ROBESONIA'S FINEST—This is the magnificent "Decor" of Robesonia where the annual Junior-Senior Dinner Dance will be held on Saturday, April 16. The magnificent building will serve as site for one of the top social events of the Albright year. Other events scheduled for the same weekend are a special appearance by The Mitchell Trio, a road rallye and a Sunday brunch. Tickets for these activities are now on sale.

Deluxe Dinner Dance Designed For Robesonia 'Decor' April 16

By Marc Wallack

Robesonia will become the Paris of Berks County on Saturday evening, April 16. On this night, Albright College will hold its world-renowned Junior-Senior Dance.

Members of New York's Jet Set and "In" Crowd have frequently complained about their inability to attend this greatest of all American society events. However, the Albright directors have again chosen to limit admission to juniors and seniors of Albright. Such a policy has focused the world spotlight on this campus each April (see TIME, April 19, 1965, and Pravda, April 20, 1965). As usual, there is a mad rush for tickets (only 150 couples may attend).

The Prom Committee—led by Ellen Winters and Marc Wallack—was posed with an unusual problem this year: an overabundance of attractive halls. Finally, the magnificent "Decor" of Robesonia was chosen from among a list which included "Marty's," "Arner's," "Marvel Ranch," and "Gus". The choice was apparently a wise one since the "Decor" was also the site of the Hunter Club's 125th Anniversary Dinner. The dinner will begin at 7:45 p.m. Catering will be by the master—Charcoal Chef (winner of the 1923 "Police Gazette Gourmet Award"). The incomparable menu—which has been copied by "The Four Seasons," "The Waldorf," and "Le Pavillon," is, of course, the Supreme Royale:

Fruit Cup
Roast Sirloin of Beef
Baked Potato
String Beans with Mushrooms
Salad (with choice of dressing).
Dessert—custard pie.

This year the Committee has outdone itself: it has provided dinner music (on tapes), both prior to and during the meal.

It has been the custom for vocal, instrumental and comedy groups from all over the nation to submit applications for a chance to perform

Daymen Will Sponsor Annual Road Rallye

The Daymen's Association of Albright College will sponsor its First Annual Road Rallye on April 16 as part of the Junior-Senior Weekend. All students and faculty are invited to participate.

Trophies will be presented to each driver and his or her navigator for the first three places. A dash plaque goes to each car entered. Experience in rallies is not a prerequisite for participating. Any car in legal driving condition can enter for the entry price of $3.00. This fee is substantially cheaper than that of other local rallies.

The Rallye is not a race. It is instead a standard-time-rate-distance event. The object is to match the "perfect" time computed beforehand by the rally master.

The 50-mile course laid out by the rally master includes printed copies of the designated speeds and clues for the route to be followed. Scoring is computed according to the time consumed. The contestant coming closest to the rally master's "official time" is declared the winner.

The rally is limited to the first

BIG DOUBLEHEADER:

Cheyney, LIU Favored Over Albright and Drexel In NCAA Regional Play

A standing-room only crowd is expected to be on hand when the nation's number one small college basketball team invades the Albright College Field House tomorrow (Friday) night to do battle with the recently-crowned Middle Atlantic Conference champions of Coach Will Renken.

Cheyney State, ranked first in the country according to one wire service poll, will be a heavy favorite to oust the unranked Lions from further NCAA playoff competition. In the opening game of the deluxe doubleheader, eighth-ranked Long Island University will be favored to beat Drexel Tech, the MAC runner up team.

Cheyney is carrying a 25-0 record and a 26-game winning streak. The last game the Wolves of Coach Hal Blittman lost was last year at the Albright Field House against L.I.U. Height will be the biggest factor in favor of Cheyney; Blittman's charges feature a forward line which averages 6-7 and is headed by giant Hal Booker, a 6-10 center. Albright's front court averages a mere 6-3 and is led by Joe Lobl chusky, 6-7.

However, the game may be decided in the backcourt. Cheyney's top scorer is Frank Kunze, a deadly shot from the outside, with a 20.3 norm per game. It will be up to Albright's defense to contain the Wolves and for Mike Klahr and Billy Kudrick to carry the scoring load. Klahr is fresh off a sensational showing under pressure in the MAC playoffs. Kudrick, taking over the floor generalship, is Coach Renken's defensive specialist.

