Dr. Emerson Heads List Of 14 Faculty Appointees

A total of 14 additions have been made to the Albright faculty for 1965-66. Announcements of the various appointments were issued by the President's office throughout the summer months.

The most significant change came in the Business and Economics Department where Dr. Hugh N. Emerson replaced Dr. Philip Elkin as its head.

Dr. Emerson received his bachelor's degree from Johns Hopkins University and both his master's and his doctor's from the University of Pennsylvania. After a 30-year association with the Atlantic Refinery Co. in Philadelphia, he taught at the Texas College of Arts and Industries in Kingsville, Texas.

The other appointments were made to fill vacancies in the French, German, Spanish, English, Home Economics, Religion, Mathematics, Chemistry, Economics and Psychology Departments. They were as follows:

Nancy C. Boyle, a Radcliffe College alumna, will be a French instructor. She received the M.A. degree in language and literature in 1963 from the Middlebury College Graduate School of French in Paris.

Rolf A. Leibinger, a native of Switzerland, will be an instructor in German. A graduate of Hunter College in 1961, Leibinger received the M.A. degree from Columbia University.

A Cuban native, Dulce Maria Coppola, will join Albright's Spanish Department as an instructor. Miss Coppola completed work beyond the master's level at Oriente University in Santiago de Cuba.

Four English instructors are also joining the faculty: Francis Elmi, Edwin Sargent, Robert Wolf and John Pisaneschi.

Elmi, a graduate of Millersville State College, received his master's from Penn State University last June. Sargent, who received the master of arts degree this summer at Lehigh University, is a 1964 graduate of Bloomfield (N.J.) College. A 1959 Gettysburg College graduate, Wolf was awarded the masters

ALBRIGHTIAN MEETING

All those students interested in being members of The Albrightian's editorial, production, circulation or photography departments are asked to report to Krause Hall today (Monday) at 3:15 p.m.

HORN WING, NEW DORM ARE ADDED TO CAMPUS

The members of the class of '69 are not the only "sight-seers" on the Albright campus. Upper classmen can also find some new features on our grounds.

Recently completed and housing 118 men is the George W. Walton Hall, across the street from the Physical Education Building. This is the third unit in a proposed four-dormitory complex which will be finished by next year. The complex will occupy the city block bounded by 13th Street and Linden Street. The two houses between Walton Hall and Smith Hall (North Hall) have been purchased by the college and the new dormitory will be built on that ground.

Named to honor dean emeritus Dr. Walton, the new building is similar to Smith and Crowell Halls (North and West Halls) which were constructed in 1962 and now accommodate 236 women.

Completion of the ultra-modern Horn Wing and extensive renovations throughout the Merner-Pfeiffer Hall of Science, to which the Horn Wing is attached, give Albright excellent new classroom and laboratory facilities for work in biology, chemistry and geology.

... New President

The Science Hall addition, named for professor emeritus of Biology Dr. Clarence A. Horn, contains a complete temperature-humidity-light room for controlled environment studies and laboratories for spectroscopic analysis and faculty research as well as for general experimental exercises in organic and analytical chemistry, bacteriology and ecology.

The majority of the scientific apparatus and equipment designated for use in the Horn Wing has been financed with the help of an $18,600 matching grant awarded to Albright by the National Science Foundation.

The Albright College Board of Trustees announced in late July that Dr. Arthur LeRoy Schultz, 37-year-old director of public relations at Otterbein College, Westerville, Ohio, had been named to the presidency of the college. Dr. Schultz officially became the school's fourth president on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

Dr. George C. Bollman, president of the Board of Trustees and chairman of the eight-man board committee to select a new president, made the formal announcement of the appointment.

A native of Johnstown and an ordained Evangelical United Brethren Pastor, Dr. Schultz has been working with Dr. Harry V. Masters, who retired at the end of the 1964-65 academic term after 27 years as president.

Over 150 names were suggested to the appointing committee and that list was finally narrowed to 14 persons. Only Dr. Schultz was offered the position and he immediately sent his acceptance to the college.

