

Student Council Disaffiliates With National Student Asso.

Student Council has voted to sever the relationship between Albright College and the National Student Association. Chief reason given was the inconsistency between the cost of membership and the lack of interest shown by Albright students.

John Wise introduced the disaffiliation plan on the floor of Council on Tuesday, October 10. His motion passed with little opposition.

Wise pointed out that Albright students as a whole are not deriving tangible benefits from membership in N.S.A. which are compatible with the cost of membership and the cost of sending delegates to regional and national conventions.

The opinion was expressed that many of the presumably practical N.S.A. programs had not materialized at Albright. The Purchase Card System, whereby merchants give discounts to college students, is impractical because local merchants are not dependent upon collegiate support and aid the institution in other ways. The Leadership Training Program failed last year because of lack of interest.

A third factor affecting the decision to disaffiliate was the unfavorable publicity given the national N.S.A. convention in a recent issue of a national pictorial weekly. It was noted that although these pictures may not have been typical, they nevertheless cast an unfortunate reflection upon N.S.A.

At the Council meeting held on Tuesday, October 17 an attempt was made to have the entire question of N.S.A. membership reconsidered. Efforts in this direction were led by Jay Shenk, who had been absent from the previous meeting. However, this proposal was defeated and plans were made to send a letter to the regional and National N.S.A. offices stating Albright's position.

Council members in favor of N.S.A. said that the wrong approach was being taken, for N.S.A. is not designed primarily to give direct aid to college students. The advantage of N.S.A., they said, lies in the fact that it is a voice through which the college students of America can speak. In reality college students, they claimed, owe something to N.S.A.

In another Council action the suggestion was made that news about Albright be sent to all those

Daymen Consider War Orphan Plan

Chief interest at the first meeting of the Daymen on Wednesday, October 11 centered in the discussion of the adoption of a war orphan. The question was referred to a committee headed by William A. Heck and including Russell F. Weigley, Pat Bieber and Ray Weitzel.

This committee agreed last Monday that the plan is a worthy one. The major problem is the method of collecting the $15 per month which is needed to support the adopted child. Final approval of the plan must be given by the entire group before the adoption can be carried through.

Terry Connor, Daymen president praised the five Daymen representatives to Student Council for their perfect attendance record. The question of installing a soft drink dispensing machine in the Daymen's room was discussed. A victorious start in the intramural football league was noted.

Connor and Dean Levan P. Smith, who addressed the group, urged the Daymen to take good care of their room.

Meiskey to Play At Annual Ivy Ball

The Ivy Ball, Albright's annual fall dinner dance, will be held tomorrow night in the Abraham Lincoln Hotel. The dinner will be served at 6:30 P. M. and will be followed by entertainment furnished by the Freshman Class. Whitey Meiskey and his orchestra will provide the music for the dance from 8:30 P. M. to 11:50 P. M.

Professor and Mrs. Clyde Harding and Professor and Mrs. John Khouri will serve as chaperones, and President and Mrs. Harry V. Masters, Dean and Mrs. George Walton, Dean Ruth Williams, and Dean Levan P. Smith will be guests.

The Ivy Ball chairman, Lois Gehris, states the following as committee members who helped her plan and make arrangements for the Ball: decoration, chairman Delores Genetti, Geneva Bolton, Delores Bedding and Camille Thorpe; tickets, chairman Doris Hill, Lynn Russo and Martha Fisher; dinner, chairman Virginia Kitzmiller, Louise Hoff and Mary Ann Gerhart; dance program, chairman Alma Natanblut, Judy Goodman and Kathleen Guenther; and publicity, chairman Vincent Gentile, Sonja Phipps and Dorothy Miller.

One-Acters Drew Mingled Response

On Friday evening, October 13 at 8 P. M. the chapel was the scene of the annual Domino Club production of three one-act plays.

The first of the productions written by the students in Dr. John B. Doud's Creative Writing class was "The Professor and the Butterfly," a light comedy, which was directed by Judith Goodman. M. Elizabeth Binkley is the author of this play. The plot was woven around a butterfly-happy professor, three giggling old maids, who played cards throughout the play, and the love problems of three young girls. The plot had no action and was uneventful, but the acting of the students was commendable.

A French village in 1914 was the time and place of "Yvonne," which was written by John McConnell and directed by Leonard Buxton. The betrayal, and then realization of true love when it was too late, by a young French mademoiselle of an American soldier stationed in France provided an interesting plot. The dialogue was extremely clever and the acting realistic and convincing.

"A Bit Too Young," written by Miriam Walter and directed by Alma Natanblut, took place in the living room of a typical American home. The lead, a senior high school lassie, realizes it is high time she put away her jeans and her reputation for being a tom boy, when she falls for a college friend of her brother's. The story was amusing and the students portrayed their parts well.

Albrightians to Enter Various Med Schools

Five Albright seniors have been accepted for admission to medical school in 1951, according to an announcement made this week by Mr. Dean Moore, assistant to the director of public relations.

