EXCELSIORS CELEBRATE 72ND BIRTHDAY

Present Fine Program in Chapel To Treat College in Anniversary Program in Chapel

WILLITS DELIVERS ORATION

"Habit of Going To Devil" is Subject; Kneller, Williams, Griffiths, Lundy Also Participate

Albright's yearly history would never be complete without the celebration of the Anniversary of the Excelsior Literary Society. This year is the seventy-second year of its existence on the Albright campus.

Last Friday evening in the College Chapel the program of its celebration was given to a fairly sized audience. The stage and the auditorium was well decorated with the colors and insignia of the society, as well as the school colors.

An orchestra featured the program. The invocation was given by Dr. J. Lewis Fluck, of the Faculty.

Oscar Kneller, President of the Society, reviewed in his welcoming address the achievements of the society in its long existence. The society has always aimed to fulfill its motto, "Higher." Like all other organizations they have had periods of retrogression as well as progression, but that is as it must be.

Harold Griffiths, entertained with a well selected and well rendered violin solo.

Then came the oration of the evening given by Franklin Willits. His subject was, "The Habit of Going to the Devil", a very unique subject and a very suggestive one for a college audience. He said: "A few years ago our parents rebelled against the traditions of the time and those traditions changed—the vital elegants alone remaining."

Today youth is repeating the process. And there will emerge from this freedom a truer realization of what freedom is. Things proceed by contraries. The pendulum has swung far toward license, but is now beginning toward (Continued On Page Two)

REBUKER OF MUSSOLINI HERE

Congressman Aswell To Speak In High School Auditorium On
Lyceum Program

OF INTEREST TO STUDENTS

On Monday night, November 1st, in the high school auditorium, the Theresa Sheehan Concert Company presented the first number of the Antrim Lyceum Course, which the Myerstown Woman's Club is sponsoring this winter. Miss Sheehan is a reader who excels in character impersonations. Her "Sinking of the Titanic" was particularly well received. She was assisted by a soprano soloist, and a violinist of rare ability.

The second number of the course will be a lecture November 28th, by Congressman James B. Aswell. This is the man who dared to "talk-back" to Mussolini when the latter refused to consider the new plan of the United States to place a commission in Italy to judge of the desirability of the prospective immigrants to this country. Mr. Aswell told Mussolini that if he would not try out this plan, the United States would refuse admittance to all Italians. As a result of the interview, the commission is now functioning in Italy.

The third number will be a play on January 12th, by the Community Theatre Players. The Woman's Club has engaged the best cast for this (Continued On Page Two)

TO ORGANIZE DRAMATIC CLUB ON CAMPUS

Members of Expression Department To Meet In Order To Formulate Plans of Organization

On Oct. 16, the members of the Expression Department will please meet with Mrs. Landis in the Chapel at one o'clock. Plans will be discussed for formulating the Dramatic Club of Albright College.

For the benefit of students who are not taking expression please note that to become a member of the Albright Dramatic Club, one must be a member of the course in Expression.

All those who are interested in Dramatics will do well to become a member of the Expression Department, as it will be greatly beneficial in their work in the Dramatic Club. All interested in Dramatics please see Mrs. Landis as soon as possible. Let's go! Everyone out for the Albright Dramatic Club.

ALBRIGHT INVITED TO JOIN CHESS LEAGUE

National Federation Anxious That Albright Establish Intercollegiate Team

TOWSEN IS ALBRIGHT HOPE

Albright College has been invited to join the National Chess Federation, and to place team and individual entries in the intercollegiate championships. This became known thru a communication received at the school last week from L. Walker Stephens, director of the collegiate division of the National Federation.

The National Chess Federation, should be explained, is an organization operating as a division of the International Chess Federation, which decides all matters of any consequence in regard to international matches, rules, the world's championship, etc. The collegiate division is a branch of the national organization and is coming into existence for the first time this year. It represents a further extension of the powers of the Federation, and comes as the result of a probing of an alleged unfairness of on the part of some of the larger schools. By the decision of this bureau all existing chess leagues will be organized into one league with four regional divisions, Eastern, Western, Central, and Southern. Every college will then have the right to be represented in the regional tournaments, and, in case of placing, in the national.

