Nancy Lou Walker To Star In Domino Fall Production

Mrs. Shirk To Direct Van Druten Play

Nancy Lou Walker has been cast in the leading female role in "Bell, Book and Candle," the Domino Club's fall production. The play will be presented before the public October 29, 30 and 31, Mrs. Annadora V. Shirk, director, has announced. The production will be given in the White Chapel.

NANCY LOU WALKER

The play, a sophisticated love story, is from the pen of John van Druten, author of "I Am a Camera," "Voice of the Turtle," and "I Remember Mama." One of the author's greatest comedy successes, it has just been released recently and enjoyed a long run with Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer in the starring roles.

Miss Walker is cast in the role of Gillian Holroyd, who casts a spell over an unattached publisher, partly to keep him away from a rival and partly because she is attracted to him. He falls head of heels in love with her at once, and wants to marry her. But witches, unfortunately, cannot fall in love, and this minute imperfection leads to a number of difficulties. Ultimately the lady breaks off with her companions in witchery.

Others in the cast include: Auntie Guenie Holroyd, played by Jacqueline Zwoyer, who will be remembered as starring in "Madwoman of Chailot." Gillian's brother, Nicky, is played by James Schmidt. Robert Nicholas plays the role of Mr. Redlitch.

Miss Walker, a veteran performer on the Albright stage, has taken many lead roles in past productions. Last spring, she starred in "Barefoot in Athens." During the summer she was an apprentice in the Green Hills summer theater company and appeared in four plays, assuming the lead in "The Importance of Being Earnest." Miss Walker is president of the Domino Club, Pi Alpha Tau sorority and Sigma Tau Delta.

R. Miller To Speak At Evening Vespers

Robert Miller, sophomore pre-ministerial student, will speak at Vespers in Sylvan Chapel, Wednesday, October 7 at 7:00 p. m.

Every Sunday and Wednesday evenings such services are conducted by pre-theological students. All students are invited to attend.

Three Albright Students Receive Tuition Grants

Three Berks County students received full-tuition scholarships to Albright College from the Carpenter Steel foundation, Albright President Harry V. Masters announced today.

Kenneth and Henry Greenawald, 4238 Seventh Ave., Temple, and Jacqueline Zwoyer, 817 Pear St., were awarded the newly created scholarships amounting to $550 for the current year.

The Greenawald brothers, pre-medical students, are sons of the late Paul B. Greenawald, a former executive of the Carpenter Steel Co., and Helen M. Greenawald. They are graduates of Muhlenberg High School.

Miss Zwoyer is the daughter of Paul and Irene Zwoyer. A graduate of Reading High School, she is now in her senior year. Her activities include the presidency of the Future Teachers of America and participation in several Domino Club plays. She has also worked on the staff of the college newspaper and the yearbook.

Both Greenawalds are active in musical organizations on the Albright campus.

"Y" To Feature Fireside Chats

"What Is Love?" is the topic for discussion at the "Y" Fireside Chats next Tuesday, October 6. There will be a student recorder in each of the groups, which will meet at professors' homes. The student recorders, Raymond Horan and Stella Tryka, will make a composite report from their groups discussion which will then appear in feature form in the following issue of the Albrightian.

Transportation will be provided to the professors' homes and back to the college again for those desiring it. Please meet in front of the White Chapel at 7:30 p. m. when the group will be divided into smaller groups.

This week, the Fall Frolic, proved to be a success by more than 125 students enjoying an evening of games and entertainment. Fred Hess was in charge of the program.

Cultural Programs To Open October 22

The 1953-54 Cultural Program Series will include five programs this season, according to a recent announcement by the committee. The series will open on October 22, and will feature Irene Hawthorne, a dancer. On December 3, Maurice Hindus will speak on "America and Russia: Peace or War."

Earle Spicer, a ballad singer, will be the guest artist on January 14, and on March 11 the students will be entertained by Robert McFerrin, a baritone. Richard Corson, an actor, will present Platform Portraits as a close to the series on April 22. The Culture programs will be offered during the regular chapel periods.

Open House

Sherman Cottage will be open to the public this afternoon from 1 to 5 p. m. and this evening from 7 to 9 p. m. The "open house" is planned to display the newly decorated interior. Refreshments will be served. Patricia Eisenbise will serve as hostess.

