Council Passes Amendments, May Finish Remainder Tuesday

The amendments to the Student Council constitution dealing with revisions in organizational representation to Council and in the method of nominating candidates for the editorship of the yearbook were passed at the Feb. 7 meeting.

All proposed amendments, after being voted on by Council, must be passed by the Faculty Committee on Student Activities and Organizations and the faculty. They would not become final until they had been approved by an all-campus referendum.

Low Attendance Stalls

Due to the lack of the two-thirds attendance necessary to pass any constitutional amendment, no action could be taken at the Feb. 14 meeting. President Paul Hetrich, '56, expressed satisfaction with the work accomplished at the Feb. 7 meeting and said he hoped the remainder of the amendments could be acted on next Tuesday.

Women's Basketball Underway Today

The women's basketball season gets underway today with the first game being played at 2:30 p.m. at Drexel. Practice started before the holidays this year, and the hopes of having a good season are running high. Last season's veterans who reported for practice are Mary Ellen Appleman, Mildred Folk, Alma Grove, Bonnie Orr, Naomi Robinson, Helen Schoener, Mildred Tims and Betty Williams, '58.

Bright Newcomers

Some bright newcomers will also be playing. They are Nicole Donnan, Jean Fink, Virginia Frey, Patricia Krause, Patricia Nein, Dorothy Orders, Barbara Patchell, Amelia Potteiger, June Ramsey, Martha Richards, Susan Schick, Ruth Shaffer, Janet Weber, Mary Ellen Gray and Mary Lois Young. The schedule for the rest of the season is as follows:

- Feb. 18 Lebanon Valley, home, 2:00
- Feb. 23 Wilkes, away 7:30
- Feb. 25 Play Day, home 9:30
- Feb. 28 Immaculate, home 7:30
- Mar. 2 Wagner, home 7:30
- Mar. 3 Temple, home 1:00
- Mar. 7 Millersville, home 7:00
- Mar. 9 Ursinus, home 3:00
- Mar. 10 Play Day, away 9:30
- Mar. 13 Elizabethtown, away 7:30

Albright Personality

• Barbara Bubel •

By Bob Peckham

Last Thursday in a classroom of the Northeast Junior High School, a boy snapped to attention and saluted his teacher as she entered the room. Why and for whom did he commit this act of military courtesy? Well, we think he was trying to attract the attention of his teacher, and who wouldn't, when his instructor is pretty Barbara Bubel.

Philadelphian

Barbara, a native of Philadelphia who now dwells in Phoenixville, Pa., is a senior education major who specializes in social sciences. As a matter of fact, she is somewhat of a history bug, but comments that her professors probably won't believe it. Barbara is unusual in that she has wanted to be a teacher throughout her college career, whereas many other students are undecided in their beginning years.

Although she is an earnest student of social science—she gives guided tours of Valley Forge to her friends—Barbara has not neglected the social side of her college career. She is a member of the Glee Club, the Future Teachers of America, and president of the YW organization here on campus. In compliance with her Y work, she has helped set the goal of putting the combined Y's on a more intellectual basis.

Likes Music

We could go on to mention innumerable other details in Barbara's life such as her attraction to semi-classical music, or her presence as a waitress in the dining hall, but that would be unnecessary, for we already have learned enough about her to know that she is a pleasing person with high ideals. With the risk of condemnation for using a trite expression, we are sure that you, the readers, will join us in wishing Barbara Bubel all possible success and happiness in her future. May it be a rosy one.

Head Trustee

George C. Bollman, 21, of Adamstown, was elected president of the Albright College Board of Trustees for his fifth consecutive term at the annual trustees' meeting Feb. 1.

Senior Students Begin Teaching

Seventeen seniors began their student teaching last week. Ten are teaching social science and history, five home economics, and two English.

History and social science teachers include Robert Brown, Reading High School; Barbara Bubel, Reading Northeast Junior High School; John Catalano, Reading High School; Lewis Cohen, Mount Penn High School; John Flickinger, Reading High School; Frank Goldstein, Muhlenberg Township High School.