The local hope for the Albright team is "Gus" Townsen, the local wizard of the checkered board, who (Continued On Page Two)

ALBRIGHT NIMRODS EXHIBIT RARE SKILL

"Eagle Eye" Brown Shows Way To Large Field of Rivals In Bagging Game—Kneller Close Second

In a steady onslaught on the denizens of the woods and field during the past week, the Albright "nimrods" have proved their mettle and marksmanship in no little degree.

On the opening day of hunting season, a number of boys, armed with shot guns of all kinds and descriptions and shells, made a sally from the campus to the regions of the surrounding territory, in quest of adventure and game. Nor were the hostilities limited to one day. Scarcely a morning of the entire week passed that did not see some local sportsman ready to take a fling at fate, and test his luck. Nary a day passed which did not bring with it a number of sharp cracks which were (Continued On Page Three)

BULLETIN APPEARS EVERY THURSDAY BEGINNING TODAY

Students Who Have Not Paid Budget Make Necessary This Move To Cut Down Expenses

STAFF THINKS CHANGE BEST

Copies Will Be Distributed Thursday Evening After Supper—Day Students Get Their Frisky Morning

Beginning with this issue, the Albright Bulletin will be distributed to the student body on Thursday evening after supper thereafter. This decision was reached by the business and editorial heads of the staff after several weeks deliberation as to the advisability of a move like this. Now the change has been made, the Bulletins instead of appearing after chapel on Friday morning will be given out Thursday evening.

There are two reasons for this change. First, the students will be able to get the news earlier than before. The papers have always arrived on Thursday afternoons, with rare exceptions, but were not given out until the next morning. Under the new arrangement, the news will seem less "stale" than before. Another reason is the fact that a number of students who have a light schedule on Friday, frequently leave before chapel, and consequently miss their copy, and often fail to get it later.

One of the greatest motives was not that of service or altruism, but an economic one. A large number of students have not paid their budget as yet, especially on Friday students. However, these students who are contributing in no way to the upkeep of the Weekly have been receiving copies as well as others. Obviously, this is unfair to all three concerned. The management believes that there are almost fifty in this class of delinquents, and by not getting only as many Bulletins printed as are paid for, expenses which seem at the present time a little hard to meet because of the number who have not paid the (Continued On Page Three)

CLASSY MUSICALS PROMISED STUDENTS

Music Department Busy Arranging Tasty Dishes To Treat Local Music Lovers

Already at Albright we have had several pleasing recitals from the Music and Education Departments of the school and now we have news of a new kind of recital for the entertainment of the students and of the people of the town.

Although duets, trios and quartets are not new to the school, yet a recital in which there will be no solos will be a new feature presentation to the school. In other words the next recital will be a recital of duets, both vocal and piano; piano duos and quartets, and also vocal quartets. For years the recitals at Albright have been of the highest calibre and this year seems to predict an even greater year than any heretofore. (Continued On Page Three)

NEW BOOKS ADDED TO LIBRARY LIST

During the past week about twenty five new books have been added to the college library.

The books are of a miscellaneous nature, some being additions to the shelves of the various departments, notably history, education and psychology. There are also several of the latest, popular books of fiction, two by Dreiser, and one by Hergeheimer.

A complete list of the books is printed inside. Look over it.

LEST WE FOR- GET "CONFETTI" IS COMING

Y. W. Vaudeville Show Held Next Friday To Defray Eagles Mere Expenses

Let us once again remind you of "Confetti" on November 18. The tickets are now on sale. You can secure them from any Freshman girl. Do your part and come. The object of this show is to secure money to send Y. W. C. A. representatives to Eagles Mere this coming summer. It has been customary to send four girls and this takes considerable money. We all want Albright to be well represented, so give your support to the Y. W. and make this possible by coming to "Confetti." The admission is thirty-five cents, and it is worth it. It will be a night of music, fun and laughter. Get your ticket now. Don't miss "Confetti." The sensation of the year. Come one, come all.

NEOS TO DISCUSS "FAIR DEAL" TONIGHT

Two Groups Will Debate Whether Students Are Giving Administration Square Deal

QUESTION PROVING INTERESTING

Tonight at the regular meeting of the Neocosmian Literary Society in Neocosmian Hall, one of the most litigated and pertinent questions of the day, on the Albright campus, will be discussed in an open forum manner.

