

Dr. McBride Assumes Role Of Academic Dean

Dr. Robert E. McBride, has been appointed Dean of the College this year. Previously, he was the Director of the Graduate Division and chairman of the Psychology and Philosophy Department at Indiana Central College.

A native of Washington, Indiana, and a graduate of the high school in that community, Dr. McBride received his A.B. degree from Indiana Central in 1948, the B.D. from Bonebrake Theological Seminary in 1951, where he was first in his class, and the Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1958. He has done extended research in contemporary linguistic philosophy at Harvard and at Chicago.

An ordained minister of the Indiana South Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, he has served pastorates in Clayton, Ohio, and Peotone, Illinois, and began his association with Indiana Central in 1954 in the Psychology and Religion Departments. During World War II he was a member of the 17th and 82nd Airborne Infantry Divisions.

Dr. McBride is a member of the Indiana Philosophical Association, secretary-treasurer of the Indiana Academy of Religion, The American Theological Association, and The Society for the Scientific Study of Religion. At Indiana Central, where he graduated cum laude, he was elected to membership in the senior honor society. Dr. McBride had also served as Dean of Men at Indiana Central.

His community activities included the chairmanship of the Indianapolis city-wide school board selection committee, "Non-partisans for Better Schools." He is listed in Who's Who in American Education and Who's Who in Indiana, as well as in the Directory of American Philosophers.

During his senior year in college he was All-Conference end in football, with honorable mention Little-All-America. He also holds his college baseball batting average record. Dr. McBride is married and is the father of three children.

Y CABINET TO MAKE PLANS AT WORKNIGHT

The Albright student YM-YWCA is constitutionally an organization which includes all Albrightians. It is up to the individual student to choose the Y activities in which he wishes to participate. This year one of the main objectives of the program is to include as many students and faculty as possible. In order to get ideas from all those who are interested and to acquaint these people with the plans which have already been made, the Y Cabinet will hold a "Worknight", Tuesday, September 20, at 7:00 P.M. in the Chapel. There will be a short explanation of the general functions and purposes of the Y, and then the group will form smaller groups to discuss the following: World University Service Week, Coffee House Programs, Operation One-To-One, Intercollegiate Y Weekend, International Weekend, Grandparents' Party, Faith and Heritage, and the Children's Christmas Party. Afterward, the "Y-Not" Coffee House will be open in the Pine Room of Selwyn.

If you are interested in the Y, please come and help plan this year's program.

Convocation Opens Albright's 111th Year; Dr. Ehrhart Speaks

Albright began its 111th academic year last Tuesday with the annual colorful faculty procession and Opening Convocation exercises in Merner-Pfeiffer-Klein Memorial chapel-auditorium.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, Dr. Arthur L. Schultz, Albright president, officially convened the new term with the traditional statement "I now declare the 111th academic year in session." Earlier he introduced the new faculty and reaffirmed Albright's commitment "to develop informed and socially-minded citizens, who will participate intelligently in the life of the home, community and state."

Dr. Carl Y. Ehrhart, dean of Lebanon Valley College, who was featured convocation speaker, addressed a capacity audience of faculty and students "On Majoring in Minors".

"There are many other areas of college life in which to major other than the academic . . . areas of lesser importance. We major in minors when we place something of lesser importance in first place and thus reverse the proper order of value," he said, in introducing the topic.

Elton Trueblood speaks of the merits of liberal education, Dean Ehrhart continued, as "Liberal education at its best not only helps men and women to know more, it also

Faculty Posts Include New Head of Education

Dr. Robert F. Smith, former supervising principal of Cocalico School District, was named professor and chairman of the department of education at Albright.

A native of Jersey Shore, Pa., Dr. Smith received his B.S. in Education from Lock Haven State College, the M.Ed. and D.Ed. from Pennsylvania State University. His graduate studies were in administration and history of higher education.

Dr. Smith's career in education began in 1932 when he was elementary director in the Chapman Township School District, Clinton County, Pennsylvania. His 34 years experience includes public and college teaching, elementary and secondary administration, and coaching and directing athletics. Dr. Smith had been supervising principal of the Cocalico School District since 1961.