These students and the schools which have accepted them are: Temple, William Kahler and William E. Schaeffer; Jefferson, Burton Schaeffer; New York Medical School, Ronald Romig; Hahnemann, John Krouse.

Pat Poore Names New Staff Additions To The Albrightian

Patricia Poore, editor-in-chief of The Albrightian, has announced the new additions to the newspaper staff. Barbara Miller, news editor, has added six to the news staff; Jay Kyle, feature editor, has made four additions to his staff and William Wahl, sports editor, added one to the sports staff.

News staff additions are the following: Joan Lafferty, Reading, who was feature editor of her high school paper; Dorothy DeLaney, of Sayre, editor-in-chief of her high school yearbook; Ann Weik, Reading, reporter, artist, associate editor and editor-in-chief of her school paper; Virginia Marick, Upper Darby, reporter for her high school paper and yearbook; Judith Canfield of Wyomissing, reporter for the high school paper and reporter on the Hershey Junior College paper and literary magazine.

Lee Snyder of Mohnton; Jane Katz of Glen Cove, Long Island, editor-in-chief of the high school yearbook, reporter and feature writer on the school paper; Jacqueline Zwoyer of Reading, former feature editor of the Reading High paper and James Still of Philadelphia are the new members of the feature staff.

Rae Hoopes of Reading is the only new addition to the sports staff.

David Keller has been appointed staff cartoonist. He was cartoonist for the high school paper and club editor of the school yearbook.

William Wahl has recently been appointed Sports editor of The Albrightian to replace Ray Schlegel who resigned due to the pressure of his office as president of Student Council.

Jay Kyle was added to the staff this year to fill the gap as feature editor. Tom Falin, who formerly filled this position, withdrew from school this year due to illness.

Work Begun This Week On Physical Ed. Plant

The new physical education building has been started this week. Although the college still lacks $125,000 necessary for the building, the trustees decided at a special meeting on campus on Thursday, October 5 that the building was urgently needed. Nothing will be built except the center unit at this time. Surveying and the construction of the contractor's shack has begun.

Dave Keller Gains Frosh Presidency With 50 Votes; Others Are Elected

David Keller, a pre-ministerial student from Bellefonte, Pa., was elected president of the class of 1954 with 50 votes. Other officers chosen on Tuesday, October 10 are the following: vice-president, Robert Skinner, 56 votes; secretary, Lois Stockinger, 60 votes; treasurer, Donald Searfoss, 44 votes.

Keller was vice-president of his senior class in high school and a delegate to the national convention of student government in Cincinnati in 1949.

An English major from Caldwell, N. J., Skinner represented his high school homeroom in the Student Senate. He was also a homeroom officer. Skinner is pursuing the pre-legal course.

Miss Stockinger is also a native of Caldwell. She is following the pre-nursing curriculum and was a homeroom officer in high school for four years.

Searfoss is a business administration major from Mt. Penn. One hundred and 42 freshmen

Domino Club to Present 'Good-Bye My Fancy' in Nov.

Mrs. Annadora Shirk to Direct Play; Kathleen M. Guenther to Take Lead Role

Mrs. Annadora Shirk, Director

"Good-Bye My Fancy," a three-act play by Fay Kanin, will be presented by the Domino Club under the direction of Mrs. Annadora V. Shirk on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 16, 17 and 18. Kathleen M. Guenther will play the title role of the vivacious Congresswoman.

Others who will hold lead roles are Marvin Shappell, president of the Domino Club, Harry Nelson and Barbara Ravel. The complete cast of 18 is as follows:

Ginny Merrill Judy Goodman
Amelia Phoebe Hunter
Clarisse Lucky Becker
Mary Nell Annjaette Ingt
Miss Shackelford Yvonne Voigt
Telephone Man Howard Platzker
Susan Joan Moore
Grace Woods Barbara Ravel
Agatha Reed Kathleen Guenther
Ellen Griswald Alma Natanblut
Prof Birdeshaw Jessie Nucci
Carol Jane Katz
Jo Ruth Shaeffer
Doctor Pitt Richard Stinson
James Merrill Marvin Schappell
Prof Dingley Ivan Moyer
Matt Cole Harry Nelson
Claude Griswald Elliot Perceley

The plot should appeal to college audiences since the scene takes place in a present-day girls' campus where a returning alumna finds her college beau, now the president. As the plot unfolds and complications become thicker, laugh-power increases and the play concludes with a surprise ending.

The play has been released this year for the first time for non-professional performances. Committees have not as yet been announced.

Miss Guenther has appeared in several Domino productions, including Family Portrait and All My Sons and has taken part in this summer's plays. Last year's productions were Life With Father and Thunder Rock, both produced by Mrs. Shirk.

"Good-Bye My Fancy" played for a successful two year run on Broadway with Madeline Carroll and Sam Wanamaker in the feature roles.

