Karola Muller, Teen-Age Violinist, To Play in Cultural Program

Karola Muller, sixteen year old American violinist, will be the next attraction on the 1946-47 "Cultural Series" program next Friday, February 28 at 11:30 a. m. in the College Chapel, said Dr. Milton W. Hamilton, chairman of the committee in charge of the programs.

The young musician, a senior in high school in Bronxville, New York, made her professional debut at the age of eleven at the Town Hall, New York City. She was awarded a scholarship to the Juilliard School of Music, where she has been studying for the past four years. Her teacher is Louis Persinger.

Miss Muller has done concert work throughout New York and Connecticut, and has appeared several times on the radio.

Critics say of her that she plays in an assured, forthright fashion, and that she has an understanding of phrasing, a sense of rhythm, and innate musicality.

Pi Gamma Mu Banquet Scheduled for May 9; Committees Appointed

Plans are under way and committees have been appointed for the annual Pi Gamma Mu banquet May 9, resumed last year after an absence during the war years, announced George Morfogen, president.

A general committee to arrange the place for the dinner, publicity, decorations, place cards, and refreshments is composed of Martha Herick, Lynne Parr, Bea Ribner, Ruth Rehr, Agnes Snyder, Jeanne Schlegel, Margie Handy, William Ebbert, and Minnie Silberman.

A special committee to inform alumnae of the banquet by way of a news letter includes Eileen O'Neill, Miss Rehr, and Mary Jane Thompson. Dr. Milton G. Heil, advisor to the social science honor fraternity, will arrange to get a speaker for the affair.

Mrs. Thompson read a paper on psychosomatic medicine, and Newell Wert on "Is Labor Living Up to Its Past?" at the last meeting of Pi Gamma Mu.

Worship

BIBLE CLASS

Rev. Eugene H. Barth will teach the regular Bible Class lesson on Sunday, February 23 on the subject "The Good Shepherd". Lamarr Kopp will be the student leader.

NOON PRAYER

The noon day prayer group leaders for the week, beginning with today are, Robert Evers; Wednesday, Frank Bird; Thursday, Janet Tonkin; Friday, Ronald Crocfort; and Monday, February 24, Richard Hackenberry.

VESPERS

"The Main Emphasis of the Christian Message" is the subject of a series of talks currently being given in the weekly Vesper service. John Spindler will give his presentation of the subject on Sunday, February 23. Professor Ellery B. Haskell will give the concluding talk of the series on March 2.

At Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md., the editors of the college paper, in their last issue, took the matter of freedom of the press quite literally. We are wondering how the sheet ever was allowed to be sent through the mails—Drop down to the Office of Student Publications and take a gander at the paper sometime.

106 Make Dean's List, Get 'Free Cuts'; 19 Students Enroll

Over one hundred students were named to the Dean's List and "free cuts" list at the end of the last semester, revealed Dean George W. Walton. In addition, Registrar Newton S. Danford announced that nineteen new students entered Albright second semester.

"A" List

Included in the "A" list are Robert Batdorf, Rosemarie Behler, George Beshore, Richard Beyeler, Sarah Davenport, Jerome Dresh, William Emes, John Fausnaugh, Marian Fiedler, Marian Gerberich, Virginia Hallacher, Margie Handy, Mervin Heffrich, Allen Hyman, Leroy Hyman, Charles Kachel, Ernest Kachline.

"B+" List

Y's Engage Rabbi To Speak Tonight On Post-War World

Rabbi Meir Lasker will be featured at the combined Y Meeting tonight at 7:30 p. m. in the College Chapel, where he will speak on the topic, "The Jew Faces the Post-War World." The worship service will be conducted by Marjorie Christ and Robert Holtzapple. Rabbi Lasker, who is head of the Congregational Temple Judea in Philadelphia, is participating in the observance of National Brotherhood Week on our campus.

Last Tuesday evening in the Lower Social Room the combined Y's heard George Rhoads, president of the Federated Trade Association of Berks County, discuss the present labor scene with its problems and trends. The vital questions of the closed shop and incorporation of labor unions, and many other problems were presented and interpreted from the view point of labor. Doris Downes and Jack Shafer, of the social action committee, conducted the meeting.

