Prof. Green Achieves Many Accomplishments In Science

Dr. Marcus H. Green is a distinguished professor at Albright College. A native of Tamaqua, Penna., he attended high school there. He received his B.S. from Albright College, and his M.A. from the University of Pittsburgh. Professor Green did his graduate studies at Columbia University, and holds an Honorary Doctorate from Lebanon Valley College.

Professor Green taught in the German Township High School where he was Chairman of the Chemistry and Physics Department. He also taught in the U.S.A.F. Ground School at Albright and the Civilian Pilot's Training Program. He has been at Albright for the past thirty-six years.

A man of science, Dr. Green has taught the following courses: General Biology, Organic Chemistry, Vertebrate and Invertebrate Zoology and Embryology, Comparative Vertebrate Anatomy, Physics, Meteorology, Science Fundamentals, and Seminars in Biology.

He is a member of many organizations which he numbers as: Sigma Xi, Pi Gamma Mu, The American Association for the Advancement of Science, The American Men of Science, Who's Who in the East and Who's Who in American Education, The American Association of Professors of Biology, The Federation of the American Society for Experimental Biology, and the Leaders in American Science.

Dr. Green is also a charter member of the local Skull and Bones Society and the Mengal Natural Historical Society. He is the past president of the Northeast Parents-Teachers Association and vice-president of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science.

Active off campus in Masonic work, Professor Green is the past High Priest of the Reading Royal Arts Chapter and a member of the DeMolay Knights Templars, Lodge No. 62. He has participated in the Pilot Study, an experimental program for teacher education for Temple University and associated colleges. Dr. Green is also active in fund raising activities for Albright College.

He has received many citations from different organizations. To name a few: Albright Alumni Citation, Twenty-five Years Service to Albright Citation, Service to Mankind Citation from the Sertoma Club, and the Luten Prize in Science, and the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching. Professor Green also had fourteen articles published, and collaborated with Malcolm Little on the textbook, STRUCTURE OF VERTEBRATES.

Dr. Green could only comment that he is confident of the future of Albright College under the excellent leadership of Dr. Schultz, Dean McBride, the Trustee Board, the faculty, the administration, and the cooperative student body. The Albright College community owes a lot to this well-respected and dedicated personality.

WXAC PLANS FULL COVERAGE OF NOVEMBER 8 ELECTIONS

Edward Sobel, a senior pre-med, is presently station manager of WXAC. He has been involved with WXAC since it was a small vacuum tube and has helped it grow into "The Voice of the Albright Student."

WXAC has recently become associated with the United Press International News Service, and this will serve as a basis for greatly expanded programming. The first noticeable change has been the institution of regular news, sports, and weather information, including a half-hour summary of the events of the day at 6:30 each weekday evening.

The news service will be running full blast on Election Night, November 8, with a complete coverage of local, state, and national election news from 7 P.M. until the early morning. Rounding out this marathon, under the supervision of news director, Ken Sturzenacker, will be reports by WXAC staff members located at the various party headquarters. This will be highlighted by commentary on the elections and candidates by Professor Philip Eyrych and various political science students. Also tentatively scheduled for this time is the participation in a national election night college radio network, which will bring to the students and the community of Reading the opinions of students and faculty from over two-hundred colleges and universities across the nation.

Art Department Holds Exhibit

An exhibition of paintings, lithographs, and drawings by New York artist James Kelly will be presented by the Albright College fine arts department in the college library gallery. Kelly will be present for the reception opening of his show, to which the public is invited, tonight, 7-9 p.m.

A native of Philadelphia, Kelly studied at the Academy of Fine Arts, the Barnes Foundation, and at the California School of Fine Arts. He was the recipient of a Ford Foundation Fellowship to study at the Tamarind Lithography Workshop in Los Angeles. A resident of San Francisco in the fifties, Kelly became known as a California painter; he now lives in New York City.

Kelly's paintings have been exhibited extensively on the West Coast, in New York and in Philadelphia. His works have been shown at the Pennsylvania Academy Invitational, 1951, the San Francisco Museum of Art, 1955-58, the Minneapolis Institute of Art, 1945 and 1957, Gumps Gallery, San Francisco, 1958, and at the Stryke and East Hampton Galleries, New York City in 1963 and 1965, among others.