10 College Alumni Receive Citations

On Homecoming Day, October 7 ten alumni were presented with citations for outstanding work in their fields. President Masters conferred the honors at the Alumni Banquet held in Union Hall.

Mr. Charles M. Leininger, president of the Industrial Hosiery Mills Inc. of Mohnton, received a citation in the field of business. Awards in the field of education went to Anna R. Benninger, assistant to the Albright College Dean and Registrar for 19 years; Clarence E. Boyer, supervising principle of the Boonton, New Jersey schools and leader in state and national education; Grant C. Knight, professor of English literature at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky, also author of several books and contributor to professional publications; and Dr. Warren D. Sones, a member of the University of Pittsburgh faculty.

Rev. H. Leroy Brininger, former Public Relations Director for Albright College and now director of Christian training mission for the Pennsylvania State Council of Churches, and Rev. Paul D. Frosh Welcomed Into Student Body

Frosh induction was held on Thursday, October 12 at 11 A. M. in Union Hall. For the freshman it was a long awaited occasion and for the juniors who witnessed the ceremony, a realization that they were not far away from the end of their college careers.

John Wise, chairman of the Frosh Induction Program, opened the ceremony with an official welcome to the class of 1954. Ray Schlegel, president of Student Council, welcomed the freshmen on behalf of the student body. He encouraged the freshman to maintain their class unity and spirit throughout their four years at Albright College.

President Harry V. Masters, the Administration representative, then greeted the students and spoke to them about their actions in the role of Albright students.

Mr. Newton S. Dunford presented the class of 1954 to Dean George W. Walton, who issued a challenge to the freshmen in observing their responsibilities at Albright.

David Keller, freshman president, accepted the challenge for his class. The freshmen gave a few cheers, sang the Alma Mater, drew their frosh hats in the air, and officially became students of Albright.

Albright Drops N.S.A.

The action taken by Student Council last week in severing the relations between Albright College and the National Student Association probably came as no surprise to the student body. Such action seems to be the natural result of the failure of N.S.A. to provide concrete benefits for the students and of the general apathy which the students have shown toward N.S.A. The passing of N.S.A. from the local campus scene will probably be regretted by very few.

Albright College has no complaints about the ideals set forth by the N.S.A. in the preamble of its constitution—"to maintain academic freedom and students' rights, to stimulate and improve democratic student governments, to develop better educational standards . . . to improve student . . . welfare, to promote international understanding . . . to guarantee to all people . . . equal rights . . ." However, we feel that too much has been done by N.S.A. in theoretical planning and publicity and too little in carrying out policies.

Actually, the ideals set forth in the N.S.A. constitution have long been cherished by Albright College. They are so much a part of the principles upon which Albright was founded that the severing of relations with N.S.A. will in no way affect our belief in and actual practice of these principles.

Student Council gave as its chief reason for severing relations with N.S.A. the inadvisability of continuing to pay membership dues and the cost of sending delegates to N.S.A. conventions, since the majority of students have not supported the N.S.A. program. This seems a valid reason, although whether the fault lies chiefly with N.S.A. or the Albright students is debatable.

A second reason cited by council was the failure of certain seemingly practical programs to work out in the case of Albright. For instance, the purchase card system was considered impractical because the local merchants are not in any way dependent upon the college students, as would be the case in some small college towns. Furthermore, the merchants support the college in other ways.

Another factor influencing the decision was the unfavorable publicity given the recent National N.S.A. convention by a leading magazine. Obviously this report may not represent the total picture, but the fact that the situations depicted exist even in part is a blot on N.S.A.

As far as the situation on the Albright campus is concerned, N.S.A. never was particularly popular. Only 23 per-cent of the student body bothered to vote in the referendum held in May 1948 to determine whether Albright should affiliate with N.S.A. Except for a dozen or more students who labored devotedly for the cause of N.S.A. at Albright, the students in general showed little interest in its program. Perhaps the best illustration of this is the total failure of the N.S.A.-inspired Leadership Training Program last spring due to the lack of student interest.

We hope that in the future the ideals of N.S.A. may be made real in the lives of students and educators everywhere. We know that they are real and will remain so at Albright College.

Ray Schlegel, our very capable Student Council President, is this week's Dandy. Hailing from Fleetwood, Ray, a senior, commutes daily with his father and is present on the campus from early dawn until dusk. "One can do a lot of studying between 6:30 and 8 A. M." he tells us, and we know he means it.

A member of the Student Council for the past two years, Ray was voted to be President of this group in last year's all-college election. Any council member will vouch for Ray's ability as a capable campus leader.

In addition to this responsibility Ray continues to be active in many other campus groups. He is also the President of Sigma Tau Delta, and has been active in this group for the past two years. Kappa Upsilon Phi fraternity has claimed him ever since his sophomore year, and Ray served as their Vice Archon last year. Being student manager of the Debate Squad since his sophomore year, it is only natural that Ray is a member of Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary debating fraternity. On The Albrightian staff for the past three years, Ray sat in the sports editor's desk last year and may still be seen at the typewriter. This year, however, he's begun to ease out of the task, for his duties with Council absorb much time and energy.

