Chaplain Of Rutgers To Speak at Chapel

Tuesday, January 16, the chapel speaker will be Reverend Bradford S. Abernethy, Chaplain of Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey.

He has been Chaplain of Rutgers since August 1, 1945, and Hill Professor of Bible and Ethics since July 1, 1946.

Reverend Mr. Abernethy is a graduate of Haverford College and the Colgate Rochester Divinity School. He also studied at the Universities of Edinburgh and Oxford on a fellowship from Colgate Rochester. He spent the summer of 1930 with the late Dr. Wilfred Grenfell in Labrador, and four years later travelled throughout Europe, Egypt, and the Holy Land.

Pastor

From 1935 to 1941, Mr. Abernethy served as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Columbia, Missouri. In 1941 he joined the staff of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America as secretary of the Commission on a Just and Durable Peace. In 1943 he became director of the Council's Commission on the Church and Minority Groups. He came to Rutgers two years later.

He is past president of the National Association of College and University Chaplains, and a Trustee of World University Service.

BRADFORD S. ABERNETHY

In June of 1953 Reverend Mr. Abernethy began an 18 month leave of absence from the State University to serve as director of the European Seminar Program of the American Friends Service Committee. While in Europe, the Rutgers' Chaplain planned, directed or participated in 13 three-week student seminars on problems of international relations.

Hungarian Refugee

In the spring of 1957, Reverend Mr. Abernethy directed a two-month "English Language and Orientation" program for Hungarian refugee scientists, sponsored by Rutgers and the National Academy of Sciences.

Mr. and Mrs. Abernethy spent the summer of 1958 in West Africa as leaders of an Afro-American student work-camp and study project in Sierra Leone.

Standard Oil Presents Grant

A $2,000 grant was presented to Dr. Masters by Mr. C. L. Loose, of Leesport, and Mr. Jack L. Krick, '58, of Wyomissing, on behalf of the Esso Education Foundation.

Mr. M. J. Rathbone, President of the Standard Oil Company and Chairman of the Foundation, announced that grants totaling $1,900,000 will be made during the 1961-62 academic year. The Foundation, which was established in 1955 by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), is also supported by five domestic affiliates of Jersey Standard: Humble Oil and Refining Company, Esso International, Inc., Esso Research and Engineering Company, Humble Pipe Line Company, and Jersey Production Research Company.

Unrestricted

The Foundation's unrestricted grants, constituting the largest single category in the program, distributes $763,000 to 266 institutions, $85,000 to Medical Education, and $50,000 to the Negro College Fund; bringing the unrestricted allocations to nearly $900,000.

It is Mr. Rathbone's view that the unrestricted grants will allow institutions to make use of the money in an advantageous manner.

The Foundation, in addition to the unrestricted grants, distributes $551,000 for fellowships, scientific research, and miscellaneous projects.

Mr. Rathbone says "As a result of its policy of making grants to individual institutions on a flexible basis, the Foundation has been able not only to achieve a broad coverage but also to provide for a number of projects of a pioneering nature that would not fit into a more rigid program." The idea is to allow for the outgrowth of many advances in education such as the writing of textbooks and increasing incentive in many students.

An interest by industry, such as this, merits our sincere gratitude and thanks and should spur us on to a greater appreciation of our facilities in education.

HEO Elects '62 Officers

The January 9, 1962 meeting of the Home Economics Organization was the scene of the election of the club's new officers. Phyllis Merle, '63, from Attica, New York was elected president of the club. The newly elected vice president is Dorothy Schultz, '64, from Rahway, New Jersey. Beverly Schelhaus, '64, was elected as the recording secretary. Beverly comes from Westminster, Maryland. Eleanor Schlenker, '63, of Reading, Pennsylvania, was elected as the corresponding secretary. The elected treasurer is Deborah Gunderman, '64, from Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania.

Bruce Yeo Named Editor For Semester

Bruce Yeo, '62, has been named editor of The Albrightian for the coming semester. He will replace Ronald Mendelzon, '63, who is resigning after a semester as head of the paper but will continue his service on the staff as managing editor.

A native of Syracuse, N. Y., Yeo is a political science major and a member of the International Relations Club on campus. Presently, he is considering journalism as a career.

