May Queen Crowning To Be Held May 1st At Upper-Class Ball

Costumes and Dances Eliminated Entirely; Girls To Get Carnations

Once again the Pearl Harbor incident has reached into Albright College life and snatched away one of its old traditions, one which is an outdoor affair especially endeared to the coeds.

The affair is the crowning of the May Queen. The coronation will not be eliminated entirely, however. The event has been curtailed and planned for the indoors.

The junior-senior dance committee voted at a recent meeting to allot 15 minutes of their dance on May 1 at the Abraham Lincoln for the queen's coronation. The costumes and the dances which were sponsored by the physical education department will be cut out in their entirety. The girls who are to participate in this event will be notified by the reception of a white carnation to be worn as a corsage at the dance.

IRC, Forensic Group Announce Contest

Discussions Extempore In Chapel February 19

An Extemporaneous Discussion Contest, sponsored by the International Relations Club and the debate squad, will be held February 19 in the college chapel. The student who has demonstrated the greatest mastery of a topic concerning Inter-American trade or mutual contributions to hemispheric peace and friendship and has exhibited superior ability in public expression of his ideas shall represent Albright at a district conference in March at which delegates from eight or ten neighboring schools will participate. Defense Stamps On Sale; Buy Now From Treasurer

Defense Savings Stamps are now on sale at the Treasurer's office. Students are urged to buy as many stamps as they possibly can afford, to help our war effort. "Let's bind and seal the Axis with defense bonds and stamps."

Albright Debaters To Keep On Talking

T K A Convention To Be Held Here

Debating on the Albright campus will not be suspended because of the war emergency. Following the declaration of war, the squad voted unanimously to continue some form of inter-collegiate discussion even though the selection of a question was a difficult task.

To compensate for the obsolescence of the A.E.F. resolution, the debaters will conduct symposiums on the question: "How will the national emergency affect the curtailment of our civil liberties?" As long as an interest remains in the labor question, the team will continue to argue it with other colleges.

The regional Tau Kappa Alpha convention will be held on our campus this year. This is the first time that a forensic conference of this kind will be held at Albright. Colleges from the mid-eastern states will convene here on April 15. In March, representatives from Albright will attend the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Debating Society at Penn State.

Plans are being made for an Albright student to enter the national "Extempore-Discussion Contest on Inter-American Affairs." Applicants should see Dr. John B. Douds for further information.

Defense Council Issues Duties To Campus Wardens and Helpers

College Setup To Aid Students In Civilian Work

The Albright College council of defense this week gave out to the student defense corps the assignments of their duties in case of an emergency. The purpose of this student defense corps is not only to provide protection for the students of Albright, but also to saturate the students with civilian defense instruction so that when they leave college they will be able to take their places in the defense systems of their respective communities.

The duties of the air raid wardens as pointed out in the bulletin issued by the defense council are to spread the general alarm and to take full charge of the persons to which they are assigned. They must know all of the people under their surveillance personally and must know what fire hazards and facilities there are in their territory. They should know where all danger spots are, such as gas pipes, water mains, inflammable materials, and the like. They should have access to fire-fighting and excavating tools and know the way to operate them.

The duty of the fire-watchers will be to report to their stations immediately in case of a raid and to put their building in readiness for the raid. They should report all incendiary bomb-hits to the fire-fighting squad, help to fight the fires, and report the blazes which get out of control to the city fire department.

Food and Housing

It is the duty of the emergency food and housing wardens to provide food and shelter for those whose living quarters have been damaged by air raids or other disasters.

The problem of the auxiliary fire division is to fight fires caused by air raids and to resist the regular (Continued on page 2, column 4)

Staff Meeting Today; Editor Asks For Juniors

There will be a meeting of the Albrightian staff at 1 p. m. today in room 103. Assignments for next week's issue will be handed out. An urgent call is hereby being sent out for juniors who will "carry on" next year.—Editor.

"Cue" To Be Issued 2nd Week Of April

Nature Of Dedication To Remain Secret

Announcing that the 1942 "Cue" will be issued to the student body on Wednesday, April 15, Seymour Mendelsohn, editor-in-chief, stated this week that the year book is nearing completion and will be sent to the publishers very shortly.

Outstanding characteristics of the latest "Cue" are realism and informality. The 160 pages are divided into six main sections: the introduction, college and faculty, seniors and juniors, social and extra-curricular activities, sports, and features. The opening section has the pictures of campus life arranged according to seasons of the year. The features include many shots of freshman orientation, "Hell Week," dances, and proms. An added attraction is the page entitled "Spring Fever."