Dr. Schultz graduated from Otterbein College in 1949 with a bachelor of arts degree in history and social studies. He received the bachelor of divinity degree from the United Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio, in 1952. In 1955 he was awarded a master's degree and the doctor of philosophy degree followed in 1963. Both were earned at the University of Pittsburgh.

Born in Johnstown, Dr. Schultz lived 17 years in Connellsville, where his father, the Rev. Dr. Elmer A. R. Schultz, was pastor of the first EUB

New Dean Of Men Discusses Outstanding Campus Issues

Louis F. Weislogel has been on the Albright campus for a little over two months. Yet, he could easily discuss any of the "live" topics on campus with returning upperclassmen.

The recently-appointed Dean of Men has made remarkable progress in gaining familiarity with conditions at Albright College. Of course, he also brings to Albright his own philosophy on various issues. In some cases this will be a new approach while in others it may coincide with previous policies.

In an effort to make some of Weislogel's views better known, The Albrightian conducted a 60-minute interview with our new Dean. These are some of the exchanges which took place:

Q—What do you understand to be the main issue confronting students and administration on the Albright campus?

A—From what I understand, the big cry seems to be the lack of communication between the students and the administration. The Albright Reform Movement's report seems to indicate that. We will try to change this.

Q—How do you view your role in relationship to student and administration?

A—I see myself as the representative of the students before the administration and faculty. I hope to get to know the students and understand them so that I may be able to speak for them. Of course, it's impossible to meet and get to know every student, but I will try my best.

My other role as a disciplinarian is more difficult to fulfill. Some textbooks even claim that you can't be both representative and disciplinarian. Chaplain Marlow, from what I understand, managed to walk the thin line between the two roles quite successfully. I hope to do the same.

Q—What are your goals for the upcoming school year?

A—I aim to establish better communication between the student body and the administration, as I explained before. I also hope to increase the responsibility of the students. Each individual should be responsible for various things—first and foremost, of course, his own behavior.

I also hope to strengthen the Student Council. I feel it should become the center of student activities. ARM gained a favorable reaction from the administration because it channeled its complaints through Council. This is the proper way to go about it.

Finally, I would hope to strengthen our fraternities with the idea of making positive contributions both to Albright and to the community. This seems to be something on which they have been lacking. Fraternities should move in the direction of public work. They exist because the college lets them exist.

"A healthy mind must be occupied with different things. Every student should have some way of 'relaxing' or 'taking a break' from the classroom routines."

"I see myself as the representative of the students before the administration and faculty. I hope to get to know the students . . . so that I may be able to speak for them."

"I look forward to an interesting year. The controversial issues here are the same that you find in most campuses . . . there are solutions available if everyone cooperates."

Upperclassmen's Row

"You are about to embark upon the most exciting, challenging and enjoyable four years of your life." With these words, Dean Louis F. Weislogel welcomes our freshman class in "The Compass." There's very little new that can be said or added when greeting a freshman class. Dean Weislogel's message combines the three elements which the class of 1969 should combine during its journey through Albright.

Excitement, Challenge and Enjoyment are all very much alive for the college student. While our freshmen will readily accept the first two terms, they may at the outset question the implication of "fun" in the word enjoyment. However, they should soon discover that the excitement of meeting the challenge can certainly provide enjoyment.

It is the Albright upperclassman who may doubt the prediction of Dean Weislogel even more than the frosh. There are many "veterans" on our campus who no longer feel any excitement about college life. To them, the academic year has become a tedious routine of classroom attendance with an occasional testing period to break the monotony. These are the members of the "live through" group; they are content to live through the year, pack up and float through the long weekend which summer becomes. No, there's no excitement and there's no challenge except to see how many cuts so-and-so will let you take before putting you on probation. The enjoyment comes in the evenings "out with the gang" or the weekend dates. In June of your senior year, if all goes well and you take the right courses, it's time to gather in a diploma.

To these starving individuals who refuse to cooperate we can only offer a worn-out cliché: "You get out of something exactly what you put in it." Perhaps the spirit and enthusiasm which is characteristic of a freshman class will be contagious and "contaminate" some of our upperclassmen. Who knows? They may even be alive yet.

