Girls Take Over As Albright Goes Dogpatch

Gals, this is the day to get your man! At 11:40 a. m. Daisy Mae, to be portrayed by Alma Grove, will give Little Abner, better known as Ted Kujawski, a wild chase around the campus. Other comic-strip characters will be Barbara Burbank, as Wolf-gal; Sylvia Gruel, as Moonbeam McSwine; Lois Mednick, as Mammie Yokum and Nathaniel Ring as Pappie Yokum. All girls on the campus can participate in this race to get their man, and are permitted to wear jeans throughout the entire day.

Dance In Krause Hall

At 8:30 in the evening the girls will drag their captives to Krause Hall to the social and square dance. The admission fee, to be footed by the girl, will be a penny per each inch for both the boy's and girl's waist measurements. The girls will present their victims with a hand-made corsage.

Lorraine Wagner Head

The event is sponsored by the Women's Student Senate and the general chairman is Lorraine Wagner. Publicity is headed by Leda PasYotis; food, Theresa Winkler; and dance plans, Mary Althouse.

130 Couples Attend Annual Ivy Ball

One hundred thirty couples attended the annual Ivy Ball last Saturday night which was held for the first time in the new physical education building. A number of faculty members were also present at the affair.

The gymnasium was decorated around the central theme of the football season. A "wall" of red and white streamers blocked each end of the floor, inside of which tables covered with red and white checked tablecloths and miniature megaphones were arranged for the guests. In the center of the dance floor a life sized dummy attired in full football dress was in position to kick the extra point over one of two goal posts erected at each end of the floor. Cartoons depicting various football penalties decorated the walls.

The affair which is sponsored each year by Student-Council's social committee is in charge of Robert Beihler, '54, social chairman, Patricia Miller and Eugene Lang, '53, were co-chairmen. Other members of the committee included: Dorothy DeLaney and Gordon Oplinger, decorations; Alan Schlegel and Jack Fetterman, refreshments; Ivan Moyer and Richard Adams, publicity; William Housum and Mary Jane Titlow, tickets; Claire Speidel, programs. Chaperones were Prof. and Mrs. Donald Gates and Prof. and Mrs. Clyde Harding. Music was furnished by Hank Hoffman's Orchestra.

Former Student Dies

Peter Sperryak, former Albrightian, was fatally injured while fighting in the Korean War. To his parents—the students, faculty and administration of Albright College extend their heartfelt sympathies. We who knew Peter will remember him always, for he was friendly and full of life and fun.

Artist Shows 13 Paintings

Evolution from social consciousness to emotional realism is the theme of Franz de Merlier's paintings on display in Selwyn Parlor until November 22. The series which includes thirteen paintings is the third in the career of the artist. They are entitled, "Pylons on the Horizon," "New Barn," "Modernity," "Travel," "Flame," "Smoke," "Religion," "Snow," "Moon," "Rain," "Sun," "Wind," and "Storm."

Native of Belgium

De Merlier is a native of Belgium, studied at the academies of Brugge, Ghent and Brussels, came to America and did lithography and art work for newspapers. During the last twenty years, as a painter, he has produced his well known cycle "Our Brandywine Valley" and as a muralist the mural decoration "The Chain of Friendship" at the Reading "Y". The non-objective series rounds out the third phase.

Non-objective Realism

Non-objective realism is an objective attainment to approach the illusion of space and motion on a static surface by de Merlier. The ten paintings of the heavens in various moods are an experiment to create movement in a circular dimension. The mind perceives and follows the atmospheric variations of the sky and the clouds below. A design or a pattern are taking form and substance in the artist's consciousness, to be transferred to canvas.

'Y' Groups To Plan Future Activities

On Tuesday the combined "Y's" will meet in Krause Hall in the form of four committee groups. The first, "Christian Faith and Heritage," with William Glant and Richard Kressler as co-chairmen, will discuss and make plans for Christmas matins, student-faculty vesper services and the go-to-church groups. The second group, "Social Responsibility," will plan the Christmas party for some of the Reading children, under the direction of co-chairmen Thelma Arnold and John Bash.