Music Department to Offer Mid-Year Concert Thursday

The College Dining Hall will be the scene of one of Albright's outstanding musical events of the year on Thursday, February 20 at 8:15 p. m., when the mid-year concert will be presented under the combined direction of Dr. John H. Duddy and Professor Hans Nix. The concert will be open to the general public and should attract many day students.

Highlighting the entertainment will be a violin duet rendered by Zieber Stetler and Dale Brubaker, two former G.I.'s. They will be accompanied by Louella Boyer.

The program for the evening follows:

Mid-Year Concert

1. National Anthem
2. (a) Entrance of the Masters, from "Die Meistersinger"—Wagner
(b) Excerpts from 6th Symphony—Tchaikowsky
College Symphony Orchestra
3. Concert in D Minor for Two Violins and Piano—Bach
4. (a) Now Let All the Heavens Adore Thee—Bach
(b) There Are Such Things—Waring Arrangement
Women's Glee Club
5. Emperor Waltz—Strauss—College Symphony Orchestra
6. (a) I Will Give My Love an Apple—English folksong
(b) Pilgrim's Chorus—Wagner
Men's Glee Club
7. Russian Fantasia—Lange—College Symphony Orchestra
8. Alma Mater
9. Thunder and Blazes—Fuck—College Symphony Orchestra

Campus Sororities Extend Bids to 22 New Pledges

Bids to the two sororities on campus were disclosed last Friday, when twenty-two Albright women received invitations to become pledges of the Greek societies.

The Phi Beta Mu Sorority extended bids to the following eleven women: Adele Boothroyd, Ellen Courtney, Margaret Fisher, Ethel Harris, Doris Hicks, Alma McLaughlin, Mary Jane Mellinger, Cleta Rein, Jane Reynolds, Barbara Valenza, and Sara Wallb.

Eleven women were also bid by the Pi Alpha Tau Sorority. Included on the list of pledges were Elizabeth Chelius, Grace Cunningham, Shirley Johnson, Winifred Johnson, Anna Lauver, Gloria Landis, Beverly Morgan, Barbara Pearsall, Jane Roney, Helen Sieber, and Elizabeth Thompson. The PAT's are planning a rummage sale to be conducted February 24 and 25 at a salesroom on Bingham Street. Dorothy Moyer is chairman for the sale, and sorority members will cooperate in collecting and selling the articles.

Frat Stuff

A.P.O.

Paul Kimmel was selected as president of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity at a recent meeting. Edward Bigler will be vice-president. Returned fraternity members who were welcomed at the meeting are Glenn Bailey, George Kowaler, and Frank Vidinsky.

The APO's plan their spring formal for April 26, said the new president. Abe Markowitz is chairman of the frat's program for stunt night, March 6.

ZETAS

Forrest Saylor and Ralph Miller will arrange Zeta Omega Epsilon's participation in the College stunt night, said President Gerald Laueks. The Zeta spring dance will be held May 10.

KAPPAS

Ralph Cocking, John Soja, and Ralph Wagner will represent the Kappa Upsilon Phi fraternity in a discussion of frat problems with Dean LeVan Smith. Wagner was appointed by Russell Guensch, president, as chairman of the Kappa's stunt night program.

The Kappas recently elected Mike Plaskonos as an additional Student Council representative for the fraternity.

Mrs. Memming Teaches Native German Dances

Mrs. Gerrit Memming taught the members of the German Club some of the folk dances of Germany at the monthly meeting of the club last Thursday night in the Lower Social Room.

President Geraldine Wentzel reminded the club that a general election will be held for new officers at the next month's meeting. Refreshments were served at the end of the program.

Spanish Students Initiate New Club, Elect Officials

A new organization on campus, La Sociedad Espanola, voted for its officers at its first meeting yesterday afternoon at 4:30 in the Lower Social Room. The officers will be released in the next issue.

