

DEBATERS WIN AND LOSE TO INVADING TEAMS

Negative Overcomes Middlebury College 3-0 On Monday After Affirmative Drops Decision to Waynesburg

NEGATIVE TEAMS WIN EASILY

Combined Girls—Schuykill And Men Geneva Debate Held Tuesday, In High School

Getting into action for the first time in several weeks the debating teams of Albright entertained two visiting college teams who were on trips through this section of the country and put up a very creditable showing against the invaders in two keen debates on the chapel rostrum.

In both contests luck was with the negative teams. The undoing of the teams upholding the side of the affirmative argument was the failure to substitute a new satisfactory system for the direct primary, which was the subject for debate. In the first of the two debates the Waynesburg negative team which previously had lost to Muhlenberg and won from Ursinus triumphed over the Albright affirmative, garnering two judges' votes which clinched for them the decision. In the second forensic encounter which came on Monday the Albright negative retrieved the Red and White by a sweeping 3-0 victory over Middlebury College of Vermont.

Affirmative Off Color

Had not the affirmative team been off color on Friday night the vote may not have been what it was. The boys just couldn't get started, it seemed. The consistent Captain Hood was the only member of the team whose debating was commensurate with his usual standard. With their arguing below par, the boys fell easy prey to the counter thrusts of the Negative after they had succeeded in tearing out the direct primary system. The Waynesburg boys seemed quite clever in exposing the weaknesses of the affirmative argument, which consisted in finding flaws in the direct primary system. The negative capitalized the failure of the affirmative to propose a new system and contended that had as the direct primary might be, the evils would be corrected in no way by any affirmative proposals, on which they

CHESS TEAM NOSED OUT BY BUCKNELL; END 2d

Local Pawn-Pushers Lose By Lone Point To Bisons Who Win Tri-College Tourney

Albright College chess players lost to Bucknell at Harrisburg, on Saturday night, after Yousse and McCracken missed an easy winning. In the afternoon Bucknell defeated Gettysburg 5 to 1, and then tackled the Albright players in the evening, winning by the score of 3½ to 2½. Although McCracken played what he called a good game, it was only his usual poor exhibition, at places even falling below his former standards. As the result of the three matches Bucknell nosed out Albright by a one-point lead. The line-up:

INTERCLASS INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE FORMED: OPEN SEASON SOON

First Game Will Be Played After Easter Recess; Schedule Calls For Twelve Games Between Four Classes—No Player Limit

A new sport will soon appear on the Albright Campus. In less than a month the four classes will be vying with each other on the indoor baseball diamond. This was decided at the last meeting of the men's senate when the boys decided to inaugurate an inter-class indoor baseball league, the season of which will begin immediately after Easter recess. The senate decided that this would be the most effective method of offering all the boys on the campus a chance to engage in sports. All of the men students are eligible, there being no limit on the number of players which the clubs may carry on their roster. Competition will be open to everyone, except members of the varsity team.

This is the first year that indoor baseball will be played on the Albright campus. Although it is comparatively a new game, it is gaining rapidly in popularity, and should prove to be a very attractive intracollegiate sport. The playing of the game is essentially the same as baseball. Instead of using the regulation Spalding or Reach spheroid, a playground ball will be used, which is larger and much softer. The diamond is somewhat smaller than the baseball diamond, while the bats are also a little different in construction and shape, being somewhat smaller than those used by the big-leaguers in their slugging contests.

In all twelve games will be played in the league, which begins its season April 17th. The pennant race will last until May 24th, when the Juniors and Frosh play the last game.

MR. LUBOLD BUSY RECATALOGING LIBRARY

New Filing Cabinet Installed As Books Are Arranged According To A. L. A. Classification

For the last two weeks Mr. Lubold who has accomplished wonders in the library during his two years as librarian has been very busy directing the reclassification and reorganization of the Albright library. Although the work is far from being completed at the present time, much has been done and a great amount of progress has been achieved towards the realization of a thoroughly modern library.