Committee To Plan Drive

Virginia Marick, as chairman of the third committee group, "World Relatedness," will make plans for the drive to collect and send clothes to Europe with the other members of her group. The last committee group, "Personal and Campus Affairs," with Kathryn Lyttle and Theodore Tietge as co-chairmen, will discuss and plan for sports night, Christmas carolling and also other work projects. These groups will meet three times throughout the year to carry out projects and special activities.

Dean Westerberg To Speak

The fourth chapter of the book, "Rediscovering the Bible" entitled "Israel Comes of Age," which deals with the question, "What should be our attitude toward the moral standards of The Old Testament," will be reviewed by Dean Westerberg this Sunday at 8:45 a. m. in Selwyn Parlor.

Last Tuesday night, "Fireside Chats" were held in the homes of Rev. Eugene Barth, Prof. Clyde Harding and Dean LeVan Smith. The topic of discussion among the three groups was, "Aspects of Marriage."

Nora Waln To Talk In Chapel Program On Thursday

Nora Waln, distinguished American author and foreign correspondent, will be featured in the second cultural program to be presented this Thursday in chapel. Miss Waln will speak to the students about her various experiences.

Now on a three month's coast to coast lecture-tour, Miss Waln will spend three months, starting in January, in Europe. She is author of "The House of Exile," "Reaching For the Stars" and "Sliding Doors," which is her latest book based on three and one-half years in the Orient. As a top-flight American foreign correspondent for the "Saturday Evening Post" and "Atlantic Monthly," Miss Waln was on the Korean war front in the thick of the fighting for five months. Besides speaking Korean, she reads and talks five Chinese dialects and Japanese. Her articles on Japan won her international recognition.

Here is a recent communication from Miss Waln: "This is my first visit to Germany since December in 1945. It is wonderful to see how well the bombed cities have been rebuilt; and I find it very sad to meet so many homeless people, families that have come across the Red barriers seeking a new chance. West Germany has now over 44 million people, and still they keep coming from the East. It is the same in Austria. The flow from the East to West is continuous—whole families getting out together, going on, they know not where."

Due to an automobile accident of one of the Ebonaires, the Negro Quartet scheduled for November 4 did not appear. The manager of the group failed to report the accident to the agency through which the cultural programs are secured.

Phi Beta Mu To Hold Rush Dance Tomorrow

The Phi Beta Mu sorority will hold its fall rush dance tomorrow night at the Woman's Club, Reading, from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m. All freshman women and transfer students have been invited to attend. Patricia Kenney is general chairman for the affair. Other committee heads are: programs and refreshments—Kathleen Carls, Barbara Farris and Kathryn Lyttle; decorations—Dorothy DeLaney and Michelina Cacciola. The theme of the dance is "Mardi Gras."

Induction of new members will take place on Monday night, November 17, in the lower social room. New members include: Mary Althouse, Roberta Crimbring, Bethlyn Emmett and Patricia Upczak, all '55.

Pi Alpha Tau

The Pi Alpha Tau sorority will hold induction for four new members on Monday evening, November 17. They are: Janet Gehris and Evelyn Weida, '54, and Jean Dirnmit and Stella Tryka, '55.

Plans are being made for the fall rush dance for freshman and transfer women. It will be held on Saturday, November 22, at the Manor Country Club.

Pep Rally Scheduled For Tonight Down Town

A special pep rally for the Pretzel Bowl game will be held this evening, Ivan Moyer, student band director, has announced. The band will assemble in City Park at 7:30 and from there will march to Penn Square where the pep rally will begin at 8:00.

Gym Floor Free From Damage

After a careful inspection, Eugene Pierce, building director, found the floor of the Physical Education Building, the scene of the Ivy Ball to be only slightly marked from the dancing. Pierce felt that the floor was saved from damage by a coat of dancing floor wax which was applied before the Ivy Ball.

