STUDENT COUNCIL TO SPONSOR IVY BALL AT ABRAHAM LINCOLN HOTEL OCT. 11; ROYAL MANHATTERS TO PROVIDE MUSIC

Y's, Students To Play Tag For Social Work

No Cash For Special Work In Budget

Next Monday and Tuesday, October 6 and 7, are to be "tag days" on our campus. Students of other years will remember that procrastination was indeed a thief of their time and profit by that experience. As a matter of self-preservation, it is very important that every student buy a tag from the first besieging "tagger."

Tag days are sponsored by the college Y. W. C. A. to raise money for their social service work which is an outstanding part in each year's program. Each year in cooperation with the Reading Social Welfare League, the "Y" contributes to the support of a local needy family. Last year, refugee knitting was undertaken through the American Friends Service Committee. Since these and other social service projects require money, and there is no special fund in the "Y" budget for social work, it is necessary to raise it all through special drives and tag days.

Frosh Answer Inquiring Reporter With Some Very 'Smart' Remarks

By S. MENDELSON

The other day the editor called me into his inner sanctum (that's the forward right hand portion of the athletic, Albrightian, inter-fraternity, and Cue office) and gave me orders to make a brief sketch of some freshmen personalities in the vain hope that some hidden talent (?) might be uncovered. Although a little pessimistic of any worthwhile potentialities in the greenies, I accepted the assignment and started looking around for suitable subject material.

Carrying a few unnecessary books worth about $25, Bruce H. Strawbridge, better known to his friends as "Napper", hove into view. Brother of Senator Dennis, tyrant of the tribunal, Bruce has found plenty to interest him on campus. Specifically, his interests range from "nothing especially" to "nothing in particular." He is convinced that Dr. Horn keeps rats to feed Prof. Green's cats. To the query, "How do you expect to spend your leisure time?", he retorted, "Not around here!" Exit me.

The littlest thing on campus, Betty Bradley, of Jersey, was the

Secure Ivy Ball Tickets Before Thursday, Oct. 9

The student council wishes to inform all the students who are planning on attending the Ivy Ball on October 11th, that they shall secure their tickets from any council representative before Thursday so that reservations can be made.

12-Year-Old Student Returns An Admiral

Naval Officer Visits Campus

Very rarely does Albright have the opportunity to entertain a very famous and distinguished guest, especially one who roamed its campus in his own student days.

The story goes way back to the month of September in 1890, when a student by the name of Kalbfus, age 12, matriculated in the Selwyn Hall Military Academy. After roaming this campus for the length of his academy days, Kalbfus enrolled in the Annapolis Naval Academy and on to further heights, until today he is known as—Admiral Kalbfus, USN, president of the naval college at Newport, R. I.

Admiral Kalbfus visited the campus last week and according to a letter received by Dr. Masters this week, had a delightful experience here after an absence from the campus of 47 years.

next victim. But, this was a pleasure. Betty loves to talk on the phone. She also likes cheer-leading. As for the boys, "they're a grand bunch—super, super." Betty believes that the Pi Tau's live on top of the theolog building. I wonder who lives in it. Little Betty surely wants her "share of fun" out of college but her main interest now is keeping out of tribunal and I don't blame her. When asked how tall she is, Betty replied, "Four feet 10 and a half inches and don't forget the half!" That's a woman for you.

Found Boy Scout

"Be prepared" is the motto of Marshall Spaan. He's a real-honest-to-goodness-alive boy scout. Ask him. Marsh has a lot of admiration for the upperclassmen. He thinks they are a fine bunch. "Campus is nice too, including most of the girls," was the judgment of Marsh. He likes dramatics, glee club, and the Y.

P. K. stands for the "pep kid" or Brooklyn's contribution to Albright in the rare form of Patricia

Students May Bring Outsiders To All-College Dinner-Dance

Little Symphony, Bigger Symphony

Paul Ackert To Assist

The Albright Little Symphony will be bigger than ever this year with all but two of last year's members back, and seven new members added. Even the ex-president, Paul Ackert, who graduated last year will come down from the seminary to help out with his flute.