At the beginning of this week a new filing cabinet was installed, which contains the list of all the books that have been recataloged in the last two years are being arranged according to the American Library Assn. classification. Most of the cards in this new cabinet are congressional library cards, while those which could not be secured from this source have been typed in keeping with the congressional plan.

In this new classification of books the Dewey decimal system will be employed, which will greatly aid in the location and finding of the books in the library. The efficiency of the library will be increased greatly. It will consequently be of more service to the students.

Under the new arrangement the books will be divided into their various

Dr. C. A. Bowman, President of Albright College, is expected to return to the college some time tomorrow, to again take up his duties as the school head, which have been in the hands of others since February 10th, when he set sail for Europe.

On his return voyage, President Bowman will be aboard the S. S. Berengaria, largest and most prized steamer of the Cunard Line, the same one which he sailed for Europe. The Berengaria set sail from Southampton last Saturday, March 24th and is scheduled to arrive in port at New York some time today. It is expected that Dr. Bowman will not return to his home until tomorrow.

ALBRIGHT NINE OPENS SEASON AT HOME TOMORROW

Philadelphia Osteopathy Will Furnish Opposition To Wellermen In First Game of Season

SHERID DOES MOUND DUTY

Line Up Uncertain As Unfavorable Weather Cuts Down Practice

Tomorrow the Albright College nine will cross bats with the strong Philadelphia Osteopathy team on the home diamond at 2:30 P. M. in the first game of the season. Coach Weller who was handicapped in training and grooming his team because of the unfavorable weather was not able to release his starting line up on Tuesday, because the boys had not had time to work out sufficiently and to show their goods. However, the Albright team that takes the field tomorrow will be something like this:

c—Hartzell, Gilbert, Thomas.
p—Sherid, Hamil, Strickler.
1b—Hughes.
2b—Clemens, Wentz, Karlip.
ss—Slaughter, Wentz.
3b—Waltkus.
rf—Shoop.
cf—Hamil, Clemens.
lf—Brown.

Of course this is no indication of the batting order that will be followed. That will not be made out until the day of the game.

Sherid In Box

The game will start with Sherid, the Albright hurling ace probably on the mound. If the big boy is not in the box when the umpire calls "play ball" either Hamil, the former Shippensburg hurler, or "Pepe" Strickler, will be slated for work on the hill. All three of them have been practicing for some time, and seem to be in good shape for the opening of the season. Although Sherid was favored to get the assignment on Tuesday, Coach Weller was a little uncertain about his first chucker, as he was about most other positions on the team. Behind the bat either Hartzell or Gilbert will start, with Thomas also available for "bull pen" duty.

Big Harry Hughes seems to have the first bascock clinched. Harry has been going good in practice, and the big boy should be very able to hold down the first base job and make a good job at it. DeBolt has been cavorting around the cushion and may act as understudy for Hughes.

GIRLS' NEGATIVE TEAM LOSES TO TEMPLE AWAY

Philadelphia Girls Snare Majority Of Open Forum Votes In Keenly Contested Debate

The Albright Girls' Negative Debating team made a delightful trip to Philadelphia, Wednesday, where they met the Temple University Girls affirmative.

The question for debate was, Resolved: That the direct primary system of nominating state and national officials should be abandoned. The negative team was represented by Virginia Zener, Henrietta Spangler, Norma Michael, and Pearl Ansel, alternate.

Throughout the debate each team showed the result of concentrated preparation, and both quantity and quality of ready material. The affirmative team, upheld by the Temple girls, pointed out the weaknesses of the direct primary, and as a substitute advanced the Nomination by Petition System which was simply "crushed" by the Albright negative in their efforts to uphold the direct Subscribers, the Bulletin which has been serving you faithfully now needs your support. To date only a few more than a half of your number have paid their two dollars for the Bulletin Subscription. Ninety have come across, while there are still eighty-five to hear from.

