ROBIN HOOD IS THEME OF ANNUAL MAY DAY FETE

Customary Spring Pageant To Depict Marriage of Alan-a-Dale On Mohn Hall Campus Tomorrow Evening

QUEEN MARGARET REIGNS

Hear Ye, Hear Ye. See the May Day pageant tomorrow, the largest and most elaborate festival ever witnessed at Albright College. Gather round early friends, and get your seats and programs, for 5 o'clock will be here before you know it, and the long wavering train of beautiful maidens, and bold Robin Hood men and peasants and gypsies, and May-pole sprites will be wending their way over the campus to the throne, where will reign the Queen.

And then amid fitting ceremonies Queen Margaret will be crowned Queen of the May, and her courtiers will dance the minuet to celebrate.

But folks, you must watch closely on the morrow, or before you can say Jack Robinson, and before your very eyes you will find yourself in Merrie Old England, in Sherwood Forest with bold Robin and his merrie men, who are attending the wedding of Alan-a-Dale. Nor are Robin Hood and his men the only ones there—A wandering gypsy band will come, and some peasant boys and girls who will lighten the festivities of matrimony with their happy dances. Robin and his men, not to be outdone, will dance their own version of a Monie dance, in which young Robin will slay the fierce and fiery dragon.

The wedding ceremonies over, the dancers will retire—and the Queen is offered the May Pole dance, performed by sprites in many colored dresses, amid the tinkling of coins dropping into well filled baskets. Nor must we forget the jolly, jumping, jester, who will set the crowd rocking with laughter, or the wonderful orchestra who can play everything from the wedding march to the recessional.

The program will begin at 5 o'clock, and in outline form will be as follows:

- I. Processional.
2. Crowning of May Queen.
3. Minuet.
- II. The Marriage of Alan-a-Dale.
1. Peasants Dance.
2. Gypsy Dance.
3. Robin Hood and Men's dance.
- III. 1. May Pole Dance.
2. Recessional.

PRINCE RAPHAEL DELIVERS VERY INTERESTING TALK

Details About Manners And Customs Of The East Prove Educational And Decidedly Amusing

Perhaps the most interesting lecture ever given before the student body on the customs and history of the peoples of the East, was delivered last Tuesday morning in the College Chapel, by Prince Raphael Emmanuel. Prince Raphael is a descendant of the Babylonian dynasty that has held power over the Chaldean tribes since the days of Nebuchadnezzar. Being a native of Chaldea, the Prince was able to present orally, a very unique picture of the life of the Chaldeans, whose home has been between the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers, the site of the ancient garden of Eden.

The Prince gave his lecture in a manner that commanded the respect and interest of all his listeners. His native garb and dialect, plus his keen sense of humor, his friendliness, and his fine Christian character all go together to portray his dynamic personality. He is interested in literature and is very familiar with the works of such writers as Dryden, Spencer, Shakespeare and Emerson. The Prince is of Chautauqua fame and consented to visit Albright through the efforts of Dean G. W. Walton, in cooperation with C. F. Hartlage, who acts as Mr. Emmanuel's advisor during his stay in this country.

In his recent lecture the Prince told first of the peoples of Mesopotamia. This land is now occupied by Jews, Hebrews, Assyrians, Turks, Persians, Arabs, and Chaldeans. The Chaldeans are one of the three races that believe in Christianity. The three different religious sects: Jews, Moslems, and Christians necessitates the observance of three different sabbath days each week.

The Chaldeans are not only the oldest peoples in the world, but they are also the oldest Christian races. Their Bible, composed of portions of the old and new testaments, serves as their chief means of education. It is customary for every one to learn to read the Bible, as

JUNIOR ORATORICAL CONTEST HELD FRIDAY

Heiser, Sprague, and Kleinginna Give Speeches In Chapel For Annual Commencement Prize

Last Friday evening three members of the Junior Class, John Kleinginna, Terrance Sprague, and Benjamin Heiser, engaged in an oratorical battle in the college chapel. Each of the orations displayed preparation, and each was presented in a pleasing manner.

The prize of fifteen dollars is the gift of Charles S. Kelchner, for many years professor of modern languages and at the head of the Physical Culture Department of the college.