He is represented in a number of private collections including those of William Roth, Mrs. Oscar Moss, Gerald Nordland, and Walter Hopps. His oils and lithographs appear in the permanent collections of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass., the San Francisco Museum of Art, and the San Francisco Art Association, the Geller Collection, and the Print Collection of the Chicago Art Institute, among others.

Eleven of his works will be shown at Albright; all are available for purchase.

Homecoming Boat Parade Revived

This year the Student Council is sponsoring a float contest as one of the many homecoming events. During half-time tomorrow at the football game contestants will display their entries as hours of work come to an end.

The theme of this year's float parade is "song titles." Each float will be judged on the following criteria: originality, carrying out of the theme, workmanship, quality and general appearance, and presentation. These five standards will be judged on a scale of 1 to 10 with the float having the highest total being declared the winner.

First prize is a cash award of $75.00 and a trophy; second prize is $25.00 and a trophy; and third prize is $25.00 in cash.

Participating contestants are: Alpha Phi Omega, Kappa Upsilon Phi, Pi Tau Beta, Zeta Omega Epsilon, Alpha Phi Omega and Alpha Iota Sigma, Daywomen and Daymen, Freshmen Class, and the Independent Women.

Homecoming Queen To Be Crowned At Ball Tonight

The Ivy Ball, held in the Albright fieldhouse, will get Homecoming activities underway tonight. The traditional dance will be highlighted by the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. The queen will be selected from the five finalists: Vicky Wu, '69, Linda Updegrave '68, Diane Polites '67, Mimi O'Connor '67, and Sue Brininger '68.

Tomorrow morning, the alumni will begin to arrive on campus. W. Alan Seifarth, homecoming committee chairman, a 1960 graduate, anticipates that "more than 600 alumni and their families will register between 10 a.m. and noon in the lobby of the Albright Library." Harry "Baz" Baziotis, a local caricature artist, will do caricatures of the returning graduates.

An Italian luncheon with a sidewalk art display, an old world menu, strolling minstrels, fruit and cheese displays and red-checked table cloths will be the attraction for guests at the college dining hall at noon.

Highlighting the afternoon activities will be the football game with Moravian at 1:30 o'clock in the Albright Stadium. The Albright band, under the direction of LeRoy B. Hinkle, will present a pre-game show. At half-time, in addition to the float parade, the homecoming queen and her court will be introduced in convertibles driven by the fraternity presidents.

The traditional post-game salute featuring song competition by campus groups including those entering the float competition and the day and dormitory women and Kappa Tau Chi, the pre-ministerial fraternity, will be held in the fieldhouse following the game.

In addition to the presentation of the Haps Benfer Trophy to the outstanding back in the game, a new award, the Dick Riffle Trophy, will be presented by the College Varsity Club to the outstanding lineman. Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded to the winners of the float competition by the Albright College Alumni Assn. Cider and doughnuts will be served.

Dr. Robert E. McBride, Albright dean, will be the speaker at the third annual candlelight dinner at 6 p.m. in the college dining hall. The dinner will be followed by a concert by the Albright band in the chapel-auditorium at 8 p.m.

Kilpatrick Expounds On His Conservative Views

Armed with a copy of the United States Constitution James J. Kilpatrick, editor of the Richmond News-Leader and noted conservative intellectual and states rights advocate, expounded philosophy of the new right in Albright's chapel last Tuesday.

"To prevent my being misunderstood any more than usual," Mr. Kilpatrick declared that he was "not blindly opposed to all federal power for we need a strong federal government for some things must be handled at that level."

Mr. Kilpatrick said the Constitution was set up "to prevent the concentration of excessive power in any hands."

He listed four "levies" in our society that were erected to obstruct any accretion of power: the written Constitution, the principles of federalism and the separation of powers and the belief in the integrity of the individual man.

The "levies" seem to be "crumbling," he said for the Constitution has been changed fundamentally time after time beyond the bounds of the simple interpretation of its contents, he said.

To illustrate he pointed out that at the turn of the century only seven federal grant-in-aid programs existed and today there were 171 at the end of the recent congressional session.

