College Orchestra, Chorus Take Part In Devotions

The Albright College Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Hans Nix, and the Albright Choir, under the direction of Professor John H. Duddy, will provide the musical accompaniment for the vesper service to be held at the Immanuel Evangelical Church, Sixth and Kerper streets, Sunday afternoon at four o'clock.

The Albright Choir will combine with the church choir for this occasion. Professor Duddy is organist and choir director of the church. The minister is the Rev. Earle Slichter.

The program by the orchestra will include the Keltic Lament, the Richard Wagner Fantasia, and an excerpt from the Sixth Symphony by Tchaikowsky. The combined choirs will feature a choral arrangement of Wagner's "Pilgrim Progress" from Tannhauser.

Chamber Music Concert Monday

The first of a series of chamber music concerts will be held in the college chapel on Monday night, at 8 o'clock. This will be the opening of the fifth season of the Reading Chamber Music Trio which includes Hans Nix, violin; Chester Wittell, piano; and Walter Schmidt, cello.

The program will include the following: Haydn, No. 1, G Major; Beethoven, "Geister Trio," D Major; and Gretchaninoff, C Minor. Two other concerts will be presented in the chapel in February and April of next year by the same musicians.

Frosh Afraid To Talk About Sophomores

There appeared in this paper several weeks ago an article which told what the sophs thought of the frosh. Since then there were those who decided a similar article would be nice, telling what the frosh think of the sophs.

Now what could they say? Most of the poor, downtrodden frosh were afraid to express any opinion about the sophs other than to say that they were a "nice bunch," "all right," or some similarly cool statement. These were mere trifle expressions protecting the poor kids from paddling.

One little frosh girl actually thinks the sophs are swell! Only one pities the sophs because they must make so many enemies just because they're on a silly committee.

One youngster broke down and confessed she couldn't see why she was brought before the tribunal when there was no excuse for it.

Then, too, one of the boys confessed very sincerely, "the sophs are all right. All they do is paddle us!"

Coed's Correspondence Crashes Paper In Far-Away Australia

An Albright senior recently crashed an Australian newspaper through her interest in foreign correspondence. Louise Keller received not so long ago this clipping from her correspondent in Bendigo, Australia:

"Some time ago Miss Louise E. Keller, of Gibraltar, Berks County, Pennsylvania, wrote to the Bendigo postmaster (Mr. T. A. Dickson) and inquired if he could put her in touch with a pen-friend. Mr. Dickson furnished her with the name of Mary Mollard, and she has now received a letter from Miss Keller explaining how she selected Bendigo as a place from which to seek a pen-friend. She says:

"My uncle saw a picture film of some beautiful gardens in Melbourne. He told me about it, and I decided to write to someone who could tell me about them. I looked up a map of Australia and decided that Melbourne was so big that my letter might be overlooked, so I wrote to the place nearest to on my map." So Bendigo has formed a link with the United States that will help in advertising this city overseas, for Miss Keller, who is a cultured young lady, has asked for all kinds of information about our city, and Miss Mollard has given her a host of facts that will form an idea of the importance of Bendigo."

Students Flock To Hear Talks By Rev. Haehlen

Jam Chapel During Religious Week

Religious Emphasis Week is just about over. But if the attendance at all the services conducted by the Rev. Maurice Haehlen during the last four days is any sort of an indicator, one might say that the week was a big success.

For the Rev. Mr. Haehlen himself stated he could ask for nothing more. The large audiences in chapel service, and the voluntary attendance in the evening programs speak for themselves, he said.

When asked for his opinion on the religious sentiment on campus, the Rev. Mr. Haehlen called it rather remarkable, especially in view of the many different religious backgrounds of the students. The usual corner on religion appearing on most campuses was not noticeable at Albright, he said.

Rev. Mr. Haehlen did a lot of talking last week. He addressed four chapel services in the morning, held special consultation periods every afternoon at 2 p. m., and in addition, conducted services in the theology building in the evening.