The 1942 "Cue" is not being dedicated to any particular person. The exact nature of the dedication is a staff secret and will remain so until April. Special arrangement has been made to have the first 16 pages in red type. The college colors are displayed on the cover. The leather of whirlpool design is bright red and the lettering is in white silver. The book (Continued on page 2, col. 2)

Home-ec Girls Find Way To Man's Heart, Assert Male Desire To Avoid Dishpan

By JANE

Every year the freshman boys are made homesick by those delicious odors coming from the home ec lab. Occasionally a privileged guest is fed some of these tempting dishes and the department gains another staunch supporter (ask ye ed).

After the demonstrations given last semester by the girls taking the course there was always company for dinner. In fact, the southern end of the basement floor of the ad building was so popular on demonstration days that the girls were sometimes there 'til 7 o'clock in the evening washing dishes. The appreciative males were always full of praise until dishwashing was mentioned, and then they suddenly had important engagements. The girls did discover one Ray of sunshine for those dishwashing hours.

But the home ec girls don't spend all their time cooking. This same demonstration class will make a trip to New York City soon to discover in what types of work a home economist might be employed.

And then, there's the "practice house." Outsiders cannot appreciate all the time a senior home ec student spends during her six-weeks' stay in the cottage. The girls have to put up with the baby's crying, that awful dusting, and cooking of all the meals; but that's not all. There are always some mistakes that have to be lived down by every girl, but it's better not to mention them because they're sore spots.

Next time students in classes in the ad building are kept from studying by the odor of roast beef or a baking angel food cake, there'll probably be a stampede for the home ec lab which proves that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach," but the way to a girl's is to wash the dishes afterwards.

American Youth Revolts!

By ART McKAY

Just past week I read an article that I should like to share in part with you. It came from the prolific pen of Miss Dorothy Thompson, with whose viewpoint this observer does not often agree.

These are words that demand attention and thought. I give them to you directly as they appeared in the magazine, Free America, issue of January, 1942:

"What has been happening under the surface among American youth is, indeed, revolutionary. But it is the American revolution that is trying to win again—out of the rigidity, the tawdriness, the dictatorship of high pressure salesmen, hacks, and copywriters, the neon-lighted senselessness that so much of our urban society has become; seeking to win again the revolution of the lovers of independence; the brotherhood of workmen and scholars; Thoreau and Emerson walking with carpenters; creative industry rising from the cracker-barrel; the steam-rivator and mechanic certain of their status, as full American citizens, not afraid to assert their rights; work through which one can make a life, not only a living. Sense in work; purpose in it; friendliness in it. Whitman's great Democracy of Friends."

"I assert that among the present generation of youth in America are some great unknown leaders, who know intuitively where this generation's youth wants to go—at home and abroad. The conscious among this youth have come to a carefully cherished, wise-crackingly veiled faith by way of scepticism. Their hearts have affinity with the worker and the farmer. In them, and in the workers, we can rest our faith that we shall win this war, overthrow the unspeakable perverters, and win the peace that will prove to be the peace of those who, fighting on all the fronts, have escaped being defiled."

Defense Progress

Last week's edition of the paper explained the defense fund set-up which is being organized on the campus. This week we wish to report that progress has been made along the collection line. The student council president informs us that the school has allotted storage space for the materials which are to be collected.

Another innovation comes along with the collection of tin cans. The chemistry department has given a problem in research to the senior chemistry students which will tie up with the national defense and will require some tin cans. If the process sought will materialize, quite a few tin cans will find their way into this experiment.

Shush The Bronx Addicts

"We see by the papers"—that the sports writers and various other people in the city and on the campus have remarked concerning the behavior of the rooting sections at the basketball games. You probably know what we're driving at—yes, it's the booing of the opposing team. This certainly is not maintaining the fine record of sportsmanship for which Albright has been noted in the past. We do not say that the students are to blame. We realize that the majority of the spectators are not college students, but we believe that if the students will cooperate, this nuisance can be practically eliminated.

We know that some of the students have been booing the opponents, but anyone with a knowledge of psychology will assert the tremendous influence which mob rule can hold. This principle, we believe, applies also in the reverse order—that is, if the students will attempt to quiet or "shush" these addicts from the Bronx, the booing will be reduced to a minimum. Let's try out our theory tomorrow night and see if we can't get some worthwhile results.

Y's To Hold Service; Negro Group To Sing

The combined "Y's" will sponsor a worship service in the college chapel next Tuesday evening at 7:30 p. m.

The Reverend Kelly Goodwin will be the speaker for the evening. A group of Negro singers from Reading will present special musical selections as a part of the program.

Following the religious service there will be games and refreshments in the "Y" room.

All students on campus are invited to attend this meeting.

Lions To Battle Bullets

Here are the unofficial attendance records of Albright's seven home games.