The question is "Are the students of Albright giving the college administration a square deal?" This question was to have been discussed several weeks ago, but because of its important nature was held over until tonight when the officers that they could get a large crowd out to participate in the free for all.

The plan which the Neos will pursue will be to divide the society into two opposing clubs, appoint a leader for each one, outline their points and policies, and then present them individually, each member then will have the chance to speak. The speakers will alternate. That is first a speaker for the affirmative will take the floor, and then one for the negative.

Several of the professors are interested in the question, and it will not be surprising if several members of the faculty turn out to hear the boys' opinion, in which promises to be the most interesting and hottest session in the men's society this year.

CHANCE TO REVENGE LUCKY LIONS DRAWS NEAR

Albright Hopes Engage Julians Fast Going Schuykill Club On Saturday. Desperate Battle Assured

In two days the Flying Wellermen will have the opportunity which they have patiently awaited for a whole year—to revenge Schuykill for the bitter defeat which was administered to them last year at this time. The Lions, which the Schuykill boys have been called ever since the Reading college adopted that animal as its official symbol were pretty lucky last year, and completely upset the dope beating the Red and White in a very close game, by the score of 9-7, after they scarcely dared hope for victory.

This year conditions are reversed. Instead of Albright entering the fray as the winning team, and the Lions the losing club, the Myerstownians are considered, especially by the fans (Continued On Page Three)

BUELL TROWBRIDGE TO SPEAK IN "Y"

Former Cornell, Oxford and Yale Graduate Will Talk To Men Next Tuesday Night

The Y. M. C. A. is planning for another very profitable evening on next Tuesday, when they have arranged to have Mr. Buell Trowbridge come here and talk to the men in the meeting.

Mr. Trowbridge is a very fine speaker on religious perplexities and vocational problems. He attended Cornell and Oxford, and also graduated from Yale.

This promises to be just another very good talk of the sort which have been on the programs so far this year. There is no doubt whatever that the Y. M. has been bringing some very good speakers to Albright which is proven by the record breaking attendance at most of the meetings. It should be the aim of every fellow to hear Mr. Trowbridge, as there is no doubt that he will bring us something good.

URSINUS PRESIDENT CUTS CAMPUS; FINED $1

He With Two of His Professors Tresspassed on the Campus Greensward And Apprehended By Police of Men's Student Council

A college president and two of his professors on Monday paid fines of $1 each for trespassing.

At a formal hearing before the student council "High Court" of Ursinus College here, President George L. Omwake and professors Frank Kringman and Ralph Veatch, admitted that "police" of the men's student council "had the goods on them." They pleaded guilty to strolling across the campus greensward in violation of campus regulations.

SUPPORT LOCAL INDUSTRY

Quite surprised were we last week when we assembled to have the annual group picture taken, and behold, not the usual photographer, but some strange varabond picture "shooter." And when we learned the real facts of the matter our surprise reached its climax. It has been customary for the college photographers to arrange and handle this event and realize whatever there may be in it as an aid in helping them thru school, but this was not the case this year. Someone in whom we have very little interest, and who quite probably has enough to satisfy his material wants will realize the subsequent gain.

It is unfortunate, to say the very least, that such a state of affairs should exist, and very startling that the requisite permission should have been granted in the first place. The slogan, "Patronize the Home Industries," is not far amiss here.

LET'S MAINTAIN THE STATUS QUO!

We wonder if the time announced for the evening church service last Sunday is a permanent change. It seems not to have been wholeheartedly received on the part of the students. There is nothing especially to be done after supper, so why not have Christian Endeavor at six o'clock and evening services at seven o'clock. Then the rest of the evening is free, and can be utilized advantageously. So why change the "status quo ante"?

HOORAY!

The time for mufflers, sweaters, and blankets has come, and very sudden indeed was the departing of our beautiful "Injun" summer. Last week we basked in the warmth of an unusually mild November, but then came Saturday, and cold, raw winds that heralded a radical change in temperature.

It surely looks like "Winter has come" to stay! And isn't that grand? Because they have said that cold weather is the best weather for football, and now we have it.

