S. C. Committee Plans Events

Council Makes Plans For Election of Queen

Any Student Council representative with three consecutive absences will be replaced, James Hall, president, announced at the meeting, Tuesday, in Teel Hall.

After the minutes were read and approved, there were committee reports. Paul Hetrich, chairman of the orientation committee remarked that customs went fairly well. Paul also read a letter from Dean Smith congratulating Student Council on the customs and the induction of the freshman class which he thought was the best in five years.

David Frankhouser of the Homecoming Committee reported that letters containing information about the floats for Homecoming will be sent out to the different campus organizations.

Freshman Election Reported

Art Saylor of the Student Activities Committee reported the results of the freshman election which was as follows: president, Clair Matz; vice president, Ginger Lloyd; secretary, Barbara Smith and treasurer, Terry Johnson.

The Homecoming Queen nominations are not final, as of yet, because a few seniors have not had the opportunity to vote. So far, six candidates have been chosen. There is a tie between the fifth and sixth candidate, but it is expected that only five will be nominated after the last returns are in.

In connection with the damage done at the Muhlenberg-Albright College football game, no bill has been received yet. Also, there is definite reason to believe that some Albright students are responsible for the two missing caps that belong to members of a drum corps. If these are not returned, Student Council has offered to reimburse the people whose hats were taken. Also, there were two fraternity flags taken that evening.

Arthur Saylor has copies of parliamentary procedure for any member of Student Council who desires them.

Queen To Have Float

In connection with the new business brought up at the meeting, David Frankhouser moved that Council have a float on which the Homecoming Queen and her court will ride. It was suggested that the committee to take care of this project be composed of members of the freshman class.

John Paolini was accepted into Student Council on a motion by David Frankhouser.

Some of the coming events sponsored by Student Council will be Sadie Hawkins Day, a week from this coming Friday, and the Ivy Ball, November 5.

It was also decided that the ballots from the freshman class elections and the Homecoming Queen elections be kept in the Student Council files. The date for the election has not been decided.

Dorm Council Elects New Representatives

Five new representatives were elected to the Women's Dormitory Council. Jeannette Mayer will represent the juniors from Selwyn Hall and Thelma Arnold will be the senior representative from Teel Hall. A new non-sorority member will have to be selected since Karen Saul is now pledging a sorority. Freshmen floor representatives will also be chosen.

Class Of '58 Elects Clair Matz President After Long Campaign

After the induction ceremony this Tuesday, a run-off was made on the freshman class elections since in a previous election, a majority vote was not received on the offices of president, vice-president, and secretary.

Clair Matz, a business administration student from Reading, is the newly-elected president of the freshman class. While in high school, Clair filled a presidential office. So far at Albright, he is actively serving on the Albrightian staff. Now that he is president, Clair will represent the freshman class in Student Council. He stated that he is open for suggestions and support from his classmates.

Ginger Lloyd Is Veep

Serving as vice-president is Ginger Lloyd, a pre-nursing student from Shippensburg, Pa. She has previously participated in student government. Ginger's activities on campus include being a member of the business staff of the Albrightian and of Domino Club.

Barbara Smith, a home economics major, was elected as the secretary of the freshman class. She hails from Towson, Md., and also is experienced in student government. Being an active Albrightian news staff member is her only extra-curricular participation at present.

The finances of the freshman class will be taken care of by Terry Johnson, a business administration major from Harrisburg, Pa. Among his campus activities are Glee Club and sports.

Candidates Take Stand

A new idea was introduced into the election this year by the Student Activities Committee of Student Council. Each candidate was encouraged to put on a campaign. Before the election the presidential nominees were privileged to address the class and state his views and aims about the presidency. The candidates took advantage of this opportunity; thus, the freshmen were enlightened as to whom they were voting for and for what they stood.

After chapel Thursday, October 14, the election was held. Nominees for the presidency were Charles Scheerer, Robert Gosch, Clair Matz and Robert Hussey. Contending for the office of vice-president were Phil Eyrich, Harvey Hafetz, Ginger Lloyd, Charles Rusen, Wilma Rieser, Herbert Cohen and Robert Van Hoove.

First Election Inconclusive

Mary Ellen Wray, Barbara Smith, Kenneth Eberle, Patricia Schatz and Deborah Klonsky ran for the secretarial position. Candidates for treasurer were Robert Shaffer, Michael Zampelli, Terry Johnson and Wilbur Wollenhaupt.

In this first election, Terry Johnson was elected treasurer, but the other three offices failed to receive a majority vote. The candidates were then narrowed down to Clair Matz and Robert Gosch for president, Ginger Lloyd and Robert Van Hoove for vice-president, and Barbara Smith and Deborah Klonsky for secretary.