He is a graduate of Western Union College, LeMars, Iowa. While attending that institution, he "came out" for football and track. Rev. Haehlen modestly will admit. He was also active in debating. He received a diploma from the Evangelical Theological Seminary in Naperville, Ill., and he holds a master's degree from Northwestern. At present he is pastor of Grace Evangelical Church in Naperville.

Dominos Ready For Week-End In New York

Early tomorrow morning a group from the Domino Club will leave for a week-end in New York.

They will attend a matinee performance of "Ladies and Gentlemen" starring Helen Hayes, and the evening performance of "The Little Foxes" with Tallulah Bankhead. On Sunday, they will see a radio broadcast in the Great Plays series of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing". They plan to attend services at the Russian Orthodox Church of Christ the Savior in Harlem and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

With two Columbia Summer School students as chaperones, the group will certainly visit Columbia University. Trips to various museums have been planned—The Whitney Museum of American Art, the Pierpont Morgan Library (for manuscript and first editions), the Frick Museum, the Museum of Modern Art, and the Cloisters of the Metropolitan Museum. Mr. Work has promised to lead the group to some internationally famous restaurants for their meals. Part of the crowd may stay on Sunday night to see the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo in their newest productions: "Rouge et Noir" (based on the first symphony of Shostakovich), and "Ghost Town" (based on American character with music by Richard Rogers and Hart fame).

The group includes Mrs. Masters, Miss Fenili, Marjorie Frundt, Marion Plummer, Myrtle Stegman, Phyllis Kaltreider, Dorothy Gaul, Ada Gossler, Jane Buttorff, Margaret Hollenbach, Robert Gerhart, Arthur McKay, George Henry, Jerome Denner, Robert Work, and Don Blackmore.

Prof. Gives Views On World War

In an attempt to show what some of Albright's professors think about the present war in Europe, the Albrightian is going to run a series of articles written by the respective teachers in the field of history, social science, etc.

The first of these opinions is submitted by Dr. Milton W. Hamilton, head of the department of history. According to Dr. Hamilton, "the war is being fought by Great Britain to preserve the British Empire and its far flung influence. Germany is seeking to maintain a regime which has regained for her a dominant position in Europe. To understand what this means one must study the history of the last century as well as the last twenty years. The purpose of both belligerents is to convince their people that they must gain these material aims in order to keep the great intangible benefits of the past. To the British this means a war for democracy, liberalism, and gradual change, as opposed to totalitarianism, violence, and the suppression of individualism. Yet, if we are to think clearly, we must see the material side, too. Ultimately, peace will be made, and the material conflicts will have to be resolved."

"Double Cuts" Before, After 1-Day Vacation

The Thanksgiving vacation will be only one day this year—Thursday, November 23. The "double-cut" regulation will be applied to the students' last class of each subject before the recess and the first class of each subject after the recess.

"Y's" Publish "Social Action"

A week ago today there was distributed on the campus a new student publication, "Social Action," which is prepared by the joint social action committees of the Y's.

The Y's expect to publish this mimeographed sheet twice a month. It is definitely a paper of opinion. The first issue carries statements presumably the opinion of the two committees on such topics as: The repeal of the Neutrality Act, The Way of Peace, Kirby Page Against Coercion, and Kirby Page's Coming to Reading.

Many of the articles were written by Art McKay. The writing of the paper will be distributed among the committee members.

Peace Is Theme Of Gingrich Talk

Dr. F. W. Gingrich will address the Sunday Bible Class this week on the subject, "The Christian Message Towards Peace."

Several regulations will go into effect on Sunday in connection with the services. The first is the closing of the western door after 9 o'clock; the second, is the elimination of the offering. A plate will be placed at the entrance for those who want to contribute.

EDITORIAL

Club presidents, and club reporters, we are appropriating this space this week for a chat with you. Have you some question as to why news of your club has not been appearing in these columns as regularly as it should? If you are dissatisfied with the publicity you have been receiving, gather round.