The judges were: Mr. Lubold, Prof. Dech, and Rev. Boyer. Their decision will not be announced until commencement morning.

CLASS OF '24 NOTICE

The presence of every member of the Class of '24, is requested at the Reunion to be held at Myersstown, Saturday evening, June 1st. All who can possibly be there please do so. A large turn out is looked for.

WINNER OF PEACE CONTEST

HELEN B. UHRICH

TAKES FIRST PLACE IN INTERCOLLEGIATE CONTEST AT TEMPLE

Once more has come to crown the noblest of one whom Albright has often honored before. Having won the local Peace Oratorical Contest, held on February 15th, with her oration, "Progress and Peace," Miss Helen B. Uhrich was made head of the Albright delegation, representing Poland at the Model League of Nations at Vassar College, and became eligible for the state intercollegiate Peace Oratorical Contest, sponsored by the Intercollegiate Peace Association; the contest for our state held this year at Temple University in Berry Hall, Friday, May 9th, at 1 P. M.

Having only the day before won the Albright student body in a breathless admiration while she delivered her oration in chapel on the "New Tomorrow," Miss Uhrich with the confidence and good wishes of all Albrightians attending her, could not disappoint them, and fulfilling their expectations, returned proudly, winner, having competed successfully with contestants from Swarthmore, Bucknell and Temple.

Two prizes were awarded, a first prize of $60.00, won by Miss Uhrich, and a second prize of $40.00, won by the Bucknell contestant. The judge was Rev. Dr. Benton, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Philadelphia Federation of Churches. Prof. A. M. Myer, of Temple, presided over the contest. The contestants and their orations are as follows:

Howard Westwood, Swarthmore—"World Peace."
Helen B. Uhrich, Albright—"The New Tomorrow."
James Williams, Bucknell—"Problems of Peace."
Albert Caplan, Temple—"War Psychology."

The winning orations in the state contests will be submitted for a national contest, the main factors in awarding the additional prizes of $60.00 and $40.00 being thought, composition, and originality, and Albright hopes again for honor to crown her own.

EAGLES MERE SUBJECT OF Y.W.C.A. DISCUSSION

Plans Now Being Made For Annual Summer Conference of Middle Atlantic Field District

The Y. W. held a short, but very important business meeting, last Tuesday evening. The subject under discussion was the coming Eagles Mere conference June 12-22, which is an Intercollegiate Y. M. and Y. W. Student Conference.

This beautiful spot situated on the Lake of Eagles, 2000 feet above sea-level, is often termed "unique Eagles Mere," and is defined as being without a like or equal; un-

The ceremony in which the two Albright units are united into one will take place in the Stadium at Reading, and will be a very colorful and unique performance.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB COMPLETES SCHEDULE

Current Season Ends With Three Concerts Over Weekend In Mt. Carmel And Pottsville

Leaving the campus Saturday afternoon the Girls' Glee Club completed their schedule for the current year with three concerts. The trip by bus brought the girls to Mount Carmel, where they gave a secular concert in the Evangelical church to a large audience, on Saturday evening. Sunday morning the club sang several selections and special numbers by members of the club were rendered in the annual Mother's Day service.

At 3 o'clock the group left for Pottsville, where they gave a full sacred concert in the church of that place, Sunday evening. The Girls' Club has met with success wherever they have gone during the entire season and the balanced accounts show that they are capable of accounting for themselves financially, as well as musically.

The club returned to Mohn Hall after the concert Sunday evening, and with a big Boom yell for Elmer, their trusty driver, the girls' trips ended.

The Club will appear in a home concert, Sunday night, when they render their sacred concert in the college church. The sacred program of the Girls' Glee is one of unusual merit, which warrants the attendance of all. They are looking forward to a full house, as there will be no admission fee—a silver offering will be lifted. The concert will start at 7 P. M. taking the hour

SENIOR CLASS TO PRODUCE PLAY IN CHAPEL

"The Whole Town's Talking" To Be Presented Tomorrow Night By Fourth Year Thespians

ADMISSION FIFTY CENTS

Some one has said that the test of the pudding is in the tasting, or something to that effect, meaning the same thing, namely, that in order to prove any previous statement as to the quality of a certain thing one must have the personal experience of indulging in its composition.

