Glee Club Opens Annual Tour With Two Sunday Concerts

Forty members of the Glee Club, under the direction of Lester R. Yeager, assistant professor of music, will be on tour next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The group will give concerts at Harrisburg and Lewisport on Sunday; Westmont and Johnstown on Monday; and Conemaugh Township, Somerset, and Carlisle on Tuesday.

The chorus numbers on the sacred program will be the Glee Club's theme song, "To Thee We Sing", Bach; "O Bone Jesu", Palestrina; "Exultate Deo", Scarlatti; "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee!", Bach; "If Thou But Suffer God to Guide Thee", Thompson; "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled", Mueller; "The Lord Bless You And Keep You", Lutkin; and "Surely The Lord Is In This Place", Mueller. The girls chorus will present "Ave Verum", Mozart; and "How Lovely's Thy Dwelling Place", Brahms. Sonia Flicker, '57, will sing a soprano solo in "Psalm 122" by Taylor.

Secular Program

The secular program will be made up of "The Lost Chord", Sullivan, with Kathleen Forry, '57, singing the alto solo; "Trees", Rasbach; "The Happy Farmer", Schuman; "Come To The Dance", Horworth; "I Believe", Stillman; and "Wonderful Copenhagen", with Richard Redder, '60, as baritone soloist.

Several numbers the octet will sing are "The Ballad of Minnie the Mouse", Pennsylvania folk song; "Deep River", Negro spiritual; "On the Street Where You Live", Loewe; "Tavern in the Town", traditional; "I Could Have Danced All Night", Loewe; and "Little Innocent Lamb", Bartholomew.

Willard Stitzel, '60, and his accordion and Alexander Wipf, '60, will present novelty acts on the secular program.

Albright Delegation Plans For Meetings

Representing the county of Japan, members of Albright's International Relations Club will participate in the 1957 Mid-Atlantic Model United Nations General Assembly at Princeton University next weekend. Bishop, Jr., assistant professor of history, and Charles A. Raith, assistant professor of political science, will accompany the delegation to Princeton.

In addition to those students listed above, several others will attend the sessions as staff assistants and observers. Students will participate in the conference from colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Maryland.

The IRC will hold its regular monthly meeting next Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. in Room 205 of Teel Hall. Elections for officers for the 1957-58 club are slated to be conducted at that time.

Suzanne Schick Wins Dance Name Contest

The winner of the Student Council Dance Name Contest is Suzanne Schick, '59. Her entry was "Spring Fantasy," and has been adopted for the all-school spring dance. Miss Schick won five dollars for her entry.

"Spring Fantasy" will be held Friday, April 26, from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight in the fieldhouse. The music is tentatively being provided by Matt Gillespie.

Chairman of the all-school dance is Daniel Skeath, '59. Working with him are publicity chairman, John Luckenbill, '58; ticket chairman, Clair Matz, '58, and refreshment chairman, John Tibbetts, '59.

First Annual SC Spring Dance Set For April 26

April 26 was announced as the date for the first annual all-campus spring formal dance sponsored by Student Council at that group's meeting on March 19. Daniel Skeath, '59, chairman of the affair, explained that negotiations were underway to secure a band for the event and that other plans were proceeding on schedule.

Defense Coordinator

John Luckenbill, '58, was appointed Council's Civil Defense Coordinator with the assigned task of investigating the possibilities for Albright student assistance for the Berks County civil defense program.

Philip Eyrich, '58, treasurer of Council, requested the backing of the representatives in his attempt to establish closer co-operation between the Treasurer's Office and Student Council. Specifically, a plan is being sought whereby no funds will be taken out of the Council treasury unless the president and treasurer of Council approve of the action. The representatives voted unanimously to support the idea.