Open to all those who have taken Spanish, the club was originated by the Spanish professors, Consuelo Rodriguez and Mary Jane Ward, and a group of students representing all the Spanish class sections. Consisting of William Clawges, Robert Evers, Nancy Matten, John McKenna, Helen Sieber, and Joyce Thompson, the group drafted a constitution and contributed their ideas for future meetings, which include monthly programs and a special observance of Pan-American Day.

Heo Club Nominees For President Named

Betty Berger, Adele Boothroyd, Miriam Parker, and Miriam Swartz were named as nominees for the office of president of the Heo Club, at the nomination meeting last evening. Joy Cutler is the retiring president.

After the business meeting Audrey Goodling, a former Albright student, demonstrated the use of the new laundry equipment which has recently been installed in the home ec lab. Miss Goodling, a consumer demonstrator for Westinghouse, was formerly associated with the General Foods Co. of New York.

Read it and weep—Vincent Lopez and his orchestra played for the Muhlberg Junior Prom on Friday night, February 14 at the Castle Gardens Ballroom in Allentown. The dance was formal and the students of the college were admitted to the dance on their activity cards.

Domino Casts Wilder Play, "Our Town" as Spring Drama

Tryouts last week for the Domino production "Our Town", by Thornton Wilder revealed the following tentative cast for the play to be given March 20 and 21 in the College Chapel, said Prof. Annadora Vesper, dramatic coach:

Cast

Perry Matz, Stage Manager; Ralph Stoudt, Dr. Gibbs; Stewart M. Cleary, Hawrie Newsome; Jeanne Schlegel, Mrs. Gibbs; Esther Seisler, Mrs. Webb; Larry Bott, George Gibbs; Betty Bratton, Rebecca Gibbs; Patricia Strickler, Emily Webb; Warren Kaebnick, Professor Willard; John Reside, Mr. Webb; Helen Sieber, Woman in the Audience; David Bailey, Man in the Audience; Margaret Fisher, Lady in the Audience; Beverly Bresler, Mrs. Soames; William Walker, Constable Warren; Robert Dombro, Sam Craig; Jack Gounder, Joe Stoddard; Elmer Good, Farmer McCarthy and First Dead Man; Donald Haller, Second Dead Man; Miss Fisher, Bailey, Dorothy McFarland, Doris Chanin, Miss Sieber, John Fausnaught, People of the Town.

Drama

A heavy drama, "Our Town", presented in three acts, takes place in a small New Hampshire village. The daily life of the Gibbs and Webb families, and a love affair mingled with sorrow and happiness, all combine to make a play touching, moving, and intensely entertaining.

Matz Prominent

Matz, in the role of the stage manager, has the longest part and appears throughout the play. Among others in the play are many who performed in Domino's fall production, "Arsenic and Old Lace".

Ona Brown to Aid Wives in Decorating

Ona Brown, Reading interior decorator, will speak to the Veterans' Wives Club tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the Lower Social Room. Miss Brown's topic will be concerned with instruction and advice for helping vets' wives to furnish and decorate their temporary apartments, and ideas for their permanent homes of the future.

A regular election of permanent officers will be held at the May meeting of the club. Meanwhile, the following officers will serve: Mrs. Wilfred Fromuth, president; Mrs. Francis Leisy, vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Kent, secretary-treasurer; program committee, Mrs. Edmond Albright and Mrs. Richard Bertolette. Mrs. Levan Smith, wife of the dean, is advisor.

The club extends a cordial invitation to all veterans' wives to attend the meeting tomorrow night.

The Go-to-Church group has disbanded for the remainder of the semester.

Going Social

The Albrightian is going social, actually. This is by way of a reminder to the staff, one and all, to join us for our supper party next Friday, February 28, at 6 o'clock at Resser's Restaurant.

Bob Evers, chairman of the affair, promises lots of fun and a chance for the staff to know each and the editors away from the atmosphere of newspaper offices, deadlines, typewriters, etc. Bob and his cohort, Bob Dombro, are cooking up some entertainment, too.

Staff members, don't forget to sign up for the party this week with Eileen, Kenny, or Bob Evers.