In the evening's opener, Drexel Tech will also depend on defense to thwart the high-scoring Blackbirds. Paced by the shooting of Larry Newbold and Albie Grant and the playmaking of Barry Leibowitz, L.I.U. boasts a powerful offense. The New Yorkers come into the tournament off a smashing upset of NYU's Violets at Madison Square Garden. For the Dragons, it will be the shooting of Dick Stanton and the rebounding of Bob Ferguson.

Tomorrow's losers will meet in Saturday's consolation opener while the winners clash for the championship. The overall winner gets an automatic berth to the small college national playoffs in Evansville, Indiana. Should Albright qualify, it will be the first time in the school's history that a team attends a national tournament.

PAT's Go Bond

The Pi Alpha Tau sorority has released top security plans for a secret agent dinner to be served to Albright students (excluding Spectre members) on Sunday, March 6, from 5:30 to 8:00 P.M. For a suave 00.77 cents, all agents who rendezvous at the PAT house will be treated to a menu consisting of Bondburgers, Goldfinger chips, Spectre sticks, 007 ale and Odd Job desserts. Entertainment will be provided by Thunderball performers.

On Friday evening, April 15th, the Class of 1967 in conjunction with Student Council, will present for the second time in one year, a "big name group," as the opening event of the Junior-Senior Weekend. The junior class has assumed the responsibility of handling the ticket sales, seating, publicity, and co-ordination of the evening—The Mitchell Trio in Concert.

The Mitchell Trio, formerly known as The Chad Mitchell Trio, is a world renowned folk as well as popular singing group. They have toured major cities throughout the world and have visited hundreds of college campuses all over the United States. Their L.P.'s are available in record stores everywhere.

Using the Four Seasons' concert as a foundation, the committee has planned each phase of this operation with care. There has been a stepped-up effort to include other area colleges and universities in the publicity. Through intercollegiate advertising it is hoped to draw more people to the concert to insure its success. Mail order coupons will be printed on each leaflet, another improvement over the previous concert.

Due to the fact that Easter vacation ends just four days before the concert, tickets will be sold at the College Relations Office in the Administration Building. The prices for this concert will be the same as that of the Four Seasons—$2, $2.50, and $3.

Junior-Senior Weekend Plans Revealed Today

Plans for the Junior-Senior weekend have been made and the schedule of events formulated. The weekend will begin Friday, April 15 with the Mitchell Trio in concert at the Albright College Field House. This event is open to all students, and tickets may be purchased in every dorm and from campus representatives to be announced later. Ticket prices will run $2.00, $2.50, and $3.00.

Saturday, April 16, at 10:00 a.m., there will be the first annual Daymen's "Road Rallye" with a 50 mile course. The road rallye is limited to 100 cars, and the cars need not be registered at Albright College. Six trophies will be awarded to each 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place cars. The driver of the car must be an Albright student, but the navigator need not be an Albright student.

The original Selwyn Hall
... once a beer garden.

Co-Ed Reviews Colorful History Of Selwyn Hall

By Sue Veghte

Can you imagine going into Selwyn Hall and ordering a beer? If you had lived 50 years ago this would have been possible.

The erection of the campus' oldest building took place in the summer of 1836. It was built by Jonathan Deiningner. He and his wife, Mary Elizabeth Muhlenberg Deiningner, moved into the mansion in the fall of that year after spending a two-year honeymoon in Europe.

After only four years of marriage, Mary Deiningner died shortly after giving birth to her son. Thus, Deiningner Mansion was leased by David P. Lash and became a summer picnic resort, popular especially on the Fourth of July. Mr. Lash made quite a profit on the various beverages that he sold there.

In September, 1875, the building was purchased by the Episcopal Diocese of Central Pennsylvania to be used as a boys' school. It opened in October under the direction of Bishop Howe who selected the name "Selwyn." George Augustus Selwyn had preached the sermon at the convention where Howe had been made a Bishop. The two became good friends and Howe named his school in Bishop Selwyn's honor.