A discussion arose over the interpretation of Article VII, Section 2, Clause (2) of the Student Council Constitution that deals with the necessary qualifications of candidates for the office of Council president. The point of contention was whether the sentence, "Candidates must be members of the Junior Class who will have served a minimum of one year as Student Council representatives at the end of their Junior year," meant service for a full academic year, or just the attendance at a majority of the meetings in any one year.

The decision was placed in the hands of the Election Committee for that group to work out a suitable interpretation, although it was decided that no student would be disqualified from standing for election this year because of either interpretation proposed.

Franklin Joseph, '57, and Robert Peckham, '59, were accepted as new representatives from the Albright Court Dormitory and Daymen's Association, respectively.

First Economic Seminar Held

An economic seminar, the first meeting of its kind in the greater Berks County area, was conducted last evening in the college dining hall with Albright seniors as guests.

Sponsored by the Americans for the Competitive Enterprise System, Inc., the program featured a panel of local top management officials representing the metal, textile, rubber, and banking industries, public utilities, retailing, and the professions.

The panel members were Sidney D. Kline, president of the Berks County Trust Company; Dr. Arthur N. Erickson, medical director of the Wyominging Industries; John W. Bowman, president and treasurer of the Berkshire Knitting Mills; Frederick H. Klein, president of Orr and Sembower, Inc.; William S. Bunnell, vice president of the United Gas Improvement Company, and Arlington A. Britton, Jr., vice president in charge of production of The Carpenter Steel Company.

Following the program, personal consultations were held regarding career opportunities.

A morning chapel service in Krause Hall will be featured Monday through Thursday of this special week. Students will conduct the services at which Doctor DeWire will speak. Evening devotional services will be held in White Chapel Hall. Following the Tuesday and Wednesday night programs there will be informal discussion groups open to students and faculty. Abstractional Abstracts

By Phil Goldfeder

Of all the groggy stories I like to make-up, the one about the origin of April Fool's Day is my favorite. The only prerequisite to wade through this is to have had mythology 32b and any psychology course. The tale goes something like this:

There was once a maiden in Scapula named Rhomboideus whose beauty was far too great to be passed up, so she was loved by Sartorius, God of Good Luck. She, however, became attached to a fellow from Vertebrae called Thoracic, and Sartorius was soon to learn of her faithfulness. It is said that the news was brought to him by his cat, Xiphiumeralis, who was punished unjustly by his jealous master by being skinned alive.

No Luck

Rhomboideus' luck ran out and she, of course, had to be killed. A blunt arrow from the bow of the great hunter, Serratus, found her heart. She was placed on the funeral pyre while the God of Good Luck rubbed two sticks together until a tiny spark set the whole body afire.

But in spite of his bitterness, he thought to himself, "At least I will be able to save my child." He snatched the premature babe from the roaring fire and brought him to Latissimus, cave of the wise and kindly old Cyclops, Gastrocnemius, and told him to call the child Gluteus. He was unlike the other lads who were always running after centaurs and mermaids. He was eager to learn all he could about the art of healing.

His foster-father was well-versed in the use of herbs and the time soon came when his pupil surpassed him. He was able to give care to all those who came to him suffering, whether it be from deformed limbs, heavy heart, or diseased body. He began to displease the gods, for he thought "thoughts too great for man." He was even called upon to raise a man from the dead, and he did so. The man was Pectoantibrachialis and he went to Sternum to live forever and be worshipped as a god.

Thunderbolt

Great Cutaneous, God of Gods, would not allow a mortal to have the power over the dead, so he struck Gluteus with his thunderbolt and then beat him to death with his hammer.

Sartorius, heart-broken at the death of his favorite son, flew to Latissimus and in a fit of rage, slew Gastrocnemius, and threw the Cyclops into the sea to be eaten up by the white whale, Abdominus.

When Great Cutaneous saw this wicked deed, he imprisoned the God of Good Luck in the castle of Teres where he was to work as a slave for seven years under the Goddess of Humor, Supraspinatus.

Love

Sartorius never finished his sentence for he fell in love with Supraspinatus. This angered Great Cutaneous even more. The God of Good Luck was cast into the burning sun to eternally sweat and drink water.