This Means Work

A few months ago Student Council received a request to send a delegate to a conference composed of all the colleges in the United States. It was the purpose of this conference to set up plans for the formation of a national students' organization. Since that time there has been much work on plans for the organization. Albright has sent delegates to several conferences and has participated in the organization quite vigorously up to this point with Student Council taking care of most of the responsibilities.

It is believed that if we are to continue to support a national students' organization it will be necessary for Albright students to become more aware of what's happening and take a greater part in what is going on. So, ask your Student Council representatives about the organization and give them your impressions—it is quite important.

It Pays to Hit the Books

In looking over the dean's list which was recently released by the Dean George W. Walton we find that approximately 1/6 of the students in the school have achieved an honorary scholastic rating. This high percentage is quite an honorable thing and we wonder how many other colleges with high standards (grading, entrance, requirements, etc.) can come up to this scholastic achievement.

In light of the fact that the student body has hit this high academic percentage, they should be congratulated. That sense of achievement shows that it pays to hit the books.

Albright In the Future

At the Annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the College it was reported that the wealth of the college has increased to a great degree in the past few years. This fact should be very important to both the present student body and the alumni in that it means that Albright in the future will be able to extend even greater service to its students.

With the campus improvement taking form as it is and with this encouraging report of Doctor Masters, we can see prosperity and roses ahead.

BY ANNE ONYMOUS

A comely high school freshman at Northeast is bragging to her girl friends of going with a college man. I hope no one sticks a pin in her dreams — you see it's only Bob Hughes.

Doris Downes called home the other night and expected the operator to stop her at three minutes, but the ambitious soul let Doris say her piece, which took 12 minutes. Now Doris, and this is the really fantastic part, is trying to convince the girls she was talking to her parents.

Lillian Boyer and Fred Neuroth were seen brewing a plot to get a 100% freshman representation at the class meetings. Immediately after they stirred their pot and misquoted "Cauldrin, cauldin, burn and bubble", Fred suggested a bubble dance, he still can't figure out what made Lil call him "an old pot."

Mary Jane Mellinger, at the last basketball game, looked like a tooth-paste ad. The Albright baskets brought out baby smiles on a face already smiling at that fair haired boy from Swarthmore.

What a combination! Jean Long, one sophomore personality girl, is also becoming glamorous. It's very becoming, Jeanie, and it just shows what a girl can do if she wants to, but don't try telling us it's not for anyone in particular.

While hiding behind a short coke at the druggie, Annie overheard Oxenreider declare himself a woman hater. Having never seen Oxenreider, not knowing what druggie, and not being able to hide behind even a tall coke, I'm supposed to claim this to be a worthy reform of any babe. Well here goes. It is.

Ernie Stegman, our boy from Fleetwood, is following in the footsteps of that most famous international diplomat from the same place. He's practicing cupid diplomacy on wildcat Mary Bechtel.

I've been told that married couples begin to look alike after living together for a few years. It often wondered me (as we say in Berks) if that worked conversely when two people with remarkable resemblance hitched up, so I am anxiously awaiting the results of this Hellman-Heckler combination.

Spring Fashions Show Simplicity

Yes, it's just around the corner—in spite of the cold days that Mother Nature throws in every once in a while to remind us that we'd better take another look at the calendar—spring, that is; that time of year during which "a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love" (with apologies to whomever has probably been misquoted). But what about a young woman's fancy? The dark colors of winter clothing, the wools and the heavy suits, have become tiresome. Time, then, for a change, and a peek into what's new in spring fashions.

Simplicity remains the keynote, even in the new silk prints that we'll be seeing more and more of from now on. Whether that new print be "quiet" or "splashy", you'll find it cut along simple lines.

With the death of wartime restrictions on materials, the full skirt is back—just full, or even better, with pleats all around. This latter is going to require no small amount of hip-losing for us gals who've hidden under our boxy suits and skirts-cut-on-the-bias all winter.

Speaking of skirts, the designers and the "city-slickers" are still pushing the longer length but we'll bet that the length of a skirt will get back to normal as spring goes into summer. As well as looking a little quaint on most of us, it will be downright awkward tripping over inches more of material in July!

