Parents Weekend Opens Next Friday With Mardi Gras

Complete plans for Albright's 12th annual Parents' Weekend Program, to be held next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, were released this week by Vincent Gentile, '52, general chairman of the festivities.

Highlighting the Friday events will be the traditional Mardi Gras celebration to be held in the stadium from 8 to 11 p. m.

On Saturday morning breakfast will be served for the parents from 7:15 to 7:30, followed by registration from 9:30 to 12 in Selwyn Hall. There will be open house for all campus buildings, including men's and women's dorms, and a coffee hour sponsored by Women's Student Senate in Selwyn Hall. At 12:15 luncheon will be served in the dining hall.

The May Queen coronation will begin at 2 o'clock and at 3 in the stadium there will be a track meet between Albright and Ursinus.

Earl A. Master, principal of Reading Senior High School, will be the featured speaker at the parents' banquet to be held at 6 o'clock in Krause Hall, with Jack Gounder, special events director of radio station WEEU, as master of ceremonies. Music for the affair will be provided by John McKenna, '50.

At 8:30 the orchestra and glee clubs will conduct a spring music festival in the auditorium of Northeast Junior High School under the combined direction of Dr. John Duddy and Hans Nix, with Jack Greenspan, '52, as student director.

Sunday's activities include breakfast from 8:30 to 8:45, tree planting ceremony at 10 sponsored by the Pi Alpha Tau sorority and a parents' worship service in Krause Hall with Rev. Eugene H. Barth as speaker. Dinner will be served in the dining hall at 1 o'clock.

Gentile stated that reservations for all the events can be placed with him beginning today.

14 Groups in Mardi Gras

Fourteen campus organizations will take part in the annual Mardi Gras celebration scheduled to take place on Friday, May 9 in the Albright College Stadium. In case of rain, the event will take place on Thursday, May 15.

The groups participating in the affair, which is sponsored by student council, are: Alpha Pi Omega, (Continued on Page 4)

Diplomat to Speak at Commencement

Contest Set For May 7

The annual oratorical contest, sponsored by Charles S. (Pop) Kelchner, will be held on Wednesday evening, May 7 at 8 o'clock in the college chapel. The contestants were chosen from the speech classes of Mrs. A. V. Skirk and Dr. Samuel Shirk and will speak on subjects of their own choice.

Prizes of $15, $10, and $5 will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners.

Participants in the contest are Gordon Oplinger, John Russell, John Fetterman, John Speir, Theodore Tietge and Michael Silverklyte.

The orations will be judged by a board of judges consisting of Mrs. Frank Voss, Dr. J. B. Douds, and Prof. Clyde Harding.

Kelchner will also be present to award the prizes to the winners.

105 to Graduate If Requirements Are Met

One hundred and five members of the class of 1952 will graduate on Sunday, June 8, if they fulfill all requirements before that time, the dean's office announced this week.

Anna R. Benninger, registrar, reminded all seniors that it is necessary for them to make formal application for the degree which they expect. This is necessary, she said, so that the correct names may appear on the diplomas.

Seniors were reminded last week by the treasurer's office that the graduation fee of $15 is now due.

Nearly 100 Outstanding Achievement Awards Given At Mantle Ceremony

Buch and Schmidt Formally Installed

Awards for outstanding achievement in various Albright College organizations during the present term were presented to nearly 100 students Tuesday morning during the traditional mantle ceremony program by Dr. Harry V. Masters, president of the institution.

At the same time, James R. Buch, of Mt. Penn, was installed as 1952-53 student council president by Russell F. Weigley, retiring council head. The red and white mantle, symbolic of senior class leadership, was placed on the shoulders of William Schmidt, new president of the class of 1953, by Oscar Mogel, leader of the class of 1952.

Also installed as presidents were Elizabeth Ann Martin, of Women's Student Senate; George Amole, Daymen's organization; Catharine Girvin, daywomen's club; Robert Bieler, class of 1954; and Gordon J. W. Oplinger, class of 1955.

Student council awards were presented to the following seniors: Vincent Gentile, Jack Greenspan, Helen Hasselgren, William A. Heck, Evelyn Nantz, Elliot Sauer-tieg and Weigley.

Gold keys were awarded to three senior members of the editorial board of The Albrightian—Howard J. Platzer, Mariastella G. Kaputo and Heck. Silver keys went to Phoebe Hunter, Michael Lafferty and Weigley, and certificates of

Grigsby Elected New Council Veeep; Members Chosen

Donald Grigsby, '53, defeated Ray Weitzel, '54, for the vice-presidency of the 1952-53 student council by the narrow margin of one vote on the second ballot at the reorganization meeting held last Tuesday.

