ALBRIGHT INSTALLS EXTENSION COURSES

STEP TAKEN IN RESPONSE TO NUMEROUS REQUESTS FROM PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS

The new program of education in Pennsylvania has made larger requirements of those who are teaching in the schools. By September 1, 1927, all persons who shall be eligible to teach in the high schools of the state must hold a college diploma or its equivalent. In response to appeals which have come, Albright has planned to offer courses which can be taken on Saturday forenoon. The instruction will be in charge of members of the college faculty. Professor R. F. Davenport, M. A., Principal of the Myers town High School, will assist and direct a course in Education.

College credit will be given to those who do work of college grade. The courses offered are as follows:

Department of Latin
Dr. Gobble

Latin—Virgil, Cicero, Livy, Ovid and Horace will be offered, and if classes of a sufficient number apply, efforts will be made to provide instruction in other Latin branches.

Department of Economics
Dean Bowman

Department of English
Professor Keller

History of American Literature—This is a thorough study of the development of our literature from its beginning to the present time. Special emphasis is given to the outstanding American writers. Reading extensive supplementary material and submitting notable passages make the course practical and interesting.

Department of Biology
Professor Walton

The following are courses which may be carried without laboratory work:

Hygiene—a series of practical discussions of Bacteria and Disease, and of the relation of Food, Water, Air, Exercise, Personal Habits, etc., to Health.

General Biology—a consideration of the fundamental Principles of Biology, and of the Forms and Functions of Life as exemplified by representative plants and animals.

Geology—a systematic study of the theories of the development of the solar system, and of the continents, oceans and atmosphere on our own planet; of the growth of our North American continent, and the successive appearance of plant and animal life through geological time; and of the dynamical forces at work on our continent with their results in the formation and modification of rocks and physiographical features.

Department of Education
Professor Davenport

The course is planned not only to offer the teacher work in education of college grades but to be of much practical value in solving the problems which arise in public school teaching. Although the course will follow the plans suggested by the state department with the principles of education as a basis, the exact nature of the course will be determined by the faculty.

BULLETIN FINALLY GAINS HEADQUARTERS

Through the efforts of President Hunt and several other members of the faculty, the Bulletin is prepared to carry on its work in a more systematic way. Room 9 on the first floor of the studio has been assigned to the staff as a Bulletin Office. A typewriter has been purchased and the room has been fitted out in office appointments. Within a short time the staff hopes to install an up-to-date filing system.

We take the opportunity of expressing through these columns our appreciation of this kindness on the part of the faculty.

FOOTBALL SQUAD OF 1922

CHANGES ARE MADE IN FACULTY SCHEDULE

Some of the interesting changes in the courses at Albright occur in the Departments of Education and History. Professor Benfer has taken over some of the history work, thus releasing Professor Zener for the additional courses in education that have been imposed by the State Department of Education. Several members of the senior class have been supplied with teaching positions in the Preparatory School, and arrangements have been made so that those not thus supplied, may be connected with the teaching staff of the local high school. The latter will get credits for laboratory work in the Department of Education. Professor Zener has taken work during the past summer at the University of Pennsylvania to further prepare himself for the more intensive work in his department.

CONVENTION

Interesting and inspiring from beginning to finish were the sessions of the convention of the East Pennsylvania Federation of the C. E. and S. S. held in the college church during the week of September 25th. Splendid co-operation between the college and townspeople made the visit of the delegates and speakers a most delightful time. A number of the delegates were entertained at Mohn Hall and Old Main, and all meals were served in the College dining room. On Tuesday evening a get-together social was held in the reception hall under the direction of Prof. Benfer.

ALBRIGHT WINS EASY VICTORY FROM JUNIATA ON HOME FIELD

If Albright seemed to have leaped back to the old days of "moral victory" in the encounter with F. and M. on the Williamson gridiron, it must be accounted for in a way other than for want of pep and support. Not for many years did a game have such loyal support as was manifested at Lancaster. The student body turned out, it may safely be said seventy five per cent strong; alumni turned up in twos and threes until quite a surprising group of them had appeared; and town people motored over in large numbers, which proves just how strong they are backing Albright.

Varied were the methods used to get there. Nobody seemed to care unduly how—the only thought was to get to that game. Many fellows turned into "Stars of the Dusty Road"; some went by train; the band which made its initial appearance of the year, journeyed by truck; and two other large trucks carried over large loads. "Pecks of fun" is what describes the whole trip. We carried our cheer leader "Rip" along and his spirit was contagious, for our cheers fairly rang over the field. Hard luck and defeat could not dampen the enthusiasm, for after the game we cheered our glorious team with more pride than ever.

