Gym Dedication Planned for Oct.; Steel Work Begins

The structural steel necessary for the construction of Albright's new physical education building has arrived and is now being put into place.

The new section which will contain the gymnasium was begun on January 1 and will be completed in time for graduation, weather permitting. The building will be ready for full operation for the fall semester with the date for the dedication set for October 18, Homecoming Day. All the necessary materials are now in storage so that there will be no further delay in obtaining supplies.

The main auditorium will be composed of a basketball court extending the length of the building and three cross courts to be used for physical education classes. Roll away bleachers with a seating capacity of 3500 have also arrived.

Clearance has been obtained from the Educational office in Washington to complete the construction of the building. Albright has been very fortunate to be able to continue work on the project and to secure the necessary materials for the job, H. Eugene Pierce, superintendent of buildings said. He noted that many similar enterprises have been curtailed by the government under the new defense program.

One section of the structure which will house the athletic offices and the locker rooms has been completed except for painting and the installation of plumbing fixtures in the shower rooms.

Y Groups to Observe World Day of Prayer

Special services for the Universal Day of Prayer have been planned by the Y in connection with the World Student Christian Federation. The program will be held Sunday evening, February 17 at 7 o'clock in the seminary chapel.

All students have been urged to attend. A free-will offering will be taken which will be given to the W.S.C.F.

Michellina Cacciola, '54, and Galen Klinger, '52, are co-chairmen of the program.

22 Teachers Are Assigned

Seniors Begin Work In Local Schools

Twenty-two seniors have been placed throughout the city and county schools as part of the student teaching program, Dean Levan P. Smith announced yesterday. Of the 22, five are teaching home economics, nine social studies, five mathematics and science and three languages.

Helen Hasselgren is teaching biology under Samuel Gundy and William A. Heck is teaching social studies under Norman C. Brillhart. In the language departments, Gordon Gockley is teaching German under Warren Gish and Joanne Raffensperger Spanish under Martha Morrette.

Teaching home economics are Joyce Snyder at Southwest with master teachers Marco Riegner and Mildred Wolf, Ruth Ann Schaffer at Southern under Mrs. Donald Rittenhouse and Mrs. Doris Howarter at Northwest under Mrs. Mary Kelly. At Muhlenberg, Mrs. Dorothy Loose will be teaching under Ida Ebling, and Ruth Rahn is under Miriam Parker at West Reading.

At Northeast, in the social studies department, Jessie Nucci is teaching under Harold Roles and Dorothy Deem under Mr. Franklin Ellis. Rodney Haas is teaching with Harold Friedman.

Earl Heydinger is teaching social studies at Southwest under Mr. Bruce Gehret and Charles Martone is teaching social studies at Southern under "Pop" Christman. Frank Cappel is teaching social studies at Pottstown. Under John Harris at Muhlenberg, John McConnell is teaching social studies.

DOROTHY M. DEAM
... Elected Maid

Students to Elect Court Next Week

Doris Hill, '52, 5' 4", blue-eyed brunette from Teaneck, N. J., was overwhelmingly elected 1952 May Queen in the election held Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

In a closely-contested race for runner-up honors, Dorothy M. Deam, of Birdsboro, emerged victorious to be the queen's Maid of Honor.

More than 60 per cent of the student body, 340 in all, voted in the election sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association. The results were announced by Lynn Russo, '52, mistress of ceremonies for May Day, and Margery Mansfield, '52, custodian of the crown.

The coronation ceremony for Miss Hill will be held Saturday afternoon, May 10, as part of Parents' Weekend.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday the students will elect six senior women to the Queen's Court of Honor. The 23 eligible women, including all seniors except the four already elected to take part in May Day, are: Jacqueline Artz, Dolores Bedding, Jane Brozene, Eugenia Dompkowski, Barbara Finch, Lois Gehris, Ingelore Gramm, Helen Hasselgren, Mariastella Kaputo, Pauline Kenyon, Gertrud Kuecklich, Ramona Latorre, Jeanne Maust.