Other officers elected were: Virginia Marick, '54, corresponding secretary; Phoebe Hunter, '53, recording secretary; and Robert Waldner, '53, treasurer.

In its only other business, council voted to spend nine dollars for Japanese lanterns for use at the Mardi Gras on Friday, May 9.

The following students have been elected to represent their organizations in the new council: Class of 1953, William Schmidt; 1954, Robert Bieler; 1955, Gordon Oplinger.

Comins Listed As Missing Seaman

Ensign John P. Comins, an Albright graduate of June 1951, was among the 176 seamen missing in the collision of the destroyer-minesweeper Hobson and the aircraft carrier Wasp early this week.

A resident of 940 Buttonwood St., Reading, Comins had served aboard the Hobson since last November 15, when he was recalled to active duty from the naval reserve. He received his commission after completing courses in the Naval Reserve Officer Candidate School at Newport, R. I., during the last two summers.

At Albright, Comins was a chemistry major and a member of the Pi Tau Beta fraternity and the Alchemists Club. After graduation he was employed as a sales engineer for a Philadelphia instrument firm.

Glee Club Makes Trip

The Albright College Glee Club made a southern tour last Sunday and Monday under the direction of Dr. John H. Duddy. The members gave concerts at Evangelical United Brethren Churches in Chevy, Md. and Washington, D. C. They also visited high schools in Kennett Square and Downingtown, Pa.

Dr. Charles Malik, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of Lebanon in the United States and Cuba and delegate from Lebanon to the United Nations, will speak at Albright's 93rd commencement exercises on Sunday, June 8, Pres. Harry V. Masters announced yesterday.

The exercises will be held as usual on the college campus. An honorary doctor of laws degree will be awarded to the speaker.

Doctor Malik's most recent U.N. assignment was as vice-chairman of the delegation of Lebanon to the sixth regular session of the General Assembly in Paris. He was a signatory for Lebanon of the United Nations Charter in 1945.

During 1948 Doctor Malik was president of the Economic and Social Council. He has been chairman of the Human Rights Commission since 1951 and governor for Lebanon of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development since 1947.

Born in 1906 in Bitirram, Al-Koura, Lebanon, Doctor Malik received degrees from the American University of Beirut and Harvard University. From 1939-45 he was head of the department of philosophy at the former university.

Doctor Malik has published numerous articles in Arabic, Amer-

Narcotics Experts To Address HEO

The problem of narcotics will be discussed by two representatives of the Pennsylvania Department of Health at the annual banquet of the Heo Club next Thursday, May 8, at 6:15 p. m. in the college dining hall.

Don E. Gillung, chief of the division of narcotic drug control, will speak on narcotic sleeping pills. The marijuana situation will be considered by Barnett Stein-snyder, who is credited with the destruction of more marijuana growing in the state of Pennsylvania than any other man known to the narcotics office.

Nancy Loose, '53, president of the Heo Club, announced that the dinner meeting is open to the public. Those who desire tickets, she said, should secure them from her for $1.50, no later than next Monday.

Is This Really Living?

Occasionally there come to our desk collegiate editorials and other materials which we feel deserve wider attention than the limited circulation which they generally receive. One of these is the following commentary on what society is doing to us, taken from the Park Stylus, publication of Park College, Mo.

Today we live in a society which is dominated by the desire to speed through life without realizing what living actually entails. It is seldom we find a person who has the insight to live his own life and determine his own code of living. We do things because other people are doing them.

The stream is flowing in one direction. Most of us float or drift along with the current because living is easier that way. A few people buck the current in trying to go their own way, find themselves carried along by the on-rushing stream, and against their own desires they are driven to accept the way of society.

The reformer of society today is the person who can have the insight to stand on the bank of the stream watching the on-rushing current. In seeing the stream of public opinion and action rushing madly to its final destruction, the person on the bank may be able to use his intelligence to build dikes, dams and reservoirs.

In building these controls, the thoughtful person can mold the stream of society by changing its current into a stream which might benefit mankind and the civilization to come.

Why not be the person who stands aside considering and analyzing the direction the stream is taking? Seeing the society may be rushing headlong to its ultimate destruction, the pensive person may investigate the building of a dam or dike which could aid in preserving the profitable elements in our society.