Also assuming new positions on the Albrightian staff will be Patricia Modlin, '63, and James Talada, '63, as business manager and associate editor respectively. Miss Modlin, whose home address is Jackson Heights, is majoring in Spanish, and plans to make teaching her career. In addition to serving on the Albrightian staff for the past year and a half, Miss Modlin has been an active cheerleader and a member of the Phi Beta Mu sorority.

Talada, who hails from Towanda, Pa., is a pre-law student, majoring in economics. He is president of Epsilon Nu and a member of the Enterprise Club. As associate editor he will assist in layout and writing of the paper.

Continuing in their present positions for the second semester will be David Walton, '64, as news editor, Barry Parney, '63, as sports editor, Joanna Oberlander, '63, in the position of advertising manager, Carol Sirken, '63, as circulation manager, and Anita Schmehl, '63, as typist. Bonnie Price, '62, and Carl Schneider, '63, will continue their work on the staff as editorial assistants. Both are former editors of The Albrightian.

Chapel Gains New Resonance

Recent additions to the organ in Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial Chapel-Auditorium at Albright College have it an instrument described now as a "handsome two manual organ."

Built by the Wicks Organ Co., Highland, Ill., the organ was installed in 1959 by William H. Rowland, 509 Lockheed Ave., Greenfields, Wicks' eastern representative.

Rowland also worked on the addition of pipes, completed earlier this month, which includes a 16' (Continued on Page Two)

Dr. K. C. Wu

Convocation Of 1962 To Feature Statesman

Distinguished Chinese statesman K. C. Wu will be the featured speaker at the eighth annual Albright College Community Convocation, February 3 and 4, 1962.

Dr. Wu will discuss "Red China's Threat to the Free World" in identical dinner programs, Saturday, February 3, at 6:30 p.m., and Sunday, February 4, at 6 p.m. in the college dining hall.

Former governor of Formosa, mayor of Hankow, Chungking, and Shanghai, and acting Minister of Foreign Affairs and Minister of Information for the Chinese Nationalist government until 1954, K. C. Wu has long been recognized in the United States as the most articulate and effective spokesman of the Nationalist cause.

Lyceum Features Dr. William Davidson

A Labor Lyceum Forum will be held January 14, 1962, at 8 p.m., in the Central Y.M.C.A., 631 Washington St., Reading. Speaking will be Dr. William C. Davidson and his topic will be "Civil Defense and the H-Bomb."

Dr. William Davidson since September 1961 has been Professor of Physics at Haverford College. Before that he was Associate Physicist at Argonne National Laboratory, engaged in theoretical research on the properties of fundamental particles, a position he has held since 1956. He has received three degrees from the University of Chicago, all in physics: B.S. in 1947; M.S. in 1950; Ph.D. in 1954.

William Davidson is vice chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, a group concerned with the impact of science on society, and chairman of the Chicago chapter, the Atomic Scientists of Chicago. He is a member of the American Physical Society, and of the subcommittee on Security Through Arms Control of the National Planning Association. He is co-chairman of the Peace Education Program Steering Committee, American Friends Service Committee, Chicago Regional Office.

William Davidson has written extensively. In addition to numerous professional papers, his writings have appeared in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists; he is co-author of the National Planning Association studies 1970 Without Arms Control and The Nth Country Problem.

Albright students are invited to hear Dr. Davidson.

Education

Born in central China in 1903 and educated in the United States, Dr. Wu was graduated from Grinnell, Iowa, College, and received the M.A. and Ph. D. degrees from Princeton University.

As Formosa's governor, he was responsible for the first free elections in the island's history in 1950, and agrarian reform legislation in 1952 that the New York Times termed "one of the most sweeping land reforms in Asia."

Times Editorial

An editorial in the same paper commented: "The Provincial Government under the brilliant leadership of K. C. Wu has shown itself to be progressive, social-minded, and receptive to honest help. It is cooperative in the best sense."

By 1953 Dr. Wu had become increasingly concerned about the police-state methods introduced by Chiang Kai-shek's son on Formosa, which threatened to undo all these hard-won democratic reforms.