It looks like the bow at the neckline will be even more popular this spring, with the trend away from the huge "cat-bow" down to a narrower affair such as our own American cowboy wears. Bolero suits are back too—remember them? But this time with a fuller sleeve than we knew when we last wore them.

The new spring suit would take pages to talk about—longer jackets cut straight or flared in the back, short boxy jackets, again with or without the flare; full skirts or slim, pleated or not—we'll leave that up to you. But choose your suit wisely—prices still aren't back to normal and you'll want to be sure before you buy.

Most interesting in "what's new for spring" is our favorite—the cotton dress. As the days get warmer, we'll want to switch to a cotton to help us bear changes a little better in weather that makes us wish we were outdoors. Believe it or not, the high neckless has carried over somewhat from winter — the turtle-neck, the

It is said that a senior is one who knows and knows he knows. Let us hope that this holds true for our senior home economics students for many of them are student teachers at the high schools in Reading. Others are giving demonstrations at the Electric Company and the Consumer Gas Company.

Joy Cutler is practice teaching at Southern Junior High School. The children are learning "Foods For Fun" from Joy and she says that they are teaching her all she doesn't know. Virginia Woerle is teaching clothing at Reading High School and likes it more each day. Jane Bausher is also at Reading High. At Northeast Junior High, Alice Albright and Louise Trostle are instructing in foods and clothing, respectively. Several of the supervising teachers are sympathetic to the trials and tribulations of a student teacher.

Midge Abrams, Dottie Bennett, and Peggy Walton are becoming official demonstrators and utility saleswomen at the Electric Company and Consumer Gas Company. There are foreign war brides attending these demonstrations and learning the fundamentals of American cooking. Which should we pity most — the brides or their husbands? We're only kidding, girls. You are all doing a wonderful job and we're proud of you.

Prof. Innis has been appointed by the State Dept. of Education to the committee for formulating a five year plan for vocational home economics.

The juniors have been busy too. Field trips to Reading's food stores are the latest project. The girls compare the stores from different angles and evaluate them as part of their meal planning program. They are also holding clothing demonstration classes at Northwest Junior High School. Many of them would like to be waitresses next summer and are already sending their letters of application.

The Little Who's Who

College professors are nice people, even the human ones, but they are traditionally eccentric and Albright is a traditional institution. The following professor types are well known on any campus.

The Dick Tracy delights in investigating students. Checks term papers scrupulously for plagiarism, is angry when can't find offenders. Looks at sleeves, shoe laces, and under finger nails before tests. Usually teaches "Freedom in Education" or similar course.

The Gum Bear, usually about five feet tall with vocal chords twice as long, likes to exercise voice (which is probably suppressed by wife at home). Tells students if they don't work, they'll flunk course. Students work, get shaft anyway.

The Ersatz well known in many schools, is so named because is poor substitute for good teacher. Usually great satirist (quite often a woman). Takes pride in making keen jokes about students who disagree or trip her up in class. Jokes are usually laughed at by brown nosers in front row.

Chi Phi, Kappa Lead in Hoop Race; Fromuth and Beyerle Pave the Way

Albright's intramural hoop lead narrowed down to two clubs as the bulldozing Kappas, with a furious last period barrage, caught and passed a gallant Pi Tau aggregation. Chi Phi contigued to grip their half of first place by bouncing the powerhouse Zetas at Northeast, 43-38. Both clubs are already talking it up for their forthcoming grudge match scheduled February 24. Coach David Strong plans to use three refs for this affair to prevent any atrocities!

Player of the week honors resulted in a tie between Chi Phi's big Jim Fromuth, whose heads up playing helped shove aside a determined Zeta team, and Sadie Beyerle of the Kappas, whose brilliant offensive and defensive playing kept the Kappas in their half of the driver's seat.

The old enemy of the intramural leagues of the past—the forfeit—showed its ugly head. In an attempt to ward off this problem, Coach Strong urges all members of the squads to check their contest dates and be there.

