RED AND WHITE TO BATTLE GEORGETOWN U. TONIGHT

REPORT INDICATES 16 PERCENT ARE HONOR STUDENTS

Pi Tau Beta Frat Leads Male Groups; Senior Women and Pi Alpha Tau Head Women's Groups

A study of the grades for the second semester 1934-35 shows that 16% of the student body earned a position on the Semester Honor List by maintaining a rating of above B+ (2.0) during the semester. The eleven members of the class of 1936 who have earned this honor rating will be given the privilege of voluntary class attendance during the first semester of the current college year.

With group averages of 2.24 and 2.25 respectively, the women of the class of 1935 and the Pi Alpha Tau sorority took first places among the class and social groups of the college.

While eleven Seniors, eleven Juniors, twelve Sophomores and fifteen Freshmen were presenting work of honor grade five Juniors, eight Sophomores and twenty-three Freshmen were unable to maintain the minimum quality rating of C- (3.70).

The Semester Honor List (ratings above "B-"):

Class of 1935: William Basom, Red Lion; Newton Danford, Camden; John T. Deininger, Reading; Madge Dieffenbach, Reading; Paul Fye, Portage; Betty Goldberg, Reading; Elliott Goldstein, Reading; Jean Goodling, Glen Rock; Eva Jones, Wilkes-Barre; Alfred Kuhn, West Reading; and Donald MacLeod, Reading.

Class of 1936: Marjorie Beglinger, Crafton; Dorothy Dautrich, Reading; James Doyle, Reading; Kenneth Erdman, Reading; David Fields, York; LeRoy Garrigan, Reading; William Harris, Allentown; Margaret Maurer, Reading; William Moffett; Elizabeth Williams, Mount Penn; and Louise Zener, Reading.

CUE STAFF

Charles J. Moravec, editor-in-chief of the 1937 "Cue," has selected the following members for his staff. John S. Kline will be business manager; William Trostle, circulation manager, and David Hintz, advertising manager.

Instead of having only one associate editor, the Junior class publication, will have an editorial board consisting of Jack Lanz, Eugene Barth, Elizabeth Blecker, and Adam Levgood.

Assistants to Hintz on the advertising staff will be Mason Marcus, Harold Miller, Eugene Hatton, Claude Mache-mar, Ethel Goforth, Albert Kuder, and William Becker.

The photography work for the year-book will be done by Pomeroy's Studio, Reading, Pa. Betty Campbell and Ethel Goforth are photography editors. Dorothy Butler will design original cover sketches and page borderlines. Others on the staff are Misses Maryet Klein, Kathryn Knerr, and Amy Leitner.

All Juniors are urged to have their pictures taken before October 15 at Pomeroy's.

LIONS FACE G. U. IN OPENING FRAY OF 1935 SEASON

Albright Meets Strong Foe at Wash- ington, D. C., Tonight at 8:00 P. M.

Tonight at Griffith stadium, home of the Washington Senators, the Lions of Albright will open their '35 grid warfare against a formidable Georgetown University eleven. With the strongest team to represent Albright in several years, the Munn-coached squad is hopeful of victory over Georgetown and confident of a successful season against their other adversaries.

With an almost entirely Sophomore team playing under a new coach and a new system, the Lions' ability is practically an unknown quantity. In practice scrimmages among themselves and with the Frosh, they have exhibited undeniable power and speed. Their play, however, has been inconsistent. In their one scrimmage with an outside school—the outclassed Kutztown teachers—there was much brilliant play, especially in the backfield. However, the ball-carriers were too often handicapped by slow interference and slovenly blocking.

On the defense the line was opened too frequently throwing the defensive burden on the secondary. The center and guard positions are especially weak, although it is hoped that Charlie Barnard's return to action will make up for the loss of Mose Brogley, '34 freshman star, who is academically ineligible.

