurray!

Red Flannels or Else—

If you've been saying "I must be gettin' sumpin'—I've got the awfulest chills"—Relax chum! It isn't just you. There is the little matter of an empty furnace room in the Ad Building—or more accurately—a big hole in the floor where the furnace used to be.

Yes, we're getting a new furnace, but be patient, be patient. Don't you know there's a war off? Shortages, priorities, and all those familiar war-time phrases are still in use. With the weather man and the OPA conspiring, Albrightians can do no better than to get out the red flannel longies.

Jim Spatz still looks optimistic and Professor Lewis E. Smith promises heat sometime this week. In the meantime, either bundle up or take out insurance on your dental work.

Whoops! 'Scuse Us

We hang our heads in shame! Two blunders in last week's issue caused us slightly red faces, and because we are sincere in our aim of accurate news coverage, we are correcting those errors here.

First, we said that the evening sessions which opened last night were connected with the Penn State Extension Courses. This is entirely wrong. Night school is Albright's own night school, and Penn State Extension Courses are no longer held.

Second, we omitted the name of Umberto Tucci from the list of veterans who entered this summer as freshmen.

We stand corrected.

We'll Say It Again

Last Monday morning First Lieut. Dennis Ertel was in the Army. Last Monday evening, civilian Dennis Ertel was enrolled at Albright—joining the ranks of veterans who have returned to their Alma Mater. While Ertel's action is praise-worthy in itself, it bespeaks an attitude in Albright's Lions in the Ranks which is far more important than the single incident.

Perhaps veterans at Albright get tired of being singled out as veterans. Perhaps we make too much of their situation from their point of view. But to us who have stayed at home and watched these men and women leave for military service, it is not too much to mention their veteran status again and again.

We are proud of them. We feel proud for Albright that these former Lions want to be Lions again—proud that what Albright has to give is not outgrown with the age a battlefield or flaming sky adds to a man's life. Each one who returns is a hero to us, and we are not ashamed of the pride and happiness that puts a lump in our throats.

Sing, Ye Choirs, Sing!

Thirty-eight singers were completely stirred and more than a little surprised at their own accomplishment last week at the first rehearsal of the chorus preparing for the "Messiah." If this number could turn out on a one day's notice, what will be the attendance next week when everyone in the original group brings along his buddy?

Albright music lovers may well be thrilled at the opportunity of presenting so great a work for the Christmas season. It is an experience not easily come by nor readily forgotten. All faculty and students are invited to sing in the chorus. It takes a lot of work and—the time is now!

Lionizing

By MARIAN LATTA

Hi kids! Here's your social reporter back again with the latest tidbits of campus doings.

Seems as though there's a big thing coming up October 27—the traditional Ivy Ball Formal. This is the grandest dance of the year. As usual, we hope to have it off campus, complete with a dinner and all the fixings. So come on, men, grab yourself a gal and let's get for a swell evening.

Gripes, gripes, gripes—that's all you hear floating around Albright campus these days. Of course most of it is from the mouths of the upper classmen, but then, they're a little surer of the ropes and what they want from college life than are the frosh. Speaking for the student body (that's what this little space is for) and voicing some common sentiments—it's a shame that the Administration and the student body can't get together. It seems as if there's nothing but distrust on both sides. . . . The Administration functions as though it's afraid its own student body would run away with its privileges if it were given any leeway at all in settling for itself matters of frosh initiation and social functions; and in turn, the student body is beginning to harbor a keen sense of injustice and lack of fair play. We're men and women now—let's prove it.

But changing from (shall we say the sublime) to the ridiculous, just ask Doty Moyer what her current ailment is—if you want a good laugh!

And if you hear strange noises creeping from under the doors of the second floor class rooms, it's just the Germa and Spanish classes crooning their hearts out.

Joke of the week. Two frosh guys sitting patiently at a table in Pop's waiting for the service to come to them.

By the way, Domino has a new director in the person of Miss S. Helen Ahrens, associated with the city Y's. She appears the "Much Ado About Nothing" is to be the first production.

So long for now, kids, hope you'll be reading me.

For Whom the Bells Toll

More names of Albrightians and former students have been added to the list of engagements and marriages. Among them are the following:

Julia Hassler became the wife of Flight Officer Kenneth Youmans, whom she met on campus while he was a cadet. They are in Nebraska now, where he is stationed.

Mary Hagan, one of the aides in the Treasurer's Office, had the good news ready for the fall students. The man in the picture is Howard Moyer.

Mildred Kauffman has announced her engagement to Vester Peters, a 1944 graduate here.