Maybe that even accounts for the dandy game with Temple last Saturday, and here goes for a victory with Schuylkill tomorrow! It will be snappy air, and prep, and the true fighting spirit that will bring us home the bacon, and boy! We want a real chance to celebrate, because if we beat Schuylkill that means we can beat L. V. C., and horray, for bonfires, and parades, and celebrations! That turkey will taste ever so much better on Thanksgiving if we do.

All out for Schuylkill tomorrow!

Then ho! for Lebanon Valley!

CHI SIGMA NOTES

Chi Sigma is very glad to hear that Mildred Leitner, who has had a nervous breakdown, is improving. She is on a leave of absence from her New Jersey school to which she will not return for several weeks.

Margaret Haak, last year's president is continuing her art work in a Philadelphia school. Her address is 1314 West Allegheny Avenue. She would like to hear from Chi Sigma often.

Mrs. John Zug, formerly Margaret Wiest, is at home at Richland, where she will be delighted to have her friends visit her.

Laura Brown is teaching in the high school of her home town, Robeson.

Chi Sigma members were much alarmed to read in the Bulletin that the President and Treasurer had lost their posts. We wish to assure them, that instead of foul play, as suspected, it was the printer's mistake. It was not their posts, but their pins that they lost. Everyone doubtlessly is much relieved, but from a financial standpoint the losers do not feel any better about it.

And by the way Chi Sigma refuses to be called a hope, and asserts positively that it is an actuality. In fact it was very much in evidence at Halloween parties, week before last, where its members easily took prizes and contributed to the general celebrating.

All those who went to Newmans town take this opportunity to thank their host again for a delightful evening's entertainment.

COACH STAGG, CHICAGO GRID MENTOR SELECTS INVINCIBLE ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

Allegorical "All-Star" Team Will Win Every Game. Submits Strict Moral Code. Says Parents Fail As Coaches Because They Do Not Teach Youth Dependability.

(Taken from Sunday Public Ledger.)

Q. B. Obedience
C. R. G. R. T. R. E.
Perseverance/Honesty/Cooperation/Work/Participation/Courage/Confidence

An infallible, invincible All-American eleven has finally been found. Neither is it a mythical one. Although it may be abstract, it will work, and win every time. And it is selected by Alonzo Stagg, one of the foremost football mentors in the country today, having been head coach and athletic director at University of Chicago for a long time.

Look over the All-American suggestions. Think! Wouldn't they work wonders on our own teams, on the college, on the student body itself, on the organizations of the college, and on the results and achievement of it? Aren't they worth while incorporating into our accepted order of things?

As was said before, the eleven is not a mythical one, but one which will win every game played. Coach Stagg goes on to explain his selections. His allegorical "all-star eleven" is not mythical, but one which will win every game it plays.

Coached by Discipline, its players are:
Center—Work.

Quarterback—Dependability.

Fullback—Obedience.

Halfbacks—Self-Control and Self-Reliance.

Guards—Participation and Co-operation.

Tackles—Honesty and Courage.

Ends—Perseverance and Confidence.

"Indulgent mothers and fathers, side-tracking their responsibilities in rearing children, fail as coaches because they do not instill discipline," Coach Stagg declared.

"Training must start in the crib. I should say the great modern mistake of parents is that they put children on a pedestal on the sidelines instead of putting them in the game.

"Without ever having seen the mother of a candidate for the football squad, I can draw a pretty fair picture of her from the observations I make of her boy—either on the field or in the classroom.

"I can tell whether or not she has laid the foundation for his gridiron career from the way he responds to the good player's necessary qualifications. Unless a boy has been taught to be dependable at home, he cannot be depended upon in the crucial test of the game. Unless he has been taught the necessity for work at home, he cannot be expected to work for his coach. This applies not only to football, but to his whole game of life."

Thus the modern mother cannot smoke and drink without setting a dire example for her children, just as the athletic coach who smokes and drinks cannot expect to obtain the Spartan discipline needed in the courageous contests of his charges.

Coach Stagg's "Crede" on morality is a strict one.

"First of all, I believe in a Creator and order in the universe," Coach Stagg declared.

"We must have order, otherwise our own relationships do not get themselves adjusted rightly.