One hundred and ninety ballots were cast at the final election Tuesday, October 19, which is about three-fourths of the freshman class. The final election was a close race all the way through but a majority of votes was received by the winning candidates.

Fireside Chats Topic Is 'Where Are You?'

Last Tuesday night, the "Y" held its annual Fireside Chats. This year the topic chosen for discussion was taken from a booklet issued by the National Student Council of the YMCA and YWCA called "Where are You?"

Discussion groups were held at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Raith, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Jordan, and Dr. and Mrs. John Douds. Leading the groups were Betty Wellenmann, Al Ellis, Ray Faunce, Dorothy Englert and Catharine Philipson. After the discussion periods, refreshments were served by the hosts and hostesses.

'Anjie' Innis To Wed

Congratulations from all her friends on campus to Miss Annjeannette Innis, assistant psychometrician in the Psychological Service Center, whose marriage to William J. Huyett will take place Saturday, October 23 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the Trinity Lutheran Church at Sixth and Washington Streets. Miss Innis is a member of the 1954 Albright graduating class.

Committee Plan Homecoming Day To Be Held Saturday, November 6

Domino Plays Tonight

"Riders to the Sea" by J. M. Synge and "Aria da Capo" by Edna St. Vincent Millay, the two one-act plays produced by Domino Club under the direction of Mrs. Yvonne Molloy, will be staged again this evening at 8:00 p.m. in White Chapel.

Hymnals Donated For Teel Hall Chapel

Fifty new hymnals have been donated for use in Teel Hall Chapel by Mr. and Mrs. J. Boyd Trostle, of Lemoine, Pa. Mr. Trostle is a member of the Board of Trustees of the college.

These hymnals will be used in Vesper services, for 'Y' programs and by Kappa Tau Chi. Formerly, hymnals were carried back and forth from Sarah Krause Hall.

Dean Morton To Speak At State Convention

Dean Priscilla R. Morton will be a panel speaker at the State Convention of the Pennsylvania Association of Deans of Women to be held at the Bedford Springs Hotel, Bedford Springs, Pa., October 28 through October 30. Her topic for the panel discussion is "Developing Student Leaders."

Featured speaker at the convention will be the very prominent Dr. Elton Trueblood, Chief of Religious Policy for the United States Information Agency. President Eisenhower has just recently appointed him to this office.

Auxiliary Discusses 'Experiment in Living'

The Patron's Division of the Albright College Women's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Maynard Hallock is president, met Wednesday, October 20 in the Blue Room. Dean Morton discussed with the organization her ideas on the topic "Experiment in Living." Sub-topics of the discussion were the facilities available for the resident women in the dormitories; women's student government; the counseling program; the social and educational system at the college; and extra work to help college students.

After the meeting, tea was served and the women made a tour of the buildings.

Freshman Induction Ends Customs Period

President Dr. Harry V. Masters welcomed the freshman class into the Albright student body in chapel, Tuesday, October 19. His short address was followed by the presentation of a charge to the freshman class which was answered by Terry Johnson, treasurer of the 1954 class. James Hall presented the charge.

Paul Hetrich, chairman of the Orientations Committee, officially announced the termination of customs at this time. Prayer was led by Reverend Eugene Barth.

'Top Hats' To Perform

The new Albright dance band, The Top Hats, will definitely perform on the night of November 12, for the Friday Night Student Council dance to be held in Krause Hall. The instruments include a piano, guitar, saxophone, trumpet and drums.

Registration of alumni for Homecoming Day will be held in Teel Hall Saturday morning, November 6, from 9:30 to 11:15.

At this time, guests will be shown around the campus in student-conducted tours. A coffee hour will be held simultaneously with the tours and registration in the library of Teel Hall.

At 11:15, the shareholders' plaque will be unveiled at a ceremony in the Physical Education Building. The plaque, which contains the names of 898 alumni and friends who contributed a share to the campaign for the construction of the Physical Education Building, will be placed in the foyer.

Bergstresser To Preside At Luncheon

The annual alumni luncheon will be held at noon in Krause Hall. Presiding at the luncheon will be Kenneth A. Bergstresser, '34, of Hometown, Pa. Mr. Bergstresser is President of the Alumni Association. The Homecoming Queen, who has not yet been chosen, will be a guest.

Following this, the Lebanon Valley-Albright football game will be played in the Albright Stadium. At half-time, various campus organizations will enter floats in competition.

Receptions To Be Held

A reception for the alumni will be held after the game in Krause Hall. Also at this time, the fraternities and sororities will meet. The fraternities will meet in their respective houses and apartments. The Salem Room in Selwyn Hall will be the meeting place for the Phi Beta Mu sorority and the Pi Alpha Tau sorority will meet in the Blue Room of Selwyn Hall.