A daughter was born to Supraspinatus called Pectoralis and she was told that her father was Parthenogenesis. When the God of Gods heard of this lie, he seized the child one spring day and carried her to the towering tops of Mount Olympus. The Goddess of Humor heard her child's screams and went in search of the voice; but her search was like a fool's errand. Supraspinatus never found her child, although she never stopped looking.

And when the first of April came each year, the Goddess of Humor was again searching for her lost daughter on a fool's journey.

have been received, but some of them have been rejected. First of all, the Blue Room in Selwyn Hall can not be used as a bowling alley for the simple reason that the room isn't long enough. The parlor in Teel Hall can not be turned into a gambling casino because we have no way of getting the large poker table into the room (the door isn't wide enough).

Ideas

So come on fellow students, let's get busy and send in those ideas. These empty rooms have really become headaches but I'm sure that someone will come up with a solution. Oh, by the way, hand in your suggestions to Morty Meekle or Long Sam no later than midnight, April 4th. The winner will be announced in the next issue of the "Albrightian" and will receive a year's subscription to "Playboy" magazine.

Pledging Albright April Fool

By George Withers

"Merci beaucoup," shouted the twenty-one pledges, as they lay on the floor while the fraternity members of the High Falutin' Rootin' Tootin' Society for the Preservation of the French Language trampled over them! For six weeks now they had undergone ordeals such as learning the French classics and reciting them at the whim of the pledge master. The pledges also had to answer in French whenever a member asked them a question in English. If a question was either asked or answered in German, they played roulette to decide their fate.

Patriotism

Besides this, the pledges had to sing the French national anthem in church every Sunday morning and had to eat only French foods—bread and wine and wine and bread. The worst ordeal was doing the can-can at three o'clock in the morning in the city square.

One of the unfortunate initiates, Vaughn, after his stomach had shrunk and had passed to the Great Beyond due to being stepped on and starved by dietary deficiency, had a "brain storm." Since he only knew how to say "we" in French, he kept French records in case some difficult question popped up. One evening one of the brothers entered his room and ordered him to say, "You're an idiot." Vaughn snapped the record player on and "s'il vous plait," was heard. It was working great until the president of the fraternity came. With his arrival, Vaughn threw his beret in the air and shouted, "Viva la France!"

Recitation

Then he recited a verse in French backwards, did the can-can and prostrated himself before "the illustrious one." This time the question was, "Who do you love?" The record clicked into place and "Anna est ein Madchen" droned through the room. Vaughn was ruined; he hung his head in shame. Of all the luck! Instead of submitting to the ordeal of playing roulette as previous pledges had done, Vaughn did the next best thing—he joined the French Foreign Legion.

Membership

After four years of narrow escapes, Vaughn came home again and was made an honorary member of the High Falutin' Rootin' Tootin' Society for the Preservation of the French Language for his outstanding work in furthering French culture in foreign countries.

QUALM

By Us'nomous

The professor is my quizmaster, I shall not flunk.
He leadeth me to an alternate seat.
He restoreth my fears.
He leadeth me into deep problems for a grade's sake.
Yea, though I know not the answers to the questions,
I will fear no failure for the others are with me.
Class average will comfort me.
I prepare my answers in the presence of my roommates,
I anointeth my blue book with answers.
My time runneth over.
Surely bad grades will follow me all the days of my life,
And I will dwell in the classroom forever.

Rich Engelhardt

By Billie Williams

An honor student from Yeadon High School, Rich came to us in 1953 and, as a pre-dent student, joined the Skull and Bones Society for his first two years. A change in course occurred, however, and Rich now anticipates a future in the law.

Pledge

Rich pledged the Kappa Upsilon Phi social fraternity as a freshman. He became secretary of the group when he was a junior and vice-president in his senior year. This year he has served on the Inter-Fraternity Council, representing the Kappas.