Also Evelyn Nantz, Jessie Nucci, Mrs. Barbara Pomroy, Joanne Raffensperger, Ruth Rahn, Ruth Ann Schaeffer, Joyce Snyder, Mrs. Doris Howarter, Eleanor Williams and Joan Williamson.

Miss Hill is president of Pi Alpha Tau sorority, co-chairman of the Women's Student Senate Friday teas and a member of student council, Heo Club, Skull and Bones and the Domino Club. She is a home economics major.

Editor of the 1952 Cue and president of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, Miss Deam is 5' 6" tall and has brown eyes and hair. She is also vice-president of the Phi Beta Mu sorority and Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity, and a member of F.T.A. Miss Deam is majoring in history.

Buxton to Star In 'Hasty Heart'

Leonard Buxton, '52, will star in "The Hasty Heart," spring production of the Domino Club, to be presented March 13, 14 and 15 under the direction of Mrs. Annadora V. Shirk. A drama by John Patrick, "The Hasty Heart" was chosen by John Gassner in his second series as one of the twenty best plays of the modern American theatre.

Inspired by the author's personal observations during active duty in the war, the play is a story of a Scottish soldier in a hospital in the Orient who has but a few weeks to live. Supporting Buxton in the role of the Scot will be Nancy Lou Walker, '54, as the nurse with whom he falls in love during his illness.

The soldier's few weeks are brightened by his companions in the hospital, Edmund Ettinger, Fred Hess, Peter Schoffstall, William Smith and James Zafares, all '55. The colonel of the British hospital will be played by David Frankhouser, '55, while James Rogers, '55, will be the hospital orderly.

Dates Set for Six Spring Activities

Six major activities have been scheduled for the second semester, Dean Ruth E. Williams, co-chairman of the faculty committee on student organizations and activities, announced this week.

First of these will be the sports carnival, planned for Friday, March 7. Two weeks later, on March 21, stunt night will be held.

Religion in Life Week has been set for Monday, March 31, through Thursday, April 3. The spring Y retreat will be held Saturday, May 3 and Sunday, May 4.

The final major event before the commencement activities will be Parents' Weekend, May 9-11. Highlighting this will be the annual Mardi Gras on Friday, May 9, and the coronation of Doris Hill, '52, as May Queen the following day.

"The Hasty Heart," the Domino Club's spring production, is scheduled for March 13, 14 and 15.

G-Men Lose 59-58 Decision to Temple In Thrilling Battle

In the most thrilling basketball meeting of the season at Northwest the Albright Lions suffered their eighth defeat as against eight victories at the hands of the Temple Owls, 59-58, last Wednesday night. It was Gerry Kittredge's lay-up on a pass from Connie Miller with 50 seconds remaining which gave the visitors their hard-won victory. With 30 seconds left the Lions took five desperation shots at the hoop, two of which rimmed the basket and then popped out.

The game was close from the first quarter after the Philadelphiaans secured an early 8-1 lead of the hosts to two points, 11-9. The margin between the two teams was never more than four points at any time after this, and the first period ended with Albright in the van, 16-13.

With the count 31-30 at intermission the lead changed hands repeatedly in the third period until the last quarter began with Albright leading, 44-42.

A quick Temple field goal tied the totals at 44-44, but with Connie Detting, who had 17 points, dropping two one-hand pivot shots the Lions had a 50-46 margin. At 53-51 Detting fouled out and the hosts' hopes were considerably dimmed. To make matters worse, 1951 All-American Bill Mikvy began to toss in set shots from the side, his three field goals in the last quarter being all-important in the final decision.

Albright's J. V.'s lost to the Birdsboro Sportsmen's Club, 48-39, in the preliminary.

Council Acts to Establish Point System for Leaders, Seeks Power to Dismiss Habitually Absent Members

Establishment of a point system for college leaders marked discussion at an uneventful meeting of student council last Tuesday.