Hard luck will come once in a while.

PROF. MACK LEADS SINGING IN CHAPEL

On Tuesday and Wednesday mornings of the C. E. and S. S. convention the delegates met with the students in the morning chapel service.

Prof. Mack conducted the singing. He is a leader of remarkable ability and captivates his audiences with his sparkling wit and humor. Prof. Ackley presided at the piano. Both

STRAIGHT FOOT-BALL IS TEAM'S ONLY POLICY IN SECOND GAME OF THE SEASON

RED AND WHITE LOSES FIRST GAME TO F. & M.

Myerstown, Pa., Sept. 30, 1922.

Albright College defeated Juniata this afternoon by the score of 34-0. Coach "Haps" Benfer used virtually every available substitute in order to save his men for the game at Dickinson next Saturday. Straight football was used thruout the game, so the scouts from Dickinson were unable to gain information regarding Benfer's trick plays.

The first score came within three minutes of play. Albright kicked off to Juniata who fumbled, and Albright recovered the ball. On the second play Morrison went over. Miller missed the extra point when his kick went wide. Juniata played her best football in this period, carrying the ball from the 35 yard line within a foot of the Albright line, only to lose it on downs. Albright kicked out of danger.

The second period started with the ball on Juniata's 45 yard line. After three tries, Donelson threw a pass to West, but he was stopped without a gain. The ball see-sawed back and forth across the field until near the end of the period when Morrison intercepted a pass and ran for 60 yards. After two first downs Saltern carried it across. Miller added a point by kicking a field goal.

The third touchdown came as the result of a fumble by Juniata, and Hollenbaugh's 20 yard run around end. Miller kicked a field goal for the extra point. The teams lined up after the kick off with the ball in Juniata's possession on the 30 yard line. Donelson was forced to kick. After four first down Miller went off tackle for a touchdown. He also kicked the field goal.

The final score came in the last period with only two of the Varsity in the lineup. Successive line plunges by Derr, Christ, and Ed-

REV. SCHANTZ SPEAKS IN COLLEGE CHAPEL

WELL-KNOWN NATURALIST AP-
PEARS UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE SCIENCE CLUB

On Monday evening, Oct. 2, Rev. E. Schantz, of Schaffers town, gave an address in the College Chapel under the auspices of the Albright Science Club. His theme was "How I began my Bird Studies." Rev. Schantz is a graduate of a Kansas College and of Gettysburg Theological Seminary. He spent several years in Geological and Botanical work along the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers, and in the Rocky Mountains. While he was yet in college, he worked on such an extensive scale that at one time seven-eighths of the specimens in the College museum were of his finding. Since that time he has made many contributions to museums in Philadelphia and New York.

In a very interesting manner, Rev. Schantz told how, thru reading Thoreau's books on nature study, as well as books by other authors, he was finally brought to a love for birds, and a study of their habits and habits.

This highly interesting and instructive address together with the manifestly great personal enrichment the speaker betrayed, should go a great way toward inculcating in all those who were present, a desire to learn more of nature and her ways.

Rev. Schantz showed great enthusiasm in presenting his theme. He manifested warm love for the study of nature, a fact which doubtless accounts for the breadth of his scientific knowledge along this line.

The lecture was well attended, both by students and by members of the faculty. This interest on the part of all augurs well for the success of the club during the year, as does also the fact that at the close of the lecture the following names were proposed for active membership: Miss Helen Wagner, Miss Isabel King, Glen K. Raffensberger, Donald McFall, William Roland, Newton D. Miller, Edmund Andrew, Chas. McHose and Raymond Barnhart.

The Science Club met last week for re-organization. The following were elected as officers for the first semester: President, Frank Kyle; V. President, David L. Hoffman; Secretary-Treasurer, Edgar N. Bahney.

SENIORS ENTERTAIN FACULTY AND STUDENTS

A most delightful entertainment was given to Faculty and students on Thursday evening, September 28, when the Seniors held their annual reception in Mohn Hall Social Room. The evening was wholly informal and offered splendid opportunity for all to become acquainted.

Games and guessing contests occupied part of the program and formerly unheard of musical talent was displayed by the presidents of the four classes, and later by the secretaries in extemporaneous singing. Splendid assistance was lent to the Seniors by their class cousins, the Sophomores. The girls decorated the Hall, using the colors of '23, black and gold, in a novel way, and in the evening served the refreshments.