Resigned

He resigned his governorship and came as Minister without Portfolio to the U.S., where he was invited to speak before the Senate Foreign Relations and the House Foreign Affairs Committees. As a result of his constructive criticisms of the Chiang regime, Dr. Wu was expelled from the Kuomintang cabinet.

The Psychology Of Service

A famous diplomat on his way to an important international conference watched the Air France hostess go about her job of soothing every conceivable temperament on the plane and said: "You seem to have the knack of pleasing everyone. What's your secret? I could use it in my line of work."

The pretty Gallic young lady smiled broadly and replied, "I think it starts with trying to please myself." The diplomat, for once, was speechless. The young lady had put her finger on a basic psychological tenet of how to deal with people—set your own standards of behavior and live up to them, then the public will be the beneficiary.

From airline hostess to top management, the ability to establish one's own goals of ideal behavior and carry them out may be the secret of personal success. "As he thinketh in his heart, so is he," wise King Solomon observed. Or as Mr. R. Catelain, chief of hostess training for Air France, puts it: "Our airline hostesses know that serving the public involves aspiring to a set of personal goals."

What are some of these goals, which have worked so well for airline personnel, and apply generally to any job, be it on land, sea, or air?

Promptness

1. Promptness. Being "on the dot" in serving other people involves a good deal more than lip-service to the clock and custom. Promptness indicates not only respect for the person being served, but also your respect for yourself. Promptness is spurred on by personal integrity, or as one business executive puts it: "When I'm on time for an appointment, I'm doing myself a favor. I've added another notch to my stature as a person."

Tact

2. Tact. Whether you're a bank teller or a theatre usher, a secretary or a waitress, you've probably had those moments of frustration when you were tempted to say, "The public be damned." But learning to cope with difficult people, is, again, a question of self-conditioning. Psychologists say that people who are hard to handle are nurturing some deep-down private uneasiness. Naturally you can't solve their problems—but you can put them at their ease with a policy of gentleness and tact. A soft answer not only turns away wrath; it helps your fellow man to forget his troubles.

Geniality

3. Geniality. One of the biggest corporations in America hired its receptionist on the basis of her smile. "When she smiles," the company president said, "the clients dance on air. In fact, they dance right into my office on a cloud of sweetness and light. That girl has clinched deals for this company even before the client reached my door." A smile works wonders, for you and the other person. Try one for size, and see.

Know-How

4. Know-how. Knowing the ins and outs of your job and showing a certain deftness in your work inspires confidence in other people and they feel more at ease dealing with you. You don't have to be ostentatious about your abilities. The worker who goes about his business with a quiet unobtrusive skill makes a tremendous impression without even trying. It is the "art which conceals art" which stamps you as a real pro. If you know your job well, it will stand out all over you—as Air France hostesses have found—and other people will respond gratefully. "Par for the course," the French hostesses re-

The present organ consists of 21 complete ranks or sets of pipes and two pedal extensions. Because of limitations in the present console equipment, some of the existing pipes are not playable, which means there is actually more organ installed than can be heard.

In the construction of the organ and in the selection of its particular tonal characteristics, Ira M. Ruth, organist of Christ Episcopal Church, 5th and Court St., served as consultant to the college organ committee. Committee members included: Dr. Harry V. Masters, Albright College president; Dr. George C. Bollman, president of the college board of trustees; the late Luke A. Lutz, Mohnnton, former board vice-president; William E. Maier, 91 Cardinal Rd., Wyoimissing; Lester R. Yeager, assistant professor of music at Albright; and Dr. E. Luke Matz, associate professor of sociology.

The committee hopes that eventually the instrument will be developed into a three manual organ more nearly adequate in tonal variety and character for the size building in which it is located.

An organ manual is the hand-operated keyboard.

The complete pipe list follows: Great, 8' Principal, 8' Clarabella, 8' Gemshorn, 8' Dolcan, 4' Prestant, 4' Koppel Flute, 2 3/4' Twelfth, II Rk. Mixture; Swell, 8' Rohr Flute, 8' Salcional, 8' Voix Celeste T.C., 4' Octav, 4' Flauto Traverso, 2 3/4' Nazat III Rk. Plein Jeu, 8' Trumpet, 8' Fagott, 4' Schalmel; Pedal, 16' Bourdon, 16' Lieblich Gedeckt (partial), 16' Open Diapason, 8' Diapason, and 16' Trombone (partial).

port, is a compliment from at least one nervous passenger per flight who, flying for the first time and a little jumpy about the whole thing, was reassured by the competent and resourceful manner these young ladies acquire through training and experience.