The separation of powers principle is eroded not only through Supreme Court decisions but more especially by encroachments on state legislative powers by the federal executive branch through its executive agencies, he said, noting the Federal Drug Administration's recent restrictions on the sale of vitamins "not for the protection of the people but because they think it is best for you," even though a person "cannot get sick or die from taking them," he said.

He portrayed the national government as "needlessly harassing the people and descending like mosquitoes on the people."

"I believe in the United States of America and in a strong federal government — strong in the right way," he concluded.

Y Will Hold Annual Grandparent's Party

On Sunday, November 6, the Albright YM-YWCA will hold its annual "adopt-a-grandparent" party. As in previous years, each participating student will entertain for the afternoon his foster grandparent. The guests arrive in time for dinner in our dining hall. After dinner a party is held in Krause Hall, a wonderful opportunity to get to know your adopted grandparent. This year's theme will be "Pennsylvania Dutch," and our "grandparents" will come costumed as Pennsylvania Dutch farmers and country bumpkins. The senior citizens come from various old folks homes and "50 plus" clubs in Reading.

A Little Consideration

The decorum at the weekly convocation is disgraceful and very degrading to the college. It is surprising to see students, of average age 19, sitting in front of a speaker and reading books, writing letters, reading newspapers, or just talking. What has happened to our common rules of courtesy? Don't Albright students have any respect for the speaker as a person? Are the students afraid that by listening they might hear something to make them feel uncomfortable, or to make them think?

Certainly, not every speaker is a Louis Lomax who has you sitting on the edge of your seat straining to take in every word. But every speaker has ideas that he is trying to communicate to the audience; every speaker has something to say. It is the duty of the audience to listen and try to learn as much as possible.

It is not smart to talk during a convocation speech, it is stupid. It is not cute to read the newspaper during a speech, it is discourteous and boorish. We would not like to see the administration police the convocations in order to force courteous behavior, but if things don't change it will be needed. Students continually ask to be treated like adults, let them also act like adults. One of the best places to start is in the chapel.

Get Well Soon

The Albrightian was sorry to hear of the automobile accident which caused injuries to Peter Van Driel, head chef in the dining hall. We extend our hopes for a rapid recovery and hope that soon he will be back spinning the pizzas and broiling the steaks.

Students Give Opinions on Student Demonstrations

Democratic rule is, by definition, government wherein the supreme power lies with the people and is exercised by them through some system of representation. This form of government is only as effective as the communication that exists between the people and their representatives.

One major method of mass communication is the demonstration, be it political or otherwise. In this way large numbers of people can express their views and, at the same time, draw attention to their cause.

The question posed was whether or not student demonstrations are effective in shaping our national policy. The answers fell into three categories, and surprisingly enough many students had no opinions on the subject or else only a brief "No," with no reasons to substantiate their answers.

The following opinions were expressed by some students who thought that student demonstrations have little or no effect on the formation of our national policy:

"No, these demonstrations are not effective because many students participate only because they have nothing better to do."

"No, demonstrating is not effective because people realize that most of the people who are demonstrating are only members of a 'loud-mouthed' minority."

"These demonstrations should not be effective because they are hard on the American image abroad. They give foreign nations the impression that Americans must demonstrate if they want their governments to listen to their opinions."

"No, student demonstrations are not effective because the representatives realize that the majority of the students in-involved are not yet old enough to vote."

"Demonstrations of this type are not effective unless they occur on a national scale, thus expressing the opinion of the vast majority of the people."

Those supporting the affirmative side of the issue defended their opinions with the following remarks:

"Yes, student demonstrations are effective in shaping our national policy because they make the public aware of the problems that are facing the youth of our nation. These adults can in turn bring pressure to bear on their representatives by the use of their vote."

"These demonstrations are effective because they give students the opportunity necessary for them to become active in political issues before they are old enough to vote."

"Peace demonstrations would be far more effective if the people involved would extend their efforts toward more direct action. An example of this would occur if the workers in a munitions plant went on strike in protest of the use of those munitions in the war in Viet Nam. Students who feel the need to demonstrate could channel their efforts toward doing some direct good for other people, such as those found in Viet Nam."