Eliot Sauertieg, '52, made a motion that a committee be appointed to investigate the possibility of instituting a point system. Under this system, a certain number of points would be assigned for varying degrees of participation in campus organizations. No student would be permitted to have more than a specified number of points to his credit.

A point system, Sauertieg explained, would permit more people to hold positions of leadership and would relieve some students of too many responsibilities.

In other actions Tuesday, council:

Approved appointment of a committee to investigate the purchase of a new lion's costume for use at athletic events;

Square Dance Tonight

The Daywomen will sponsor a square dance in Union Hall from 8-11 o'clock tonight, Joyce Snyder, president, announced this week.

The dance will be held for the benefit of Maria, a war orphan.

Gave its approval to an Alpha Pi Omega request that the fraternity be allowed to entertain women at its house, 1616 Olive St., until 11:30 p. m. Fridays;

Granted a request from the Women's Student Senate to hold Tag Day yesterday for its adopted orphan;

Heard a report from the treasurer that the present balance is $396.06.

At its final meeting of the first semester, held January 22, student council considered a constitutional amendment which would give it the power to dismiss representatives who fail to attend a specified number of meetings.

Committee Named

Because several proposed amendments were offered, council acted to appoint a committee to study the proposals and present a final draft. This committee, consisting of William A. Heck and Eliot Sauertieg, '52, and Thomas Stults, '54, was scheduled to meet last Wednesday.

Council approved a motion by James Hilton, '53, that the office of the dean and registrar be requested to provide a schedule of courses in advance of registration and to publish a list of textbooks. The inclusion of the names of the instructors on the list of courses was requested.

New Leaders Needed

In less than four months the class of 1952 will have graduated from Albright College. While this may be a sobering thought to the seniors, it is potentially more sobering to the underclassmen, from whose ranks must soon come the leadership of student activities.

Chief student positions to be filled within the next few months are the presidencies of student council, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Women's Student Senate, the day students' organizations and the editorships of The Cue and The Albrightian.

In many of these organizations there appears to be a dearth of prospective leaders who are both qualified and willing. The dearth results from at least two factors. First, the number of candidates for some of the positions is necessarily limited by constitutional requirements of membership and experience. Second, some of the eligible candidates seem unwilling to assume the responsibilities of leadership or are poorly qualified because of lack of interest or forcefulness.

With or without qualified, vitalized leadership, Albright's student-directed organizations will continue next year and, probably, for years to come. But their contribution to the college and the student body is dependent in large measure upon the foresight and vigorous direction of their leaders. Hence the challenge to the present underclassmen is not to be taken lightly.

In the next few weeks, as consideration is given to leaders for 1952-53, the most conscientious, dependable and experienced students should be sought and encouraged to accept the responsibilities of leadership. They should be made to feel that if they are elected they will receive the support of willing workers within the organization and of the student body in general. Leadership of campus organizations should be made so attractive that the best talent is commanded. It should not be considered something which can be had by default because only one or two express an interest.

On the whole, the record being compiled by Albright's 1951-52 student leaders is a commendable one. It is up to them to continue to give their best to their organizations. Moreover, it is up to the underclassmen, particularly the juniors, to prepare for the leadership which within a few months will be theirs.

Where Were the Cheerleaders?

What's happened to the Albright College basketball band? And where have our cheerleaders been keeping themselves?

Admittedly something has been lacking at the last few basketball games. Admittedly, too, the band members and cheerleaders do not have enviable jobs. Many times we have admired the cheerleaders, in particular, for their attempt to generate school spirit in a spiritless student body. Although their success has not generally been spectacular, they have nevertheless added something to the games by their presence.

Our point is simply this: Insofar as it is possible, every cheerleader should attend the basketball games and lead the student cheers. Furthermore, the student body should respond with enthusiasm.