In the backfield, Coach Munn's greatest problem lies in picking a running mate for Dick Riffe, who promises to become one of the flashiest backs in Albright grid history. The assignment will probably be given to Johnny Muller or "Lovey" McCormack. "Red" Woods is practically certain of the signal-calling job, with Alexinok and Troisi as substitutes. Claude Felty, starting his second year of football, will probably start at full because of his previous varsity experience. Al Oslislo, powerful and shifty Sophomore will, in all likelihood, alternate with Felty at full.

FRESHMAN WEEK

The incoming Freshman class was greeted by a well-planned program for the annual Freshman week. The Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and Student Council worked together to formulate a social program which would orient the Freshmen to the social side of College life. The committee was headed by Jeanette Henry, Albert Kuder, Joseph Ehrhart, and Eugene Barth.

The program began September 7 with the regular banquet for the Freshman. Speakers were Prof. Horn, Dr. Gingrich, Ruth Hicks, Eugene Barth and Joseph Ehrhart.

The following night an informal event occurred, a doggie roast at the Tower Hotel. The Freshmen showed a great deal of spirit in their songs and cheers.

Thursday night the Y. W. sponsored a pajama party for all the girls in the Social Room at Selwyn Hall. There was a fine attendance and much was accomplished in the way of getting acquainted.

On Friday night, September 20, the faculty tendered a reception to the college group in the Selwyn Hall parlors.

YOUR SCHOOL PAPER

As far back as anyone can remember there has always been some sort of student publication on Albright's campus. In recent years there has been an effort to make this publication a worthwhile record of the events that transpired on the campus during the week. While the present incumbent is in office this will continue to be the order of things.

This year, however, it appears that "THE ALBRIGHTIAN" is in danger of falling into decay and even disappearing. To some extent, this is perhaps the fault of the editorial staff; but it is more than likely that the majority of the blame lies with the student body which has failed to show any indication of interest in the paper. True, there have been occasional queries as to when the journal will make its appearance, but we choose to regard this as mainly curiosity and not wholesome interest. A review of the situation reveals that there was a notice posted on the bulletin boards of the school to the effect that here would be a meeting of the ALBRIGHTIAN staff which Sophomores and Juniors were asked to attend. Your optimistic editor strolled around to the meeting room and found to his surprise that there were only six people present at the conclave. Assignments were made to these people which were about twice as large as they should have been because of the dearth of candidates, and the meeting disbanded.

When the deadline for the stories fell due, your still-optimistic editor expected that they would be handed in on time and written legibly. To his astonishment they were handed in hurriedly scrawled for the most part on odd sheets of paper. When one of the members of the staff was reminded that it might perhaps be well if the writing were at least legible, he said that he didn't know what was expected of him.

Now let's get colloquial and talk your language. First, if there is to be an ALBRIGHTIAN this year, there will have to be a sufficiently large staff so that the work will not have to be done by a few people.

Second, when notices for meetings are posted, staff members are expected to be there promptly. If they are not, a few heads will roll in the streets.

Third, if the students of the school refuse to show a real interest in the paper to the extent of trying out for it at least, there will be no paper published.

Most of you will probably not like the general tone of this message much, but it stands as is. Anyone who fancies that the staff as it now exists is going to continue to put out the paper is laboring under a misimpression. If necessary, the staff will be made up of Frosh who are at least interested enough to come out for meetings.

ARTS AND LETTERS

COLOSSUS OF MUSIC

Charles J. Moravec

Fifty-two years after his death, Richard Wagner dominates our age even as he did that which his living genius bestrode. More has been written of this most complex and fascinating figure in the history of music than of any other musician. This is inevitable for no other composer so permeated his art with the stuff of thought and life.

To the amount of critical and biographical matter must be added the product of the amazing and tireless verbosity of Wagner in writing about himself. He knew irritatingly well what he was. Always we find him unpleasantly, loud-mouthed, persistent, and shameless in exploiting his hero. He did this with as little conscience as Baron Munchausen and the naive of a crafty child.

