Miss Innis To Retire

Anna Smith Successor To Department Head

Florence Victoria Innis, professor of home economics at Albright College since 1929, will retire from active teaching at the end of this academic year, President Harry V. Masters announced today.

She will be succeeded as head of the department by Anna Heere Smith, at present associate professor of home economics.

Miss Innis came to Reading in 1924 as professor of domestic science in Schuylkill College, following five years teaching experience in the McKeesport (Pa.) School district.

Holding the bachelor of science degree from Columbia University, Miss Innis was awarded the M.S. in Education from Pennsylvania State College. She has also taken additional work at Carnegie Institute of Technology and has attended lectures at Harvard Medical School.

Miss Innis is a member of the national and state home economics associations, has served on the state teacher education committee, and has been actively connected with the emergency child health association of Reading and Berks County.

A native of McCoysville, Pa., Miss Innis resides in Reading in Sherman Cottage, the home economics management house on the Albright campus.

Mrs. Smith joined the faculty immediately after her graduation from Albright in 1930 and has been associate professor since 1950. She received her M.Ed. from Temple University in 1949 after additional academic work at Pennsylvania State College and Springfield College.

A free lance home economist, Mrs. Smith has presented various radio and television programs in recent years. For the past year she has been chairman of the colleges and universities division of the Pennsylvania Home Economics Association.

She holds memberships in several professional societies including the American Home Economics Association and the Home Economists in Business, Philadelphia Chapter.

Mrs. Smith will begin her duties as head of the home economics department next September. She will also have charge of registration for the fall semester on Monday.

Cue Staff Releases '53 Memories On Anniversary of Staff Election

Wednesday, May 20, was a momentous day for the CUE staff. Not only was the product of the staff's labors released to the student body, but that day was also the first anniversary of the 1953 CUE. It was on that same day in 1952 that work first began on the 1953 CUE with the election by the senior class of this year's managerial staff.

Work progressed through the summer. The complete staff was chosen, a budget was drawn up and approved by Samuel Shirk, faculty advisor, contracts were signed and the plans which the staff would follow in September were drawn up by a nucleus crew. First came the picture-taking by professional photographer Paul Bauer, and by staff photographer, George Spencer; then the engravings by Art Engraving Company. The December 31 deadline was met as the staff toiled during many late hour sessions. Then to the printer. By March 1, all copy and pictures except Spring Sports were ready to be run off by Kutztown Publishing Company, the printers of the annual; and on April 15 the presses began to roll after copy reader Terry Koutroulelis made final checks for errors.

The staff had worked hard as each of the 6 section editors directed by his section. Jackie Zwoyer wrote 100 senior write-ups and let each senior give his approval of the write-up. Dick Hilton typed endlessly away and Mary Jane Titlow made arrangements for subscriptions as well as managed the May Queen Section. Dolores High not

With Best Foot Forward

*Then one day we receive . . . the coveted degree . . .
And we go out into the world . . . to shape its history.*

In a few weeks good-byes will be said to approximately 100 seniors. Commencement will mean the end of many good times and the beginning of a new life, a life in which collegiate education can be shown in various ways to influence the family, the community and society. Whether or not we will make use of what has been offered can be answered only with time.

The memories assembled through our four years of cramming for exams, typing term papers, participating as members and audience in athletic events, attending dances and taking part in bull sessions all contribute to make us well-rounded individuals.

With an acceptance of all this we can face the world as maturing adults educationally, spiritually and socially. We can utilize our knowledge and make worthwhile contributions to our fellow men or we can sit back and wait for the world to offer us a place. The decision is up to us and the final analysis of what we make of ourselves and this world of ours is also in our hands. We're the pilot and co-pilot of our own destiny.

Dear Editor:

May I congratulate The Albrightian on the interest it has shown in the issues of freedom of speech, freedom of religion, and freedom of inquiry. In calm weather no one is inhibited from extolling the glories of the sunset, the industry of the bees, or the beauty of the flowers. Only in periods of stress and strain is the principle of academic freedom called into question.