The new members of the orchestra are: Jane Helms, clarinet; Mae Jean Picking, oboe; Mary Nicol, horn; Betty Ann Lutz, violin; Ruth Ritzman, violin; Walter Gippich, flute. These additions make the orchestra a well rounded symphony with the exception of a lack of violins. There are violinists on campus who have not yet joined the orchestra. They are urgently requested to come out to the next rehearsal, Monday at 4:30 p. m.

Library Assistant, Cornell Graduate

Mrs. Freeland To Assist Eastland

The newest member of the faculty is the library assistant, Mrs. Katharine Freeland, of Philadelphia. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree at Cornell University in 1930 and her Bachelor of Science in Library Science at Drexel Library School in 1940.

After leaving library school Mrs. Freeland was engaged in a cataloging position in the Episcopal Divinity School in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Freeland's husband is in the army, and she and her little son have been living in Philadelphia with her parents.

Echo Dell Dramatist To Direct Domino Club

Paul Bently Sands, director of the Echo Dell players of Reading and prominent figure in local dramatics, has accepted the position of directing the productions of the Domino Club, formerly held by Mr. Robert Work.

The first play, to be presented October 31 and November 1, will be James Thurber's and Elliott Nugent's, "The Male Animal" for which a tentative cast has already been chosen. Committees and production heads have been appointed by Marjorie Frundt, president of the club. Rehearsals are scheduled to begin next week.

Semi-Formal Urged, But Dress Is Optional, Says Council President

Student council's favorite dream has finally become a reality. It is sponsoring an Ivy Ball in the form of an all-college dinner-dance. This gala affair, the affair of affairs at Albright this year, is to be held at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel on Saturday, October 11th.

The dinner will be served at 7 p. m. and the dancing will begin at 9 p. m. The music will be provided by Reading's favorite dance band, Jack Kenney and the Royal Manhattans.

Dress Optional

Student council president, Ray Hain, states that the affair should be announced as a semi-formal one, but that the dress is optional. The council wishes it to be understood that all the students are invited, regardless of what they wear—within certain limits of course.

Another pleasing thought, especially to day students, is that students may bring their favorite friend to the affair even though that person is not an Albrightian. The only stipulation to this kindness is that one of the couple must be a student.

Open to Stags

Students who do not have a friend available at the time (rare persons) are urged to attend the affair at any cost, or in other words, the stag line forms to the right.

This is the first affair of its kind on the campus and is the brain-child of last year's senior class president, George Henry. Such an affair was scheduled tentatively last year, but due to certain difficulties the affair did not materialize.

The price of admission is $1.25 per person, regardless of whether that person wishes to attend the dinner, the dance, or both. Tickets can be bought from any student council representative.

The committee, headed by Natalie Brant, is working fast and furiously to prepare for the festive occasion and if this is any barometer of the success of the affair, everyone will have a good time.

'Y' Recognition Service To Be Held Tuesday Eve

The freshmen will have their first opportunity to become active members of the college "Y," at a "Y" recognition service to be held in the School of Theology chapel at 7 p. m. on Tuesday evening. There will be a guest speaker present and the membership cards will be given out to all "would-be" members.

Esprit De Corps

Were you to go about the members of the freshmen class inquiring as to what most appealed to them during their first days on campus, invariably you would get the reply, "the friendly attitude."

It is this friendly attitude which makes Albright—Albright. This feeling of friendliness which prevails on the campus is a worthy heritage of our college tradition.

The spirit of Albright can best be expressed in the reaction of one student to another. No one is a stranger on our campus. We are all members of the same group, striving for common goals, and working together in the spirit of cooperation and goodwill.

This spirit or attitude fosters intense devotion and loyalty to the principles and ideals of our Alma Mater. That the freshmen class should find this spirit the most interesting observation is all the more reason why we students should continually strive to perpetuate this friendly attitude throughout all our years at Albright and as a marked distinction of our collegiate life as we take our position in the world of tomorrow.

Friendliness, good-will, enthusiasm, loyalty, and honor are the intangibles of the spirit of Albright. May they ever be upheld in our hearts and minds as a tribute to this—our college.

—Seymour Mendelsohn.

Must We Paddle?

The time for action is at hand. Our policy of diplomacy has not been sufficient to meet the crisis at hand. We have been lenient in the past and the freshmen have taken, and some still are taking, advantage of our good will. These few who are continually ignoring the efforts of the orientation committee should be reprimanded. Drastic action is the ultimate solution.