Two In A Row?

What was supposed to be a so-so Albright football team shocked the so-called experts and pleasantly surprised Lion rosters by turning in a superb 8-1 record last year. Now, the pre-season previews again claim that Albright will be nothing more than an also-ran behind Wagner College which is defending the Middle Atlantic Conference (College Division) crown.

We hope that once again the charges of Coach John Potskian will stun these "experienced observers" and romp to a strong year. The special report on our sports page, however, indicates that the Lions will meet no "soft touches." In addition to Wagner, Drexel, Juniata and Gettysburg appear to pack a lot of power.

Nevertheless, we are still confident that the Red and White will do Albright proud. Then the "experts" may finally be convinced of the squad's true caliber.

CONVALESCING

Dorothy M. Slapikas, head of the Albright book store, is recuperating at home from a leg operation. She entered St. Joseph's Hospital on August 9 and returned home in early September. "Dotty" is expected to return to the book store in a few weeks.

22 GRADUATE
IN SUMMER
COMMENCEMENT

An East Africa student was among 22 Albrightians graduated in the annual summer commencement exercises held in the chapel in the month of August.

Kenya's Samuel C. Mbugua was the only foreign student in the class. He received a degree in Economics.

Dr. Ellery B. Haskell, professor of philosophy, addressed the graduates on "Gateways and Vistas," and former president Harry V. Masters conferred the degrees. The Rev. William R. Marlow, chaplain, offered the invocation and benediction.

The members of the class were: Cynthia M. Koch, Eric Clough, Robert M. Eshbach, Benjamin W. Funk, Stan Zervanos and Frank Galdun, all from Reading.

One of the world's oldest republics, Andorra (between Spain and France) has a defense budget of 900 pesetas, the equivalent of five American dollars.

For 51 years, tradition at Carthage College, Ill., has been that coeds caught sitting on a large boulder on campus are obliged to submit to a quick, but firm kiss. When the college moved to Kenosha, Wis., last summer, some 50 fraternity men hoisted the 2½-ton rock on a truck, and took it to the new campus.

A young history professor at Temple University, eager to be entirely unbiased in marking essay examinations, would turn back the front cover of the standard blue booklets without looking at the student's name. But his attractive wife, at one time his pupil, admits, "I always got around that by signing my exams at the end, 'Love, Wendy!'"

NATIONAL SURVEY REVEALS HIGH
FREQUENCY IN COLLEGE CHEATING

New York, N.Y.—(I.P.)—A nation-wide survey of hundreds of deans and thousands of students in 99 American colleges and universities has revealed that:

- The amount of academic dishonesty in college is "grossly underestimated" by students, student body presidents and deans.
- Only a small proportion of those who cheat are caught and punished.
- Sources of college cheating can be traced to the high school experiences of students.
- Schools with honor systems are less apt to have a high level of cheating than those with other arrangements for control.
- Elements of school quality are associated with low levels of cheating.

The survey was conducted by William J. Bowers of Columbia University's Bureau of Applied Social Research. The work was supported by the Cooperative Research Program of the Office of Education, United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The findings are contained in a report titled "Student Dishonesty and Its Control in College."

Its conclusions are based on (1) answers by more than 600 college deans and more than 500 student body presidents to a 61-item questionnaire and (2) answers by 5,422 students to a 72-item questionnaire.

"Campus authorities say that only a small proportion of those who cheat, even according to their conservative estimates, are caught and punished. Only relatively lenient punishments are imposed for academic dishonesty at most schools. Seldom are students suspended or dismissed for violating norms of academic integrity, despite the fact that authorities consider this a serious disciplinary problem.

Capable of speeds better than 2,000 mph, the YF-12A is the hottest aircraft around.
 Now Maj. Walter F. Daniel, test pilot for the YF-12A, answers your questions about the world's fastest manned airplane and America's Aerospace Team.

(Maj. Daniel, a test pilot since 1954, is a member of the Society of Experimental Test Pilots. He received a B.S. degree in Aeronautical Engineering from the University of Oklahoma. In February 1962, he set world class air-to-climb records in a T-38 jet trainer.)