If democracy is to survive, people of all ages must be willing to express their own personal opinions, just as the opinions in this article were given. It is not as important what your opinion is, just as long as you give it honestly and stand behind your own personal convictions.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

In a letter which appeared in your paper recently, Albrightians were unjustly deprecated and maligned. In terms of self-attributed moral grandeur and haughty omniscience, one student accused us of failing to consider the worship of God, of lacking the preparedness to worship Him, and of showing utter disrespect for His House. Furthermore, we were labeled polluters, parasites, and hypocritical "Professors"! And in a final sweep of dogmatism, we were authoritatively declared unfit to belong in Albright College or in any college.

Who, may it be asked, is this prophet? By what right can he place himself in a position to pass value judgments upon the spiritual impulses of others? We have been taught that this right of ultimate judgment belongs in the hands of God alone, and that the duty of each man is to keep his own house in order. In addition, the eminent virtue of humility is hardly demonstrated through high-brow, self-righteous indignation.

However is this indignation itself justified? We do not think so. To say that Albright students are disrespectful, sacrilegious, and boorish just because they do not turn into grim-faced automatons upon entering chapel is a gross exaggeration. Religious services of all kinds have to deal with a certain amount of laughing, talking, and sleeping. It is not merely an Albright phenomenon. This does not mean that we approve of such incidents, but that we recognize them for what they are — simple facts of human life. Let those who are guilty of displaying disrespect toward religious institutions answer to the proper authority.

Indeed, we all need the help of God in our lives and must acknowledge our dependence upon Him! But may He especially have mercy upon those prepossessed by a "holier than thou" attitude — they really need it!

Dear Sir:

The editorial in The Albrightian (Oct. 14, 1966) concerning the elimination of Freshmen Parents Day fully expresses the sentiment of Alpha Phi Omega, National Service Fraternity.

Since the event was begun several years ago, this weekend had been one of the most important campus service projects fostered by the Fraternity. It had been hailed as successful and worthwhile by both student and administration in the past.

Upon learning of the decision of the Administrative Committee of the college, I, as President of the organization, protested the termination of this event. My protest on behalf of the student body and the fraternity was reviewed with the decision remaining that the event be cancelled at least for this year. I would suggest that this question be reviewed once again so that such an event for the incoming freshmen class might be reinstituted next fall. This was an important frosh event!

The Number Game

By Marc Richman

"Four thousand fresh troops arrived today,"
Four thousand fresh troops, it's so easy to say.
But four thousand troops means four thousand men,
I wonder how many will come home again.
Four thousand men will be facing the test,
When it's over, how many will be lying at rest?
Four thousand fathers, and four thousand mothers,
And thousands of grandparents and sisters and brothers,
Pray more often now, living always in fear,
Of casualty lists and the bad news they'll hear.
We get reports of the wounded and dead,
But each statistic is a man, hurt and bled.
We remember the numbers, but forget the men,
And somebody sends four thousand again.
The number game is easy to play,
Just say, "Four thousand fresh troops arrived today."

From Other Campuses

From WILKES COLLEGE BEACON, October 7

There are certain disturbances in a collegian's world (or anybody's for that matter) which simply cannot be tolerated. Like theft.

Student Government reports that at the last dance over $500 worth of goods were stolen. Money, purses, and coats, particularly suede coats were among the chief items reported missing.

On a college campus (a place supposedly safe from the overt unpleasantness of the outside world) such a crime should not have occurred.

We strongly feel that an adequate checking system is in order and would probably prevent a recurrence of the sad situation which arose from the senior class dance.

From MUHLENBERG WEEKLY, October 13

The proposal to extend the women's visiting hours in the men's dormitories is tied up with many problems. The lack of facilities in the dorms for women and the possibility of roommates having a conflict of schedules are difficulties that can be worked out. However, the question of whether loose sex mores are being condoned is probably the major issue in the minds of the college officials who are studying the proposal.

From THE BUCKNELLIAN, September 15, 1966

Statistics tell us, Class of 1970, that you are a bigger, brighter class than ever. The housing experts may be having headaches, but we hope the number don't lie.

College boards and SAT scores got you here. But we hope you will remember that learning goes beyond a handful of notebooks and sixteen in-class hours of lecture a week.