Jean Ann Gaul married Ted Le-wandowski, A. A. F., and they are spending their honeymoon in Washington.

Wedding bells rang for Betty Bradley and Lou Doughy, who just

Butch Reigns Supreme Over Home Ec Practice

The manpower shortage definitely is improving, even though the latest male to turn up on campus has only been in existence for eight months, to be specific, since January 31st, 1945. The ranks of the famous home ec babies have been joined this year by a black-haired, blue-eyed character named "Butch."

According to Professor Florence V. Innis, he already belongs in the "tall, dark, and handsome," glamour-boy category. He eats well as most males do, and sleeps soundly, and what's more, continuously at night, as most babies don't.

The girls whose job it is to take care of him as part of their practice house experience, have found that like males many years his senior, he is inclined to fuss a bit if not given a lot of attention. But popular as he is, here is at least one man the girls won't be fighting over for one of those dance dates.

Like most of the boys on campus for the past few years, he expects to be here only a short while. He arrived on Sept. 27th and expects to leave before the Christmas holidays on December 16th.

As the upperclassmen and "pale-faced" frosh struggle against the pressure of the oncoming rush of wind in their attempt to pack the Science Hall, one might imagine that some swing artist has arrived on the Albright campus.

However, upon further scrutiny, it is noted that the overwhelming popularity for the major sciences has driven this mass of high school graduates and former students to their favorite profs' lectures. Prof. Green has all of eighty-nine first year biologists which leaves little if any space for the stray dogs that wander through the halls trying to become friends to the new frosh.

Naturally like most frosh in their first attempt to use a microscope, this semester's "initiation ball" ends up with a beautiful sketch (in their estimation) of the microscopic object, only to find that it was mere specks of dust.

Meanwhile, Dr. Scoles has a class of fifty for qualitative analysis with just as huge an enthusiastic crowd for frosh chem. Striking as it may seem, men are not lacking in these classes; in fact, fifty percent can be found in most lectures.

Of course, some frosh chem majors have fallen prey to the upperclassmen's tactics. Thus, these "tired" frosh continue an endless search for calibrated atomic weights and benzene rings (not the wedding ring type, frosh!). Others can be found trying to locate the latest "glamour girl" of the campus—Miss Florence Flask.

Nevertheless, with the untiring spirit and enthusiasm so prevalent in the remaining upperclassmen and new frosh, this semester will truly be a memorable one.

Initiation of new members into Heo Club took place at the first meeting of the club on Monday. It was the traditional ceremony that is used by organizations affiliated with the Pennsylvania State Home Economics Association. The new members are Lucille Dissinger, Louise Ery, Virginia Fox, Vilma Griese-mer, Katherine Heimback, Joan Marie Kinsey, Elva M. Kurtz, Erna Seidel, Joyce Ruth, and Nancy Englehart.

This year the meetings are being held in the Lower Social Room because of the larger space for activities.

The girls in Sherman Cottage are very proud of the fact that since "Butch" came here he has learned to pull himself up to a standing position. Butch, the masculine member of the cottage, is just a bundle of charms. He has brown hair, blue eyes, and a very wide, toothless grin which he flashes at everyone he sees. His Majesty's picture has been taken for the record and will be taken again near the end of his stay here at which time, we expect, he'll be a very healthy, happy young man.

Lions-in-the-Ranks

By JEAN HARER

It seems almost every time you look out the window these days there's an Albrightian-in-Service walking around campus, talking to profs and students and catching up generally on events and gossip. They all enjoy getting back and it sure is good to see them. Some of the recent visitors have been Bob Ravel, Ralph Miller, Hampton Pullis and Dick Dexter. Jack Gounder, who is a Pharmacist Mate at the Philadelphia Naval Hospital, managed to get here for the Faculty Reception last week.

There are three fellows in the Department of Honorable Discharge this week: Lt. Francis Fletcher, Lt. Dean Alspach, and Lt. Dennis Ertel. Fran has been on campus several times in the last few days. However, he is not coming back to Albright, but hopes to go to Lehigh since he is interested in electrical engineering. Dean Alspach, too, has decided on a course which Albright doesn't offer. He wants to take up ceramics engineering and has chosen Penn State as his school. Dennis Ertel decided to come back to Albright for pre-law work. He just managed by the skin of his teeth to get back for this semester. He was released from the service Monday morning, October 1st, and Monday afternoon he registered for classes here. Welcome back, Dennis, we're glad you made it.