Friday evening, the Ivy Ball will be held in the Physical Education Building. The Homecoming Queen will be crowned at this time.

Mogel Is Chairman

Carl F. Mogel, '41, is the chairman of the general planning committee. His assistants include James F. Hall, '55, Mary E. Fry, '49, Ashley Bickmore, and Dr. Samuel B. Shirk.

Members of the Hospitality Committee are Annjeannette Innis, '54, chairman, Sally Bubeck, '57, Lorraine Wagner, '55, Jonathan Kurtz, '57, James Hall, '55, Mr. Eugene Pierce, '47, Professor Marcus Green, '29, Dr. Daniel F. Skeath and Dr. Edwin L. Bell.

The presidents of the fraternities and sororities are also serving on this committee.

Mrs. Knoll Heads Committee

Mrs. Elsie Schaeffer Knoll, '21, of Reading, is the chairman of the luncheon committee. Other members of this committee are June Yocom Greth, '40, Elva Weaver Rittenhouse, '40, Carolyn Zehner, '29, Emma Binkley, '28, and Anna Mengel Luckenbill, '24.

Fred E. Luckenbill, '23, of Reading, heads the Reception Committee. Assisting him are Ruth Plowfield Westley, '45, George Zehner, '27, David H. Roland, '50, Fred Howard, '12, and Mrs. Ella Lesher, '18.

Also, Estella Pennepacker, '32, Reverend Dean A. Allen, '40, Mary Jane Ward, '42, Marjorie Lebo Wagner, '41, Luella Mohn Bowman, '09 and Helen Bright, '12.

The Theatre And Its Message

The university or college theatre plays as great a part in the development of a nation's dramatic culture as do the legitimate theatres or the movies. Perhaps it plays an even greater part. The latter are limited by the necessity of presenting only those plays which have enough box-office appeal to make their production financially profitable, but the college theatre is free to experiment in new methods of dramatic presentation and to stage productions solely for the message they present to the audience.

Any play produced in a college theatre, then, has a definite message aimed at a particular audience. This message is important enough to have been the reason why the director selected that particular play from all other possible plays.

This doesn't mean that the play can't also be amusing. Instead, it means that the primary function of the college production is not to entertain and entertain only, but also to stimulate the imagination of the audience to consider some particular facet of human relationships which they might not otherwise think about.

Mrs. Molloy and the Domino Dramatic Club are making a worthwhile effort to carry out the best traditions of the university theatre here at Albright. To be successful, they need the cooperation of the student body.

The first way the student audience can cooperate is, obviously, by attending the plays presented. A packed house is not only a polite compliment to a group of actors and technicians, but it is also a subtle way of looking after the best interests of the audience, since it's true that a full house produces a better performance.

The second, third and subsequent ways the student body can help are the same as the first. All that the Domino players ask is an attentive and appreciative audience.

Orchids To Paul

The sign of an educated person is his ability to do what he should, whether he wants to or not. There are several jobs assigned to Albright students which involve a great deal of responsibility and little appreciation. In this category falls the job of the Head of the Freshman Orientation Committee.

This year the task of planning and enforcing freshman customs fell to Paul Hetrich, junior pre-ministerial student. Paul was right in the middle of everything. He had to prod the freshmen to wear their dinks, ties and two-toned socks, carry their compasses, and remember the words to the Alma Mater. Then he had to prod the upperclassmen to keep an eye on the freshmen. The frosh complained to him if the upperclassmen gave them a rough time, and the upperclassmen complained to Paul when the frosh weren't properly respectful. Paul had to cope with a couple of near-revolts, and over it all hung the threat of a sudden, chilly dip in Selwyn Lake.

All through the four weeks of freshman customs, which were probably ten times worse for Paul than for the frosh, he managed to preserve his cheerful, easy-going disposition. He also managed to keep the affection and respect of the upperclassmen, and earn that of the freshmen.

Paul and his stalwart tribunal deserve plenty of praise for doing well a difficult job.

Mary

Say, who is that cute brunette who just went into Sherman Cottage? Why, that's Mary Althouse, everyone knows her. She's a V.I.P. here at Albright. Give a listen and I'll tell you what her activities are and then you'll know why.

Mary is president of the Women's Student Senate, vice president of the Daywomen's Organization, secretary of the senior class, and vice president of Phi Beta Mu. (As Mary would say, "Rah! Rah! Mus.") With all these activities to keep her busy, she still finds time to be a very successful Home Economics student. At the present time she's doing Home Management at Sherman Cottage and just loves it.