Moravian	1,300
Bucknell	1,300
Kutztown	950
Wyoming	2,400
Ursinus	1,100
Villanova	1,900
Long Island U.	2,600

Total11,550

Remember we said these figures were unofficial, but our secret agent PS37581 is sure that the numbers are pretty close to being accurate. That includes paid admissions, students, Annie Oakleys, and the kids that slip in the side entrances.

It looks as if Coach Harris' hopes of doubling last year's attendance mark of 11,000 for 10 home games may not be realized, but basketball will show blue marks for the second straight year. It's been a long time, so the oldtimers say, since Albright made a profit in the cage sport. With four home games still to be played with Muhlenberg, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, and Lebanon Valley furnishing the opposition, Albright has a chance of reaching the 20,000 mark.

If the Red and White passers are going to win the Eastern Penn Collegiate League crown they must cop their remaining nine games. Albright has only played four contests to date, while Coach Doggie Julian's Mules and F&M have six and five games under their belts. That's a tough assignment for any club but we'll stick along with our pre-season prediction that Albright will be the 1942 champions.

Ursinus has decided to drop their intercollegiate spring sports schedule for this year because of the war. The Collegeville officials plan to concentrate on supporting the Hale America program for physical fitness.

We should soon be hearing what sort of setup the Albright officials have planned to make the students exercise-conscious. (There are Prof. Green's Saturday afternoon hikes. That's right—we're taking his zoology course.)

If you have time read Charles Atlas' article in the current Saturday Evening Post. The World's Most Perfectly Developed Man tells how to get that physique the women admire.

Reports that had been circulating a month ago that Doggie Julian, Muhlenberg's head football and basketball coach, would definitely be ousted, now appear to be idle rumors. When the Mules grid team lost a few ball games the wolves were really howling. However, a smashing win over Carnegie Tech helped to ease the pressure.

Doggie, no matter what the grandstanders say—is a good coach, and with his present cage squad riding high at the top of the E.P.C.L. things once again look rosy for the former Reading boy.

Albright Basketeers Out For Win Over Third-Place Battlefielders

Club Concentrates On Loop Tilts As Exhibitions End

With all their exhibition games out of the way, Albright's colorful cagers now can concentrate on winning the Eastern Penn Collegiate League for the first time in the school's history. One of the Lions' major objectives will be Gettysburg's quintet tomorrow night on the Northwest court, starting at 8:30. The Lion frosh entertain Franklin and Marshall Academy in the opener at 7:15.

With Muhlenberg and F & M sharing the first rung with undefeated cards, the Lions will have to go through their remaining nine league tilts without a setback. The Diplomats and the Mules meet tomorrow night in a battle for undisputed possession of first place.

Coach Neal Harris will rely on his regular combination of Spangler, Rhoads, Shollenberger, Hopkins, and Boltz to turn back an up-and-coming Bullet quintet. The Battlefielders are reposing in third place with three decisions and one loss.

The Bullets downed Bucknell, Ursinus, and the winless Lebanon Valley outfits, while their lone reverse was administered by the Mules. Albright has notched wins over Bucknell and Ursinus and lost to F&M several weeks ago. Wednesday night's Ursinus score, which will affect the standing, is not available at this time.

Dick Shollenberger will be facing one of his former Reading High teammates in George Dracha, standout guard for Coach Hen Bream. Dracha, only a sophomore, has earned a starting berth with his steady all-around play. The job of holding down the Bullets' ace point-getter, Cal Welliver, will probably fall to smooth Kenny Hopkins, All-Conference guard.

Bob Buyer is the only starter that saw action against the Lions last year when the two outfits split even in the two engagements. The Red and White passers lost on the Bullets' home court, 35-30, and then gave the Breammen a sound thrashing at Northwest, 55-31. Two other sophomores, Parnell and Tony Yovlesin, round out the first five.

Harris will stick to his regular freshman lineup of Jimmy Bunn, Dick Stark, Bill Dearden, Les Pushman, and Russ Guensch. Lanky Walt Hauser, fully recovered from his appendectomy, is giving big Bill Dearden a battle for the starting center assignment. This is the first affair between the Lion cubs and the F. and M. Academy team.

Michaels Leads Loop In Frat Scoring

Kappa Center Averages 16 Points

The boys at the Northeast Junior High School and at the 13th and Union grade school are going to send Paul Michaels a bill for the purchase of some new backboards and baskets. Paul has been hitting the boards terrifically to set the pace in scoring in the intra-mural league. The big Kappa center is now leading the loop with 61 field goals and 12 fouls for 134 points for a 16. point average.