Jumping from campus across the Pacific, we hear from TS William "Jerry" Bentz in Guam. "I am stationed at the air depot which furnished supplies and major repair services for the Marianas Superfortresses, and the two Jima fighters. Before V-J Day I was doing aircraft radio installation and maintenance work; now I'm supposed to be a grease ball on aircraft engines. Your issue of August 21 reached me recently and I thoroughly enjoyed reading the news in it. I'll appreciate any future copies you might wish to send me, because I have a strong feeling that I'll be around here for a while. (I'm one of the low-point boys.) I have not met any fellow Albrightians in these regions, but if there are some around here, I would enjoy talking over old times with them."

Chaplain Marshall E. Brenneman describes the announcing of victory at his station in the Philippines. "A week ago last evening the first news of the Japanese surrender came over the radio. There was a stage show, 'Three Men on a Horse,' playing at the theater and along about 9 o'clock that evening the newscast from WVTK went on the air waves. The men who were in the recreation hall heard it first, and their cheers soon got to be heard at the theater. Needless to say, there was much joyful noise from then on. It was sorta like Christmas and Fourth of July and New Year—all in one. I came to the chapel immediately to turn on the lights, for I knew many of the men would find their way to the church to thank God that the war was over. When the lights were finally turned on, at least 20 men had already been on their knees in prayer. They kept coming in, one after another till after 12 midnight. Since the news first came to us, many men have been counting very carefully their points and then come to the chaplain to see how the mechanics of the discharge will work. It's lots of fun."

Mac Jean Picking, last year's editor of Lions in the Ranks, is still on the ball. She sends us the following news about Jack Witman, Don Gabel and Aaron Taub:

"Jack Witman is in Guinan, Samar — southeastern tip of Samar. The orchestra he is in played several concerts on Calicoan for other battalions. He is getting shots for cholera, etc., and just may be sent to China. His battalion—the 122nd, is being decommissioned. He may come home next spring.

"Don Gabel gave up his commission in the Air Corps to become a cadet at West Point.

"Aaron Taub now has A.P.O. 238. Since August 1st he has been in a hospital in Manila (formerly the Manila Jockey Club). He has gone sightseeing in Manila. Pie a la mode is $1.25; three popsicles are 50c. He plays tennis, bridge, pinochle, chess, and ping pong. Sounds sick? He certainly enjoyed a letter from Prof. Green."

Harold Cooper also mentions Prof. Green in his recent letter. Harold hopes to get out of the service soon and return to Albright to resume his pre-medical work. He says, "I hope everything is getting along fine at Albright, and I wish you would say 'Hello' for me to everyone, especially Dr. Horn and Prof. Green.

Frosh Women Receive Bids to Glee Club Following Tryouts

Tryouts for the Women's Glee Club have resulted in the acceptance of eight freshmen as members. The following students who had their auditions have been notified: Joy Davis, Mary Fry, Dorace Hornberger, Elaine Huber, Nancy Mattern, Shirley Miller, Joyce Ruth, and Betty Thompson.

President and accompanist for Glee Club is Marjorie Christ, while student conductor and business manager are Elizabeth H. Pottieger and Martha Friedericks, respectively. Other former members are Jean Harer, Ferne Allen, Betty Fielitz, Miriam Kramer, Ruth Leickel, Esther Savidge, Gladys Savidge, Margaret Walker and Jeanne Schlegel.

International Relations Club Elects Kissinger Prexy

The International Relations Club elected John Kissinger as president to replace Bohdan Procko, who has left for graduate work in history at Columbia. The meeting last Thursday evening, October 4, was opened by Martha Friedericks, president pro tem.

Kissinger took over the meeting after the election, leading a discussion on the scope of future club activities to make it a vital, educational organization. Peace problems in international affairs will receive primary attention. A committee headed by Walter Hayum and including Mary Briner and Geraldine Wentzel was appointed to make more specific plans.

Miss Plowfield is asking the cooperation of all former members of the classes of '46 and '47 now serving in the armed forces in sending their pictures to the "Cue" staff as soon as possible. These men and women are still considered Albrightians and will be included in the publication.

the air, leveling off just over the trees, and then circling to get in formation. Exactly fifteen minutes after take-off we were formed and headed out over the North Sea. Looking back I gave England a last farewell and settled down to the business of playing stork to Hitler.

After a half-hour of wave skimming we sighted the coast of Holland, little realizing that the peaceful scene ahead was to be the scene of a blazing inferno for our little group of Marauders. Small fishing craft grouped together told us we were slightly off course and ahead loomed the delta of the Rhine River. Picking a likely looking spot the lead plane changed course and we swung within the circle of small fishing craft. Our doom was sealed with this move. As we hedge-hopped the boats, the god of war turned his wrath on us. Each boat was a camouflaged gun deck that turned its light flak guns on us. From the coast shore batteries opened fire, bringing us into a terrific cross fire. Weaving and dodging we tried to out-smart the enemy gunners and clear the heavy flak area.

