Melvin Horst To Present Colored Slides of Hawaii To Students At Y

Using colored slides of Hawaii, the Paradise of the Pacific, Melvin Horst will speak to the combined Y's March 30 at 7:30 p. m. in Krause Hall. Horst's slides, numbering in the thousands, include pictures of the peoples of the land, their festivities, national geographical wonders, such as the eruption of the Kilauea Volcano on the island of Hawaii and many tropical flowers.

Army Photographer

Before entering the armed forces, Horst was employed as a commercial photographer of the advertising and promotional department of Armstrong Cork Company in Lancaster. While in the army, he served for two years as an official United States Army photographer for the Signal Corps. During his first year, Horst was photographer for public information office of Fort Knox, Kentucky. The second year was spent in Hawaii where he took many pictures for his own use. He has had a varied experience in photography taking pictures of many famous named Hollywood stars such as Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra, Margaret O'Brien and Esther Williams, plus many men of military distinction.

Studied In Honolulu

At the Tripler Army Hospital in Honolulu, Horst was the photographer for the hospital newspaper. While stationed at Honolulu, he took courses at the University of Honolulu through the army educational program.

Pre-Theological Student

Here at Albright, Horst is a pre-theological student, living in Reading. He is married to a former Albrightian, JoAnn Thomas. Horst has held many offices in the Evangelical United Brethren Church, serving as the past president of the East Pennsylvania EUB Conference Youth Fellowship. Presently, he is the treasurer of the Pennsylvania Council of United Christian Youth Movement.

Nominees To Present Platforms Thursday

James Hall, '55, and Jerome Lengel, '55, were nominated for the presidency of student council in 1954-55 at the organization's regular meeting last Tuesday. Hall represents the junior class in council and Lengel the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity.

Campus To Vote

The election is scheduled to take place by an all-campus ballot, which will be voted upon during a regularly scheduled assembly of the student body. The rules governing the holding of all-campus elections, including the place where they are to be held, are set up by student council's constitution.

Alfred Berger, '55, Zeta Omega Epsilon representative, and Claire Speidel, '55, Pi Alpha Tau representative, were also proposed as nominees but did not survive the primary election in council. Two other juniors, Roslyn Cowen and Leda PasYotis, were eligible for the nomination. The constitution of student council states that in order to become a candidate for the presidency it is necessary to have served at least one year as a council member.

To Give Platforms

The two nominees will present their platforms to the student body during the assembly period next Thursday morning, April 1. Summaries of their platforms will appear in the April 2 issue of the Albrightian.

Hall, a business administration major, resides in West Lawn. A member of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity and the Daymen's Organization, he has been very active on student council, presently filling the post of treasurer. He served as chairman of the committee on Freshman Orientation in the fall and will be in charge of Parents' Weekend this spring. He is president of the junior class.

Both Business Majors

A business administration major, Lengel comes from Wyomissing Hills and is a member of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity and the Daymen's Organization. In previous years, he participated on both the track team and the cross country teams. As a member of student council, he was named co-chairman of the committee on chapel programs.

Also to be elected on the all-campus ballot are the heads of the women's and men's Y organizations. Vying for the women's position are Thelma Arnold and Lorraine Wagner. John Bubel and Theodore Tietge will compete for the presidency of the men's group.

S. C. Inaugurates Test Plan

This week begins a new experiment in student-faculty cooperation on the Albright campus. The new program is designed to limit the number of one-hour examinations given in any one day.

If this system works out as well as it is expected to, it will be good news for everybody. Three or four important quizzes on the same day with the resulting all-night study sessions the night before will be a thing of the past.

Plans for the inauguration of the examination limiting program have been under scrutiny almost since the beginning of the 1953-54 year. The idea was submitted to the Student Council last fall by a group of Albrightians who had heard that such a system was working very well in other schools. The Student Council listened to the proposal, and appointed a committee to look into the possibility that it could be adapted to Albright.