For those of you who came in late, here is our system: Each club president was asked at the beginning of the semester to appoint some responsible person from his organization to see that news of club affairs reaches the club department of this weekly. This reporter need not hand in a complete write-up. If he has no talent for writing but a definite sense of responsibility, he can give to the staff writer assigned to cover that club either a verbal report or a written outline.

Perhaps, club presidents, you have put off the appointing of representatives, or perhaps your representatives have not been so conscientious as he or she might have been. Either situation can be remedied by simple action on your part. Just give name of your carefully-chosen representative to the editor, who will put him in touch with the proper person on the staff.

Please take of this matter before vacation, so that we can be ready to give you a "new deal" in publicity. Don't forget—deadline Tuesday noon, for all ready-written material should be in the hands of the club department early Monday.

Okay, club presidents, it's up to you!

Two Additions to Penna. 'Who's Who'

In listing the professors whose biographies are included in the new addition of Who's Who in Pennsylvania, the Albrightian overlooked two prominent faculty members.

Miss Elsie A. Garlach, professor of French, and Dr. Morris Greth, head of the philosophy department, are included in the roster.

The Snooper

By ANNE ONYMOUS

Since this was the week before mid-semester and people spent more time in studying than in pitching woo, we decided that this would be a good time to establish a "date bureau," for the loveless and the lovelorn. So hear ye, hear ye, ye of the lonely heart!

After much psychological and physiological research, we advise the following combinations:

Evelyn Belmont and Al Ther-gesen . . . because they're just two jitterburgs at heart.

Esther Gingrich and Dick Walton . . . because their families would approve of the match.

Mary Klein and Red Sheffer . . . because the color combination is so pretty!

Margaret Hollenbach and Bishop . . . because their wit would make them such good sparring partners across the breakfast table.

Mary Dunlap and Jo Laucks . . . because life would be just a beautiful duet.

Olga Bitler and McKay . . . because no matter how bad a temper she has, she can't fight with a pacifist.

Louise Eastland and Paul Golis . . . because they could melt their gold "A's" and make a wedding ring out of them.

Fern Dentith and Ellsworth Snoddy . . . because they could have a good time trying to reform each other.

Caroline Hastings and George Henry . . . because they could spend their evenings tearing their "mutual acquaintances" apart (they won't have any friends by that time!)

Winnie Demien and Jim Breen . . . because they're both skilled in the art of betraying their true loves.

Jane Dick and Ray Hain . . . because it would make the long trolley ride from Shillington less monotonous.

Margaret Savidge and Jake Hydock . . . because they're both the athletic type.

Mary Green and Paul Diblasi . . . because opposites attract. Our census reveals that the most eligible bachelor on campus is Marshall Popelka.

Some names have been conspicuous by their absence; they'll have to be classified under the married couples. Here they are: Burger and Brant, Hoppes and Heller, Yocum and Stauffer, Bayne and Woods, Stettler and Zanot.

There is a divorce pending between Buzzard and Falcone, after which they'll be on the loose again.

So step right up, boys and girls! Make your reservations for dates early.

Speaking of Popelka, he found that not even the closets in the new A. P. O. dorm are large enough to hide him from Lone Star's eagle eye. What a pal you are, Kuklis!

We wonder why George Bingaman is so eager to discuss that certain topic in Senior Bible!

And then there's that rangy junior, McKinney, who's always in a well, well well-digger's home.

Geil Addresses Philosophy Club

Philosophy Club met for its regular meeting Thursday evening, November 9, in Ann Benninger's room.

After a very short business meeting, Dr. Geil spoke to the group on the various schools of psychology relating the conception of self to each school.

He discussed the stricturalist, functional, behaviorist, Gestalt, and Freudian schools with their many branches. The fundamental beliefs and the men advocating each school were discussed.

Members and guests present were: Dr. and Mrs. Greth, Dr. Geil, Byrdie Kalish, Paul Ackert, Mrs. Hunter, George Bingaman, Ellsworth Snoddy, Selma Bagat, Ann Benninger, Jeanette Snyder and Louise Eastland.