Awareness

5. Special awareness. You don't have to be a walking encyclopedia of facts to win public respect in your job. But it does help in your dealings with people if you have superior knowledge in a limited range. This means being able to answer any question that a person might have, and being able to meet any emergency that may arise within your realm of work. The hostesses of Air France are trained to meet all situations calmly, and indoctrinated with all they will need to know for answering questions in the public mind.

There you have it—five ways to please the public by first pleasing yourself. If you apply this basic psychology to your everyday life, you may find people warming up to you because you're selfish in the interest of these people you serve.

Why Have Libraries

Recently, it was called to our attention the fact of wide-spread dishonesty on this campus. This may not include the majority of students but for those that this editorial applies to; take heed.

In this issue of the Albrightian appears a report of the vandalous acts which have occurred in the library. There is absolutely no reason for a somewhat intelligent college student to act this way. The destroying of property is a criminal offense and we are sure that a student would not like to take a four year sabbatical at San Quenton as a result of these acts. The only person who might be excused for this type of behavior in the college library is perhaps the one who has not been completely weaned from his coloring books and crayons. The theft of encyclopedias speaks for itself.

Heretofore, the school has been operating upon the principle that the student possesses a certain degree of honesty and integrity. Maybe it's time to re-examine this presupposition. It may possibly be that we are now dealing with a band of thieves and liars. If this is true, it would follow that such a situation demands a new approach—turn-styles and the search of school bags.

An age old problem on this campus and many others is the tactful removal of temptation. By this process we cannot have people writing on things and stealing. This has been successfully completed in the library by closed reserve and at least one fraternity house where the brothers, so irritated by the consistent thievery, actually locked the house upon entering and leaving.

We hope that the type of student which participates in vandalism and criminal act is not representative of the student body as a whole. To insure that this type of act does not occur, it is up to each Albrightian to guard his own reputation and that of the school by stopping this perpetuating shame.

Result of Letter

(Editor's note: The letter to this editor published in the last paper prompted the editor to send a reporter to interview Dr. Josephine Raeppl, college librarian, to find out about alleged misuse of the library facilities so that the student body might be fully informed of the situation. The following article is a result of that interview.)

The carrells (study desks) formerly in the second floor stacks were removed because someone or several persons had written derogatory phrases on them. It was thought that had the donors seen such writing on the desks, they would have been insulted, and perhaps in the future would refuse to make donations. Since the Albright College Library, continuously is seeking to expand its services, donations which make the library of greater service to the college community are welcomed.

The library itself was made possible by funds collected from alumni, by Elmer Mohn, '02. The list of donations to the library is long; it includes the check out and return desk, floor, windows, water fountain, dictionary stand, lamps, fixtures, chairs, etc. Many books have been donated through the Women's Auxiliary and private individuals; one individual, Jacob Werner, donated a collection of 6,666 books, pamphlets, and periodicals, last year. The carrells were made possible by donations received in the 1955 Centennial Development fund and were used by a great many students, but their continued use was precluded by the person or persons who made the desks their private notebooks. The walls, window sills and donor name-plates also were scrawled upon but they could be cleaned; the writing on the desks was imbedded in them.

The removal of the carrells is not the only service the library must withdraw. During Christmas vacation four encyclopedias—two Britannicas, one American, one World Book—were not in the library. After vacation the two Britannicas returned mysteriously to their shelf. The other two have not been returned. As a result, the Britannica encyclopedia is on closed reserve so all can use them; the others will follow if abuses continue. Since encyclopedias are expensive and since single volumes from a set are difficult, if not impossible, to obtain it would be much to the advantage of the student body if the missing volumes would reappear in their proper places. The money which would have to be used to again complete the sets could then be used to buy more new books.

More people could be hired in the library as watchdogs over those few who destroy, for others, the advantages the library has to offer, but says Dr. Raeppl, "We would rather use the money for books than for this purpose."