A few short weeks ago an announcement was made that the Senior Play, which is to be given tomorrow night in the College Chapel was going to be a thing very worth while hearing and singing. Now the matter has taken on an additional aspect in that the seniors claim that "The Whole Town's Talking" is going to be more than worth your while or time just as you prefer. At any rate the Bulletin is sure that you will miss something very entertaining if you fail to see this presentation of the Senior Play.

Tomorrow night will test whether or not you have ever seen anything better in your life, or heard a greater amount of "wise-cracks", or a situation such as John Emerson and Anita Loos (authors) arranged for the bashful, slow-witted, careless, Chester Binney. Who ever heard of a prize-fighter and a movie director combined into one person or a girl who insisted upon a man who had seen the world, as a husband? Was there ever a husband who did not "two-time" his wife to some extent for some reason or other and not get caught in the end? There are a thousand and one questions that might be fired at you that could not be answered. You will be able to answer them only if you see the Senior Class's production of "The Whole Town's Talking" tomorrow night, at eight o'clock in the College Chapel.

The man to your right is selling tickets, the band has started on the inside, the admission is only fifty cents. Let's go!

Bunched hits in the second inning, together with an error, and a walk and a single in the fourth inning gave Villanova three runs and a victory over the Red and White tossers, last Wednesday afternoon. Aside from those two innings neither team was able to score. Savidge for Albright, and Hensel for Villanova both hurled good ball, each allowing but five hits. Ford for the visitors and DeLuca for the home team shared the batting honors with two singles apiece.

A NEW ORDER

We are now, and mankind always has been living in a changing universe. No matter how stable, how unchanging things may seem, we must still admit that changes are taking place.

The old customs, old methods of carrying on civilization, everything old gives way at some time to the new. Then it is the duty of the new order to carry on the work of the old, trying to improve upon it, but not forgetting or disregarding precedent. However, in order that any enterprise might be carried on successfully, improvements must be striven for, a higher mark must be set and every effort put forth toward its attainment.

This is the goal set by the incoming Bulletin Staff. As the old order passes out and the new regime steps in, taking over the responsibilities and duties we know that an immense task lays before us. First we not only desire to measure up to the high mark attained by the former staff, but if possible, surpass their mark. To do this will mean an even increasing sense of responsibility and adjustment to our work.

Not only does it mean hard work on the part of the staff members, but cooperation from every one in school plus the help of our alumni and other subscribers. If we are to attain to our policies which appear at the head of this column we need your help. Read these policies, study them, learn what they mean, and having done this, if there are any suggestions which you have to offer be free with them. Do not ponder them in your heart. They will do no one any good there. Offer them to us, and we are sure that the Albright Bulletin will be bettered thereby. Remember, this is not the staff's paper. It is your paper and you have the privilege of helping to make it truly representative of Albright College, and her standards.

THE OPEN DOOR

The Open Door has in itself an individual message, not spoken in words, but its very gesture makes it a welcome to opportunity. What lies without we already know, the experiences by which we have profited, by which bitter pain has been borne, or happiness realized. But that which lies within, just beyond the beckoning silence of the Open Door is an unknown truth, it may be sorrow, it may be joy, it may be choice or it may be chance. Whatever it is, we cannot go back into the past, we cannot return in the present, we must pursue into the future, the field which lies open before us is large, opportunity reigns and we need but grasp it at every appearance, apply it to ourselves and add to the real values of life. These opportunities may be small and appear but trivial as compared to what we would seek, but by seizing them our resources become larger and in the time of need we can draw upon them with only the greatest and surest confidence. We are entering a land in which no person has dwelt, much preparation is being made for the entrance, anticipations and expectations are great, the realization will be equally as great, but there is a part for each of us to plan and a part for each to play. With this point in view we take upon ourselves the task where our worthy predecessors have left it, and as a unit we shall make ready our contribution, the Bulletin, to pass through the Open Door to the land of opportunity where dwells the Greater Albright.