Let's make it perfectly plain that "academic freedom" is not a cloak for acts of treason! When one's own classmates are defending the nation's freedom in the trenches in Korea, it is no time for tolerance for traitors. Neither the academic gown nor the ministerial robe should be tolerated as a cloak for the passing out of secret data to agents of the enemy. All patriotic Americans of whatever political persuasion are agreed on this.

But we have seen how easy it is in our day for scheming politicians, under a smoke screen of patriotism, to profess to hunt for dangerous weapons when in reality they are hunting for "dangerous thoughts" among the clergy or among the scientists and philosophers. When those in political power in Germany, Russia, Japan and China entered the churches and synagogues in search of clergy with "dangerous thoughts" we were enraged—and rightly so. Our forefathers wrote into our basic law a specific prohibition against any invasion whatsoever of establishments of religion.

Also, the search for truth in the halls of learning is a no less sacred enterprise. The torch carried so nobly by Socrates, Aristotle, Jesus, Copernicus, Galileo, Jefferson and Lincoln has been handed to us. If we allow it to be snuffed out because the going is tough, we shall have to ask bluntly, "what is the nature of the freedom our classmates are defending at this very hour?"

How Albrightians Relax(?) in Summer

Did you ever wonder just what the guy beside you in English class is going to do this summer? At the risk of being considered nosy, I asked a few of the students where they would be collecting pay as soon as they've finished worrying about exams. The results were—well, read for yourself.

Working as waterfront director of Camp Upland, Upland, Pennsylvania will be MARTHA LITTLE, who is just one of a long list of camp counselors. JED LENTGEL, along with JIM BARRETT and JIM HALL, will be a dam builder (yes, that's spelled right) as part of his counseling duties at Camp Conoy.

Venturing out into the wide world as waitresses, BETTY MARTIN and SALLY AICHER will be spending their summer at the Chatterbox in Ocean City. ALMA GROVE, SANDI SMITH and ATHALINDA HERSHNER will be right there with them at the shore working behind Kohr's Frozen Custard stand. LOIS HUGHES and JOAN THOMAS will be staying at home, but they will be carrying their trays at the Crystal. PETE LaROCCA will be "just hanging around Hazleton."

Also in an office, PHYLLIS GRUBER, JACKIE ZWOYER, JOHN CATALANO and PATTY SCHEARER will get their pay checks from the American Casualty Company. GLENN LAMBERT will put in time at a florist shop, JEAN GORBY will take over a secretarial position at the Chrysler Airtemp, and CHARLIE

CURRENT TIDES

While Books Burn

By L. Ray Weitzel

Now that the semester is nearly over, most of us will be putting our books away for the summer. If certain self-styled censors would have their way, we would not be picking them up again at all since, according to these censors, they are detrimental to us. But something like this couldn't happen in this country where we have freedom of the press. Oh, but it can!

In St. Cloud, Minnesota, a city ordinance banned more than 300 books. Each month 30 more are being added to the black list. The penalty for the sale of these books is a fine and jail. Georgia has a three man literature commission which is rereading Chaucer before deciding to ban his works. Sixteen stores in Brooklyn have yielded to the pressure of the Catholic Decent Literature Committee and stopped the sale of 414 publications, including novels by William Faulkner, Budd Schulberg, Nelson Algren, Richard Wright, Willard Motley, Irwin Shaw, etc.

But this is hardly all. There have been public book burnings in North Carolina and Oklahoma. In Youngstown, Ohio, Police Chief Edward J. Allen Jr., has forced distributors under threat of arrest to remove a number of pocket-sized books from the sales shelves, including such books as Hemingway's "Across the River and Into the Trees," Dos Passos' "Forty-Second Parallel," and works by de Maupassant, D. H. Lawrence and Somerset Maugham. In Cleveland, local police action has banned pocket-sized editions of Sigmund Freud's "General Introduction To Psychoanalysis" because, according to a local distributor, "it contains a chapter on sex," and of Apuleius' "The Golden Ass," because "the title of the book might be offensive."