From TEMPLE UNIVERSITY NEWS, October 6

The Office of Student Activities can arrange air travel to Europe at half price if enough students are interested in making the flight.

A round trip would be $234 if 165 people agree to leave for London before June 17 and return as a group either before Aug. 16 or after Sept. 12. Final examinations end June 8, but registration begins Sept. 11. Therefore some students would have to register late if the Sept. 12 return flight was chosen.

If the 165 leave June 27 and return Sept. 8, the fare would be $390. Regular fare to Europe is approximately $480.

If the 165-person quota cannot be reached, the reservation money will be returned and group rates of $335 are available. The flight is open to all students in a degree granting program six months prior to the flight, faculty, administration and University personnel. Immediate family living in the same household and dependent on the University affiliate also are eligible.

Student Gives His Opinions On The War In Vietnam

By Jay M. Ressler

Dear Sir:

In the October 7 Albrightian you printed a letter concerning the Vietnam War and those of us who protest the aggressive policy of the United States there. The author of the epistle called himself or herself "A Friend."

I shall reply to his (or her) misguided opinion with factual material, but first I want to say something about anonymous letters. I really do not understand how anyone can expect to have his or her opinions taken seriously if he or she does not have the guts (to put it bluntly) to disclose his or her identity. In this country we value the freedom of speech, and I believe that a fundamental part of that freedom is the freedom to be held responsible for what one says. We Americans have traditionally admired the courage to stand up for what one believes; certainly the author of an anonymous letter would not be included in Profiles in Courage.

I am deeply distressed that certain persons believe it necessary to conceal their identity in order to express their opinions. I can not comprehend why a person should find it necessary to hide in a corner, especially when expressing an opinion which conforms so closely with the Establishment.

Certainly, you (whoever you are) are not afraid of those of us who actively protest a war which we find contrary to our own moral principles. We don't bite; remember we believe in the freedom of speech and you, dear Friend, are entitled to believe what you want to believe. I try to live a life embracing the Christian "Law of Love"; therefore I would not think of bringing reprisals against you in any way. I am confident that those faculty members who oppose the war would refrain from sanctioning you.

Obviously, the person who wrote the letter to which I am referring, never read the Geneva Accords of 1954. The person states that South Vietnam is "... a free and independent state, established by the Geneva Convention of 1954, ..." and further that "... we are aiding the South Vietnamese maintain their independence."

The Final Declaration of the Geneva Conference (July 21, 1954) states: (Article 6) "The Conference recognizes that the essential purpose of the agreement relating to Vietnam is to settle the military questions with a view to ending hostilities and that the military demarcation line is provisional and should not in any way be interpreted as constituting a political or territorial boundary ..." Thus, the falsehood of our dear Friend's opinion is made quite apparent — South Vietnam was created not as a state, but as a temporary "regrouping zone," by the Geneva Accords.

Article 7 of the same document further states: "... In order to ensure that sufficient progress in the restoration of peace has been made and that all necessary conditions obtain for free expression of the national will, general elections shall be held in July 1956 under the supervision of an international commission ..." The United States did not sign the Final Statement because it contained "objectionable" provisions. The United States proceeded to recognize a regime in South Vietnam which had not signed the agreements either. Thus, our actions violated Section 6 of an international agreement we announced we would respect.

The elections provided for in Section 7 were never held! Not because, as our Friend would have us believe: "... the North has rebuked every effort for self-determination," but because elections were not in the interest of the Diem regime which set itself up through rigged elections and then allied with the United States. Undoubtedly, Ho Chi Minh would have been elected, because he has been considered the George Washington of Vietnam. Communist, yes, but also an ardent nationalist revolutionary seeking to establish a state free of obligations to anyone. One might keep in mind that in 1919 at Versailles Ho Chi Minh attempted to get President Woodrow Wilson to urge France to give Vietnam its independence. One might also remember the state of Russia and China in 1919.

Let's face the facts that under Diem and the present military dictatorship of Marshal Ky the Vietnamese were not and are not free and independent. Rather, the people are intimidated and terrorized by a police state. In fact, from reports I've come across the Vietnamese may be worse off than the people in many Communist nations.