Homecoming Plans Listed

Plans for the annual Homecoming celebration, which is scheduled to take place October 23-24, are now under way.

The program which was drawn up by the student committee has been approved by the alumni, who met at a special committee meeting on Saturday, September 26. The student group, co-sponsors of Homecoming Weekend with the alumni committee, had been awaiting the go-ahead signal from the latter group.

Candidates for Homecoming Queen are to be elected by each campus organization and the winner will be decided by an all-campus election. The girl selected to rule over the weekend's festivities will be crowned during intermission of the annual Ivy Ball, this year being held on Friday night of Homecoming.

Several campus groups have already selected candidates for queen. All entries must be in the hands of the queen committee by Tuesday of next week.

James Barret, president of Student Council, is representing the students on the Homecoming planning committee. Rev. Dean Allen, president of the Alumni Association will serve as co-chairman with Barrett.

Rev. Homer Trickett Chosen To Address Fall Y Retreat

Council Meets At Masters' Home For Informal Chat

Dr. and Mrs. Harry V. Masters entertained the members of Student Council at their home on Wednesday evening, September 30.

The meeting was planned to provide discussion on a less formal plane. Between twenty and twenty-five council members were present.

Several problems relating to student activities were discussed. The matter of Student Council's budget was talked over and it was proposed that an investigating committee be appointed to try to lessen the financial burden now being carried by the budget.

A suggestion was made by a member of council that evaluation of faculty members be made every two years rather than every four years, as the program is set up now. It was decided that such an evaluation requires too much time to warrant repeating every two years.

A plan whereby students and faculty could meet together in an informal situation was introduced. Such a meeting would help promote student-faculty relationships outside of the classroom.

It was brought to the attention of the group that there has been a definite increase in campus activity interest over past years. The change has also brought about positive reactions among inter-student relations.

Local Pastor To Speak On "How God Guides"

Rev. Homer L. Trickett, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Reading, will be the speaker at the Fall Y Retreat at Camp Fern Brook, Saturday and Sunday, October 17 and 18. The general topic for the week end is, "How God Guides."

A graduate of Newburg High School, Newburg, W. Va., Rev. Trickett received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Salem College, where he graduated magna cum laude. He had much experience with young people while in Corzer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., where he graduated with the Bachelor of Divinity degree. Continuing his studies at the seminary, he later received the Master of Theology degree in the field of Church History.

Before coming to Reading, Rev. Trickett was minister of the Prospect Hill Baptist Church. In addition to his religious duties, while in Reading, he has served as member of Kiwanis, Member of Executive Committee of the Welfare Division of Social Agencies, as chairman of a Joint Committee on Crime, and as speaker at numerous religious and civic meetings in the area.

Registration will begin Wednesday, October 7 and will continue into the following week, October 14. The amount of $2.00 is payable at the time of registration in the Administration Building, while the remaining amount of $2.00 is due upon arrival at the camp.

Seven Win Positions On Albright Varsity Cheering Squad

Four Freshman Girls To Cheer Jayvees; Pat Brown Heads Team

Seven varsity and four junior varsity cheerleaders have been chosen to serve on the 1953-54 cheering squads.

Returning to the squad for one second year are Patricia Brown, captain; Sylvia Gruel and Natalie Filbert, all '56. Lucile Hummel, '56, moved up from a spot on last year's junior varsity squad. Newcomers are Claire Simmat, '56, Beverly Walsh, '56 and Marilyn Wertz, '57.

The four freshman girls who will cheer the Jayvees are Judith Cohen, Marie Lorchak, Carolyn Smith and Midge Tims.

Acting as captain of the varsity squad, Miss Brown is a veteran cheerleader, having served on the cheering team at Reading high. A sophomore, she is a member of the Phi Beta Mu sorority and is a social science major. Miss Gruel, a home economics major from Lincoln Park, was a cheerleader at Wilson High School. She is a member of the Phi Beta Mu sorority and HEO club. A member of the varsity yell team at Amity High School, Miss Filbert is studying laboratory technology at Albright and is a member of the Pi Alpha Tau sorority.