This Dance Must Never Stop

While breezing through Robert Waithman's "The Day Before Tomorrow," I became aware of the fact that here in America a new dance has been growing upon us. Starting some fifty years ago it has continually grown—not like the jitterbug and the Charleston which become crazes, die, become crazes again, only to go to the grave once more. This dance is composed of four steps: Suction, Compression, Explosion and Exhaust, and what's more, this dance never stopped and must never stop.

It would probably be said of the mid-twentieth century that it was a time when the civilization of the United States was largely sustained by its ability to produce about ten billion explosions a minute in the darkness of small steel cylinders. Figure it out. There are forty-one million vehicles in the United States equipped with internal combustion engines. Say each engine had six cylinders, so that there were two hundred and forty-six million pistons moving back and forth in the cylinders; four hundred and ninety-two million valves opening and closing; and if you calculated the rate of firing of a six-cylinder engine running at average speed you would get either ten billion explosions a minute or some other figure. If you prefer the other figure, that's all right too, since it would have little effect on the argument. The argument is that this is quite some dance, and since there are three million three hundred and thirty thousand miles of roads for the vehicles to run along, and the roads lead everywhere, so that the dance went on across the prairies and swamps and deserts and up and down mountains, while in the cities it rose to such an inferno of flame and hot gasses as would horrify and frighten the ladies who controlled it with their well-shod feet, if it had not been concealed and quieted under the millions of smooth and respectable hoods. The dance must never stop.

This guy Robert Waithman had no small insight about people as the following quote from his aforementioned book will attest.

The Japanese were wonderful little people until comparatively recently, and might well be again comparatively soon. The English were a nation of shopkeepers. The Scots were mean; the Irish full of blarney. The French were "toujours gai" and the Germans were a clean people, scientifically minded but harboring delusions of guttural grandeur. And the Americans—were tough, intent on money-making and not caring what anyone thought about them.

When the Englishman wrote a book about elephants it was called "Hunting the Elephant With Rod and Gun." The Frenchman's book was called "The Elephant and Its Amours" and the German's "The Psychology of the Elephant" and the Russian wrote a book called "The Elephant—Does It Exist?" But the American's book on the elephant was called "Ivory—Million Dollar Bonanza!"

American girls were tough too. Another story related that the French girl said, "Ah love, it is life itself!" The Russian girl said, "—But I will not give you my soul!" The English girl said, "Do you feel better now, dear?" But what the American said was, "Honey, we ought to get this ceiling fixed." L.R.W.

The Temple University News conducted an interesting survey just before the final exams to see how the students did their last minute studying. The answers varied from in a yogi position to in a bathtub filled with warm water. One student said that he starts studying at midnight the night before exams, and then alternately works two hours and sleeps two hours until it is time for the class.

What to Say

The NEA Journal has come up with suggestions for "what to say" on a number of academic occasions. Here's the agenda.

When you are given an objective test: "It doesn't let you express yourself."

When you are given an essay test: "It's so vague. You don't know what's expected."

When you are given many minor tests: "Why not have a few big ones? This keeps you on edge all the time."

When you are given no tests: "It's not fair. How can he possibly judge what we know?"

When every part of the subject is taken up in class: "Oh, he just follows the book."

When you are asked to study a part of the subject by yourself: "Why, he never even discussed it!"

When the course is in lecture form: "We never get a chance to say anything."

When the course consists of informal lectures and discussion: "He just sits there. Who wants to hear the students? They don't know how to teach the course."

When detailed material is presented: "What's the use? You forget it all after the exam anyway."

When general principles are presented: "What did we learn? We knew all that before we took the course."

The Readers Write

Dear Sirs,

Ever since I left the states, I have been wondering where the other fellows I joined the service with were. The last I heard, Floyd Rightmire was enroute to Europe. Rod Shippe, Ed Oberly, and Paul James were at Kessler AFB, Mississippi. Donald McCarthy was at Lowry AFB, Colo. If you know anything pertaining to their whereabouts at the present, I would appreciate it very much if you would let me know.

