Driving Is Topic Of Essay Contest

Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company is currently sponsoring a nation-wide college newspaper contest on Safe Driving. The purpose of the contest is to encourage safe driving among college students—particularly during the winter season. Cash prizes for winners of the contest total $2100.

Lumbermens initiated the first of such contests in 1948 and has received word from student editors all over the country that their safety campaigns have cut accidents, not only on the campus but in college towns and nearby communities as well.

Entries will be judged on the originality of material, method of presentation to the reader and general effectiveness and vigor of the campaign or individual entry. All entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, January 16, 1954.

Final Chapel Programs Listed For Next Week

The final chapel programs to be given this semester will be presented next Tuesday and Thursday. On January 19, Rev. Eugene H. Barth will be in charge of the worship service. On January 21, Mr. Moshe Zirin, native of Israel and presently a student at Albright College, will speak on the subject of his former homeland.

Earle Spicer, ballad singer, who has been engaged by numerous colleges throughout the United States, was scheduled to present the third cultural program of the school year on Thursday, January 14. On Tuesday, January 12, Reverend John Wilson, pastor of the Christ Evangelical-United Brethren Church delivered the morning meditation.

Student Council was in charge of the program on January 7. At this time, the Daymen's Organization sponsored music by a local band. The January 5 program had Reverend Chester Marcus, pastor of Washington Street Presbyterian Church as guest speaker.

WSS To Sponsor Tea

Women's Student Senate will sponsor an Oriental Tea this afternoon from 3 to 4:30 in Selwyn Hall Lounge. All faculty members and students are invited to attend. The affair will feature tea as it is served in the Far-East tradition.

Malayan Student Requests Aid For Segregation Study

A communication was received by Student Council recently from Mr. Harry Tan, a Malayan student attending AM and N College in Pine Bluff, Arkansas. Mr. Tan is interested in writing a book on the subject of segregation in America and is anxious to clear up the vague notions his country's people have on the subject. Says Mr. Tan, "Lest I should draw the wrong conclusions, I would like your unbiased views or opinions about the matter as you are the future citizens of America and of the world. It will be you who will have to improve racial relationships; therefore, I value your ideas and opinions . . ."

Mr. Tan has sent similar requests to all colleges and universities in the United States and will welcome any and all responses to his letter. In addition to views on segregation, Mr. Tan would also like the following information to be included in the letter: name, class, nationality, race, religious affiliation, country, college attended and course of study. All information will be kept confidential.

Mr. Tan is not affiliated with any national or local organization that seeks to promote the advancement of colored people and he is bearing the expense of his project personally.

Y Night To Feature Social Hour Tuesday

"The Pause that Refreshes" is the theme for "Y Night" next Tuesday evening, January 19, in Krause Hall. All students are invited to the affair. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening to those stopping in to relax by playing ping-pong, knitting, or just talking.

On January 12, the Y program consisted of a movie, "The Right Side." In addition, Norman Goerlich, representative from the Fellowship House in Reading, spoke briefly on the work camp projects, showing a film on the subject to the group.

Council Begins Work On Stunt Night; Discusses Changes In Friday Dances

At the last meeting of student council on January 12 it was announced that plans had been started for Stunt Night, which will be held on Friday, March 12. Raymond Horan is chairman of the event.

Council considered the possibility of scheduling future Friday night dances for the hours 9-12. This was considered because of the small crowd that is present for the early part of the dance, and it was thought the change in hours might alleviate the situation. Further action will be taken on this matter in the near future. It was announced that a small band, composed of students, will possibly be ready to play at the second semester dances. James Hall also stated that money has been made available for the purchase of new records.

Robert Bieler, chairman of the judiciary committee, said that the committee, along with the advisor, Dean LeVan Smith, had started writing the code of ethics. Additional members will soon be selected for the committee. It was decided, so that next year it will be easier for them to carry on the work of the present committee.

The W.U.F. drive is scheduled for the last week in February it was announced by Theodore Tietge, chairman. Included in the week-long program will be a chapel program on Thursday of that week, and also Sports Night, which is scheduled for that Friday. This year the money will be sent to India.