Home Ec Teachers

Also, Charlotte McCane, Reading Southwest Junior High School; Patricia Rentschler, Muhlenberg Township High School; and Earl Trauger, Schuylkill Haven High School.

Home economics teachers are Joyce Gundy, Governor Mifflin High School; Sandra Smith, Muhlenberg Township High School; Ruth Mengel, Wilson Joint High School; Karen Saul, Northeast Junior High School, and Sally Lanz, Finletter School, Philadelphia.

Jane Dewald, Muhlenberg High School, and Berwin Hainley, Mt. Penn High School, are the English teachers.

Field Experience

In addition, four senior home economics students are gaining their field experience. Sylvia Greul and Barbara Burbank are working at the Reading Division of the United Gas Improvement Company. Rachael Kaebnick is employed at Gimbel's Department Store, Philadelphia, and Jeanette Mayer at Gimbel's Department Store, New York.

Sophomores Note

Sophomores are asked to stop by the Public Relations Office some time during the coming week to bring their activities cards up to date.

Next Cultural Program Will Feature Henry Hull

Mark Twain comes to life again next Thursday in Assembly, when actor Henry Hull visits the campus for the third Cultural Program of the year. He will impersonate the American humorist in excerpts from Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn, The Innocents Abroad, A Connecticut Yankee, The Life of Joan of Arc and other famous works.

In portraying Twain on the platform, Henry Hull realizes a long-cherished ambition. Asked recently why he has chosen to appear as Mark Twain, the actor had this to say: "First of all, it is because I love Twain, both the man and his work, and we all like to talk about the things we love. I love Twain because he loved America, my America. He tried all his life, in all his writings and lecturing not to justify but to clarify our thoughts, our feelings, our character."

More Than 200 Plays

Hull has appeared in more than 200 plays on Broadway and on the road, and has performed in almost as many motion pictures in Hollywood. "I've been in every branch of the theatre except the circus," he says, "and I can't imagine myself engaged in anything else with the possible exception of talking about it. The theatre has been very, very good to me."

He had his first big success on Broadway in 1916, when he created the role of Henry Parker in "The Man Who Came Back," in which he was starred for two and a half years. Then followed many years of Broadway openings and closings.

Broadway Critics' Award

Notable among the plays in which the versatile and energetic actor has starred are "39 East," "The Cat and the Canary," "Lulu Belle," "Michael and Mary," "The Ivory Door," "Plumes in the Dust," "Grand Hotel," "Masque of Kings," "The Trial of Joan of Arc," "Mr. Roberts," and scores of others. He has also appeared in a number of Shakespearean roles during his career. Perhaps his most famous role was the character of Jerter Lester in the original and marathon production of "Tobacco Road" in which Mr. Hull earned the Broadway Critics' Award for his performance.

He entered motion pictures to add another phase to his profession. He has also appeared on numerous television programs.

Campus Y Sponsors All-Day Lenten Service

A Lenten Communion Service climaxed a preparatory day of prayers held from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. Wednesday. The communion worship, which concluded a day-long prayer chain, was conducted by Charles Moyer, '56. The Rev. Robert S. Smethers, Jr., coordinator of church and community relations, was the speaker.

The day of prayer, the prayer chain, and the communion service formed a series of events designed by the campus Y to orientate the student to the meaning of Lent and to start him thinking about the relation of Lent to his own life-arrangement. Prayer Day events were under the direction of Charles Shearer, '58.

Sophomores Elect

Josephine Seyfert and Frank Fisher were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively, by the sophomore class at its Feb. 7 meeting. They replace Barbara Smith and Terry Johnson.

13 New Students Start Semester

Thirteen were added to the student body for the second semester, according to Anna R. Benninger, registrar. Included in the group are four returnees, four transfer students and five freshmen.

