Twelve Students Attend Sessions Of Model UN

Twelve students are currently attending the annual sessions of the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Model United Nations General Assembly at Wilkes College.

Phillip Eyrich, '58, serves as president of the Model UN, having been elected to that position at last year's sessions at Princeton University.

Ivan Mendelsohn, '58, heads the Albright delegation, which includes Jack Linton, '58, Robert Chernok, '59, Curtis Keller, '59, Sandra Miller, '59, Robert Peckham, '59, Herbert Zakrisson, '59, Stanley Michalak, '60, Linda Hershberger, '61, David Lombardo, '61, and Steven Weiner, '61.

Stassen Speaker

Harold Stassen, independent Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania and former assistant to the President of the United States on disarmament, and Congressman Daniel Flood will address the general (plenary) sessions of the conference.

Nearly 600 delegates from 60 colleges and universities in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia are attending the three-day conference, which begins today.

Charles A. Raith, assistant professor of political science, is accompanying the group to Wilkes. He served on the continuations committee of the Model UN during the past year, along with Eyrich.

The Albright students attending the conference are representing the campus International Relations Club. William R. Bishop, assistant professor of history, is sponsor of IRC.

Discussion Listed

Seven topics will be discussed by the delegates to the Model UN. They include: Hungary, the United Nations Emergency Force, technical assistance, freedom of information, Southwest Africa, Cyprus, and disarmament and atomic energy.

Each of the colleges and universities attending the Model UN represents one or more of the members of the United Nations. The Albright delegation is representing the United Kingdom and Malaya.

The delegation representing the United Kingdom submitted advanced resolutions concerning the questions of Cyprus and technical assistance.

Mendelsohn, Linton, Chernok, Miss Miller, Peckham, Zakrisson, Michalak and Miss Hershberger will represent the United Kingdom, while Keller, Lombardo and Weiner will represent Malaya.

Weiner will address the opening session of the conference on behalf of Malaya, a newly admitted member of the UN.

Two Soph Students Will Represent WSA

Nancy Ratajczak, '60, and Margaret Schultz, '60, have been selected to represent the Women's Student Association at the regional convention of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students.

The convention will be held Wednesday through Saturday, April 2 to 5 at West Virginia University. Dr. Phillip Jacobs, author of "Changing Values in College," will be the keynote speaker at the convention.

The theme for the conference is "Decorum and the Decalogue."

Religion Week Program Held

The Rev. Dr. Lynn Leavenworth, administrator of the American Baptist Convention, was the guest speaker on campus for Religion-in-Life Week, Monday through Thursday.

Dr. Leavenworth, a Baptist clergyman, is currently director of theological education for the Board of Education and Publication of the American Baptist Convention.

He is a graduate of the University of Redlands and the recipient of a Ph.D. in contemporary theology from Yale University in 1950. He holds a B.D. from the Berkley Baptist Divinity School.

Gives Addresses

During Religion-in-Life Week, morning chapel services, featuring addresses by Dr. Leavenworth, were held in Krause Hall. Evening devotional services were held in White Chapel Hall.

Following the Tuesday and Wednesday night programs, informal discussion groups were held at the fraternity houses. After last night's program, group discussions with Christian laymen from business, industry, education, social welfare, science and engineering, medicine and public service were held.

Teel Hall Chapel was open for meditation each day during the week from 11:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

Goldsmith Withdraws; Two Council Candidates State Their Positions

Robert Goldsmith, '59, withdrew from the race for Student Council president recently. Goldsmith announced his withdrawal and the reasons for his action in a letter to Frank York, '58, Student Council president.

The contents of Goldsmith's letter read as follows:

"It is with deep regret that I am informing you that I wish to withdraw my candidacy for the office of president of Student Council for 1958-59. I have given my decision some deep and prolonged thought, and there are many personal reasons that have influenced my final decision. For one thing, my scholastic standing has suffered since I have accepted many extra-curricular activities and due to the full schedule that I am planning to carry next year, I do not feel, if I am elected that I could carry out the duties of Council president to my fullest ability. Therefore I would not be representing the students of Albright College acceptably and I would be doing myself and them a grave injustice. However, my services will be open to whichever of the remaining candidates win and I will certainly be available to perform any duties that either of them wishes to present to me."