I am by no means attempting to justify the position of the Communists, but I am attempting to point out that the myth of helping a little country maintain its independence is a farce—even a downright lie (as Donald Duncan a former Sergeant of the Special Forces says.)

America is an imperialist aggressor in Vietnam. This country's actions are indirect violation of articles 18 and 19 of the Agreements on the Cessation of Hostilities in Vietnam (July 20, 1954 in Geneva):

"18. With effect from the date of entry into force of the present Agreement, the establishment of new military bases is prohibited throughout Viet-Nam territory.

"19. With effect from the date of entry into force of the present Agreement, no military base under the control of a foreign state may be established in the regrouping zone of either party; the two parties shall ensure the zones assigned to them do not adhere to any military alliance and are not used for the resumption of hostilities or to further an aggressive policy."

As of October 14 there are 328,000 American troops in Vietnam. I think the figures speak for themselves.

Surely, the U.S.S.R., China, and North Vietnam think of the United States as aggressors, and with good reason. What would we do if China had 28,000 troops in, say, Mexico? What would we do if the U.S.S.R. surrounded us with missiles and long range bombers? What did we do when they did have a few missiles in Cuba? The U.S.S.R. and China haven't done anything about all the missiles we have encircling them. You, the reader, may rationalize your way out—but examine your reactions before you dismiss my questions—maybe you will see that we consider things right for us but wrong for other nations.

Lions Host Moravian For 30th Grid Meeting Tomorrow

After playing two consecutive road games, the Albright Lions will face Moravian College in its homecoming game Saturday afternoon (Oct. 29). Game time is 1:30 p.m.

It will be the 30th grid meeting between Albright and Moravian in the series which began in 1934 when Albright won, 14-13. Moravian triumphed, 14-6 last season as Roger Eltringham returned a punt 90 yards. Albright holds a 19-9 margin, with one tie.

The Lions will be looking to break a three-game losing streak and even their record at 3-3. Moravian has won its last two games, and their record now stands at 2-2-1.

Four players have been the key to Coach Rocco Calvo's this year and have been named co-captains of the team. There are 13 returning lettermen.

Hank Nehilla tied the Moravian ground-gaining record of 688 yards last season, and in addition, set a new mark in the number of carries at 185 in one season.

Nehilla was named to the first All-Middle Atlantic Conference Northern Division and then followed up as All-East fullback. He led the MAC ground gainers in the north with 613 yards in 166 carries.

Bill Dry, injured last year, was the key to Moravian's offensive attack in 1964. That year he was second in MAC rushing, averaging 4.1 yards, and fifth in total offense with 436 yards.

Ron Berta has been boomed as one of the most aggressive linemen at Moravian. The 185 pounder is a stalwart on both offense and defense. Last season he was chosen All-East and Associated Press Little All-American honors.

Gary Fox, a 6-foot, 215 pound tackle-end, was the bulwark on the Greyhound line last year. He plays both ways.

Lions Take Third Loss From Wagner

Wagner College on the arm of sophomore quarterback Pete Boatti rode to a 13-7 victory over the Albright Lions last Saturday, Oct. 22. Boatti, a scrambler, proved to be Wagner Coach Bob Hick's "ace in the hole" as he came off the bench to pass for both touchdowns.

Wagner drew first blood when Seahawk end Mickey Vaughn crossed the goal line with a Boatti aerial in the first period. The Lions then countered as tailback Denny Zimmerman crashed off guard in the second quarter to produce a 7-7 halftime deadlock. Then in the fourth quarter Boatti, who collected 116 yards via the air route, hit Ken Bolsch with a 21 yard T.D. strike.

"We had the opportunities" said Coach Potsklan of his Lion offense and his team had the opportunity to score more than once.

However the Seahawk secondary saw to it that the Lions were caged up all afternoon by picking off four Albright passes. The Wagner eleven also fell on two Lion fumbles to help keep the Lions out of paydirt most of the day.

Seahawk defensive back, John Scholz had quite a day as he was on the receiving end of three Lion passes. Jim Jenkins had the other Wagner interception.

This game brought Albright's record to 2-2 in the Northern Division of the Middle Atlantic Conference. Their overall record is 2-3.

By winning the Seahawks of Wagner brought their Middle Atlantic Conference record to 1-1-1 and their overall record to 2-2-1.