At the present time the Bulletin is in dire financial straits. It is doubtful whether there will be enough money to complete the year, unless a good number of subscription checks are received. The Bulletin can not live and survive on enthusiasm alone. It must be backed up by hard, substantial dollars. We will furnish the former if you will furnish the latter. OUR POLICIES

1. Fair treatment for all.
2. Full support of all student enterprises.
3. Athletics for all.
4. Progress in all respects—curricular and extra-curricular.
5. Increased student activity and honor.
6. An Albright individuality.

FOR SOME TIME it has been one of our campus problems to find a form of Athletics that would interest and include everyone. There have been different policies tried in the interests of ATHLETICS FOR ALL, but none of them seemed to be satisfactory to those who do not participate in varsity athletics. A lot of interest has been attached to this problem, and at last the Men's Student Gov't. have found what they believe to be a solution to it, in the form of an Indoor Ball League.

This game is played out of doors, on a smaller diamond than is used in regular base-ball game. A regulation playground ball is used, and special bats, somewhat smaller than the ones used in an official game are used.

This league is for one and all, (except those on the regular varsity squad). Each class will be allowed to register as many men as they wish to. Get into the swing and spirit of this new undertaking and help put it over. Get practised up over the vacation, so you'll be in good condition and ready to whip in there and help your class to a championship.

Rules will be published at a later date, while the following schedule has been arranged to begin right after Easter vacation ends.

LAST MONDAY MORNING before a group of practice teachers Professor Zener explained the attitude of various supervising principals who had written to him for recommendations concerning some of our Seniors who were applying for work in various high schools.

It seemed that among other things a question of some importance is usually ask concerning the amount and kind of community service rendered by the applicants. This phase of a student's life is considered very important. What kind of work does the student do outside of the class room and school. Is he one-sided?

This is a side of Albright that has not been developed except in so far as the student participates in extra-curricular activities on the campus.

Does the college render any definite service to Myerstown or any community in which the pupils participate in a definite manner to receive real training in community work so that when they have taken up their work as a teacher they can step into some phase of community life and be of real service to the people that he is to devote his life to serve?

We feel that there is a need for this kind of education to fit the pupil for life's work. Should not the college foster some activity of this kind and encourage especially those training for social work and professional service.

THE WORK OF RECATALOGUEING the College Library is well under way. Mr. Lubold is devoting all his spare time to this work and has been assisted in a voluntary by a large number of fellows and girls, who were anxious to help him in his task. The new decimal system will improve the efficiency one hundred percent.

We are aware of the necessity for a good library since we consider a college an "Organized opportunity for self-education." We take off our hats in respect to Mr. Lubold and his work in the Albright Library, as an important factor in our education.

Wigg—On one of those fast trains the extra fare is refunded if the train arrives late.

Wagg—Yes, and I hear that all Seatchmen on it are chained to the seats to keep them from reaching the bell-cord!

Applicant—The employment agency sent me here. They say you want a servant.

Housewife—But I do all the work myself.

Applicant—Then the place will suit me exactly.

FROM OUR MAIL BAG

1502 N. 12th St., Reading, Pa.,
 February 18, 1928.

My dear Editor:

Would you consider it an impertinence if I should again write a few "follow-up" lines, through you, to my friends at Albright? In many respects, my visit to the college over the third and fourth of February was a revelation. This may be taken in two ways, but I am now thinking of the many bright and hopeful reactions received on every hand. It was all so impressive that I have been overjoyed with the possibilities for good that are locked up right now in the situation at Albright College. I say "locked up" because I fear the students themselves do not fully appreciate the truth I am expressing.

I want to confess that during the last several years I myself took a rather passive attitude toward life at Albright, as I think most of us alumni did. It was not that we were not interested, but we retreated into a den of self-satisfaction feeling that everything and everybody was taking perfectly good care of themselves and not only did not need, but did not care for our assistance. The time has come, however, when it becomes only too apparent that sleep means death. We awoke with a start. Our policy has changed. We know that things will not take care of themselves, but will make for constructive achievement only as the result of aggressive effort and an active loyalty. The alumni are "on the job" with the intention of staying there.