We were all stationed at Sampson AFB, New York. After we completed our basic there, we split up. Since then I haven't heard anything from any of them. I suppose the reason I haven't heard from them is because I have been up here in Greenland since October 1951.

If possible I would also like my Albrightian sent to me up here. I enjoy reading it immensely.

Thanking you,

Current Tides—The Great Debate

By Russell F. Weigley

In the excitement of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's recent visit to the United States, no one had time to pay much attention when another elder statesman rose to demonstrate that the Anglo-American entente and the whole structure of NATO is not yet out of danger on this side of the Atlantic. Ex-President Herbert Hoover spoke out once more for the viewpoint he put forth a year ago to touch off "the Great Debate" on foreign policy, the idea that America should severely limit its commitment of troops to Europe and should look upon the western hemisphere as the true bastion of freedom.

None of Hoover's adherents this time seized the occasion to begin a new foreign policy debate in Congress; but the ideas Hoover expressed are not dead, and one of the critical issues of the coming national election will be whether men whose basic policy is much like Hoover's will gain control of the Congress and the White House. Neither the United States nor western Europe is secure so long as a sizeable portion of the American population persists in the delusion that our defense can be divorced from the defense of the western powers across the seas.

That our security is inseparable from the security of western Europe was demonstrated more than fifty years ago, in the Spanish-American War. The lesson was clearly enunciated at the time by Admiral Alfred Thayer Mahan, who had already gained international reputation for his powerful statement of "The Influence of Sea Power on History."

The outset of the war with Spain found the American Atlantic fleet divided into two squadrons, one at Hampton Roads, the other off Puerto Rico. From Spain the fleet of Admiral Cervera turned westward to db battle. The Spanish would have been no match for the two American squadrons united; but if Cervera could have caught them apart, he would have had a good chance of beating each separately. Moreover, from the time Cervera left the Canary Islands his whereabouts were unknown; and as long as his destination was undiscovered, the American squadrons could not unite lest some part of

Basketeers Meet N.Y.A.C., Wagner This Weekend

In the Lion's Den

By Tom Masters

The trip to New York City this weekend will be more than a junket. There are two important ball games to be played, along with the general good times of a weekend in New York. Tonight's game with the Athletic Club will be a continuation of a rivalry which pits us against the most experienced squad on our schedule. These boys, for the most part, have four years of college play behind them, so if we're to win, it most likely won't be because we outmaneuvered them. They'll have all the tricks up their own sleeves, leaving us very few.

Wagner, our opponent Saturday night, is a real threat in the metropolitan small college area. This year, as always, the Seahawks will be a tough nut, especially on their own floor. We took a thriller from them two years ago on their Staten Island court and we'll be looking for the same kind of performance tomorrow night.

The defeat last week at Lebanon Valley dealt a real body blow to our chances for a fourth straight MASC Western Division championship, but not all hopes have gone out the window. Still, it will take a victory at Scranton, combined with a Royal win over Lebanon Valley, to give us even a three-way tie for the crown. It must be admitted that Lebanon Valley now has the inside track in the league, needing only a second victory over Scranton to settle the issue. Moravian could still throw a monkey wrench into the proceedings, but this is considered highly unlikely.

Meanwhile, although hopes of a league victory are dim; we still have the prospect of a better than .500 record for the season. But it will take lots of spirited play and some real support by the student body to help bring this result about.

I-M Shenanigans

If anyone's interested in Monday night entertainment these winter months he'll find it at Northeast Junior High. Here the intramural basketballers go through their paces, starting at 7 o'clock. Coach Bobby Hicks has cooked up a red-hot schedule again this year, and with six teams in each of the "A" and "B" leagues, two gyms in action at the same time, and six games a night, how can you lose? Spectators are always welcome at these affairs, so whether your favorite outfit is carded or not, why not make it down to 13th and Marion one of these nights? You won't see basketball as it's played, say, in the Garden, but then that's not the purpose of the whole thing.