Until recently, the spread of the cloud of censorship had been primarily locally inspired; however, recently, it has become national in its scope. The national campaign for book censorship is being led by the Chicago Archdiocese Council of Catholic Men headed by Father

LOVELESS will work on a construction job. BILL HIMMELMAN and LOIS MEDNICK both will be employed by their fathers. MAHLON FRANKHOUSER will probably work on the turnpike and EARL STRAWN expects to work in Reading with the Mobile Company. JOANNE DUFFY and ANN WEIK will be employed by Willson Products and LUCILLE HUMMEL and BETTY MIRASZEWSKI will be playground leaders.

Out of the ordinary, CLAIRE SIMMAT will travel to Westfield, New Jersey, to assist in the physical therapy department of the Children's Country Home. JOAN DELP intends to travel to Connecticut and Beach Haven as part of her baby-sitting duties. Summer stock at Green Hills Theater will take up most of NANCY LOU WALKER'S time.—N.F.

Confucius (I think) says, "Save best for last," and so we're bringing you Donald Grigsby, well-known around campus as Interfraternity Council president, Kappa Upsilon Phi vice president and Student Council vep. Donald, a mathematics and chemistry major, also is in the varsity tennis team, belongs to the American Chemical Society and acts as chairman of the Judiciary committee.

You can easily identify him by his Robert Q. Lewis-ish horn rimmed glasses and his occasional big smile. This Lansdown native is 22, six feet two-and-a-half inches tall, single and has blue eyes and brown hair. After graduation he's heading for a commission as ensign in the U. S. Naval Intelligence, but later he wants to go to graduate school and teach in college.

Progressive music, sports, and Philip Wylie are on his "I like" list; attending too many classes and hypocrites are his pet peeves. His favorite memory? The Tower Hotel and everything connected with it.

The Sunnier Side of Maple Lane

And it would be interesting to know how much blood, sweat, tears and reset picas our new co-feature editors put into finding a title for this darn column.

We wracked our remaining brain cells (both two of them) to find a novel way to slip into a "chit-chat" column. We were thinking of calling it "Up and Down Maple Lane between Cloud Bursts," but the sun came out and ruined everything. So, we've decided to come right out and say we're going to tell you things like . . .

PROF BISHOP has devised a new way to put students out of their misery—and minds. He's taken to chuckling quietly over "From Beowulf to Virginia Woolf," while his classes tell him in several concise blue books the high-lights of what happened in the upper half of Lower Besaralia during the spring uprisings of the Mau Maus in 1923.

Also, we were glad to learn JACK BICHER feels he's over-guessed at least one examination. For many moons now, he reports, he's been at work on the essay. What's the subject? Last time we heard, it was entitled "The World."

Any day now we'll be reading about who wore what when you know who said that about the relief fund for the underprivileged Pekinese, written in the inimitable

J'accuse . . .

Dear Editor:

Recently, it has become quite evident to me that the "soul" of Albright has been lost. I would like to list just a few of the "gripes" that I have, which appear to me to be reasons why the "soul" of Albright has been lost.

As a church related college, Albright seems not to be fulfilling its function. Stress has been laid on an academic rating with the accrediting association, which is no doubt justified. However, the same devotion should be given to other aspects of the college's purpose. Has not Albright neglected to rate as high in every field as she does in academic standing?

Despite the fact that Albright is supposedly a place of consecrated faculty members and idealistic youth, the major emphasis on the part of the student body is toward subjects that will better enable them to earn the almighty dollar. This is evident in the lack of interest in subjects such as philosophy and religion in particular and the humanities in general.