Over the coast our lead ship went down in flames, carrying our commanding officer with it. Seconds later number two went down in one of the many canals beneath us. At last we came out of the cross fire with two down and one badly injured. (Continued on Page 4)

Museum Reveals Lecture Schedule

For the thirty-first consecutive season, the Reading Public Museum and Art Gallery will present to the public a series of illustrated lectures by prominent people in the auditorium of the Reading Senior High School, 13th and Douglass Streets. The lectures are presented free of charge as a part of the museum's program as a center of culture and information for the community. Earl L. Poole is director of the museum.

"Our Good Neighbors and Strategic Materials," by Sullivan C. Richardson, will initiate the series Friday, November 2, at 8 p. m. The lecture, which will be illustrated with color motion pictures, will record how war products of the South American nations played an important part in the U. S. war effort.

Francis R. Line will lecture November 16 on "Circle of Fire," a pictorial record of his 25,000-mile trip through the Pacific area. His film was used by Army officers in planning their military campaigns.

"Haiti" is the title of the talk which Robert Stanton will present December 7 at the high school. Mr. Stanton will give a historical and contemporaneous picture of the so-called Black Republic.

Dr. Michail M. Dorizas will show the scope of Russia's influence in the Balkans in his illustrated lecture, "Russia and her Balkan Neighbors," to be held December 21.

The first program of the new year will be a talk entitled "Australia's Stone-age Men" by Charles P. Mountford. The Australian ethnologist will show the aborigines of the central region in their natural habitat.

Commander Donald B. MacMillan, who in the past thirty-seven years has journeyed twelve times to Greenland, will lecture on this Arctic country January 18 in Reading High's auditorium.

A former instructor of English at Harvard University, Martin K. Bovey, will speak with the aid of color motion pictures on "The Lore of New England," a word picture of the beauty of his native region.

Frederic and Sylvia Christian will present "California Kaleidoscope," which begins in Los Angeles and ends in San Francisco and includes (Continued on Page 4)

RHS Loses No. 1 As Teams Meet

Reading High lost its first football game of the season by dropping a close decision to the Ben Franklin High football squad of Philadelphia by almost the identical score of last year.

Ben Franklin drew first blood by scoring in the first period on a long pass, the same play they used to win last year. Reading tallied on a similar play in the second quarter to knot the count 7-7 at half time.

Two Reading High fumbles in the second half spelled their doom. Shortly after the third quarter began, Reading was beginning to move when a fumble cut their drive and enabled Ben Franklin to turn their error into the winning touchdown.

Early in the fourth quarter, Reading was again on the march, reaching Ben Franklin's twenty-five, but another fumble cost them the ball and eventually the game, as Ben Franklin was able to keep Reading from making any other serious threat.

The teams who have thus far played in the stadium have established the following records:

Reading High—won one, lost one.
Shillington High—won one and lost one.

Central Catholic—won one and lost two.

points of interest in between. They will appear February 15.

Out of his experience in living with the Sioux Indians, Edward T. Camenisch will lecture on "The Sioux Indians at Home," a recording of their philosophy, their cuisine, their mode of dress. Mr. Camenisch will be presented March 1.

The final lecture of the season March 15 will be "Columbia," with Dr. John Harvey Furbay speaking. He covers the entire land from the steaming jungles to the frigid cities of the interior.

Typical Gym Class At Stadium Under Coach Harris

Hep, two, three, four; no, that's not the Army, that's Albright College Stadium during one of Coach Neal O. Harris' phys ed classes. Perhaps you're wondering why these instruction periods rate special mention in the sports page of "The Albrightian;" well, ask any of the fellows who've taken the course and I am sure they will agree that Coach Harris' classes are really unique. Let us examine a typical Albright phys ed class and find out exactly what the men do to get those bulging muscles (kidding, of course).

The first thing one does in a phys ed class down at the old Circus Maximus is to change clothes and then to trot energetically onto the field. Next a whistle is heard and a bellowing voice shouts, "Come on, you guys, let's go!"

Then Harris starts to work on you and, boy, by the time he's finished with you, you're ready to collapse.

Oh, but that's not all! After this, he conducts something called cadence running (the fellows just call it torture). After running several hundred laps, he finally takes pity on you and tells you to go. Then you stagger off the field to some milder course like organic chemistry or ethics.

jured and out of control. Then it happened. The injured plane went completely out, just missing my ship and colliding with the plane ahead of me. Too late I realized what was happening and pulled back on the stick, trying to clear the collision ahead. Smoke and flames shot up from the terrific explosion of bombs, and gas blinded me. We passed through the flying debris only to come out with jammed controls and no alternative but to come down fast. A small field ahead saved us and with wheels up and a full bomb load aboard we crash landed in enemy territory.

