Student Christians To Hold Assembly At Miami University

College Y. W. C. A. Chooses Pat Smith As Representative

The National Assembly of Student Christian Associations will be held at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, from December 27, 1941 to January 3, 1942.

Patricia Smith will represent the Albright Y. W. C. A. The Y. M. C. A. has not definitely decided who its delegate will be.

The aims of the assembly are to strengthen and to discover "a faith adequate to live by, to stake our lives on in these times, some clear leads to the work this faith calls us to do in a struggling and suffering world; and a sense of direction for the Student Christian Movement during the years ahead."

Among the speakers will be Gregory Vlastos, professor of philosophy, Queens University; T. Q. Koo, secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation, China; Malcolm S. McLean, president of Hampton Institute; and Homer Braun, Pennsylvania Legislature.

Each day there will be corporate worship, followed by a series of addresses on the nature of the Christian Faith. The rest of the morning will be devoted to seminar groups discussing a more adequate social philosophy for the Student Christian Movement and for its individual members.

Every evening is to be given over to a consideration of particular places in our social life in which social reconstruction is necessary.

Special features will be—program laboratories, displays of year round programs from representative associations, and movies.

Recreational activities will include music, folk-dancing, group games, and other creative leisure-time activities.

"Y" Christmas matins will again be held in the seminary chapel next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday mornings from 7:30 to 7:55 a. m.

All students and faculty members are invited to attend these matins services and also to partake of the Holy Communion, Thursday morning at 6 o'clock.

Christmas Bundles for Japan

Star Of Victory

Christmas 1941 will be one Christmas our generation of students will never forget. We weren't around when the last war was raging and only arrived to witness the disastrous effects of that great struggle. But, the post-war years were full of cynicism and disillusionment and these were to be our heritage as the children of the unstable twenties.

Our experiences were varied. We saw prosperity, panic, depression sweep our land. We heard men preach despair, hope, hysteria, courage, and faith. We read that youth is soft, cynical, fearful, and radical. Ours was an education few young people ever had the advantage of experiencing.

Through it all—the good and the bad, the beautiful and the ugly, the true and the false—we continued to have faith and courage. Yes, perhaps we were the "lost generation" but someday we would be found. Some day, we would prove our worth as the recipients of the greatest heritage a nation could bequeath to its newest members. Democracy was our invisible star.

Each Christmas renewed our faith. Each Christmas was a new opportunity to pledge ourselves toward the building of a better world. Each Christmas was a farewell to the old year and a hopeful "hello" to the new. The tragedy was that the spirit of Christmas was so hard to keep. It was ours for only a brief moment and then it vanished. Life was hard.

Christmas was love; the world was hate. Christmas was peace; the world was war. Christmas was charity; the world was greed. But our invisible star still lighted our road. We did not fear the morrow.

Inge Eischen To Star As 'Virgin Mary' In German Cantata

Professor Schach To Play David Roll; Miesse Made Prophet

Miss Inge Eischen, a freshman, will interpret the role of the Virgin Mary in the German Christmas play on Sunday at 4:30 o'clock in the college chapel. Miss Betty Mueller will be one of the soloists, accompanied by Miss Jane Redcay. Professor Hans Nix will direct the string orchestra which will play some of Professor's Nix's original music in addition to selections from Bach, Regar, Foulds, and Handel. Miss Luella Moyer will be at the piano.

The play "Es Ist Ein Ros' Entsprungen" has been compiled from Bible texts and old Christmas motifs by Mr. Charles Schuster who will be in charge of the stage managing. Mrs. Gerrit Memming and Miss Kathryn Muhs will recite the prologues to the various scenes. The play consists of six pictures—the David, the Babylon, the prophet, the announcement, the shepherd, and the nativity scenes.

Professor Paul Schach will enact the role of King David and Charles Miesse will be the prophet. John Hertz, Herbert Vogt, Nick Schneider, Emma Hafer, Jean Bomgardner, and Marie Stein will appear in the various ensemble pictures. Richard Major, George Weber, and John Young will be the shepherds. Betty Claire Voeste is the announcing angel. Carl Osenbach will be Joseph, and Harold Lueders, John Teger, and Warren Engel will represent the Three Kings.

The girls' choir will consist of the following persons: Jeanne Miller, Bertina Blaugh, Mae Jean Picking, Eleanor Platt, Joanna Wentz, Polly Walls, Marian Christ, Dorothy Fox, Rillie Lee Wright, and Geraldine Bowker.