Wagner was not the only intellectual of his period in music. Liszt accompanied him on his way, and was influential in Wagner's development. It has been found that some of Wagner's musical ideas were due to him. However, the man-mountain of Tristan and Siegfried had a synthetic and constructive power which far surpassed that of the greatest of his contemporaries. His art touched life at all points, and the actual one to create the music of the 19th century but he overtops and overspreads all his contemporaries with a sovereign imagination, a potency of utterance, and a capacity for assimilation in which only Bach compares with him.

Olin Downes in the New York Times several years ago stated that every word and note of Wagner's art work emanates directly and unmistakably from his personality. He went on to say: "Everything he thought or participated in became material for his creations. In fact, the interplay of experience and creation is one of the most significant things that the life of Wagner illuminates for us. Always the stuff of living was undergoing transformation in terms of art, and always the art was being given its impulse and color in living."

Many authors in their biographies point out that Wagner's career, from an erratic boyhood onward, was that of nature finding itself with much difficulty in its environment. It is remarkable, even in this short article, to observe how early the boy Wagner was fascinated by Greek drama which was to become one of the cornerstones of his art; the indelible impression that the theatre made upon him, and his early acquaintance with myth and folktales in the instance of the opera, Der Weisschutz, and the personality which he clearly remembered of Weber.

It was necessary, after sloughing off all the circumstances and many of the ideas of his life, for him to find himself as a thinker and mature his ideas before he went further as a composer. This is what took place in a situation which must have seemed at the time inconsequential. It became needful to provide introduction and background for Siegfried's Death; hence the poem of Young Siegfried. Then Siegfried was explained by Die Walkure and Die Walkure was prepared and introduced by the prologue to the "Ring" cycle, Rheingold. Here we hear the voice of the revolutionist in its socialistic theory and it is further evolution of the conception of redemption through woman's love which haunted Wagner's mind and life.

Rheingold is the beginning of Wagner's second period characterized by a newly evolved technique, force, sovereign evocation of nature, runic accents of the early gods, and exalted consummation of tragedy. This opera is at times cumbersome, clumsy, and naive, but it presents Wagner's vast conception of music.

The music critic of the New York Times has written: "Wagner was a prophet, unflinching, uncompromising in artistic creation. He may have disappointed and cheated men, but man he adored and wrought heroically for his salvation."

COLLEGE'S PROFS SPEND VACATION IN VARIOUS WAYS

Seven Continue Graduate Study in Different Schools; Dr. Memming Visits Germany and France

Albright College professors spent their summer in continuing graduate studies at the leading universities and professional schools of the country, teaching summer school students, and traveling. Dr. Gerrit Memming, new head of the German department spent his summer in traveling throughout Europe and studying at the Sorbonne in France. Professor Oliver M. George, Physics department head, continued his research work in high voltage and vacuum at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Miss Elsie Garlach of the French department spent her summer doing graduate work at French Institute, Penn State; Miss Esther Klein, instructor of English spent her vacation at the University of Pennsylvania where she studied English and French. Robert L. Work, librarian, always around books, took several library science courses at Columbia University while Professor Henry G. Buckwalter of the business administration department studied more business at the same institution. Dr. J. Warren Klein, president, accompanied by Mrs. Klein visited their daughter in Hollywood, California. Dean and Mrs. George W. Walton, accompanied by their two children, Richard and Margaret, visited Canada. Professor Clarence A. Horn, with Mrs. Horn and daughter, Jane, toured through New York State, Canada, and the Thousand Islands. Professor John C. Evans of the business administration department spent his leisure time at Lake George, N. Y. Coach Clarence L. Munn with his bride came to Albright College via Canada, the New England States and New York from the University of Minnesota. Miss Mary S. Clay, new art director came from her vacation in the South. Miss Florence Innis of the home economics department spent her vacation on short trips around her home in Port Royal while Miss Shaffer, dean of women, spent the summer with her parents at Lock Haven, Pa. Dr. Eugene R. Page, head of the English department, after teaching English courses at the summer session took time out for a few short trips and the national tennis matches at Forest Hills, Long Island. Dr. and Mrs. Morris S. Greth were kept at home after summer school with the arrival of a daughter while Dr. and Mrs. Graham Cook have another boy in their new home. Professor Virgil Zener, after teaching in summer school took a trip to Pittsburgh as did Dr. Charles A. Mock, new Psychology professor. Dr. and Mrs. Gingrich, accompanied by their son, John, spent a few weeks visiting friends and relatives in Illinois. Professor and Mrs. Milton W. Hamilton spent some of their summer in Syracuse, visiting relatives, while Professor Hamilton was working on the finishing touches of his new book. Professor and Mrs. Lewis E. Smith, spent their summer on a farm in Catawissa, Pa. Professor and Mrs. Marcus H. Green spent their summer visiting relatives in Harrisburg while Professor Green spent six weeks at the Pittsburgh Museum working on his Master's thesis. Professor Paul Speicher and Professor Wilson I. Miller, spent their summer on the campus as most of the freshmen already know. Miss Marie Kleppinger, secretary to Dr. Klein, spent her vacation at Atlantic City while Miss Anna Benninger, secretary to Dean Walton and Registrar Miller spent her time visiting the various summer theatres in this part of the country. Professor Theodore A. Hunt of the music department spent part of his summer visiting his parents and friends at Providence, Rhode Island.