Another situation that does not seem to fit in the scheme of things, considering the type of institution that Albright is, is that obvious lack of trust on the part of the faculty for the students and the students for the faculty. It seems to me that persons respond in proportion to the amount of trust placed in them. I believe that experience will bear me out. Even so, when has it become part of a Christian environment that one does not respect another's word when given in good faith?

These "gripes" so far have all been serious charges. However, the most serious of these, I believe, is an apparent lack of interest and responsibility on the part of both students and faculty. Faculty members have on occasion promised to participate in extra-curricular activities and without notification have just failed to appear. Student members of organizations have also failed to participate in the activities of their respective organizations. One might say, without fear of contradiction and without qualification, that there has been no dynamic organization or activity on the Albright campus this year.

The most pathetic example of this situation, and one of which we are all aware, is our chapel program. This can be seen also as style of GINNY SEEMS. This versatile senior became a working member of the Fourth Estate when she joined the Times staff last week as assistant society editor.

Sub-topics: (Honest, we'd have called it "Sarah Krause topics" but it would have made even less sense. If the deal to partition off the book-store part of the book-store from the part where the elite meet to sometimes actually eat goes through, it'll be a sort of attempt to separate the sheep and the goats again. Its a lot easier and cheaper to wax philosophic over a cup of black coffee than a 1000 page item on "The Life and Times of an Anarobic Amoeba.")

Recently seen in the nether regions of Sarah Krause Hall was the dapper MR. PERGOLA creating a slight scene as he walked through wearing a borrowed glee club gown and proclaiming those memorable words, "But I will graduate!"

Chapel: An amazing thing happened last week. Albright suddenly realized it had some student talent available with the result that even "magazine row" sat up and took notice of the program. Incidentally, next week's program will not feature "songs, jokes and witty sayings by Margaret and Harry." Rumor has it, it will be "Evelyn and her magic zither."

Athletes To Be Honored At Spring Sports Banquet

by Pete La Rocco

Although Albright College tracksters could not pull the upset of the year against mighty St. Joseph's, they did effect a commendable performance against Haverford and Gettysburg in a triangular meet. To the entire squad and the coaches, Mr. Shirk and Mr. Hicks, congratulations.

The Champion

While we are on the subject of congratulations, Pete Alberts won the MASC championship in the pole vault. After two ties for top honors in previous years, Pete now reigns as champ.

What's The Trouble, Girls?

Complaint and censure is now in order. The inevitable has happened. Girls' baseball has been stricken from next year's athletic agenda. Amid cries of indignance, may I state that age old nostrum, "We told you so." Yes, in previous issues the lack of interest in the softball program was pointed out. I leave you now with the hope that this lethargy doesn't seep into other female sports.

Complaints

More derision pointed in the direction of the intra-mural softball program. Starting with the physical education department, the complaint is that soft balls seem to be worth their weight in gold. Many players have complained that they've been forced to play two games with worn out balls. In the other direction, however, the players and teams seem to be at fault. So many games have been forfeited because of the players not showing up for the game that the league standings are hardly discernable. Now comes a complaint from our department . . . no box scores are kept and no scores are reported yet; if one victory doesn't appear in bold type banner headlines, your editor is besieged by midnight phone calls and threatening letters.

Help Wanted!

The Albright College football team is in need of an undergraduate football manager. If any student is interested in this position which opens August twenty-fifth let him report to Max Neusher before May 30. The job allows training table benefits.

This being the last issue of the Albrightian, allow my gratitude for the few minutes time it takes to digest our interpolation of Pravda and leave you with the best wishes for summer enjoyment.

Yours in libel and slander,
Pete LaRocco.

Lion Linksmen Lose To Indians

Dickinson College's golfers blanked Albright tee-men 9-0 at Berkshire Country Club on last Friday. Summaries:

Netmen Enjoy 3 Win Streak

Albright's tennis team turned an about face the past two weeks by downing Seton Hall 8-1 Moravian 5-4 and Dickinson 5-4, in a row on May 9, May 11 and May 13 respectively. They had previously suffered their fourth and fifth straight losses by narrow margins to LaSalle 5-3 and Ursinus 5-4. However, their winning streak came to an end on Monday when St. Joseph's defeated them 6-3 after three early singles wins by Grigsby, Schiavo and Weeber. The match with Juniata last Saturday was postponed.