The four newcomers who also had experience on high school cheering squads. Marilyn Wertz, the lone freshman on this year's team, saw service at West Reading. She is a home economics major. Miss Hummel, another Readingite, is a pre-nursing student. Claire Simmat, who hails from Wyomissing Hills, is a member of the Phi Beta Mu sorority and is enrolled in laboratory technology. The only out of state member of the varsity squad, Bev Walsh, is from Chappaque, N. Y. She is majoring in laboratory technology.

The committee in charge of making selections for this year's squad included Jean Hook, president of Women's Athletic Association, James Barrett, president of Student Council, and Miss Brown.

WAA will furnish the team with new uniforms for the season. The uniforms will consist of red skirt and white varsity sweaters.

The new squad made its first appearance at the Muhlenberg game last Saturday night. They also introduced new songs and cheers to the student body at a pep rally yesterday morning in the physical education building.

Attention, Albright women: We have just been granted a national mark of distinction! The American Association of University Women has finally recognized Albright as an AAUW accredited college.

This recognition serves not only as a professional pat-on-the-back, but also makes Albright women graduates eligible for membership in any of the many AAUW local chapters spread throughout the United States. Thus, each woman will be able to meet people of her own academic level and interests wherever she might be living or working.

Albright had been seeking acceptance by AAUW for several years. Action was delayed because of changing standards in accrediting associations. To be eligible the college must have good academic standards, recognize women on the faculty and administration, provide a good foundation of general education, and have adequate provisions for women students. Recognition is sufficient evidence that Albright now meets these high standards, and is rated among the top level liberal arts colleges in the country. It reflects a steady growth and improvement in our college facilities, both academically and physically.

The activities of AAUW are many and varied. The purpose, briefly, is "practical educational work." The group, sponsoring an active legislative program in Washington, supports federal aid to education, with state control. In the community, the organization fosters research concerning the problems and needs of public schools. Included also are social service projects and programs emphasizing growth in the arts. Another important aspect of the group's activities is its international relations program. Besides studying world problems and disseminating information, AAUW furthers this cause by awarding numerous fellowships to foreign students. Fellowships are also provided for graduate students in our own country.

In general, AAUW provides for the alumnae of its member-colleges a better chance to use their training effectively and to contribute more in serving their community and nation.

Student Support Needed

The problem of student discourtesy in chapel is a perennial one, one that has already drawn comment from Reverend Barth, who has pointed out that local speakers, fearing a lack of courtesy, are not overjoyed to speak on our programs.

Why is the situation as such? We really aren't barbarous creatures lacking completely in social "know-how." Being normal human beings, however, we respond to the programs with attention varying directly with the interest offered.

Therefore, perhaps, the basic problem is rooted in the standard of the program offered. Much has been suggested and attempted to improve the interest and quality of chapel hours, but a limit is quickly reached because of certain factors.

Foremost in these factors is our lack of interest in participating in Thursday's assemblies, which Student Council has a hand in planning. Our reasons are understandable: there are too many other things to do, too many subjects to study, too many extra-curricular activities . . . or in other words, too little time.

However, unless we students do take a personal interest in better chapel programs, both in our conduct and by our participation, we will find them meaningless.

The answer may be to get more students out of the audience and on to the stage.

The Low Down

By Mahlon Gebhardt

Welcome, all you new students at Albright. You have entered a very fine co-educational school. And co-education is a fine thing. It was once a race for supremacy between the sexes, but now it's neck and neck.

You are now college men and women. As an old hand at college life, I'd like to give you a few tips. To the men: Remember if all the college men who sleep in class were placed end to end, they would be more comfortable. To the women: A coed with brains goes to the head of the professor's class, but a coed with class goes to the head of the professor.

You new students wouldn't know this, but to us, returning to Albright for another try, things aren't quite the same. For instance, added to the Sub, where we used to spend many happy hours drinking coffee, are flies that just migrated from Siberia. These flies were trained by Russian Communists to come over and drive us crazy so that we won't learn about their misdeeds. However, they do supply recreation for Tom Stults, who uses an elongated rubber band to knock them off such things as Buddy Saylor's cup of milk.