As one Park student phrases it:

It is endeavoring to make me one of the majority.

The age is trying to place its stamp upon me.

It wants me to listen to blank radio commercials.

To go TV mad.

To try the latest Hadocol-type product.

To view the nearest car with longing.

To hate the Russians.

To absorb the Reader's Digest and Colliers and gospel.

To wave my flag above the boys in Korea.

I rebel.

I want to run from it all.

There must be an escape,

But am I capable of finding it?

Howard

Our senior personality this week is a future insurance agent, Howard Platzker, who is originally from New York City. Already well started in his career, he plans to work for the Harvard Fire Insurance Company this summer. His immediate plans after leaving Albright are to go in for his M.B.A. degree at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

A business administration student, Howard is also a member of Domino Club, the Cue and the debating team and business manager of The Albrightian. A quick rundown on his vital statistics shows that he is 21 years old, single, 5' 8½" tall, weighs 165 and has brown hair and blue eyes.

A sophomore named Carol, from Bryn Mawr College, heads this Albrightian's list of favorites. However, the theatre, show business and show music have captured second place.

Twilight Fancy

Fair Lilith, vision come to haunt the heart of man, was once ingressed, made manifest in perfect form, but soon thereafter snatched away—her beauty much too fair for Adam's clumsy grasp. And yet, you still remain, my darling, in the light that lingers auburn on the evening clouds, the stars one nearly sees in clusters dimly overhead, the breeze one almost feels on sultry summers' nights.

For you, did Alexander, warring man, feel welling from within, from within remorse, when finding he could conquer no more worlds. For you, the flag, Excelsior, a banner clutched in frozen hands, was placed upon the Alpine peak; the lad who'd put it there—a form laid lifeless, high above his native village, cold amid the brittle hush of shifting snows. And Faustus, wild with Satan's whirlings, thought he'd found you as he pressed his face to Helen's lovely lips.

By candlelight, you seek the scholar's solemn room and faintly flicker in the shadow forms that dance across the walls. You stir the soul of empire, as a hundred myriads each morning wake to meet the urge of day. The politician—even he—will cease his marble-mouthed mongering and pause to pay you heed. And Lilith, you awake the will-to-wanderlust—our lost young men are seeking for they know not what, showing to the world a smile, but inside burning fierce for visions not held.

Damn the dawn whose twilight first aroused you! An eye flirting on forever out of reach your subtle presence vaguely mocks the flight of Adam's half-completed mind. Once John, through swollen eyes, had thought he'd seen you, as he sat amid a circle of sarcastic friends, his festered sores engulfing him.

Victors, schemers, lovers, dreamers, all that host of searching souls which flits across the page of written time, have lived in longing quest—and died. And now, in hours of glowing fancy, while the auburn clouds turn purple and purple passes black, I think I see you flutter in the dying sunset, where you wait for me beyond the hill. And when the stars come out, I'll come to you. I sense you out there somewhere, strolling the horizon's rim through twilights of the world.

Noticeable Notes

Students of Winter Haven High School, Florida, were not allowed to appear on the same platform with students from a Negro school in a Junior Chamber of Commerce oratorical contest. The topic of the contest was "I Speak For Democracy."

Charlie's Tour of Albright

Much has been written about the Merner-Peiffer Hall of Science at Albright College, so much, in fact, that the real root of the trouble, the administration building, has been sadly neglected. Let's leave these scientists to their test tubes and proteins and maxima and explore the "ad" building. We'll enter the building via the "fire tower," so called because its chimney-like structure makes it a wonderful place for a fire.

The building is of rather curious architecture. Some authorities hold that it was patterned after the labyrinth of the Minotaur, but the generally accepted theory was that it was designed by Thorndike as a sequel to his famous puzzle box.

On the first floor we find several doors, leading into various offices. One of these is the treasurer's office, where students are wrung out and spin-dried. (Don't mind the screams, lady, they don't feel a thing.)

Next to this room is one only a few inches deep, containing only a bulletin board. To the uninitiated a bulletin board may seem unimportant, but to those who are really in the know, it's ridiculous. A bulletin board is a large, soft area into which thumbtacks are pushed. Scraps of paper are placed under the tack heads to assist in their removal. The reason for placing one's thumbtack on the board has vanished into antiquity, but the tradition has lingered on.