I want to thank you for the fine editorial in the alumni number of the "Bulletin" on "The Greater Albright." That showed real spirit, and spirit of the right kind. I wish someone with even more emphasis and persuasive power than I possess could impress the students with the necessity for the strongest and most wholesome constructive attitude possible at this particular time. There will be a tendency to drift back into indolence and perhaps traditional criticism as the monotony of daily routine erases the memory of those two happy alumni days. We must not yield to the impulse. I sincerely believe our mid-year assembly was epochal in the history of Albright. Let history determine.

The question that recurs again and again in my own mind is, How can I help the boys? Then the skeptical query, I wonder whether they care? I think the mid-year assembly answered the latter question. But the first still puzzles me. I would welcome any suggestion that you students might make, which would indicate some tangible way in which I might personally, as leader of the alumni group, or in which the alumni as a whole, might render a truly constructive service to the college. This does not mean that we have money that we know not how to use, but if we have any personal values that can be invested in student life, to the extent of our ability we are eager to make an investment.

If writing a little note now and then will encourage you, we will gladly write. If we can answer some of your questions (not examination!) we should be glad to do it. If there is any occasion or function whereupon our presence would have special significance or value, we would willingly take time to journey to Myerstown, if no previous engagement prevented.

I want everyone to feel that we mean "business" from now on. Those of us who "got awake" on February 3rd are going to remain awake, and we'll not give the others any rest until they wake up too.

This message is becoming too lengthy, but one more matter should again be touched upon. I think I have made the college-merger situation as clear as it can be made in my former article, and needless argument of whatever nature only serves to complicate the truth in the minds of some. Let me offer a suggestion for your guidance. Human nature delights in indulging extremes; unvar-

FINNEGAN'S FACTS

Old March Wind's up to tricks again, As far as I can see; All day he's stood me on my head, And laughed aloud in glee Because of my predicament— I don't know what I'll do, Unless I turn and laugh, myself, When March has to skiddoo.

keystone season, second base and short stop to a grave question which "Uncle Jake" will have to solve if last year's record of thirteen victories to no defeats is to be matched. Clemons who chased flies in center field for two years has been working out at second as have Wentz and Karlip, both Freshmen who have shown good batting and fielding form. Short stop is also undaunted, the choice lying between Slaughter and Wentz. "Ed" Waitkus will be found at the hot corner.

Outfield Strong

With "Lefty" Shop in right field, Clemens or Hamil in center and "Doug" Brown in left, Albright will have both a strong defensive and hard hitting outfield. Shop has been Albright's leading apple crasher for three years, while all the other gardeners are clever and consistent hitters also. It is an aggregation which will strike fear into the heart of any hurler.

For a comparatively new team, the Wellermen look good on paper and with good pitching as they seem due to receive, should be a hard crew to beat.

"Why didn't you read your lesson over to yourself, as I told you to?" asked Mary's teacher.

"But I did, teacher," said Mary.

"Then why don't you know it better?"

"I suppose I wasn't listening to myself!"

"I knew your first husband—a fine man—he died too soon."

"That's what my present husband says."

PHILOSOPHRIN

I hate to be concerned with petty things
Like pennies—
And watching what I spend;
I'd rather scatter them like reckless Winds,
Who shake pink-petalled boughs, and send
Small armies
Of their colorful delight across the hills.
What do I care if my small purse grows thin
For it will
Soon fill up again—
And happiness be mine.
—Blanche McCauley.

Harry Houséal—I don't know why, but I don't feel a bit like eating.
"Chickie"—I wonder, can one live on love?
(P. S.—Bob Lundy has the same affliction).

She—I hear the Scotchmen are trying to put an end to all the jokes about them.

He—And why?
She—Everyone of them are at a Scotchman's expense.

Wife—Do you know, I have a very small mouth. In the glass it doesn't look large enough to hold my tongue.

Husband (testily)—It isn't!