Of course, there are also new faculty members, who will be scrutinized and evaluated by the student body. Speaking of the faculty, Dr. Shirk took a day off from his usual conservative dress to add a chapeau cravat to his attire. Good work, Dr. Shirk! If people don't learn of Albright through your fine public relations work, they can see us coming.

Also, history has been made at Albright this year. That's right, we have more dormitory women this year than ever before in the history of Albright. (Va-va-va-voom, Ooo-shoo-be-doo-be and words to that effect.)

Even though some things have changed, much as the book store moving to the ground floor to speed up service, it's still the same good old Albright. The sophomores are again scampering over the campus gathering leaves for "science funnies," the freshmen are again full of spirits (Oops! I mean spirit.) as they fill the air with strains of the "Alma Mater," and everyone's working hard again at trying to become a college graduate. Despite it all, it's really great to be back!

Frosh Ask For It

With freshman customs staring us in the face everywhere on campus, it seems only fair to ask the freshmen how they would like to be treated by the upperclassmen.

Being men of many wits, Jan Musser said "Good" and Kenneth Greenwald added "Tasty" as his opinion. Thinking about the freshman orientation program, Jane Arey, added "Gently, after those tests. Very delicately."

Florence Bialy made a dubious statement: "Leniently, because we're human too." Jane Shay thought of the future and spoke up with "They might as well dish it out, 'cause we'll do it next year." "Everyone should be friends," thought Frances Wolf but Richard Demming just didn't care. Since Larry Grunberg hasn't been bothered, he "didn't mind it . . . yet." Marilyn Teeter believes in fairness, stating, "The same way they were treated when they were freshmen." Bernard Green, a transfer student, was the voice of experience: "Since I've gone through it before, I've sorta had enough."

Summing up the situation, Sonia Kay Flicker said "We should be treated according to the way we obey the customs. In other words, if we obey the customs, don't give us a hard time."

However loud the opinions are expressed, though, they'll soon be drowned out in the calls of "But-ton, froshi!" all over the campus.

Name The Column

Are you leading a humdrum existence?

Do you long for a day and a half vacation in beautiful Stony Creek?

Would you like to win a yearly income from an iron pyrites mine?

If you can truthfully answer "Yes" to these above questions, follow the simple rules and enter our "Name the Column Contest":

1. Complete this sentence, "I would name the column appearing under the question mark on this page" in 25,000 words.

2. Send your suggestion, along with the top of a freshman to "Name the Column," care of The Albrightian feature editors.

3. Entries must be post-marked no later than October 9, 1953 to be considered eligible.

(Ed. note: Anticipating somebody's cracking, "Do you serious?", the answer is, "Yes, we do—this is a for real contest!")

As you may have heard by now, the Domino Club's fall production will be John van Druten's tongue-in-cheek treatise on the life and times of a latter-day witch, "Bell, Book and Candle." We thought we'd tell you beforehand to listen carefully in Scene I of Act III if you were curious about the title. It is there that the heroine refers to being "exorcised—with Bell, Book and Candle." Hopping the first jet-engine broomstick to the library, we thought we'd check up on the origin of the quotation. About all we discovered was that Mr. Van Druten wasn't the first to plagiarize the incantation. It appeared also in "Le Morte D'Arthur," "Doctor Faustus" and Shakespeare's "King John." Upon questioning one of the librarians (and signing a non-hexing pledge) we began investigating a series of books on the black art. We got sidetracked, however, by two gemmy volumes, "The Joy of Ignorance" and "A Natural History of Nonsense." We were about to replace a book entitled "Hoaxes about us" when we got whacked on the occiput by a fat tome labeled, "The Dead DO Return." Hm, you don't suppose . . .

Allons, Musicians

There's a pleasant rumor that the Friday night dances may get a shot in the arm from the addition of a real, live dance band. It might not sound like a session at the Palladium or Birdland but it would be better than the slightly scratchy and more than a little out-dated records usually heard.

Through the Window-Glass

Not to be outdone even by "Life" magazine's series in which a number of photographic studies were made of New York City from the vantage point of a window, the "Cue" staff had its picture taken in similar fashion last Friday. We hope this answers any questions as to what Mr. Deining was doing peering into one of the windows of The Albrightian office.