Last week the student committee met with a faculty committee and worked out a system of regulating the number of tests given on any certain day. The plan is to schedule the examinations for two periods in a Monday-Wednesday-Friday class on one day, and the examinations for two other periods in the same group on another day, and so forth. The same arrangement would apply to Tuesday-Thursday classes, so that it would be impossible for more than two examinations to be scheduled for any one day, and the chances of any one student having more than one test on his day's calendar would be very unlikely.

All faculty members have been asked to cooperate with this program, but the biggest factor in its success or failure will be the attitudes of us students.

If we want this exam-limiting plan to succeed, we must use a little common sense. Let's not beg, beseech or cajol our profs into postponing tests "just one more day." A few such postponements could wreck the schedule and bring an end to the plan while it is still a struggling infant.

Chapel Programs Improve

In the past many editorials have appeared condemning the chapel programs and the conduct of the students. We would like to change the tone a bit and put in a note of commendation for the work of the cultural committee, and the student organizations in the Thursday convocations.

It was decided by the student council committee on assemblies this year to try a plan whereby there would be more organizations participating in the programs. This was proposed with the idea that such a plan might make the programs more interesting to the students and in hopes that if the organizations were responsible for arranging assemblies they would plan ones that would hold more interest for the student body. Council is responsible for a certain number of Thursday convocations each year, so the committee asked various college groups to each take charge of one program.

We believe that thus far the experiment has brought the desired effect. The organizations have cooperated fully, for which the committee wishes to say thank-you. But even more than this, we think that the student body has enjoyed the type of programs that have been offered of late, and are not so harassed by the idea of compulsory attendance. The music programs, the hypnotist and the "combos" have all been heartily welcomed by the students. Furthermore, it is our opinion that the number of chapel cuts have been lessened, especially this semester.

We believe that the committee on cultural programs, composed of faculty and students, deserves a vote of thanks also. We feel that they have brought us a better calibre of entertainment this year than in the past.

Now that such a program has been started, we wish that the cooperation will continue and better programs can be assured for the future.

WELL, YOU SEE, I CONCENTRATED MORE ON PERSONALITY DEVELOPMENT....

PLACEMENT BUR

All-Star Ends Four-Year Career

And now comes the saddest moment of my life. For the last time I hang the well-worn tunic on the locker nail. That beloved number—29—stares back at me and with tears in my eyes I remember the happy hours I spent earning the right to have P. T.—½ cr. typed on my report card.

It all started with hockey (field, that is), a wonderful game, shinsplitting fun. Will I ever forget the day we outsmarted the weatherman and four inches of snow by donning our snow-shoes (actually, they were tennis rackets) and defeating the Fuschia team 6-0. What grace and agility we developed on rainy days, balancing an umbrella in one hand and a hockey stick in the other. What fun it was to see the opposing team, with hideous cries and up-raised sticks charging towards us, while a brave little girl sunbathed in the middle of the field, under the impression that it was a time out.

But we knew no real pleasure till basketball season arrived . . . the lost pounds, the blisters, and then the first game. My seat on the bench just over from the foul line was as good as any in the place. Then it was one minute to go, in the fourth quarter, and the coach nodded at me . . . or was she yawning? NO! Here's my chance . . . I'm an athlete . . . I know what's up. I'll show 'em. Half a minute to go and I had my ringside seat again. I was getting experience though, and that's what counts.

I was luckier than Hercules . . . I only had one more labor to perform to get my ½ cr. This was that instructive hour of exercise and rhythmic dance. It was something like the course the Mock Turtle told about in Alice in Wonderland: "reeling and writhing, and falling in coils." The rhythmic dance got rid of our tensions—we danced to music all around the gym, in any direction we wanted. It looked something like Grand Central at twelve o'clock high. What grace . . . what beauty!