Now hold your hats, everybody, for this is difficult to believe. Besides leading the well-rounded campus life depicted above, Ray has been on the Dean's list ever since his Albright career began, no small feat in itself. Despite studies and extra-curricular activities, romance, in the form of Carolyn Helms, has invaded Ray's busy schedule.

With an English major and a history minor Ray hopes to enter the Penn Law School next fall—unless, of course, Uncle Sam intervenes.

If you don't know Ray personally, he is readily distinguished by his pleasant smile, dancing eyes, and a lock of brown hair that insists upon tumbling forward.

Though we know you don't need it, Ray, we want to wish you the best of luck in the future.

College To Us

By Jane Katz

The little "Compass," the right arm of every Albright freshman, tells us that "beautiful Selwyn Hall was once the manor house of a lovely country estate." To the resident women at Albright, Selwyn Hall is home. It's a home where every girl has 80 sisters, where there are 270 guests for dinner at night and where a dorm girl shares her living room with 650 other people. Learning to live compatibly in the dormitory is an education in itself—a course everyone loves and enjoys. Congeniality is taught every day, but those who post signs on their doors—"Kindly refrain from raucous outbursts," or "Quarantine, please leave affected persons alone and observe quiet rules so that the victims of studyitis may have a chance to recover"—they still feel that everyone hasn't yet learned the rules of living together. Those of us who still use the ennie-meenie-minie-moe system of choosing between the white, pink, and blue sign-out cards have a little more adjusting to do; but everyone helps the ignorant frosh who are trying so hard to swallow and digest the regulations which keep dorm life running smoothly.

Most of the freshmen girls in Selwyn Hall have become expert at interior decoration. Each has mustered all of her resources to make her room attractive and different. (That way, we're not a regimented group; all looking alike, dressing alike, living alike. The only uniformity was our frosh customs.) And the dorm women have been complimented on their faithful observance of freshmen duties.

Sometimes it's difficult to study. When the dorm is noisy and chaos reigns supreme, Dear Williams comes tapping on many a door with the polite, but firm, suggestion that we get to bed. Learning to say "no" when a neighbor invites a trip to the "drugstore" and there's studying to be done requires a strong will power. No matter what the hour, someone is always up, someone is always eager for a little extra extracurricular fun, someone has always done her studying and delights in distracting you from yours.

Despite the drawbacks dorm life is a part of college life, and no girl would swap it for a quiet, well-regulated home. Living in Selwyn Hall has done more to orientate freshmen women to college life than the entire planned program of dances, games, sings and hoe-downs. Life in Selwyn Hall is college to us.

Famous last words: Oh, don't worry. It won't fall.

A Day In Frosh Dorm

By James Still

"Shut off that alarm clock!"
 Thus another day begins at the Frosh Dorm North. Seventeen happy and cheerful looking young men tumble from their big comfortable beds. One by one they start the long and hard journey to their study rooms downstairs.

In a few moments the wash room is full of heavily bearded men, some who haven't shaved in a month and really don't need to. Eleven guys fighting for the three sinks in the second floor wash-room can present serious problems. Of course some poor "Joe" always attempts to take a shower when everyone else in the house is using the water. Maybe it's fun to get washed when the water comes in hot or cold spurts or stops altogether at other times, I don't know.

At 7:29 A. M. the "mob" heads for the dining room. After about twenty minutes they, the "intellegencia" of Albright, start returning to their rooms.

"Hey, Occupado, you have the German done?"
 "Yo, Fats, let me see the twelfth experiment, willya?"
 "How 'bout killing the noise you guys? I've got a test at nine-ten and I haven't begun to study yet."

The school day begins, and as some of our boys go bravely off to their classes, the others begin the job of straightening up. Beds have to be made and rooms cleaned. These are the two duties in which the occupants of the dorm take great pride and faithfully attend to every day. (Dean Smith, please notice!)

The day progresses and the continuous flow of men entering and leaving the dorm begins. Anyone living in the dorm will testify that, at one time or another during the day, about half of the male population of Albright spends some of their free time in the dorm.

About eleven o'clock that much anticipated cry resounds through the house,
 "Mail's in!"

Dreamy eye lovers pour out of their rooms to get the letters from the girls they left behind. All is quiet in the house as the fellows lose themselves in the romantic writings of sweethearts.

After lunch "nap time" is the order of the day. If you don't get a little sleep during the day, you're bound to fall apart, since it's unheard of around here to get a good night's sleep. At four-thirty the rush for the wash-room is on again. In little more than an hour seventeen handsome, well-dressed men are ready to leave for supper. (How they always manage to be late is beyond us.)