Across the hall from the bulletin board is a large classroom, in which a class in general psychology is in session. Each student is watching his neighbor with an I-wonder-if-he's-one-of-those-manics - the prof - was - talking about - look on his face. Some students are studying "instruments of precision," such as the kymograph, the electroencephalograph, the Keeler polygraph, and Mosso's ergograph.

Prof's Campaign

By now, all you students have probably taken your pens in your grimy little paws and written your honest opinion on those teacher evaluation sheets, so perhaps it is a little late for us to suggest any sweeping reforms. It's not that we don't like the system. We think it's a jim-dandy system.

We just wanted to see those profs get out and campaign a little for their write-ins. What this campaign needs is a knock-down, drag-out campaign, with teachers knocking themselves out being lovable—a campaign a la cigarette ads. Can't you see the posters along Maple Lane now? . . .

"Old Prof. Molds Gives You a Head Instead of a Headache!"

Professor Schmitze O'Kelly, teacher of Greek, says:

"Alpha, always lenient; Beta, bright and cheerful; Gamma, cuts allowed here—Alpha, Beta, Gamma!"

And hear what Professor Shusle proclaims about his course, "Sex, Marriage, and Other Phenomena":

"My classes are fast as a ride by toboggan;

"I filter the stuff on the way to your noggin!"

Then there's the comic strip type add, the story of a daredevil who smokes Elephants to relax. Its college counterpart could be this:

"Boy genius Ace Adams has had many varied and hair-raising experiences in his career, but when all is said and done, he likes to relax and catch up on his sleep in Prof. Deepend's cozy 68b class."

Finally, we could have evaluations of our profs by time-honored cigarette tests. We have recently tried this in our T-zones (T for tests and T for term papers) and now we give you facts, not claims! Now the truth can be told!

Albright teachers are longer, cooler and give downright long-lasting satisfaction. And they're milder. Much milder.—P. D. W.

Two students are comparing graphs. "Look," says one, "I have an alpha-galvanovascularomicanolograph record with a negative correlation of .7602!" "Isn't that romantic?," says his companion. "Mine is .7603!" They embrace warmly and the alpha-galvanovascularomicanolograph is practically forgotten.

Wandering down the hall, we come to another office. "Dean and Registrar" warns a small sign above the door. Here the schedules are worked out for the students, so that conflicts and Saturday classes can be arranged as effectively as is inhumanly possible. To prevent the students from being poisoned by the grub served in Krause Hall, classes are arranged so no students have time to eat lunch.

When increased enrollment a few years ago threatened to set a few students free at noontime, two nonsense courses were introduced to occupy the students' time. One, for want of an honest name, is called Science Fundamentals; the other is called Social Science Fundamentals. Both courses drum up plenty of cases on which budding young psychiatrists may practice.

As classes change we wander back into the classroom. Now a philosophy class is in full swing. The professor of course is professing, the class is divided between two occupations, taking notes and taking naps. Strangely enough, the note-takers seem to hold a minority, a minority of one, in fact. The professor is discussing the relative morality of sundry this's and that's.

Suddenly a hand shoots up (connected to a student by a long, hairy arm.) The professor yields the floor (and part of one wall) and the student asks the age-old question, "Is an immoral act moral if the end justifies the means?"

Inquiring Reporter

It's leapyear . . . (and if you think this is a column of advice for bachelors "And How to Stay That Way" don't read any more.) Nope, it's not that kind of proposal we are about to propose as one that ought to be (proposed, that is.) Wouldn't it be interesting to see the reactions to a faculty report card? Disastrous? Well, maybe—but interesting? Mais oui! We cornered several Albrightians for the following replies to the query, "Why I do (or do not) feel there should be a student evaluation of the faculty."

Jean Schaeffer '55—I do not think such an evaluation would be impersonal on the part of some students.

Nancy Geissler '55—I think personal prejudices might enter into the evaluating.

Janet Gehres '53—I think it would be wise to have such an evaluation. The students should have some say about the kind of instruction they're getting for their money.

Barbara Ravel '53—An intelligent evaluation would certainly be a worthwhile aid to both faculty and students.

Richard Witmoyer '52—If the faculty can spot those evaluations which are the result of a thoughtful, sincere appraisal, such criticism should be helpful and welcomed by the professors.

Martha Little '54—There should be an evaluation of the faculty, but students as a group do not have the background to do the judging.

Galen Klinger '52—I think there should be an evaluation and action on the basis of the results.

Richard Ziegler '52—It's been successfully done at other colleges with benefits to both students and faculty.