Former Albrightians are Lois A. Cassidy of Mt. Penn, and Norman A. Ruppert, Reading, juniors; Pantelis G. Rentos, Reading, a sophomore; and Frank J. Markowich, Reading, a freshman.

Transfer Students

Transfer students include Carol L. DeMund, Phoenix, Ariz., from Arizona State University and John F. Nelson, Pennside, from Villanova University, sophomores; Rhoda M. Good, Glenmore, Pa., from Penn State University, a junior; and Carl H. Noecker, Robesonia, from Bucknell University, a freshman.

Additions to the freshman class are: Nancy L. Grube, Mt. Penn; Stuart H. Printz, Reading; Gerald M. Robbins, Huntingdon Valley, Pa.; Edward G. Schweitzer, Phila., Pa.; and Howard R. Smith, Bloomingdale, N. J.

Dr. Masters Receives Telegram From Ike

Dr. Harry V. Masters, president of the college, received the following telegram from President Eisenhower: "Thank you for informing me of the one hundredth anniversary of Albright College. For all associated with it—students, teachers, and officers—I hope the coming years will be rich in the satisfactions which come from fruitful service to the nation and to the causes of good citizenship and learning."

Dr. Masters had sent the President the first letter to be cancelled with the special cancellation die currently being used by the Reading Post Office in honor of Albright's Centennial Year.

Seven Groups To Vie For Stunt Nite Prizes

Two sororities, four fraternities and the Men's Dormitory Council will compete for two trophies at the annual Stunt Nite this evening in Krause Hall.

The program will begin at 8 o'clock, and features 12 to 15-minute skits which have been prepared by the groups with as much secrecy as possible.

Gene Schott, '56, and John Luckenbill, '58, are co-chairmen of this event. No admission will be charged, and the public is invited.

Last year the Pi Tau Beta fraternity won the first prize and the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity, second place.

International Hour Slated Next Week In Selwyn Hall

An International Coffee Hour Exhibit will be held next Friday from 3 to 5 p.m. in Selwyn Hall. Costumes and exhibits from Korea, China, Japan, Africa, Germany, Puerto Rico, France, Hungary and Latvia will be displayed.

Bong Hyun Kim, '57, and Chai Seung Lee, '57, will represent Korea. China will be represented by Dr. C. Chu of the physics department and John C. Kong, '57. Representing Japan will be Hisako Umemura, '57, Ehrhardt Lang, '57, Dr. Shirik, director of public relations and Dr. Geil of the psychology department. Eustace Renner, '59, is the African representative.

German Representatives

Wolfgang Schlauch, '59, Hans Gilde, '57, and Dr. and Mrs. Memming of the German department, will represent Germany. Puerto Rico will be represented by Mrs. Harold Jordan of the Spanish Department, Nilda Caban, '57, and Adolfo Rodriguez, '56. Nicole Donnan, '59, Veronika Polgar, '59, and Inara Gerlins, '53, represent France, Hungary and Latvia respectively.

Mary Jo Wolfe, '57, is general chairman of the tea and Carolyn Stillwaggon, '59, is chairman of the personnel committee. Committee members include Hisako Umemura, '57, Marian Schiller, '57, Adelaide Horne, '58, and Helen Zielsinski, '56.

Planning Committee

The planning committee is headed by Frances Stauffer, '57, and Lois Anderson, '57. Virginia Hatton, '58, is chairman of the poster committee. Co-chairman of the invitation committee are Mildred Tims, '57, and Nancy Blatt, '59.

Dorothy Orders, '59, and Jeanne Handorf, '58, head the decoration committee. Elizabeth Wellenman, '57, and Carole Cagan, '59, are chairmen of the hospitality and serving committees, respectively.