Science News

The Reading-Berks Astronomical Club held its seventh meeting in the Science Hall on November 9 at 8 p. m. Professor Roy Merkel, principal of the Sinking Spring High School, spoke on the subject, "The Ancient Concept of Astronomy." At the December meeting, Dean Walton will continue the series of discussions by speaking on "The Modern Concept of the Universe."

Peter Foltz, teacher at Manheim High School, visited the biological department of the school.

James Thomas, of Temple University Dental School, was on campus Saturday, November 2.

Word has been received from Captain Sattenstein, a first year student at Georgetown Medical School, who reports very favorable progress in his work.

A movie on the Red Cross entitled, "To the Rescue," was shown in the science hall at 3:30 on Monday.

BOOK REVIEW

(by Margaret Sollenbach)

"DEMON DAUGHTER" is the hair-raising tale of Honore' Wilsie Morrow's daughter Felicia. The story is told from two angles: we have Mrs. Morrow's struggle to understand her problem child, and that child's attempts to understand her mother. Each was puzzled by the other's actions.

We see Felicia as the blond, blue-eyed angelic child who practiced deception on a large scale. We sympathize with her mother when the half-grown girl falls in love with the wrong people.

From the other side, we see the tall thin mother who never understood and the woman who was jealous of her daughter's beaux because she herself lacked "It" Felicia resented her mother's attempts to help because "she liked her roses with thorns". Her whole childhood was a series of carefully planned dramatic scenes.

The book is rich in humor as well as insight into what is almost abnormal psychology. Although the reader sympathizes with Felicia, he joins her mother in a huge sigh of relief when the demon daughter finally marries the right man.

All Bright Observations

By ALFRED COMSTOCK

Rising at 6:15 this morning, and forcing his peepers open with an eye pick, your scribe felt very much as though he had just spent the night in the air-conditioning plant of the Crystal's "polar" bar. His 7:00 hunger march across campus, via the terrace path, and down the Siberian Hall steps, afforded a Pennarama of leaf-covered turf, overlaid with a fine layer of frost and snow, which resembled nothing, so much as the brimming bowl of bean flakes and sugar (before the milk was added) which he partook of in the dining hall.

After the Dickinson game, last Saturday, "Cocky" stopped off in Lebanon, but that same morning, just before leaving for Carlyle, we heard him singing about "The Belles of St. Michael."

When asked for his views on marriage, in Bible 3 B, the head of our psychology department alluded to the concept that states that if a marriage is to be successful, it is the man's fundamental duty to love, honor, and hold in obedience.

Who says that there is no conflict between science and religion? Skull and Bones did not meet this week, due to the Religious Emphasis program. Students in Biology 15, more familiarly known as Cinema I, have been learning things. The moving pictures that have been shown have already upset one of my most well-established beliefs! Until Biology 15 class, the other day, I had always supposed that a cretin was a person who was a native of the Isle of Crete. It has also been diverting to follow the antics of the little Mary Myxedema, and at our last meeting we even saw pictures of rats. Logic, therefore, leads me to believe that next time we will see Mickey Mouse cavorting on the screen of the Biology 15 "little theater."

That imposing looking building, with the marble facade, bearing the number, 247 Penn Street, is not a ritzy apartment house, as one might well suppose, but instead, an undertaking establishment, to which we might add, Auman, brother.

HUNGRY LIONS AFTER DIPLOMATS

The Lions Den

By ALAN R. DUKE

When the frosh game is over this afternoon, we will be able to approximate the future of football at Albright for the next three years. The Lion Cubs are meeting Temple University's frosh team in a game that will undoubtedly prove to be their toughest battle of the season. It is up to them to make the boys from down Philadelphia way feel that it was also their toughest game. Lots of luck, fellows! The future of Albright football depends upon you as a team and as individuals.