After dinner everyone settles down to study against a background of about twenty pairs of feet beating in time to some "mighty smooth" music. (Dean Smith, please overlook!) By eight o'clock all is quiet except for an occasional uproar. At nine, study time is over and the "Bull Sessions" become of prime importance. Soon weary young men turn their minds to sleep and one-by-one they break away from the group.

"Hey you guys, who short-sheeted me?"
 "Don't bother us. Go to sleep!"

About two o'clock the last of the fellows comes up to bed and quietness reigns. Sleep becomes the important thing in everyone's mind, and the end of another perfect day is at hand.

Science Slants

Have you noticed strange radiations emanating from the science hall these past two weeks? If you haven't, you're not very observant. They were the result of intense cerebral activity by Susie and Sammy Science-Hall struggling through rigorous schedules of their first tests for the semester. When the results are returned, the energy waves will be replaced by macabre flags of mourning raised on high above old Merner-Peifer Hall.

Rex Lord, who is a graduate of Penn State and is now taking some extra courses in Albright's biology department (how brave can the guy get?), had only two things to say after his first anatomy test. Quote, Holy smokes! Unquote. At least we know Rex is learning the appropriate vernacular for any aspiring (which coincidentally rhymes with perspiring) anatomist from Albright. We would like to ask Prof. Holtenbach a question since it is germane to his field. "Prof, is it normal, physiologically speaking, for general bio students to bleed so profusely after taking your tests?" Incidentally did you see the new pride and joy of the botany department? There have been installed two hydroponic tanks in the botany lab. Prof. Holtenbach says all you have to do is put in the essential mineral nutrients, stand back, and watch the plants grow. Being of the kind nature that he is, Prof gave the plants a break and threw in a few chunks of gravel so the plants would have something to stand on.

Then there were the horrifying shrieks that arose from the abysmal depths of the science hall basement, west end. There, as most people know, lies the physics lecture room. The general physics students got their first taste of what Dr. Merritt so cunningly calls "just a little quiz." Don't be angry you physics students. You should have known that phraseology depends upon one's frame of reference which, of course, varies with each individual. In converse to this fact, however, it is of scientific value to note that the phraseology used by the physics students after the test seemed to be based on a very unanimous frame of reference.

Now to get back to the category of strange sounds and energy waves. Over at Dave Geiger's bean wagon last week Jim Soules was insisting to some of his associates that he had heard recently some strange sounds in the upper atmosphere. Being fellow science students, Jim's buddies didn't want to harm him emotionally so they agreed with him and slowly and as unobtrusively as possible slipped away to discuss in muffled tones the possibilities of Jim's overindulgence in academic pursuits. This possibility was dropped with amazing velocity. The histology lab applauded his courage the other week when he very innocently asked Dr. Horn if he knew what the score was. With the sudden uproar in the lab Jim finally (and with much less innocence) finished the question by tacking on—between the Phillies and Yanks. What followed of course cannot be printed, but Jim has good reason now to hear these noises in the atmosphere.

We'll close this message with some straight facts. Two more senior pre-meds, Ron Romig and Bill Schaeffer, were accepted to med schools. This makes five to date.

LIONS FACE UNDEFEATED FOE TOMORROW

Cats Down Adelphi, Moravian In Last Two Grid Battles

Lions Even Record With Two Victories

The Roaring Lions broke into the winning column twice in the last two contests by conquering Moravian on Saturday, October 7, 20-12, and swamping Adelphi, 45-6, last Saturday night. The two wins evened the Cats record at two wins against two defeats for the season thus far.

Last Saturday's clash under the arcs was the first meeting of the two squads and proved a thrill for the 3500 cheering fans who watched the Cats roll up seven touchdowns and a net offensive ledger of 536 yards. After trailing early in the first period, the Lions snapped back on a TD by Billy Krohto from the one yard line and a successful conversion by Floyd Rightmire to take the lead. A pass, Rightmire to Bruce Tenley early in the second quarter for a score, gave the Lions a larger margin.

Sudol Ranks For First

The next touchdown was set up by John Sudol, who, with fourth and long yardage to go, faked a kick and raced 39 yards for a first down. George Rankin plunged from the one to give the Lions a 19-6 lead at the half.

A long aerial, Krout to Krohto in the end zone, following the second half kick, gave the Cats an even larger lead. Late in the same period Sudol intercepted a Panther pass and returned it 26 yards to the Adelphi nine. Three line bucks by Rankin scored the fifth TD. D'Apollito's two quick scores in the final quarter gave the Lions their ultimate winning margin of 45-6.

Cats Break Streak

The battling Cats broke their losing streak against the Greyhounds from Moravian. It was a hard fought battle with the Lions scoring their winning points in the last half after trailing through the first two periods. With only a few seconds in the first half remaining, Moravian drew blood with a 25 yard pass to Gensercer on the Albright five, another toss to Novogratz and a score. The extra point was missed by Gensercer.

