Domino Club To Stage Comedy As Fall Play

Mrs. Yvonne V. Molloy

J. M. Synge's 'Playboy' Will Be Production

by Y. V. Molloy

Domino Club has chosen for its fall play what is likely the greatest and most imaginative modern comedy of the western world. It is not yet fifty years since Ireland's Abbey Theatre by way of protest and riot, destined "The Playboy of the Western World", written by J. M. Synge, to universal fame, and the play has since become a classic of literature and the theatre.

At its premiers in 1907, the misunderstanding of the play's purpose led to "noisy, farcical and disgusting scenes" in the streets and courts of Dublin and within the old Abbey. These scenes are now struck and curtains rise on nearly every country in this play, defended by the author himself as not a play with "a purpose" in the modern sense of the word but, through parts of it are, or are meant to be, extravagant comedy, still a great deal that is in it, and a great deal more that is behind it, is perfectly serious, when looked at in a certain light, as is the case with the best comedies of world literature.

And so there are several sides to the play. Modern interpreters could say that J. M. Synge, the playwright, foresaw the highly critical problem of Ireland today, that of the Vanishing Irishman. Still, more discerning interpreters could see that it is not only the Irishman that is vanishing. The universal folk with imaginations fiery, magnificent and tender are vanishing as well. There are few daring fellows the like of Christy Mahon left in our convenient world and too many fat and fair Shawn Keoghs.

The simple story of "The Playboy of the Western World" is this: Christy Mahon, a shy and lonely dreamer is so plagued by his father that he ups a Tuesday and halves his skull, and runs off to seek cover from the law. Coming upon a desolate public house, he finds his wild est dreams beginning to come into focus as joyful reality. For Peegen Mike spurns her moneyed fiancé in favor of Christy, and all praise his deed, for a "daring fellow is the jewel of the world." In this, his first time out in the world, he becomes the hero of all. He is made potboy and protector of Peegen; he wins all in sports and wins the crown of all, Peegen's hand in marriage. His only assets are imagination, new and deep self-confidence, and strong happiness.

Arena-Style Comedy To Be In Krause Hall

For the first time in Albright's history, a Domino production will be presented "arena style" in Krause Hall, December 2, 3 and 4. Mrs. Yvonne Molloy has announced that the fall production to be presented in this new style will be J. M. Synge's "Playboy Of The Western World", an imaginative mood comedy.

One of six plays written by the famous Irish playwright, its premier was held in 1907 at Dublin, Ireland. Mrs. Molloy directed five of six Synge plays in connection with her work in Dublin last year. With the completion of "The Playboy Of The Western World", she will have directed the entire works of J. M. Synge.

Persons cast in the play are Harold Baughman, as Christopher Mahon (the playboy); James Rogers, Old Mahon; John Ramsey, Michael James Flaherty; Virginia Mangin, Margaret Flaherty (Peegen Mike); Yvonne Thunick, Widow Quin; Edmond Ettlinger, Shawn Keogh.

Also, William Baitinger, Philly Cullen; John Bright, Jimmy Farrell; Thalia Voigt, Sara Tansey; Jacqueline Moyer, Susan Brady; Suzanne Goldstein, Honor Blake; Shirley Fox, Nellie; and William Blatz, Bellman.

The action takes place near a village on the western coast of Ireland.

Lions Defeat Dutchmen In Homecoming Contest

"Go Man, Go!"

Krize Blocks Kick; Reller Scores Twice

Led by Bob Reller, the Lions of Coach Eddie Gullian won their third game of the season last Saturday, taking a 21-14 conquest over hapless Lebanon Valley. It was a fitting climax to the homecoming festivities, and the game was played before a crowd of 2,500 enthusiastic fans.

Albright failed to cash in on its first scoring opportunity in the initial period. After the Lions kicked off, Lebanon Valley failed to move, and punted to the Albright 38. Dragon then punted back to the Lebanon Valley 15, where the ball was fumbled. Reller recovered for the Lions. Despite this golden opportunity, the Red and White could not score and the Dutchmen took over on downs.