Albright Meets Lebanon Valley Tomorrow Night

IN THE LION'S DEN

By Phil Eyrich, Sports Editor

There has been increasing talk lately in collegiate basketball circles about the possibility of adopting professional basketball's twenty-four second rule to the college basketball level. This rule, comparatively new to the game, requires a team to take a shot within twenty-four seconds after they receive the ball. It is intended to speed up the pace of the game and rid the sport of the possibility of a team freezing the ball. Its backers contend that with these two objectives accomplished, the game will have greater spectator appeal, since court fans tend to like a fast, wide-open game the best.

Since its introduction into the ranks of professional basketball, the rule would seemingly have accomplished its purposes. It has speeded up the game and eliminated freezing. At the same time, however, it has obviously put all of the emphasis on offense. The pros run and shoot, run and shoot, and run and shoot again at such a pace that good, sound precision basketball often falls by the wayside.

Distracting . . .

Although the proponents, including some professional players, say that the pros do not think about the time limit and that it doesn't bother them, from observing the game this argument would seem to be false. Often the defensive team has little time to set up their defense, and when it does, the offensive team is forced to take shots which do not fall into the category of intelligent basketball playing.

Even granting that the players who make up the professional teams so great and objective-minded that they do not consciously think about the time limit, the majority of college players are not on their level. It is virtually inconceivable that the twenty-four second limit would not disturb and affect adversely college players. There would almost surely be a tendency to keep an eye on the twenty-four second clock, which every gym would have to install, at times when the cagers should be concentrating on their playing.

Defense Would Go . . .

To return to the fact that the emphasis is all placed on offense, many college teams today pride themselves on their defense and their ability to stymie rival teams. The ability to force the opposition to work hard and long for their shots is a prime asset to a court squad. At the same time, it is interesting to watch a team try to crack a tight defense with a deliberate style of play and a planned attack using an assortment of plays, with the emphasis on maneuvering and ball handling as much as on running and shooting. With a time limit placed on the college players, much of this would go by the boards.

Many proponents of the rule seem to say that because it is used in professional basketball, it should be used on the college level. In other words, the pros know what is best so let the colleges follow in their footsteps. This is ridiculous. The pros have no monopoly on basketball prowess. Another one of their rules, that which outlaws the zone defense, has fortunately been shunned by the colleges.

There is no need for a twenty-four second rule in college basketball, since only in rare cases would it be useful. Why adopt a rule unless there is a real need for it?

Junior Varsity Downs F & M, Muhlenberg

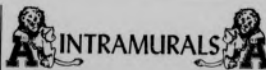

The Albright College jayvees boosted their season's record to 10 wins and 3 losses when they defeated both Franklin and Marshall and Muhlenberg last weekend. They turned back F. & M. 88-82 and Muhlenberg 66-50 on successive nights.

Rejuvenated Fred Ditzel paced the Lions in both games with 31 and 24 points respectively. Against the Mules, the junior Lions scored eight straight points to start the game and held command from there on.

Muhlenberg, led by Bob Beston's 24 points, fought back but Paul Marrella led a late, game-winning spurt by the Lions.

The summary follows:

Basketball League Nears End

Competition in both the "A" and "B" intramural basketball leagues is now in its final stages. The Trojers and Kappas are tied for the lead in the "B" league with 4-0 records. The Pumpers are close behind with a 4-1 mark.

The Pi Taus were the winners of first-half honors in the "A" section as they won a playoff with the APOs and Zetas. Each finished regulation play with 3-1 records.

Myron Hallock paced the title-winners with 57 points, including a one-game league high of 28.

The schedule remaining follows:

Date	League	Matchup
February 20	A League	Pi Tau vs. Zeta
February 27	A League	Kappa vs. Millers
March 5	A League	Pi Tau vs. Kappa
February 20	B League	Millers vs. Pumpers

Courtmen Defeat F&M; Bow To Mules 97-84

The Albright Lions, after a tough mid-year vacation schedule, defeated Franklin and Marshall's Diplomats 91-64 and showed well against Muhlenberg's powerful Mules, bowing 97-84. The Lions had lost to Army, Scranton, and Moravian while defeating Dickinson during the semester holidays. The split gave the Lions a 5-12 seasonal record.