Selwyn was a very expensive preparatory school with a rather exclusive student body known as cadets. At this time the interior was changed to make the building usable as a school. A new playroom filled the basement and a dining room, dormitory, and reading room were added in the rear. Later the hall featured steam pipes and lighting fixtures.

A gymnasium and armory became the second building of the prep school, now known as White Chapel Hall. At the time of construction, however, it had only one story. What today is Alumni Memorial Hall was built as a gymnasium in 1892 and it connected with White Chapel by means of a corridor.

Selwyn Hall was closed down in 1895 for numerous reasons, but mainly because of the lack of adequate funds. So the building was left empty except for being leased for occasional use as a beer garden and recreational center.

In 1902 Selwyn Hall was purchased by the Schuylkill Seminary which was originally in Fredericksburg. For the first years the building and grounds received much-needed improvement and the enrollment increased steadily. The new location, which was a controversial issue at first, proved to be quite an asset.

The seminary became Schuylkill College in 1923 and five years later when Albright College consolidated with Schuylkill, the huge building remained as a home for college women.

HERROLD QUILTS ADMISSIONS POST

A member of Albright's administrative staff, Thomas Herrold, recently resigned from his position. Herrold, who served as Admissions Counselor, left Albright College on February 19th in order to begin preparation for the Christian ministry. He will study at the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio. Mrs. Herrold, the former Sharon Dinsmore, had been a junior at Albright and she left for Ohio with her husband.

Mr. Herrold began his stay at Albright during the summer of 1965. After his graduation from Albright in 1964, he spent half a year at the Lancaster Theological Seminary and half a year on the administrative staff at a children's home in Reading. While serving as Admissions Counselor, he visited over two hundred high schools in Pennsylvania and in the neighboring states of New Jersey, Delaware, New York, Maryland, and Virginia.

Dr. Samuel Shirk announced that no successor has been named to fill the vacated position.

Astronomer Addresses Albright Convocation

Dr. Harlow Shapley, internationally known astronomer, author and scientist, was the featured speaker at the 12th annual Albright College convocation held in the dining hall last Saturday night. Approximately 600 persons were on hand for the affair.

Dr. Shapley, who spoke on "Galaxies and Mankind," has a bachelor of arts and master's degrees from the University of Missouri and his doctor of philosophy degree in 1913 from Princeton University. The 80-year old astronomer held the post of director of the Harvard University observatory for 31 years.

Samuel C. Gundy, director of the Reading Public Museum and Art Gallery, introduced the speaker. Professor Clyde A. Harding directed the discussion period that followed the address. Dr. Ellery B. Haskell was chairman of the convocation committee.

President Arthur L. Schultz extended greetings and the Rev. Roger A. Krause, pastor of Nativity Lutheran Church in Reading, offered the invocation.

The largest fish ever brought in on a rod was a 2,664-pound, 16-foot, 10-inch man eating shark, reeled in by Alf Dean at Denon Bay, South Australia.

Alpha Phi Omega Hosting Annual Conference Tomorrow

Albright's Mu Eta Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega will be sponsoring Section 24's annual Sectional Conference this weekend. Over 175 brothers from more than 20 different colleges and universities, such as Lehigh University, American University, University of Pennsylvania, University of Maryland, University of Delaware, and the University of Virginia will be attending.

The purpose of this conference will be mainly the exchange of ideas on such items as publicity, service projects, and chapter programs. Many of the dignitaries of the fraternity will be attending, such as the First National Vice President, E. Ross Forman and the founder of Alpha Phi Omega, Frank R. Horton. It is through a sectional conference that the fraternity is rejuvenated and able to reach even higher goals on the campuses of over 400 colleges and universities in the United States

Student Reviewer Prefers 'Loneliness' Over Two Other Films Shown During Festival

By Robert Burnett

Last week, the faculty and student body of Albright College observed the annual Religion-in-Life week. The highlight of the program was the showing of several films, each of which was concerned with the theme, "The Image of Man".