Mrs. Gerrit Memming has designed the stage decorations and Miss Ernestine Elder is in charge of the costumes. Dr. Memming, the advisor of the German club, is the general director of the production.

Now, America is in peril. War has come to the "lost generation." But we are not lost. We have found within ourselves the secret which will make us free men. The chains of slavery shall never bind us. With all the might and power at our command the youth of America shall man the ramparts and the fortress of democracy shall resist the onslaught until absolute victory is ours.

Pacifism Still

By ART MCKAY

To say that the task of writing a column today finds me sad at heart is to understate the truth. The events of the past week have been sobering ones for all of us as our nation became involved actively in warfare with Japan.

Implicit in all that I have ever set forth in this column has been a conviction that there is validity to the assumption that non-violence and the way of love are effective in dealing with wilful force.

I have been and I continue to be a pacifist. In so far as I am able I will not hate and I will not kill. I will try to use the same creative and constructive force which is being wielded by Gandhi today and which was wielded by Jesus of Nazareth two thousand years ago. I cannot take any destructive part in this conflict. I believe that there is an ultimate means at our disposal other than physical violence—positive, non-violent goodwill!

Yet I find that I am a citizen in a nation that is at war. I know that many of the values which I cherish most highly have been achieved and preserved by the democratic form of government which is ours. I am ready to recognize that I, and every other citizen, am under heavy obligation to serve my country in time of need; I cannot escape from that duty—I do not want to escape from it. I must ask myself whether there is any excuse for refusing to bear arms in defense of country. I think there is.

Because I believe that war is futile as a means of settling anything, that it is essentially a supreme violation of Jesus' way of life, that common sense dictates that the citizen should refuse to use weapons which are ultimately destructive of the supreme values of personality and democracy—I must refuse the way of war.

But I am fully aware that that refusal does not excuse me for any indifference and idleness with reference to the problems of war. Naturally enough, the activities of those who persist in criticism of the national policy will be curtailed in this period of crisis. Till that curtailment comes for me, I shall be trying to make my contribution to the nation through an active criticism aimed at its foreign policy on the basis of the thoughts which I have expressed above. I think and pray that I am willing to die with what I believe are spiritual weapons in my hands as an adequate substitute for military service. I can do no other!

Dr. Masters Tells Men Of Albright That Educated Men Are Also Needed

President Masters spoke to the entire body of Albright men on Wednesday for the first time since his arrival here four years ago. This meeting was called in conjunction with the present war crisis.

Dr. Masters pointed out that the Men of Albright should not "do anything rash or anything quickly, but think things through." He asserted that although each one wishes to do something and is asking the question "What can I do?", we should remember that "our greatest need is not manpower, but the need for production, the need for materials."

In answer to the question, "What can I do?", Dr. Masters stated, "I think that the present time is the time to face the question in this way—EACH MAN TO HIS POST."

In the past few days quite a few Albright men have applied for enlistments in the armed forces of the nation. "I would have been greatly disappointed if some of our boys would not have applied," explained the president. "This shows the spirit we need."

He also emphasized the statement made by the president of the nation that the greatest contribution that college men can make is to continue their training so as to be best prepared to take their place in the defense program.

The Albright men were told that they should not make their most crucial decisions on the basis of emotions, and to obtain "the advice of those in whom you have confidence."

STRICTLY PARTIAL

RALPH FLEMING

Hello, folks,

This week we are privileged to have what might be considered a letter from the grave. Our ghostly correspondent is none other than Private Jasper Snodgrass, our draftee friend who was killed in action in the Louisiana war games. Biologically speaking, Jasper might be in A-1 condition physically, but as far as the war games' referee is concerned he is a dead pigeon. But why describe this gruesome event in my own words? Let's listen to the tall-end of Jasper's latest letter.

"Tense wasn't the word for it! It was an atmosphere of even greater emotion! Something that touched the innermost fibers of the soul! There we were, six healthy young Americans, guardians of our country's future destiny, huddled together in a Louisiana dugout. Suddenly the crisis came to a climax! Private O'Leary leaned forward, paused an instant, and laid down his hand. Double pinochle, a fill-out, and a hundred aces! I vaguely remember being dragged out into the crisp night air and revived.

Suddenly one of the boys looked at his watch. "Gallop in grapefruit!" he roared. "It was zero hour fifteen minutes ago! Sober the sergeant up with black coffee and let's get going!"

So over the top we went. It took us ten minutes to get thru our own barbed wire. Finally we got out into no man's land. It was pitch dark, but not for long. Marcus (I mentioned him in my last letter) lit a match to see if it was raining and a paraffin bullet hit him in the chest.