Very Random Thoughts

Wonder if Albright's TV series will ever replace "Let's Visit the Zoo" . . . Is the next step in 3D comics three dimensional textbooks? . . . Professor Green might try this as a project for his Science Fundamentals class when they get to polarized light. After all, what's a course like that for if you can't do such elementary things as explain the gyroscope, repair old electroscopes and fill in "The Secret of the Atomic Bomb Is—" (in 25 words or less) once you've had it?—J.Z.

Not Adjusted? Take This Quiz!

Attention, freshmen, attention! Put down your lollipops and attend, freshmen, because you're going to get just one more orientation test. Guard, bring back those freshmen running towards Philadelphia!

Now, relax, freshmen; it's just one more little test to determine your psychological and educational aptitudes. Everybody have a sharpened pencil? Ready?

First, are you afraid of lightning, the hydrogen bomb, Russia, or flunking? If you answered no, why not, you fool?

Secondly, who do you like best, your father, or your mother, or yourself? Marilyn Monroe? That's right!

Now for a few simple intelligence questions. If you have a hexagonal tri-partite polyhedron, how many right angles are in left field? Sorry, your five seconds are up.

Now write down all the words you can think of beginning with A. In two hours, we'll take up the next section.

My, my, you do look a little beat, don't you. Monitor, throw some water on that frosh under the table. Just a few more questions, a routine questionnaire to fill out. Write down these things as I dictate them.

Print your name clearly. Now write your name, frontwards and backwards, in triplicate, for the public relations office, along with all your clubs since the first grade. Now write your name on the upper right hand corner, upside-down, so the people out there can see it. Sign the paper and hand it in.

You've been a very co-operative class and I'm sure you're all adjusted. Please stagger out in single file.—P.D.W.

It's hats off this week to our own Student Council President, James Barrett. Hailing from D. C., Jim seems to be the all-around "Albrightian," who always find time to help out.

His past two summers were spent as a camp counsellor at Camp Conoy. Previously he worked as playground director in Washington. During school months he's an old hand in the kitchen "slinging hash with Lenny's boys."

Jim takes a sincere interest in his role as Student Council head and, as a four year Y member, has served in the office of vice president of that organization. APO fraternity claims him, as does Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity; German Club; Delta Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity; and FTA. He's a three-year man in track and recalls vividly his first meet in his sophomore year, which resulted in a broken ankle and crutches for a few weeks.

Memories . . . Wow! He has them. Pledging APO, frosh customs, chit-chats on Maple Lane, and oodles of others. Jim particularly likes dancing, good music, co-ed functions, sports, and his roommate's colorful ties.

Upon graduation Jim, a history major, hopes to continue studies in graduate school. His goal is to be an established teacher and have a happy home life.

Gridders Oppose Lafayette In Home Opener

By Jack Lewis

Costly Injuries

What price victory? This is a question which several people are asking after Albright's hard-fought victory over Muhlenberg, last Saturday night. But I'm sure that anyone who attended that game had a sick feeling in their stomach when three of Albright's star gridders were carried from the field. When Jack Huntzinger averted a very certain Muhlenberg goal, he wasn't thinking of what might happen to him. No, he had only one thing running through his mind that night,—that was—to prevent that goal. The same was true of Bob Sulyma, and co-captain, Bruce Eickhoff, who are also on the injury list.

This is the spirit that makes winning teams.

The Leopards

The Princeton score is by no means a yardstick to measure tomorrow's game. Princeton started their second string and used them the major part of the game. In a situation where a grid power plays a breather, as was the case at least in Princeton's eyes, there is an inclination to laugh the game off as a practice session or a scrimmage. Where on the other hand Lafayette was keyed up for the game, and a touchdown on the opening series of plays, certainly is a valuable stimulant. So I'm sure that Albright will field a team that will send the Leopards back to Easton—minus spots.

Last year's game at Easton resulted in a 28-6 Albright victory. The Leopards finished their season with a 0-9-0 record, and are coming into this game with a no wins, one defeat slate, while the host Lions claim an even, one victory, one defeat log.

The Leopards are known for their smooth running attack and should prove a good test for the strong Albright line. Against Princeton, they completed only three out of eleven passes, but looked impressive with their razzle-dazzle running plays.