Gym Nears Completion

Bleachers, basketball backstops and lockers have been completely installed in the Physical Education Building. Workmen are now in the process of installing clothes hangers and shelving in the team room for the varsity teams, the trainer's room and the equipment room. The contractor is finishing up work on the building with a few minor details. The building will be open for regular physical education classes after the Thanksgiving recess.

Gym Connected to Stadium

Pierce also announced that holes have been broken into the north wall of the football stadium and iron gates are being installed to give access to the Physical Education Building from the stadium. The work should be completed in time for the Pretzel Bowl game. In line with that work, James Spatz has been directing the installation of extra bleachers for the Pretzel Bowl game. The bleachers have been hauled in from the Reading Fair Grounds and several local schools. Two new floodlights have been installed on the outside of the press box to give better lighting in the aisles of the stands.

In addition to this work, new green chalkboards have been installed in Rooms 204 and 316 of the Administration Building.

Annjeanette Innis Stars In 'See How They Run'

"See How They Run," Domino Club's fall production, will be presented to the public next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 20 to 22, at 8:15 in the chapel. As a final dress rehearsal, the play will be given before Berks County high school students on Wednesday evening.

Cast in the leading roles of Philip King's hilarious farce are Annjeanette Innis, Mahlon Gebhardt and Donald Hallas. Other members of the cast are: Judy Canfield, Barbara Topkin, Rodney Bentz, John Russell, Raymond Horan and James Zaferes.

Production committees include: publicity, Roberta Crimbring, Ruth Fry and David Frankhouser; properties, Virginia Marick, Jean Walker and Sarah Aicher; stage, William Britton, Donald Miller and Chris Walck; tickets, Robert Waldner, Raymond Kaiser and Bethlyn Emmett; make-up, Nancy Lou Walker, Dolores Luhowy, Claire Speidel, Margaret Israel, Michael Lafferty and Lois Hughes.

Tickets will be on sale Thursday, November 20 in the Administration Building in the morning and in Krause Hall from one to four p. m. The price per person will be the student activity ticket number 20 plus $10 tax.

Catchmark Receives Chemical Society Award

Andrew Catchmark, '53, is the recipient of Lehigh Valley Section of the American Chemical Society award for this year. This award provides membership for one year in the society, beginning January 1, 1953, a subscription to "Chemistry and Engineering News" for one year and a choice of one of three other chemical journals. The award will be presented at a dinner meeting of the group on November 21 on the Albright campus.

Catchmark, a member of the Alchemists Club and the Kappa Upsilon Phi fraternity, resides at 446 Greenwich St., Reading. He lived near Pottsville until this year when he and his wife moved to Reading. He was married during his junior year.

Tell Us What's Wrong

"There's something rotten in Denmark" while being a trite statement nevertheless seems to be true here on campus this year. What it is basically we can't seem to put our finger upon. This inability to grasp what it is the reason for this editorial.

The symptoms, however, are quite apparent. In the first place, it seems to be very difficult to be able to get a good attendance at the various extra-curricular activity meetings. There also seems to be a reluctance on the part of many students to accept any obligations—the fact that no one in student council wanted to be the chairman of the committee to rewrite the constitution is a case in point. The most frequent excuse given is that students have too much to do. While this does appear to be true, we are wondering what is the cause of this inability to find time for the various activities. Are students in general putting more time in outside jobs? Are we getting more work to do in our courses? Or are just a minority of the students willing to take an active part in their school thus throwing more work upon the few who are active? Frankly, we would like to know.