Trailing Paul by 21 markers, is Wally Duncavage. Wally has anchored 52 field goals and nine fouls for a total of 113 points. The blond frosh forward, now a member of the freshmen team, created somewhat of a minor revolution when he swished the sphere through the net 17 times for 34 points. This new record betters by five points that set last year by Carl Mogel, former Kappa ace, now at the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

Steve Plaskonas is third in the point-scoring race with 39 field goals and 14 fouls. Steve takes top honors for foul shooting, missing only three out of 17 attempts.

In team scoring, the Kappas are far in the lead with 462 markers. The Frosh and A.P.O.'s are next in line, while the champion Zetas trail.

The Frosh, who boast Wally Duncavage as a record breaker, did a little breaking themselves when they swarmed over the Daymen 100-33. This mark is seven points better than the record set last year by the Kappas, who had defeated the same Daymen, 93-26.

Down at the bottom are the Daymen, led by Ted Stoudt. The Pi Taus, with Hal Hain doing most of the scoring, have collected 254 markers.

Female Basketeers Lose Opener 25-18

Heavy Schedule Chosen For '42

The Albright girls' basketball schedule for the coming season has just been completed. The manager, Ellen Witmoyer, and the captain, Esther Whitehead, are responsible for the making-up of the most ambitious schedule ever attempted by the girl basketeers. Two new teams were added in addition to those appearing on last year's schedule. They are Elizabethtown and Rider. The game with Elizabethtown has already been played and was won by the E-town girls by the score of 25-18.

The following is the schedule:

Feb. 12—Lebanon Valley (away)
Feb. 17—Moravian (away)
Feb. 20—Lebanon Valley (home)
Feb. 23—Rider (away)
Feb. 27—Moravian (home)

After trouncing the Frosh 49-37, Herb Vogt and the Zetas served notice on the other clubs in the intra-mural basketball league that they intend staying in first place for the duration — of the second half. Led by Herb Vogt who rang the bell for eighteen points before being forced to leave the game, the first-half title-holders ran up an early lead and were never headed. Mike Plaskonas with 12 markers and Ralph Wagner with 18 were the big guns for the Frosh.

Tied with the Zetas are the Kappas who breezed to an easy 42-27 victory over the outclassed A.P.O.'s. Steve Plaskonas and Paul Michaels were the high men for each team, each scoring 10 points.

The third team tied for the first place are the Daymen who rode roughshod over the Pi Tau's 62-27. Ralph Frymoyer with 22 markers was high man for the boys from under the dining hall. Close behind in the scoring honors was Tom Stoudt, 19 points and Herb Derr 17 points. Lou Pearce with five fields and one foul led the Pi Taus at the basket.

Professor Newton Danford and Mrs. Anna Heere Smith represented Albright College on January 30 at a meeting of the state council of defense. It was a special meeting on defense of schools, universities, and colleges.

Dr. Graham Cook addressed airwarden instructors upon war gases Thursday, January 29.

Dr. Cook and Professor Danford gave demonstrations on gas explosions at a general assembly meeting last Friday evening.

JOURNAL OF SCIENCE

BY DENNIS STRAWBRIDGE

Scouts of Industry

Industry is ever on the alert to pick up new men with new ideas. Trained men are rapidly becoming a priority in our expanding defense program. We read about the major league baseball teams sending out scouts to recruit the best new available material, but they have nothing on the Hercules Powder Co. A representative of this company recently visited the campus to canvas the roster of our senior chemistry students. Many students filed applications. Already the Hercules Powder Company has selected two of our senior chemists, Leon Steckley and Ferrill Miller, to report for work in the research laboratory of the company following graduation exercises in May. This is a splendid opportunity for these two seniors, an opportunity which may very well lead them to broader horizons in the field of chemistry.

Industry has recently picked up an old chemistry friend of ours, William Brandenburg of the class of '40. He is located at Bloomfield, New Jersey, in the research laboratory of Bakelite Corporation.

So Long, Doc

Next year, the senior pre-med class will seem empty and uninviting, for two of the docs will not be seen dissecting specimens. These two juniors, Winfield Morgan and Louis Pearce have received and accepted nominations to the Temple School of medicine. We'll miss these two lads, but we can be assured that they will be in good company for there are already five Albrightians at Temple and next year we will send six more. Good luck, lads.

They Wanted Wings

Professor Oliver George has organized a non-college civilian pilot training program to run in the evenings during the second semester. One hundred men, high school graduates from the ages of 18 to 25 inclusive, are vying for 30 flight scholarships. These embryo pilots must compete among themselves for these scholarships that are available. At the end of the ground school training those 30 students who have maintained the highest academic average will be privileged to attend the flight training at the Reading Municipal Airport.

The spring flight program for college students is now being organized. All sophomores and more advanced students are urged to submit their applications as soon as