Mary likes just about everything, but she especially likes music, dancing, watching ballet, all sports, a weekend in New York, and of course, she adores those four weekends a year at the Lamba Chi house at F. & M. One thing she would like to see at Albright is a lot of school spirit, which is one of her favorite topics for an argument, and she likes to argue just for the sake of arguing. It's been told that she likes to talk a great deal and is often heard using the expression, "Let's face it!" The only thing Mary doesn't like is to be alone, but then, who does? She's happiest when she's very busy all the time, so as you see, she's happy all the time.

When Mary receives her diploma in June she intends to teach Home Economics for at least three years, and then her future is a little undecided. Whatever Mary does do we're sure she'll be successful.

Phoebe Phalarope's Advice to Lovelorn

Hi Phob:

We ain't beaten round the bush—Jus' got one question to ask ya. Seems to us the galls to here are slightly snooty—Oy jus' ain't happy when ya hand'em the door—and could we ketch it that it slammed on one goll and tore her skoit? From the before you can reach the now—so answer my problem maybe. And give ta us a few Berks County manners please. We tried Kinsey but he ain't up to it—So.

US FROM BROOKLYN TECH

Dear You—all from Brooklyn Tech:

Quite obviously it is necessary to concern ourselves with the problem in a mature and objective manner. Have you tried roaming the countryside in search of a blue door? In the Pennsylvania Dutch or Amish sections, this means available women. You could buy a can of blue paint, charge the women's dorms, and take it from there.

The smoothness of local women is sometimes alleviated only by periscopes, elevator shoes, charcoal suits with hot and cold running moneybags, convertible convertibles, quietly closing doors, or shotguns.

Other Berks County manners follow the usually prescribed standard throughout the land. Among standouts are being promptly late for dates, wearing cloated shoes to keep time to foot-stompin' music on

'Squeak' Explains Skirmish At Dinner

Before I begin my dissertation, permit me to introduce myself. My name is Mr. A. Squeak. I have lived at Albright College for many years, or should I say in the Albright College dining room for many years. I have seen many frosh molded into seniors and have watched many college capers. However, this year was the first time I allowed myself to be seen. I must say, I do think I rather created a scene. By now most of the men who saw me have forgotten I was even there in the dining room last Friday. I was such a sensation with the women that they still mention me in their conversations.

For many years now, I have watched and heard Chef Lennie Van Driel prepare his "special" meals. I confess, I have touched and even tasted his fabulous Baked Alaska (and many other things, not to forget the Mystery of Mystery Balls, which I have not yet solved). On the special meals I not only visit the dining room but I go behind the scenes and watch the men who work long and hard hours in the "Hole" so that you people may enjoy the meals.

I have a cousin who lives in another college dining hall (the name of which it is forbidden for me to mention). He tells me of the meals he has seen and of the dress and behavior of the students in his dining hall. Behold! It appears that our kitchen and dining room are unequaled. Skinny, that's my cousin, tells of students wearing jeans and slacks and of many flying morsels. Worst of all, his school suffers from "D.D." (Dingey Diningroom). When I made my appearance I felt quite stylish. After all, I had on a very fine charcoal coat. My wife, however, finds it difficult (as do the Albright girls) to wear anything that resembles Bermuda or any other type shorts.

With the above thoughts, I conclude, hoping that the next time I visit the dining room, I will go unnoticed and can get a whole meal instead of just a snack.

The Snake Pit

by Pat Schatz

When the foot is on the pumpkin, And the footer's in the shock, Then it's time to be a-stirrin', 'cause The footer problem gets worse all the time.

All joking aside, this business of declaring the parlors in the women's dormitories "off limits" to males during the daytime is beginning to present difficulties. It's a little ridiculous for a guy and a gal to have to compete with the squirrels for a few square feet where they can study Spanish together. Also, that old north wind is blowing pretty cold these days. Please, can't the children come into the nice, warm parlor? They promise to be good.

Truth Will Out

It seems that the new ruling is not so much a matter of protecting the brand new furniture from being roughly treated by those crude boys (they're going to carve their initials in the upholstery, maybe? And only before 7:30???) as it is a precaution against giving visitors a bad impression of Albright by permitting the parlors to be used as "Kinsey Halls" between classes. The administration has a good point there. Some of the scenes enacted in broad daylight on the sofas of Selwyn last spring were downright embarrassing. We don't blame the administration a bit for putting a stop to such public exhibitions by chasing the boys out.

Can't We Talk It Over?