On Monday evening, the award-winning English film, "The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner" was shown. Classes were cancelled on Tuesday so that the entire student body could view the other two films. However, due to visual difficulties, only one film, "Ikiru", was shown during the day. That evening the final film, the Brazilian "The Given Word", was presented.

The Religion in Life committee had originally planned to make the viewing of the last two films compulsory but the aforementioned difficulties changed their plans. It also seems that the committee would have made a better choice if it had selected "The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner" as one of the compulsory films.

"The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner" was, in this reviewer's opinion, the best of the three films. Tom Courtney excellently portrayed Colin Smith, a teenager raised in the English industrial slums, who has been sent to reform school for robbing a bakery. While serving out his sentence he became a runner on the school's long distance team and was pampered by the school's administration because of his excellence in the sport.

At the climax of the film, the running of the race, Smith is ahead by a sizeable distance but suddenly stops and lets the opposing team win, much to the disappointment of the reformatory's administration and his fellow inmates. This scene clearly shows the forces acting on Smith and how he finally decides to face them. These forces, his girl, his mother, his dead father, the administration, and his friends, are woven together in a series of effective flashbacks that clearly indicate the confusion and complexity of his life.

"Ikiru", a Japanese film meaning "To Live", was a long, drawn out, subtle-ridden complexity. The fact that it was shown in Krause Hall did not add much enjoyment for one had to strain his neck to get even a glimpse of the subtitles. The film revolved about a dying man and his attempt to live a new life in his last few months. He experiences and is sickened by the bustling city night life and he is elated and soon depressed over his experience with a young girl who eventually finds more important things in life than him. The strong point in favor of the film was the lead actor's ability to show vividly his wide emotional experiences. The film is more than a comment on one man; it shows all men and their stereotyped existences. This mundane, routine existence finally finds joy and salvation in death.

The final film, "The Given Word", runs a close second behind "The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner". It is the story of a Brazilian farmer who undertakes a vow by carrying a cross thirty miles only to find that the church regards his vow as a pagan rite. Refused admittance to the church, he waits outside, while his wife is being seduced, and finds himself a pawn of newspapermen and pagan worshippers. In the powerful but tragic ending the peaceful farmer is ironically killed in a riot and is symbolically taken into the church on the cross he carried—a martyr to his beliefs.

Not only does the film portray the poor farmer's torment but it also comments on the civilization of man. The church's inability to serve its parishioners, the anything-for-a-buck newspaper racket, paganism, and still baser practices are exposed.

and abroad. Registration will be held in the college dining hall, followed by discussion groups. Dr. Charles Raith will attend the Parliamentary Procedures group, William Housum will help with the Publicity group, and Joseph Hays from the Peace Corps will attend the Service Projects discussion group.

Albright Records Athletic History With Second Straight Middle Atlantic Hoop Title

For the first time in its history, Albright College's basketball team has won two consecutive Middle Atlantic Championships. The charges of Coach Will Renken entered the post-season title playoffs at the St. Joseph's Field House last weekend with the worst over-all record among the four entries. However, by Saturday night, the gutty Lions had upset two teams fresh off their best seasons ever and retained the coveted MAC tiara.

It took a superb team performance both nights, but the Red and White crew was up to it. Paced by the incredible shooting of Captain Mike Klahr (56 points and 62 per cent from the field in the two nights), Albright was definitely "on the warpath."

Everyone who played had a valuable contribution to make: Billy Kudrick continued his string of outstanding floor games by scoring 27 points and dishing out ten assists; Joe Lobichusky rebounded ferociously and did a solid job in defense; Andy Mytinger, playing under serious physical handicaps, hustled as hard as ever and had six "steals" in the championship game; Mike Eckenroth came back from a poor shooting night against Lycoming to score some big points against Drexel and George Ritter's play enabled Renken to rest Lobichusky and avoid any foul troubles. Although Klahr and his shooting dazzled all observers, the championship repeat was a tribute to team work and good coaching.

Albright 58 Drexel 45
The "battle of the defenses" became the showcase of Mike Klahr and of the Lion defenders. Drexel displayed a fine man-for-man defense, but the Dragon shooters could not halt Klahr and failed to get untracked in the attack.