By Michael Smith

Although football season is only half over, basketball is in full swing. Head coach William Renken began organizing the '66-'67 edition of the Albright Lions in the middle of October.

From the men that tried out, the following varsity roster was compiled—seniors, Bill Kudrick, captain, Jay Lord, and Sal Randazzo; juniors, Mike Eckenroth and Bob Sakalovski; sophomores, Glenn Gerber, Bob Grant, Rich Petersen, George Ritter, and John Shoa; and freshmen, James Kelly, Jeny Kudrick, and Ronald Lloyd. Lord, Ritter, Eckenroth, and Kudrick are returning lettermen from last year's squad.

Coach Renken is depending on Kudrick and Eckenroth to fill the scoring void left by the graduation of Mike Klahr. The team will be relying on speed and defense to make up for the lack of physical strength and size.

The highlights of the home season should be the December 14 battle with LaSalle and the Albright Invitational Tournament on December 28 and 29. Participating in this year's tournament will be Boston University, Hofstra, St. Francis of Loretto, and Albright.

Both team rosters will be adjusted before the actual season starts to bring the total number on each to twelve.

HARRIERS LOSE IN TRIPLE MEET

The Albright Harriers' posted a double loss in a triangular meet Saturday against Haverford (15-40) and Lehigh (15-40) to bring its season record to 0-11. Jim Garibay, the team's top runner hopes to inspire his teammates to a victory in a triangular meet here against Moravian and Ursinus tomorrow.

The summary of the Lehigh, Haverford meet is as follows:

Lehigh-Albright:

The following is a draft of the proposed amendment that would change the existing method of electing Student Council representatives that was introduced in Student Council meeting last Tuesday.

This amendment will be debated in the Student Council meeting Tuesday, therefore all members are urged to be present.

Section I

The composition of the Albright College Student Council shall be based upon proportioned representation in which each councilman represents a living group. The basis for representation shall be in the proportion of one representative for each thirty students.

Section II

The following areas are designated as living groups: Albright Court, Teel Hall, Selwyn Hall, Smith Hall, Crowell Hall, Walton Hall, Daymen, Daywomen. The four frat houses will be combined as follows: Alpha Pi Omega and Kappa Upsilon Phi; Pi Tau Beta and Zeta Omega Epsilon; South Hall, off campus students boarding at the college dining hall.

2) The four social fraternity houses shall be represented by two representatives selected by the interfraternity council.

Section III Representatives and Elections

1. During Freshmen Orientation the Dean of Students of the college shall notify the Student Council President as to the existing constituency distribution for the upcoming school year.

2. The President shall then determine the number of representatives for each constituency in accordance with the aforementioned one-for-thirty principle.

3. Elections for representatives shall be held in the fall during the first week after registration.

4. The Student Council President shall appoint an election commission which shall supervise, administer and validate all elections.

Section IV

1. Each member may cast only one vote.

2. Each representative must receive academic approval from the office of the dean before assuming membership in the Student Council.

LETTERS . . .

Dear Sir:

We would like to register a complaint against the PAT sorority for the extreme inconsideration they have shown for the women of Selwyn Hall by their early morning singing and stomping at Sylvan Pond.

We feel such action to be unnecessary and ask that it be stopped or changed to a later hour or to a different location.

Meetings have been held with Dean Manzollilio and the only action that has resulted is a one-half hour change from 7:00 to 7:30 A.M. which is minimal to say the least.

This singing not only disturbs us but also the people who are sick in the infirmary.

Pledging is only three weeks now but is this to be endured for the longer pledging period in the spring?

Council.

2. They shall keep their constituents informed of the actions of Student Council.

3. They shall when possible express the opinions of the students they represent.

4. Members of Student Council or their substitute shall not be permitted to miss more than two consecutive or three non-consecutive meetings per semester, unless a written excuse is submitted and the executive committee of Council accepts the excuse.

5. Members missing more than the number of meetings set down in sub-section (4) shall be dismissed from council unless a written excuse is submitted to and accepted by the Executive Committee of Council.

6. In the event a member is dismissed from council the aforementioned election commission will conduct a new election to select a replacement to represent that constituency.