::: CLUB NOTES :::

WRITERS' CLUB

The regular meeting of the Writers' Club was held Wednesday, May 8th, at 6:45 in Mohn Hall. The reading of the original articles contributed by the last group of new members taken into the Club constituted the entire program. Time would not allow all the articles to be read, but they will be heard in the next meeting. For the program of the coming meeting each member is to contribute something on the subject, "Once In A Blue Moon."

SPEAKERS' CLUB

Shall the Speaker's Club go out of existence, and turn over its duties to the Tau Kappa Alpha, national debating fraternity? This question was subject to a rather lengthy debate at a meeting of the club last Tuesday noon. The Club which takes care of all forensic activities as well as the oratorical side ensures a representative group, while at the same time it almost completely nullifies the activity of the T. K. A. In face of the more complete representation that the Club gives it was decided by a unanimous vote to carry the Club to the new Albright, where its fate would be decided on its usefulness. Officers were then elected. The President of the T. K. A. automatically becomes President of the Speaker's Club; so only a Vice-President and a Secretary-Treasurer needed to be named. Myrtle Wolf and Irma Stahl were elected to fill those respective offices. Since Schuyllkill has no definite student organization to take care of forensic activities both the Speaker's Club and the T. K. A. should be valuable.

FRATERNITY NOTES

SIGMA TAU DELTA

Observing the required membership pledge each member of Rho Beta Chapter recently submitted an article to "The Rectangle," official publication of the fraternity. From these the editors selected poems by Blanche McCauley and Haveling

McCracken, which have been printed in the May issue.

PI TAU BETA

The fraternity takes pleasure in announcing the active membership of Freshmen Clifford Colyer, Walter Hangen, and Harry Paul.

::: CAMPI CUBS :::

No longer shall we hear the prattle of Parakeet, for that bird is no more. Just as the old hero's of Albright have passed into memory, so will Parakeet pass into the memory of the present Albrightians with nothing but perhaps the remainder of hurt feelings or blighted pride to remember him.

Of course you have not heard some of the real latest news, and that is the purpose of this column. Won't Servey make a swell jester for the queen on May day. Which of us cannot see him—true to his own self—taking the part of the clown. Moral—fools are made not born.

Have you heard of the new campus organization? Not much dope can be procured about it, it is deeply enshrouded in mystery. I hear they are the Ooky Ookyreys, that is about all. Keep an eye open, watch for signs, they will certainly break the strain of secrecy soon.

Thoughts while strolling—Meet-foot's erect march and accuracy. Wray's immunity to the scoffs of the crowd, it must be love. Pat's IT, and, yes, Pat himself. Aspers peculiar ape-like antics. Melancholy sound of an ill-tuned banjo. Eva's annabinity. Reinhart's odd bray. Mr. Lubold's habit of thinking out loud. This campus will die if the next school is not co-ed. Dr. Chislett's shy form hurrying out of the public eye. Minnie's tri-daily walk. Sally who believes in looking hot, but keeping cool. Reitman's delicate laugh. Peckham's bald head. Mildred Wissinger's searching look, does she ever get tired writing notes? 'Red' Mib's bashful blush, or is it his complexion? Hoy's secrecy; did he really get a movie contract? Reynolds's half-dead look. Maggies' such love affairs. Kanouff's power over women. McGuigg's self-satisfying appearance.

well as one or two other sacred books.

One of the rather unusual characteristics of the Chaldeans is that they continue to live unmolested or uninfluenced by the progress of outside civilization. They travel on horses, donkeys and camels without the use of maps or written instructions, cut their wheat with the same kind of crude implements that were used centuries ago, and still cling to their old forms of amusements, such as wrestling, without any thought of installing such an amusement as is derived from a modern theatre. In brief Prince Raphael's talk was not only interesting, but it was also educational, and one that will long be remembered.

How do you get so much money from your husband?
Very easily, I just say that I will go back to my mother and he gives me my fare.

THE QUILL

THE FAIR—

Now come along
And join the throng.
Running, crowding,
Laughing, shouting,
Grumbling, stumbling,
Hurrying, scurrying,
Clattering, chattering,
Prancing, dancing,
Flushing, gushing,
Clapping, slapping,
Whirling, twirling,
Bumping, jumping,
Shrieking, screaming.
Never ending
Noises blending.
All at once, all is o'er.
Horns shriek, buses roar,
Lights glare, cops swear,
'Tis closing day of the county fair.