An associate professor of history and later chairman of the Education Department at Lycoming College, he was responsible for the development of its teacher training and evaluation program. He also directed Lycoming's summer and evening division and was director of athletics and coach of basketball for ten years.

Listed in Who's Who in the East and Who's Who in Education, Dr. Smith is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, education honorary, American Association of School Administrators, National Education Association, and the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Dr. Smith replaces Dr. John Wilbur Kopp who accepted an appointment as supervisor of the Patton School, Elizabethtown, Pa.

Three new faculty members have been added to the English department. Two of the appointments fill new teaching positions in English literature and composition, and increase the English faculty to fifteen. Named were Ronald G. Coleman, assistant professor, Miss Myra K. Martin, instructor, and Peter K. Reinhart, graduate assistant.

Coleman received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Fairleigh Dickinson University. He held a graduate scholarship at the University of New Hampshire and a Wall Street Journal fellowship in the New York University School of Journalism in 1963.

Miss Martin was a Max Clark Scholar at Southern Methodist University, where she earned her bachelor's degree in 1964. She received her master's degree in English from Duke University, under a Canterbury Scholarship.

Prior to her appointment at Albright, she was an instructor in English at Madison College.

A member of the Modern Language Association of America and of the National Council Teachers of English, she will teach freshman and sophomore courses. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Col. Clinton Morton Is Among New Faculty Appointments

Colonel Clinton O. Morton has been appointed associate professor of French at Albright.

A Villa Park, N. J., native, he received the A.B. from Rutgers University, Phi Beta Kappa, in 1931; and the A.M. from Brown University in 1933, where he held a graduate assistantship and graduate scholarships.

Morton has done graduate work at Middlebury College, the University of Paris, and Brown University, where he continues toward his Ph.D. in romance languages. He is a graduate of the Command and General Staff College, U. S. Army, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. and has completed advanced study in special military affairs at the Army War College, Carlisle, Pa.

Prior to his military career from 1942 to 1966, Morton was an instructor in French, English, and journalism at Monmouth College, Long Branch, N. J. He also taught French at Rutgers summer school. While in the military, Morton held the rank of assistant professor in French at the University of Maryland.

As a career officer in the U. S. Army, his specialty was intelligence. He taught French military subjects, and served as briefing officer on intelligence matters to the Chief of Staff, and to the Secretaries of Defense and of the Army. He has held frequent assignments with the Army Security Agency and the National Security Agency, and prior to his retirement in February, he was senior U. S. officer in Intelligence Division, AFSOUTH, NATO Headquarters, Naples, Italy.

Complementing Morton's professional competency are years of experience in dealing with people of different nationalities, historical and cultural backgrounds, as well as Americans of all social and educational levels. His military career has afforded him extensive travel and the development of a broad language background.

Dr. Richard D. Moore will join the Albright faculty as associate professor in biology. (Continued on Page Two)

Upward and Onward

As Albright embarks upon its 111th academic year, several changes have been noticed on the campus. Many of the Women's rules have been revised and changed, giving women more freedom and responsibility. Smoking is now permitted in the lounges of the women's dormitories, dress regulations have finally reached the standards of modern women and hours have been altered to allow greater freedom for special occasions.

September first marked a date which is largely insignificant but still strikes an awesome reality. With that day, we gently moved into the last third of our wonderful Twentieth Century. It appears that while Albright may be finally emerging from some of the antiquated ideals of the Nineteenth Century there is still a great deal of catching up to do.

During this century, Albright has improved greatly in the academic field, becoming one of the best small colleges in the East. The administration and staff have undergone many changes and are now extremely efficient and understanding to student affairs. The student body is also better than that of ten or twenty years ago, as Albright attracts many of the top students in the area. With top-notch students and faculty, Albright should rapidly stride forth in social matters.

The Albrightian has now been serving Albright for over a century as a voice of the students for expressing their ideas and opinions. Nothing can develop from a stagnant student body—zombies with no purpose other than vegetating in their shells and keeping all thoughts to themselves. For this reason, the staff of The Albrightian encourages students and faculty to speak out on any matters which concern the college. Praises, criticisms, and especially possible solutions to problems are indeed a necessity if Albright hopes to continue to forge ahead in 1966 and 1967.