What we would like to suggest is that we have learned our lesson and are now ready to be treated as mature college students. It's awkward to live in a house which for all practical intents and purpose has no parlor during the daytime. The

A Freshman Adjusts

Dear Mom,

This has been a very active week for me and I have a lot to tell you. Tuesday we had our freshman induction and at the end of the ceremony all the frosh threw their hats in the air. I grabbed a whole armful and boy, when the year 2058 comes around I'll make a killing on the dink market.

Last weekend a little girl by the name of Hazel passed our way and caused quite a fuss. I was taking a sunbath on our rooftop patio at the time and got a very severe case of windburn. Immediately after this incident I went for an involuntary swim in Selwyn Lake. The doctor said he can cure my pneumonia but is deeply concerned about my windburn.

My studies are marching along; as a matter of fact, I stand on the walk every day and watch them go by. This is not because I don't study but because a fellow in the room next to me has a life-size photograph of (sigh!) Marilyn. Our dorm is fairly quiet except in the evening when everybody is studying. I guess I have adjusted to college life by now but I still can't get used to keeping my own room clean. We have here on campus a fellow who does our dry cleaning for us and it seems none of the guys are ever behind in the payment of his bills. Mr. LaRocco is a nice guy but oh, his muscle men.

I have been accepted to be a reporter on our newspaper staff but feel I am a little too sane to be writing such material. My fellow reporters are very friendly, though, and have invited me to go hunting eldridiches some night this week.

I guess that is all I have to say so I'll close with

Your loving son,
ELMER

Graduates' Letters Will Be Featured

Albright College has attained a high scholastic rating over a number of years and the Albrightian wishes to give significance to this academic record by interviewing former students in this column.

The interviews will be in letter form, stating the graduate's present status and describing his or her college life at Albright. These letters will be interesting from both an informative and enjoyable viewpoint. The entire aim of this column is to help the Albright student select his activities according to his course and to enable the prospective students to realize the vital importance of selecting the proper college to meet their needs.

Ivan Moyer, '54, will be the first informant. Mr. Moyer is at present a theological student and while attending Albright was leader of all campus musical organizations, member of the Alpha Pi Omega Fraternity, and was active in the "Y" Cabinet.

Lions Lose To Alfred

Albright's Lions dropped their third decision of the football year to the Saxons from Alfred University last Saturday night on the winners' field. The Lions have won one game, gaining a 12-7 nod over Muhlenberg College in the Pretzel Bowl. It was an undefeated Alfred team which turned the tables on the Lions for that school's first football win over Albright. Using an effective combination of air and ground plays the Saxons scored in each of the first two quarters to gain the win, as Albright failed to score in their second straight game.

Alfred scored their first touchdown in the first quarter when quarterback Pat Lattari passed to his halfback Jay Abbott deep in the end zone. Abbott made a spectacular leaping catch to snare the ball. The play covered eight yards. The score came after Alfred's center Chet Micicic recovered an Albright fumble on the Lions 26. The Saxons went on the move immediately as Lattari tossed for 10 yards to his halfback John Zlucheski. From here Alfred went to the 8 on a series of line plays. The touchdown came with 4:30 left of the initial period. Lattari tried to push the ball into the end zone on a quarterback sneak for the extra point but his attempt failed.

Lions Could Not Score

After receiving the ball the Lions tried hard to even up the contest as they marched from their own 27 to the hosts' 32. Here the Saxon defense stiffened and when Roy Dragon's fourth down pass fell incomplete Alfred took over on downs.

Mid-way in the second period Alfred drove to the Albright 7 but the Lion defense tightened and the Red and White took over. The Lions failed to gain and a poor punt gave the Saxons the ball on the Albright 37. Alfred moved to the 29 and from here the Saxon fullback, Jim Ryan, broke through Albright's eight-man line and raced the distance for the last score of the game. Lattari again failed in his try for the point.

Saxons Unbeaten

Except for a third period Saxon drive to the Albright 13 the remaining portion of the game was largely an exchanging of punts; neither team being able to generate any kind of sustained attack. The Saxon team, sporting a pony backfield, outran the Lions most of the evening and Alfred undoubtedly played their finest game of the season thus far.

It was homecoming day at Alfred University and 5,000 fans, of which a large part were alumni, watched the game at the school's Merrill Field. Alfred is probably having its best season of the present era as they already had rolled over Brockport, Cortland, and St. Lawrence before meeting the Lions.

The game pitted the Alfred wing-T formation against the straight-T employed by the Gulianmen. Jim Ryan, the host's fullback, was the leading player of the game while Fred Hess and Bob Sulyma shared the spotlight for the Lions. It was the second football encounter between the two schools, the first being in 1929 when a very good Lion team crushed the Saxons 73-0.

Subs Look Good

In defeat the Lions racked up a total of 98 yards, far behind the Alfred total of 271. The Albright line played the entire game without substitution while DePaul, Reller, Smith, and Cunningham provided relief in the backfield, all playing fine games.