"I believe in a strict beginning, which will need long and constant application. The mistake which many parents make is that they love their offspring so much that they put aside the idea of discipline and ruin them from the very start. We should love our children, of course, and should love them all the way through, but we should train them to work. We cannot expect to rear children as lazy and irresponsible boys and girls, then later expect them to turn out splendid, energetic and dependable men and women."

Campus Chatter

Good morning Folks, and did you see

A snowflake on that highest tree?

There it clung, then tumbled down

And made a sour face beggar frown

Because it nestled in his beard—

And superstitious men are skereed;

(I think their conscience hurts them,

too.

For all the things they used to do.)

And so when something from the sky

Goes zipping, whirring, dashing by,

They are afraid and look so glum,

I often wonder whence they come

And where, perhaps, that they will go,

Encumbered by a flake of snow.

.. .. .

And Parrot heard another thing

That made him tuck beneath his wing.

His head, and laugh. You see, 'twas this,

A perfect pose, a look of bliss—

And Dora Miller on the stage

Had come into her heritage,

For she had joined Excelsiors—

An honorary joint of course.

And Parrot only smiled, because—

He doesn't know so he must pause—

And think a bit before he tells

What makes him have such funny spells.

.. .. .

Confetti, Confetti, Confetti of leaves?

Why is it the wind is so mournful,

and grieves?

The girls say Confetti and practice

and dance,

All arts they have ready; they'll use them, perchance;

And Parrot is anxious to see how they look,

And if they will act like Old Maids

in a book.

And the calendar says that it won't be so long

Until they will greet us with laughter and song.

.. .. .

Thirteen nothing, not so high,

Some people thought 'twould touch

the sky,

And here we are with some ahead,

Because last year, somebody said,

'Twas nineteen nothing, we had won,

With Temple the defeated one.

Someone must win, someone lose,

And somehow we can't always choose.

And Parrot's glad, he is you bet,

That we are undefeated yet.

So when to Lebanon we go

We still will have a chance to show

The L. V. C. guys how to play,

And make a real high score that day.

.. .. .

Try this one on your girl—Get her to say "stewed prunes" with her eyes closed. It's easy.

"Oh, Harry, a strange man tried to flirt with me this morning."

"He was a strange man, all right."

ning to swing in the other direction. Modern civilization insists above all upon capacity for change. Only so can those who live by mutation be saved from mutation. The revolt of the children against home rule then appears as a part of a larger movement of a race insurance against the deadening influences of civilization.

After all parents are the deciding factor in children's sense of values, and in determining their social attitudes, for somewhere and somehow through a shared life they absorb our deepest faith—or lack of faiths.

Belief in the intrinsic worth of the individual lies with the parents of today. As fathers and mothers guide the rich and poor, the brilliant and dull, the native and foreign, etc. so will the next generation judge.

The younger generation today is not satisfied that "Whatever is right." Neither is it satisfied that whatever is wrong. They will eventually find themselves between the two extremes. The children of this generation are acting differently from the children of the past generation, but conditions are different—not only in kind, but in degree. In view of the constant flux in life, the marvel is that they are as steady as they are. They dream of bringing order out of chaos, they carry on.

One certainty we can hold in our secret hearts. Life will beat them into shape as it has all preceding generations, and as it will all succeeding ones. Love and grief, success and tragic disappointment will teach them as it has always taught each generation. Economic pressures will steady them as they have every generation since Adam.

Life is a warfare between the wits of man and the partially controllable but permanently unalterable forces of nature. Each conquest in the subjugation of nature make new demands upon man, that he turn his victory to the service of society, and not allow it to work destruction to humanity.

Following this Raymond Todd gave a cornet solo, which was followed by a humorous talk by Lester Williams. Robert Landy introduced a novelty number—that of a mouth organ solo. The singing of the Alma Mater ended the program.

Congratulations, Excelsiors.

recently won the championship of Central Pennsylvania. Townsen ranks among the best players in the state.

Townsen is greatly interested in the venture, and is particularly anxious that the College enter the federation. Townsen has been giving the boys some training and pointers in the "Y" room with frequent regularity, and it is possible that a team may be selected which may make a good showing against other colleges. "Bud" Shaw, another chess player from Lebanon has been displaying good form, and under the tutelage of Townsen will soon develop into a star.