Tomorrow night's schedule shows three games cooking at the Thirteenth and Union gym. Chi Phi will be trying to preserve their clean slate while the A.P.O. and Sigma Mu's will be looking for No. 1.

Guensch, Anlian Lead Albright to Massacre of F&M

The old fly in the Albright ointment — the Franklin and Marshall Diplomats — were manhandled in such a way as to revolutionize diplomacy last week at Lancaster. Without doubt, the foreign envoys guzzling champagne in the Washington Embassy and even the venerable Doctor Hamilton, who teaches Diplomatic History, would have frowned on Harris' handling of the hapless Diplomats.

Gruesome Bowling Semester Grades Out; Mercy Dispensed

Albright's bowling hopefuls—the inimitable prof bowlers — (who would want to imitate them?) have demanded that their semester grades be released along with the other valentines. Well they asked for it and your merciless reporter will pull no punches.

Several alibis have been proffered — among them old age. Imagine those spring chicken pros (or Methuselahs) insinuating Pappy Time's after them. Classical among the above mentioned alibis was Khouri's sleep cure — the cure is for his anemic score. He claimed he was in a daze when he bowled. And of course there's Memming's omnipresent sore toe!

Well here's the pros and here's the scores. I say take the scores and leave the pros to posterity. Many an aged right arm, in that group—has seen better days!

Women's Varsity Loses To Beaver, 31-18

Last Wednesday Jenkintown was the scene of the Albright lassies bowing to the phys ed majors of Beaver College 31-18. Tension ran high as the game progressed. The first quarter was nip and tuck with the hostesses edging a 2 point lead, 8-6 at the end of the period.

The gray clad Beavers burst ahead in a sparkling second quarter and limiting the Albrightians to one basket, making it 18-9.

The Red and White outscored the hostesses in field goals in the first half; however the end of the game found the hapless Lionesses trailing with a 31-18 deficit.

Lead Albright to Massacre of F&M

The old fly in the Albright ointment — the Franklin and Marshall Diplomats — were manhandled in such a way as to revolutionize diplomacy last week at Lancaster. Without doubt, the foreign envoys guzzling champagne in the Washington Embassy and even the venerable Doctor Hamilton, who teaches Diplomatic History, would have frowned on Harris' handling of the hapless Diplomats.

Harrismen To Cope With Greyhounds In Away Tilt Wednesday

Tomorrow night the "Growling Greyhounds" of Moravian will again be clawed by Albright's Roaring Lions. Yelping after their previous 71-43 delousing, Moravian, with Bill Marcincin and Co., will be trying to offer enough competition to keep the fans from getting too bored by a continuation of the Northwest massacre on their home floor. The currently limping Greyhounds will no doubt throw Kern, Leary, Ropos, Kraus, and Marcincin, who dumped in 21 digits against Albright in their first meeting, into the breach in order to pierce the tough hide of the Lions' usually powerful quintet.

Over in the Albright camp Coach Harris will doubtless counter with big cats Anlian and Guensch who are currently setting a torrid pace among the first ten Keystone state scorers. Other gunners Guss, Guldin, Kriebel, Oxenreider, Shollenberger, Witman, and Davis will join in the ratrace. The resulting encounter should spread more joy in the Lion den.

Saturday night may prove to be a different fable. The Lions will again tackle La Salle, this time in the latter's Philadelphia domain. One thing is certain, there will be little brotherly love at La Salle when Guensch, Anlian, Davis, Guldin and Kriebel tackle La Salle's loaded Explorers. The last encounter, you will doubtless recall, resulted in a Lion setback. Harris guarantees a better show this time—in fact he hopes very strongly for a win. A La Salle victory would be the greatest shot in the arm our cats could ask for this forthcoming Duquesne duel.

Finally midway through fourth period the F & M coach began frantically looking at the clock, desperately hoping that the final gun would end his woes. Hops Guldin and Johnny Yocum put on a vaudeville act to kill a few moments, thereby helping the F & M coach's battered mind. But Guensch with markers, and Mineshaft with 2 1/2 had already done enough damage and the Lions jumped home with a 72-43 win tucked snugly under their horse collars.