It is interesting to note that the Leopards entire team averages 198 pounds. This is not just the starting eleven, but every player who dresses. Coach Steve Hokuf has drawn three starters from a 1952 undefeated freshman eleven.

Bouquet For Bobbie

Albright's victory last Saturday, was in reality a double victory. The greatest was, of course, the victory over the Muhlenberg team. But there was a minor victory, that should receive mention, and that is the one over Muhlenberg assistant coach Bob Hicks. I think anyone will agree that a team that knows the tackle-calls, running and passing plays, has a slight advantage. Muhlenberg was in that position, but the Lions came home with the pigskin and left a slightly embarrassed assistant coach. So here is a bouquet of raspberries for Bobbie.

P. S. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily those of the Albrightian or the college.

Practice Begins For Lion Harriers; Veterans Should Post Winning Log

The Albright harriers will open against Gettysburg on October 10. The prospects look bright, as several veteran runners will again don the red and white togs. Those returning are: the ex-freshman flash Bill Shirk, Mahlon Frankhouser, Jim Rocktashel, Paul Gehris and Dick Flammer. Shirk, more well known in spring track events as a record setter, has proven one of the harrier's strongest bids to good fortune. Frankhouser, Rocktashel and Flammer are veteran runners with three seasons of cross country running to their credit. These hill and dale boys should present a threat to all comers.

Newcomers Join Squad

Practice began on September 23, with several freshmen reporting. Among the hopefuls are: Fox, Gallaher, Gottshall, Haggengathorn, Johnston, Kriefel, Lentz and Myers. From these aspirants, coach Gene Shirk may find material to fill the shoes of Rudy Becker, who is playing football, and Bob Miller, who is the assistant manager of the same.

With an even four wins and four losses in '52, the veteran squad can look forward to a better season in '53.

Several Posts Are Open

Coach Shirk is interested in any other candidates that might be interested. Remember, experience is not necessary to try out with the Albright team.

Way Back When

In glancing through old copies of The Albrightian, one can find many interesting stories and articles. Of course the sports scene is always interesting—so here are a few sports gems from the past, when Albright gridders played teams like Penn State, Army, Princeton and other schools of similar size, and won!

Ten years ago saw big headlines being made by intermural football. This was the interim period during the war when no collegiate football was played. In the game of the week, the APO fraternity defeated the Theologs, 12-0.

Leading the news five years ago was a 26-6 loss to Gettysburg, with "Billy the kid" Krohto scoring the one Albright tally. "Walt Drazek played a bang up game at right tackle."

One year ago the banner read: "Temple Owls Spoil Lion Opener, 21-0." This game proved to be the first of a series of fine defensive showings for the Lions, as they went on to become one of the defensive powers in Pennsylvania.

Watch for interesting developments concerning the big collegiate powers of the past and their meetings with Albright. You're sure to find some "believe it or not's."

Query of The Week

The column is perplexed at the missing link in the fall sports program. What became of I-M football—even the grapevine doesn't know. It can't be lack of interest that has postponed, delayed or cancelled an established Albright tradition.

Suggestions?

Albright Grad Accepts Basketball Position

Bob Ruoff, Albright alumnus of the Class of 1951, accepted the head basketball post at Lower Merion High School. While at Albright College, Ruoff participated in basketball all four years and was the top scorer in the 1950-51 season with 334 points.

Ruoff was recipient of the Ron Regar trophy for his outstanding play on the court in 1951. As a Lion, Ruoff also played tennis for coach Leo Bloom. Bob Ruoff was a varsity player at Reading High before coming to Albright.

In addition to coaching, he will also teach English at Lower Merion. While at Albright, Ruoff majored in history and was a member of the Zeta Omega Epsilon social fraternity.

'53 Hockey Season Opens October 10

Thirty-seven girls turned out for girls hockey practices this week, Coach Eva Mosser announced. Only one home game is scheduled on the Lionesses' fall card, which opens with a play day at Cedar Crest on Saturday, October 10.