This invitation to enter this federation should stimulate greater interest in this game the intellect than is now manifested. Last year a chess tournament was held by the Y. M. C. A. which proved very popular with the boys. Intercollegiate competition is bound to increase local interest.

Interesting School History

Albright Librarian Traces Development of Schools In Schuylkill Co. In Teacher's Institute Manual

In the manual for the Schuylkill Public Schools Teachers' Institute held in Pottsgrove two weeks ago, Mr. D. G. Lubold, college librarian, authority on genealogy, and a close observer of the progress of education in Pennsylvania for the last twenty-five years, has contributed an article of great importance. Its nature is a valuable historical sketch from the lowest beginnings to present period, of the educational development of East Brunswick Township, of Schuylkill county. Mr. Lubold himself is a native of Pottsville which he still considers his home, and hence can speak very authoritatively on almost any subject, especially educational, pertaining to that locality.

In four pages of fine type, all of which is fascinating reading material, together with eleven illustrations of five pages. Mr. Lubold has indeed made a very important contribution to educational history in Pennsylvania.

In introducing the article, the editor of the manual pays a fine tribute to the skill of Mr. Lubold, together with an estimate of the value of his work is saying: "At our request, Mr. Lubold, librarian of Albright College made a valuable contribution to the historical literature of the schools of Schuylkill County."

In his onslaught on the creatures of the wild, Brown has bagged six rabbits, four squirrels and three pheasants. "Red" Kneller, who spent many a day in back of a gun on the hills around Dushore, also in the land of the wilds is giving his hunting partner a merry chase. Kneller is a close second with four bunnies, and other victims to his credit. "Bob" Lundy, "Tiny" Calhoun, Keifer, Newcomer, Boyer, Hamill, and others have hit the trail which leads to adventure. All the boys report that even if they weren't so lucky as some of their rivals, that they had a grand and glorious time and ask together, "Ain't nature grand?"

day night, President Wadsworth is hoping for a large attendance. Tonight is the first official meeting since the day of the meeting has been changed, and the society moguls are anxious to see how it will work out. All Neos and any visitors are urged to be present.

GRIEF

Hand in hand
I walked with grief;
Crimson bits
Of Autumn leaf

Floated past
My downcast face,
Seeking, too,
A resting place.

Grief has hushed
My merry song;
Took my hand,
Said "Come along."

Led me up
The hills and down,
Thru a wood
And past a town.

Seeking we
For solitude,
To ally
Our bitter mood.

But we, like
The Autumn Leaf,
Found no
Solitude for grief.
—Blanche McCauley.

and dopsters in Reading, as the under-dog, as they have won only two games, while the Reading boys have emerged into a winning combination this year.

Schuylkill has been showing great strength on the gridiron this year, and claims as her latest victim the formidable Lebanon Valley team, when the Blue and White, long recognized as Albright's "Ancient Rivals" dropped a close decision of 7-6 to the Lions, Saturday. This game was the first of three games to be held among the three clubs to determine the championship of the "Little Three" which Albright, Lebanon Valley and Schuylkill have formed.

It will take the hardest kind of fighting on Saturday to do the trick. Schuylkill is anything but a set-up. To date, their record is more impressive than the Wellermen's so far. But that does not mean a thing in this game. Albright has an even chance to top the contest, and winning is far from outside the realm of impossibility—especially if the team has the support due them.

Beat Towson and Shaw Three Games To One—Albright Boys Waiting For Revenge

On Tuesday evening, November 1st, two strong chess players from Robesonia motored to Myerstown and contested an informal match with men representing Albright, who won by a score of three games to one. A return match is being looked forward to in the near future, when it is hoped that the college men will be able to get revenge for their defeat.

In fact the cream of the departments will be represented in this coming recital and it will be all that it promises to be.

This recital will be given before the Thanksgiving Holidays and will be followed after the Holidays of another recital of the varied type.

So before we leave to spend the Christmas Holidays with our parents we will have the privilege of hearing two musical recitals. A college education is not complete without at least hearing several recitals of the calibre presented in our own Chapel.