Apologies to Robert Southey's

FROM MY LAB. WINDOW

When looking from the window
Upon a scene so gay,
I wonder if some students
Do nothing else but play.

Now some I know are care free
And others just don't care,
Still others think of little
But of the co-eds there.

But then I am not working
And if the bell should ring,
I've only loafed, while watching
The campus in the spring.
—Nate Maslow '32

THE UNEXPECTED VISITOR

Not so long ago, the Albright campus shared in the curiosity of its students over an unexpected visitor. One of the students was so surprised that she exclaimed seriously, "Why he fell right down out of the sky," and to a certain extent she was right.

Mr. Stoner was the central figure in the affair, for one morning last week as he was walking thru the campus (this is his own story) he heard a sound of distress. Looking around quickly, his eyes caught sight of a gray, furry object on the ground near a tree. Going quickly to the animal's aid (for it appeared to be one, he said) he picked it up, and to his surprise found it to be a young squirrel about three or four days old. It appeared hurt. He looked over it, but saw nothing wrong. It continued to cry and Mr. Stoner, as he said later, felt so unimportant. It had fallen out of a nest in the tree above and was helpless. He could not and dare not frighten the rest, if there were any more, by placing it in the nest again so he thought of a better way.

He made a nest himself out of a box and placed cloth in it. The young fellow was content with this and lay there as though it was sick. Then Mr. Stoner, elated over its discovery must show the students. He carried it to the library and there showed it to the interested co-eds. They forgot their dignity and shed their sympathy by remarking in sorrowful tones that, "It was a shame," and "The poor little thing, wonder where his mother is?"

Mr. Stoner declared there should be more in the nest where this one fell out. Sooner or later, if there are any more, they will show themselves on the campus.

Mr. Stoner took the orphan-squirrel home and placed it in the care of Mrs. Stoner. For a few days it seemed to thrive on cow's milk. But just yesterday Mr. Stoner told me it died.

—Harold Reed '32.

THE INVASION

It was on a day in July of 1917, when a few friends and I were playing in the streets of Kamnetz, Russia. Everyone was going about his business, unmindful of any danger whatsoever. Up to this time everything had been quiet and peaceful. But suddenly, as if out of a clear sky, the loud roar of a cannon was heard, followed by a great many rifle shots. The streets soon turned into a turmoil. Children stopped playing and rushed into houses. Before I realized it I too was running home, a quick packing of necessities had already been started. My father then secured a wagon and put us into it. Meanwhile the roar of the cannon and the barking of the machine guns had been growing louder and louder. We could see the splattering of the shells as they hit the ground. The driver of the wagon picked out what he considered to be the safest road and drove for all he was worth until he brought us out of danger. When we were beyond the reach of the guns, I asked the driver as to the cause of the excitement. He told me that it was an Austrian invasion.

matched; unparalleled. Those who have attended these conferences readily agree that it is impossible to express the charm and beauty of the place. There are many points of difference, individuality and desirability found at Eagles Mere. One of the primary conditions is health; another beauty; and a very important essential is recreation which includes bathing, boating, walks and hiking, golf, tennis, bowling, baseball, etc.

But there are the added attractions. The main feature is the student conference, which belongs to the students and faculty of the Middle Atlantic Field. The needs, the emphasis, the program, the leaders are determined by student and faculty opinion throughout the area. Since last fall much time has been spent in planning this conference and getting new ideas for it. Some of them included in the program are: Addresses by able, sincere and friendly men and women of national and international renown; interest groups under expert leadership; conference worship; Lakeside singing—"in the evening by the moonlight." Then there will be, Informal Hours, Association Hours, Delegation Meetings, Appreciation Hours, Personal Conferences, Faculty Seminar and many other hours of interest.

We are hoping to have a good representation from Albright, and we feel that anyone who takes advantage of this opportunity will never regret it. Any further information may be gotten from any of the students who have attended previous conferences. Come on, let's go, and have a "peppy" good time!

for regular church services.

The Club's Rube

Sally again impersonates her dear friends. She announces she is about to take elocution lessons. Perhaps to prevent electrocution! But all the girls recognize her ability.