The dark cloud hovering over the Lions should be lifted when they invade Lancaster this week to continue their grid rivalry with Franklin and Marshall College.

On The Courts

In the intramural tennis tournament freshman Don Noga, by virtue of an upset over Mike Dougherty, and Jack Rosen have gained the finals. They will play, and the winner of the match, who will also receive the tournament laurels, will play team captain John Schiavo.

On The Hardwood

Albright's varsity basketball team will play 25 games during the 1954-55 season, opening with Bucknell University Wednesday night, December 1, at Lewisburg. The Lions will be at home for the first time against St. Joseph's College on Saturday night, December 11, while the season ends on Saturday night, March 5, when Franklin and Marshall College invades the Lion's lair in the Albright fieldhouse. Twelve home games and thirteen road tilts are booked. Last season the Gulianmen defeated F. & M. in the final game of the campaign to finish with a record of thirteen wins and twelve losses. The schedule follows:

- Dec. 1—Bucknell, away
- 4—Seton Hall, away
- 8—Muhlenberg, away
- 11—St. Joseph's, home
- 14—Temple, away

Girls' Sports

Last Saturday the Albright Coeds placed third in a playday which was held on the home athletic field. Cedar Crest took first place, Kutztown second, and Moravian fourth.

The Lionesses landed in third place by losing to Cedar Crest 2-0, and tying Kutztown and Moravian by scores of 0-0 and 1-1. Gretchen Vogeler played her usual aggressive game and scored Albright's only goal. Next Wednesday the Lady Lions travel to Lebanon Valley.

Intramurals

The first half of the intramural football league is over, and the second half got underway this week. In the final games of the first half, the Zetas defeated the Kappas, 13-6, the APO's downed the Dorm Men, 19-12, and the Pi Tau's trounced the Dorm, 40-7. The Pi Tau's were unbeaten in the first half competition, thus taking the laurels. They will play the winners of the second half to decide the ultimate champs.

The first half standings were:

Pi Tau's	5-0
Zetas	4-1
AP0's	3-2
Kappas	2-3
Dorm	1-4
Daymen	0-5

Over Hill and Dale

Coach Gene Shirk's cross country team engaged in its first meet of the season last Monday, losing to Haverford College, 24-31. This was the first meet to be run over Albright's new four and two-tenths mile course. This course has been laid out so that it covers more of the campus, thus giving the student body more of a chance to see the contestants. The Lion's Bill Shirk finished first, as he is expected to do many more

Hooray For One Platoon

We are among the large majority of college football fans who greeted the timely end of the free substitution rule with a rousing cheer. For us, anyway, it came not a season too soon. For some years now we have been afflicted with blurry vision around the third Saturday of each November, due of course to our futile bouts with the program line-ups and our attempts to keep up with the stream of uniform numbers running on and off the field below.

Which is reason enough, we think, to welcome the return to the old friendly system of limited substitution and the two-way player.

Coaches Complain—

Ever since the Rules Committee threw the college coaches into a turmoil by announcing the revision of the code which killed the practice of wholesale substitutions, we have listened to the complaints of the profession. Much of the early opposition came from coaches who became panicky with the thought of the amount of coaching they would have to do in a small amount of time. Some were faced with a football-less spring and had to make their adjustments between September 1 and the first game. They said the rule change would be hard on the boys and injurious to the game. They said it would limit offensive and defensive maneuvers, cut down scoring and generally render the game dull and sluggish. Some of them said it would handicap the small colleges (though they didn't say how) and chase the specialist (the 150-pound placement kicker or the slow-footed defensive tackle) back to the bench forever. They were sure there would be fewer players playing, fewer touchdowns, and fewer thrills.

Whether any or all of their arguments will prove valid, only a few more football Saturdays will tell. But we started the '53 season ready and eager to risk all that. We won't miss some of the offensive and defensive tricks that have been incorporated into the game of late, as long as the boys learn how to block and tackle. We'll exchange a couple of those 34-21 affairs in which the quarterbacks to ends who specialize in catching passes and the extra points are made by a skilled team, trained only in the fine points of holding and place-kicking a ball, for a 7-6 game in which we know who did the scoring and how.