By-Line: Africa

The impropriety and the impudence of American news weeklies seems to be surpassed only by the unseemly and unsolicited comments proffered by ex-Presidents of our United States. What is lacking in knowledge is more than adequately compensated for by a willingness, even an eagerness, to give expression without inhibition or qualification. Journalism admittedly has an ignoble reputation for distortion and sensationalism, but Africa is receiving the double-barrel treatment! In the interest of fair play and the pursuit of truth, I would like to set a few issues straight—or at least put them in perspective.

While many mis-guided blue-blooded Americans applaud Time's smear-the-red-tinted-world campaign, most people outside the States are turning green over it. Some of us almost swear by Time; the rest of the world swears at Time. If Time would leave out about 90 per cent of the colorful descriptive phrases it inserts in commas, we would all be better off.

Irony

The irony of the over-active concern of Time (and several other magazines) about fighting communism is that the comments they make are more than often most advantageous to the Communist cause, and certainly harmful to us as a country. A typical example was a recent article on Julius Nyerere, of Tanganyika, probably the most con-

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

This letter takes the form of a request for sensibility on the part of Albright's clubs, organizations, and groups. A weekly schedule of student activities fills one typed sheet. I, especially with approaching finals, find the pressure of activities entirely too great.

It is my opinion that student organizations busy themselves with the task of "filling the calendar" paying little heed to the students' needs, and more so, the students' ability to support their programs. A practical Albrightian will limit himself to one or two major organizations on campus, but even then, cannot find time to meet his responsibilities there. The failure of a campus program, in most cases, is due to poor planning and poor attendance. The fault lies not with Albright students as a whole, but with the organization which has gone overboard in calendar scheduling, e.g., YM-YWCA Tuesday and Sunday night programs, and the Freshman-Sophomore class Christmas Dance.

I request Albright College organizations to re-evaluate their respective programs with a common sense attitude. The result must be fewer, but higher-quality, better-attended activities, meeting the needs and wishes of students and organizations.

Joan Kolm, '64.

servative, Christian, pro-west head of state in all Africa. Time managed most conspicuously to remind the reader that his "Sawed off teeth were more reminiscent of his pagan background than of . . ."

I received a letter this week from an American student in Ghana, in which he disgustingly told about the nonsense which Time has been printing about that country. Concerning the recent visit of the Queen there, Time had policemen fainting by the "scores" (three did!). The men holding the umbrellas over the chiefs were "Flunkies". My friend concludes: "This is typical of the disrespect and rudeness the press showed the Ghanaians. If there is an 'ugly American', there is an 'uglier Pressman'." Time's report confirms my opinion that the world is made up of protons, neutrons, electrons, and morons who write Time."

Blunder

"Time blunders on", but not without competition from other entries in the weekly category, including Newsweek and U.S. News and World Report. My subscription to U.S. News was a gift; otherwise, I would have cancelled my subscription long ago. It resembles an inept appendage to the Wall Street Journal. Featuring articles such as "Can America Keep Ghana From Going Red?", it is probably a major incentive to any Ghanaian action taken along this line!

Its choice of reports on African nations resembles its attitude toward jet planes — you only hear about the ones that crash! There was less space devoted to the independence of Tanganyika last month than there was to a detrimental commentary on "Terror For Whites in the Congo Again", appearing about the same time. In it, the magazine gave the impression that Congolese soldiers were having a glorious orgy, as they "ran amuck, mutinied and began robbing, beating, and raping European women." (Actually, there were only 14 women involved). Yet at this point all are supposed to shudder at such unequaled, barbarian atrocities. But if we can all stop smothering for just a minute, maybe we can state some facts that put the story in its proper light.

Robert St. John, while at Albright this year, stated that so far, a total of only 24 women had been raped. Together with this recent event, that still makes less than 40 women. In contrast, U. S. News also published an interview with J. Edgar Hoover this month, in which Mr. Hoover called to the attention of cultured, civilized, nice Americans that on an average, there is a forcible rape perpetrated in our own country every 3 1/2 minutes! Further, in South Africa there are now 1,100,000 "cape colored," all of whom are the result of rape by World War II soldiers. We are a long way from having any right to become indignant about African "barbarity".