Albright never trailed and was only tied once at 2-2, but did not enjoy easy sailing until the second half. Leading 28-22 after 20 minutes of play, the Lions shocked the large Drexel delegation by running off 16 straight to lead 44-22 before the Dragons finally tallied with 12:24 remaining. This was the same trouble experienced by Drexel the first night when the Dragons saw a 24-point lead cut to 14 by ten straight Haverford scores at the outset of the second half.

Klahr hit on 11 of 14 field goal tries and made Drexel coach Sam Cozen a good forecaster. Before the game, Cozen had called Klahr "the best player in the league." After the redhead's performance in the playoffs, just about all the spectators at the St. Joe's field house would agree with Cozen.

Mike finished with 25 points and Billy Kudrick with 12. Joe Lobichusky led in rebounds with eight.

Dance Reset For March 11

The Freshman-Sophomore dance originally scheduled for February 25, has been tentatively re-scheduled for March 11. All changes for the event, the theme of which is "Mardi Gras," are tentative. It may be held in the dining hall lounge instead of in Krause Hall and it may be informal instead of semi-formal. Bill Stoyko, '68, and Herb Rogove, '69, presidents of their respective classes, are the organizers. The first postponement was caused by Albright's participation in the Middle Atlantic Basketball Conference playoffs in Philadelphia.

Albright 76 Lycoming 68

Avenging an early 73-59 setback, Albright knocked Lycoming out of the NCAA playoffs with a thrilling victory. Getting off to a bad start, the Lions trailed 10-1 in the early going and it looked like a Warrior romp. Fortunately, Coach Renken grouped his forces and, by halftime, Albright had the lead, 35-29. The second 20 minutes were hard-fought, but the Lions grimly hung on to their slim advantage.

Klahr, making 15 of 28 shots, was outscored by Bud Frampton (35), but not outplayed. While the canny Warrior simply brought the ball downcourt and launched jump shot after shot, Klahr had to "earn" his fielders with a classy repertoire of moves.

Billy Kudrick added 15 to the Lion cause, but his defensive contribution was worth some 18 more. Kudrick held the Division's Most Valuable Player, Ron Travis, to a mere six points—18 under his seasonal norm. Joe Lobichusky, a demon of the boards, had 16 rebounds as Lycoming was outrebounded, 55-38.

Albright 80 Wilkes 63

In a "warm up" contest, the Lions easily disposed of the Wilkes Colonels at the Albright Field House. Making use of its height advantage, Albright outleaped Wilkes, 60-38, with Lobichusky grabbing 18, Kudrick 12 and John Scholl 10.

Klahr, in an 11-for-16 floor show, scored 25 and Eckenroth added 20. Wilkes, sparked by freshman Ruben Daniels, stayed within range of the home forces for a while, but finally succumbed to inexperience. The game was marred by the expulsion of Andy Mytinger from the game following a melee under the basket.

Travis Selected MVP, Klahr on Stellar Team In Northern Division

Lycoming College's Ron Travis, a 6-2 forward, was named the Middle Atlantic Conference (Northern Division) Most Valuable Player previous to the league championships held last weekend. The award, based on the ballots of MAC coaches, came only minutes before Travis suffered through a six-point night against Albright.

The All-Division first team featured, in addition to Travis, Albright's Mike Klahr, Lycoming's Dick O'Donnell, Elizabethtown's John Lentz, and Scranton's Rhett Jenkins.

Klahr, who really sparkled in the playoffs, was a backcourt selection along with Jenkins. O'Donnell, a 6-5 marksmen, plays the pivot and Travis and Lentz the forward slots. Albright's other guard, Bill Kudrick, was chosen to the second team along with Susquehanna's Rick Eppheimer and Fran Duncheskie, Jack Fry of Moravian and Bob Tardio of Scranton. No other Albright performer was mentioned.