Bud Carney '52—There are certain aspects of the evaluation which I don't think students are capable of determining.

Lion Diamondmen Resume Action Against Bucknell

In the Lion's Den

By Tom Masters

One for the Records

Charley Martone's no-hitter last week was the first in Albright's baseball history and the honor couldn't have happened to a more deserving pitcher. "Hooker" knew he had a chance all along and he bore down all the way. We just hope he didn't strain his arm by putting on that extra pressure in the late innings. If not, we can look forward to some more good pitching from that trusty left arm before the season is out.

A Suggestion

Now that the intra-mural softball schedule has been worked out with only five teams entered, the need for at least a sixth team is apparent. Our own suggestion for that sixth franchise is a faculty team which, by playing a concentrated schedule, could get in the required number of games.

No one would question the faculty's collective ability to "talk" a good game, but there's also the prospect of Dr. Kistler as a fielding sensation at second base and Dean Smith being the first to accomplish the oft-dreamed-of feat of breaking a window in the A.D. Building. They also are rumored to be well stocked with glue-fingered outfielders.

These last thoughts arouse pity for the rest of the teams in the league, but we still think a faculty team would be a good thing for everyone involved.

Great Start

The spectacular early-season showing by the track squads has knocked this corner's pessimistic words in the last issue into the proverbial cocked hat. The squad has shown lots of stamina with the points being split up more

Several Schedule Changes Announced

Rain and cancellations have played havoc with Albright's spring sports schedule, necessitating many schedule changes.

Eugene L. Shirk, faculty manager of athletics, has announced the following changes and additions: Saturday, May 3, baseball vs. Dickinson, home; Tuesday, May 6, tennis vs. Bucknell, away; Saturday, May 24, track vs. P. M. C., away.

The baseball game with Wagner on April 26 was cancelled as was tomorrow's game with Susquehanna. The postponed tennis match with Ursinus will be rescheduled either May 14 or 20.

Weather Plays Havoc With Intramural Card

The weather has played a very important part in the intra-mural softball standings this year. Out of six scheduled games only two have been played to date.

The Pi Tau's, behind the hurling of Lou Hallock, knocked off the Frank's on April 21. In the only other game, the A.P.O.'s walloped K.T.X. 21-1 with Max Nuscher getting credit for the win.

The rained out games of last Thursday, the Rebels vs. A.P.O.'s and Franks vs. K.T.X., have been rescheduled for this afternoon. No date has been set for postponed games on Tuesday.

Gulianmen Defeat Elizabethtown, 8-7

Bow to Lebanon Valley, 5-4, in Ninth Inning

In diamond action on April 17 and 19, the Albright tossers split two decisions with Elizabethtown and Lebanon Valley. On Thursday, April 17, they stopped the Blue Jays, 8-7, and then lost to the Dutchmen at Annville on April 19, 5-4.

The E-town contest looked like a rout in the early innings as the visitors hopped off to a 7-1 lead after three and a half innings against "Hook" Martone. Two errors, two walks and a double resulted in three runs in the first inning and four more were added before the victors came to life.

A five-run uprising in the fifth put the Lions ahead to stay. Wechter walked Amole, Smith, Harback and Moyer before Tony D'Appolito socked a two-bagger to clear the sacks. The winning run came over as second baseman Bolton booted Stoneback's grounder. Martone gave up only four hits while the hosts got twice that number.

Albright's first setback came against Lebanon Valley, 5-4. Freshman Ed McNeil relieved Gerry Potts in the seventh and held the Dutchmen hitless, but he over-threw first base in the last of the ninth to allow Richie Furda to score from second with the winning run.

The Lions tallied four runs in the fifth to take a 4-2 lead. "Hook" Martone's homer with Tony D'Appolito aboard was the big blow of the inning. The Dutchmen tallied once in the sixth and seventh to tie the score. Albright then loaded the bases with two away in the eighth, whereupon Connie Detting laced a screaming drive to left that landed just foul.

Racketeers Break Into Win Column With Victory Over Muhlenberg, 5-4

Clash with St. Joseph's At Home Tomorrow

In action tomorrow for the first time since April 22, Albright's tennis team will face the netmen of St. Joseph's College on the home courts. Coach Leo Bloom's performers will be gunning for their second victory of the season. Next week they are busy Monday and Wednesday at home against Moravian and F. and M. and travel to Bucknell on Tuesday for a postponed engagement.