And in spite of my sincere sorrow over the murder and dismemberment of some Italian soldiers in the

For Those Who Like To Copy

Last year's graduating class donated money for a copying machine in the library. It is now in the library. Students who wish to have materials copied on the machine can have them copied for a nominal fee. The fee will help to meet the expenses of operating the machine.

Congo recently, I consider grossly unfair the imprisoned, vigorous outrage into which this nation's press whipped itself over the incident. Fewer people have been killed in the revolution in Africa which has freed nearly 200 million people, than die in Philadelphia in auto accidents in one year. (Compared to the Congo fight for unity, America might contrast its own civil war deaths which totalled 368,000, in order to preserve its union.)

Meanwhile, U.S. News goes blithering and blindly on its unfortunate way, suggesting we ought to be friends with the racist government of South Africa, and that we should not be put out that the United States would vote against poor Portugal in the U. N., when Portugal was only "making an effort to defend property (Angola) it has held for 500 years." U. S. News somehow made the oversight of not mentioning the suffering of untold Africans under Portuguese colonialism in Angola, and the upwards of 100,000 Africans whom they murdered in cold blood!

Sprinkle all these articles with a liberal dose of words such as "Communist," and "red", apply them indiscriminately to anyone who does not agree with us, and it becomes painfully obvious why African nations will not even consider a "pro-West" position, and have downright distaste for what we do, stand for and say in our magazines.

African feeling about American press was succinctly put by the Nigerian Sunday Express, "... this racial arrogance is a thousand times more offensive than the small postcard (dropped by the Peace Corps girl) ... We cannot pick a flower without some white father in official Washington telling us that it is a red rose fertilized by Communist manure."

I think my point has been made. When my subscriptions to Time and U. S. News expire, they will get a most colorful letter telling them why I am not renewing it. There is an open invitation to all who are not "Birchers" to join me.

Tournament Successful

As the crowds filed out of the fieldhouse following the game on December 29th, two things had been determined. First of all, Albright had been defeated by a strong Williams squad after it looked as if Albright would run away with the game at halftime. Secondly, it was proven that Albright was capable of successfully sponsoring a holiday basketball tournament. In talking with the players and coaches of the three invited teams, all agreed that it was one of the best organized tournaments they had participated in. They also expressed a desire to return to any future invitationals if invited.

Of course, not everything went off smoothly as can be expected. For one thing, at least one team found itself on the road to Philadelphia after a mistake in the directions to Reading telling them to take Route 422 instead of 222. Rutgers showed up without their home uniforms and without their school banner. After being told by Rev. Smethers that they would be admitted to any one of Reading's three "legitimate" movies on Wednesday by merely displaying their badges, players were turned away by ticket sellers who told them to come back on Thursday or Friday night, the nights of the games.

In spite of these and several other mix-ups, it looks like Albright will be holding its second invitational next year although the final decision rests in the hands of the administration. Financial receipts should persuade them to vote in the affirmative.

College Representatives???

Anybody who witnessed the Susquehanna game last week could not help seeing that the Crusaders do not take mildly to losing a ball game.

The behavior of several of their refugees from football season was definitely not the type seen around college circuits. This was especially evidenced near the end of the game when a near fight developed under the north basket. However, the Crusaders did not end their crusade at the final buzzer. Instead they continued the action in the locker room resulting in a great deal of damage to the locker room equipment. This brought about a first for Athletic Director Gene Shirk who had to write to Susquehanna informing them of the unprecedented behavior at an Albright game. The problem seems to lie in the revitalized spirit which has enveloped the Susquehanna campus since the acquisition of a new president and new athletic director whose only ambitions seem to be to build the school into a sports power. However, in their campaign to win, the Crusader teams seem to have lost the ability to lose in a dignified manner. Such a policy can spell disaster for a college and already there are reports that they are having trouble scheduling opponents for this very reason. In any event, try not to miss the return match between the two schools at Selensgrove on February 12. One way or the other, it should really be a spectacular.

Back to Eight

While in Chicago this weekend, Gene Shirk will be keeping his eyes open for one or two opponents for next year's football schedule. Originally Lycoming and Delaware Valley were scheduled as new opponents but recently Delaware Valley backed out leaving the Lions with an eight game schedule for the second year in a row. Rumors that Kutztown State might be added to the schedule are false since neither team has an open date at the same time. Last year, during his trip to the Collegiate Athletic Directors' Convention, Shirk was able to come up with Youngstown for a two year contract. Hope is that he will be able to come up with another last minute opponent to close the scheduling gap.

