

Students Jam Chapel For "Y" Stunt Night

The chapel resounded with cheers of the capacity-plus audience of over 300 who attended the stunt night presentation sponsored by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday night.

They cheered the nine campus groups who participated: the two sororities, the four fraternities, the non-sorority dormitory girls, the girl day students, and the "second-floor theologs."

They laughed long and loud at Eleanor Troutman, attired in a fur coat recommended for wear in Miss Shaeffer's English class; and at Edna Bialek as the football hero of the future, both of whom represented the P. A. T.'s in their "Design for the Future."

The second-floor theologs also impressed the audience. Those who made the impression included Malin, Ackert, Gulick, and Williams. Thorgersen, of the P. T. B.'s, resurrected "Susie" from the jazz age, and later assisted George Henry to recall his experiences at "The Front."

The Phi Beta Mu's maligned their sex in their presentation of "Women in the Battle of the Ages." The battle was fought with lipstick, umbrellas, and claws. Caroline Hastings, Bessie Kneer, Margaret Wolfe and, Winifred Demmie were among those who took part.

The A. P. O. quartet, which included Allen, Falcone, McKay, and Kline, demonstrated their versatility by singing some three-part songs in addition to the classic, "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

The girl day students presented a romantic episode "On a Pullman Train." The ardent hero was Helen Hain, the winsome heroine, Geraldine Ross.

For the Kappas, Nicotera a la baby-curl haircut, brought tears of laughter to the audience's eyes with the story of "Little Nell." Their

Alumni See Albright Win

A home coming day crowd including several hundred alumni was on campus Saturday to see Albright win its first football game of the year, and to renew acquaintances.

After the game, a "Kaffee Klatch" was held in the library. In addition the respective organizations on campus entertained their alumni.

Approximately 50 Zeta's returned to see the new home; the Kappa's had 12 alumni back; while the A. P. O.'s entertained 20 grads.

Phi Beta Mu welcomed fifteen of their alumni during a social hour followed by a luncheon in the college dining hall.

The Pi Alpha Tau Sorority had quite a large representation on campus. They held a rush party at the Y. W. C. A. on Friday night.

STUDENT COUNCIL SWEATER DANCE

The Student Council Sweater Dance will be held tonight in the Dining Hall, from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. Admission, 10c.

Wash Moholick Wins 2 Tickets For Upsala Game

By calling Swarthmore's 14-0 win over Drexel on the nose, Wash Moholick, a frosh, will get the Albrightian's guessing contest award of two tickets for the Upsala tiff in the stadium tomorrow.

Although three of the entrants predicted 15 of the 20 winners on their ballots, Moholick will receive the pasteboards by virtue of his Swarthmore score. The other two 15-win prognosticators—Chet Wielgolinski and Charles Werley—failed to name one correct score.

All the soothsayers cast their lots for Albright but none was able to call it to the digit. Three conceded a 13-7 score, while one predicted 14-6.

Runners-up to the three top foretellers were Michal Dutzer and Carl Osenbach with six wrong each, and Carlyle Fabian, right on their heels with seven mis-cues. Fabian had one consolation, however. He called the Reading High 12-0 defeat at the hands of Bethlehem,

Ordinary Chapel Programs Will Mark Charter Day On Wednesday, Thursday

and the Notre Dame conquest of Navy, 14-7.

The toughest game, it seems, was the Boston College-Temple scrap. Only three contestants picked the winner, Boston College. Albright's tangle with Moravian was the easiest for the guessers, while the Duke-Syracuse and Muhlenberg-Ursinus grid battles were predicted by all except one entrant.

In order to give the guessers some extra time to pick their winners, the contest officials have decided to allow one week for depositing the ballot in the box at the registrar's office. Therefore, this week's contest will be based on the games to be played on Saturday, November 4. The ballot must be deposited on the preceding Friday—the third. Winners will then be announced in the November 10 issue of the Albrightian.

The games are:
1—Albright-West Chester; 2—Bucknell-Western Maryland; 3—Columbia-Cornell; 4—Northmouth.

"Gold-A" Winners To Be Named At Exercises

Departing from a three-year-old tradition, Albright College will not celebrate Charter Day this year with the academic procession, conferring of degrees, and all the other pageantry that has accompanied the anniversary during recent years.

Instead, two ordinary chapel programs—on Wednesday and Thursday of next week—will be the extent to which students will observe the event.

The Rev. Raymond A. Albright, Th. D., of the School of Theology, will deliver the principal address on both days. In addition, Wednesday's exercises will include the naming of "gold A" seniors.