Is the YF-12A the world's fastest manned aircraft?

It certainly is. On May 1 of this year the YF-12A (formerly known as the A-11) reclaimed the world absolute speed record from the USSR. It was clocked at 2,062 mph over Edwards Air Force Base.

How big is the YF-12A?

The exact dimensions of the YF-12A have not been released yet. But it's approximately 100 feet long, with about a 50-foot wingspan. That's half again as big as our present interceptors!

Is the Air Force training many men as pilots these days?

Yes, very definitely. In spite of all you hear about unmanned vehicles, the human pilot is still very much in the picture. As a matter of fact, the Air Force pilot quota is on the increase.

What other kinds of jobs does the Air Force offer?

Since it's one of the world's foremost technological organizations, the Air Force has plenty of openings for scientists and engineers. There are also many challenging and varied administrative-managerial positions.

What do I have to do to become an Air Force officer?

Air Force ROTC is the best way to get started as an Air Force officer. The new two-year Air Force ROTC program makes this method available to men who have already completed a year or two of their college education. For college graduates, if you did not take advantage of ROTC, you can still get started through Air Force Officer Training School (OTS), a three-month course open to both men and women.

Can I keep up my studies while I'm in the Air Force?

The Air Force encourages its men and women to continue their educations. For instance, you may qualify to study for a graduate degree during off-duty hours, with the Air Force paying a substantial part of the tuition.

What kind of future do I have in the Air Force?

A bright one. As we move further into the Aerospace Age, the Air Force is going to grow even more important. And you can grow with it!

KICKING TIPS—Coach John Potsklan (middle of picture) demonstrates the proper kicking procedure to potential booting specialists at an Albright football session. Candidates for varsity berths on the grid squad have been toiling twice a day since Sept. 1 in preparation for the opener against Juniata next Saturday night. Coach Potsklan's charges went through their only scrimmage of the pre-season period when they traveled to Kutztown State last Wednesday for an exhibition clash with the Golden Bears.

Sixteen Lion Lettermen Support Hopes For Repeat Performance Of Grid Heroics

Sixteen lettermen, headed by co-captains Bill Kopp and Frank Herzog, form the backbone of the Albright College football team which hopes to equal or surpass last year's excellent 8-1 record.

Kopp, a senior guard from Sinking Spring, and Herzog, a senior halfback from Danielsville, will lead the Lions into battle against Juniata College in the season opener at Albright Stadium, on Friday night. Albright will again play a nine-game schedule.

Head coach John Potsklan, starting his 11th year at the helm of the Albrightians, invited 37 candidates for the football camp which began Sept. 1. He will be aided by Assistants Joseph Now and William Popp.

Other returning lettermen, in addition to Kopp and Herzog, include Carmon Comunale, Jon Hall and Jim Kearns, ends; Albert (Mickey) Esposito and Bob Goidell, tackles; Paul Chaiet and Dick Horst, guards; George Gamber, Tom Lugg and Frank Pasculli, centers; Roy Shellhammer, quarterback; Tom Huntzinger and Steve George, halfbacks, and Jon Haggerty, fullback.

Graduation claimed 11 seniors from last year's hustling squad. Losses most heavily felt were those of quarterback Lew Nevins, fullback Bill Bors, halfback Don Manlove, guard Jon Paris and end Wib Leonard. All five men were outstanding in every game they played.

The biggest question mark, and that which may determine how well the Lions fare, is at the quarterback slot. Roy Shellhammer saw enough action last year to pick up valuable experience, but it remains to be seen whether he can mastermind the club the way Nevins did. Other players in key positions are Jon Haggerty and Tom Huntzinger who must fill in for Bors and Manlove.

In addition to graduates, Coach Potsklan also lost halfback Paul Reid, a drop-out, and reserve quarterback Frank Barletta, on academic probation. End Herb Nauss will too miss the season on academic pro.

A motorcycle accident during the summer also proved damaging to Potsklan. Transfer student Des Kelly was expected to vie with Haggerty for the fullback job, but he suffered a damaging shoulder injury in the accident. He could yet return in time to play some games.