Other encounters in the six-game series include: Wednesday, October 21—Ursinus (away); Saturday, October 24—Moravian play day (away); Tuesday, November 3—Lebanon Valley (home); Thursday, November 5—Millersville (away); Friday, November 13—Elizabethtown (away).

Carole Althouse and Virginia Marick, '54, have been named co-captains of this year's team. Aspirants vying for other posts on the squad include: Florence Bialy, Gail Ade, Cynthia Winner, Hazel Zimmerman, Mary Griffith, Beverly Walsh, Alma Grove, Thelma Arnold, Janet Lanfranke, Betty Trevasik, Stella Tryka, Gretchen Vogeler, Thalia Boigt, Jean Haggenbuch, Nelda Calder and Lorraine Wagner.

Also, Pat Brown, Shirley Henry, Elissa Tepperwein, Stephany Bartolet, Jeff Filbert, Orchys Kramer, Mary Althouse, Ann Kochoer, Jean Hook, Carolyn Smith, Carol Ringler, Ann Stalnecker, JoAnn Yob, Frances Wolf, Sandra Zerby, Marilyn Teeter, Barbara Bubel and Charlotte McCane.

Lions Seek Second Win

Albright College opens their 1953 home grid campaign tomorrow night against Steve Hokuf's Lafayette Leopards. It will be the first visit of Lafayette here since 1935 when the Lions under "Biggie" Munn whitewashed them 38-0. The game starts at 8:00 p. m.

Albright will be seeking its second win of the year and its third straight over the Leopards since they renewed warfare in 1951. The Lions edged Lafayette 12-6 in 1951 and roared to a 28-6 win last year as Jack Sudol scored two touchdowns and Mike DePaul and Tony D'Apolito each scored one. Tom Savage and Tony D'Apolito scored the touchdowns in the 12-6 win.

However, Albright will have to be on their toes against this improved Leopard team. They lost to Princeton last week by a 20-14 score; however the Maroons held a 14-13 margin until 12:20 of the final period. Albright also produced a mild upset by defeating the favorite Muhlenberg Mules last week by a 6-0 margin for the Lions first win.

Coach Eddie Gulian might have to juggle his starting lineup since Jack Huntzinger suffered an eye injury last week. Co-Captain Bruce Eickhoff and Bob Sulyma also were injured.

The Lions will place their hopes on the quarterbacking and punting of Jack Sudol along with the running of backs Tony D'Apolito, Jack Peiffer, and Bob Krize. Bruce Eickhoff and Ed McNeill will be the ends; Fred Hess and Herb Mackler, the tackles; Jack Clopper and Bob Sulyma, the guards; and either Jack Huntzinger or Ray Stoneback at center.

The Leopards have a strong backfield with Captain Joe O'Lenic a definite threat. Halfback Jack Smith, fullback George Bartlett and quarterback Bryan Satterlee are clever ball handlers.

The Maroons boast a heavy line with Burcin and Spacek the ends, Dick Mears and John Elberti the tackles, Gold and Kennedy the guards, and Hedder at center.

Early Tackle

LION STALWART

Jack Peiffer, who caught a pass that proved to be Albright's only score against Muhlenberg, will appear tomorrow night in his usual half-back berth. The Lions made use of a third period pass and tricky interception to hold the Mules scoreless.

Third Period Pass Proves Margin In First Victory

A combination pitchout from Sudol to Krize and a forward pass to Jack Peiffer led to the winning touchdown in last Saturday's hard fought game between the Albright Lions and the Mules from Muhlenberg. The play covered 39 yards and proved to be the game's only score.

The play was set up when Tony D'Apolito snatched the ball from Jim Skidmore on the Muhlenberg 41. It remained for Jack Huntzinger, however, to make the game-saving play. Bill Kenny, Muhlenberg quarterback, intercepted an Albright pass on the Muhlenberg five, and broke through the Red and White line. He appeared to be on his way to a sure touchdown, when Huntzinger sprinted the length of the field in a desperate attempt to stop him—a feat accomplished at the expense of a slightly beat-up face.

Mules Make Early Drive

Late in the end of the second period the hosts drove deep into Albright territory, but an intercepted pass by Sudol in the end zone, followed by a 50 yard run, saved the Lions as the half ended.