ALBRIGHT MEMORIAL CHURCH DEDICATED

Million Dollar Structure In Washington Is Fine Tribute To Man After Whom Albright College is Named

Bishop S. C. Breyfogel, Reading, Pa., senior bishop of the Evangelical denomination, founded in 1800 by Jacob Albright, Berks county tile manufacturer, dedicated the new million dollar national church memorial to Albright, with the bishop's son-in-law, Rev. George E. Schabel as pastor.

At the three services, morning, afternoon and night, all parts of the two weeks' dedicatory program, the church was crowded, largely by visitors, most of whom had come from Berks, York and Dauphin counties, strongholds of the Evangelical denomination. Churches of the York district contributed thirty thousand dollars toward construction of the National Memorial church at Washington, D. C.

Jacob Albright, the founder of the Evangelical denomination, whose name is borne by this college, is one of the most striking figures in Pennsylvania religious history.

For a full account of his life and work see a copy of the 1928 Speculum, which adopted for its theme the life of Jacob Albright.

"THE UNKNOWN" A MYSTERY TALE OF THE UNDERWORLD

Lon Chaney comes to the Myerstown Theatre tonight and tomorrow night in "The Unknown", the peerless melodrama of the screen. "The Unknown" brings back that unbeatable combination, Lon Chaney as star and Tod Browning as director, the two responsible for "The Unholy Three."

"The Unknown" is a compelling mystery story in which Chaney plays the strangest role in his entire career, a queer half-demon who hides his identity as leader of the underworld in the disguise of a side-show freak, an armless wonder. He hurls knives with his feet, shoots with deadly aim and is in love with one of the circus girls. Joan Crawford plays the girl. For her he makes a supreme sacrifice which marks the most original and audacious climax ever filmed. "The Unknown" is a thrilling weird romance, creepy and strange and unforgettable.

budget will be cut down to some extent.

The day students who have paid the budget will receive their copies at the old usual time on Friday morning—as they leave chapel. The management has a list of those who have not paid the fee, and these are courteously asked not to ask for a copy, for the gentle Reitz, circulation manager does not like to refuse anyone. However, such a policy will have to be rigorously resorted to in order to maintain self-preservation. It is a financial expediency. All students who are thus affected are asked to be reasonable in this matter, and not to receive copies free gratis. It can be done no longer.

However, upon the payment of the budget, the business managers will be glad to put anyone back on the list, and supply any back copies which may be desired.

READING CHESS CHAMP CHALLENGES TOWSEN

Dave Houck To Be Here Tuesday Night—Game In Y-Room—For Top-Hole On Reading City Team

While in Reading last Saturday for the Lebanon Valley-Schuylkill game, Augustus N. Townsen, champion of the Central Pennsylvania Chess Association, was challenged to play a 10 game match by David C. Houck, city champion of Reading. The challenge was accepted, and the first game of the series will be played in Myerstown next Tuesday evening. Mr. Houck will come from Reading by automobile, and in all probability will bring with him several members of the Reading team to play with men from the college.

The match between Townsen and Houck (which incidentally will determine a 'top hole' on the Reading team) is certain to be a hard fought one, for the visiting player is a veteran at the game, having years of tournament and match experience ideal of him. His temperament is ideal for match playing, and his style of play is of the soundest. Add to that the fact that he has a genius for complicated combinations, and it will be seen that the Albright player will be sure to have an opponent worthy of his mark.

These two players have only met once before, that time in a match between Reading and Harrisburg, the game in question resulting in a draw.

RED AND WHITE DROPS THRILLER TO TEMPLE OWLS

That Temple could not cross the Myerstown goal line, although it came near the final chalk mark on several occasions. The game was played in a driving rain.

The all-round playing of Roy Sherrid, former Norristown High athlete, who played fullback for Albright, aided the visitors to make their good showing. On more than one occasion Sherrid punted out of danger when a failure to kick would have resulted in a score. His punts averaged more than 50 yards and gained more than 10 yards on each exchange. He also was on the Albright aerial attack.

The first Temple touchdown came as the result of a "break" which gave the Owls the ball on the Albright 10-yard line. After Coach Miller substituted his first team, Pete Garrett fumbled Hansen's punt on his own 18-yard line.