The Albright roster:

SOME DRINK

The longest run of any show at one theatre anywhere in the world was by the play "The Drunkard," which ran for 20 years and two months at the Theatre Mart in Los Angeles, Cal.

The play opened on July 6, 1938 and ran continuously until September 6, 1958.

Evoking blessings after a hearty sneeze dates back to 750 A.D. when Pope St. Gregory the Great officially sanctioned the form of prayer.

It is said that at the time the atmosphere was filled with such large amounts of impurities that a heavy breath of air resulted in immediate sneezing. The words "God Bless You" were evoked as a means of averting any ill results from the impurities.

TACKLES: Jim Barrafi Wyomissing; Albert Esposito, Honolulu, Hawaii; Mike Plannery, Murray Hill, N. J.; Bob Goidell, Woodcliff Lake, N. J.; Harold Lykes, Freehold, N. J.; Wayne Rogers, Belford, N. J. and William Thomas, Norristown.

GUARDS: Paul Chaiet, Bradley Beach, N. J.; Fred Gable, Reading; Dick Horst, Reading; Bill Kopp, Sinking Spring; Larry Mack, Red Hill; Peter Pallas, Wharton, N. J. and Ken Treadwell, Rahway, N. J.

CENTERS: George Gamber, Ephrata; Tom Lugg, Pen Argyl; Frank Pasculli, Centereach, N.Y. and Hugh Landis, Auburn.

QUARTERBACKS: John Long-anecker, Gettysburg; Roy Shellhammer, Pottsville; Wayne Shusko, Glen Burnie, Md. and Jerry Zweitzig, Southampton.

of arts degree in 1962 from Rutgers University. Pisaneschi received the bachelor of arts degree from King's College in 1960 and the master of arts degree from Villanova University in 1962.

The appointments include the names of three Albright graduates who will return as instructors. Eleanor D. Schlenker, a '63 Albright graduate, will teach in the Home Economics Department. Carl D. Schneider, also a member of the '63 class, will teach in the Religion Department and serve as college chaplain in the absence of the Rev. William R. Marlow, who has been granted a sabbatical leave to complete his doctoral program at the University of Pennsylvania. Hugo D. Junghenn, a February 1964 Albright graduate, will be an instructor in Mathematics. He is enrolled in graduate study at Lehigh University.

David L. Schwartz, a 1963 Muhlenberg College graduate, joins the Economics Department. He received his M.A. in 1964 from Michigan State.

Miss Janette Brown will serve as a graduate assistant in Chemistry. She has a B.S. and M.S. from West Virginia University.

Another Albright graduate, Thomas A. Wolfe, completes the list of appointees. Wolfe will be a graduate assistant in Psychology; following graduation from Albright in '64, Wolfe did graduate work on experimental psychology at Temple University. While at Albright, he was a member of the Kappa Upsilon Phi social fraternity.

LOOKING AT THE ENEMY:

Wagner, Gettysburg Most Dangerous Foes on Albright's Tough Schedule

According to reports coming out of the camps of colleges listed on the Albright football schedule, this could be a rugged year for the Lions. Generally regarded as co-favorite with Wagner and Juniata for the Middle Atlantic Conference (Northern College Division), Albright has a few dates with top-notch opponents.

Wagner and Gettysburg must, of course, rate as the two most dangerous foes. Wagner was the only club able to defeat Albright last year and they did it quite convincingly, 27-8. The Seahawks, however, must play the Lions away from the friendly confines of their home field this season.

Gettysburg, miraculously upset by a hungry group of Albrightians, 19-15, last fall, will be out to avenge that defeat. The fact that the Bullets play host to the Lions certainly aggravates Coach Potsklan's problem to repeat a win over G-burg.

Following, is a run-down on each opponent which will meet the Red and White.

Juniata, Sept. 25

A pair of capable quarterbacks, Jim Sutton and Gary Sheppard, and sophomore running back Steve Horner give coach Fred Prender a strong attack. Defense is Prender's big worry and he intends to platoon. The team is expected to improve on last year's 4-4 record.