The Southern Division All Stars comprised Hunt Rawlings, Haverford, the loop's most valuable player; Bob Ferguson and Dick Stanton, Drexel; Ned Russell, Franklin and Marshall and John Vaszily, Lebanon Valley.

during the event. Many now-famous groups received their start at this Prom—such as the comedy team of Lou and Mary. This year, however, the response has exceeded all expectations: 700 different individuals and groups applied. Allen and Marc spent many long hours together deciding whom to pick, but the choices were inevitable. Marc Allen's band from the city of Philadelphia—which led the winter resort circuit—will provide the music for the dance. Of course, there is more: three one-half hour floor shows will be provided by the Tymes, a world-renowned group, who have had two records hit the top ten sheets.

The theme for the dance is "Misty." The choice, you will have to agree, is extremely clever. All the credit for this title goes to Mr. Wallace, who devoted 17 weeks of profound thought to its development. The beauty of the already magnificent "Decor" will be further enhanced by decorations coordinated by a professional designer. The finished product is almost unimaginable.

After weeks of secret meetings involving the Board of Trustees and the Administration a startling concession has been granted: women's curfews have been extended to 2 a.m. We should all give heart-felt thanks to the "Big Boys" for this magnanimous gift.

Conference Stats Show Albright, Lycoming On Top

Albright College's recently crowned Middle Atlantic Conference champions led all other Northern Division teams in defense for the second straight year. The Lions were credited with a 60.5 defensive average in the final MAC statistics.

Rick Eppheimer, Susquehanna's prime gunner, led the entire MAC in scoring with a 28.8 average, and yet could only land a second-team All Division berth. Lycoming's Ron Travis finished second with a 23.9 norm. Albright's backcourt duo of Mike Klahr and Billy Kudrick finished sixth and thirteenth respectively. Mike carried a 19.7 average and Billy a 15.5 record.

Scranton's center Bob McGrath ended with the best field goal percentage (.667) easily ahead of Chris Grubb, Elizabethtown, who had a .567. Albright's Andy Mytinger came in fourth with a .539 mark.

Bud Frampton, Lycoming's flashy guard, barely edged Albright's Mike Klahr for foul shooting honors, .837 to .818. Frampton converted 31 of 37 attempts to Klahr's 54 for 66 showing. Travis led all leapers in rebounds with 16.8 per game; Upsala's Bill Zaranka was second with 15.1 retrieves per contest. No Albright player crashed the top ten.

In combined team performances, Lycoming led in most points scored with 93.0 a game and Elizabethtown's 82.5 was second. Scranton's excellent .500 field goal percentage was tops with Susquehanna second at .444. Elizabethtown and lowly Wilkes were tied for foul shooting honors with identical .700 marks. The Blue Jays also led in rebounds (61.3 a game) with Lycoming second at 54.7.

Albright totally dominated the defensive record. The Lions held other quintets to 60.5 a game and to a poor .375 field goal percentage — excellent proof the Renkenmen's sticky defense. Scranton was second in the points department allowing but 72.2 and Moravian's defense held opposing shooters to .407 from the field.

Zetas, Independent Women Grab First Place in Sports Night

Albright College held its annual Sports Night on Friday, February 18, sponsored by the World University Service affiliated to Albright's YM-YWCA. Proceeds from the program were given to the Freedom From Hunger Association and distributed to needy people throughout the world.

Co-chairmen for the event were Cynthia Clark, '68, and Creighton Miller, '66, and the judges were President Arthur L. Schultz, Dean Louis F. Weislogel, Dr. Charles A. Raith, Professor Philip A. Eyrich, Dr. Charles E. Kistler, Coach Joseph R. Now, and Coach William D. Popp.

Sports Night consisted of eleven events for men and nine for women. The Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity copped seven out of the eleven first places by winning the rope climb; horse and rider; tug of war; basketball relay; hop, step, jump; medicine ball put; and the tag relays. The Pi Tau won the ping pong tournament, standing broad jump, and tied the Zetas in football accuracy. Alpha Phi Omega pulled the high jump into their bag. Respectively, the scores for Zeta, Pi Tau, and Alpha Phi Omega were 76, 40, and 23.

Honors for women were taken by the Independents, who tallied 51 points by taking first places in badminton, volleyball accuracy, basketball throw, and the standing broad jump. The Pats, however, gave the Independents stiff competition by finishing a mere 11 points behind. The Pats copped dizzy izzy, potato sack relay, high jump, and the tag relay. The Mus finished third with 32 points by taking the basketball relay.