"Lie down," said the sergeant. "You're dead."

"Like blazes!" said Marcus. "You're drunk."

While the sergeant was trying to decide what should be done about this insubordination, an enemy tank pulled up and a soprano voice pealed out into the still night air.

"Hey bud, can you tell me the way to the nearest gas station?"

"Open fire, E's an enemy tank!" roared the sergeant. "I'd do it myself, but I forgot to bring my gun along!"

"Here, take mine!" said O'Leary and was off in a cloud of dust!

I was right behind him and gaining on him every step when suddenly something struck me between the shoulder blades. We'd been going so fast that we ripped right past one of our own sentries without seeing him. The breeze we made going past promptly jolted the guard out of a sound sleep, and he promptly blazed away at us. So here I am. The morgue is full so I have to sleep outside. What a life!

Yours,
JASPER."

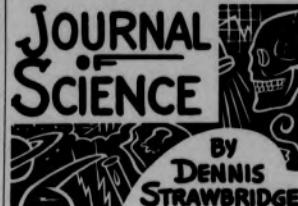

First Aid

A new course starts the first Thursday after Christmas recess. Frat houses and other dormitories are urged to send representatives.

A chapel program is planned for the near future. War casualties will be discussed.

The sanitation division is rapidly forming plans. Instructions regarding sanitary procedures will be given to the student body.

Science, War, and Albright

This week your columnist sees fit, in view of the grave national crisis which has been thrust upon us to deviate from our usual procedure of commenting on the happenings of science at Albright.

In its place let us conduct a rapid survey of what Albright and science can, must, and will do to meet this challenge to our democratic way of life. Albright has already trained approximately 100 students in the Civilian Pilot Training program. Many of these lads are now in the air corps, some even now in the midst of battle. This program can and must be speeded up if we are to continue to enjoy the privileges and joys of a liberty-loving people.

The college has set up a defense committee which is to plan fire drills, black-outs, and draw up plans for all possible campus emergencies. It is imperative that this committee begin to function and function immediately. No time may be lost by this committee. Practice fire-drills and black-outs should be conducted as soon as feasible. We cannot take this present emergency too lightly.

The defense training school, that is holding classes at night, should double its efforts to provide proper training for the men who must furnish the equipment for our men in the services. No citizen in a defense industry can consider himself a true American unless he trains himself for greater work and responsibility for the duration of this war.

It falls to the lot of each and every one of us to maintain a state of sound mental and physical health during our time of trial. Let each of us see that our physical health is not disturbed by a mental hysteria which is usually present at the outbreak of such a conflict. A firm desire to succeed, combined with sound logical reasoning, is the greatest ally, we, as college students can muster.

I have a very firm belief that the men and women of Albright with the aid of science will form a well knit group which will do its part to defeat the yellow men of Nippon. Let's set the rising sun.

Lions, Bisons To Tangle

Our basketball team didn't look too impressive last week against Moravian. Don't let that worry you, though. That Moravian club was a little stronger than Coach Neal Harris had anticipated in the opening game for his club. Seems as if the Bethlehem school's athletic expansion program is paying dividends. Moravian plays Franklin and Marshall Saturday and the score should prove interesting as to the comparative strength of the two outfits.

Bill Spangler's performance last Saturday was outstanding. The rugged center had only four days of practice after spending three hard months on the football field. Also, he was suffering from a heavy cold which kept him abed the following day.

We feel that boys like Hopkins, Rhoads, Shollenberger, and Boltz along with Spangler will prove the class of the Eastern Penn League although watch for plenty of opposition from Bucknell and Gettysburg.

Here's something you may not have known. Dick Shollenberger, the ace basketballer, is an uncle of Russell Guensch, starting guard on the Albright Frosh team. Hello, Uncle Dick!

Albright hasn't met Ursinus College on the football field since 1937 when the Grizzlies spoiled the Lion's undefeated, untied record by holding the Red and White's greatest eleven to a scoreless tie.

Well, the possibility of the two schools meeting in the near future seems very likely. That hint was dropped at the annual President's dinner for the football team, Monday. The presence of Jing Johnson, athletic director at Ursinus, as guest speaker there also might have something to do with that possibility becoming a reality.

Maybe, if we asked the Santa Claus at Pomeroy's for the following gifts he might deliver them in 1942:

1. An undefeated grid season for Coach Dietz.
2. The Eastern Penn Collegiate League championship for Coach Harris. Also his wish to double the home attendance at all basketball games.
3. A 49 second quarter mile for Clem Boland.
4. A world series pennant for the Brooklyn Dodgers.
5. More hair for Chuck Klein and George Urosevich.
6. For everyone—world peace.