Johnny Schiavo continued to gleam by taking six consecutive conquests before being defeated by Bill Cummings of Moravian. However, he rebounded against Dickinson and St. Joseph's. Don Grigsby and John Schiavo notched their seventh straight doubles win against Dickinson; however, the combine from St. Joseph's stopped this streak also. Dick Stambaugh, Bob Brown, Jack Price, Don Foley and Bruce Weeber all turned in wins in the various matches at least once.

The team ends its schedule at home tomorrow against Bucknell unless some rained out matches are rescheduled. Their record is 3-6 at present.

Golfers Lose Seventh Match

The two game winning streak of Albright's golfers came to a smashing end when Dickinson defeated the teemen 9-0 at the Berkshire Country Club. This defeat was followed by three more to St. Joseph 8½ to ½, LaSalle 6 to 3, and Lafayette 8 to 1 which brought their record to 2-7. It must be noted that their latter three losses were sustained at the hands of rough opponents.

Against LaSalle Jim Rutter and Ted Whitby scored early wins along with best ball to score the three points, however LaSalle rebounded for the next six points. Jim Rutter was the only victor in the meet with Lafayette in which he defeated Roger Murray 1 up.

The linksmen closed their campaign against Bucknell on Tuesday with hopes of acquiring their third win.

Kappas Lead I-M Loop; Pi Taus, APO Tied in 2

The Kappas clinched first place in the intra-mural league, with a 13-9 victory over the Pi Taus. This put the Pi Tau team in a second place tie with the APO's. The game was played Tuesday evening in Kelchner Field with Bill McHugh throwing for the winners and Dave Serfass pitching for the Pi Taus.

Lions Edge L.V. 8-7 in Extra Frame

Albright's Lions took a see-saw battle from Lebanon Valley last Saturday afternoon by the score 8-7. The Flying Dutchmen knocked Bill Cohrs and Ed McNeill out of the box and Duane Goldman got credit for the win.

The game finally broke when Bob Sulyma singled with two out in the tenth to score Bernie Krick. Krick ran for Connie Detling who reached base on an error.

The Lions took a 1-0 lead in the first, but had to come from behind three times to win.

The Dutchmen got two in the fifth as Ross Fasick doubled and Merle Wise homered, but the Lions evened it up in the same inning when Tony D'Apollito singled, stole second and came in on Ray Stoneback's two bagger.

Lebanon Valley picked up single tallies in the sixth and seventh only to see the Lions pull up even in the seventh when George Conrad singled across two runs.

In the eighth the Valley took a 6-4 lead but Albright forged ahead with three runs. The Dutchmen tied it up in the ninth to pave the way for the Albright rally.

Lions Drop 5th To Pirates

Seton Hall, scoring single runs in the second and eighth, edged the Albright Lions Parent's Weekend at Kelchner field. The Lions, handed their fifth defeat, narrowly averted a shutout.

The visitors tallied in the second when Charley McLaughlin singled and scored on successive errors by George Amole and Bill Cohrs.

A single by Denny Talagnon, a walk to Jim Reardon, and a hit batsman, McRoughlin, loaded the bases in the eighth frame and the Pirates tallied their second run as Ray Drogan erred on Ed Walter's grounder.

Near Pickoff

The Lions rallied in the ninth when Dragon singled and counted on Mickey Harbach's triple to left. Tony D'Apollito hit to Bill Nolan at second base and Harbach was out at the plate. Ray Stoneback fled out to end the game.

Phil Walker went the distance for the Pirates, giving up seven hits. Bill Cohrs started for the Lions, gave three hits in seven innings and gave way to Ed McNeill who yielded one in the last two frames.

a good example of how apathy on the part of the faculty reflects itself in the student body.