The charter day which the college will celebrate originally was November 5, 1928, the day the Berks' courts granted Albright College its charter following the merger with Schuylkill College.

The merging of these schools was completed when the United Evangelical Church, which sponsored Albright College at Myerstown, united with the Evangelical Association of North America, backers of the Schuylkill College, our present campus, to form our modern Evangelical Church.

The name Albright College was retained in recognition of Jacob Albright, founder of the Evangelical Church.

'Cercle Francais' To Present Play

The French Club will present on Friday evening, December 1, Copee's Le Luthier de Cremona. This play, a one-act comedy in verse, offers opportunities for fine characterizations.

Christos Bratiotis will play the part of Laddeo Ferrari, the lute-maker. His sons will be Jerome Denner as Filippo and George Henry as Sandro. Ruth Stratton, as Giannina, is the heroine.

Domino Club To Week-End In New York

The Domino Club is planning a dramatic week-end in New York for November 18 and 19. The group plans to leave early Saturday morning and come home Sunday night.

They will see a matinee and an evening performance on Saturday and spend the rest of the time browsing in libraries and museums and digging out foreign restaurants. For those who want the bright lights, visits to the Rainbow Room and other bright spots can be arranged.

The plays will be selected from this list: "Skylark," with Gertrude Lawrence; "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "The Little Foxes," "Pins and Needles," and "Too Many Girls."

All those who want to go must give the price of the tickets ($2.20) to Robert Work before Saturday noon, so he can order the tickets. Domino Club members who have paid their dues, will have the ticket money refunded later.

Pat's Entertain Frosh At "Little Red Schoolhouse"

P. A. T. Public School Number One convened at eight o'clock Friday evening, October 20, at the Y. W. C. A. Curricular activities included a music class a la Kay Kyser and a current events class a la Flash Gordon.

The pupils danced through recess, and concluded by eating the teacher's apples.

EDITORIAL

This is not an issue of the Communist "Daily Worker" nor is it in any way connected with Stalin's "red" campaign. It is simply the "Albrightian," a la Halloween.

In an attempt to inject the spirit of the old Druids into the campus, the Albrightian has donned a mask in the form of a revamped masthead and the orange-colored paper from which you are now reading.

This vigil of Halloween is mainly Druidical in origin. It was celebrated with the lighting of bonfires, and it centered about the belief that ghosts and witches wandered about on that night.

To these beliefs were grafted several characteristics of a Roman festival in honor of Pomona. The winter store of fruits played a big part in the celebration.

And that tradition, carried down to our modern generation, is responsible for this out-of-the-ordinary Albrightian.

STUNT NIGHT

"Burley-Q" chorus included Hydock, McCrann, Klein, Sekulski, Eshelman, and Sehl.

The non-sorority dormitory girls presented "Anybody's Family, Anytime, Anywhere."

The Zetas presented Comstock and Golis in "Mortimer Goes to Albright." Later, Petručka, Laucks, and O'Gorek invited the audience to sing the Alma Mater with them.

The prize of $3.00 for the best performance of the evening was awarded to the Zetas. In conclusion, Comstock gave a request performance from the repertoire of impersonations.

We had a conference with Reading High's snooper, and this is what we learned: Quote the "Red and Black"—

"Jay can tell us all about a former student of R. H. S. who is now an Albright cheer leader."

"What is your idea of the ideal boy?" Madeline Laurence answered: Tall, light complexioned, blonde hair, Albright frosh.

ROBERT, MARY LEAD FROSH FIRST NAMES

During the past week the members of the administration department have attempted to obtain a census of the first names included in the freshman class. Our success is spelled in numerals below.

The class includes Robert with 9 under studies, James with 5, John and William each with 4. There are 3 bearing the name Joseph, ditto the name Donald. Some of the less common male names include Chesler, Lynn, Dwight, Everette, Wasil and Haldane.

Zeta's To Hold Fall Dance On November 4

The Zeta's are busy hunting for a band and a place to hold their fall dance. The annual function will be held on November 4. At the last fraternity meeting, Harvey Greiss was named to contact all local bands relative to the next week's dance.

A large number of the Zeta alumni came back on home-coming day last Saturday. Among them were Tony Troisi, Al Oslislo, Norm Jowitz, John Muller, John Comba, Joe Vargas, Shorty Zener, Ed Binkley and Harold Strunk.

Daymen Organize

What once upon a time was the Men's Day Student Club now exists under the title of the Daymen's Club. This name was selected at a recent meeting of the organization.

The club has planned several social functions for the winter months. They will be held in conjunction with the Girls' Day Student Club.