Are we going to step aside and indifferently turn our backs on these disrespectful actions of certain frosh who entirely ignore the will of the upperclassmen? Are we going to allow a blot to form on Albright's traditions by letting disloyal freshmen go unsecured, individuals who have gone so far as to resort to obscene language in their refusals to meet certain obligations such as a mere "button"?

We have been fair in the past. We have not allowed a perverted sense of revenge to move us to take ungrounded action against freshmen who have silently and obediently conformed to regulations set before them. But we cannot tolerate continuous disrespect and disobedience. We feel that any individual who does not have respect for rules and regulations, who continually wanders astray, should be severely reprimanded. This reproof should come, however, only after the individual continues his wrongdoing through a reasonable probationary period.

Don't get the wrong idea. We are not trying to act high and mighty. We are merely stating the facts and our opinions as to what should be done in this situation. If you have what you think is a better solution to the problem at hand, then submit your ideas to the student body through these columns. They are for your use as well as ours. Surely we are not all of one mind nor are we indifferent to the situation.

The outcome of this crisis is going to affect Albright college life for years to come. What are we going to do about it?

—Harold M. Werner.

HELLO FOLKS

I had intended to discuss the Russian situation this week, but according to all the data I have been able to collect there's something fishy going on. This war should have logically been over three weeks ago. One hundred and six per cent of the Red infantry has been wiped out and 213 per cent of the German air force has gone to the last roundup. What they're fighting with, I don't know.

Besides, I'm tired of the geography. As soon as I learn to spell Kiev and Smolensk, the Nazis move in and take Dniepropetrovsk. Hitler is trying to sink Russia in the side pocket before winter blows in. If he doesn't, some of his leading generals are likely to get taken for a "slay" ride.

Well, this week, I was pleasantly surprised to get a letter from my old friend and colleague, Jasper Snodgrass. (He's sensitive about his last name so we just call him Jasper Snod, for short). Jasper's draft number was recently pulled out of the goldfish bowl, and after many hectic experiences, he found himself holding down dust at Indiantown Gap, Pa. Below is the moving tale which Jasper writes us.

"Listen you (censored) lug. 'What's the idea of telling me that this army life is all rosy and sweet? I think I'm being sabotaged. Nobody loves me here (especially the sergeant). The first day I was here, he said to me, 'Hey, you (he always calls me—you), don't you know better than to point an empty rifle at me?' I said to him, 'But, sir, it's not empty. It's loaded.' P. S.—I peeled potatoes for a week.

"You should see our barracks. There's a standard joke going around about them. To wit:

"First soldier: 'I just brought a skunk into the barracks.'
"Second soldier: 'Where you gonna keep him?'
"First soldier: 'Gonna die him under the bed.'
"Second soldier: 'What about the smell?'
"First soldier: 'Well, he'll just have to get used to it like I did!'

"Well, as soon as I get the hatchet to kill a couple of these mosquitoes, I'll go to bed. The mosquitoes are terrific up here. I was up last night and overheard two of them arguing about whether they should eat me here or drag me down to the swamp. That's the payoff."

P. S. "They drink 'Flit' for breakfast."

Yours,
PVT. JASPER S.

Why I Came To College (A Frosh Confesses)

By MARSHALL SPAAN

Last February I was awarded the highest rank in Scouting, that of an Eagle Scout. Overnight I found the younger scouts in my troop looking up to me and also, some of the high ranking citizens of my community were holding me in high esteem.

It started me thinking, "Marshall, just how good are you, really?"

I have a tendency to disagree with the proverb, "It is not what you think of yourself that matters, it is what others think of you." The feeling grew within me that some people might assume I was a "polished performer" after receiving such an award but, deep down in the cavities of my heart, I knew that if I wanted to reach my goal in life, to become a better citizen, to become a diligent worker, and to fulfil my position in my home and community to a standard of which I could be proud, I needed further training.

In the crucial times that exist today, I believe everyone needs extended study after graduation from high school. We need it to make our ideals and dreams realities, both men and women.

Some people seem to go about blindfolded. They live from one day to the next and never plan or look into their future. We must wake up and be alive.