His junior and senior years found him more active on campus than previously. At this time, he joined the "Cue" staff and the German Club.

The past six summers have found Rich working as "washerman" in a laundry. However, he realized that all work and no play would make him a dull boy, so he headed for some water and engaged in water skiing, his favorite sport.

Artist

When it is possible to find some spare time, Rich likes to relax with a paint brush in his hand and a canvas before him. He has used his artistic talents for various organizations on campus.

The years ahead for Rich will be filled with law school and a busy practice. We send our support with him as he seeks his goal.

Galaxy

By Catherine Diefenderfer

It was late one evening when the last of the guests arrived. Gathered here at 175,000 Galaxy Way were representatives from any and every planet in the universe. There were the Martian ambassadors, the Venusian chancellors, the Plutonian scientists and, of course, since no conference would be complete without him, the representative from Earth and the host of the evening—the Pool.

Custom

The custom handed down from their forefathers had been to present gifts, displaying the splendor, wealth, and beauty of their planets, to their host. Just to be in accordance with tradition, this was the first business of the meeting. Never had such an array of wealth been seen in the entire history of the galaxy, and this sort of thing had been going on for eons. Diamonds, rubies, emeralds, rare and exotic jewels, birds, perfumes, flowers, and materials lined the walls of the conference room. Finally, after what seemed like millions and millions of light years, the whole boring business was over.

Contest

Next, because one could become quite lazy just watching the lines of gifts go by headed for a host that hadn't been seen yet, there was a contest of skill. Naturally there were rules to see that everyone had a fair chance. For instance, no x-ray vision allowed, no directional signals, and the use of superhuman speed and strength was definitely outlawed.

Of course, this indulgence in exercise developed many tremendous appetites and the delectables prepared by the artists were just made to be eaten. There were the beautiful and pink clouds of cotton called illusions; the hot, delicious meats called dogs; the pink ice that melted in the mouth and tasted like cream; and the brown, baked batter named cake.

Order

At last, the host called for order among the inter-planetary delegates. According to the bylaws of this conference, which meets once every earth calendar year, at the stroke of midnight, each and every person unmasked and the newly crowned April was honored, for what is a fool without April. HAPPY APRIL FOOL'S DAY!

Attention!

By Sandra Strickler

The committee has announced numerous changes in the curriculae and courses of instruction for the forthcoming year. Out-dated courses will be replaced and new courses will be added for the convenience of Albrightians. A few of the changes are:

SIESTA REPROPIO

Designed to provide the student with an educational means of escape from the rigors of the social whirl. The students of this course will take part in supervised snoozing for three two-hour periods per week.

MODERN ASTRONOMY

Organized to give an opportunity to study the moon and stars. Informal class meetings are held by one male and one female member of the class two convenient evenings per week.

UNDERWATER BIOLOGY

The purpose of this course is to enable the student to collect, preserve and identify the fauna that makes its home in Sylvan Lake. It also provides a method of picking up some extra spending money. Equipment needed: skin diving outfit, including an aqua lung, spear, and ear plugs.

FUNDAMENTALS OF MUSIC ENDURANCE

This course is a prerequisite for students taking Music Appreciation. The need for this course has been especially felt by this year's freshmen class.

CRIMINALITY

Theories and methods of punishment evasion. Six-month to ten-year field trips to nearby institutions are included.

SEMINAR IN ROMANTICISM

The first six weeks are devoted to helping the students to become familiar. The remainder of the semester is spent in personal study and research.

PRINCIPLES OF COMBUSTION

Designed to develop pyromaniac tendencies. Helps to rid the campus of old text books, buildings, and professors. Take this course if you want to be an asset to Albright—(for a little while!).

In order to offer these courses we must have 100% cooperation on the part of the students, so enroll now. Vacant seats are rapidly being filled.