Questions Asked

In an attempt to sound out the remaining candidates, Paul Reetz, '59, and Herbert Zakrisson, '59, on certain of their attitudes and ideas, the following questions were asked them by The Albrightian: 1. What is your attitude toward fraternities and sororities? 2. Have you always voted a straight "dayman line" in Council, and, if so, why? 3. Faced with a conflict of student and administration desires, what would you recommend as the best way to present the issue to the administration.

In reply to the first of these questions both Reetz and Zakrisson stated that they are definitely in favor of the social organizations; that, if elected, they would, despite being independents, support the desires and aims of these organizations—so long as these desires and aims were not detrimental to any other student organization; and that they believe that the fraternities and sororities should be enlarged as the student body grows.

In addition Reetz said that the social organizations "give the student something other than the adult (Continued on Page Four, Col. One)

Sports Night Will Be Tonight

Sports Night, postponed last week because of the snow storm, will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the fieldhouse. The funds raised from this event, which is the climax of World University Week, will be given to WUS for use in Africa.

Changes Named

Boxing has been replaced by a rope climb relay and a basketball relay on the men's program.

Events scheduled for the first half of the program are ping-pong, men and women; badminton, women; tug-of-war, men; volleyball, women; high jump, men; and rope climb, men.

Sports Night is under the co-chairmanship of Janet Weber, '59, and Jay Miller, '58. Mary Ann Sherk, '59, is in charge of the program.

University of Bridgeport Begins Program Involving Lay Teachers

Bridgeport, Conn.—(I.P.)—Nineteen volunteers from many walks of life including engineers, housewives, a dentist, lawyer, and businessmen began teaching on the college level for the first time with the start of the spring semester at the University of Bridgeport, under an experimental program sponsored by a grant from the Ford Foundation.

The volunteers were selected from more than 100 applicants last September and completed an intensive orientation program designed to prepare them for teaching in the college classroom. Ranging in age from 26 to 51 years old the prospective teachers are all married and have a combined total of 33 children. In undertaking the experimental study University officials felt that most communities have an untapped reservoir of qualified individuals unable to devote all of their time to classroom teaching but who would welcome the opportunity to teach on a part-time basis.

Utilization of the professional experience of these individuals should enrich the quality of the students' educational experience, according to Dr. D. B. Gowin, assistant professor of education and director of the study. Many colleges and universities, including the University of Bridgeport, use part-time teachers but few of them conduct a preparation program or take advantage of their professional experience, he said. Development of a preparation program for the person qualified in his field but unprepared for college teaching is the key point in the research study, Dr. Gowin reported.

Old Plan

Prior to last September a University faculty committee developed the preparation program with the assistance of lectures and demonstrations by senior faculty members from Yale, New York and Rutgers universities. Demonstrations of various teaching techniques, methods and philosophies of education were presented in condensed form. Analysis of these demonstrations by the prospective teachers and projection against theories of education resulted in a variety of major points of view toward college teaching being experienced.

The volunteer teachers also met with department chairmen and observed faculty members here and offered classroom sessions. Each volunteer has been assigned a full-time faculty member for the spring term. The opportunity to take part in an intensive orientation program was a major factor in the decision of many of the volunteers to teach on the college level, many of the volunteers reported.

Some have suggested that they might like to teach on a full-time basis if their teaching experience is satisfactory. Most of the volunteers have a master's degree or the equivalent in experience, Dr. Gowin said. The results of the experimental study should be of value to all colleges faced with expansion and teacher shortages, he added.

Thanks Issued

Dean of Women Priscilla R. Morton and Dean of Men John W. Kopp released a statement this week thanking the students for their co-operation during the snowstorm last weekend. The statement: "On behalf of the administration we wish to commend the boarding students for their co-operation and fine spirit in accepting the unfortunate conditions and curtailment of activities as a result of the recent snowstorm emergency."

Civil Defense Is Vital, But It's Lacking Here

In an age when the people of the United States must live with the constant threat that a nuclear attack could come at any time, civil defense has become an important stone in the building of a strong nation. The destruction that would result from a nuclear attack is well known to everyone. The major function of civil defense is the reorganization of the survivors of such an attack. Even with civil defense, a nuclear attack would wreak havoc on the nation. But the after effects of such a holocaust could be reduced substantially by a well-organized civil defense setup. Without such a setup, the nation may well pass out of existence.