DR. HUNT GOES TO GENERAL CONFERENCE

IT'S UP TO YOU '26

Now that each Freshman has discovered to a greater or less degree, the niche he is to fill and enlarge during his life at Albright, an attempt to clear up some of the common clouds of the Freshmen world might be timely.

First of all, it is vital that each one of you, discover and accept for himself the fact that his niche is not one unto itself but a mere part, and a minor part at first—of the social unit of the institution. Failure to learn and take cheerfully this fall. Your failure or unwillingness on this score will bring upon you, the anathema of "fresh" and "Doesn't know his place", the most scourging epithets of school life. The common failing of the "Fresh" to learn his lesson from the very beginning has brought upon all, the universal custom or system of hazing at the very opening of school. Due to action of the faculty you are this year to escape this form initiation. It is for you to take your lesson to yourself without that gentle reminder from upper classmen. You have come from the rather limited circle of home life into a social life of unlimited scope, should you choose to make it so. It is up to the class of '26 to prove its metal.

The demands made upon you at Albright are by no means excessive. What is more, they are not made out of an unfriendly disposition on the part of upper classmen. At this place class distinction is a matter of name rather than of reality. It should be a matter of pride for you to render upon classmen the little courtesies requested of you. It is only a little and just return for the kindness and patience shown toward you upon your arrival here. The demands made upon your services are purely friendly, and will surely not tax your strength. Neither are the Freshmen rules likely to break your proper pride and self-respect. The upper classes have started out in a spirit of friendliness toward you. Your willingness or unwillingness to abide by the course laid out for you, will determine whether it is to remain so or to turn into animosity. Your attitude toward school life will make you either one of us from the start or irretrievably an outsider. It is up to you.

You have entered a new Albright, a better-equipped and larger Albright than any upper-classman had the fortune to enter. We are watching eagerly to see you "take hold". We are only too anxious that you step into line from the very beginning. Are you going to be one of us from the beginning or are you going to be an outsider? It is up to you.

NECESSITY FOR BLEACHERS

The home football game on Sept.

30th revealed a dire need at Albright. Anyone who was present at the game took cognizance of the fact that the cheering was of unusually poor quality. Many of the students placed the fault upon the cheer leaders. Others placed the blame on the students. However, any wide-awake person easily discovered that these were not the primary causes of ineffective cheering. The cause is this; we have no bleachers. Effective cheering can only be accomplished when the students are seated in a group. The cheer leaders can do their utmost, but all will be in vain if they have a scattered group with which to work. On the other hand, the students can cheer until their throats are sore, but all will be fruitless if their is no unity in the cheering.

One might say that the students are at fault; they do not congregate in one solid body. This, however, is an unjust accusation. We can not expect the students to form one group; for if they did, those in the rear of the group would be unable to see the game. It would be unreasonable to expect them to form a "Caesar's phalanx". The natural tendency is for the students to scatter along the side lines so that they can see the game.

It is true that Albright had to be ashamed of the cheering at the last home game. There was absolutely no apparent "pep" shown by the students. We can not hope to have a winning eleven unless the students support the team with continual cheering.

The students, who traveled to Lancaster—F. and M. game, will recall the thrilling cheering which came from the F. and M. bleachers. There was a united group sending out a volume of cheers which thrilled every listener. Such, however, was only produced because the students were collected into one solid mass.

Therefore, the only way by which this fault can be remedied is by the erection of bleachers on the athletic field. It is a matter of no small trouble in producing good cheering. As it is, we can not expect much "pep" from the students as far as cheering is concerned.

ALBRIGHT DEFEATED BY FRANKLIN & MARSHALL

Myerstown, Pa., Sept. 25, 1922. Albright was defeated by F. & M. on Saturday, Sept. 23, under a sweltering sun by the score of 23-2. Both coaches used virtually all the substitute material available in order to secure the strongest combinations possible.

The first score came in the latter part of the first period after Albright had made several consistent gains. The ball was passed to F. & M. line. F. & M. finally braced themselves and forced Zeigler to punt on the 45 yard line. Capt. Barr of F. & M. blocked the punt which rolled toward the Albright line. Williams finally fell on the ball back of the goal line. The teams lined up for the first try for point on the 5 yard line, and Yohn the quarterback booted the ball between the posts. During the rest of the period the teams exchanged punts with the honors about even.