Lycoming, Oct. 2

Survivors among the 32 freshmen on the 1-7 squad of '64 are now a year older and the Warriors hope that they will also be wiser. Wayne Miller, quarterback, led the division in total offense last season. A total of 22 lettermen will be joined by transfer fullback Bob Stetson. Definitely improved club.

Gettysburg, Oct. 9

The Bullets have most of the manpower which carried them to the '64 MAC University title, but coach Gene Haas admits that they'll be lacking one of the keys to last year's success — the element of surprise. G-burg will again depend on the right arm of quarterback Jim Ward to lead its pro-style offense. The running game is a little stronger with Rod Albright and Bob Nye expected to carry the load. Pass defense is a question mark and Lions may take to the air when they travel to Gettysburg. Still, the toughest team Albright will face all year.

Delaware Valley, Oct. 16

The Aggies' prospects received a severe jolt when veteran quarterback Gary Ulrich dropped out of school, but Delval still hopes to improve on '64's 3-5 mark. The rest of the backfield returns and sophomore Vince Tanzola, with 33 minutes of collegiate experience behind him, will have to fill Ulrich's shoes. Weak ends will also hurt. Along with Wilkes, the softest team on the Albright sked.

Wagner, Oct. 23

Dick Kotite, pass-catching end, is back. Suffice it to say that he's already been drafted by the National Football League. Coach Bob Hicks has enough veterans to platoon through a tough, nine-game card, but may find it harder than the 10-0 sweep the Hawks enjoyed last year. A rugged team.

Moravian, Oct. 30

All-conference halfback Bill Dry and fullback Hank Nehilla head a team trying to improve on its 4-4 record without a quarterback among 10 lettermen. The Lions demolished Moravian, 40-0, here last season, but the Greyhounds are always tough on Albright teams when they play at home.

Freshman Numbers

Dr. Samuel B. Shirk, Director of Admissions, has released the following statistics on the freshman class:

A total of 370 freshmen have arrived on the Albright campus. Resident students add to 258 while 112 are day students. The "weaker sex" is in the short end of the tally when the class is divided by sex; there are 202 men and 168 women—which leaves 34 fellows "company-less."

Dr. Samuel B. Shirk

Albright's freshmen had to survive a long weeding-out process. The college received close to 6,000 inquiries leading to 1,370 applications. Slightly over half of those applying were accepted (775).

There are two foreign students in the class. Victoria Wu hails from Hong Kong and Helen Renner from Sierra Leone. Miss Wu's brother graduated from Albright a few years ago.

L.V.C., Nov. 6

The Flying Dutchmen lost 19 players from their 4-4 team of last year, but they still have quarterback John Vasily, an outstanding passer. Coach Bill McHenry likes to run out of a Flip-Flop Flanker T and the L. Small and fast squad is bolstered by strongest freshman crop in years. No easy game.

Wilkes, Nov. 13

Fullback Paul Purta, a hard runner, is the only bright spot in the Wilkes picture. The Colonels don't figure to do much better than last fall's 1-6 record. Reliance will be placed on 16 lettermen and several freshmen. Albright all the way.

Drexel, Nov. 20

The last time Drexel faced Albright, the Lions shut out the Philadelphians in a 46-0 romp. That was in 1961, though, when super-star quarterback Gary Chapman was rewriting the Albright record books. Now, the Dragons have two potential Little All-Americans in end Chuck Farrell and tackle Mike Higgins. They will be aiming to dethrone Franklin & Marshall as MAC Southern titlists and since the game with Albright counts as a conference battle, both squads may be playing for championships. It'll be a good one.

church. While he attended United Seminary in 1949-52, the new Albright president was pastor of the Good Shepherd EUB Church in Dayton and, prior to this appointment to the Otterbein staff in 1956, he served the First EUB Church in Pittsburgh. He no longer is a church pastor.

In 1959, Dr. Schultz was selected as Westerville's "Outstanding Young Man of the Year." Currently governor of District 669 of Rotary International, he is listed in "Who's Who in American Education," and in addition, holds membership in the American Alumni Council, the American College Public Relations Assn., and Phi Alpha Theta, the national honorary history fraternity which recently started a chapter on the Albright campus.