May we be the first sports columnist to wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Both Teams Tied For Second In East Penn Loop Last Year

President Masters Host To Gridders

Awards Made At Annual Dinner

Albright's varsity and freshmen football squads were the guests of President Harry Masters at a dinner Monday, given in the Walnut Room of the Hotel Berkshire. Guest speaker for the evening was Jing Johnson, athletic director and baseball coach at Ursinus College. Johnson, a former big league pitcher under Connie Mack at Philadelphia, spoke on the meaning of athletics.

Mr. Harry Matten, Reading attorney and a member of the Athletic Council, was toastmaster. Coach Lone Star Dietz and Neal Harris, frosh coach, thanked everyone concerned for their efforts during the past season, which Dietz termed, "a successful year not from the point of games won and lost but by the spirit displayed by the team when the going got tough."

Another highlight of the evening was a quiz game conducted by H. Leroy Bringer between the linemen and the backs of the varsity squad. The linemen, captained by Johnny Gaspar, won 6-0. George Marfogen led the backs.

Women Basketball Start To Practice

Moravian, Ursinus Already Scheduled

The girls' basketball squad had their initial practice last Friday evening in the 13th and Union gym. Although only 13 girls were present at this drill, Mrs. Mosser expects to have over 25 competing for positions.

Only three varsity members were lost through graduation last year. Thus far, games have been scheduled with Moravian and Ursinus. Elizabeth, Rider College, and Lebanon Valley are prospects for the Lady Lions' schedule.

Raymer Kent Lost To Squad Due To Grades

With the best prospects in a decade of winning the Eastern Penn Collegiate League championship, Albright's high powered basketball machine tangles with the Bucknell Bisons tomorrow night in the first loop clash of the season. Tapoff is scheduled for 8:30 on the spacious Northwest Junior High floor. The Red and White Frosh oppose the Reading Clothiers in the 7:15 preliminary.

Albright and Bucknell tied for second place in the strong Eastern Penn Conference last year with seven wins and five losses apiece. Franklin and Marshall were the undefeated champs, the first time in the history of the loop a team won 12 consecutive games.

The Lions have one victory under their belts at the expense of Moravian last Saturday. Bucknell trimmed Elizabethtown College in their opener at the same time, 42-32. The Lions and Bisons split even in two affairs last season with Jimmy Kane's sensational long shot with thirty seconds remaining giving the Red and White a 40-38 verdict at Lewisburg. The Thundering Herd downed Albright at Northwest, 48-38, in the second encounter.

Coach Neal Harris will probably start the same five that clicked last week. Rugged Bill Spangler will handle the center duties with Dick Shollenberger and Chin Rhoads in the fore court and Kenny Hopkins and sophomore Devey Boltz teaming at the guard stations.

Certain to see relief action are Sammy Sehl, George Horn, Burd Miller and George Urosevich. Raymer Kent, speedy understudy to Chin Rhoads, has been ruled scholastically ineligible and will not be allowed to compete until the deficiencies are removed. Kent's loss will be felt for the former Birdsboro High star was a valuable performer with his speed.

The Red and White hoopsmen will have to watch Bucknell's Fred Fahringer, the Bison's ace point-getter in the two contests last year. The blond-haired forward, who averaged on a 52 yard touchdown run in the Thundering Herd's 42-0 rout of Albright this past grid season, tallied 26 points in the two frays. Other stars for Coach Mal Musser are Ed. Glass, six feet four inch center, and Paul Burke, husky guard.

The Lion cubs will rely on Dick Stark, Tom McDonough or John Patrician at forwards; lanky Walt Hauser, center; and Reading's duo, Jimmy Bunn and Russell Guensch, at guards.

Stopping a last minute rally by the Daymen's quintet, the Pi Taus broke into the win column last Monday night by registering a close 32-29 victory.

The Pi Taus led the Daymen 7-6 at the end of the first quarter and then racked up eight points while holding the losers to one, to lead 15-8 at half time.

In the second half, the Daymen, led by Ralph Frymoyer, Bob Boland and Willard Grubb, rang the bell for 21 markers as against the Pi Taus' 17 to bring the game to a nip-and-tuck battle.

Ray Hain with 13 points and Jake Wagner with eight, led the winners at the basket, while Bob Boland with 11 points and Ralph Frymoyer with eight, were the big guns for the Daymen.

Due to the necessity of meeting an early press deadline, the Wednesday games have been omitted from the standings and the box scores for these games are not given.