Free Love

By Sandra Gerhart

Flash! Coed college goes completely coed! Last week Albright students received news that set the campus in an uproar. President Masters issued an announcement, stating that all the dormitories had gone co-ed. This means that the janitor will no longer have to yell, "Man in the hall," as he walks into Selwyn or Teel.

I must say that after taking a recent tour of Albright Courts, a touch of femininity is really being brought forth. Vines are entwined in the venetian blinds, ruffled curtains are hanging at the windows, and the rooms are cleaned every day. The boys are even wearing white dress shirts daily to impress the girls.

Complaints

When President Masters was interviewed after the announcement was issued, he revealed that there have been many complaints from Mrs. Leshner and Mrs. Furst on the behavior of the visitors in the parlors of Selwyn and Teel Halls. President Masters feels that the only way these complaints will stop is by allowing the students more freedom. He feels that "we should become more broad-minded" and by making the dorms co-ed, this freedom will be obtained.

Ever since this announcement, the social rooms have become deserted. Therefore the "Albrightian" has decided to have a contest. The name of the contest is "What to do with Albright's neglected parlors." All you have to do is submit an idea or two on what to do with the unused rooms. Quite a few ideas

Competition Highlights Early Baseball Practice Sessions

IN THE LION'S DEN

By Phil Eyrich, Associate Editor

Spring sports schedules for 1957 have been released and again Albright's four spring sports teams will tackle ambitious slates. The baseball squad will play the longest schedule of the four teams, with a 21-contest slate awaiting the diamondmen. Twelve of the games will be played on Kelchner Field and nine on the road. Temple, Penn, Moravian, St. Joseph's LaSalle, and Lafayette are the top Lion opponents. This will be the second straight year Albright will play the Penn Quakers. Last year, the Lions blasted the Philadelphians, 9-5.

Seven dual meets, three triangular meets, and three championship tests are ahead for the Red and White trackmen this year. The Lion thinclads will meet formidable opposition throughout their schedule of regular-meet competition, in addition to participating in the Penn Relays, the Middle Atlantic States Conference championships, and the IC4-A games. Five dual meets will be waged on the Albright cinders. Both the baseball and track teams compiled excellent 11-5-2 and 7-2 records, respectively, last year and can be expected to do comparably this year.

The tennis squad, also a winner a year ago, will meet 15 foes and participate in the MASC championships. Seven of the matches will be played on the Albright courts. The golfers will take to the links 15 times, including the MASC championships. Eight of the matches are listed as home tests. The MASC track championships, which took place at Albright in 1956, will be held at Franklin and Marshall this year; the MASC tennis and golf contests at Swarthmore and Juniata, respectively.

Basketball . . .

Closing out the Albright basketball picture for 1956-57, the distinctions earned by two of the Lion varsity cagers should be noted. Merrill Eckhart, 6-0 sophomore flash who played his scholastic basketball at Slatington High School, has been elected captain of the Red and White varsity for the 1957-58 season. A starter throughout the campaign just concluded, he tied for third place in varsity scoring with 287 points for an average of 11.5 points-per-game. He was one of two Lion cagers to play in all 25 of the court contests during the season. Eckhart was third among the regular-playing courtmen in field goal shooting percentage, hitting at a 38.0 mark, and second among the same group in foul goal shooting percentage at 73.4. Eckhart succeeds senior Jim Foreman as captain of the Red and White. The last underclass captain the Lions had was during the 1954-55 season when George Conrad led the varsity cagers. Conrad repeated as captain in his senior year.

Senior Bruce Riddell was named to the honorable mention list of the Associated Press small-college All-American basketball team recently. The 6-4 court standout from Lansdowne was a mainstay of the Albright cagers throughout his four-year varsity cage career. He led the courtmen during the 1956-57 season in scoring (387), points-per-game (16.1), rebounding (276), field goals (145), foul goals (97), and field goal shooting percentage (40.3). Riddell finished with 1,238 points for his four-year effort in 100 games for a 12.3 points-per-game average. He was a fine defensive player and received The Albrightian's Player of the Month distinction for December, 1956 and February, 1957. Riddell was awarded the Ron Regar Trophy at the conclusion of his senior year, based on his selection as Albright's outstanding basketball player during the 1956-57 season.