At this point it appears that the Kappas and the Pi Taus will meet in the play-off for the championship of the intra-mural football league. The Kappas have swept aside all competition this second half, including the previously unbeaten Pi Taus; and if they continue the pace they have set, will certainly take the trophy without much difficulty.

There isn't much to be said about our varsity football team. At present, words seem rather unnecessary in publicizing their activities. The fellows have shown, in the last four games, that the old, time-worn adage "actions speak louder than words," still holds true.

The Lions have been building a better offense each game until, against Dickinson, they ran up a more impressive score than Army found it possible to do against the same team. However, the next three games will tell the story. Franklin and Marshall, Lebanon Valley, and Muhlenberg all boast powerful teams this year and each one will try to smash Albright's winning streak. Here's hoping we can make it seven straight! Tomorrow's game with F. and M. at Lancaster will give us an indication of what our newly discovered offensive power can do against a strong defense. So keep your fingers crossed!

Upsets Upset Score Guessers; Reiner Wins

Upsets on the gridiron all over the country knocked for a loop the high percentage Albright's guessers were averaging in the contests sponsored by the Albrightian.

For last week, four of the entrants named 12 victors, going down (Continued on Page 4)

Frosh Bolster Aerial Attack For Season Final With Temple Owls Today

Harris To Have Full Squad For P. M. Melee

Playing what one might call a preliminary to the Albright-Franklin and Marshall tilt tomorrow, the Lion frosh will meet the Temple baby gridders this afternoon on the local gridiron.

The Cubs put in a satisfactory performance against the West Chester team two weeks ago. According to Coach Harris, they'll have to play much better if they intend to hold the Owls to a low score let alone win the game. In their previous games, the frosh couldn't get down to business until the first quarter was over with their opponents leading by a touchdown or two.

This will be the first game that Coach Harris will have his entire squad available for service. Dutzer, Katz, and Harpster are raring to go after having remained on the sidelines with injuries for several weeks.

Throughout the week Harris put the boys through a series of scrimmages with the Varsity. Pass offense and defense was emphasized for without a doubt passing will figure plenty in this fray. This game will windup the season for the frosh. To date they're batting 500 in two games. This afternoon they'll be shooting for the .666 mark.

The probable starting lineup includes Demedovich and Spangler ends; Harpster and Disend, tackles; Gasper and Chamberlain, guards; with Kitty "Katz" playing the pivot position. In the backfield will be Bennett, Horn, Kiliyany, and Gillis.

KAPPA'S HOLD SMOKER, PARTY

Last week, on November 6, the Kappa Upsilon Phi fraternity held a smoker and movie party at the house. With invitations having been extended to the freshmen males a large number turnout filled the social rooms to overflowing.

The Kappa's defeated the Pi Tau's first half winners of the touch football league, 6-0.

SPORT SHOTS

By CARL MOGEL

Whitey Quiren, definitely on the sidelines for the remainder of the season, is now coaching the Wyoming Juniors. The blond halfback is taking his youngsters to Emmaus, tomorrow, to meet Harry Humphrey's Emmaus Junior Varsity.

Victor Gigli, freshman footballer from Tamaqua, will be in the feature bout of the first indoor amateur boxing show of the current season at the Armory, on November 21. It will be the second bout for the Italian lad since his matriculation here.

Dick Riffle played a brand new role for the Philadelphia Eagles on Sunday against the Green Bay Packers. The Corning Express showed his versatility by taking over the wingback position which is purely a blocking post on the offensive. Dick's tackling was savage and his guarding of the famed Don Huston was sensational.

Walter Zuke, former Lion footballer, has just recovered from a tonsilectomy made necessary by the rigid entrance examinations of the U. S. Army Air Corps. Zuke plans to enter training at Floyd Bennet Field, New York.

Statistics show that on totals Albright is definitely superior to their opponents so far this season.