—But Some Like It

Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson, who, in recent years, has coached as fine a collection of offensive and defensive specialists as you can find in college football, stated long before the one-platoon system got under way that he was in favor of the rule change because he thought the boys would enjoy the game more. He didn't say he would but he clings to the old-fashioned notion that football should be enjoyed by those who play it. Did you ever find an offensive guard, for example, who wasn't itching to get his hands on the opposing ball-carrier or hear

Gulianmen Look For Second Win

Saturday, October 23, marks the twenty-fourth meeting between the Albright Lions and the Franklin and Marshall Diplomats. F & M has won fifteen of these games with two ending in ties. This rivalry began in 1912 with the Diplomats defeating Albright 13-7. Last year the Lions dropped a heart-breaking 6-0 decision. Franklin and Marshall has won all three of its starts, including a 12-7 victory over Drexel Institute last Saturday. The Lions of Albright have won only one out of four, their late defeat coming at the hands of Alfred 12-81.

Dips Boast Experienced Line

Coach Woody Sponaugle's Diplomats have a well-rounded backfield headed by Dale Ritten at quarterback, Franek Tullai in the fullback slot and Carl Blair and Joe Martin heading the halfbacks. Both Tullai and Ritten are injured and may not see action. In that case, the Diplomats will get able assistance from Jay Powell and Jim Blöse at the quarterback and fullback positions. The starting ends are Hen Eberly, who caught the winning touchdown pass against Drexel and Dick Padher. An experienced line boasts Bill Boyer leading the tackles a classy guard in Jim Neese, and aggressive, hard-tackling John Copenhaven at center.

Albright's starting lineup is expected to be much the same as last week's with a backfield consisting of Roy Dragon at quarterback, Willy Smith and Tom Pollock, halfbacks, and Chris Wenger at fullback. The starting line shapes up as Bob Krize and Ed McNeill at ends, tackles Fred Hess and Wally Goss, Bob Sulyma and Frank Goldstein, guards, and Jack Huntzinger, center.

Lion Outlook Bright

Although Albright has lost three out of four games, with the exception of Bucknell, the toughest part of their schedule is behind. It has been Albright's misfortune to play teams who were undefeated before their clash with the Lions. Gettysburg and Alfred were both undefeated at the time of their meeting with Albright, and F. & M. is no exception. Let's hope that Albright can begin to balance that win and loss column.

his name credited with a tackle over the stadium public address system? Did you ever see a more frustrated collection of young men than the defensive team which had just recovered a fumble on the opposition's one-yard line and had to pull out for the touchdown-scoring crew? This fall everyone is getting a crack at recovering fumbles and scoring touchdowns.

Some of the boys may have early-season or warm-weather trouble catching their breaths while the ball changes hands, but they'll get used to it. Young men have played 60 minutes of football before and still managed to keep their sorority house dates on Saturday night. Back in 1938, a little fellow named Davey O'Brien ran and passed 400 times in a single season for TCU, and still had enough wind left to play safety on defense. Nobody thought the football he and his teammates played was slow or dull.

We're looking forward to the coming weekends. Football has always been fun for us but it should be more fun this fall. We'll even be able to give the offensive-defensive left tackle an old Rah-Rah-Rah when he leaves the game.

Fraternal Organizations Induct Fall Pledges, Plan Rush Parties

Inter-Sorority Council

Dormitory freshman girls received a briefing from the Inter-Sorority Council Thursday, October 21, about sororities. The Council also talked to the day freshman girls Wednesday, October 20, in the Pine Room. Facts about the sororities, such as pledging, were explained to the girls by members of each sorority.

Phi Beta Mu

Three pledges were inducted into the Phi Beta Mu Sorority, Monday night, October 18 in the "Belfry" in Selwyn Hall. The pledges are Shirley Henry, '57, Ruth Hotz, '57, and Nancy Hitchner, '57. The fall rush party for the freshmen will be held Monday, November 1, at the Friendly Association at 7:30 p.m.

Pi Alpha Tau

Sally Aicher is in charge of the arrangements for the combined Pi Tau Beta and Pi Alpha Tau Open House to be held Saturday, October 23, in the Pi Tau Beta apartments.

The induction of the following pledges also took place at the meeting, Monday, October 18: Betsy Griffiths, Karen Saul, Kathleen Forry and Jeanne Walker.

Mildred Tims and Frances Wolf are the co-chairmen for the fall rush party for which the theme is "Nursery Rhymes and Fairy Tale Land."

Zeta Omega Epsilon

Pledges were nominated at the meeting Monday evening. Pete LaRocco was appointed as pledge master. Interfraternity plans for rushing were also discussed. Committee reports were given.

Alpha Pi Omega

The fraternity's fall dance will be held at the Reading Country Club, January 8. John Schiavo was appointed as general chairman for the dance with Tyler Hunting, Elmer Roth and Roland Roth assisting him.

Harold Kretzing is in charge of the plans for Homecoming. Pledges were also nominated at this meeting.