Three Veteran Golfers Back

Three lettermen, two seniors and a junior, head the list of candidates for the 1957 golf team. Ernie Brodbeck and Willie Smith represent the seniors, while Bill Breneman is the junior. Other candidates include Dave Bennett, Gene Burns, Bob Carlson, Murray Cornfield, Dom Mazza, and Bill Protheroe.

Coached by Paul Matten, the squad will be out to better last year's record of 2-9-1. The 15-game schedule includes eight home matches, which will be played at the Reading Country Club starting at 1 p.m.

After opening the season at Western Maryland on April 5, the squad returns home to play Dickinson on April 8. There are five home matches between April 12 and 29, when the squad runs up against Franklin and Marshall, LaSalle, Lafayette, West Chester, and Muhlenberg. A home match with Moravian on May 20 closes out the season.

The two victories achieved during the 1956 season were over Western Maryland, 6j-2j, and LaSalle, 5-4. P&M, St. Joseph's, Juniata, Buck-

Potsklan Seeks Substitutes For Grad Losses

Keen competition for starting positions has highlighted the early practice sessions of the baseball team. With three key players graduated from the 1956 squad, Coach John Potsklan is screening numerous new candidates in an effort to fill the gaps created at first base, short stop, and catcher left by Bernie Seaman, Roy Dragon, and George Conrad, respectively.

John Mishko is a leading candidate for the first base position, Bob Shoup is making a determined bid for the short stop post, and Jim Doremus heads the list of possible receivers. Mishko is a sophomore, while Shoup and Doremus are freshmen.

Pitching Staff

Lettermen Tom Pollock, Vern Engle, and Fred Dietzel are back to form the nucleus of the pitching staff. Frosh Richie Green, Jack Tucker and Chuck Kachel are also fighting for hurling positions. Bob Kovaeks returns to play second base, while Dietzel and Bob Jones are seeking the third base post. Mishko and Frank Hoffman will probably be reserves behind the plate.

In the outfield, Terry Reber will anchor the fly chasers in center, and Dale Yoder and Bob Fiorindo appear set to complete the array in left and right field, respectively.

The Lions will open the season on April 2 when they meet the Temple Owls at Philadelphia. The home opener is slated for April 3 at Kelchner Field versus Penn.

1956 Record

During the 1956 campaign, the Potsklanmen defeated Wilkes, Penn, Juniata, Franklin and Marshall, Susquehanna, Lebanon Valley (twice), Pennsylvania Military, Scranton, LaSalle, and Bucknell, while losing to Dickinson, Moravian (twice), Lafayette, and Gettysburg. Ties were played with Temple and Muhlenberg.

Reber, the number one hitter for the Red and White, batted over 400 in 1956. He was trailed in that department by Conrad, who is now under contract to the Pittsburgh Pirates farm system.

Gottshall, Greenawald Named Track Captains

Don Gottshall and Ken Greenawald will serve as co-captains of the track team for the 1957 season. Gottshall competes in the 440-yard and half-mile runs, and Greenawald in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, and the low hurdles. Both are members of the Lions mile relay team. There are twelve returning lettermen on the track squad this year. In addition

Net Coach Will Rebuild Squad

A large task of rebuilding is the problem of tennis Coach Will Renken as he prepares his squad for the coming season. Three of the top four players from the 1956 team have been lost, either in last year's graduating class or through ineligibility. However, Captain Jack Rosen, who played the third position last year, is expected to return, along with Ernie Firestone, Charlie Sample, and Lee Hagginbotham.

The four are all lettermen back from last year's squad which recorded 10 victories against five defeats in a tough schedule. Dick Steffy, Ted Gabriel, and Lee Swartz, all of whom saw limited action last season, will be battling for positions against a promising freshmen turnout.