In the second period, the Lions began to move. Starting on their own 39, the Red and White gained a first down at midfield by virtue of a roughness penalty. Then Smith and Sheppard, cracking the line for 5 yards at a clip, moved the ball to the Valley 40 and a second first down. The Lions then switched to a deep double-wing formation, and on the first play Reller crossbucked through a gaping hole in the center of the line and dashed past the dazed secondary for the first Lion score. McNeill's try for point was blocked, and the Red and White led 6-0.

Halfway in the third period Albright took over again, following a Valley punt, on their own 42. On the first play Wetzel swept around left end for 46 yards and a first down on the Dutchmen's 12. After another first down Reller, taking a handoff from Dragon, dove over right tackle for the score. This time McNeill's try for point was good, and the Lions led 13-0.

Valley Retaliates

As the end of the quarter neared, Valley began a scoring march on their own 28. Douglass finally scored on a quarterback sneak, and Olinger added the extra point to make the score 13-7. It was the first conversion made by the Dutchmen this season.

Smith returned the kickoff 43 yards to midfield, but here the rock-ribbed Valley defense stopped the Gulliamen. When LV failed to move against the Lions Hoekinson tried to punt from his own 2, but Krize and Huntzinger burst through the line to block the attempt. Kick for a safety, making the score 15-7 in favor of the Lions.

Wagner Catches Pass

Late in the game the Red and White took the ball on downs on the Valley 26 yard line. Chango, now in at quarterback for the Lions, handed off to Wetzel and Jones for a first down on the 15. After being set back five yards for an offside penalty, the Lions took to the airways. Cypher threw to Wetzel on the 15, and on the following play tossed to Wagner, who made a spectacular catch of the ball in the end zone. Cypher's attempted conversion was missed, and the Lions led 21-7.

With less than a minute remaining in the game, Stauffer took Cypher's fine kick and reversed the ball to Stanfield, who raced 90 yards through the Lion reserves for the score. Again the conversion was good and the game ended with the final score Albright 21, Lebanon Valley 14.

Synges 'Playboy'

So when his father appears very much alive and noisy to the disillusionment of Christy's followers, the test of his new freedom is made and is met by killing him a second time. However, Pegeen voices the changed feelings of those who would hang him with: "There's a great gap between a gallous story and a dirty deed." His father re-enters on all fours but still alive, and Christy, master of all from now on, leads him off to his father's delight and to Pegeen's wild grief. Too late, she understands what is lost to her.

Life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy. —Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Bill

Next time you pass the Kappa house, you might be lucky enough to find its very busy president in one of his rare moments of leisure. If you should, don't forget to say hello because he's really swell and very friendly.

Bill is kept busy with a long list of activities. He is president of Kappa Upsilon Phi fraternity and a member of the Inter-fraternity Council. Athletically inclined, Bill played football for two years and is currently a member of the golf team. With all these activities to occupy his time, he still keeps his marks way up there and is a member of Pi Gamma Mu, Albright's honorary social science fraternity. Teaching being his chosen profession, Bill is an active member of the Future Teachers of America.

Bill's interests are varied and many, but he particularly likes sports—especially golf, teaching, and playing pinochle against J. J. Being a very pleasing person, his only dislike is that long second semester. Just think, only one more to go until he receives that well earned diploma.

We know you're going to be a very successful history teacher, Bill, and may we wish the best of luck in the future to a terrific guy.

Reverend C. Francis Leads 'Y' Recreation

Reverend Charles L. Francis, the speaker during the morning chapel services Tuesday, November 2, acted as the recreational leader for the "Y" program that evening. Rev. Francis, whose church is in Flushing, N. Y., is noted for his specialization in leading recreation for young people. He has done a lot of work with youth groups throughout the East and the South. He is the recreation director of the Methodist churches in his district.

Rev. Francis began the program by teaching the group some folk songs and spirituals. After explaining a few fundamental steps of folk dancing, Rev. Francis taught the group some simple dances. The evening of recreation and fellowship ended with a friendship circle and the singing of "Jacob's Ladder."

Pi Gamma Mu

The Pi Gamma Mu honorary fraternity recently held a meeting at which new members for the year were elected. The members names will be announced at a later date.

At the meeting, a schedule was drawn up regarding their plans and activities for the semester.