Comment

Probably the lack of a dirt column this year will cause some disappointment, but think of the embarrassment it will save.

* * *

A Washington paper observes that Georgetown should be entirely too good for us, but then Washington papers have always been noted for their optimistic attitude.

* * *

A local wit suggests that the members of the football team who are caught breaking training should run their laps in the direction of Washington. Think of the bus fares that would be saved.

* * *

The Reading Eagle reports a surprising increase in circulation recently which makes us wonder if the fact that football men's pictures are being printed daily has anything to do with it.

* * *

One of the tackles on the Georgetown team is named Cummings, which, of course, leads us to suggest that when he tries to hit Dick Riffle he won't know whether he's Cummings or going.

* * *

We wonder if the new faculty room will contain a ping-pong table?

* * *

One of the Frosh regulations at F. and M. is that they shall not sleep in chapel. We can understand treating the Frosh harshly, but isn't that carrying things a bit too far?

* * *

Dickinson's school paper informs the student body that the Red Devils will be completely red in their new equipment except for their shoes. No doubt that goes for their faces too, after they play Gettysburg and F. and M.

Take It From Me...

Walt Spencer

In next Friday night's struggle with the Georgetown University gridders at Washington, D. C., an interested student body will get their first taste of Albright's "new era" in sports. The Capital City team is perhaps the best the Albright eleven will have to face this season. Last fall, when Coach Munn took charge, he named four teams that were out of Albright's class. First on his list was Georgetown. This was not a surprise, as the District of Columbia school has been playing teams in big time football for several years. With the decided improvement shown by the Munn-coached squad in the last four weeks of practice, however, this writer is very doubtful if Georgetown will have the "breather" it anticipates. According to Max Dubofsky, Reading Key griddier and Georgetown line coach, they expect a tough battle on Friday night. This, however, may be taken with the proverbial "grain of salt."

It is customary for a sports columnist to prognosticate the outcome of any event from football to dice. We shall not attempt to deviate from this tradition, and, at the risk of being considered prejudiced and rash, we will take a page from a well-known United Press correspondent who has a faculty for picking underdogs (who usually remain thus) and pick Albright to come out on top by not more than a single six-pointer. We reserve the right to rescind our judgment in one event, namely, if Georgetown tallies within the first few minutes. We are afraid of the effect this might have on the untired sophomores who comprise a large part of the Albright squad.