Freshmen Lions Boost Promising Grid Team

By Phil Eppley, Sports Editor

Twenty-one veterans from the 1965 football team were invited to pre-season training this year. A very promising crop of twenty-five freshmen complete the forty-six man roster which hopes to improve last year's 4-5 record.

Coach John Potsklan expects several outstanding veteran players to form the nucleus of the team. These include George Gamber, center; Mickey Espo, tackle; Carmon Comunale, end; Roy Shellhammer, quarterback; Tom Bowersox, fullback; and John Longanecker and Tom Lugg, linebackers. This nucleus will be supported by the talented veterans and frosh, giving the Lions additional depth.

The freshman squad is the best and largest overall in recent years. Some frosh should play an important role this year, but the lack of experience will be a limitation. Freshmen who have looked impressive are: Schumacher, Casenda, Jones, defensive ends; McMullen, Agurkis, Wise, defensive tackles; Troy, offensive tackle; Mondorf, linebacker or defensive guard; Tortoreti, defensive halfback; Golenbeluski, fullback; Zimmerman, Gargiulo, Nichols, halfbacks; and Herd, center.

The power-I formation will be the main offensive system employed. Injuries to quarterback Shellhammer for the last two weeks has weakened the system. However, he should be recovered for the first game September 24th at Juniata.

School, Peter Reinhart completed his bachelor's degree, with honors, at Lehigh University, in 1964. He has done graduate study at Albright and Columbia University.

J. Dale Yoder will join the Albright College faculty as assistant professor of history. A native of Souderton, Yoder has been on the history faculty of Delaware Valley College for the past three years.

He earned his A.B. degree from Albright in 1957, and in 1960 the M.A. from Lehigh University, where he was awarded a teaching fellowship. Prior to his graduate work at Lehigh he taught and coached sports at Palisades High School.

At Albright he played varsity basketball and baseball and was vice president of the senior class. He was a member of Alpha Pi Omega social fraternity and Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity.

Mrs. Barbara Brown Zikmund was named instructor in history and religion. An ordained minister of the United-Church of Christ, Mrs. Zikmund received her A.B. degree from Beloit College in 1961 and the B.D. from Duke Divinity School in 1964.

Mrs. Zikmund is active in the American Association of Church History and is a member of the American Academy of Religion and the American Association of University Professors.

Donald J. McBryan will serve as Lecturer in Business Administration. He received the B.S. in Chemical Engineering from Villanova in 1958 and the M.S.A. from University of Pennsylvania in 1963.

To all members of the 1966 Freshman Orientation Committee, may I express my most sincere congratulations and appreciation for a job well done. To each sub-committee chairmen, those people who worked so diligently during the summer months, goes a special word of thanks.

I know that Dean Weislogel and many others of the faculty and administration join me in congratulating you. The many hours of planning and hard work that each of you put forth has not passed by unnoticed or unappreciated. Again, my thanks to you all.

Sincerely,
Roger Mallon
1966 Orientation Chairman.

helps them live better by providing the student with a discriminating system of values, by encouraging the development of an intellectual discipline, and by helping in the discovery of a pattern of meaning which will give potential dignity to the separated aspects of their experience."

"Matters of this sort are the majors behind the majors," the speaker concluded. "They are the majors the student can take with him, perhaps the only good ones, when he leaves college. If he has had a good major in these areas, then perhaps he can avoid 'majoring in minors' as he begins the new experience away from the college campus."

Other highlights of the opening exercises included devotions by the Rev. William R. Marlow, chaplain; a brief welcome by Jeffrey Leber, student council president; and remarks by Mrs. Carl L. N. Erdman, Wyoming, member of the board of trustees.

IT'S WHAT'S HAPPENING, BABY

Invade The North?

By Marc Richman

At least twice, Premier Ky of South Vietnam has spoken of the necessity of an invasion of North Vietnam. He stated that victory cannot be achieved without an invasion. This suggestion has been greeted with dismay, denial, and denunciations from the Administration. Lyndon Johnson claims we can win victory without an invasion of North Vietnam. How can these two men, supposedly seeking the same end result, come up with such diametrically opposed viewpoints. Well, how about each man's definition of victory? Aye, there's the rub.