As a "community" of nearly 900 persons, Albright has no existing civil defense setup. This fact was brought out recently by a student project committee, headed by James Still, '59, of the public administration class. It is tragic that no civil defense setup has been organized on campus. As a "community" of the leaders of tomorrow, we have failed to take even a back seat in the civil defense movement. The committee has recommended an eight-step plan for initial action by the college. It is a black spot on our record that civil defense is totally lacking here, but the blot can be erased. Enactment of the committee's plan would be a healthy first step toward establishing a sound civil defense program on campus.

Newspaper Handles Queries For Nominees

The Albrightian is attempting to cover the Student Council presidential campaign now in progress in a manner that will enable the student body to make sound judgments between the two candidates when ballot time arrives. In the article concerning the candidates in this issue, the two nominees state their positions toward certain key campus questions, as put to them by The Albrightian. The questions asked were formulated by The Albrightian as those which touch on current areas of student interest. Students having additional questions that they would like the candidates to answer before the student body should submit these to The Albrightian and we will attempt to obtain answers for them. In this manner, both The Albrightian and the candidates will have a greater opportunity to serve the needs of the students during the present campaign.

Filling In Poll Form Reader Poll Now . . .

In order to get a comprehensive view of what students, faculty and administration think of The Albrightian at the present time and what they would suggest by way of improvement, a reader poll questionnaire is printed on page four of this issue. From time to time, people stop in The Albrightian office and express their ideas about student newspapers on the college campus. But these ideas are generally few and, spread over a whole school year, attack the subject from a variety of angles. These ideas are helpful to the staff, but a comprehensive view of campus feeling would be even more helpful. For that reason, The Albrightian is conducting a reader poll with this issue.

We welcome the comments of all Albrightians, including faculty and administration, but we are particularly anxious to receive the opinions of students. This is a student newspaper. On a college campus, it is logical to assume that there will be ideas among the student body as a whole concerning their newspaper. These ideas, no matter how good they are, will be wasted unless they are expressed—expressed to those who have the authority to use them. The Albrightian urges all students to take the few minutes necessary to fill out the form on the back page and return it to the switchboard. We would appreciate the effort.

'Religion In Life' Is A Subtle Influence

By TOM GRANT

"Religion-in-Life"—what does it mean? It does not mean the hollow, lackadaisical affirmation of an ethical system that has survived the scourge of 2,000 years' encounter with indifference, cynicism and radicalism.

Neither does it mean the flamboyant proclamation of this system, or any other set of values, as if its truth is so apparent as to require no further inquiries. Nor does "Religion-in-Life" imply the conscious application of ethical and spiritual standards to one's way of living.

Religion in one's life is subtle, so subtle that one is not aware that another is religious. A devout individual feels no need or compulsion to flaunt his morals, they are self-evident.

Religious Quality

A religious quality permeates his character and associations, and a power is felt that needs no spoken declaration. One is spurred by an unconscious motivation to act. No thought is given to whether a certain action is moral or not. If one is truly religious and infused with a spiritual quality he will act properly and in accord with his deepest held convictions.

Practicing religion in life centers around the solitary man. All things branch out from a concern for man. Too often, in a search for religion, a person becomes so involved with the satisfaction of God's "desires" that he loses interest in, or harms God's creations.

College Students

It is inaccurate and damaging to accuse college students of impiety. It is more precise to describe us as seeking for an ideal, or God, that we can roll around in the palm of our hand. Not a deity of accommodation, but one of strength and foresightedness. To a large extent we have been let down by organized religion that lives within our society's morals rather than above them.

Maybe our method is wrong—we encounters scorn and disapproving glances—but it's our way and any final judgment of its morality or immorality will have to be uncovered by the seekers, not by the observers.

By ED TRAVES

A student's responsibilities include more than handing in homework on time, meeting a date on time and writing the weekly letter home to let your parents know you're still alive.

It is the responsibility of every student to get to know himself and cultivate his personality accordingly. He should realize his weaknesses and strengthen them; he should know his strong points and use them to the advantage of other people as well as for himself. During this Easter season is a good time for one to sit down and take stock of one's self and try to decide what he really believes and what he stands for.