The Lions roared back early in the third period with a twenty-two yard aerial from Rightmire to Shippe to tie the game. With two minutes left in the quarter, Rightmire tossed to Krohto who carried the ball 21 yards to the opponents' 2 yard stripe. Jay Sheralch then scored on a quarterback sneak. Blackey Weidman blocked a Greyhound kick in the last period, giving Rankin a chance to grab the loose ball and gallop four yards for the final winning points. Rightmire made two out of his three conversion tries good.

F&M Tickets on Sale For Saturday's Fray

Tickets for the Diplomats' game at Williamson Field in Lancaster will be on sale in Mr. Shirk's office today and tomorrow. The price for the tickets is a dollar for students as compared to a dollar and a half regular admission and will be in the Albright section of the stands on the fifty yard line. Kick-off time for those planning to make the trip to F&M territory is at 2 P. M.

Harriers Nab First Meet from Mules

Oppose Dips Tomorrow In Lancaster Fracas

Friday the thirteenth didn't prove at all unlucky for Albright's cross country team as they defeated Muhlenberg's harriers on the losers' course, 29-30, for their first win of the season. This revenged a similar defeat suffered by the Cats at the hand of Muhlenberg last season.

Tomorrow the Shirkmen are scheduled to face F&M at Lancaster in a meet run in conjunction with the football fracas at Williamson Field. Last year's meet with the Diplomats was won by the Lions' opponents, 15-50.

Things looked dark for the Lions at first in the meet with Muhlenberg as the Mules' Floyd Shupp and Richard Acker took first and second places in the four and four-tenths mile grind with times of 24:25 and 25:24. Charley Zellner was the first Lion to cross the finish line, taking third in 25:37.

Lions Nab Middle Spots

Muhlenberg's Clarence Moore copped fourth in 26:42, but fifth through tenth places went to Albright as six Red and White representatives crossed the line in a row: Mahlon Frankhouser, 27:00; Dick Flammer, 28:04; Dave Fulmer, 28:13; Jim Rokahtashel, 28:24; Don Long, 29:09; and Rae Hoopes, 30:15.

That totaled 29 points for the Shirkmen, and Mulemen Earl Ziner, in 30:46, and Lee Shortridge, in 31:09, finished eleventh and twelfth, thus giving the men from Allentown 30 tallies and Albright the meet by one point.

Lady Bears Trim Femmes in Opener

Coach Mosser's Lionesses' hockey season got off to a poor start last Tuesday afternoon here at Albright. Ursinus's second team romped all over the Lionesses running up the score to 10-0 by the time the final whistle blew.

Ursinus scored three of their goals in the first half and the remaining seven in the second period. The visiting team's outstanding player was their left-inner, Kurtz, who alone racked up four goals for the Lady Bears.

After losing 10-0 in their initial contest, the roaring Lionesses will travel to Kutztown tomorrow to compete in a hockey playday. The games start at 10:00 A. M., adjourn for lunch, and then continue into the afternoon. The girls will leave at 9:30 and will take 15 team members to participate in the games with Kutztown, Moravian, and Cedar Crest.

Daymen Head I-M Loop, Zetas Second After Three Weeks

Teams to Report Games To Athletic Office

LEAGUE STANDINGS

	Won	Lost	Tie
Daymen	5	0	0
Zetas	5	1	0
Pi Taus	3	3	0
AP0	3	3	0
KTX	2	3	1
Frosh House	2	3	1
Kappas	1	4	0
Soph Raiders	0	5	0

The aerial minded Daymen continued to lead Coach Bobby Hick's intramural football league after three full weeks of play. The unbeaten Daymen are followed closely by the once defeated Zetas who have one more game under their belts than the Daymen.

On Wednesday, October 4 the Pi Taus downed the sinking Frosh House 19-6 on the lower field while the Zetas were overwhelming the inspired KTX won their first game in four starts as they trounced the hapless Soph Raiders 27-0. At the same time, the Daymen were edging out a close 7-6 victory over the APO's.

Zetas Crush Frosh

The Zetas crushed the Frosh House 40-0 in their contest on Tuesday, October 9 while the up-and-coming KTX won their second in a row by a forfeit. Rain fell the following Monday, postponing the scheduled frays between the Kappas and APO's and the Soph Raiders and Daymen. These games will be played at a later date.

On Tuesday, October 11 the Zetas grabbed second place with a victory over the APO's, 27-6. The Frosh House and KTX were playing the first tied game of the season on the upper field. The contest ended in a 6-6 deadlock. The Kappas gained their first win on October 12 as they swamped the last place Soph Raiders. The same day the Daymen remained on top of the circuit by downing the Pi Taus 21-0.

Daymen, APO's Win

On Monday, October 16 the Daymen set back the KTX 14-0 in a hard fought battle while the APO's playing on the other field downed the Frosh House 12-0 in the afternoon tilt. Last Tuesday, the Zetas, fighting to stay in the race, whipped the Soph Raiders 27-13 as the Pi Taus crushed the Kappas 21-12.