F. O. O. Hold Meeting

The first meeting of the Financial Outlook Organization was held on October 18 when Miss Norton spoke on "Personnel Administration in College." After the talk by Miss Norton, members of the organization took part in an open forum. This was followed by a social hour.

Down Melody Lane

By Seymour Mendelsohn

It was Thursday morning, and classes had already begun. Students were walking around the campus with that dazed look on their faces which is a good sign (or bad) that mid-semester tests are on their way.

Leaving the library, I espied Professor Opus and ran over to meet him. The professor had been taking his usual morning walk. On this morning, however, his appearance on the campus was also for another reason. He was eager to tell me about the college band.

"I want you to remember, "Professor Opus began," that it is the spirit of the members that determines whether a band is to be good or poor. Albright has nothing to worry about. Those boys and girls show the right spirit. They have pep. With such a fine spirit displayed by the band and the student body, the team should go marching on to victory."

Then, I inquired if he knew Jazzinsky, the iron lip trumpeter. I told him that one of the Kappas had asked me about him. The professor replied that he had heard of the iron lip trumpeter; and, as he was about to describe him to me, the bell rang. Waving good-bye to the professor, I ran to my next class.

Have you heard of the Albright Collegians? It's the newest musical organization on the campus. They can swing, jam, and jive. Make you dance and feel alive.

PERSONAL TID BITS—

Harry Barrer, a product of Albright's science hall, was recently elected president of the sophomore class in Columbia University's dental school.

Barrer and Louie Prucker were two of five students selected from that same dental school class for membership in an honorary dental society at the University.

Several former Albright students are continuing their studies as follows: Gertrude Epstein, in El Paso, Texas, at the College of Mines, an extension school of the University of Texas; Janet Yoder, at the Maplewood Amateur Dramatics School, Maplewood, N. J., and Jane Flexer, at Royal Victoria College, McGill University, Montreal, Canada.

Alice DeLong Forrester, formerly a member of the class of 1941, became the mother of a son, David Michael, on Friday, October 20.

Seven Students Ready For U. S. Aviation Course

The scene may be the control cabin of a giant trans-continental airliner, the control tower of a modern airdrome, a small pursuit plane on the tail of any enemy reconnaissance flight, or just the corner of the alumni library, but in each case an Albright student is likely to be playing a major role.

Yes, aviation has come to Albright. Under the watchful eye of Uncle Sam, the air-minded men of Albright will be subjected to an extensive course in flight training. The course will include ground school instruction by Professor George. The applicants will receive a minimum of 35 or a maximum of 50 hours actual flight training.

During the past week the enrolled have undergone a thorough physical examination in accordance with strict governmental requirements. From time to time, the class will receive standardized tests in problems relative to aeronautics.

The course will extend over a period of 24 weeks. Each week will consist of 2 hours' instruction. Following the final examination, the students will begin actual flying lessons.

The two questions most likely to arise from fellow classmates are: Why should I take a course in flight training? Would I not be under obligation to fly for the government if the United States should become involved in a European conflict.

The answers lie in the statement of a member of the flight class, Charles Werley, 18, of Reading. "I view the course as a good opportunity to acquire the practical principles of flying. I'm not interested in military aviation, but rather in civil aviation. My ambition is to own a plane of my own. I believe this is the first step in that direction."

Others enrolled in the U. S. Aviation course include Richard Ziegenfuss, 20, of West Lawn, a junior in science; Ralph Fleming, of West Lawn, a freshman; Thomas Warnagiras, 23, Wyoming, a senior in business administration; and Raymond Shugard, 21, of Roselle Park, N. J., a junior in business administration.

The college, in cooperation with government officials, plan to install the equipment necessary for ground instruction within a few days. The course, in order to assume a favorable position with regards to time allotment, will begin not later than Monday, October 30. The actual flight training will be conducted from the new municipal airport.

Frosh Open Campaign Today

The Lions Den

It may have been the presence of our venerable alumni or it may have been the will to consummate a long frustrated desire that drove the Lions to victory over Moravian last Saturday (with all respect due our alumni, the latter reason seems more plausible). But whatever it was, let us hope that it will exert a similar influence tomorrow when the team faces Upsala.

All during the 1938 season and in the games played so far this season, the spirit among the players has not been up to par. It is difficult to lay a finger on the cause of this, but it is certainly a serious problem. Even while winning from Moravian the team did not show the pep and "go" that they should have shown. Some of the trouble may rest with the student body. It is true that a great deal of interest was shown by the students before the Moravian game, and undoubtedly this helped; but it is up to the students to let the fellows know at every opportunity, that they are behind the squad and that they want the team to win!