Alma Mater Discussed

On Saturday, January 9, Carole Althouse, James Barrett and Paul Hettrick, members of the alma mater committee of student council, met at dinner with Dr. Samuel Shirk and three members of the alumni committee to discuss changing the alma mater. It was considered making the suggested change as part of the 1956 Centennial program. It was considered asking for new songs as part of the program, and featuring them at that time. The alumni also expressed their thanks to the students for voicing their opinions and acting upon such matters as this.

Dean Morton told council that a social hour program for the lower social room had been decided upon by she and her committee, Mary Bysher and Claire Speidel. She said the program could be put into action as soon as council appointed a committee to take charge of this hour.

To Plan TV Programs

Jim Barrett announced a program that the student presses in the Philadelphia area are sponsoring. They want students from the college to appear on television programs. A plan is going to be set up for this, possibly in connection with the television workshop.

It was recently suggested to council by Mrs. Douds that more joint student-faculty functions be held throughout the year. Roslyn Cozen was appointed to work on this idea with Mrs. Douds.

The "Meals for Millions" program which council will sponsor this year will be held sometime after the first of March it was announced by Claire Speidel, who is in charge of the program.

Campus Improvements Announced By Pierce

Among the latest campus improvements to be noted by Eugene Pierce, director of buildings and grounds, is the building of a new office in room 201 of the Science Hall. The carpenter shop recently built new bases for the rubber trees which are housed in the science hall, also.

The mechanical drawing room is a step further on the road to completion with the installation of new lights. Hardwood bases have been added to the walls of the ping-pong room at the Albright Courts.

The south end of the roof of the Administration Building has been repaired by the maintenance crew and redecoration of the Ladies' Lounge has been completed. As soon as the inclement weather ceases, the ground crew will resume work on the landscaping.

Election Scheduled Next Tuesday Morning

Seven members of the class of 1955 were nominated at a class meeting on Tuesday, January 12, for positions of editor and business manager of the 1955 Cue. The names of the candidates for the post were released by James Hall, junior class president. LaRocco, a pre-law student from Hazleton, has served as sports editor of The Albrightian, editor of the Zeta Link, and was a member of the editorial board of the Hazleton High School yearbook. A history major, he is a member of the Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity and the football team.

Lewis gained experience as art editor of both the "Nessmuk," Wellsboro High School yearbook and "The Cauldron," Wellsboro High newspaper. A pre-law student majoring in history, he is sports editor of The Albrightian and a member of the golf team.

He is vice president of the Alchemists Club, a member of the Domino Club, the Daymen and the Pi Tau Beta fraternity.

Potoski hails from Plymouth, Pa. and is majoring in English. A member of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity, he is chairman of the Junior Optimists Club.

Rogers, a pre-ministerial student majoring in philosophy, resides in Ridgewood, N. Y. and served as a reporter on the Brooklyn Technical High School newspaper. He is a member of Kappa Tau Chi, Domino Club, Philosophy Club, the Glee Club and Men's Dormitory Council.

Masters To Entertain EUB Students At Home

President and Mrs. Harry V. Masters will entertain all Evangelical-United Brethren students at their home on Sunday evening, January 17, for an informal get-together.

The EUB students who recently attended the Quadrennial Conference at Indianapolis will present short reviews and personal impressions of the confab.

Check The Odds!

In 1951 the Korean War claimed the millionth American life lost in warfare. That same year marked the millionth automobile fatality in the United States. Odd coincidence?

Looking back over the records, we find these facts more shocking than coincidental. The first American war fatality occurred in 1775 at the Battle of Lexington. The first American accidental death in an automobile happened in 1900 in New York. Automobiles have done in 51 years what it took war 176 years to accomplish. Yes, on the average, wars have been killing 5,682 human beings a year, while cars have been slaughtering 20,000 a year — 100 every day.

If statistics do not move us, consider that one of this year's twenty thousand was a student at Albright this year. How could the tragedy be more vivid! No driver can afford complacency. We can never be too careful. Every mile of the road, every oncoming automobile is a potential death trap. Even if we ourselves are expert drivers, what about the other fellow?