The Old Dutchmen-Lion feud reached a new high Saturday night as the janitors frantically cleaned away the foxholes for Tuesday night's Reading High game. Lebanon Valley's "Flying Dutchmen," well besotted with sauer kraut and beer, rode hell-bent into the Lion's den in a futile attempt to even up the year's business with the cats.

Inquiring Reporter

The bull-session and the hen-party common to all college campuses have proven a wonderful outlet for the cherished opinions of our up and coming American youth. By some strange coincidence there is one subject that never escapes the bullshooters—O.K., you guessed right, the opposite sex. As an ardent participant in these admirable get-togethers, the Inquiring Reporter thinks it only fair to let the casual reader know a little of what men and women think of each other.

Concerning the question "What one failing of the opposite sex would you change?" You have only to let your eyes meander a little further in this column. We'll agree they're prejudiced.

Larry Delewski—Soc. Science—'50—They suit me all right.

Francis De Vine—Bus. Adm.—'50—They claim equality with men; let them have it. Away with chivalry.

Warren Engle—Bus. Ad.—'48—They should express themselves and act as they feel, not as they think they should.

Evans Keim—Pre-Min.—'49—Being a married man, one must be hesitant about his remarks concerning women, but I say if they are admired, loved, and respected, their failing qualities disappear.

Mary Bechtel—Lib. Arts—'49—At the moment I can't think of any. Are you sure they have any faults?

Elaine Huber—Psychology—'49—Their weak minds.

Harriet Greenberg—Lib. Arts—'49—Sincerity is an important characteristic for everyone to possess, although sometimes members of the male sex don't seem to realize this.

Sarah Davenport—French—'50—Men are moody! Otherwise they're O. K.

Grace Miller—Home Economics—'48—Only one?? But I guess mainly their ability to make it "snow" twelve months of the year.

Faculty Women to Have "Magazine Party"

A magazine party will be given in the Lower Social Room, February 28 at 8 p. m. by the resident faculty women. The Faculty Dames have been sent invitations to this unusual affair. They will assemble a magazine from cover to cover, including stories, fashions, menus, and other items of interest.

"A Story in Song" will be presented by Carolyn Powers, Thursday, February 19, at 2 p. m. in the Selwyn Hall Lounge at the regular meeting of the Patrons' Division.

The following people are presently spending time in the classroom from the other side of the desk that is: Victor Gigli, John Kissinger, Margie Handy, Marion Feidler, Jane Bausher, Louise Trostle, Virginia Woerle, Elaine Kyle, Joy Cutler, Alice Albright, Mary Ellen Hill, and

Glee Club Programs Include Concerts In Reading Churches

On Sunday evening, February 29, the Women's Glee Club will present a sacred concert at St. Matthew's Evangelical United Brethren Church, Eighteenth and Cotton Streets. The program will be under the direction of Marjorie Christ, student leader.

The Men's Glee Club, under the baton of Dr. John H. Duddy, appeared at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Ninth and Greenwich Streets, last Thursday evening, in a program arranged in conjunction with the orchestra of St. Luke's Sunday School. A tentative date of March 13 has been set aside by the men for a trip to Harrisburg, after which there will be no further engagements until the close of the Lenten season.

Theology School Has Meeting for K. T. X.

The Kappa Tau Chi, honorary pre-ministerial fraternity, was entertained by the Divinity Society of the Evangelical School of Theology last Thursday evening in the social rooms of the seminary. Dr. J. Arthur Heck, president of the school, and the Rev. Cecil Pottieger, president of the Divinity Society, extended greetings to the college students.

A program of religious and secular music was in charge of Rev. John Kleffel. Also included on the program was a special ministerial quartette. The evening was concluded with a tour through the Historical Society Rooms of the Evangelical Church conducted by Dr. Raymond W. Albright, professor of church history at the school.