Two events of interest to Red and White football followers occurred last Saturday. Little Moravian College of Bethlehem sprang a decided upset in trouncing Lafayette by a single touchdown. In this writer's opinion, however, there is little cause for any alarm. The Lafayette coaching staff has been singing the blues since the turnout for practice at the Easton institution. A small squad, numerous graduations and several injuries to important men have been the cause for their weeping and gnashing of teeth. Without a doubt, they are very much below par this year, and Paul Stagg's well trained team won a well earned victory. Last year, however, a sad looking Albright outfit eked out a one-point victory over Moravian, and this season, with superior manpower and a decided increase in the quality of the coaching, we should have little trouble against either of the two aforementioned elevens.

Franklin and Marshall's strong showing against a huge Fordham outfit only bears out pre-season dope. With twenty-three letter-men, most of whom accompanied him to Lancaster from Ohio State two years ago, returning to school, Alan Holman has the nucleus of a fine team and their annual battle with the Red and White promises to be a slam-bang battle from start to finish.

PLEBES PRACTICE FOR 1ST BATTLE ON OCTOBER 5TH

Frosh to Clash With Allentown
Prep on October 5; Line-
Up Still in Doubt

Albright's Freshman football squad, about thirty in number, is slowly rounding into shape for its opening game against Allentown Prep on Saturday, October 5.

Under the tutelage of Coach Harold Carney, former star Albright tackle and coach of the West Ends, past city semipro champions, and assistant coach "Truck" Yensch, who will be remembered for his outstanding line play during the past three years on Albright's grid machine, the yearlings are daily being put through several hours of calisthenics, dummy practice, blocking, play formation, and scrimmaging.

Although the team is lighter than was expected, the "freshies" make up for it in speed and scrappiness as an atmosphere of spirit and willingness pervades each practice.

New men are still reporting, and consequently, Carney has not as yet fully determined what his starting lineup will be against the tough Prep school team. Outstanding to date has been the work of Van Tosh, New Jersey all-scholastic center for two years. He has been playing a bang-up game at the pivot position, and promises to be a bulwark on defense. Mike Ferraro at guard, and Vince Westgate, recent acquisition from Reading High, appear to have two other line positions clinched.

There are several promising backfield candidates, with the following quartet probably forming the first string backfield. Turner at 'quarterback, Chaborda and Guldin, halves, and Kosel, fullback. Kosel is an especially hard-hitting back, big, powerful, fast, and sporting plenty of leg power. Guldin will probably be the outstanding back as he can punt, pass, run, block, and hit the line with equal ability. Komba and Kreska, another ex-Reading High star, will also see much action during the season, Kreska being especially noted for his blocking prowess.

Four games have been scheduled for the greenies:

October 5—Allentown Prep.
October 19—Perkiomen School
October 26—Dickinson Frosh
November 16—West Chester Teachers.

The following candidates have reported for the squad:

AROUND THE CAMPUS

The Phi Alpha Tau sorority is conducting its mock initiation this week. The formal initiation will take place next Tuesday evening. The sorority welcomes Mildred Rothermel, their former president, back into active membership.

The Philosophy Club met on Friday afternoon, September 27, in the parlors of Selwyn Hall with Dr. Morris S. Greth as the speaker.

Professor Milton W. Hamilton, head of the history department, attended the meeting of the New York State Historical Association at Lake Mohonk, N. Y., on Monday and Tuesday, September 30 and October 1.

Professor Milton W. Hamilton will address the members of the Berks county peace league at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening, October 4. His topic will be, "The International Mind."

The Phi Beta Mu sorority initiated five members on Monday, September 30; Misses Jean Boner, Elizabeth Polhemous, Bernice Shetron, Eleanor Richards, and Anna Mast.

Chester Jump, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., was elected secretary of the Pi Tau Beta fraternity to succeed Olaf Holman who has a job in the New York City Public Library.

Paul Fye, Woodrow Carvell, and Robert Hollinger, were week-end guests of the Pi Tau Beta fraternity.

NEW PROFESSORS JOIN A. C. FACULTY

Albright College welcomes to its faculty four new full-time professors and one associate professor during the 83rd academic year.