Wearing Scores

Three tries at the Albright line yielded a first down on the eight-yard stripe. Temple was penalized for off-side but on the next play, Grover Wearing scored a touchdown on a lateral pass from Hansen. Wearing circled the left end to score. Buchanan's place kick for the extra point was wild and Temple held a 6-0 lead.

The second Temple touchdown developed from a sensational forward-pass play which gained a total of 60 yards. Swede Hansen carried the ball over the goal line after he took a 30-yard pass from Wearing and raced 30 additional yards to the goal line. He drop-kicked successfully for the extra point.

The Myerstown team had its best chance to score near the close of the second period, but lost its opportunity when four aerials were downed and Temple was able to punt out of danger. Roy Sherrid gave Albright its opportunity when he scooped up a Temple fumble and raced to the 10-yard line before he was downed after a 23-yard sprint.

Four times he threw the wet ball in an attempt to complete a forward, but each time his effort was grounded. Hansen then punted out of danger. The period ended soon after.

Albright made its initial first down in the second period, when a forward, Sherrid to Leidy, gained 12 yards. Throughout the game the Myerstowners made a total of three first downs, all coming via aerials. They gained very little yardage through the line.

Who's Who At Albright

ERNEST LEROY HECKERT

Here is the fellow who won the Neocosmian Prize for doing the most for Albright in a literary way last year. There could not have been a doubt in the minds of the judges when they made their decision, for Heck is sure "the" literary guy, Editor of Albright's 1928 "Speculum," Editor of the weekly "Bulletin," Editor of the Press Club, member of the Tau Kappa Alpha, national debating and oratory fraternity, manager of debate, and what not.

Heckert is chiefly known as a radical, partly because of his fearless attacks upon those who he thinks are not working for the best interests of his Alma Mater. For this attitude he has taken much unfair criticism, which all good college editors know come their way, but he faces them determined that justice shall come to all.

As a worker, "Heck" has no equal. There is no task too large for him nor is there a job that cannot be done in the allotted time even though he must burn the mid-night oil or sacrifice a meal, which must be very painful to him, being an unanimous choice for an All-American position in the dining room.

We have an exceptional person in Heckert and should feel proud of the privilege of being associated with him. He is assured of success in the legal field, which is his choice, and to him we give our sincere wishes for a brilliant career, that is sure to be his.

"ATTITUDE TOWARD WAR" DISCUSSED AT C. E.

Lewis Leads Interesting Hour Deciding Question Which is of World-Wide Importance

The Christian Endeavor Society met in the College Chapel, last Sunday evening, though a small crowd was in attendance a very helpful and enjoyable meeting was held. The topic for the evening, was "What Should the Attitude of a Christian Be Towards War." The leader was Frank Lewis.

After a couple of hymns were sung, Miss Deterline and the leader led in prayer.

Then the leader read the Scripture lesson, after which he gave a very pleasing talk on the evenings topic. He started his discourse with the World War, and its effects on the moral, social and economic conditions of the countries participating in the war. He also quoted references from the Bible showing what it teaches concerning war. From this he drew his conclusion that a Christian should be against the waging of all wars and also that a Christian should help in every way possible to bring about world peace.

Little Mary and her brother Bobby, who had been raised in the city, were spending their vacation in the country for the first time. One day Mary came running into the house very much excited.

"Mother?" she exclaimed, "Where is the cat? Bobby wants it."

"No, Bobby hurt himself," asked Mother anxiously.

"No. But he found the cute little black and white animal out near the wood pile and Bobby thinks it has halitosis."

AN IDEAL VACATION JOB

SHOULD BE PROFITABLE, ENJOYABLE, AND EDUCATIONAL

Students are earning exceptionally good wages selling Donald Brushes. In many instances students have earned more than a year's expense at College, during the three months of Summer Vacation.

Students find selling Donald Brushes a pleasant occupation. Salesmanship as learned by actual experience in the selling field will be of great value later in your professional life.

The Donald salesman is able to offer real service to house wives as the highest quality material and workmanship go into the manufacture of all Donald Products. Every Donald Brush bears our trade-mark of Quality, is fully guaranteed and endorsed by the Good House Keeping Institute.

A letter of inquiry will bring details of our proposition to students.