No one can tell you what is right and what is wrong by drawing a fine line for you to follow. It is up to you, the individual, to set up

Study Shows Classroom Size Is Expandable

New York, N. Y.—(I.P.)—The size of many college classes could be doubled without any loss in effectiveness, according to a Fordham University research group which has been working on the problem for a year. The project, headed by Rev. Joseph C. McKenna, S.J., assistant professor of political philosophy, was co-sponsored by the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

College freshmen and sophomores in the basic sociology, economics and political science courses were the subjects for the experiment. In each of the courses a section of 30 students was paired with a section of 60. The paired sections were carefully equalized according to the student's past academic average and related factors.

Dynamic Style

Each pair was taught the same syllabus by one of the cooperating teachers . . . each of whom is noted for a dynamic teaching style. Objective tests were devised to measure the students' mastery of course content, alertness to public affairs and ability to place public issues in a full context of social principles.

Test results, statistically analyzed, showed no significant difference in the performance of the large and small classes in any of the three courses. "The large class equalled the small class in terms of Fordham's major objectives in the social science curriculum," the team's final report stated.

Recognizing that a single experiment was not completely conclusive, the researchers "unhesitatingly" approved resorting to larger classes when an urgent need was present. A possible aid in meeting the crisis expected when the "bulge" of college students arrives in the 1960s on understaffed campuses was also foreseen.

Receive Grant

Fordham has also announced receipt of a $15,000 grant from the Fund for the Advancement of Education in partial support of an experimental pilot program for training liberal arts college graduates to teach in high schools.

The project is the first step in a university plan to conduct multi-staged experimentation and study in teacher education for the purpose of redesigning its teacher training curricula within the context of the liberal arts.

"At a time when educational issues were never so paramount, the university desires to commit itself to seeking a new breakthrough in the field of teacher education by rethinking its present concept and content," declared Very Reverend Laurence J. McGinley, S.J., university president.

New Staffers

Applications for staff positions on The Albrightian for next year are now being accepted. All interested students planning to return to campus next year may apply by stopping in at The Albrightian office in the basement of the administration building or by submitting a written application at the switchboard.

IN THE LION'S DEN

By MIKE TEITELMAN, Sports Editor

The diamondmen open another baseball season Monday against Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. This year's edition will be minus two perennial mainstays, Terry Reber and Tom Pollock. But an encouraging crop of freshmen could make it a successful baseball season. Coach Potskian has returnees Verne Engle, Fred Dietzel, Bob Shoup, Dick Greene, Jim Doremus, Charlie Kachel and Bob Jones to bolster his squad.

Freshmen play an important role in Potskian's plans for the new season. One of the most promising freshmen is Joe Wertz. He has been impressive in practice and might help bolster a mound staff that is already formidable with Dietzel, Engle, Greene and Kachel, all letter winners a year ago.

Potskian's problem is the outfield. With the entire starting outfield lost, candidates Bob Jones, Frank Sudock, Bob Moller, Jack Shaner, Tony Pawlowitz and Ken Sensenig are battling for the starting positions.

The infield is set with Ed Shurilla at first, Mike Matto at second, Bob Shoup at short and Mike Weinhold at third. Jim Doremus and Bob Meyers will handle the catching chores. The team plays 16 games against fairly representative competition and should be exciting to watch.

Dietzel Receives Awards . . .

Fred Dietzel received two awards last week. The 6-0 junior guard from Ephrata was named to the Middle Atlantic Conference All-Star team and to the Gettysburg College All-Opponent team.

The All-State selections were recently announced and this reporter was surprised to see Bucknell's Hal Danzig named on the first team and Bob Mantz of Lafayette to the second team. Danzig is certainly a fine center who has improved a great deal in two years but Mantz was definitely more of a leader and scorer than Danzig.

Spring Sport Shorts . . .

Coach Will Renken will try to better his team's outstanding record of last year. The netmen won 12 matches and lost but three in 1957. But gone are Jack Rosen and Nelson Haller. Rosen graduated and Haller is ineligible. The team will be led by co-captains Charley Sample and Ernie Firestone. Carl Witonsky is expected to lend a very helping hand, along with freshman Sam Zehner.