Winter Tracksters Are Third in Heat

Although the first two runners finished in first place, the Albright mile relay team's final standing in their heat at the Inquirer Invitation Track Meet was third. Mahlon Frankhouser, Rudolph Becker, Jim Rocktashel, and Harold Kretzing composed the Red & White team, which finished ahead of Muhlenberg but behind St. Peter's and Fairleigh Dickinson.

Elwood Alberts, Albright vaulter, jumped 12' 6" at the Inquirer meet on January 18 in Philadelphia to set a new school record. Coach Eugene Shirk thinks he will reach 13 ft. yet this winter. He is entered in the National A. A. U. meet in New York tomorrow night and in the IC4A competition next week. Mahlon Frankhouser is competing in the 600-yard race.

Leave for NYC, To Play Twice In Two Nights

Split with Clubmen, Beat 'Hawks Last Year

Leaving early this afternoon, Coach Eddie Gulian's basketball Lions will travel to New York City to try their luck against big town competition both tonight and tomorrow night. Tonight they will be pitted against the New York Athletic Club five and will cross the water to Staten Island tomorrow night to meet Wagner College. This trip corresponds to last year's two-day jaunt to Siena and Seton Hall, which resulted in two Albright defeats in as many days.

Against the Winged Foots tonight the Red and White will be meeting an experienced five consisting chiefly of veteran college stars. This bunch has been facing some of the top teams in the New York and New England area and, although they have not registered too many victories, they have been throwing scares into many court behemoths. Last Friday night they played Boston College on their Manhattan floor and dropped a 72-64 decision to the Eagles, despite a last-quarter rally which brought them within six points of the winners. Gerry Smith and Ed Mathiasen had 18 and 16 points, respectively, for the Clubmen.

Last year Albright met these amateur performers twice. In New York they lost, 88-74. The two clubs met again a week later at Northwest and the Lions got sweet revenge with an 82-54 victory. This year's N. Y. A. C. squad has no holdovers from these engagements.

The Wagner Seahawks, as of last Monday, had an 11-7 record. They have consistently set back metropolitan teams of their own ranking, but have lost to such New York powers as St. John's, Manhattan and Brooklyn College. They also bowed to Gettysburg, an early season conqueror of Albright. Moravian and Dickinson have bowed to the Green and White as they have to Albright.

Clark University, of Worcester, Mass., lost to the Hawks last Friday by 77-37 count. The winners allowed their victims only eight points in the second half after holding a 39-29 lead at intermission. Probable line-ups:

Albright	Wagner
Amole	F Harreus
Detting	F Sweeney
Potts	C Gromisch
Leitham	G Frolander
Whitman	G Rotelli

Intramural Leagues Launch Second Half Schedules; Kappas Take First

Zetas Defeated, 29-19, In Deciding Contest

Play was resumed in the intramural basketball league on Monday night, February 11. Because of the suspension of the Zeta and Kappa teams from participating in intramural sports, only four games were scheduled.

In the A league, the APOs handed the KTX boys a stunning 65-20 setback. It was APO ahead all the way until the finish, with Tony D'Apolito leading the victors with 18 points.

During the 8 o'clock time spot the Pi Taus won their game with the Joy Boys, 88-55. Scoring for Pi Taus was practically split evenly, with Hallock's 28 points high.

On the smaller court the first game scheduled was forfeited by the Boo Hisers to the South House

Cubs Post Three Wins, Lose Three

Coach Bobby Hicks' Lion Cubs were under the .500 mark for their mid-semester card by taking three decisions and losing four.

The J. V.'s lost to Moravian at Bethlehem on January 16, 68-62, in a close, hard-fought battle. The hosts, however, had a little extra staying power and used it to win.