His wife, Louise, also a 1949 Otterbein graduate, was a first-grade teacher in the Westerville School District. The couple has two children, Thomas A., 16, and Rebecca, 10.

The Albright first family will reside at 1509 Hampden Boulevard, in a property recently acquired by the college.

Dr. Schultz is the fourth man to serve as Albright president. Previous presidents, in order of service, were Dr. Warren F. Teel, the Rev. Dr. J. Warren Klein, and Dr. Masters. Outgoing president Masters has been named president emeritus and hired by the trustees on a consulting basis.

The new president will officially convene the college's 110th academic year during colorful opening convocation ceremonies at 11 a.m. in the chapel-auditorium tomorrow (Tuesday). Dr. Schultz will address the student body in what marks his first public appearance since coming to Reading.

President and Mrs. Schultz met the 370 members of the freshman class at the traditional tea and reception held in the President's home, Sunday afternoon.

Members of the committee which nominated Dr. Schultz to the college presidency were: Dr. Bollman, chairman, Ulysses S. Estilow, Jr., W. Richard Eshelman, Roy H. Stetler Jr., Mrs. Carl L. N. ## INSURANCE COMPANY SENDS ALBRIGHT AID

Connecticut General Life Insurance Company has given $160 to Albright College under its direct and matching grants Program of Aid to Higher Education.

The company makes direct grants to institutions whose graduates have been salaried employees and career agents of Connecticut General for ten years or more. The direct grants are given annually as long as the graduate remains with the company. In addition, Connecticut General annually matches the gifts made by salaried employees and career agents.

Since 1958 the company has given through this program a total of $358,899 in unrestricted financial aid to private colleges and universities. The amount given this year represents a 37 percent increase over 1964.

FOR FRESHMEN ONLY:

A Community Profile Of Reading, Pennsylvania

"You Can't Top Berks County" is the slogan often heard around these parts and most local residents will try to convince you of that fact when you meet them.

The community of Reading enjoys a traditional friendly relationship with the student body at Albright. The resident freshmen will soon become an integral part of that relationship and The Albrightian hopes this brief guide to Reading will be of help to them.

Reading, the home of Albright College, is one of Pennsylvania's largest cities. Located on the Schuylkill River, the city was laid out in 1748.

Reading is the commercial and industrial center of the Pennsylvania Dutch region with railroad shops and the manufacturing of aluminum, steel and brass products. The seat of Berks County, Reading has a population slightly over 100,000.

In relation to the downtown district of the city, Albright is located in the extreme Northeast corner. The college address is usually given as N. 13th and Exeter Streets, although the campus expands over several blocks.

Penn Street is the main street in Reading. The business sector can be found on Penn Street between 3rd and 4th. The 5th and Penn Circle is regarded as the "heart of the city." The downtown area is some three miles from the college, but easily accessible through public transportation.

Public buses can be boarded on Bern Street, right behind Krause Hall. Any of the lines traveling south from the college will take you to downtown Reading. The "Albright College" line is ideal for the return trip, although both "Tenth Street" and "Twelfth Street" come reasonably close to Albright. One-way fare on all city buses is 23 cents.

There are numerous shops along Penn Street and other neighboring thoroughfares. In addition, the Muhlenberg Shopping Center (about a mile from the college on Route 222) is also popular with Albright students.

Several diners and restaurants are within walking distance. Arner's

Diner and Donny's Sandwich Shop, however, are so close that they are patronized more than the others.

As far as entertainment is concerned, Reading offers a varied, if modest, choice. There are three movie theatres along Penn Street, all between 7th and 8th Streets. The Fox Theatre in the Muhlenberg Center also presents first-run movies. Three drive-in-theatres complete the motion picture set-up.

Bowling and golfing are available at a number of lanes and golf centers. Other activities include dances, plays, roller skating, and billiards.

Attending sports events is another popular pastime with many Albrightians. In addition to Albright events, there are high school contests. Several scholastic football games are waged at Albright Stadium on days when the Lions are playing away from home.