Coach Eugene Shirk has always come up with a good track team, lean year or not. This year is a year of "ifs" and freshmen play an important role in determining how successful the coming year will be for the Shirkmen. Old standbys Bob Wetzel, George Mack, Dick Thrasher, Charlie Smith, Don Seltzer, John Setticear, Ray Feick and Jack Cunningham will be on hand with freshmen Frank Papalia, Dick Allwein, Ken Thompson and loss of Sam Rumford and Henry Rulapaugh via ineligibility weakens the team. One thing is for sure; replacing the two little dash men, Ken Greenwald and Don Gottshall, will be a tough task.

Netmen Open 16-Match Card With Hawks Of St. Joseph's

Coach W. G. Renken's tennis charges will open the 1958 court season Friday, April 11, in an away match with St. Joseph's in Philadelphia. The schedule consists of 16 encounters, with Moravian being the only opponent that the Renkenmen battle twice this season.

Besides the Greyhounds, the Lions will meet Dickinson, Lebanon Valley, Juniata, Muhlenberg, Elizabethtown, F&M and Scranton on the home courts. In other away matches Albright will encounter Bucknell, Lycoming, Lafayette, LaSalle, Gettysburg and Ursinus.

The Middle Atlantic tournament will be held on Friday and Saturday, May 9 and 10.

Last Year . . .

Last year's team compiled a respectable 12-3 record under Coach Renken's guidance. The prospects for this season's squad loom bright with the return of co-captains Charley Sample and Ernie Firestone.

Other returning lettermen are Ted Gabriel, Jack Reinhart, Norm Bennett, and Carl Witonsky, who received his letter two seasons ago.

Members . . .

The other members are Dick Steffy, Allen Kutner, Glen Ruoss,

Sam Zehner, Leroy Fitzgerald, Bill Herbine, Pete Bazouk and Knute Anderson. The Lions will play their first home match on the campus courts against Dickinson, Saturday, April 12.

Potskian Faces Major Task In Rebuilding Diamond Squad

Weather Mars Link Action

Although there has been an abnormal amount of inclement weather this spring, the golf team has been able to practice twice a week on local courses.

The first match is scheduled for Thursday, April 10 at Muhlenberg. The linksmen will play a total of seven home and seven away matches, plus the Middle Atlantic tournament in May.

Last season, under the guidance of Paul Matten, the team of six regulars and two substitutes compiled a record of four wins and seven losses. The team lost two men through graduation, Capt. Willie Smith and Ernie Broadbeck.

Mazza Ineligible

Dom Mazza, the team's leading scorer, is ineligible.

The number one man last year was Bill Brenneman, who recently shot a hole-in-one during a practice round at Rich Maiden. Bill Protheroe and Jerry Burns were the other two regulars. Bob Carlson and Dick Spaide were the substitutes.

Matten Resigns

Matten resigned this year due to the pressure of business matters. During the next two weeks, the new coach, Howard "Hops" Guldin, hopes to pick the starting lineup.

The candidates include Brenneman, Burns, Protheroe and Carlson, plus several freshmen. Among these are Bob Goodman, Jim Smallwood and Dave Trout.

Guldin believes that with the return of last year's veterans and the added strength of the freshmen the team will improve on last season's record.

1958 Golf Schedule

- April 10—Muhlenberg, at Allentown
- April 11—F&M, at Lancaster
- April 14—Gettysburg, home
- April 16—Lafayette, at Easton

- May 16—Bucknell, home
- May 19—Moravian, home

The 1958 edition of the baseball team will make its debut on Monday, when it travels to Philadelphia to take on the University of Pennsylvania.

The Lions have been forced to do a major rebuilding job, as losses have claimed last year's starting outfield, first base, second base and a starting pitcher.

However, Coach John Potskian feels the outlook is encouraging as he welcomed the return of seven lettermen, including four pitchers. They are Verne Engle, Fred Dietzel, Dick Greene and Charlie Kachel.

Other returning lettermen are catcher Jim Doremus, shortstop Bob Shoup and utility infielder Bob Jones.

Candidates . . .

Other candidates for positions are:

Pitchers: Jack Tucker, '60, Bill Ballentine, '61, Dick Moylan, '61, Joe Wertz, '61, and Barry Wurst, '61.