It is your columnist's candid opinion that this idea of selecting one individual from the team and handing him a gift, on the basis that he was the outstanding player in the game, is certainly a questionable move. In the first place, everyone knows that almost always in selecting a recipient for an award of that type, the linemen will be overlooked because their play is not spectacular and out in the open as is the play of the backs. Anyone who has ever watched intelligently or played a game of football is aware of the fact that the linemen are the unsung heroes of the game and certainly deserve more publicity than they receive.

It would be better to give an award to the entire team or to the best lineman or back than to consider backs and linemen together and then try to strike a comparison between their totally different types of play. Naturally, the donors of the awards will make the selection as they choose but someone should drop a gentle hint.

Neal O. Harris' Proteges Meet Mules At Allentown In First Tiff Of Season

21 Gridders To Make Trip To Muhlenberg

Albright's freshman football aggregation will get its first taste of inter-collegiate football this afternoon when the Neal O. Harris-tutored machine meets a powerful "Baby Mule" team on the Allentown gridiron.

The twenty-one hopefuls on the frosh squad will meet what is said to be one of the strongest Muhlenberg freshman teams ever assembled. It includes 30 well-trained pig-skin handlers.

Harris will choose his line from Bill Chamberlain, who hails from Lewistown; John Gasper, of Tamaqua; Richard Weber, a Roselle Park, N. J. lad; Herbert Derr, of Temple; Sidney Disend, brother of "Moose" Disend; James Harpster, of Milton; Paul Leinbach, of Mt. Penn; Wasil Plaskonis, brother of the varsity member, Steve Plaskonis; Bill Demidovich; Albert Williams, who comes from Jermy, Pa.; William Spangler, of Cumberland, Md., and Julius Katz, brother of Bob Katz, last year's All-American from Temple.

Fighting it out for backfield berths will be: Robert Bennett, a lad who hails from Dick Riffle's home town, Corning, N. Y.; Robert Bull, of Port Carbon; Michael Dutzer, of Wilkes-Barre; Battling Gigli, of Tamaqua; Joseph Gillis, of Peckville; George Horn, of Brooklyn; John Killiany, of Olyphant, and Wash Moholick, of Hazleton.

The schedule includes in addition to the Muhlenberg scrap, games with West Chester and Temple.

The probable line-ups are:

- R. E.—Spangler
- R. T.—Disend
- R. G.—Weber
- C.—Chamberlain
- L. G.—Gasper
- L. T.—Harpster
- L. E.—Demidovich
- Q. B.—Gigli
- L. H.—Horn
- R. H.—Bennett
- F. B.—Gillis

Frosh Mentor

Coach Neal O. Harris who will present a squad of 21 freshman footballers this afternoon in their first inter-collegiate battle with Muhlenberg at Allentown.

Dietzmen Seek Season's Second Win Tomorrow

A spirited and confident Red and White eleven will be gunning for their second straight triumph of the season over the heavy Vikings from Upsala College tomorrow afternoon at the stadium.

The East Orange, N. J. school, who battled the Albright grid-ders to a scoreless tie last year in the only meeting between the teams, will be the only out-of-state team to face the Dietzmen this year.

While Coach Paul L. Woerner was opening the eyes of experts by his team's excellent showing against a powerful Boston University eleven, Coach Dietz was busily engaged in uncovering sophomore material in the Moravian game.

An unheralded running back, Jim Breen, led the list of first year men, as he sparked the Red and White to a 13-6 victory over the Greyhounds. Frank Bertino, Stan Kuklis, and Bob Baum were the other sophomores who greatly impressed the head coach by their playing. If the senior starters fail to show real class in the Upsala clash, the Lion mentor will inject these hard-fighters unhesitatingly.

Jack Venner, Upsala triple threat left-halfback, will spear the Blue and Grey offensive. His kicking, passing, and running has been the big factor in victories over Blue Ridge and Panyer Colleges. Frank Stanley, rugged fullback and Carl Becker, captain and quarterback, are other potential threats.

"Cockey" Robson and "Whitey" Quiren will miss Saturday's tiff because of painful injuries suffered in the Moravian clash. Minor injuries to Al Gustitus and Jildo Zanot will keep them from the starting line-up. However, both guards will be called upon for heavy reserve duty. Chet Wielgolinski is again in uniform and will take over at the pivot position for the injured Robson. The peppery center had been out for the whole week with an injured leg.