Furthermore, there seems to be a general "spring fever" prevalent on the campus. Very many are having an exceedingly difficult time getting down to work, be it academic or extra-curricular. To top it off, many students feel that they are not getting anything out of what they are doing or conversely that what they are doing is not accomplishing anything. What is the cause of these symptoms? We don't expect to find any simple answer to this problem; however we would greatly appreciate letters to the editor expressing your opinion on the subject in order that some attempt might be made to remedy the situation (or maybe the situation doesn't even exist?). Anyway, let's hear from you.

de Merlier Speaks

It is not very often that Albright students have the opportunity to view professional art work in this vicinity, let alone on the campus. However, this is exactly the opportunity we have right now. Until November 22, Franz de Merlier's paintings will be on exhibit in Selwyn Parlor. These paintings are very fine and show the interesting view of non-objective realism.

All students should be sure to take advantage of this first showing before the paintings are exhibited in New York. Why don't you visit Selwyn Parlor and see this handsome exhibit!

Just Ten Easy Lessons

Here are "10 Ways to Get Through College Without Even Trying," as written in Pageant magazine by Prof. Robert Tyson of Hunter College:

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. If you don't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.
2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievably and shake it.
3. Nod frequently and murmur "How true!" To you, this seems exaggerated. To him, it's quite objective.
4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake) . . .
5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.
6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.
7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the

Albright In Review

Tres Chic

With the school year now getting into full swing, Janie College is looking forward to the many social affairs. She can see it all now—the football games, formals, frat dances, teas—but wait, with one terrible groan Janie remembers, "What in the world am I going to wear?" Don't fret, doll, there's lots of good news in the fashion field—so here goes.

Turtle neck sweaters and tweed skirts are tops in the field of sportswear. Shirts fashioned after our big brothers' togs can be found in solid color and in gay plaid, and they always look neat whether worn in the classroom or in that part-time job. The knitted dress which can be worn at football games, on dates and at teas is still very popular with the gals around campus. A tunic styled dress made out of a heavy woolen fabric with a ribbed turtle-neck is a favorite among college lassies this annum.

"Anchors Aweigh My Boys . . ." the middy suit adds something new and exciting to the sports parade. To add that finishing touch make use of gaily colored scarfs, medallias, chunky bracelets and wide belts. For that extra special formal a red, billowy gown is perfect, and, incidentally, red is the color this year to win your date and the stag line. So have a wonderful time, Janie, you're really looking fine.—P.K.

Nearly All Do It

Franklin and Marshall's "Student Weekly" printed an interesting editorial about cheating. It was observed that at Temple University, ninety per cent of the student body admitted cheating in examinations while in college. If cheating means preparing for examinations with the use of previously given tests, the same thing would probably hold true of every other college. It's a well known fact that at F & M all the frats maintain a well kept file of exams and quizzes. Concluded the Weekly, "if professors do not want succeeding generations to make the fullest use of their old standby questions, they should not allow the students to keep the tests after the examinations are turned in."

The Knights Are Better Again

The other day I happened to be invited to King Arthur's Court by a strange friend of mine. "If you want a square meal, just visit King Arthur's Round Table," said my friend. So, being a little hungry after not eating for three days, I accepted his invitation. "I'll send you there in a jiffy," and so he whistled and a jiffy appeared. King Arthur joined me in a trice, which is a jiffy with three wheels and we were off to dine.

"I'd put you on the knight shift if you had a knight shirt," he said, being the congenial host. "We'll cross here at the drawbridge if you wait until I draw one. We should use the electric eye, but we can't hang around waiting for Edison to be born and invent one. Besides, hanging gives me a pain in the neck."

Entering the castle, we met Sir Lancelot, who had a stainless reputation and a stainless steel suit to match. He wore a coat of mail, with special delivery patch pockets and registered lapels. Lancelot was on a beautiful charger and he seemed a bit charged himself. Noting his condition in a note book, appropriately enough, King Arthur spoke to him in a stern voice, Bill Stern, of course, "I wish you knights wouldn't take so many nights out and stay in condition a little better. After all, I'm expecting a bid to the Blood Bowl this year." We threw him a reproachful look and passed on into the interior of the castle.