One of my professors has illustrated this point better than I. "It is not the man who gets to the corner first, but rather the man who knows what he wants when he gets there."

I have observed men who have graduated from college. Unless they are exceptions to the rule, they have a better understanding of their fellow men, world conditions and their causes, making their leisure time profitable, tackling a job and seeing it through, and, in general, a greater appreciation of life.

Why did I come to college? Here at Albright is the place for me to cultivate my qualities and skills, to make friends—such an important factor—cultivate my religious habits, give my best to the college at all times, learn to keep myself physically fit, morally straight, and, in general, learn to get the most out of life.

The time is ripe for me to plan my life, earn my way, assume greater responsibilities, and, above all, learn to sacrifice small things now toward future achievement of higher goals.

In my opinion, the keys to the world libraries of knowledge are found at college. College is the last of three steps in the progress of my life; the first of which was graduation from high school and the second, attaining the top

Can Passive Resistance Win?

By ART MCKAY

Early this week because of "a number of acts hostile to the Reich" Nazi Germany decreed a state of civil emergency for six districts in the German protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia. On September 10, the Germans ordered a state of civil emergency in Norway to halt the spread of strikes and sabotage.

This is the second time in the two and a half year history of the Czech protectorate that a state of civil emergency has been declared by the German authorities. During November, 1939, student demonstrations led to the establishment of martial law in five districts and the occupation by Nazi troops of university buildings, the arrest and execution of a number of students.

Although the Germans have as yet issued no official statement concerning the "acts hostile to the Reich" some inkling as to their nature comes from the fugitive Czech government in London. It tells of "go slow" strikes in vital war industries and of hunger marches by the women of Nachod.

Lions Meet Tech Tonite

Albright's grid team faces its toughest test of the year tonight when Carnegie Tech invades the stadium. The Lions have the winning spirit and if they get by tonight—look out!

The ball players are not taking the Titans as a setup. Advance publicity reports have the big school from Pittsburgh as being a weak sister this season. Powerful Westminster edged Carnegie 19-13 last Saturday on an intercepted pass and a blocked kick. With a little more luck, tonight's foes would have gained the decision.

Psychologically, Tech will be on the rebound against the Red and White after losing their opener. The Lions will have to be at their best to be the conquerors. They can be beat.

Coach Dietz was pleased with the win over Muhlenberg. Especially outstanding was the play of the Lion's forward wall. Frank Bertino, Bob Baum, Tom Lubin, Sam Coccodrilli, Dick Weber, Jim Harpster, and Bill Spangler played their hearts out to stop the Mules highly touted offensive and deserve a lot of praise. Weber shone on the offensive making several beautiful blocks that enabled the ball carrier to pick up added yardage.

The center of the Albright line considered Joe Petro, Muhlenberg guard, as one of the best to face the club in the past three years. Petro, a 200 pounder, was picked on the Associated Press All State team two years ago at St. Joseph's. He transferred to Muhlenberg last year but did not participate.

Steve Hydock, former Red and White tackle, is aiding Neal O. Harris with the freshmen grid-ders. Steve is also coaching the Franklins in the Greater Reading Football Conference.

T. K. A. Elects Miesse President For 1941-42

The Albright chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary forensic society, elected Charles Miesse to the presidency at its first meeting last Friday.

Donald Blackmore was elected to the vice-presidency and Dr. John B. Douds will continue to serve as corresponding secretary. Miesse has appointed Dennis Strawbridge as chairman of publicity.

The new president of T. K. A. has been a member of the college forensic squad for three years and has served as assistant manager and as manager of the team. The members of the T. K. A. are William Bottonari, Olga Bitler, Seymour Mendelsohn, Dennis Strawbridge, Donald Blackmore, and Charles Miesse.

Tackled By Infection

Steve Plaskonis, Varsity tackle, came back to school yesterday after suffering from an arm infection.

Big Time Football Makes Bow Here With Carnegie Tech

Coach Baker Rates Cantini With Best Backs

Big time football makes its bow in the stadium tonight at 8 o'clock, when the Titans from Carnegie Tech tangle with the Albright Lions.