	A	B
First Downs	70	50
Yards Gained Rushing	838	674
Passes Attempted	96	102
Passes Completed	49	34
Passes Intercepted	11	10
Yards Gained Passing	691	488

Today's freshman game between Albright and Temple will be the students' first and only opportunity to see Neil Harris' proteges in action. If your afternoon is free, support the first-year men who will enter the game as underdogs to a large Temple squad. Also, take a look at those two freshman backs, Bob Bennet and Ted Horn, who are displaying varsity calibre for the Baby Lions.

Injuries to veterans usually mean bad luck to a small college football squad, but at Albright it has meant just the opposite. Look at it this way; if Whitey Quiren and Jack Munley had not been injured, in all probability Jim Breen would be still warming the bench or making an insignificant showing with the inexperienced sophomore team. Two injuries to Cockey Robeson made Wiege's appearance possible at the center post. Sam Coccodrilli was given his big chance when Popelka and Duke received slight injuries. Bob Baum, Vince Rusbasin, Leo Sekulski, Stan Kuklis, and Paul Michales, are other gridders who gained recognition through injuries to key men.

Seek Fifth Win Tomorrow at F. & M.'s Expense

Riding the wave of a winning streak that was stretched to four games by virtue of their 46-14 conquest of Dickinson, last Saturday, Albright's roaring Lion's are given an even chance to stretch that streak one more digit when they meet the F. and M. Diplomats on the Lancaster parley-grounds, tomorrow afternoon.

This battle of brain and brawn will be the twelfth meeting of the two schools, in a rivalry that dates way back to 1912. And in all those games, the Red and White have won only once — 9-6, in 1935 when Dick Riffle and Johnny Muller were ops.

The Lion's will enter the fray tomorrow with a host of scoring experience on their side. Last week Dietz's sophomore sensation, Jim Breen, ran all over the lot with the pigskin at Dickinson, topping his performance with 70 and 91 yard runs. Ted Soja's sensational ball-handling and Chet Wielgolinski's pass-interception accounting for four of the seven touchdowns, with Breen scoring the other three. Jim Snyder's educated toe scored three of the extra points from placement, while Czaikoski made good his attempted placement, also.

Marshall Popelka, whom Dietz kept on the sidelines during the Dickinson scramble, will probably start at his fullback tomorrow. Dietz has not definitely decided what Cockey Robson will do, even though his knee injury is healed.

Al Holman, Diplomat mentor, will bring a hard running attack out on the F. and M. grid. Captain Jim Flowers, shifty left halfback, Fritz Fox, quarterback, Fred Schuena and John Kennedy are the other backfield starters. Outstanding on the Diplomat line is Bill Shilbanoff, giant left tackle, who is also a deadly place-kicker. He converted in the last six attempts. The biggest weakness of the careermen is in their air defense.

If the Lion's can keep up the average they set at Dickinson, completing 13 of 19 attempted passes, they won't have to worry very much about scoring. With Breen tossing to Kuklis, Soja, Thorpe and Snyder, a couple hundred more yards may be added to the already high total of 691 yards gained through the air route.

on the other eight. Rollin Reiner is the lucky fellow, however, by virtue of his perfect score, Rutgers 13, Lafayette 6. Ray McCrann was a very, very close second. He missed the Ohio State-Chicago scrap by only one point, calling it 60-0. Actually it was 61-0 in Ohio State's favor. Robert Starr and Wash Mochlick were the two other prognosticators to name 12 correctly.

The Ohio State game, incidentally was the easiest game for the soothsayers to predict. All but two persons were faithful to the almanac. The Penn State-Penn. Iowa-Notre Dame, and St. Joseph's-Lebanon Valley scraps were the hardest to call. Two tie games, Yale-Brown and Gettysburg-F. and M., also pulled down the percentages.

The games for this week can be listed on the ballots and dropped at the switchboard before tomorrow at 12 o'clock. The winners of the games listed below must be in the box before 12 o'clock on Saturday, November 25. The tickets for both contests will admit the winners to the Muhlenberg game in the stadium on December 2.

Here are the games:

- 1—Albright-Lebanon Valley; 2—Carnegie Tech-Duquesne; 3—Bucknell-G.