Several Frosh

Among the leading frosh competing for the three vacant positions is Nelson Haller, winner of the fall intramural tennis tournament and member of Wilson High School's Berks County tennis champions of 1956, Jack Reinhart, number one man for Reading High's 1956 tennis squad, and Lynn Sarig and Norm Bennett, also members of the Wilson team. Al Kutner and Leroy Long complete the list of candidates.

This year the Lion netmen play a schedule of 15 games, in addition to the MASC championships, May 9, 10, and 11 at Swarthmore. They open Sat., April 6 at Dickinson, taking on a tough Red 'ell' squad that defeated them last year on Wed., April 10. Albright plays host to Bucknell, another strong opponent. Additional highlights of the schedule include West Chester on April 13, Moravian on April 24 and May 4, and Lycoming on May 18.

Coach Renken is searching for a replacement for last year's one-two double, John Schlavo and Carl Witnasky, but as yet has not found a top-flight replacement for either position. The Lions may find themselves weak in the first three positions, but this will possibly be balanced by depth in the lower positions and adequate reserve power.

to the co-captains, the other lettermen are: seniors Norm Klingerman (javelin), and juniors Ray Feick (shot put, discus, and javelin), Jack Cunningham (pole vault and javelin), Dick Thrasher (mile and two-mile runs), Bob Wetzel (broad jump, high and low hurdles), and George Mack (880-yard and mile run).

Also sophomores Clell Hostetter (shot put and discus), Pierre Blanchet (pole vault), Tom Faust (high jump, broad jump, and 100-yard, 220-yard, and 440-yard dashes), and Dick Kelly (100-yard and 220-yard dashes and broad jump).

New Candidates

The Lions will be counting on freshmen Charlie Smith (high and broad jump, and high and low hurdles), Sam Rumford (high hurdles, shot put, and discus), Larry Barr (880-yard run, pole vault, and broad jump), Lew Molnar (440-yard run and 880-yard runs), Fred Little (100-yard, 220-yard, and 440-yard dashes), Dennis Bohn (880-yard run and javelin), Jim Ream (low hurdles), and Jim Todd (mile and two mile runs) to round out the squad.

Pole vault and shot put will be the Lion's weakest positions according to pre-season analysis. The loss of Jon Bradshaw in the pole vault and Jack Huntzinger in the shot put account for the gaps in these positions, while Bill Shirk's absence will be felt among the runners.

Good Log

The 1956 track aggregation won five dual meets and lost one. They also won two dual meets and placed second in a third three-team event. In dual-meet competition the Lions defeated Muhlenberg, Franklin and Marshall, Lebanon Valley, Delaware, and Pennsylvania Military, and lost only to Swarthmore in their opening meet of the season.

The Red and White, coached by Gene Shirk, placed eighth in the MASC championships and seventh in the MASC mile relay at the Penn Relays. Bucknell, Ursinus, Gettysburg, Haverford, and Juniata all scored lower than the Lions in triangular meets, with St. Joseph's being the only squad to push ahead of Albright.

New Spiritual Guidance Program At Glassboro

A program of Spiritual Guidance is being developed on the campus of Glassboro State Teachers College, according to a report submitted by Dean of Student Activities James M. Lynch, Jr. Implementing this program is a Statement of Policy adopted by the faculty.

In its "Attainment of Objectives" the statement points out that Glassboro, a non-sectarian public institution, through its entire organization, curriculum, and activity program, works earnestly and diligently to develop moral and spiritual values in all its students. Efforts toward this goal can be clearly discerned in:

Attention

The attention given to moral and spiritual values in such courses as literature, history, the arts, philosophy, and education.

The efforts made by faculty and staff to exemplify in their own lives and in their teachings the highest personal values of integrity, honor, and behavior.

The conduct of student activities. The counseling services made available to all students.