Here I found many fainting women and then in the distance I heard the old familiar strains of Sinatra's voice playing on the juke box. Suddenly, I heard loud hoof beats as one of the knights approached us. I could see he was angry, and without hesitation, the King whipped out his lance and immediately knocked him off his horse. I could see the evil in the weapon as they occasionally take a knight off in his work. The Reference to Jonah and the whale recalls an instance in which a Salvation Army "lassie" scored on a theological heckler.

"Do you really believe," he asked, "that Jonah spent three days and three nights in the belly of the whale?"

"I don't know," replied the lady in the bonnet. "I'll ask him when I get to heaven."

"But supposing he isn't there?" Quickly came her reply: "Then you can ask him."

crowd, seeing the slight skirmish, froze in their seats, possibly because chills were racing up and down their spines, freezing all their nerve centers. Then, another opponent charged on us and got credit for a clean hit, but of course, he charged everything including his groceries and so we ignored him.

All seemed lost until a sea-faring man entered the scene. He hoisted the last intruder on his shoulder and began running toward the door. As he was lost from our sight he shouted, "Heaven help a knight on a sailor like this," and with that, I lost sight of the whole situation and returned home. "No more knights like that for me," I muttered under my breath.—P.M.

What's Doing Around Town?

Editor's note—This is the first of a weekly series of announcements of cultural (and other) events of interest in the community.

The 25th annual exhibit of paintings and sculpture by local artists is now being shown at the Reading Museum and Art Gallery, and will continue until November 30th. Tonight and tomorrow night, November 14th and 15th, the Reading Community Players will present Ruth Gordon's comedy "Over 21" in the Universalist Auditorium, 410 Franklin Street at 8:30 p. m.

There will be a showing of the French film "Nais" at the Jewish Community Center, 134 North Fifth Street on Sunday, November 16, at 8:30 p. m. This film is presented in connection with the International Film Festival Series.

On Saturday night, November 15th, there will be a presentation of Paul Gregory's production of the First Drama Quartette in Bernard Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell" at the Rajah Theatre. It will star Charles Boyer, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Charles Laughton and Agnes Moorehead. The play will be given as a reading on a bare stage, without scenery or props; an idea of Gregory's which has proved very popular. It is seldom that the people of this community have an opportunity to see four distinguished actors in one production, and this quartette should give an excellent performance.—E.S.

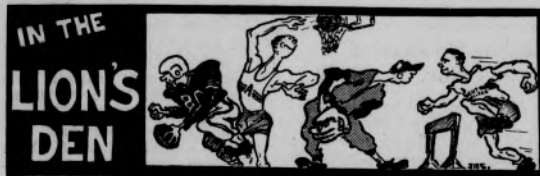

This week's Dandy Lion is Patricia Schearer, editor of the 1953 Cue. Believing that variety is the spice of life, Pat pursues a great diversity of activities.

Besides her work with the Cue staff, she encourages her journalistic talents as a reporter for The Albrightian and serves as president of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity. Other executive duties include: the presidencies of Future Teachers of America and Eastern Convention District of Future Teachers of America; vice presidencies of Delta Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity and La Sociedad Cultural Espanola. Pat is also a member of Phi Beta Mu, of which she is recording secretary.

Although these responsibilities consume most of her leisure time, Pat manages to dabble occasionally in classical music, poetry writing and arguing with Jack Schmidt.

In the future this Spanish major and German and history minor intends to teach Espanol and secretly hopes to be a housewife someday.—H.S.

P.M.C. Arrives Here Tomorrow For Pretzel Bowl

By SKIP ROGOVOY

Greyhounds Mauled by Lions

The roaring Lions clawed the Greyhounds from Moravian College 49-14 in a battle that saw almost every man on the Albright bench see action. The score is a pretty good story of how the game went. The hard running of frosh, John Settizer, was a highlight of the game. This frosh should see plenty of action during his stay at Albright.