Pi Tau Beta

James Zaferes is general chairman for open house, Saturday, October 23. An annual paper, "The Logus," will be published by the fraternity under the direction of Robert Fox, David Serfass and Hans Gilde. The float for Homecoming was discussed and Robert Fox was appointed as chairman for Homecoming.

Kappa Upsilon Phi

Nominations for pledges were discussed at the October 18 meeting. Refreshments are to be served at the open house for Homecoming.

Variety In Program Sparks 'Y' Retreat

The results of hurricane "Hazel" didn't dampen the spirits of thirty-two Albrightians as another "Y" Retreat got underway last Saturday. The procession of seven cars arrived at the Blue Mountain Lodge, Hamburg, Pa., in the early afternoon.

Dr. Daniel J. Wetzel, minister of the First Evangelical and Reformed Church, Reading, spoke on "Religion, as Source of Strength" at the first seminar. This service was held around a huge open fire place in the lodge.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in recreation and relaxation. The gang split up into teams. Some played volleyball, others ping pong, while a few went rowing. Dr. Reppert organized a group of co-eds into a football team.

The clanging of the dinner bell brought everyone running. Singing from table to table preceded each course of the meal. An assembly line made quick work of the dishes. When the last dish was put away Dr. Wetzel gave his concluding talk on "The Adventure of Faith." A brief discussion period followed.

Mrs. Reppert gave the group a real treat by teaching some ballads. She was assisted by a guitar and her husband.

A blazing fire on the lake shore made a beautiful background for songs both old and new. The roasted hot dogs and cold soda tasted good. The evening was brought to a close with stories told by Dr. Reppert, Rev. Barth and Ray Horan.

Another clang woke everyone on Sunday morning. Hot chocolate helped to thaw frozen bodies. After breakfast the group braved fallen branches and hiked to a clearing in the woods where Ted Tietge held a brief worship service.

The rest of the morning was spent in fishing (bait compliments of Roger James) or boating. Leave it to the Albright co-eds to read the Sunday newspaper while lying in a boat.

Following the noon meal, Ray Horan had the group share a special service. The highlight of the service was "The Way It Looks From Here", presented by Paul Hetrich and Jean Hagenbuch.

Packing and squeezing all the retreaters back into the cars brought another Retreat to a close that will long be remembered by those present.

Librarian Announces Student Assistants

Miss Josephine Raepfel, head librarian, recently announced the reason for the display cases being shifted in front of the stairs as a move to aid the library in keeping more complete records of books in circulation. As it was, students and professors, often without realizing it, took books and records from upstairs without checking them out at the desk. Thus, the library's circulation records were incomplete, and when compared with circulation records of other libraries, our incomplete records did not do justice to Albright College. Also, complete circulation records will allow for a clear knowledge of which books are out of the library.

The list of new student assistants to the library staff as announced by Miss Raepfel includes: Roslyn Cowen, '55; Raymond Faunce, '56; Sandra Zerby and JoAnn Yobp, '57; Jeannette Hays, Mary Ellen Wray, and Larry Uppuke, '58.

Dr. James Reppert is the designer of the present library display. The showcase features pocket editions of classic books which may be purchased at the book store for less than 50 cents. The other display case carries photographs of the freshman class.

Miss Raepfel noted that the picture file has been placed in the major reading room. These files contain beautiful mounted pictures which may be shown on a projector. The head librarian also wished to state for the benefit of the freshmen that the library has a record player with earphones in the major reading room.

A.C.S. Tours Carpenter Steel; Joseph Karsner Speaks To IRC

A.C.S.

The first meeting of the American Chemical Society was held on Wednesday, October 13, at 7:30 p.m., in room 208 of the Science Hall for the purpose of electing officers and discussing future plans. Newly elected officers are: president, David Frankhouser; vice-president, William Shirk; and secretary-treasurer, Richard Eshelman.

The attendance included those students striving toward a scientific profession. After the meeting, a tour was conducted through the new Carpenter Steel Hot Rolling Mill.

Chess Club

Adolph Butkys, president of the Chess Club, has invited anyone to attend the club's meetings, which are usually held Friday afternoons in the Administration Building. The members of the club will teach anyone the game of chess.

A tournament among Albright College's own chess players is being planned and will take place in the near future.

Other officers of the club are: Robert Berkstreser, corresponding secretary and treasurer, and Gordon Anke, vice-president and recording secretary.

I.R.C.

The featured speaker at the IRC meeting, Wednesday evening, October 20, held in the Pine Room, was Joseph Karsner, a member of the Society of Friends' Peace Committee. His topic was, "Has the United Nations Failed?"

Officers of the club are Claire Speidel, president; Robert Berkstreser, vice-president; Adolph Butkys, treasurer and Arthur Saylor, member-at-large.