Ice and snow enhance the hazards so much that many cars have been wisely left in garages. More than one Albrightian has suffered a smashed auto door or fender because of accidents this week. Next time, perhaps, people instead of cars will be the victims.

In order to prevent our becoming a fractional part of the tragic, ever-increasing statistics, it might be wise to keep in mind the ten rules for good driving.

1. Observe safe speeds — not only the speed limits, but the proper speed for road conditions, light, locality, the condition of your car and your condition.
2. Obey traffic rules — all the time, not only when you fear detection.
3. Be alert — anticipate trouble.
4. Be careful — do not depend on the other fellow to be careful for you.
5. Be skillful — learn how to drive under all conditions and then apply what you learn.
6. Be a sportsman — be fair and be courteous.
7. Know your traffic signs — take time to read them and then follow their message.
8. Keep your automobile in good condition.
9. Expect the unexpected — do not take it for granted that everyone is as good as you are. Protect the other fellow who cannot think as fast as you can.
10. When you drink, don't drive — let your car sit and take a cab.

Required Book Misers

As usual, about ninety per cent of the student body at Albright has waited until the last minute to write up term papers, book reports, or readings. For this reason, we wish to denounce the students that take out books about two weeks before deadline and keep them out, using them as door stops, as posture improvers, and as a means of impressing visitors.

The amazing love that Albrightians demonstrate towards books at this time of the year transcends the bounds of common courtesy and consideration for others. It isn't necessary to withdraw all the books on the subject from the library. If you're in a hurry, just read the underlined and outlined sections . . . that's the glorious part about those required books.

However honest a person may be, he is usually unconcerned about returning books that he's taken out, except possibly in finding someone who'll take them back and pay the fine due on them. However careful he is of property in general, he cannot resist marking and underlining the pages. All of this results in gnashing of teeth and harassed faces at term paper time. More time may be spent in tracking down a book than in writing a report on it.

Less hoarding, quicker returns, reports written early — this is the solution to the perennial problem.

Testmanship—A Philosophy of Life

"Go ahead and study, bum," said Glassy-Eye Charlie, as he flicked a cigar ash in the circular file. "None of that crammin' and knockin' my brains out at the last minute this year. I'm just gonna relax."

"Am I to understand that your previous endeavors have so prepared you for the forthcoming term papers and testing period that you have no real need for purposeful study?" asked "Einstein" Brubenbacher, as he made up a four-page bibliography.

"Haw!" hawed Chazz. "No, my boy, but my future endeavors in the field of mutual co-operation system will fix me up. The files will give me the answers to the tests, even if they can't write me a term paper, and . . ."

Brubenbacher grinned. "I hear that the project for the year is to buy an old mechanical brain from M. I. T. for better efficiency."

"Well . . . till that time, I'm using a term paper written by Launcelot Wurst . . . you know, that graduated two years back. I figure it will take me five minutes to type a new title page, and I'm set. Ho, ho! Sometimes I'm so clever I think I'll stop going to my psychiatrist."

So saying, Glassy-Eye Charlie rolled over and commenced to snooze.

The night before the exam, Charlie staggered into his room with eyes even glassier than usual. "Quick, a drag," he muttered. "Brubenbacher, you just don't know what I've gone through."

"Didn't Launcelot give you his thesis," queried B.

"It seems he had loaned it to his girl friend. So after we got back from New Jersey and her house we knew where the thing was. Her brother had loaned it to a kid doing graduate work in ceramics at the U. of Dakota and

Looking Backward

Seventy-eight years ago, in 1875, historic Selwyn Hall had its beginning as a school building when the former "Deininger Mansion," at the foot of "Penn's Mount," became the Episcopal Diocesan School for Boys.

The campus of the school occupied about four and one-half acres, the original grounds of the Deininger mansion. The school's location was deemed extremely healthful, and later advertisements stressed the locality's freedom from malaria!

Military training was part of the curriculum, and the cadets furnished their own uniforms and equipment, except for rifles, which were provided by the school.

Eight cadets were enrolled at the opening, and seven more were added before the year closed. The school was off to a financially cloudy start at a time "of great business depression."