In the F. & M. contest, the Red and White jumped to an 18-14 lead early in the first period, never to be headed. With Jim Foreman and Bruce Riddell splitting 20 points between them, the Lions led at the end of the first half 41-30. In the second half, Bernie Krick and Mike DePaul tallied 12 and 14 points a piece to take on the scoring burden.

Good Shooting

Albright's shooting percentage throughout the game was phenomenal, totaling 41 field goals in 72 attempts from the floor. It was the Lions' hottest night of the season. DePaul ended as high scorer for the night with 20 points, followed by Krick's 18. Rudy Keonig led the Dips with 14 points. It was the Lions' first victory on an opponent's court, the Dickinson game being played in the Hershey Sports Arena.

With a near capacity Saturday night crowd on hand, Albright put on their typically fine home showing, but again it wasn't quite enough to down a strong Muhlenberg quintet last week. The Lions, led by Captain George Conrad, and Bruce Riddell, came roaring back from a 48-35 first-half deficit to take a 57-56 lead, but the Mules quickly regained their status, moving ahead 58-57.

Close Game

The game was close almost to the wire as Conrad was virtually unstoppable, hitting on jump shots and drive-ins for 13 of 22 field goal attempts. In the end, rebounding once again took its toll as Riddell, who gathered in 13 rebounds for the night, fouled out with 2:27 remaining and the visitors leading 84-79. With their big man gone, the Lions could do little to stop the barrage of the hoops as the score jumped to 95-80. In less than a minute, the Mules ended victorious, 97-84.

George Conrad turned in the greatest individual performance for a Lion this season as he scored 36 points, to top his season's total to 390, and grabbed 12 rebounds. Bruce Riddell, who has played the ball of late, followed Conrad in scoring with 20 points.

Bob Gall paced the visitors with 24 tallies while sophomore Clint Jelferles added another 20, and was top rebounder with 13.

ALBRIGHT CANTEN

PLAYER OF THE MONTH

Senior Mike DePaul has been chosen as the Albrightian's Player of the Month for January, 1956. Thus far this season, he has scored 227 points in 17 games for a 13.3 per-game average. He is the Lion's second leading scorer.

Currently in his fourth season with the varsity, DePaul is the third highest scorer in Albright history with 2296 points. He is one of four players who have scored 1,000 or more points.

During January, he scored 59 points, with a high of 29 against Moravian.

Noted as a good all-around player as well as a scorer, he hails from Central Catholic High School in Reading. DePaul is 5'10" in height and a spark plug for the Albright cagers.

Visiting Cagers Paced by Six Tall Lettermen

Lebanon Valley's Flying Dutchmen will invade the Albright Fieldhouse tomorrow evening for the first of two meetings between the Albright and LVC cagers this season. Starting time for the varsity game is 8:30. The jayvee teams of the two schools will tangle at 7:00.

The visitors have been paced thus far this season by six returning lettermen, three of which are 6'4" or taller. Bob Nelson has been the key player for Coach George Marquette's team during the current season. Nelson, who hails from John Harris in Harrisburg, Pa., stands 6'5" in height and is a junior.

Firestone	8	20	2.5
Hoffman	6	19	3.3
Reber	5	12	2.4
Moyer	5	7	1.4
Klingerman	7	3	.4

He scored 28 points as LVC bowed to Elizabethtown at the Hershey Sports Arena in the second half of a doubleheader on Feb. 3. Albright crushed Dickinson 96-76 in the first game. Other stellar cagers for the Annyville team are Bob Bowman, Don Reinhard, and Dick Shover.

The LVC courtmen have numbered Shippensburg, Dickinson, P.M.C. and Moravian among their victims. Last week they were extended to two overtime periods in edging Moravian 79-78.

Albright has both beaten and lost to the Greyhounds. The Flying Dutchmen have lost to Gettysburg, a team the Lions number among their few victims this season.