Best of all we learned to relax completely in the midst of all the rigors of college life. Now all I have to do is convince my profs that I'm not sleeping in class—just doing my P. T. homework!

P.G.&P.W.

Little Things

Have you ever noticed that it isn't always the big tragedies, but often the little things in life that get you down in the dumps? Like for instance the little things that make these people blue:

Jackie Algeldinger—When the Coke machine is empty and my nickel doesn't return.

Ros Cowen—A pledge.

Ray Horan—Locked doors.

Fred Ardito—Waiting in a long line before lunch.

Mary Althouse—When the prof gives assignments after the bell rings.

Mary Kousaras—Finding books in the card catalogue and then not finding them on the shelf.

Mary Jo Barbera—No change for parking meters.

Jane Shay—The new modern dance: step-one, two-leap.

Bob Vespico—Canteen machines aren't full.

Betty Miraszewski—This changeable weather.

About Nothing

Does your cigarette taste different lately? It does? Maybe it's because the filter craze has reached its logical conclusion. Not only have all irritating traces of nicotine and smoke been removed—so has the tobacco. We reached this conclusion after a casual perusal of the week's wit and culture in that great American institution, the Sunday papers. Just about every brand of cigarettes advertised therein talked of things like "alpha cellulose" which permits nothing but the sweet taste of charred paper to reach your T zone. Still our favorite ad from the tobacco tycoon is the one that advises, "Compare king-size—'s to other shorter cigarettes. They're longer!"

From the Bobby-Sox Brigade

Ever wonder what it's like to try to get a bunch of high school hood—er, excuse me, students to "appreciate" poetry? Well, when it's stuff like Wordsworth or Shelley's "Hail to thee, blithe spirit," etc. and you're reading "Lines Written in Early Spring" as the snow and sleet pelt down outside, things look mighty dim. We shuddered when we got to "Intimations of Immortality" (or immortality as Robert Manson Myers prefers). The idea "The child is father of the man," was interpreted by one goopy-eyed (no, we don't mean dewy-eyed) blonde to mean "A father can learn a lot from his son." We dropped the subject before someone brought up the "I'm my own grandpa" concept . . . Another student teacher reports that when she asked why "About Ben Adhem's name led all the rest," a voice piped up, "Because the angel's list was in alphabetical order." . . . there must be an easier way to get six credits; think we'll try a snap course like atomized nuclear physics 6b.

Carole

Sparkling green eyes and a subtle sense of humor are the trademarks of Albright's princess of beauty, Carole Althouse. On that festive day in May, brown-haired Carole will add to the glamour of the occasion as Maid of Honor to the Queen.

Serving as treasurer of Phi Beta Mu, and as an active member of Skull and Bones, Dormitory Council, WSS, and WAA Cabinet, this dandyliousness' schedule is one of the fullest on campus. Her Tuesday afternoons are spent calling roll and taking minutes as recording secretary of Student Council. In her "spare" time she can usually be found in the Science Hall or in one of her favorite English classes.

A girl with a flair for fashionable clothes and classical music, Carole's interests are many and varied. She reads and enjoys almost everything, from the masters of literature to Pogo and Mad. But lest you think our vivacious Bio major's only hobby is reading, we suggest that you check the list of "the most valuable players" of the girls' hockey team. Carole has expended much energy and hard work on the hockey fields of Albright and opponents as co-captain of the team.

One of the belfry bats, she will carry many memories of enjoyable moments back to her Lancaster, Pa., home. High on her list of memorable moments are her reign as Daisy Mae in '50, pledging experiences, and wearing that APO pin.

Marriage and work in laboratory technology will combine to make a happy and successful future for a great girl with a winning personality.