Long a power in the football world, the school from Pittsburgh has omitted all but Notre Dame and the University of Pittsburgh from their schedule. However, the Red and White home forces are still rated the underdogs in tonight's battle.

Albright's forward wall which did a good job of stopping Bud Bossick, Muhlenberg's ace passer, in last Saturday's 14-3 victory, have another flogger to cope with tonight. He is sophomore Vic Cantini from the foothills of West Virginia. Coach Eddie Baker rates the 190 pound left half back as one of the finest backs he has ever coached. Cantini can also skirt the ends and does the booting for the Skibos.

Other stars of the Tech team are Hank Holets, 220 pound center, Hal Anderson and Ted Matonis, glue fingered terminals who are on the receiving end of most of Cantini's passes. Joe Pash does the blocking from the right half back post. Bill Philipchuk does the line bucking.

Coach Lone Star Dietz will probably start the same combination that did so well against the Mules. Frank Bertino and Bill Spangler, both high class ends, are ready for 30 minutes of ball. Jim Harpster and Sid Disend have been battling all week for the starting left tackle position. Dietz will probably not make a decision until game time. Dick Weber is a cinch to start at the right guard spot. The 200-pound junior did a splendid job on the offense last Saturday. Bill (Clark) Demidovich and Tom Lubin are waging a battle for the other guard station. The veteran Sam Coccodrilli will take care of the center chores.

Fleet Jimmy Breen, and Stan Kuklis are slated to do most of the ball carrying for the Lions. Bob Bennet and Vic Gigli will fill the right half and quarter back slots, respectively. In reserve will be clever Pat Nappi, Michael Dutzer, John Killiany, Wash Maholick, and Chuck Klein.

ALPHABET SOUP

Every so often I take pleasure in paging through the college catalog to see what's new in this little world in which we spend a short four years. I happened to be looking over the faculty listing when I saw the letters C. P. H. behind Dr. Horn's name. I had seen B. S. A. B., D. Sc. and many other soup combinations behind the names of other members of our illustrious faculty, but this one had me stumped. By research of a very technical nature I found that this means Certificate of Public Health, awarded to only those who have spent at least one year's work in the field of public health.

Speaking of public health, it might interest you to know that Dr. Horn is planning to attend the Institute of Public Health Education to be held at Atlantic City on October 11 in conjunction with the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association of which Dr. Horn is a member.

THE SPICE OF LIFE

To all who are interested in living to eat, notice is hereby given that a course in advanced nutrition will be started on October 20 at the new quarters of the Visiting Nurses Association. This course is sponsored by the Health Division of the Council of Social Agencies of which Dr. Horn is chairman, and is open to all who have had at least one course in nutrition. Miss Florence Innis will be a member of the faculty.

ALCHEMIST BEGINNINGS

The first meeting of the Alchemists will be held on Tuesday of next week. This is to be a business meeting.

Gingrich To Lecture

Dr. F. Wilbur Gingrich will present the last two in his series of four illustrated Bible lectures October 12th and 19th on Sunday evening in the West Lawn Evangelical Church. This series of lectures was started two weeks ago.

"Worm" Makes Bid For Hockey Position

'Game Night' On Fall Program

The hockey practices for girls are being conducted every Tuesday and Friday. Up to this point, the frosh are making good bids for varsity positions. Bertina Blauch at fullback, "Worm" Leinbach and Ann DeFarges at center, and June Miller at left wing are out gunning for places on the team. Other girls who are attending practices and keeping their eyes on the varsity positions are Alda Matz, Jean Seidel, Dorothy Reber, Joanie Belmont, Irene Snyder, "Whitie" Whitehead, "Bom" Bomgardner, and last, but not least, Lucy Grizwald, one of the Brooks most encouraging fans during their past season.

This year greater emphasis will be placed on class hockey teams than before and the way it looks from here, the winner of the league will be either the frosh, sophs, juniors, or seniors.

A new feature of the W. A. A. program this year is the "Game Night" which will take place on Thursday night at 7:30 p. m. in the 13th and Union gym. The purposes of the event are to acquaint all girls with the W. A. A., to further introduce the frosh to the upperclassmen, and to give everyone a good time. The committee in charge of this program has a surprise in store for all those who attend. Every girl on campus is invited to come and the frosh are "urged" by Student Council to attend. Wear your gym suits and sneakers, and come prepared to forget your worries and enjoy an evening of games.