Last Friday's match with Catholic University was cancelled because of rain, but last Saturday's encounter with Ursinus will be scheduled either May 14 or 20.

In their last three matches the Lions have won but one, over Muhlenberg, 5-4, on April 22. It was their fifth one point decision of the season and the first one to go their way. The week before they lost to Elizabethtown, 5-4, and Dickinson, 7-2.

Meet Bisons In Contest At Lewisburg

Dickinson Furnishes Opposition Tomorrow

After basking in idleness for a week and a half following the postponement of the Dickinson game last Monday, the Albright baseballers will head north for Lewisburg this afternoon and an engagement with the Bucknell Bisons.

Slated to take the mound for Coach Eddie Gulian's array is Charlie Martone in his first start since twirling a no-hitter against Muhlenberg. Last year the Bisons beat Paul Muller, 3-1, but two years ago Martone was on the hill as the Lions took a 5-4 decision.

Potts to Hurl

Tomorrow Gerry Potts will hurl against Dickinson at 15th and Bern in a game rescheduled from last Monday. The big lefty will be looking for his first victory of the season.

In contests scheduled for next week the diamond forces will be home on Monday and Thursday to Moravian and Lebanon Valley. If the rotation continues to be regular, Martone and Potts will work, in that order, the latter hoping to get revenge on the Dutchmen for a 5-4 trimming at Annville.

Mattenmen Sport Two-One Record

Coach Paul Matten's Albright linksmen have one date this week, against F. and M. at Lancaster on Tuesday. They have been the only spring sports team to date which has not lost a contest due to rain.

In their first three matches of the season the linksmen took two decisions. They walloped Moravian, 9-0, at the Reading Country Club, April 21, and also downed Dickinson on April 25 at the Carlisle Country Club, 6-3. On April 24, they traveled to West Chester and bowled to the Rams, 8-1.

Bob Batdorf, Lion captain, has yet to lose this season.

Albright, 6; Dickinson, 3. Bob Batdorf, Albright, defeated Bill McGovern; Jim Rutter, Albright, defeated P. Barna, Albright won best ball. Jesse Becker, Albright, defeated Pete Resler; Bill Carroll, Albright, defeated Dick Blair, Albright won best ball; Herb Sacks, Dickinson, defeated Kenny Kohl; C. Anderson, Dickinson, defeated George Smuts; Dickinson won best ball.

Trackmen Launch Season With Three Victories

Hurls No-Hitter

Charlie (Hook) Martone, Albright captain and number one moundsman, who entered the first no-hitter in the college's history in the record books last week with a 7-0 victory over Muhlenberg. It was his and the team's third victory of the season.

Martone Holds Mules Hitless

Senior Hurler First To Accomplish Feat

An April 22, Charles "Hook" Martone, Albright's chunky left-hander, entered baseball's select circle by hurling a 7-0 no-hit, no-run victory over the Muhlenberg college nine. It was the first no-hitter for Martone in four years of collegiate hurling and the first one in Albright's baseball history. In holding the Mules hitless, Hook faked only twenty-nine men. He walked Stryker in the third inning and one other Mule reached first via an error by second sacker Micky Harback in the fifth.

The Lions scored their initial counter in the first frame off starter Gordon Latzko when Tony D'Appolito forced Blackie Moyer at second, went to third on Martone's single, and scored on Connie Detting's fly to center.

D'Appolito opened the fourth with a walk, moved to third on Martone's single, and scored as Detting hit to right center. Latzko was then replaced by Art Henne who was greeted with a run producing single by Ray Stoneback. George Amole then doubled down the left field line to score both Detting and Stoneback.

In the eighth, four successive singles by Willie Smith, Lefty Leitham, Harback and Moyer produced the sixth and seventh runs for the Lions.

Moyer, while leading the Red and White with three singles, saved Martone's no-hitter in the fourth with a beautiful diving catch of Miano's low liner over second.

While fanning nine, Hook was occasionally rapped for drives to left and right field. Of the other two hard hit balls, one was handled nicely by Harback, while the other turned into a double play.

Relay Team Finishes Fourth at Penn Relays

Starting their season with a bang, Coach Gene Shirk's Albright trackmen have tallied three straight victories in dual meet competition.

Beginning on April 17 the thin-clads pulled out a 65-61 decision over Dickinson on the losers' cinders. On April 19 they downed Lebanon Valley, 81-49, in a meet run in conjunction with the Berks County Invitation Meet at the stadium, and then traveled to Allentown to upset Muhlenberg, 77-49, on April 22.