D'Apolito's Toe Takes Toll

Albright added another win to their already impressive record by downing the Flying Dutchmen from Lebanon Valley College 21-19 on the losers field.

Tony D'Apolito, hard running halfback, from Albright, was one of the main reasons there was no joy in Boloneyville last Saturday. D'Apolito scored two touchdowns and kicked the three, all important, extra points. His performance was surely one of the highlights of the game. Tony is putting the foot back in Albright football.

It was evident early in the game that Louis Sorrentino, the Dutchmen's aerial sharpshooter, intended to fill the air with his passes. Our hard charging line, especially our ends Joe Hayick and Ed McNeill, caught on quickly and gave Sorrentino a full afternoon. Freshman Jack Huntzinger performed well in the middle line-backers spot and should see plenty of action in the future.

Harriers Split Two

Our cross-country team took an even split in two weeks. They beat G-burg and then went down to defeat at the hands of a strong West Chester squad. Bill Shirk continued to set the pace as he ran second at Gettysburg and then shattered his own record as he won individual first place honors against West Chester State Teachers College.

Lionesses Close Season Against L. V.

The Lionesses from Albright close their hockey season against the Lebanon Lassies today.

The girls have an improved season over last year's record. Dorothy Kuettel, co-captain and leftinner, and Pat Miller, center, were two of the many mainstays on the varsity squad. Also finishing their varsity hockey careers at Albright are: Judy Leinbach, Pat Upczak, Bobby Smith, Kitty Carls and Arlene Yeager, co-captain.

Shriners Invade Stadium

The Lions play host to the Cadets of Pennsylvania Military College tomorrow in the second annual Pretzel Bowl tilt at the Stadium. A colorful pageant will precede the game, and there will be marching bands from several high schools at the game.

Albright will be favored on the basis of comparative scores, but the Cadets have always given the Red and White a tussle as witness last year's 12-6 battle. Actually nobody will lose, for both teams will get trophies after the game and many crippled children in Shrine hospitals will benefit from the proceeds.

Shirk Crosses Line

Harriers Down Bullets, Lose to Rams, Travel to M.A.C.C.A. Meet Tomorrow

After taking an even split in their last two meets the Albright cross-country team journeys to the University of Delaware at Newark, Delaware, for the M.A.C.C.A. today. William Shirk is being counted on to lead the Red and White to an impressive showing.

In beating Gettysburg the Lions showed team work with a well powered array of point getters. Don Seltzer and Shirk were the first two men across the line for Albright.

The Lions were defeated on their home course by West Chester State Teachers College. It was a cold day and many runners were not sufficiently warmed up. Don Seltzer of Albright got a muscle cramp and didn't finish. This was certainly a factor in the Lions defeat. Shirk again led the field to the finish with a record breaking 18:36 for the 3 1/2 mile course.

G-Men Edge LV Cadets Set To Oppose Lions In Shriners' Charity Tilt

Contest Decided By D'Apolito's EPs

Tony D'Apolito's clever running, coupled with his ability in kicking extra points, gave the Albright Lions their fifth victory of the season last Saturday over arch-rival Lebanon Valley, 21-19, in the second annual Bologna Bowl contest at Lebanon.

It was the Lions' hard-driving ground game which accounted for the victory, although two of their touchdowns came on passes. For the Dutchmen it was Lou Sorrentino's passing which accounted for all three of their six-pointers. Extra points decided the game, for D'Apolito connected on all three tries from placement while Sorrentino made good on only his last attempt.

An 86-yard advance gave the Lions their first touchdown. Starting on their own 14 after receiving a punt from Sorrentino, the Red and White quickly moved for three first downs to the Lebanon Valley 43. D'Apolito had help from Bruce Tenley and Jack Sudol in the leather-lugging department, while freshman Mike DePaul provided the faking at quarterback. Sudol then went around end for 31 yards, and two plays later the ball rested on the six-inch line. On his second try D'Apolito went in for the score and then added the extra point.