The name "Selwyn Hall" first appeared in an advertisement in 1883 and was henceforth retained. The name was taken from that of George Augustus Selwyn, first bishop of New Zealand and bishop of Lichfield, who preached the sermon at the convention at which the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania was organized, in 1871.

The first changes in the original building were only those necessary to make the interior usable as a school. In 1881 a playroom in the basement was outfitted, and during 1881-82 a dining room, a dormitory, and a reading room were added in the rear of the Hall. Steam pipes were fitted in 1886, and gas lighting was installed in 1887.

The present chapel building, completed in 1882, served as a gymnasium and armory. However, the second floor was not added until 1888. The building was named was sending it home via airmail." "So you have it?"

"Yep. We, got to his mailbox at home before his mother did. Of course, what with the cops chasing us and everything, things got hectic for awhile, but I'll be okay providin' I don't go near no post offices."

"First rate," said Brubenbacher. "I've analyzed the true and false frequency on the test, not that I'd need it myself. There are five possible tests, which the prof alternates. Here is the first one. If the test begins 'Genes are found in the super sonic bands,' use this formula: 2, 6, 7, 8, 10, 15, 17, 18 . . . it's simple: a simple 89 digit number. These numerals are true. About Nothing

"Gabriel" had already blown his horn, the mountain of ashes grew higher and higher, the percolator sputtered and refused to perk anymore of the tarry mass which almost dissolved the spoon in it. The radio dial clicked on and off. The buzzing of the nothingness broke in across the miles and the dial found a new dee jay. This one was going through the "Show Biz" album. On and on it went . . . from Helen Kane moaning "My Man" and Gilda Gray doing the shimmy up to a sad little waltz, "Three O'Clock in the Morning." When Eddie Cantor was about to do "If You Knew Susie," the radio mercifully blinked out . . . "Dawn Patrol" turned into "The Musical Clock." OPEN ALL NIGHT sign across the street blinked off for the last time and as we slipped away into Never-Never Land, we muttered something like, "Mornin' at seven, the hill side's dew-peared; my term paper's finished — all's right with the world!"

The above steaming—or streaming—conscience is dedicated to all those who have given their sanity to the cause of academic pursuit. Vive le term paper and may there always be profs to read them!

Scene and Heard

The kid in the three cornered tights with the bow and arrows has kept several Albrightians (past and present) in the social swim lately. Table-hopping at the slightly fabulous Nan Heckman's reception at the Reading Country Club last Saturday were Professors Harding and Gates, Jack Bicher, Janet Gehres, Ruth Tyson Wagner and Virginia Seems . . . meanwhile, back at the ranch—sorry, wrong story — meanwhile, Jean Dirmitt was making plans for June Dreyer and Joe Julo's wedding . . . this, plus the rush of Christmas engagements, might scare some of the confirmed bachelors about campus. As a comfort to the engaged males, this bit of "fiction and fact from the Idiot's Almanac" 50% of all married people are men.

A Tale of Our City

Claire Speidel tells the story of the freshmen during orientation week who wanted to know if someone were buried under that roped-off circle of the entrance to the library. Her better nature kept her from telling them yes and explaining the size by saying it was the body of the first Indian chief to attend Albright. Naturally, he was buried sitting up.

And Then There Were None
So that truth will out and all that, here's the real scoop. It's really a time capsule to be opened in 1984. Big Brother will find inside a copy of "I, the Jury," three and a half issues of Mad comics and a picture of Ace (F. Scott) Adams joining in the Frankie Scott "Requiem for Real Gone Culture Vultures" as relics of the good old halcyon days.

—J. F. Z.

Our Dandy Lion of the week is one student who doesn't sleep in his eight o'clock classes . . . rather he spends the time eating breakfast (consisting of items removed from the dining hall). He can also be seen avidly reading textbooks (between the covers of which have been inserted the latest issue of "Mad"). This intense intellectual activity will, alas, soon come to an end however, since February is graduation time for Dick Flammer.

Albright's good humor man, this loyal Kappa has a wit and congeniality that has earned him many friends at Albright. Dick, a business administration student, is from Bethlehem, Pennsylvania.