Who were the two young ladies "hopping" between Frackville and Ashland? And why? What was Jonesy's impression?

Flo and Jonesy had quite a time showing Leon that the pin Gladys had might be the property of some college man, huh? But after all—Flo got a kick out of it, didn't she?

Marty vamps one of Mt. Carmel's males, and is expecting some "mail." No not a man. He's the hostess's son, and just 10 years old.

Miss Sarah Varner is glad there isn't any quiet hour on a bus. Too bad she rooms next door to the proctor. All that's lacking is the "berths." Yes, she said so.

Why was so much ice cream passed around Sunday night? Since it was rum bisque anyone can easily see that our girls are strictly temperance, and advocates of W. C. T. U. principles.

Everybody likes Wetzels. No wonder! Cricket says they have a whole yard full of cows. Not so bad.

Rev. Gross regrets there wasn't enough time to have a baptism. Cricket is going to become "Special Delivery." But that's because Mike is so faithful.

Weiss and Sally have a delicious supper. Yes, potato cakes and Lebanon bologna. It was served under different circumstances and with no indications of Albright style, so they did quite nobly.

Little Eva rides to the concert in fine style. Yes, Henry sure knew his stuff. His last name's Ford, and he's a 1918 model.

Flora gets stage struck and thoroughly twists up her "lines" when she meets the admiring gaze of all her home folks. Boy friends—too.

All the girls burst into tears when Elmer went. For some of the unattached it means just another opportunity neglected and gone.

A. C. NINE LOSES THREE OF FOUR GAMES DESPITE GREAT FORM

the home boys, and would have been the winning hurler, had it not been for bad breaks against him in the sixth and seventh innings.

Two hits gave the visitors a tally in the opening inning, while the home boys tied the count in the second inning on doubles by Abel and Ford. Although Albright held Ursinus scoreless in the second inning it was a disastrous inning to the home team, in that they lost the services of Crutenden as a result of a foul tip, which split Stubby's middle finger on his right hand. It is likely that Crutenden will be out of the game for at least part of the remaining season.

A walk, two hits and two errors puts Ursinus three runs in the lead in the third inning. Another Albright uprising in the last half of the fourth netted four runs; four hits and a walk being responsible for the scores. Ursinus scored a pair of tallies in both the sixth and seventh innings. The first two were scored on a walk and two errors, while the last two were the results of a hit batsman, a walk, two stolen bases and a double by Young.

Albright rallied in the eighth to score two runs on a single, two walks, a hit batsman, and a sacrifice fly. The Red and White dented the rubber again in the ninth on Savage's triple, Karlip's walk, and an infield out by Ford. Karlip, who had stolen a second took third on Ford's tap to the pitcher and would have scored the tying run if Maslow had not been called out on a doubtful play at first base, for the final out of the game.

A peculiar incident of the game was that four of the six men granted free passes to first by Strickler managed to score. Savage, Abel, and Strickler each came through with two hits for the home team. Young with a double and two singles led the batting attack for Ursinus.

Who's Who at Albright

FRANK K. LEWIS, Jr.

In its Junior year, the class of 1929 increased its numbers by the addition of one Frank Lewis, transferring from Taylor University. His entrance meant also a swelling in numbers of the Cleric, as he has since affixed the worthy title "Reverend" to his name. Not having traveled with the class for the full length of its journey, we have not been able to know him as well as we would have liked, nor has he had the opportunity of entering into college activity to the extent many others have, but nevertheless he has been a staunch booster of the Red and White; and quietly, a friend to those who, like himself, have chosen for their Alma Mater, Albright.

Success has already smiled kindly upon his services rendered gladly in a noble cause, and in the future will continue to smile no less kindly.

Muhlenberg 4—A. C. 3

The jinx was still with the Red and White team at Muhlenberg on Saturday, and as a result they went down to another defeat by a one run margin. This 4-3 defeat marked the fourth time that our boys have lost out by one run. The wind and dust made the playing conditions very disagreeable, on Saturday, and probably was a cause for the setback.