Albright Baseball Squad Opens Spring Drills

By Jack Lewis

Diamond Dope

With the passing of the vernal equinox, Albright athletes don the perennial sweat suits, indicative of spring training. After a few weeks of drill, the Lion diamond men show promise of reaching good playing shape in time for their pre-season scrimmage with Yale. It looks like a banner year for the Albright baseball team. Even the time-tested veterans are feeling the hot breath of promising freshman talent. The empty spikes left behind by Connie Dettling, George Amole and Bill Cohrs show promise of being very capably filled. Ed McNeill looks stronger than ever, after hard summer workouts. Duane Goldman, who turned in very neat pitching jobs at the end of the '52-'53 season, will join McNeill as the mainstays of Coach Gulian's mound staff. Gulian has no catching problems, and infield positions remain to be definitely determined, with the loss of first and third basemen Dettling and Amole. Last year's outfield is back in force—but still, no position is secure, with the added "rookie" talent.

Track and Field

The Lion track and field squad opened their spring season with a "warmup" meet against the Delaware Mudhens. Although losing by a two point margin, the Lions captured seven out of thirteen first places, with Bill Shirk and Jim Croke scoring double victories. Of course, no records were threatened, but the Thinclads show every promise of a successful season. Bill Shirk, who in the past has been a valuable asset, will continue to be one of the cornerstones of the squad while the versatile Jim Croke will be counted on heavily in many events. Here, too, we have possible freshman talent that can be counted on to direct the Albright squad towards a winning season.

I-M Department

Intramural competition is becoming very keen this year. As of this writing, the A-B basketball champion has not been decided, but events have not yet suffered a standstill. Several post season playoffs have slowed down the final basketball champion's crowning, just long enough for the Pi Tau's to win the volleyball championship. The next event is softball, where the Pi Tau Beta fraternity also looks strong.

Lions Drop Close Warmup Meet With Delaware Mudhens

Coach Gene Shirk will guide Albright College's track and field squad through a rough schedule of six dual meets and four triangular meets on the 1954 schedule. Seven of the meets will take place on the opponents' tracks and three are carded at home. The opening battle will take place at Swarthmore on April 10th and the first home meet will be a triangular affair, with Juniata and St. Joseph's furnishing the opposition.

In an informal meet last Saturday the Lions, without the services of Mahlon Frankhauser, dropped a close decision, 58-55, to Delaware University in Carpenter Field House in Newark, Delaware. The two aces of last year's victorious team turned in sparkling performances. Bill Shirk and Jim Croke captured two first places apiece to lead the Lions in scoring.

Shirk took firsts in his two specialties, the one and two mile events, and Croke captured firsts in the broad jump and the 50 yard high hurdles. Croke also took third place in the high jump. The only other place that the Red and White registered in the field events was a third place in the shot put by Bob Krize. The loss of last year's captain, Pete Albert, who won the pole vault title in the Middle Atlantic States championships, was a big factor in the poor showing in the field events. No one placed in the pole vault event.

Rudy Becker captured a first place in the 1,000 yard run and a second in the 440 yd. run. Other firsts were registered by Harold Kretzing in the 660 yd. dash and the mile relay team (Greenwald, Fetterman, Becker and Kretzing). Last year the Lions won eight of the nine meets, only losing to St. Joseph's, the same team which defeated the Lions and Haverford in a triangular meet in 1952. That defeat was Albright's only loss in 1952.

Zetas Don Crown In I-M 'A' League; Stags Capture 'B'

Warriors	108	149	2	3
Kappa	76	129	1	4
Jacksons	0	0	0	5

*These three teams tied for the second half championship and the Stags defeated the Zeta B and the APO's for the second half crown.

The Zetas took the second half crown in the "A" League with another perfect record, hence earning the right to meet the winner of the Stag-Zeta B game. The Stags staged an uphill fight to win the second half championship in the "B" League and thereby get a chance to meet the Zeta B squad to determine the champion of the "B" circuit.

Bob Dey led the assault as the Zetas downed the APO's 46-22, to hand the challenging rivals their only defeat in second half race. The loss was the third for the APO's on the overall record. Their 3-3 record enabled them to tie the Warriors for second place in the combination standings. The Zetas acquired their fourth and fifth wins by downing the Warriors 36-27 and the Kappas 34-29.