Sigma Tau Delta Hears Press Writer

Mr. Lawrence McDermott, formerly with the Associated Press in Washington, D. C., and now a staff writer of the Reading Eagle, spoke to Sigma Tau Delta on Wednesday, February 5 in the second of a series of English career professional conferences. He spoke on the qualifications for the newspaper business, the make-up of the paper, and also related interesting items in his experience.

At the business meeting, the members discussed the chapel program to be sponsored by Sigma Tau Delta on May 5, 6, and 7.

MORT SAYS

The Veteran of the Home Front wears traditional haggard, wild-eyed professor look, stands in front of class for hour or two discussing domestic situation. Students take notes for week or two, find that have series of home life stories about prof, wife, dog, garbage collector and next door neighbors.

Kenneth Good are doing this practice teaching in the Reading School District. Mildred Abrams, Peggy Walton, and Dorothy Bennett are "showing them how" in that they are practicing demonstrations and utility salesmanship.

Death Pall Hangs Over Campus As Moser Says—"No Cards"

You've seen it, we know—the new dazed, lost look on the majority of male faces on campus. Everyone from the more notorious members of the Zeta House crew down to the most obscure night student wears it. The gait is slower, has become a veritable shuffle. One of the harder-hit boys was known to have taken eight aspirin tablets within an evening and last was seen hanging over the second-floor balcony of the Zeta House, apparently contemplating suicide. It has even been rumored that the dean's office is considering a "burning of the cut-cards" because classrooms have been so crowded since semester vacation.

And why this drastic change in the attitude and behaviour of the typical Albright male? Merely three small, neatly-printed white signs now hanging in Father Moser's Food Emporium. The signs read: "NO CARD PLAYING."

What now can a red-blooded Albright man do with his spare time? Eat at Moser's? Not on $65 a month! Play the pin-ball machine? No, the challenge of the apparatus does not stir him as can the tempting sound of forty-eight cards being shuffled. Put nickels in the juke box? Never! The clinking of coin in his direction after a well fought campaign in pinocle is sweeter music to his ears. Talk to the co-eds draped demurely at the fountain sipping cokes? Absolutely not! During the day the daywomen plague him for a ride in town. At night it's the dorm women who, signed on a twelve, hang around waiting to be taken out.

What is left? Our discontented Albrightian simply has to face it. It's going to be hard to get the hang of it and it's going to be even harder to take. He's got to hit the books. Oh, those quiet, lonely hours in the Zeta House or in his own home, when he'll see a hundred aces and double pinocle in one hand, right under a paragraph on the Inquisition in Spain. Or the times he'll think of 36 meld as he works out a calculus problem.

Don't give up, tortured one. Cling to this one ray of hope as you sink lower and lower into the depths of despair—Elmer B. himself can't live without the cards forever!

SPRING FASHIONS

Are you sure you haven't caught just the slightest whiff of spring in the air now?

(Afterthought: The day this column was written was one of those balmy affairs. You know—everyone strolling leisurely across campus with out gloves, cold unbuttoned, etc. Now it seems that winter has come back for a curtain call. We saw Stokes and Schlegel tearing around campus in very tricky headgear to keep off that chill in the air that had returned. It didn't tie under the chin like the bandanas we've been wearing, but slipped over the head to fit tight under the chin. Very clever, we say.

Bea Ribner looked warm too in that striking white coat of hers with the huge buttons and the belted casually at the waist. And did Smiley's fluffy red angora socks make you look twice? No, it wasn't all ankle underneath, rest assured. Did we say that spring was just around the corner? Excuse please. We'll think twice before we commit ourselves again.)

French Club Holds Variety Meeting

Last evening at 7:30 p. m., the Music Studio was the scene of a meeting of Le Cercle Francais. There was a short business meeting followed by a program opening with the singing of French songs by the group and a game of sliced proverbs.

Betty Thompson sang a French solo, Barcarolle, and Airanne Smiley spoke briefly on the life of Marivaux and gave resume of the play Le jour de l'amour et du hasard. Following this, members of the club enacted the parts of four scenes of this same play. The program was concluded with the playing of Grace Moore records in French.

The Glee Club was looking over my shoulder while I wrote, and that Z alliteration represents a mad rush to West Reading.