Infielders: Ed Shurilla, '58, Claude Lynch, '61, Mike Matto, '61, Jim Spatz, '61, Mike Weinhold, '61, and Bruce Young, '61.

Outfielders: Bob Moller, '58, Jack Shaner, '59, Frank Sudock, '59, Bob Deemer, '60, Tony Pawlewicz, '61, Ken Sensenig, '61, and Ron Stuber, '61.

Catcher: Bob Meyers, '61. Engle and Dietzel combined with Tom Pollock to win all of the Lion's games a year ago. Greene, Kachel and Tucker all saw service as relief pitchers with Kachel playing the outfield on occasions.

Reber Becomes Pro . . .

Shoup teamed up with Terry Reber, who signed a professional contract at the conclusion of the season, to give the Lions a potent offensive punch, with Shoup batting cleanup. Jones finished the season playing right field after Captain Bobby Fiorindo suffered a leg injury.

Doremus caught all the games for the Lions, as they compiled a 9-11 log, which included a six game losing streak.

Notable games in the Lion's schedule of last year saw wins posted over LaSalle (10-0), St. Joseph's (10-6), Lebanon Valley (23-6), Franklin and Marshall (13-3), Gettysburg (1-0).

This year the Lions will meet all of the above teams, plus Bucknell, Dickinson, Elizabethtown, Juniata, Lafayette, Moravian, Muhlenberg, Pennsylvania Military College, Susquehanna and Wilkes.

ministration to turn to." Zakrison added that he favors increased fraternity and sorority activities, and, if elected, he will work toward this goal.

Answering the question concerning the "dayman line" they both made clear that there is no such thing. They both stated that they have never voted "against" the social organizations, that is, they have never opposed any action that would have been beneficial to the fraternities and sororities.

Reetz added that he has abstained from voting when he felt that the question was out of the daymen's sphere of interest. Zakrison stated that he has never abstained from any vote.

Accuracy Cited

In the presentation of a controversial issue to the administration, both Reetz and Zakrison feel that getting an accurate picture of the overall student opinion is of prime importance. The next step, according to them, would be the presentation of the issue to the administration and the request for action.

Reetz also stated that he would seek the reasons for any action, pro or con, so that the students would have a clearer picture of administration policy. Carrying the subject further, Reetz said that if the administration returned an unfavorable verdict on what seemed to be a reasonable request, he would "push the issue further, but not drive it into the ground."

Zakrison said that, if the administration were to issue a negative decision on a request which a majority of the students continued to support, he would like to see conference periods established during which student representatives from the various organizations could present the views of their respective groups.

Snow Causes Change In Church Day Plans

Because of the heavy snow storm last week, Church Day has been rescheduled for Saturday, April 26. Visiting Albright at that time will be 227 Evangelical United Brethren high school students, mostly juniors.

Their visit has been arranged to acquaint them with the campus and see the opportunities that the college offers.

The day's program will begin with registration in Krause Hall at 9:30 a.m.

Discussion

Following registration, a discussion of the career opportunities at Albright will be led by Mrs. Anna H. Smith, associate professor of home economics, Marcus H. Green, associate professor of biology, Thurman R. Kremser, instructor in mathematics and physics, and Robert S. Smethers, Jr., director of church relations.

A discussion period will follow brief talks by these people.

Campus tours, informal visits to the dormitory rooms and personal interviews will end the day.

Chairman of the committee for Church Day is William Garrett, '59.

Director Cites Summer Class

Dr. Luther F. Brossman, acting director of the 1958 summer sessions, has announced that students desiring to attend the summer sessions are urged to contact the office of the registrar soon with respect to this matter.

A survey of the faculty has indicated the possibility that a variety of courses will be offered; more than 30 members have indicated their availability for the summer sessions.

The summer session is designed for the student who wishes to accelerate his program of study, make up for a scholastic deficiency, or concentrate on a course of study which would otherwise not fit into his regular winter program. No course can be guaranteed unless there are at least six enrollees.

The 1958 summer sessions will be of eight weeks' duration, beginning Monday, June 23 and ending Friday, August 15. Students may earn up to nine semester hours credit.

To date students have indicated interests in courses in accounting, chemistry, physics, education (educational psychology and visual aids), history (particularly American history and classical civilization), mathematics, philosophy, statistical psychology, religion, sociology and Spanish.