The most outstanding fact about our chapel program is the conspicuous absence of the faculty. How may I ask can a student body, compelled to attend these services, become enthusiastic when the faculty by their very absence, say, in effect, that these programs are a waste of time.

There is no doubt in my mind, that the student body will remain apathetic and irresponsible as long as the leadership of the school, as seen in the faculty, administration and student leaders, is also apathetic and irresponsible.

What can be done?

Obviously, the problem is as much an individual problem as it is a collective one. This summer it would be well if each of us would re-evaluate his own positions and his contribution to Albright. The collective aspects of the problem I cannot answer at this time. After a solution has been worked out individually, then together we can proceed to work out a solution.

God help us, if we continue to fail in our fundamental purpose and lose sight of our real objectives.

—Concerned Senior.

Antique Clock Given To Library By Grim Will

The college library has been presented with a Seth Thomas clock, with three brass finials and a scene of the original Albright Church. The gift was made through the will of Carrie Batdorff Grim of Millbach and will be kept in the Alumni room of the library. The antique's chief interest stems from the picture on the church. A bronze bust of Shakespeare and a number of books have also been donated by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Allen of St. Penn.

Thomas J. Fitzgerald. This Council publishes a nationally distributed black list which includes books by Nobel and Pulitzer prize winners.

Continuing along the same line, a Congressional investigation committee on "current pornographic materials" headed by E. C. Gathings of Arkansas has been formed. Ostensibly, the purpose of these censorship drives is to rid our nation of pornography and obscenity. If the drive were limited to this, there would not be so much cause for concern. But these censors have more in mind than the morals of our children, as is made obvious by other incidents. Certain members of Congress have prepared a bill which would compel the Librarian of Congress to apply the subversive test to all the books within his jurisdiction. This list of condemned books would then be circulated so that other librarians could take whatever action they wished.

A group of "super-patriots" are undermining our bill of rights, terrorizing our educators, and smearing everyone who disagrees as a subversive. Among those supporting the campaign to censor books at home and abroad are McCarthy, Jenner, Velde, various Catholic organizations, and the American Legion. This list is indicative of the type of mind that wants to tell us what to read, see, do, and think.

The question of whether there should be censorship of books has often been asked and the answer must always remain the same—no. For if there were to be censorship, the question of who would do the censoring and what was to be censored would have to be answered, and in a free society there is no answer to this question. This is the basic reason for the First Amendment to the Constitution guaranteeing freedom of the press (something which this whole group blithely, or purposely overlooks).

It is undoubtedly true that the rise of the recent pocket books within the price range of minors affords an opportunity for them to obtain literature that is not exactly wholesome, but who is to decide exactly what is wholesome? Are such authors as Hemingway, Dos Passos, and Faulkner—not to mention the master of obscenity, Shakespeare—indecent? The advocates of censorship would have us believe so. Personally, I feel that publication of trash, no matter how lurid, is not going to undermine our society to any devastating extent. Censorship, however, will be fatal.

There is the story about the man who took notes of all he ever studied and carried them with him. One day, while crossing a bridge, the donkey on which he had the notes piled fell into the river and drowned. The man was lost because he said, "With those notes went all my education." While most of us as individuals wouldn't lose our education with the loss of books, nevertheless, a whole culture upon losing its books will. I must again agree with Jefferson who said, "Our liberty depends upon freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost."

A Queen Is Crowned

Eleven Albright beauties formed the court of honor while Betty Martin was crowned queen of the May. Pictured above are the members of the May Day Court. They are (l. to r.): seated—Joan Nielsen, Miss Martin, and Jeannette Mayer; standing—Patricia Schearer, Delores High, Judy Leinbach, Patricia Kennedy, Patricia Miller, Phoebe Hunter, Annetta Dussen, Marilyn Miller, and Nancy Lou Hawman.