In the second period Cragin ran back Zeigler's punt to the 45 yard line where Yohn tossed a forward pass to Bassett for 15 yards. After 2 passes failed, Yohn dropped back for a field goal, but it fell short. Albright was penalized 5 yards for being off side. On the next down Yohn fell back to the 30 yard line for another drop kick, and this time it fell true.

Albright received the kick at the beginning of the third period. After an exchange of punts F. M. centered their attack on the Albright line. After two first downs, Cragin threw a pass to Bassett for 15 yds., four rushes carried the ball across. Cragin carrying the ball. Yohn kicked a field goal for a point.

Albright made its only score when DeHaven substituting for Paine, passed the ball over Cragin's head back of Albright's goal. Cragin tried to run the ball back, but was thrown back for a safety. Don Cragin went over for the final touchdown after both teams had practically a second team in the lineup. Yohn failed to kick the goal after touchdown.

A large number of rooters, including the band, accompanied the team, and supported the team in a remarkable style. During the intermissions the old "BHOOM YELL" could be heard above everything else, and even after defeat the band played as well as ever.

COLLEGE NOTES

An Irishman would find Albright a place after his own heart right now. You know the Freshmen have at last received, and are wearing their green caps. We hope the sun won't be hard on them, for the shade of the green is so expressive.

The other night Bertha Hartman burst into Mary Woodring's room and asked if she could get "lit-up". Oh, no, don't be misled as to Bertha's purpose. You see the lights had already been shut off for the night, and Mary was studying by candle light. Bertha merely wanted to light her candle.

Some one wittily remarked the other day that hunting season had begun at Albright. This does not mean that the campus has been turned into a game preserve. It merely means that the tickets for the annual Star and Premier Courses are on sale.

Mail for Fred E. Luckenbill is now being delivered to room 1 at Mohn Hall. In case this information is uninteresting without explanation, we volunteer that Anna Mengel resides there.

Among week-end visitors of September 30, were the Kaltreider family of Red Lion; Miss Della Geist and Willard Mengle '17 of Trevorton; Miss Edith Trostle '22 of Shillington; Albert Henninger '22 of Pine Grove.

Among recent improvements in the dormitories is that of the old reception room of Mohn Hall. The furniture has been retouched, the floor has been polished and new rugs laid, and the room in general presents a tasteful and pleasing arrangement. The floor lamp presented by the Phi Delta Sigma alumnae society has been placed there.

On Sunday evening, Oct. 1, Dr. Bauman delivered an instructive and inspiring lecture based on his travels in the Old World. He traveled extensively thru Europe, the Holy Lands and Egypt. He graphically portrayed the conditions in the Near East. He visited many places of Historical and Biblical interest. The local U. Ev. church was well filled. Many town people attended the lecture.

LITERARY CONTEST

A new feature is to be introduced into the Thesmanian Literary Society this month, so as to give a change in the order of the programs.

The girls are divided into three groups, each group to present a literary program from the works of Browning, Shakespeare, and Tennyson respectively.

Each group has elected the seniors of their group as captains. The programs will take the form of a contest, each group endeavoring to present the best program. The programs themselves may take any form—whether, usual, that of a musical program, or a sketch.

The morning after Senior Reception "Red" Otto complained of having a sore arm.

Miss Neist: "I suppose you used your arm too much last night."

Otto: "Oh, no, I was with Mr. Lackey."

Miss Neist: "Why, is he different than Mr. Miller?"

NECOSMIAN

The second meeting of the Neocosmian Literary Society was characterized by the same amount of spirit as the first. With some of the best material from the new men joining our society, the outlook for the coming year is very good.

The following program was given. Current events.....Davis

Y. W. C. A.

On Sunday evening, Sept. 24, the Y. W. C. A. held its recognition services in Mohn Hall reception room. Miss Faust, the "Y" President was in charge of the meeting.

Each new girl was given a lighted candle, and in the candle light the President read the legend of "The Abbess of the Glowing Light." This little story was a stirring appeal for loving service toward our fellow men.

All the girls then read in unison the purpose and meaning of the "Y", and pledged themselves to faithful and active membership. The service closed with prayer.

The meeting of Oct. 3 was in charge of Miss Garlach, who gave a very interesting talk on the phases of the "Y. W." work in France.

AN who motored to the F. and M. game thoroughly believed in the lines "Dust thou art, to dust returneth."

The weather here has been very dry and yet the Freshmen report heavy downpours over very limited areas.