In order to keep the records straight, all scores of contests in the intramural loop should be turned into Mr. Hicks immediately after the game. Scorekeepers should be appointed for each fray to keep accurate records of how and by whom the score was made.

F&M Diplomats Victorious In Four Frays; Albright Gridders Seek Third Win

Coach Sponaugle Boasts New Two-Platoon System Plus T and Split T Formations

Williamson Field in Lancaster, Pa., will be the scene of the Albright-Franklin and Marshall football contest scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at 2 P. M. as a part of the Diplomats' homecoming festivities. The Lions will be gunning for their third win in five games against the Dips who have emerged undefeated in four battles thus far. It will be the 21st grid meeting for the two squads.

The record for the 21 years of rivalry has been six wins for the Lions, 12 for the Dips, and two ties. Since 1941 both teams have won two contests each and two others have been tied while most of the other previous contests were closely fought. The Diplomats will be seeking revenge for a 7-0 loss suffered at the hands of the Cats last year in addition to a statesmanlike desire to extend their 1950 winning spurge.

The Blue and White's four victories have been over Lebanon Valley, 13-7; Johns Hopkins, 20-14; Dickinson, 7-0; and Western Maryland, 25-0. Outstanding in the Dips offensive attack have been such men as Jack Lowder, Wally Witmer, Bob Werst, Bruce Westerdaal, John Hartman, and such familiar performers as Herb Galebach and Irv Jiras.

Sponaugle Coaches Diplomats

Coach S. Woodrow (Woody) Sponaugle of Franklin and Marshall is again using the T and split T formations this year. He is assisted in his coaching duties by a brother, Boyd Sponaugle; George McGinness, assistant line coach; Bill Iannicelli, former F&M grid luminary as an undergraduate; and Roy Phillips. Coach Sponaugle has also inaugurated the two-platoon system for the 1950 season after having tried it successfully in last spring's workouts.

Heading the list of seniors on the Blue and White squad are co-captain Bobby King, Lowder, Bobby High, Bob Cordier, and Galebach, all of whom are outstanding backfield performers. Seniors up front are tackle Bill Pietche, and Hartman in the end position.

Leading Junior Performers

Among the leading junior performers are backs Bob Werst, Tex West, Frankie Millhose, Johnny Tullai, Steve Mischke, Bill Trimble, and Jiras. Senior line performers are Frank Beauchner, Jack Windish, George Shallcross, Russ Schelling, Dave Harr, Bob Hanum, Bob Crooks, Bernie Ebersole, Murray Miller, and Bob Zima. Sophomores who have broken into the lineup are Westerdaal, Paul Zeck, Charles Schlager, and Wensell Hower in the forward wall and Witmer in the backfield.

On Saturday, October 7 the Dips racked up their third straight victory following wins over Lebanon Valley and Johns Hopkins and a 7-0 nudging of the Dickinson Red Devils. After taking over the oval on their own 32 yard stripe in the second stanza the victors staged a 68 yard drive for their only paydirt of the fracas. Witmer, Lowder, and Werst were the spark-plugs of the Dips offensive drive which culminated in Lowder's plunging over from the two yard stripe. Galebach kicked the extra point.

Dips Shut Out Western Maryland

A third period pass from Werst to Westerdaal started the Blue and White on the road to its fourth straight victory in the 25-0 shut-out over Western Maryland. Touchdowns by Lowder, Jiras, and Hartman on a pass from Galebach finished the scoring in what had been a tightly fought first-half ball game. Tomorrow's contest promises to be quite eventful with the red-hot Diplomats seeking to maintain their perfect record thus far, and the Lions anxiously looking for their third win after tasting blood with Moravian and hapless Adelphi. The big Cats' claws will be well sharpened for the Dips biggest disappointment of the year.

Two Future Foes Remain Unbeaten

F&M, Scranton Score Wildly in Last Games

Two of Albright's five remaining opponents are still in the unmet and unscored upon ranks after four weeks of play. The two teams, Franklin and Marshall and Scranton, both won last week's frays by wide margins.

The Diplomats swamped Western Maryland, 25-0, last week in Lancaster before a 6000 Dad's Day crowd. Bruce Westerdaal, Jack Lowder, Irv Jiras and John Hartman accounted for the score. The week before, October 8, Franklin and Marshall edged out a 7-0 victory over the Red Devils from Dickinson. The Diplomats' lone TD was scored by Jack Lowder, who plunged from the two yard stripe.

Dutchmen Beat Mules

While the Flying Dutchmen from Lebanon Valley were idle last Saturday, they pulled a 20-13 upset against Muhlenberg the previous week. Although the Dutchmen led 13-0 at half time, they had to race against the clock with a 40 yard aerial from Lou Sorrentino to Dale Shellenberger to post their winning marker.

The Scranton Royals ran their total to four straight as they whipped Gannon, 34-7, at Scranton. Bill Newman continued to lead the Scranton backs in the rushing department. On October 8 the Royals upset Lafayette, 20-7, on outstanding passes by Lou Koval and Dan Shea.