Before the Bucknell game on January 19 the Cubs bested the V.V.V.'s of the City Rec League, 47-33. "Snook" Reusing topped the winners with 17 points.

The Elizabethtown J. V.'s were the next victims of the Red and White reserves by a 37-31 count. Bob Dey and Dale Hartline each had 12 points for the winners, but Chapman of the visitors popped in 13 markers for the evening's honors.

On February 1 they visited Hershey Junior College and stopped the boys from Chocolate Town by an 85-70 margin for their highest total of the season. Carl Bucks, of the losers, had 29 points for high honors while Albright scoring was evenly split.

The powerful Seton Hall reserves handed the scrapping J. V.'s a 54-46 setback the next evening at Northwest, but not before they had narrowed the gap to four points at one time in the fourth period.

On February 6 they tasted defeat at Lebanon Valley by an overwhelming 68-47 margin. This was the second time they had bowed to the neophyte Dutchmen this season. The Blue and White boys had height and good speed, which they used to advantage against the visitors.

dorm men. The second game was a neck and neck duel which found the North House beating the Rebels, 76-70.

Two weeks ago the Kappas defeated the Zetas, 29-19, in a hard fought battle for the first half title.

Lafayette Schedules Albright in Football

In announcing their 1952 football schedule Lafayette College has disclosed that Albright has been scheduled for a contest at Easton on October 4. This game will follow the Leopards' opener with Bucknell at Lewisburg and will be their own home inaugural. Last year Albright resumed athletic relations with Lafayette and defeated them, 12-6, in the opener for both teams in 1951.

OVERHEAD SHOT

Roaring Lions Beat Moravian By 77-60 Count

Victors Garner Eighth Win, Third in MASC

Albright's Roaring Lions, paced by Captain Gerry Potts' 27 points, handed the Greyhounds from Moravian a 77-60 loss at Northwest to snap a two-game losing streak.

The victory, the second over Moravian this season, brought Albright's record to three and two in the MASC Western Division standings and their over-all record to eight wins and seven losses.

Get Off Fast

The Lions got off to a fast start, leading the Moravian passers, 17-6, at the end of the first quarter. Potts, Lefty Leitham and Connie Detting spearheaded the attack which gave Albright a lead they never lost.

Detting, runnerup in the scoring with 17 points, was perfect from the charity stripe, dropping nine shots in as many tries.

The Lions hiked their lead to 14 points in the second period, holding a 37-23 bulge at the intermission. The Greyhounds found the range in the third game, outscoring Coach Eddie Gulian's hosts, 21-19, and then, early in the last quarter, closing the gap to eight points, the narrowest margin the Lions held during the entire game.

Hot on Foul Line

The visitors almost matched the Gulianmen in the field goal department, dropping 27 deuces compared with 29 made by the host Albright squad. The greatest margin was in the free throw department where Albright made good on 19 of 26 attempts compared to the six for 17 by the Moravian passers.

In the preliminary, Moravian's Junior Varsity beat Coach Bobby Hicks' Red and White tossers, 62-50. Roth and Schaeffer led the visitors with 19 points each while Snook Reusing and Wally Goss were high for the Albright Junior Varsity sharing 22 points evenly.

Johnny Regan. Although George Amole went one better than Dukes in scoring with 19 points and Connie Detting matched him, there was no doubt about the big man's All-America calibre. A driving Albright team managed to outscore the visitors by three points in the second half.

Valley Wins Again

Albright's record again returned to the .500 mark when the Lebanon Valley Flying Dutchmen tacked an 84-67 defeat on Gulian's men at Annville on February 6. This loss spelled trouble for Albright's MASC Western Division chances as they dropped a game behind the front-running Dutchmen and the Scranton Royals. Howie Landa, from Philadelphia, paced the Blue and White attack with 24 counters.

The Lions, after being down by only 40-37 at half-time, could not keep up with their hosts in the second half. They failed to use their height advantage under the boards throughout the whole contest and were out-fought for rebounds most of the night. The streaking winners fast-broke the visitors off their feet, especially in the last quarter.