The messages brought to students through selected assembly programs, and through assembly discussions of religious faiths and philosophies.

The non-sectarian Baccalaureate service.

The encouragement of students and faculty to participate actively in religious activities in the churches of the Glassboro area and of their home communities.

The manner in which life is lived in the college and on the camps.

The development of personal philosophies of life in which spiritual values typically assume foundational importance.

The publicizing in its bulletins, corridors, and publications of religious activities for students held in neighboring churches of all denominations.

Interpreting this program are the following Accepted Guiding Principles:

1. Each church or combination of churches will provide a clergyman to serve on a staff of Spiritual Advisers, attached on a service basis to the Glassboro faculty, and serving the felt needs of Glassboro students.

2. A designated hour and place will be scheduled each week, or bi-weekly, when the Spiritual Adviser of a particular church will meet any students who desire consultation with him.

3. The college advisory staff, with all the records they have available, will be glad to give background information about students if requested to do so by the Spiritual Advisers.

4. College advisers will feel free to suggest that students with problems of certain types, seek the advisory service of the Spiritual Advisers of their choice. It is recognized, however, that nothing except suggestion can be used by College Advisers.

5. No Spiritual Adviser will have the power to ask for the presence of any individual student.

6. If a clergyman knows of a difficulty a student may be having, he may ask that the college adviser make the student aware of his offer to help. The Adviser will then consult with the student, offer the service, and schedule an appointment if the student asks for it.

7. The College will maintain a bulletin, available to all students, giving the locations of churches, times of service, and the names of clergymen.

8. Information concerning special events of churches, and advertising of church activities, can be sent to the Dean of Student Activities, who will call the events to the attention of students.

9. Information concerning special events of churches, and advertising of church activities, can be sent to the Dean of Student Activities, who will call the events to the attention of students.

10. Information concerning special events of churches, and advertising of church activities, can be sent to the Dean of Student Activities, who will call the events to the attention of students.

Naval Officer Set For Campus Visit

A Naval officer will visit the campus Thursday, April 4, to provide interested students with information concerning the many and varied officer programs available in the Navy. He will be located in the conference room of the administration building from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

There is no obligation incurred by submitting an application. Obligation commences only after selection (which requires about three months time from date of initial application) after receipt of degree and then only if the applicant so chooses.

In view of the above, it is strongly suggested for anyone interested in a naval commission in Line, Aviation, Supply, Engineering, etc., to apply early.

You may choose any class you desire within a reasonable period. Summer classes convene in July, September and November for Officer Candidate School at Newport, Rhode Island, and twice monthly for Aviation Officer Candidate School at Pensacola, Florida.

Ralph Swenarton, '59: "The time I took off my topcoat and everyone said I had no trousers on. Funny thing about it—I didn't!"

Barbara Teets, '60: "I thought my creme hair rinse smelled kind of funny. I knew something was wrong, but I didn't think twice. When I looked in the mirror, my hair wasn't too blonde!"

Robert Wetzel, '58: "The best prank pulled on me was when an ex-girl friend told me she was expecting a visit from a bird."

Suzanne Kaltenstein, '60: "My aunt broke her tooth on a chocolate covered rock . . . I wonder who did it?"

34 Albrightians Take Trip To Washington

Charles Raith, assistant professor of political science, and 34 students visited Washington, D. C., recently to witness American government in action. They paid special attention to American Congressional committees in order to see how these committees operated, what people go before them, and what is discussed.

The group visited the Supreme Court, where a gambling case was being discussed, and the Senate. Unfortunately, the House of Representatives was not in session.

Pennsylvania congressman George Rhodes spent some time with Professor Raith and the students. They also spoke to Senator Estes Kefauver, Tennessee; Senator Herbert Humphreys, Minnesota; and Senator Joseph Clark, a newly elected senator from Pennsylvania.

During free time, many of the group went to see Arlington Cemetery and the Archives Buildings.