Y. W. REVIEWS WORK OF ENTIRE YEAR

New Cabinet Will Supersede Old In Near Future

On Tuesday evening, March 20th, the regular Y. W. meeting was conducted by the vice-president, Susanna Heinze. It was a very interesting meeting because it was a resume of the programs and problems presented and discussed throughout the entire year. The meeting was planned in this way because the "old" cabinet is on the verge of stepping out and giving the "new" cabinet full sway.

After the adjournment of the meeting a Y. W. cabinet meeting was called at which the new officers were nominated. Election will take place in a few weeks.

The Fraternity takes great pleasure in announcing the active membership of William R. Shaw, '29.

Mr. Dale H. Gramley, '26 was a visitor of the fraternity a few days ago.

"Ought to have lots of fun with himself."

"Have fun with himself, why?"
"There's so much play in his joints."

"SHORTY MILLER" WRITING VOCATIONAL ARTICLES

Contributing Series of Six To Evangelical Crusader On Life Work Counsel

Mr. Leonard Miller, '20, the assistant director of the J. C. Penney Foundation of New York City, and Vocational Counselor for thousands of young people through the Christian Herald and the Vocational Guidance Service of the J. C. Penney Foundation, is contributing a series of articles to "The Evangelical Crusader" on the general theme "Vocational Counsel."

Mr. Miller's first article appeared in the March 17th issue of The Evangelical Crusader on the subject of "A Few Vocational Hints." The subjects for the rest of his series of articles are:

1. "Sources of Help for Vocational Work."
2. "What Shall I Do After High School?"
3. "How Does Marriage Bear On a Life Work?"
4. "The Summer Vacation; How Use It To Best Advantage."
5. "Following God's Will For My Life."

In connection with these articles there is a question or two bearing upon various situations which make the articles more practicable.

Bob—Have you heard the latest Ford joke?

White—Heard it? Why say, man, I just bought one.

Middlebury Good

The Middlebury team which lost to the counter attacks of the local negative team composed of Wilkes, Flory, and Loucks was composed of three good speakers, who exhibited good speaking form. However, the history of several nights previous repeated itself as the affirmative after revealing and exposing the direct primary in all its weakness failed to point out a road which would lead to any results, although they did advocate abandoning the direct primary and starting all over again on a more rational basis, the basis of which was to be the convention system, which was no worse than the affirmative system, they said. However, after the negative rebuttal speeches the three judges failed to see it that way, and voted unanimously for the negative. The Middlebury speakers were Scott Babcock, Arthur Lehy and Sam Pattee. The judges of the contest were Ray G. Light, atty-at-law, Lebanon, Mr. J. W. Esbenshade, former principal of Lebanon High School, and Mr. R. R. Abernethy, present principal of Lebanon High.

Combined Debate Tuesday

On Tuesday night a combined debate was held in the Myerstown High School auditorium between the girls teams of Albright and Schuylkill, and the Men's teams of Geneva and Albright, the Albright teams upholding the affirmative in both cases. The main speeches were given by the girls, while the men gave the rebuttal speeches. Every speaker spoke eight minutes.

Prof. Rorem, principal of the Lebanon Public Schools acted as expert critic and after his analysis of the debate, the audience voted for the winner. As the Bulletin went to press before this debate was held, the results can not be published until next week.

SKILL

THE twist of the wrist, the "throw" of the arm, the shifting of the weight—these are among the many little points which make the skill that you admire in the javelin thrower as he hurls the shaft two hundred feet or more.

As on the track or the football field, in the gymnasium or on the water, so in industry progress is the result of fine improvements—a thousandth of an inch here—a minute variation in a curve there—slight changes foreseen by engineers and carried out by skilled workmen.

It is this attention to detail that is constantly improving General Electric apparatus and contributing to the electrical industry, which, though still young, is already a dominant force, increasing profit and promoting success in every walk of life.