A three way tie resulted when the Stags defeated the Zetas 24-19 and the APO's won by forfeit over the Kappas in the B league. In the playoffs for the second half crown the Stags eliminated the APO men 42-25 and then they upset the first half champion Zeta B team 40-28. Hence, the Stags had to play the Zeta B's again to determine the champ of the B loop and the team which will play the Zeta A's for the intra-mural basketball champion.

Last night, the Zeta A team met the Stag B team to determine the 1953-54 I-M basketball championship. The results were not available at the time of printing.

Open Against Yale Next Fri.

Albright College's baseball team will inaugurate its 1954 season next Friday with the Lions playing host to the first of three new teams over last year's schedule. Coach Eddie Gulian, beginning his fifth season as mentor of the diamond men, will be rounding out his team for the opener against Yale University.

Last year the Lions won ten games and lost eight. A victorious season was assured on the last day when Albright defeated Franklin and Marshall twice, 7-6 at F & M, and 5-1 behind Bill Cohrs in the afternoon game at home. The Red and White also took the measure of Moravian and Lebanon Valley twice each. Ed McNeill and Duane Goldman were the victorious pitchers in the 4-3 and 3-2 wins over the Greyhounds, as well as the 20-8 and 8-7 conquests of Lebanon Valley.

Gettysburg and Penn Military were the additional rivals added to the Lion schedule. Wilkes and Juniata were dropped. Also missing was the traditional final day morning-afternoon double-header with Franklin and Marshall. The F & M team will be opposed on April 23 at Lancaster. Moravian and Lebanon Valley are the only teams that will meet on a home and away basis.

Nine veterans returned to the early drill sessions and seven newcomers are also trying for positions. Pitchers Ed McNeill and Duane Goldman, the two aces of last year's staff, are expected to carry the burden, however newcomers Bruce Riddell and Tom Pollock may win starting berths. The entire veteran outfield of George Conrad, Tony D'Apollito, and Ray Stonebeck will be returning for positions.

Returning infielders include Roy Dragon and Mickey Harbach, and new candidates include Bernie Seaman, Dale Yoder, Bob Kovacs and Jack Sudol. Bob Fiorindo is the only new outfield prospect. Catchers Bob Sulyma and Chris Wenger will be handling the pitchers.

Domino Club Production of "Noah" Is Scheduled For April 1, 2 and 3; Four Stage Committees Announced

Ivan Moyer To Portray Play's Central Figure

The premiere performance of the Domino Club's spring presentation, "Noah," will be held next Thursday evening, April 1, in the White Chapel. Subsequent performances will be held on Friday and Saturday evenings, April 2 and 3.

The play, which is written by Andre Obey and directed by Mrs. Annadora V. Shirk, will star Ivan Moyer, '54, in the title role. Playing opposite Noah is his wife, Mama, to be portrayed by Nancy Dobbs, '57.

Noah's three sons—Ham, Shem and Gaphet—will be played by Mahlon Frankhouser, Neal Krape and James Rogers respectively. Lucy Schuman will be seen as Nora, Sara Joralemon as Stella and Virginia Mangin as Ada, the three wives. Ed Ettinger is cast in the role of Man.

To take the character of animals are the following: Bear—Robert Nicholas, Lion—Frank Guenter, Monkey—Mary Jo Barbera, Elephant—Jean Filbert and Catherine Phillipson, Cow—Gretchen Vogeler and Tiger—Doris Holmes.

Gerald Sheffey and Lester McMakin are in charge of stage and lighting. Nancy Lou Walker is in charge of choreography for the play. Elizabeth Weilermann will be the pianist.

"Noah" is actually the fairy-tale version of the famous ordeal of the Biblical Noah. As the play opens, Noah, his wife, his three sons and their three wives are about to board the Ark to begin the search for a brave, new world. As the rain ceases, they rejoice in wonder over the chance to begin life anew.