Dr. Gerrit Memming, the new head of the German department, comes from the University of Illinois where he received the University fellowship for two successive years because of outstanding research work on East Frisia. He has done considerable traveling in Europe during the past four years.

Professor Oliver M. George, new physics department head, was born in Washington, studied at the State College of Washington, Drexel Institute, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he served as instructor of physics for the past three years.

Miss Mary S. Clay, new art director, comes to Albright College with a colorful and varied experience of teaching in the Minneapolis North High School and the University of Tennessee. In addition to art, Miss Clay will be associate professor of home economics.

Dr. Charles A. Mock, who succeeds Dr. Lewis Fluck as head of the Psychology department, has been associated with college work for many years as professor and president of Western Union College.

Dean A. Roger Kratz of the Evangelical School of Theology will teach Senior Bible. He is president of the Berks County Peace League.

FIRST MEETING OF Y. M. C. A. CABINET HELD

A special meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet was called by Gene Barth on Tuesday, September 24, in the Administration Building for the purpose of outlining the program for the coming year. After deciding unanimously to sever all connections with the State organization, the following aims were announced by the president.

(1) If it is necessary to have everyone belong to the Y. M. C. A. upon matriculation, to call those persons who belong in that capacity 'Associate Members.'

(2) Have as a requisite for Active Membership, a real interest in the purpose of the Organization, and a willingness to prove that interest in services.

(3) The cabinet members should be chosen from the active members of the organization.

The functions of the Y. M. C. A. this year will be:

(1) To serve the student's need of reality concerning the life, principles, and teachings of Jesus.

(2) To serve in a co-operative manner and as a fellowship.

(3) To influence a few persons to deep personal commitment to Jesus' attitudes and ways of life, but to recognize the responsibility to the entire campus, and to carry out a program with the end in view of influencing the campus along socially adequate and deeply personal lines.

In order to promote these functions, the following ideas are proposed:

(1) To promote Vespers for the purpose of meeting the spiritual needs of the larger campus groups.

(2) To promote and encourage smaller nucleus groups, to think about individual and group commitment to the demands which Jesus makes upon college men and women.

(3) Retreats at intervals, to receive a spirit of fellowship and spiritual unity.

(4) Definite efforts made to encourage honesty, honor, and morality, and to discourage fraternity politics.

(5) To support two inter-collegiate conferences per year in order to widen our horizons, and to intelligently find our place in student world.

(6) To provide unusual speakers for the campus, in order to keep the student body aware of the current trends in religion, politics, and the social sciences, and to rejuvenate an intellectual yearning for knowledge along these lines.

(7) To adequately meet the needs for campus social life.

(8) To promote deputations teams for churches, in order to let the secular world know that college youth are tremendously interested in the vital problems of the day, and are committing themselves to the spirit and ethics of Jesus Christ as the answer to the needs of the world.

It is the wish of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet that this year the Y. organization can really have a successful year in its role of a beneficial and guiding campus group. The Freshman Orientation program, the Freshman Hike, and the Y. M. C. A. Social on Friday evening, are all evidences that the "Y" has begun its work with a "bang."

LIBRARY TO ISSUE NEW REGULATIONS

According to a report made by Robert Work, Albright librarian, the library rules and regulations are being reworded and will be ready for distribution to each student as soon as the branch library in the Science building is opened. At present, there are fourteen assistants in the library. As soon as they have received sufficient training, the branch library, which will include all the scientific works and references, will be open all day for the convenience of science students.

Students are asked to observe a few general rules until the new compilation has been mimeographed. Reserve books may be taken out only from 9 P. M. until 9 A. M. Day students may withdraw a book of which there is more than one copy at 4:30. When a book on the reserve shelf is desired, to expedite service, students are requested to notify the librarian that it is "on reserve." All books are to be asked for by call number. The stock rooms are closed to everyone except the assistants and those given special permission.

The library will be open daily from 8 A. M. to 10 P. M. and from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. on Saturday. These hours are designed especially for day students who might care to work over the noon hour.