Muhlenberg started the fireworks in the second inning by scoring two runs on two errors, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice. Vickery's double, an infield out and Clemens's sacrifice gave Albright a tally in the first half of the third. Savidge's wildness in the last half of the third filled the bases after Empe had tripled, but good support kept Muhlenberg away from the home plate, and no further scoring was done until the seventh.

In Muhlenberg's lucky seventh, Evans started off with a double. Jacobs grounded out to the pitcher and Kimble grounded out to third base, Evans taking third on the first of the two plays. Empe walked and went down to second on the next pitched ball. Kriesher sent a fly to left field, which Sprague muffed, and the two runners scored. Peckham was substituted for Sprague, Smith walked, but Karlip made a great stop of Spott's hard hit grounder to end the inning.

Clemens' double and Maslow's single to right field gave Albright another tally in the eighth inning. Muhlenberg went out in order in their half of the eighth. Karlip came through in the ninth inning with a home run to deep left, but unfortunately none of his mates were on base at the time. Ford

GLADYS JUNE PERRY

"Terry" is one of the commuters from Lebanon who ally themselves with the rest of the girl students in that popular organization, Chi Sigma. Tall, dark-complexioned, with a crowning mass of dark hair, she walks quietly over the campus, from class to class, mingling with her many friends, attending the many college affairs.

If among college affairs may be included those of the heart, there have been rumors—and even rumors must have some starting point. Also, Gladys is a member of the Lutheran Club and was for several years a very necessary member of her class basketball team.

Like many others, Gladys leaves us to enter upon a career of teaching, and her friends on the Albright campus wish for her, no less than for those others, Success.

grounded out to pitcher and Vickery flied out to Pascal. Peckham reached first on Pascal's error, but Strickler's pinch hitting for Brunner failed to come through. Pascal of Muhlenberg was the hitting star of the game with a double and a single.

Stroudsburg 2—A. C. 4

The Albright College baseball team added another victory to its list by defeating Stroudsburg State Teachers' College nine by a score of 4-2.

The game was fast played, each team playing a fast game, and both pitchers working hard for a victory. The team playing with Fritchman did not display the support that Savidge received from his team mates.

The first score of the game came when Barth the Stroudsburg short stop fumbled Karlip's grounder and Abel and Savidge crossed the "pan." The game went to the Red and White in the first inning when four runs were scored by Savidge, Abel, Karlip and Maslow. Nakaja was the only one to cross the home plate for the visitors, scoring both their runs.

Peckham and Paul played a good game in the field, while Maslow

DOUGLAS MONROE REINHART

Light curly hair, a determined chin; and a crisp businesslike voice characterize "Doug" fairly. Friendly, yet resolute and decisive, he impresses us immediately as being one upon whom responsibility can be rightly placed.

Reinhart has not taken active part in sports and college organizations, but unlike many, he has given his full support in other ways to Albright. Without boasting from the side lines or the knowledge of student backing, no team can win.

Coming to us from Harrisburg Tech, we found "Doug" a reserved young fellow, but those lucky few who have discovered the real man have found him much to their liking, witty, good natured, friendly, and interesting.

When Reinhart goes out from our Alma Mater, if Albright has done for him what she has done for those others gone before, the world can do no less than greet him as an Albright man, who serves the world as best he can.

Future Prospects

Prospects of winning from Dickinson tomorrow, and Mt. St. Mary's, next Wednesday look good, as far as past performances are concerned. Dickinson to date has received three reverses in three starts, two of these being via the shutout route. Swarthmore was first to apply the brush to MacAndrew's tossers, while Mt. St. Mary's duplicated the feat a couple of weeks later.

The scores in both of these games was close and indicates that Dickinson and Mt. St. Mary's are of about the same strength.

It is likely that Coach Smith will put his best combination in against Dickinson, which at one time was his Alma Mater. At any rate Johnny is reputed to have said that "the team will be all primed for tomorrow's battle." Dickinson's third defeat was a 16-4 drumming, administered by Temple.

Although a complete record of Mt. St. Mary's results to date have been unobtainable, it is known, that aside from their 1-0 victory over Dickinson they have lost a game to Lebanon Valley by the same score. We expect to beat Lebanon Valley, so there is no reason why the Red and White cannot take over teams that have lost to our old rivals.