The unfortunate closing of Geiger's created a major unemployment problem for this hard-working Albrightian. His spare time is spent in collecting and delivering (in time) for a local drycleaning establishment.

Dick has participated in intramural sports, and is a member of the track and cross-country teams. He likes Frank Sinatra records and people in general. Dick is also famous for possessing the most distinguished car—pardon, automobile —on campus. Words are insufficient to describe the speed and stream-lined beauty of this hybrid motor vehicle.

His after-graduation plans include travel and work in accounting. The possessor of a keen sense of humor and the ability to make people laugh, Dick will be remembered as one who could see the bright side of anything, even exams.

From Abroad

From the GOLDENROD:

There are certain types of male dancers that the girls are fed up with. Here they are—so take the hint!

HARRY THE HEPCAT — He asks a girl to dance as if he were Louis B. Mayer asking a starlet to star in a million dollar picture extravaganza. While twirling his partner back and forth like a yo-yo, he is constantly speaking in a line of jive jargon.

BASHFUL BILL — Bill feels terribly embarrassed and the only excuse he can think of is that he just washed his feet and can't do a thing with them.

LUKE THE LOVER — He says he used to be conceited but went to a psychiatrist and was cured. Now he is the nicest guy he ever met. If someone doesn't wise up this character, he is liable to love himself to death.

Lions Notch Two Wins, Lose Thriller To L.V.C.; Meet Bucknell Second Time Tomorrow Night

Veteran Dutchmen Lead LVC To Overtime Win

Last Saturday night, Albright College's fighting basketball Lions lost a heartbreaker to the Lebanon Valley College Dutchmen, 76-71, in two overtimes.

Valley's three National Invitation Veterans, Howie Landa, Herb Finklestein, and Lou Sorrentino, led the Dutchmen as they avenged their 1953 setback, their only loss in an otherwise unbeaten season. Over 2200 frenzied fans witnessed as intense and exciting a battle as has ever been seen in Albright's new Thirteenth and Bern gymnasium. The win put Lebanon Valley over the .500 mark for the season, while Albright's record was then four victories against four defeats.

Landa Hits Final Tally

In the second overtime period, Dick Shover opened the scoring with a one-hand push shot to give Valley a two point lead. George Conrad tied it up with a hook shot, but Herb Finklestein immediately scored to put the Dutchmen in front once again. Landa then increased the margin to four points with a set, but Albright captain Jim Croke's driving lay-up brought the Lions within two points once again. Finklestein then converted two foul shots, but Conrad's jump shot put the Gulian-men back in the game once again. With only thirty seconds to go, Landa put the game on ice by dropping two more foul shots. That ended the scoring for the night.

The game threatened to become a runaway in the first period, as Landa, Finklestein, and Sorrentino scored repeatedly on fast breaks. The Dutchmen led, 21 to 14, at the end of the stanza.

Lions Rally In Second

The Lions rallied in the second period, as Mike DePaul and Bruce Riddell scored fourteen points between them. Riddell, a Freshman center, played his finest game of the year, scoring fifteen points in the first half. At halftime the Dutchmen still held a slim 32-30 lead.

After the intermission the Red and White came out fighting, and after two minutes and thirty seconds of the third period had elapsed, George Conrad's jump shot put the Lions in the lead for the first time, 34-32. With one minute and six seconds left in the period, Lou Sorrentino's foul shot put Valley in the lead once again and they still led at the end of the period, 51 to 48. Conrad led the Lion scoring with seven points in the final quarter, and once again it was his jump shot that tied the score with one minute and forty seconds remaining. Valley froze the ball until only eight seconds were left, but Howie Landa's set shot was missed and the game went into overtime. Landa and Howie Kosier, replacing center Don Reinhard who left the game with five personals, scored for Valley in the overtime, and Riddell scored all four Lion points on a pair of foul shots and a field goal that tied the score with two minutes and ten seconds left. Once again the Dutchmen froze the ball, and Landa again missed a set shot, causing the game to go into a second overtime.