By KEN GOOD

With the third week of school well under way, we're starting to wonder about the intramural program. Now that the war is over and things are starting to get back to normal we think it would be a good idea for Albright to really get down to brass tacks as far as intramurals are concerned. We feel that with returning manpower Albright should be able to establish a stable intramural set-up and institute a program which the College can be proud of. We suggest that the Interfrat Athletic Council

Side Lions

Kutztown State Teachers College is slated to have a pretty good basketball team this year. Under the new coaching of Walt Risley, former Berks County high school mentor, the Golden Avalanche has a potential squad of 26 men. Out of this 26 Risley has a few former KSTC performers and a host of Berks County high school stars.

Up for a recent draft examination was freshman Dick Thomas who probably holds the honors of being the second tallest man on campus. Dick measures a neat 6'6" and is a graduate of Muhlenberg High School, class of '43 where he played basketball.

A certain frosh and his buddy were seen around the Stadium last week getting ready for the coming basketball season. The fellows worked so industriously that we feel sure Lee Cappel and Joe Kubisen are going to be in top shape for the future practice sessions.

Incidentally, any of you freshmen who haven't been in any of Coach Neal O. Harris's calisthenics classes as yet, take it from the upper classmen—he's plenty tough. When the Army was at Albright, Coach Harris had the toughest Physical Ed program in the Mitchell Field area. We're just warning you.

Last week, Bill Miller and Hampton Pullis made their appearance on the campus. Both boys were members of the crack 1944 basketball squad and were since inducted into the armed forces. Forrest Saylor, Jesse Erwin, Jim Braun, and Stew Beyerle, also members of last year's squad who were inducted, were home within the last month.

hold a meeting as soon as possible and get the Interfrat football league started. We suggest also that this group hold meetings at regular intervals at which time problems and schedules can be discussed. Remember fellows—it's your Albright—your athletic program, so hound the Interfrat Council representative of your respective organization to get on the ball.

LOOKS BAD

"Albright chief sport, basketball, does not hold too bright a future for its followers," states Coach Neal O. Harris, who points out that only two holdovers, Frank Seifert and Tiny Landis, will be around when the season opens. Harris also pointed out that a great many of the "green" freshmen who are on hand are eligible for the draft. Remember this, gang, and don't be too content when the season rolls around.

COACH GETS OFFER

We have it from reliable sources that Coach Harris was approached by Seton Hall to take over the post of Head Basketball Coach at that school. It was reported that two attempts were made to annex Albright's court mentor. Seton Hall, always producing powerhouse basketball combines, is apparently planning to again resume the court sport after a lapse of three years.

THANK YOU

Thanks to Chet Hagan, the summer issue of "The Albrightian" had a sports page. Chet produced the page completely, and the sports staff as well as the editors wish to extend to him a big "Thank you." Incidentally Chet is a sports reporter for the Reading Eagle and is publicity man for the college. Hagan's having a little vacation now due to the newspaper strike.

Girls Practice For Coming Fall Hockey Season

The women's fall athletic program got under way this past week with hockey scrimmages being held on the athletic field. Although several members of last year's team have graduated, new recruits from freshmen and upper classwomen show prospects of ably filling the vacated positions.

Holdovers from last season's varsity squad include Marie Bonner, Mary Eschwei, Phyllis Carter, Virginia Woerle, and Jean Borgstrom, manager. Games have been scheduled so far with Drexel, Cedar Crest, and Kutztown. Interclass games are also being planned.

Physical Instructor Eva M. Mosser has set up the following elective fall program: hockey fundamentals, tennis fundamentals, archery, badminton, volley ball and ping-pong.

The Woman's Athletic Association held its first meeting Wednesday evening in the Lower Social Room. Mary Eschwei, president, presided.

Alice Albright was appointed to fill the position vacated by Barbara Pearsall, as assistant basketball manager. Betty Burnett was appointed to serve as transportation manager for basketball and to have charge of publicity for all sports.

Since the change from war time to standard time means earlier darkness in the evenings, it was decided that Intramural Hockey games will be played this year on Saturday mornings, beginning at 9:30 a. m. Two games will be played each Saturday.

staff wasn't out on a strike last week. There just wasn't any sports. We were glad to hear a lot of "What, no sports page?"—it showed us that you missed our department.