Speaking of dry weather, when a dark cloud appears on the horizon we don't know whether its an approaching storm or Manney out taking a hike over the country roads.

In spite of the fact that the railway shopmen are out on a strike, there was some excellent railroad-ing done at the recent class elections.

The Broom Yell at the Juniata game under Shewell's leading seemed to be a race to see who would finish last.

The incoming Freshman class has its share of those "Women of very few words—unspoken."

TOWN NOTES

On Thursday evening, Sept. 30th, Dr. Finegan, in his address before the Parent-Teachers Association, made special mention of the play grounds which were conducted during the summer under the direction of Miss Groh. He stated that he would place some pictures of the children at play and an account of the playground in his annual State report. Prof. Davenport is to be commended on his up-to-date administration of the local schools.

Coming back to Myerstown, many of us were pleased to see Mr. Harry C. Koller in charge of the Myerstown Post Office. We congratulate Mr. Koller in his new position.

A large sign bearing the name of Bookers now adorns the front of the Coover house on Main St. Mr. Booker recently took over the Holtzman business of sodas, ice cream, candies, etc., and solicits a share of the public patronage. We are indebted to him for a little red and white folder of the 1922 football season. We wish him a prosperous business.

Saturday afternoon was a gala day in the history of the Liebovitz employees. The members of fourteen other factories met on the recreation grounds to celebrate the second annual outing given by the employees. Mr. Harry Liebovitz from New York City was present for the occasion. The Fredricksburg band and the famous Acme band furnished the music. Prof. Zener led the community singing. Prof. Davenport and G. H. Moyer were among the speakers. Refreshments were served to over two thousand people. An extensive athletic program was carried out under the direction of Johnny Zinn. The grounds were tastefully decorated under the direction and courtesy of R. D. Spangler. It is understood that the concern is contemplating extensive building operations and improvements.

THE CLERIC

On Monday evening, the Cleric met for re-organization. The election resulted in the following being chosen as officers for this semester.

Pres.—Myron A. Teter.
 V. Pres.—C. E. Kachel.
 Sec.—Russel Goodhart.

Y. M. C. A.

On last Tuesday evening a very enthusiastic and well attended meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the College chapel. The President, Ray B. Lackey presided. Prof. Zener, local Y. Secretary, gave a practical and inspiring address on the theme "Degrees". He spoke not only of degrees representing intellectual attainments, but also of those degrees (benefits) derived from every phase of college and life activity. Other faculty members in attendance were Prof. J. A. Heck and Prof. W. S. Eisenmenger.

Lina Bertolet (after joint Y. M. and Y. W. meeting) I think the Y. W. is more loyal than the Y. M. Why, the Y. M. doesn't even turn out when the meeting's held right under their beds.

THE NECESSITY OF A CHRISTIAN COLLEGE FOR THE AMERICAN YOUTH

Again, the nation must be upheld by the best statesmen possible. But what constitutes a statesman? High and righteous principles applied to character building from the cradle to the university. The young men of America need all the restraint of a stalwart faith to hold them to the steady path of the statesman rather than leave them to tread the perilous ways of the demagogue.

Further the prosperity of the nation lies in the hands of the well-balanced christian men. The Christian college yields larger returns for the investment of the man of wealth. He invests gold that he may produce power, righteousness and character. So, with the prosperity of the nation in such hands it is bound to be safe.

My third argument is based on the fact that, "Every Interest of the Church Demands The Christian Colleges as never before." The progress and even the very existence of the church has depended very largely upon her institutions of higher learning. The world today needs men who shall furnish a great leadership in the reunion of religion and education in the spirit of the great Educator, Jesus Christ, and a larger, truer, vision of the fundamental necessity of religion to education on the part of Christian men, who live and labor in the faith of the coming of the Kingdom of God on earth.

The Protestant churches, one-fourth of the population of the United States, furnish most of the students in all the colleges and universities. The presence of these multitudes of Christian students in our colleges and universities is a challenge to the churches they dare not ignore. The youths of today are eager to respond to the call of service, and when the church becomes as faithful in teaching the value of Christian institutions, as the public schools have been in fostering patriotism, she will get the same response from her youth.

We need, today, a mighty army of godly men who will be the forces of the highest intellectual, moral, and spiritual culture, will push forward the conquest of Christ's kingdom. If we are going to have a hearty and intense enthusiasm for God and humanity, the sacred glow must be kindled in the hearts of our young collegians. If we are going to send out into the world, cultured men and women, with high ambitions and lofty ideals, to work and witness for Christ, our colleges must be the nurseries of the highest Christian life and the home of education.