Bison Meat

Tomorrow night, the Lions play their home game against the Bucknell Bisons. Albright fans who are prone to emotional breakdowns due to "nip and tuck" games are urged to see this one. It should be Albright all the way with all Albright courtmen getting a chance to enhance their scoring treasures. Why is it that I always crawl out on a limb like this? Seriously speaking, I feel that this "limb" is quite secure, so if any of you would like to join me, don't be shy. The Lions have dominated Albright-Bucknell court action for the past few seasons, and should continue to do the same for the next two. Albright by fifteen.

Flying High

The Zeta Omega Epsilon hardwood quintets are continuing to dominate the intramural hardwood scene. They are on top of both the "A" and "B" leagues with a bright outlook for the remainder of the season. It remained for the "B" team to provide the thrills on Monday night when they outfought the APO five in two overtime periods.

Landa Leads Scoring

Landa, who now has 202 points in nine games and is a sure bet to set the Lebanon Valley all-time scoring record, led the Dutchmen with 27 points. Herb Finklestein followed with 22. Bruce Riddell was high man for Albright with 22

Tense Moment

As the Lion-Dutchmen hoopsters battled out the second overtime period, tense rooters in the stands had the feeling of having witnessed this game before. The same strategy was used by Marquette's fighting five for three consecutive plays—the third time it worked!

Lions Stop Bisons In Vacation Tilt

Albright College's basketball Lions began their Holiday season on a happy note as they trounced Bucknell University's Bisons by a 77-61 score. In the preliminary game the Lion Cubs met defeat, 88-72. Tony Bacelli was high scorer for the winners with 27 points, while Bernie Krick led the losers with 21 markers.

The Lions took the opening tip-off and jumped into a quick lead on George Conrad's one-hand jump shot. From then on the Red and White warriors were never headed, leading 25-9 at the end of the first period, 39-29 at the half, and 55-48 at the end of the third stanza. The Bisons rallied momentarily in the third period, but the Lions pulled away, led by George Conrad's nine points, in the final stanza.

Wain and Slavitt were the high scorers for Bucknell, each netting eleven points. Conrad, whose spectacular rebounding on both ends was a highlight of the game, led the winners with 24 markers, followed by Mike De Paul with 17.

markers, and trailing him were Conrad with 19 and De Paul with 16.

In the preliminary game, the Lions Cubs defeated the baby Dutchmen, 57-39. Larry Mentzer and Ken Schuler led the losers with 13 and 12 points, respectively, while Myron Hallock was high for Albright with 13, followed by John Schiavo with 11.

Football Players Receive Trophies

The formal presentation of the Anthony Lansche trophies for the most valuable Albright Lion back and lineman were made on Thursday, January 7. The deserving recipients were Jack Sudol and Jack Huntzinger. Sudol, who led the Lions in five departments, won the most-valuable back trophy, and Huntzinger, who led in pass interceptions, won the most-valuable lineman trophy.

Sudol led the G-Men in total offense, most yards gained rushing, most yards gained in forward passing, individual scoring and in punting, where he placed fourth in the nation. He was co-captain of the 1953 football squad.

Jack Huntzinger led the Lions in pass interceptions with five. Jack was honored during the season by being voted the most valuable player on the losing team in the annual Pretzel Bowl game. He is also remembered for his flying tackle which saved a certain Muhlenberg touchdown in the second game of the season.

The voting committee consisted of Reading sportswriters and sportscasters along with a group of alumni from Albright.

Red And White Ahead In Recent Bison Series

The Roaring Lions will oppose Bucknell University on the home floor tomorrow night in a return engagement at 8:30 o'clock. The preliminary game will get under way at 7:00 o'clock. Albright will be seeking their fifth straight win over the Bisons in the last three years, and their second conquest of them this year.

Albright downed Bucknell 77-61 at Davis Gymnasium December 18 for their third win of the season. Coach Ben Kribb's five suffered four losses to Lehigh, Dickinson, Connecticut and Juniata before losing to Albright, but they already appear to be on the rebound as is indicated by their upset win over Colgate University. The quintet from Lewisburg entered the victory column last week with their 76-74 win over Colgate.