Victory to Lyndon Johnson means an end to the invasions from the North, an end of the Viet Cong activities, and an elected government in the South. Victory means something rather different to Premier Ky, and also, I believe, to many Americans. North Vietnam has invaded South Vietnam; begging them to stop invading and withdraw their troops is not a victory. Suppose the United States had not invaded Germany? Would we have been content merely to throw the Germans out of France? Would that have satisfied Charles De Gaulle? If we had not invaded Germany, the war would still be in progress. So how can we expect to win the war in South Vietnam without invading the North? The answer is, we cannot.

Some people say that the entire war is illegal. That is false. The war is perfectly legal; no treaties were broken and no aggressions were committed by the South or U. S. First, neither the U. S. nor South Vietnam signed the 1954 treaty at Geneva. Second, North Vietnam did sign the treaty, broke that same treaty and later actually invaded South Vietnam.

So it was North Vietnam who committed acts of aggression and war against South Vietnam. Were politics not the name of the game, LBJ would have called for an all-out effort to win real victory. In fact, technically we are not at war at all. Tell that to 300,000 Americans living in Vietnam; tell that to 5,000 dead Americans.

I sympathize with the Peaceniks, the doves and the chickens. I want peace as much as any of them. I hate to see Americans dying in Vietnam; especially if they are dying in vain. And a Lyndon Johnson victory is not worth the loss of any lives. If our goal in Vietnam is a stalemate, a standstill, then I say let's get our boys home, and fast. But if our goal is freedom for the South, peace in Asia, and containment of the Chinese, then I say we must back a South Vietnamese invasion of the North. Such an invasion would end the war quickly and serve notice to the Chinese that we will not tolerate invasions of free countries.

Moore held a similar position at Hardin-Simmons University in Texas for the past seven years.

Dr. Moore earned his bachelor of science degree from Olivet College in 1948, the master of science (1952) and the doctorate (1956) from Michigan State University. He held graduate assistantships at both institutions, the latter for five years.

He has taken graduate work at Minnesota Medical School and has held fellowships at Baylor University College of Medicine, and at North Texas State College.

He is a fellow in both the New York and Texas Academies of Science, and a member of Sigma Xi, national honorary society. Dr. Moore has published in the Journal of Educational Research and in the Anatomical Record. He is listed in the current edition of American Men of Science and will be included in the future edition of Who's Who in American Education.

Miss Margarete M. Koppitz, a native of Berlin, Germany, has been named instructor in German at Albright College.

A graduate of the University of Berlin in 1950, she received the master of religious education from Crozer Theological Seminary in 1958. Formerly, she held a position on the German faculty of the University of Massachusetts. She also taught at the Scattergood School, West Branch, Iowa, and at the Ecole d'Humanite, Goldern, Switzerland.

Miss Koppitz has taken further studies at Kutztown, the University of Iowa, and Middlebury College, where she received an academic award for research.

Lee H. Bowker was appointed as instructor of sociology. Prior to his appointment he was on the sociology faculty at Lebanon Valley College. He earned his B.S. degree from Muhlenberg College in 1962, and the M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1965.

William F. Helm, Jr. was named as instructor in Physical Education and Athletic Trainer. Helm received the B.A. from Springfield College in 1964.

Dale J. Vandersall was appointed Director of the Student Center and Instructor of Physical Education.

He received the B.A. from the College of Wooster in 1964 and the M.Ed. from Springfield College in 1966. He is serving this fall as an assistant football coach.

Bonnie Burns Price a 1962 graduate of Albright College will join its faculty this fall as graduate assistant in political science. Prior to her appointment, Mrs. Price taught English and Civics at Muhlenberg Township High School.

A native of San Diego, California, Mrs. Price received her bachelor of arts in political science from Albright. She has done graduate work at Temple University, Albright Extension, and at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia. The recipient of Albright's "GOLD A" for leadership and contribution to campus life as an undergraduate, she was editor and staff member of the "Albrightian" for four years, a member of the international relations club and a cabinet member for the college's combined YW-YMCA organization.

Mrs. Helen Lightman will serve as Graduate Assistant in Chemistry. She received the B.A. from New York University in 1943.

Mrs. Louise K. Peardon will be a part-time instructor in Biology. A graduate of the University of Hawaii, Mrs. Peardon earned the M.S. at the University of Wisconsin in 1962.