In their most recent competition a mile relay team composed of Kretzing, Tenley, Frankouser and Becker placed fourth in a field of 18 at the Penn Relays on April 26. Finishing ahead of the Shirkmen were La Salle, Alfred and F. and M., in that order, although the Lions defeated the Dips in the trials.

APOs Adopt Junior Group; Pats Plan Spring Weekend

Pledge Induction Listed for Monday

The Alpha Pi Omega fraternity this week officially adopted the Junior Optimist Club, a group of 15 boys ranging from 10 years to 15 and sponsored by the Reading Optimist Club.

The fraternity will entertain the group at its house one night each week. Under the big-and-little-brother system that was established, each APO member will be responsible for one particular boy.

The day students of the fraternity have agreed to carry on the program during the summer months.

William Himelman, '53, was appointed last Monday to head the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity's participation in Mardi Gras. The pledges were commended for aiding the American Cancer Society drive by distributing circulars in the Hampden Heights area.

Pats to Go to Byndenwood

The Spring Weekend of the Pi Alpha Tau will be held May 23 and 24 at Byndenwood. A dinner for the alumnae will be held on May 23. Les Price's orchestra will furnish the music for the dance May 24. Marilyn Miller '53 is in charge of the affair.

The Mardi Gras committee has been appointed with Patricia Eisenhise and Martha Little '54 co-chairmen.

Induction of pledges is on the agenda for the next meeting, Monday, May 3. Inductees are: Sarah Aicher, Roslyn Cowen, Jean Filbert, Sheila Samuels, Claire Speidel, Lorraine Wagner and Theresa Winkler, all '55.

Mus Schedule Dance

On Monday, May 3, the Phi Beta Mu sorority will have induction for its pledges. (Continued from Page 1) inars on "Living Beyond Frustration" at 2 and 7:30 p. m. tomorrow and 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

Recreation periods are listed for 3:30 p. m. tomorrow and 10:30 a. m. Sunday and a fellowship hour for 9 o'clock tomorrow night. The retreat will close with a communion service at 1:30 p. m. Sunday.

In the first session Doctor McKay will discuss "There Are With-in Me Two Men." He will explore the thesis that our insecurity and frustration arise from a cleft in our wills, rather than a cleft in knowledge or in history, and examine the present crisis in the light of the Biblical insight that "The good that I would do, I do not; but the evil that I would not, that I do." The whole discussion will imply a critique of education and the "philosophy of progress."

Doctor McKay will advance some suggestions about the role of faith in facing this crisis in his second address entitled "To Be Not Only Wise." Here his tone will be considerably more constructive than in the first talk. Included in this address will also be the consideration of "the right to believe," and its relationship to an analysis of education and history.

"On Facing The Future," the final address, will be mostly devotional. It will attempt to throw a horizon of realistic hope around the crisis. Doctor McKay will offer some suggestions which he feels are pertinent for the Christian witness in the college and university.

Student Union Building Officially Named Krause Hall

Bishop G. E. Epp and Dr. J. W. Klein Lead Dedication Ceremony

With nearly 200 people attending the ceremony, the student union building on the campus of Albright College was dedicated "Sarah E. Krause Hall" last Saturday at 11:30 a. m.

Bishop George E. Epp, of the eastern area of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, led the litany of dedication which officially named the brick-veneer structure in honor of the wife of the late donor, Lewis D. Krause.

Speaking on the theme "Shadows of the Great," Dr. J. Warren Klein, president emeritus of Albright, paid tribute to Krause's foresightedness, integrity and Christian idealism. Calling Krause "the symbol of all for which Albright stands," Doctor Klein said that "he epitomizes laymen who had the vision and strength to lay the foundations for a Christian lib-

Faculty Evaluation To End Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the last day on which faculty evaluation sheets may be submitted, Ray Weitzel, chairman of the evaluation committee, reminded all students yesterday. They are to be placed in the box provided for that purpose in the dean's office, Weitzel added.

Begun last week, the evaluation is designed to provide each faculty member with an index of responses by which he may judge his effectiveness, Weitzel said. A composite picture of each professor will be presented to him by Dean George W. Walton.

eral arts college."

"Albright College and the Evangelical School of Theology are in large degree the shadow of Lewis D. and Sarah E. Krause," Doctor Klein said. "Whenever anyone looks at this building, he will be conscious of the spiritual presence of these people," he noted.