Lions Stop Drive

With less than two minutes remaining in the first half the Lions stopped an L. V. drive on their own 42. D'Apolito made three yards through the line and then, on a deep double reverse, got away on a 43-yard run down the sidelines to the L. V. 19. From there DePaul looped a pass over two Dutchmen defenders to end Bruce Eickhoff, who raced to paydirt with less than eight seconds left on the clock. D'Apolito's placement gave the Lions a 14-0 lead at the half.

Lebanon Valley scored first in the second half on a 51-yard drive. With fourth down on the Albright nine, Sorrentino passed to the goal line where the ball was tapped by two Albright defenders into the waiting arms of Frank Ritrievi.

The Lions then came back and seemingly put the game on ice when Jack Sudol faked a run around right end on the Lebanon Valley 39, but instead tossed to D'Apolito waiting on the ten and the little halfback scored standing up.

But the Dutchmen were far from out of the contest, as they quickly proved with a last-quarter spurt which netted them two touchdowns. A 25-yard interference ruling gave the Dutchmen a first down on the Albright 29, and two plays later Sorrentino tossed into the flat to Ralph Giordano, who went all the way without being touched. The final TD came when Sorrentino, after almost being thrown for a loss, passed to Dick Musselman in the end zone. This play climaxed an 85-yard march, most of the yardage coming on passes to Musselman and Roy Kreiser. An onside kickoff that went awry gave Albright the ball on the hosts' 43, but three plays later they had been driven back into their own territory by the hard-charging Dutchman forwards. On last down Sudol dropped back on his own 30 to kick, but a pass from center which rolled along the ground made his position precarious. Still he managed to get off

Coach "Woody" Ludwig Brings Own Formation; Gullianmen Watch Out for "Flying Saucers"

The Roaring Lions will be host to Pennsylvania Military College's high-flying Cadets in the second annual Pretzel Bowl game tomorrow afternoon in the Albright College Stadium. This year's festivities, sponsored by the local Rajah Temple Shriners for the Philadelphia Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children, will feature a pre-game parade, a concert by the Reading Fair Band, a demonstration of precision marching by a 32-man drill team of PMC cadets and a halftime concert by 1500 schoolboy musicians representing 23 high schools in this area.

Coach J. Elwood "Woody" Ludwig brings to Reading a club that shows a won-2 and lost-5 log, but the PMC gridgers are usually "up" for Albright and records and comparative scores have little meaning. Last week at the University of Delaware the Cadets were overpowered by a strong Blue Hen eleven in a wild-scoring contest, 43-20.

Ludwig's offensive unit runs from a flying-saucer formation, the personal invention of the PMC coach, created to make the best use of his material. Finding himself without a quarterback this season, Coach Ludwig devised the flying-saucer formation to accommodate an overabundance of fleet halfbacks. The backfield, composed of two halfbacks and two fullbacks, lines up in an arc, with the fullbacks behind the guards and the wingbacks between the tackles and ends, slightly angled to be in position to take a direct pass from center.

The ball is snapped by the center to an imaginary man between the two fullbacks. One fullback crosses over, the other steps in front. What makes this more difficult to follow than a faked hand-off, as in the conventional T-formation, is the fact that in the first fraction of a second, two men, either of whom might have the ball, are moving in opposite directions. With the wingbacks cutting inside or outside tackles, the Chester, Pa., varsity has three possible hits going at one time.

Have Swift Seatbacks

Heading up the PMC offensive platoon is a pair of swift scab-backs, Tom Ziegenfuss and Marty Stiles, who combined their ground-gaining talents for three touchdowns against Delaware. Across the line the Cadets will play Udo Vech and Adelman at end, Land and Washenko at tackle, Flickenger and Pereson at guard, and Garrett at center. The aerial attack is his best kick of the afternoon, a 52-yarder. He then proceeded to intercept Sorrentino's first pass at midfield and victory was assured for Albright.