7. Faculty advisory members of Council shall neither have the power to vote nor to originate motions.

Section VI Oath of Office of the Council-elect

President: Council members, you have been chosen by your constituents to represent them in the Albright College Student Council, and in turn to keep them informed of the actions and principles of the body. Are you willing to assume these responsibilities? If so, answer I am.

I do solemnly charge you as a member of this council, to perform all the duties that devolve upon you impartially and fully, striving by your personal conduct to make the government of the Student Council of Albright College a success in every way."

YM-YWCA To Sponsor Christmas Party

Every student enrolled at Albright is a member of the Y. One of the main activities sponsored by this organization is the annual Children's Christmas Party. At this time the students at Albright are given the opportunity of bringing happiness to underprivileged children in the Reading area.

This year the Y will sponsor a football game for the children. On November 19, a total of ninety underprivileged youth from the vicinity of Reading will be brought to Albright's last home game, played against Drexel. Forty-five children will come to us from the Fellowship House and forty-five from the Family Service Bureau.

It is important that each of these children be adopted by a student here at Albright. The relatively small amount of time that you are asked to donate on this day gives an adopted brother or sister the security of knowing that someone cares, while it is also a very rewarding experience.

Registration for this program will begin very soon. Please consider adopting a child as we will need at least one-hundred student volunteers for this project. You may sign up for either the football game or the Christmas Party, or for both if you wish.

The children will be transported by car from two pick-up points, the Y and the Fellowship House, to the Albright Campus on Saturday morning, November 19, 1966. Any student who has access to a car and is willing to drive at that time is asked to contact either Susie Gordon or Dave Martin.

The Albright students participating in this program, and their adopted brothers and sisters will be admitted to the game free of charge.

It is hoped that by sponsoring a football game we can entertain children in an older age group who have less interest in the Christmas Party because they are past the stage of believing in Santa Claus.

This year our Christmas Party will be held on December 11, 1966, in Krause Hall, with the theme of "Christmas for Kids." One-hundred and twenty-five children will be served a noon meal and entertained for that afternoon. Any willing cafeteria workers are urged to donate their time for this dinner, free of charge, to help defray the cost of the project.

In preparation for the Christmas Party, all students are asked to bring new or repairable toys back to campus when they return from Thanksgiving Vacation. The toys will then be repaired, sorted, and wrapped for the children.

As of now, no announcements are permitted to be made in the dining hall, and these are to be channeled to the students through WXAC, during dinner. Please place any announcements in the box next to the Treasurer's office at least a day in advance.

As the student voice to the college and to Reading, and because of ever-expanding programming, it is necessary to maintain a large staff of personnel. Because of this need, there is always room on the staff for announcers and other sup-

"Cell Groups" Formed To Stimulate Discussions

By Richard W. Saffern

"Draw a squiggle. What do you think the line you just drew portrays about human nature?" "How can you relate the modern painting on the printed page in front of you to the plight of the modern world?" "Do you see any modern day implications from Christ's familiar parable of the Prodigal Son?"

An opportunity to encounter questions like these in a "cell group" atmosphere will soon be under way on the Albright campus.

Using a systematic program called Nucleus as a springboard for discussion, creative groups of five to ten people will meet for about one hour each week. Nucleus is a program designed to spark creative thinking concerning faith and its secular implications.

More advanced units will follow the "breaking of ice" as the group begins to understand itself as an entity. This program has been used downtown at the Coffee House and proved exciting. The Y is anxious to start a few small groups, probably meeting on Monday and Thursday to accommodate the schedules of the participants.

STUDENTS DISMISSED FOR VIOLATIONS OF ALBRIGHT POLICY

Dean Louis F. Weislogel made a statement to the college concerning the recent dismissal of three Albright students. The first student, a sophomore, was placed on indefinite suspension for the possession and use of alcoholic beverages in Krause Hall during a Nuclei dance on October 8.

The second student was also placed on indefinite suspension for the use of alcoholic beverages and subsequent involvement with the Reading police following a traffic accident.

The third student, a senior, was placed on indefinite suspension for violating conditions of social probation which he had been placed on for a previous breach of school policy.

Dean Weislogel said that indefinite suspension allows the student to return to college after a sufficient length of time which is determined by the administration.