Robert S. Smethers, Sr., college trustee, said that "the dollar becomes priceless when the great seal of God is added to that of the United States." He too paid tribute to the Krauses.

Accepting Krause Hall on behalf of the students and faculty of Albright, Pres. Harry V. Masters expressed his appreciation for the generosity of the Krauses in making the building possible, and paid tribute to their Christian lives and vision.

The Rev. Oscar A. Hyden, superintendent of the eastern district of the East Pennsylvania Conference (Ev) of the E. U. B. Church, offered the invocation and Dr. Charles E. Kachel, who holds a similar post on the western dis-

As indicated before, the middle distances have been the strongest point, with freshman Harold Kretzing pressing closely on the school record for the quarter mile. Still, the other events have been helping too, with Bruce Tenley gaining points in the dashes and primarily the middle distance runners doubling in the mile and two mile. Rae Hoopes has helped out in the hurdles and Gerry Potts is sailing along in the field events. Jim Barrett broad-jumped well against Lebanon Valley, but the team's prospects were hurt when he injured his foot.

The heaviest part of the schedule is yet to come, especially the three-way meet with St. Joseph's and Haverford.

Girls' Softball

Girls who have been reporting to practices thus far are: Dolores Bedding, June Dryer, Joan Currier, Patricia Upczak, Stela Tryka, Jean Durmitt, Lasca Barbee, Jean Hook, Lorraine Wagner, Jean Filbert, Cynthia Dedekind, Mary Althouse, Jean Sweitzer, Leda Paschke, Yotis, Theresa Winkler, Dorothy Kuettel, Kathlee Carls, Bethlyn Emmett, Betty Martin, Carol Ringler, Lois Gehris, Carole Althouse, Barbara Smith and Roslyn Cowen.

Charlie's Tour

(Continued from Page 2) The ensuing silence is devastating. The students, by using their pocket microscopes, can readily read the professor's mind. "Every year," he thinks, "this infernal problem comes up. Why in purple starred blazes didn't I continue my taxidermy major at Perplexed State?" Taking a deep breath, he launches himself into a long and spectacular dissertation, which, if properly cooked, boils down to "Yee."

A shot destroys the ensuing silence. The professor drops dead. The end justifies the means. A peaceful silence prevails at last. With this cheery note we conclude Part One of Charlie's tours of Albright College. Kindly do not tease the animals.—L. E.

Pi Gamma Mu Holds Regional Banquet

Officers were elected recently for 1952-53 by three campus organizations, the Kappa Tau Chi, honorary pre-ministerial fraternity, Future Teachers of America and the Philosophy club.

The Future Teachers of America elected Patricia Ann Schearer, Reading, as president; Dolores High, vice-president; Nancy Neatock, secretary; and Robert Waldner, treasurer.

Weigley, '52, were inducted into Delta Phi Alpha, honorary German society, at the group's annual spring banquet held Thursday, April 24, at Frank Reeser's Restaurant on the Pottsville Pike.

Officers elected for next year were Robert Waldner, '53, president; Miss Shearer, vice-president; Miss Gruber, secretary, and Barrett, treasurer.

World Government Considered

The idea of a world federal government is a dangerous illusion and should be rejected, Dr. W. Leon Godshall of the department of international relations at Lehigh University said at the eastern Pennsylvania regional banquet of Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science society, held in the Albright dining hall Wednesday, April 23.

New officers of the Albright chapter installed during the banquet ceremonies included Virginia Seems, president; James Hilton, vice-president; Evelyn Kressler, secretary; George Wertz, treasurer; William Himmelman, sentinel, and Patricia Miller, torchbearer, all juniors.

Debate Held with Ursinus

A debate with Ursinus College held Wednesday afternoon, April 23, concluded the season for the Albright debate squad. Upholding the affirmative for Albright against Ursinus were Richard Wilmoyner and Russell F. Weigley, '52, while Michael Lafferty, '53, and Barry Koch, '55, debated for the negative. No decision was given.

To Discuss Picnic

Der Deutsche Verein will hold election of officers at its meeting on Thursday, May 8. Plans for the annual spring picnic will also be decided.

The program for the evening will consist of a round table discussion on Carl Schurz.

Skull and Bones Lists Banquet

At their final meeting of the year, Skull and Bones will hold a banquet on Wednesday, May 7 at 6:30 P. M. at Bowers' Country Club. At this time, the officers for the coming year and the club's gift to the biology department will be announced and certificates will be awarded to graduating members.