Albright's fifth victory came at the expense of Juniata, 95-53, on January 30. This veritable scoring feast set a new record for the Indians' new field house. Potts' 34 points was also an individual scoring record for the new floor. The final account might possibly have been run up past the century mark had not the Red and White reserves played the entire last quarter. Potts and Detting towered over the Indians and had little trouble under the boards. Freshman guard Dave Pollack showed an accurate set shot for the losers and garnered 25 points.

Returning home on February 2 the Lions played before a packed house of close to 3,000 but had no luck with the Pirates of Seton Hall University, losing 68-54. The nationally-ranked Jerseyites, coached by Honey Russell, were held to a 12-12 deadlock after the first quarter but broke away to a 40-23 half-time lead on 28 second-quarter points.

Walter Dukes, 6' 11" center, was unstoppable under the boards, both on rebounds and shots. He had some play-making assistance from

Draft Test Set for April

Student Deferment Rules Explained

All eligible students who intend to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test in 1952 should file applications at once for the April 24 administration, selective service national headquarters has announced.

An application and a bulletin of information may be obtained at any selective service local board. Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application immediately and mail it in the special envelope provided. Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 10.

Results of the test will be reported to the student's selective service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student. A score of 70 or better, plus a place in the upper portion of his class, may result in the student's receiving a 2-S classification, which may be renewed each year to permit him to finish college.

Students who are called for induction will be deferred until the end of the academic year, but only one such deferment is given to students in this situation. Such a deferment is classified 1-S.

A student who receives induction orders should ask the dean to notify the local board that the student is doing satisfactory work and that his work began before his induction notice. Actual attendance at classes is necessary. Enrollment, acceptance and registration alone will not secure a deferment.

Students who receive a 1-S rating can appeal to their state appeal board for a 2-S classification. Some 1-S deferments may be switched to 2-S at the end of an academic year.

The challenge of Christian vocations will be presented next week.

Current Tides

our coast be left uncovered. This last fact demonstrated Mahan's point; we cannot defend adequately our own Atlantic coast, much less the whole of the western hemisphere, if an enemy sea power has control of the coasts of Europe and can thus menace us at any of a thousand places. Luckily in 1898 the Spanish were unable to take advantage of the opportunity offered them to defeat our fleet in detail; but as Mahan remarked, we are never again likely to meet an enemy so completely inept.

Mahan's teachings in this case have become no less valid in the age of air power. If Britain should fall, for example, our bases in Iceland would probably become untenable in the face of enemy aircraft based relatively nearby; if Iceland should fall, Greenland would go next and the enemy would be well on his way to North America. Control of western Europe by an enemy would make the defense of the western hemisphere almost impossible from the standpoint of geography alone; add to this the tremendous weight that western European industry and manpower could throw into the scales for an aggressor, and the necessity of our contributing to western Europe's security becomes apparent.

also noted that operating expenses of the college have increased 127 per cent since 1941.

Deficit Must Be Avoided

"How to avoid operational deficits is our big financial problem," Doctor Masters said. "We are constantly faced with the problem of inadequate salaries. We have made increases each year for several years and further increases are greatly needed. Non-education operating expenses also continue to increase."

He listed the chief potential sources of income for the college as the church, the alumni and "other friends," chiefly residing in Reading and Berks County.

The report listed $19,000 received last year from the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

President Masters advised the board to give consideration to establishing committees to formulate plans for the college centennial celebration in 1956 and for a financial program which will culminate in the centennial year.

Lower Enrollment Expected

Doctor Masters warned that based on survey figures, enrollment at Albright next September is expected to be down about 10 per cent from last September. Total enrollment now is 522.

Treasurer Gordon reported that income from student tuition and fees as compared with the previous year decreased $16,769.80 and was the direct result of a reduced student enrollment.