Every year adds to the imperative demands upon the church and Christian ministry, more forceful, perhaps, than any other class of people. If the church is to hold its own in the advancing civilization of the age it must supply a ministry thoroughly armed and equipped to answer the need of today's call. The demands for such Christian leaders far exceeds the supply. Statistics have proved that the church schools provide a large percent of such men. For instance, from two to eight or ten per cent of the male graduates of the state institutions are fitted for the ministry, while from thirty to thirty-five per cent of the male graduates of a Methodist Episcopal school are candidates. This proves that if church institutions were to be abandoned, the cause of Christ would soon fail, due to the lack of laborers. The church's duty, moreover, does not lie alone in providing ministers to preach the gospel, but it must also create men who can counteract the impending evils of the day. Can we expect any college but a Christian one, to furnish such leaders? When inter-denominational schools have professors who even question the divinity of God, how can we expect their products to be reconstructionists in this world of evil? I say that if the Church wishes to extend her gospel, and if the world at large is to be bettered, it requires a Christian college to educate men fit for the task.

I have thus proved that a Christian institution is both a necessity and an advantage to the present day American youth because it protects him as an individual, it makes his service to the state and nation a real one, and it is a necessity to the church in order to keep the youth in moral fitness for her tasks. So the duty of each church, today, is to strengthen her institutions so that they may advance in their noble work of training men in their efforts to make this world safe for democracy and more like the world which Christ would desire us to live in.

In the presence of a large number of invited guests, there was solemnized, August 24, 1922, in the United Evangelical Church at Somerset, Pa., the marriage of Prof. Carl H. E. Hoffman, of Bangor, Pa., and Miss Ruth A. Varner, of Somerset, Pa. The wedding was most beautiful and elaborate. Mrs. H. A. He was formerly a student at Albright, and is a graduate of Juniata College, class of '22. The bride, a member of the class of '19, Albright College, is the daughter of Mr. Miles A. Varner, one of the trustees of the institution, and Mrs. Varner.
Prof. and Mrs. Hoffman are residing at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., where the groom is Coach of Athletics and Professor of Mathematics.

Albright is well represented on the faculty of the High School at Nesquehoning, Pa. Prof. Walter B. Henninger, '15, during the last summer, accepted the position of Principal of this High School. Miss Ruth K. Sutton, '21 also accepted a position this year as teacher in the same school, and Prof. W. J. Spangler, '21 will enter upon his second year as a member of the teaching staff.

Boyer, '09, father of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Boyer are residing in Mansfield, Ohio, where Mr. Boyer is head of the Department of Mathematics in the High School.

Prof. Roy M. Smith, '12, and Miss Edna F. King, were united in marriage at Cairo, Iowa, on Aug. 31st. They are residing in Lemars, Iowa, where the groom is occupying the chair of Public Speaking and Debate in Western Union College.

Mrs. Mariah H. Bierly, '63, was married during the past summer to Rev. Noah Young. The happy couple are making their home in Port Trevorton, Pa.

FRESHMAN POEM

Jessie Statler '25
This is the time of the year when Freshmen enter,
Because they are new, old minds on them center;
We lend them a hand before it's too late,
And give them some pointers to keep them straight.

Of course, you know you are tied to our strings,
Bound to hop when the summon-bell rings;
Every task we kindly ask you to do,
Yours is the chance, you must take it too.

Up in the morning at half past four,
To our rooms that minute soar;
Pull down our windows on a frosty morn;
Waken the sleepers at six-thirty born;
Make our beds; tidy our places;
Then it's time to save us spaces,
In the bath room to wash our faces;
Be as swift as wings in races;
See that we are all in trim;
Then to your room, you must go;
Do like wise as you've done to us;
Do it all, never bear a fuss.

When meal hours come, it's up to you
To dish the food and save the few,
For the server always takes the last,
And tries to serve the eaters fast;

Never sit sideways or a little stray
On the corner of your chair in the dining lay;
Always sit straight not a curve in your back,
Change not position if food you lack,
Just sit on till we've finished our stack;

Don't complain if you have no pack.
When the meal is over and your stomachs bare,
Go to your classes, do not care;

When evening comes, your duties ne'er cease,
Visit each room and there make peace;
See that each girl has found her books;
Has gotten her work and fine in looks;