Added Intramural Interest

The team leading the Intramural Basketball B League is not the ordinary intramural team made up of Albright students. Instead it is composed of ten faculty members who have been defeating all opposition thus far. Score sheets show the following familiar names who have been playing for the team: Allenspach, Doremus, Gilbert, Fox, Kimmey, Potoklan, Ford, Kopp, Smethers and Marlow.

Pearsall Leads Teammates To 66-56 Decision

Paced by Tom Pearsall's 23 points, the Lions played their best game of the season to upset the high flying Hawks of St. Josephs College, 66-56 on Wednesday night in the fieldhouse. The Red and White was not to be denied victory this time as they held off several St. Joe rallies which saw the Philadelphia's close the Albright lead to three points, 58-55 with less than two minutes left to play. At this point, the Hawks collapsed and Albright came down the home stretch outscoring the visitors 8-1 in the final minutes of the game much to the delight of the near capacity crowd.

Albright opened the game by scoring the first five points before St. Joe was able to come back and take the lead at 12-9. After the score was tied on several occasions, the Lions took the lead for good on Stan Saul's goal to make the score 16-15. At the half, the score was 31-29. Following the intermission, the Hawks tied the score at 31-31 but the Lions roared back to keep the lead and beat the Hawks for the first time since 1958.

Besides Pearsall's 23 points, Norm Bautsch contributed 12, Ray Sommerstad, 13, and Bob Holzinger had 11. Stan Saul who received his first starting assignment turned in seven points.

In the preliminary game, the Baby Lions didn't fare quite as well as they went down to a 74-61 defeat.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Albright wrestling team defeated the University of Delaware in a home match.

Red And White Travels To Wagner Tomorrow

The Lions will return to conference warfare when they travel to Staten Island to meet the Seahawks of Wagner College on Saturday night. Thus far the Lions are 3-1 in conference battles. Last year Albright beat Wagner 60-57 at home and two years ago, lost to the Seahawks, 59-50 in New York.

Last Saturday night, the Lions traveled to Hempstead, New York where they suffered their first conference setback at the hands of eighth ranked Hofstra College, 43-36. Hofstra played a slow possession ball game against Albright's zone defense. The win was the ninth in a row for Hofstra, and it brought their season mark to 10-1. Their lone loss was inflicted by Fairleigh-Dickinson, 66-58. The defeat somewhat avenged the two losses Albright inflicted on Hofstra during last season's battles.

Albright led only once in the contest and that was when Ray Sommerstad scored a field goal off the opening tap-off. Sommerstad was high scorer for Albright with 15 points while Tom Pearsall was held to 9 points, his lowest output this season. At the half, Hofstra led 21-18 and held their widest margin at 39-30.

Against Susquehanna

In their previous game against Susquehanna, the Albrightians fared much better on the friendly home courts when they finished fast to capture a 60-50 decision and hand the Crusaders their first conference loss and at the same time ended their six game winning streak.

The Lions had to battle all the way for the triumph and found themselves trailing by 10 points 37-27 with approximately 13 minutes remaining in the game. By refusing to slow down the game, Susquehanna gave up the ball constantly by missing outside shots and having the ball intercepted during faulty passing. When Albright began to move with the score 41-33, Norm Ruttenberg hit on a fowl shot and Ray Sommerstad hit on a goal. Bob Holzinger cashed a goal shot and Norm Bautsch's goal made it 41-39. Tom Pearsall tied the score with 7:27 remaining. The Lions took the lead for good at 49-47 and after several more baskets went into a possession game and poured it on at every opportunity. Pearsall was high scorer for the home team with 21 points followed by Norm Bautsch with 19.

In the preliminary game, the Albright Baby Lions registered their fourth straight victory by defeating the Susquehanna Frosh 85-54. The victory gave them a 4-2 record. Rich Stitzel contributed 25 points to his team's cause while Jack Moyer checked in for 15.

Albright's next home game will be on January 27 when Moravian will invade the Lion's den. Before then, Albright has a date with Lafayette College at Easton on January 20.