Whether you find this monogram on an electric refrigerator for the home or on a 200,000-horsepower turbine-generator for a power station, you can be sure that it stands for skilled engineering and high manufacturing quality.

nished truth seems to lack a certain note of impressiveness. On one hand will be those (fortunately few in number) whose note will be disconsolate, discouragingly critical. They will be happy to see the joy of hope vanish from your faces—for will that not prove their pessimism justified! Beware of the "calamity-howler"—he misrepresents—he is an exaggerated type. On the other hand are the over-enthusiastic whose poetic temperaments gain the upper hand as they portray in glowing colors the great tomorrow, and tell us of a magic empire that will arise over night at the wave of a fairy wand. I am going to be dull and prosaic, but as truthful as I know how to be, and say to all of you and to the alumnus, that the future of Albright promises to be all that anyone could reasonably desire—there is in truth going to be a "Greater Albright" in which all of us will find delight. It is a goal worth paying a price for—that price is utmost loyalty and an aggressiveness that can not be defeated. With everyone pulling in the right direction Albright can lose nothing.

Do not allow newspaper reports concerning the consummation of the college merger to influence your thinking unduly. They are frequently unreliable and full of misleading half-truths. Seek information from first-hand sources and then be certain it is fact and not merely someone's interpretation.

Tremendous potentiality for good or ill resides in the attitudes of the authorities, students, and alumni of Albright at the present time. A "turn of the hand" through ill-advised or irrational action could work havoc with the institution we love. But an equal expenditure of energy in the opposite direction will mean the realization of the hopes of the years. We have every reason to be optimistic.

I will let you into a partial secret. It is my purpose to reopen the question of the Alumni Memorial at the meeting of the alumni association in June. For five or six years this matter has lain dormant because of the uncertainties incident to relocation. As early as 1919 the alumni began a fund for the erection of a gymnasium at Myerstown—at the present time $4000.00 in cash is in this fund. I have sufficient confidence in the alumni to believe that this Memorial Fund will be revived and reorganization effected, with a view to the erection at Reading of a suitable memorial to the loyal and heart-interest of the alumni in the "Greater Albright." For this project we will "drive" for $50,000 to $75,000. What form the memorial structure will take, of course, must be re-determined.

I can speak only for myself and my fellow-alumni, but I ask that you trust our leadership and co-operate to bring in the new and better day. Begin "talking up" your Alma Mater as you have never done before—we are with you! Begin securing your High School friends now for next year's freshman class. We want to see a "bumper crop." Some folks have the peculiar idea that Albright is almost dead. I have told them they are "dead" wrong! What do you say? Seventeen years of intimate acquaintance with the life of Albright College has left me convinced of her certain academic immortality. I am counting on you, my friends, for loyal wholehearted response. If you will not fail us—I pledge the alumni—we will not fail you.

Most sincerely yours,
J. A. HECK,
President of Alumni Assn.

Who's Who At Albright:

RUSSELL HOPE SHOAP

"Where is Arendtsville?"
"I'm sure I don't know, but that's where "Lefty" Shoap comes from, so it must be a great little burg."
Big or little, it's done its duty by producing a fellow like Shoap, and giving him the background he had when he came to Albright. If coming from Arendtsville has anything to do with the way "Lefty" plays baseball, we wish more of its high school graduates would choose Albright for their Alma Mater.

Baseball! That's Lefty's major interest. He is working for a B. S. in education, but we rather think that the field of organized baseball will claim him, and bring him success.

Lefty is a Neocosmian, and belongs to that group of students on the campus who call themselves "Good Lutherans." He is a very likeable fellow, and makes friends wherever he goes.

For some time we have noticed that dreamy expression on his face, and his mind seems miles away from Albright. It's Spring, and "a young man's fancy . . ." We wonder who the young lady is who has captured Lefty's heart.

the various departments of the college.

The students have been showing a considerable amount of interest in the work as evidenced by the number of volunteers, who have given their services from time to time in assisting the librarians in the reclassification, in order that it may be completed at an early date.

New Books

A few recent additions to the library by purchase are:
Abbott Johnson—Municipal Administration in the Roman Empire.
Dyce—Glossary to Shakespeare.