They are unable to shake off the problems of the old world which have clothed them in previous life, however. Noah's son, Ham, has serious doubts. He voices his skepticism to his father and to the other people aboard.

Noah, whose faith remains unshaken, then emerges as the central figure. He becomes the kindly old man who grows lonely in his faith, pilots his sacred craft to ground in the midst of everyone's doubts and is then deserted by the young folks when they reach shore. At last he is forced to the conviction that God is not "sportsman-like" in His treatment of His appointed agent. As the curtain falls, from the heavens comes the answer to his despair.

A matinee performance will be staged Saturday afternoon, April 3, in observance of Church Day. The play will then be shown to prospective students.

Air Force Personnel Tell of New Program

Questions concerning the Air Force Aviation Program were answered by flying training Air Force personnel last Monday, March 22 in the foyer of the science building.

Members of the team have been trained regarding all new phases of the present United States Air Force Aviation Cadet Program, and presented accurate and precise answers to all questions. They assisted those wishing to apply for qualifying examinations offered at Sampson Air Force Base, Geneva, New York.

This team is currently circulating throughout this area to counsel any young man who might be qualified for this program.

If all the professors in the world would join hands, they would reach half-way across the ocean. We are in favor of this arrangement.

A Sneak Preview

To prepare a major production for stage presentation so that the director, all members of the cast and the audience as well are completely satisfied, requires more work than the mere memorization of lines. It means good, hard work using the well-known mid-night oil. Pictured above are members of the cast of "Noah," the Domino Club's current undertaking, in a typical evening's assignment. Jack: "How come you don't go with that girl any more?"
Hank: "I couldn't stand her vulgar laughter."
Jack: "I never noticed it."
Hank: "You weren't there when I proposed!"

Prof.: (pointing to cigarette butt on the floor) Jones, is that yours?
Jones: (pleasantly) Not at all, sir. You saw it first.

About Nothing

appearing on campus; classes are being interrupted as paddles clatter to the floor and weary-eyed pledges are also wary-eyed led "big brother" is really watching them. Here's a hope the frats and sororities surprise the administration and other critics who place pledging in the same category as gold fish swallowing and "unmentionable" raids. Why not take a cut from the Pi Taus of three years ago who had pledged clean the plaque of the 13th and Union entrance? If Hell Week had a help day in it the whole set-up would be more favorably received. Just think, about 10,000 pledge hours hence we might get a decent place built in which to stage Domino productions.)

Aside To Dr. Memming Dept.

We had to stop the presses to grant your wish. The editor is still recuperating from our somewhat notorious request. We'd love to include that other word but the only way we could think of was "recuperating from notorious matrimony" which doesn't quite make sense. Good luck to Rolf, at any rate!

P.S. If the above doesn't make sense to those die-hards who are foolish enough to be still reading this dribble, see Dr. Memming for details.—J.F.Z.

All The World Loves A Fool . . .

What's happening, what's happening? That's what we'd like to know! Some weeks you just can't make a headline. We've been delving (and chuckling) in among the stack upon stack of exchange papers from hither and yon and have found that the brand of humor exhibited on foreign campuses is not only diverse but quite entertaining.

Following you will find several inches of uninterrupted jokes, slogans, puns, stories and what-have-you. All the world loves a fool!

The moon was yellow,
The land was bright,
She turned to me
In the balmy night
And gave a hint
With every glance
That what she craved
Was real romance.
I stammered, stuttered,
And time went by;
The moon was yellow,
. . . And so was I!

Doctor: Oh, now, Elviry, don't worry about that. Lots of women smoke.

Elviry: Yeah, I know, but Grandmaw inhales.

Doctor: I still wouldn't fret. Lots of women inhale.

Elviry: Yeah, I know, but Grandmaw don't exhale.