Some of the local landmarks which may be visited include the famous Pagoda atop Mount Penn, the Reading Museum, Crystal Cave (between Reading and Kutztown), the Ephrata Cloisters, and some of the manufacturing centers which often sponsor student tours.

The communications field is well covered in Berks County. In addition to their own radio station and newspaper, Albrightians can choose from two daily Reading papers—"The Eagle" and "The Times," three AM radio stations—WRAW, WE-EU and WHUM—one FM station—WRFY—and the four television channels which reach Reading: Channels Three (NBC), Six (ABC), and Ten (CBS) all from Philadelphia and independent Channel Eight from Lancaster.

Dean Weislogel...

As a fraternity man, I definitely believe they have a definite place in the college. I am in favor of frats because they do a lot for their members, but they must take more positive campus and community action."

Q—Is there any area in which you have been particularly warned to expect trouble from the students?

A—Everyone seems to complain about the lack of social activities. The college, I feel, is doing pretty much considering its resources. Perhaps we should emphasize what we have now and get the support of the students in these activities before expanding. Here's where better communications can really help.

Q—Have you encountered any problems which set Albright apart from other similar colleges?

A—Most of the issues I have heard so far were not unusual. The average college has the same problems (drinking, discipline, student apathy, lack of communication, poor spirit). In general, campus activities all over the country have failed to attract students. There's always a few leaders who do most of the work while the rest of the students sit by and criticize.

Q—How do you view campus activities?

A—To me, campus activities are extremely important. First, they are an integral part of a college education. We learn, not only through texts, but through meeting new people and engaging in new activities. And secondly, a healthy mind must be occupied with different things. Every student should have some way of "relaxing" or "taking a break" from the classroom routines.

Frosh To Pull For 'Freedom'

"Liberty or Death" will be the motto of 370 freshmen on the night of October 8. As part of a special pep rally for the football team, the class of '69 will face an "All Star" team of upperclassmen in a tug-of-war. Should the frosh emerge triumphant, customs will end that night. If the "better team wins," the dreaded customs will remain in effect until October 12.

This new angle to the customs period is one of the many changes introduced by Student Council's Orientation Committee, capably headed by Ron Davis, '66. Hope Schweitzer, '67, and Ron Blum, '66, are in charge of customs.

The customs period will not officially begin until tomorrow (Tuesday) when the class of '69 is presented to Student Council President Emmett Venett, '66, during the convocation program in the Chapel. From that point on, the lowly frosh are required to don dinks, bear badges and carry Compasses. Freshmen are, of course, also expected to obey upperclassmen's orders, ranging anywhere from the usual "Button!" to an improvised singing of the Alma Mater.

Tomorrow's convocation brings to a halt the activities of the Orientation Committee. Upperclassmen who worked on the committee returned to the campus last Wednesday and were on hand to greet the freshman class which arrived the following day.

An all-campus dance will be held tonight (Monday) in the gym. Sponsored by Student Council and the Orientation Committee, the event has been dubbed "The Frosh Rush." A seven-piece band from Baltimore, Md., will provide the music.

Numerous events were arranged for the benefit of the new Albrightians and the orientation committee took active part in aiding the freshmen to become acquainted with the "Albright way." The emphasis of the Orientation period fell on the academic life.

"We don't want the freshmen to think," explained Chairman Davis, "that college life is 95 per cent social and the rest academic. I hope that they get used to the idea that studying should be their number one activity."

The events arranged for Orientation included an outdoor barbecue, meetings with academic advisors and college officials, book discussions and tours of the library, a picnic and the traditional President's reception which took place in the Dining Hall yesterday (Sunday).

WAIT A MINUTE

According to science author Richard Carrington, if the whole of earth's history were compressed into a single year, the first eight months would be completely without life.

The following two months would be devoted to the most primitive creatures, ranging from viruses and single-celled bacteria to jellyfish. Mammals would not appear until the second week in December.

Man as he is today would not be found until 11:45 p.m. on December 31. And the age of written history would occupy little more than the last 60 seconds of the year.