Mules Upsét Leopards

After losing to Lebanon Valley, the Mules snapped back to hand the hapless Leopards of Lafayette their fourth set back of the season. Elmo Jackson scored two of the three TD's for the victors, one on a 61 yard sprint in the third period and another in the final minutes of play. Pete Dolley was credited with the other Mule score.

The Gettysburg Bullets were trounced by the Engineers of Lehigh, 49-6, at Bethlehem last Saturday. The Bullets' only score came when Joe Day intercepted a pass and galloped 86 yards to pay dirt. The Bullets led their previous game to the Drexel Dragons, 13-7. Again the Bullets' score came through the air on a 31 yard pass to Jack Schellhase.

There is one big omission in the athletic program here at Albright. That omission is soccer. Soccer is played by more people than any other game in the world, so why shouldn't we have it here at Albright as part of the athletic program? We are missing a great sport as well as a lot of fun.

For those of you who have never seen the game, it is played on a field about the size of a football gridiron. At each end of the field is a goal, twenty-four feet long and eight feet high. Eleven players are on a team, and these players try, using any manner of propelling the ball except the hands or arms, to move the ball through one of the goals. There are qualities of basketball in it, but it more closely resembles field hockey, which most of you have (or should have) seen the girls playing in the afternoons.

The physical requirements for soccer are few. All that is necessary is that you have two legs, a head, and, most important, something in between. Only one man on the team, the goalie, is allowed to use his hands. Unlike most sports, you don't have to be tall or heavy. The best soccer players aren't

Y's Induct Frosh Class

"These Things Remain" was the title of an inspiring talk given by Dean Allen at the Albright Chapel for the induction of the freshman into the Y.M.C.A.

In his talk he told of how today our homes and government are being shaken. He then enumerated the things that can't be shaken: God, moral and spiritual character, human personality, and the manger and the cross.

"God is sovereign over the universe," he said. "He has made us and it. The universe revolves around Him. He is basic and cannot be shaken. He will always remain."

In moral and spiritual characters value can not be shaken. Morals are there no matter what we do with them.

We have come to the realization we're important as a vital functioning unit of society. We believe humans are the most valuable things put here. The important things in the eyes of God are us. It is not easy to defend principles of the human race. The dignity of human personality can not be shaken—it will remain.

Standing alone the manger and the cross seem ridiculous; but, when united with Christianity, Jesus in the manger and the Incarnation of God and His Son's giving His life can not be shaken.

Induction ceremonies of the freshman into the college Y.M.C.A. followed. The program was led by Jay Shenk and Jean Magee, Y presidents, with president of the freshman class Dave Keller and secretary Lois Stockinger aiding.

On Tuesday, October 10 Percy Brown, chairman of the social responsibilities committee, presided over a stump-the-experts program held to give the freshmen an insight to the functions of college and its connections. Dr. Harry V. Masters asked questions with William A. Heck, Ralph Stutzman, Marilyn Himmelstein, Charlotte Winner, Robert Ruoff and Barbara Miller as the board of experts. Called on when the experts were stumped were Dean Ruth Williams, Dean Levan Smith, Prof. Clyde Harding, Prof. Eugene Barth, Miss Anna Benninger and Mr. Dean Moore.

Musical Arts Ensemble Entertains At Cultural Program on October 17

The Musical Arts Ensemble

Albright's series of cultural programs got off to a rather weak start with the presentation of the Musical Arts Ensemble on Tuesday, October 17.

The artists who appeared in the program were: Dieter Gombert, a young European tenor who has sung in this country and in Europe; Margaret Lukaszewski, a soprano, who has sung with the Chicago Concert and Opera Guild; Roberta Bobbe, mezzo, also from Chicago, and Robert Stengl, bass-baritone, who has sung with many choral groups throughout the country. Orchestra members were Richard Faith, pianist; Joan Sydlowski, violinist who has played with the Chicago Civic Orchestra; and James R. Decker, a clarinetist who studied at the DePaul School of Music. The marimbist was Margaret Ann Heath, who has toured for several seasons. Maxine Fallon was the petite danseuse, who has traveled with various road companies.

The program began with a medley of semi-classical songs: "Beyond the Blue Horizon" and "It's a Grand Night for Singing." A gypsy song followed, again performed by all the artists.

Mr. Decker then played "Dance

Joyeuse." This was followed with a marimba solo by Miss Heath, Bach-Gounod's "Ave Maria." The instrumentalists then played "Dance of the Comedians" from "The Bartered Bride."

The next part of the program was designated as a sort of "Opera Jam Session" in which most of the artists performed one of their own special acts. Included in this section were a violin solo; the quartet from "Rigoletto"; a ballet dance, "Dance of the Hours"; Joan of Arc's "Adieu"; the duet from "La Boheme" and a baritone solo from "Herodia."

It was unfortunate, but this program was not up to the usual standards of Albright's cultural programs.