Kramer. She spends her spare time in trying to think up ways to spend her leisure. A little wasteful, don't you think? Pat has lots to say about boys. They rate with her. Pat is fond of horseback riding and hopes to make the cheer-leading squad.

Robert Boland, of Mt. Penn, expressed his appreciation for the "friendly attitude" on campus. Like his brother, Clem, Bob enjoys sports—especially football and basketball. To the question as to where is the best place to meet a date, Bob timidly replied, "Don't know. I haven't met any yet." Well, Clem, why don't you show him around a little? As for those dawn 8 o'clock classes, Bob finds it hard getting up so early. Do you blame him?

Meets "Worm"

By now, this writer was getting tired of searching for "characters" amongst the multitude of normal, average, common every day run of freshmen. But, my job became a joy and I stopped cursing the editor when pretty Erma Leinbach consented to be interviewed. Displaying a smile which sort of makes you wish you were the "lucky guy," Erma sat down and I began what turned out to be an interesting discussion. Erma's nickname is "Worm." It's horrid but then it rhymes with Erm. "I'm his little thithter", she said when I asked her if Ducky was her brother. Erma loves basketball and sour pickles. When told that Dr. Horn keeps rats in the science hall, she wondered if he ate them. My, my, and she'll be taking Hygiene next year. Here's hoping the prof forgets. Erma doesn't know where the angel factory is but she knows that in the theolog building there's a boys' dormitory. Her last remark was accompanied with a curious glint in her eyes which made me wonder if the Pi Tau's ought to be forewarned. Men beware. The demand is for some handsome, well-built upperclassman. He's got to be over 6 feet tall to rate. If you meet these simple requirements, call 2-8163 and ask for Erma. Don't tell her now, but Erma believes that Selwyn Lake is "that nice swimming pool aside of the chapel."

Andy Likes Boys

Andy doesn't live at home any more. She's at Albright now. Hailing from Upper Darby, Ann de Farges is a co-ed with a pleasing smile and giggle which makes you wonder if this specimen is capable of seriousness, outside of a serious laugh. Andy hasn't ever gone steady, so she says. She thinks going steady is "horrible." The boys, Andy contends, are very nice looking. She guesses that the nicest place to meet them is at the door to the girls' dormitory. Time will prove this statement an utter misconception. In between her smiles and laughing and jabberwacky expressions such as "cheese and crackers," I gathered that Andy is getting along quite well at her new home.

As for all the other two Frosh that I talked to and didn't give any unfavorable publicity, I'm sorry but space doesn't permit me to explain why you aren't here. Maybe

Can Passive

These are heartening signs to anyone who believes in the power of passive resistance. Observers tell us that passive resistance has frequently been a source of trouble to the Germans since Adolf Hitler dismembered the republic.

Some of us have been saying that as Germany conquered larger and larger areas she would be beset by problems of revolt which would force her to use much of her manpower for policing duties. These in turn, we said, would become increasingly more difficult. Eventually the free peoples of the various suppressed nations would arise and challenge the power which denied them their rights.

It seems to me that this time has come. The Czechs seem to have realized that by refusal to co-operate they have won greater victories than all their campaigning in combat had availed. They have learned that they are in position to stifle rather well the war efforts of the Nazi government.

Many of us fail to recognize how vital a force this passive resistance can become. The man or nation of violence who meets it cannot understand it; it baffles him, thwarts his method of achieving victory.

I believe the only hope for a small nation to win a victory over a greater power that is crushing it is in this way. Psychological factors and spiritual factors of tremendous significance are brought to bear in such a way that the aggressor doubts the validity of his own method. The seed of doubt which is thus planted springs into full fruit as the technique is continued. Eventually, the downfall of violence is assured.

Refuse to cooperate—that is the way to defeat Nazism. Strike more and more! Endure hunger in dramatic demonstrations! Win the heart of those millions of Germans who love Schiller and Goethe and Bach, who do not want to sweep over the face of Europe at the capricious mercy of an Austrian paperhanger. They will revolt, too, as they see this new way. We can lick Hitler!!!