Lions Have Even Record

The Lions returned from their winter vacation and looked impressive against Dickinson and Lebanon Valley last week. Despite only beating Dickinson by three points, 52-49, the five did an excellent job since Dickinson is on the rebound in basketball. George Conrad led the Red and White in this victory by collecting 19 points and he was followed by Jim Foreman with 12 and Mike DePaul with 11. The Lions ran out of steam against Lebanon Valley and after two overtimes the score read 75-71 against the home team. Very significant in this game were the fine efforts of our two freshmen—Bruce Riddell who tallied the high total of 22 points, and Jim Foreman who played his usual brand of steady ball and collected 11 markers. Conrad and DePaul totaled 35 points together.

Barry Parker, Herb Cox, Don Richards, Jim Poff and Dick Johnson are expected to be the starters for the Bisons. Last year Parker was the top scorer for the Bisons with 265 points in 19 games, hence averaging 14 points per game. Parker and Poff are leading the Bisons this year so far. Together they scored combined totals of 36 and 30 points against Dickinson and Lehigh respectively.

Conrad Was Hero Last Year

Last year Conrad led the Lion attack in the first game against BU by collecting 27 points in the 89-50 romp, however it was Mike DePaul who carried the Lions to the closer 65-55 win at Lewisburg.

George Conrad of Mt. Penn finally passed Mike DePaul for the scoring leadership on the Lion squad. His 19 points against Lebanon Valley raised his total to 126 and Mike DePaul's 16 markers put him at 120. Bruce Riddell passed Jim Foreman with his 22 points and now has a total of 74 to Foreman's 69.

Next week the Lions will meet Lehigh University at Bethlehem on Wednesday. Lehigh was the only new addition to the Lion basketball schedule this season and the home town folks will get a chance to see Lehigh in a return engagement on March 3.

Looking Backward

Howe Hall in honor of the Rt. Rev. M. A. DeWolfe Howe, first bishop of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania.

The final building added to the campus of Selwyn Hall was a gymnasium which stood on the ground now occupied by the Alumni Memorial Library. A "brick structure of ample dimensions, tasteful architecture, and admirably designed for the purpose it serves," it was erected in the spring of 1892. A corridor connected it with Howe Hall.

A full athletic program was included in the curriculum, and rivalry with near-by schools seems to have been keen.

Hikes up Mt. Penn were popular with the cadets, especially when young ladies were their guests. "Delightful pic-nics" were part of these hikes. Other activities, as reported by the student publication, The Cadet, were afternoon teas, "hops," and holiday festivities.

Selwyn Hall appeared to be a healthy and growing school with a bright future. But the general business depression of 1893, combined with alarm over the prevalence of small pox, caused a sharp decrease in students enrolled, and the doors of "Old Selwyn" were locked in 1895.

In 1902 the buildings of Selwyn Hall and some four acres of land were purchased by Schuylkill Seminary; Selwyn Hall was launched on its way to becoming a part of Albright College.

Albright Quintet Edges Red Devils On Carlisle Court

Journeying to Carlisle for their seventh game of the current hardwood season, Albright College's Hungry Five narrowly defeated a fighting Dickinson team, 52-49, bringing their season slate to four wins and three defeats.

The Lions, spearheaded by Jim Foreman's six points, led at the end of the first period, 17-15. In the second stanza, the Red Devils outscored the Gulliamen, 12 to 7, with the aid of Sid Kline and Joe Verano, who scored four points apiece, and took a three-point half-time lead, 27-24. Both teams scored fifteen points in the third period, George Conrad notching ten for the Red and White. Mike De Paul led a desperation Lion surge in the fourth quarter, scoring eight of his eleven points. Conrad's jump shot knotted the score at 45-all, then De Paul's one-hander put the Lions in front for good.

In the opener the Dickinson JV's trounced the Albright JV's, 71-56. "Dutch" Stromberg led the winners with 18 points, while Ron Pisano was high for the losers with 12.

New Machine Installed

Daywomen were happily surprised by a shiny new mechanical monster when they returned from vacations. The welcome feature was an ice cream dispenser, courtesy of the Women's Student Senate. In fact, considering that we now have two soft drink machines, a candy machine, and a chewing gum machine, in addition to the new monster, all we need now is a reducing machine!