The probable starting line-ups:

Albright	Upsala
Thorpe	LT..... Anderson
Cohen	LE..... Duys
Rusbosin	LG..... Severson
Wielgolinski	RC..... Vallorani
McCarran	RG..... Walters
Hydock	RT..... Mullen
Snyder	RE..... Mercogliano
Soja	QB..... Becker
Munley	LHB..... Venner
Aszman	RFB..... Robinson
Popelka	FB..... Stanley

K. T. X. ANNOUNCES SCHEDULE

The executive committee of K. T. X. announce the tentative schedule for the remainder of the semester. On November 6th, Dr. Greth will speak on "The Minister's Library On November 20, a panel discussion on the topic "A Christian Minister's Position During a Period of War" will be conducted by three Reading ministers.

On December 20, Rev. Charles Kachel will head a discussion on "Home Affairs on the Minister." And on the last meeting night, Dr. Morris D. Slifer of St. Stephen's Reformed Church, will speak on "The Christian Ministry."

David McCleery, Harry Buck, Art McKay, Woody Witmer and Al Comstock attended the "Y" conference at F. & M. last week. They heard Dr. Hornell Hart, of Duke University, speak on "Can Science and Religion Work Together?"

Albright coaches are still wondering about a certain man by the name of Yoder who was on the campus all last week. This middle-aged Penn State man from Elizabethtown, N. J. appeared just a little too interested in the football team. In fact, he even went as far as asking one of the coaches if the Lions' plays were numbered or lettered. Could it be that this all too interested spectator was an Upsala College scout?

The Red and White must be on the alert for a baffling screen pass play that the Upsala Vikings have been employing with great success this season. In the Franklin and Marshall game, the New Jersey school pulled the play twice, the first time it resulted in their only touchdown from the ten-yard stripe and the second time it netted twenty-five yards.

"Whitey" Quiren has certainly had a hard luck college football career. As a freshman, the blond back suffered a broken ankle in the middle of the season. As a sophomore (Continued on page 4)

Mocks' Trip Tops Student Vacation

When asked how they spent their vacation this summer, nine out of every ten Albright students are likely to reply, "I spent my vacation at the New York World's Fair." There are, however, those who visited places other than Grover Whalen's little enterprise.

Without doubt, Grace Mock had the most interesting vacation of all. Accompanied by her parents, she traveled by automobile to the west coast. The trip which covered 10,000 miles, extended over a period of three months and included visits to many well-known points of interest. After spending some time in Iowa, the Mocks proceeded to Yellowstone National Park and then to Seattle, Washington. Their trip then took them along the Columbia River Highway and into Oregon, where they visited Mt. Hood and Crater Lake. From Oregon they journeyed to California where they visited San Francisco and the giant Redwoods. Then, after paying a brief visit to Tia Juana, Mexico, they returned home by way of the Mojave Desert and the central states.

Paul Golis is one who heard the call of the wild—and answered it. He spent an interesting summer as counsellor at Camp Waganaki, E. Waterford, Maine.

Art McKay took advantage of his vacation period to work for the Student Peace Service in Albany, New York.

George Henry added variety to his vacation by visiting Connecticut and Atlantic City and by serving as a recreation leader at Camp Joy.

Camp life proved attractive likewise to Mary Etta Filbert and Emma Shenk who acted as counsellors at Camp Adahi.

more, the Wilkes-Barre lad played only in spots as a result of rib and knee injuries. And now as a junior, the white-head is definitely out for the season with a bad back injury incurred in the Moravin tiff last Saturday.

Jim Robinson, first string blocking back for the Upsala Vikings, is a cousin of an Albright student, Art Faust.

College officials are reported to be sadly disappointed over the attendance figures of the home-coming game with Moravian last Saturday. This disappointment is bound to show itself again when Reading High and Albright play home games on identical dates.

The new physical training program which consists of touch-football, paddle-tennis, volley ball, badminton, quoits, golfing, and deck tennis, has met with great success not only among the students taking the course but also with others who have completed their physical training requirements. Even senior football players have asked to enroll in the course.

Albright, in the three games, has attempted 46 passes and connected 19 times for a total of 247 yards, an average of 13 yards on each completed pass. The Lions have gained a net total of 253 yards by rushing so far this season.

Among Upper Classmen Frosh Number Relatives

Has it ever occurred to you that the newborn freshmen might have considered contact with the upper-classmen? Let me enlarge upon this point. As an example I find the name of Joseph Arnold among the freshman list. Somewhere in the past we've heard that name before. Oh yes. A popular Miss about the campus last year was none other than Madge Arnold. Well, Joe your not letting the family line lag. Joseph is the brother of Madge Arnold, '39.

Brother of Ray Spatz is Donald W. Spatz, and sister of Denis Strawbridge is Miss June M. Strawbridge.