Loomis—The Romance of Christram and Ysolt.
Wright—Early English Adventures in the East.
Berry—Foxe's Book of Martyrs.
The Nineteenth Century Series, 12 volumes.

primary and prove it to be superior to any other system.

The audience decision was 10-4, favor of the Temple team, but it was no easy victory for them, since the chafers lady remarked after announcing the final score, that this debate with the Albright girls was the best all-around debate on this question that they had heard on their home floor, thus only a fitting climax to their girls' debating season. Our home team greatly appreciated the hospitality showed to them by the Temple girls.

This was the negative team's second debate, and with their increasing experience they will be able to put up a harder fight when they meet the Schuykill affirmative in Reading on Tuesday night, and add another to Albright's victories.

HOMER J. WONDER

Johnstown, Pa. is strongly represented at Albright, and of the group none is better known than "Fuzzy." We wonder why they call Wonder "Fuzzy?" That's a deep mystery. Studies meant little to this popular young fellow the first year of his college life, but he has since settled down, and proven he has no mean abilities if he wishes to use them. In his junior year he was vice president of the Excelsior Literary Society, and treasurer of his class, for various reasons (?)

Of course, everyone knows what "Fuzzy's" favorite pastime is; if you don't, you should. If he were a somnambulist, he probably would be found wandering over the campus, in the general direction of Mohn Hall.

Wonder is preparing for the teaching profession, but he is not yet certain what his life work will be. We are sure he will be successful in whatever field he chooses.

MY BEST GIRL AT MAJESTIC; MORE COMING

Amid the flood of new productions, super-spectacles, would-be epics and the like that have appeared on the screen this season, "My Best Girl", Mary Pickford's new comedy romance of the 5 and 10 cent stores comes as a welcome relief.

The picture which comes to the Majestic Theatre, this Thurs., Fri. and Saturday can best be described by that bromidic adjective, "delightful", in the fullest sense of the word. Unlike so many recent film dramas, "My Best Girl" makes no attempt at pretentiousness, nor at imposing (and hollow) magnificence. It is purely a simple, human absorbing story of a shy little girl employee in a "nickel and dime" store, who falls in love with the son of the millionaire owner of the establishment.

Jackie Coogan appears next Wednesday in his newest Metro Goldwyn Mayer Picture, "Buttons", a thrilling story of the high-seas. "Chang", Paramount's master melodrama of the jungle, will occupy the screen next week on Thurs. Fri. and Saturday. "The 13th Hour" and "Sorrell & Son" are the attractions for the week of April 9th.

Monday shows will be entirely eliminated in the future and will not be resumed before next September. This move was made by Mr. Kreiser, Manager of the Majestic, in order that bigger and better pictures could be obtained for the Wed. and Saturday showings. Under the new policy, two big specials will be shown each week. Some of the big coming attractions, include—"The Student Prince", "The Divine Woman", "West Point", "The Rough Riders", "The Dove", "The Crowd" and "The Gaucho."

Mike—Did we ever speak before a large audience, Pat?
Pat—Fairly large, I did
Mike—And what did you say?
Pat—Not guilty.

"I've just come back from old Bill's funeral."
"So old Bill's dead."
"Well, if he's not someone has played a dirty trick on him."

Cleaver, the butcher was rather surprised when a slim young woman entered the shop and asked for 25 pounds of beef. All the same he cut off the joint and put it on the scales.
"Will you take it with you, or shall I send it around to the house?" he inquired.

"Oh," she murmured, blushing prettily, "I don't want to buy it. You see, the doctor said I had lost 25 pounds, and I wanted to see what it looked like in a lump."

"What is the gentlest way of breaking the news to the chief that the cashier has absconded?"

"Let the bookkeeper tell him—he stutters."

Slim—They say people with opposite characteristics make the happiest marriage.

Boob—Yes; that's why I'm looking for a girl with money.

He—You've certainly taught me to love you.
She—Oh, well, I've had lots of lessons myself.