After the Lions' score in the third quarter, the remainder of the game resulted in a fine defensive showing by coach Gulian's men. Sudol's kicks kept the Bergers continually deep in their own territory.

Win Is Fourth Straight

The win was Albright's fourth straight victory over Muhlenberg and evened the 1953 Red and White record at one and one.

Frosh To Perform Tomorrow Evening; Public Exhibition Anticipated

All freshmen, excluding veterans and transfer students, will be required to attend the Lafayette-Albright football game this Saturday. Attendance will be taken and anyone not present will be considered a customs violator and dealt with accordingly, stated James Hall, head of the Freshman Customs Committee.

Frosh Face Tribunal

Freshmen will meet with their group leaders in front of Krause Hall at 7:30 p. m. sharp. The frosh will enter the stadium together and sit as a group during the first half of the game. After customs offenders have served the sentences pronounced on them by the Customs Tribunal by performing for the entertainment of the spectators during half-time, the freshmen may disband.

Freshmen customs will be in effect until the second half, so the red and white socks and hats will add much color to the cheering section. The upperclassmen are seeing to it that the frosh get plenty of practice on the cheers and Alma Mater, so the Lions will have plenty of support from the rah-rah department.

The Lafayette-Albright football game is the first home game since customs began on September 21st. In previous years the stunts have included measuring portions of the field end over end with a hot dog, parading with appropriate signs, and rendering various solo versions of the Alma Mater. Upperclassmen are urged to keep a close watch on the frosh and report all violators promptly so that there will be plenty of participants to make the traditional show as good as ever.

Albright Alumnae Eligible For AAUW

Albright College has been recognized formally by the American Association of University Women, Pres. Harry V. Masters announced during the summer. Efforts had been made toward such a goal for several years but were delayed by factors relating to World War II and accrediting association changes. Recognition by the association entitles all women graduates of Albright College to become eligible for membership in any branch of the society.

The AAUW has local chapters in all major cities and local communities. The primary objective of the group is the promotion of high educational and cultural standards on a local, national and international scale.

National Journal Features Article

The October issue of the "American Library Association Bulletin" carried a biographical sketch of Julia Pettee, under the by-line of Josephine E. Raeppl, head librarian at Albright College.

Third in a series entitled "Living Librarians," the article described briefly the background and experience of Julia Pettee, and especially emphasized her work at the Union Theological Seminary in New York City in setting up a new classification system for theological books, which has made her well known in library circles all over the world. Miss Raeppl was formerly a librarian at the Union Theological Seminary where Julia Pettee for 27 years was head classifier, and so was well acquainted with this distinguished woman.

In 1943 Miss Raeppl had an article printed in "Special Libraries" in regard to her work for prisoners of war. The YMCA set up an international organization to enable the six million prisoners of war of all nationalities to obtain books on any subject. The headquarters was in Geneva, Switzerland, with an office in New York City. When prisoners wrote requesting books in any particular field, Miss Raeppl selected the volumes that would best fill the requests. Often she was able to specially help these men.

Once a German prisoner in a camp in Canada sent five dollars to cover the cost of some technical book, and one of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's books, and stated that he hoped there would be enough money left over to buy a pair of pajamas. Realizing that the amount was inadequate, Miss Raeppl contacted the publisher of the first book and obtained a special discount of 50%, explained the situation to the author of the second book who then donated a copy, and was able to return to the soldier enough money for his pajamas.

This year's edition of the "Cue" is now well under way according to reports by Margaret Israel, editor-in-chief, and Mahlon Frankhouser, business manager. The staff was chosen last spring, and the members met twice this summer with Miss Israel, to work on the photographic lay-out. The "dummy" has been planned and the staff is filling in the skeleton at present. The "Cue" will feature off-set rather than letter-press type style, and more photographs are being used. George Deininger, a professional photographer in Reading, has been employed to take the informal pictures. Cooperation is urged on the part of all students and faculty when they are asked to pose for pictures.

In addition to Miss Israel and Mr. Frankhouser, the staff includes Virginia Marick, Jacqueline Zwoyer and Barbara Farris as associate editors, and Phyllis Grueber and John Fetterman are in charge of the photography. Sports editors include Carole Althouse, James Barrett and Peter Nicholas.