Accepting the trophy for the Zetas was Andy Mytinger, '67, and for the Independents Lydia Rhoades, '66.

points scored and field goal percentage (24.0 and .525 respectively); Al Wise of Muhlenberg in foul shooting (.872); Haverford's Hunter Rawlings in rebounding (17.0); Dickinson in team offense (79.8 points a game) and Drexel in defense (54.8 per tilt).

FILM FESTIVAL REVIEWED . . .

In summary, all of these films had much in common in that they dealt with the harshness of life and the characters' overcoming of this in one way or another. Smith, in "Loneliness", conquered it by satisfying his ego in letting another win the race. The old man in "Ikiru" found life in death. The farmer in "Word" found salvation from this existence in death—by being carried into the church which was the object of his pilgrimage. It is hoped that from these films the viewers learn something of life and how to get the most out of it.

'THE COCKTAIL PARTY'

Ed Rinehimer Will Play Lead In Domino Play

By Carol Heckman

Dr. Samuel B. Shirk, director of the Domino Players, has announced that the spring production of the club will be The Cocktail Party by T. S. Elliot. This play opened in 1950 in New York with Alec Guinness playing the part of Sir Hen Harcourt-Reilly.

The drama concerns the search for personal identity—a more vital and appropriate question now than it was in 1950. The main question the characters are asking themselves is: who am I? Four of the seven characters have intertwined destinies, and three others are seen in the light of spiritual guardians.

The setting is a party where trivial, hollow conversation is contrasted with character problems in contemporary England. Dr. Shirk has revealed the cast to be as follows: Sir Henry Harcourt-Reilly, a psychiatrist and a representation of deity is played by Edwin Rinehimer, '67; Joan Carvell, '66, plays the part of Julia; Edward is played by Roger Mallon, '69; Lavinia is Ginnine Cocuzza, '69; Roy Kissinger, '69, has the part of Alex; Henry Shipman, '68, is Peter; the nurse and secretary is played by Veda Jamison, '68; Celia is played by Karen Masonheimer, '69; Joad Kazan, '69, plays the caterer's man.

Richard Merk, '69, is in charge of staging; the lighting director and stage manager for the play are Ginnine Cocuzza, '69, and Susan Wagner, '69, respectively.

The Cocktail Party will be presented at 8:15 p.m. on March 18 and 19 at Krause Hall. This production in blank verse will also be held arena style.

Comprehensive Career Development Plan for College Graduates Helps You Grow Swiftly into Positions of Responsibility and Exceptional Challenge.

The Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) is a unique, independent organization serving diverse intelligence requirements of the Department of Defense. We are active in many areas directly or indirectly related to national security... probing not only purely military conditions, trends and forces, but also pertinent economic, social, cultural, physical, geographic and scientific factors.

Each year we seek out qualified individuals for DIA's entry level Career Development Plan. This is a program designed both to equip you for a responsible and challenging permanent career position, and enable you to complete most or all requirements for an advanced degree.

THREE-MONTH ORIENTATION COURSE

All college graduate recruits attend a three-month Intelligence Orientation Course. Its objectives are to orient the trainee to the Department of Defense generally and the Defense Intelligence Agency specifically, with particular emphasis on the role of civilian analysts in the military intelligence community.

Following completion of this course, trainees are assigned to substantive areas of work related to their disciplines. At the beginning of the second year, you will be selected for a specific assignment leading to a position as permanent member of the work force.

OPPORTUNITY FOR ADVANCED STUDY

All trainees are eligible for educational programs leading to advanced degrees. These opportunities—plus many additional training opportunities—may be provided either during or after normal working hours (or both).

You will find that the advantages of a career at DIA are many and varied, including the liberal fringe benefits associated with Federal employment. Our locations (the Pentagon and nearby Arlington, Va.) afford your choice of city, suburban or country living... and a wealth of recreational, cultural, historical and educational attractions are within a few minutes' drive.

And by no means least, you will derive much satisfaction from contributing personally to the achievement of vital national objectives.
