

Class Of 1960 Will Graduate June 5

Two Fill Vacancies In Staff Next Year

Albright College announces replacements for two professors granted sabbatical leaves for the 1960-61 academic year.

William W. Hummel, as assistant professor of history, and Elton M. Anglada, as instructor in Spanish, will replace William R. Bishop and Consuelo Rodriguez Jordan respectively.

Hummel, currently at the Patton Masonic School, Elizabethtown, Pa., is a graduate of Bloomsburg State College and holds a master's degree from Bucknell University. He has completed all but the dissertation for the doctor's degree at the University of Pittsburgh.

Prior to his position at Patton, Hummel was an instructor in history at the Johnstown Center of the University of Pittsburgh and at Geneva College. During his service in the Armed Forces he was a student at Shrivenham American University, England.

Native of Spain

A native of Barcelona, Spain, Anglada received the master's degree from the University of Connecticut, following his bachelor's degree and advanced study at the University of Santo Domingo. He has also pursued advanced studies at the New School for Social Research in New York City.

Hummel will begin his duties at Albright in the forthcoming summer session.

Officers Chosen By Freshmen For Next Year

In recent elections held by the class of 1963, Robert Matthews was voted president for the coming year. Matthews resides in Elizabeth, N. J., and is a member of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity.

Vice president is Wilson Kratz. Serving as secretary for her second year is Frances Geigle, and as treasurer, George Hamerschmidt. Louise Gehrke will represent the class in Student Council.

Council Allots Activity Funds For Next Year

Preliminary approval was given to the allotment of funds which Student Council has at its disposal at Council's meeting last Tuesday, May 17. Representatives gave the Executive Committee the power to make any alterations in the allocation should the necessity arise but reserved the right to give final approval to the budget in September.

The funds allocated represent the division of certain moneys from each student's activity fee. Council received notification that it had $15.00 per student to divide where last year $12.85 was given to meet the expenses. Those organizations involved are the Albrightian, Cue, the combined Y's, International Relations Club, Domino Club, Parent Day, Agon and Women's Student Association.

The "Book-of-the-Semester" program was also approved by Council. The "program is to be a Book-of-the-Semester rather than a 'Book-of-the-Year' program; this means that a book is to be chosen for campus wide study and discussion each semester." With student approval a committee of three students and two faculty members will set to work on the program to be inaugurated during the second semester of next year.

Awards To Be Given At Student-Faculty Dinner, Monday 23

Albright's annual Student-Faculty Banquet will be held in the Dining Hall next Friday evening. Dr. James Reppert, Assistant Professor of English, will be this year's master of ceremonies of the program which will be highlighted by the announcement of this year's award winners.

Besides the Student Council Awards, intramural prizes, and the Gold "A" award, certificates will be presented to those students who represented Albright in "Who's Who in American Colleges." President Harry V. Masters will introduce the invited guests and will announce the list of students who have earned Dean's List Honors. Eugene Shirk track coach, and Mrs. Beatrice Ramsey, girls' gymnasium instructor, will honor those students who have earned athletic awards. Entertainment will be provided by the Pi Tau Beta Chorus.

All faculty members and day students are requested to pick up their tickets for the banquet in the Public Relations Office today.

Some of last year's Gold "A" Award winners include William Garrett Robert Peckham, Loise Reid, Elizabeth Smith, and Anne Young.

Y Solicits Big Brothers And Sisters

The Big Brother-Sister program for next term is now in progress. Co-chairmen of the program are Frances Geigle, '63, and John H. Weaver, '61.

The Y-sponsored project encourages upperclassmen to help incoming freshmen adjust to college life; all upperclassmen are eligible to "adopt" a little sister or brother.

The All-Campus Picnic Tuesday night was attended by nearly 500 students. It was held at Eggleston Park and featured a weiner roast and induction of new cabinet and Y officers. Chaperones for the event were Chaplain William Marlow and Prof. Edward Gilber of the psychology department. Y advisers.

McKay, '42, president of McCormick Theological Seminary.

In the afternoon the commencement program will take place in the Physical Education Building. Following the academic procession the address will be given by Clark Kerr, president of the University of California.

New Courses Added For Registration

Registration will begin next Tuesday, May 24th, from 9-12 a.m. This date opens final examination week, also, May 24th to June 2nd.

Summer courses, as well as courses for next fall can be planned. There will be new courses introduced for the coming year. Among these are: Great Books Seminar for juniors and seniors, offered both semesters, three credits per semester. This course, taught by Professor Eugene H. Barth, will be a non-departmental major, i.e., it can't be applied to a major or minor field.

A course for business administration seniors, Business Ad. 401-402, will be taught by Mr. James Connors of Carpenter Steel Company. Mr. Connors has an M.A. degree from Harvard School of Business Administration.

Latin 201-202 will be taught by Dr. Helen Loane who received her Doctorate degree from Johns Hopkins University. This will be a six credit course in its entirety. The basic requirement is two years of high school Latin.

Descriptive geography will be offered in the first semester for three credits, and physical geography in the second to be taught by Dean George W. Wilson.

Also, a program which involves a Science-Mathematics Teacher Education curriculum will be arranged for people who would like to teach these subjects. This will lower the requirement of a Chemistry major who is student teaching from thirty-four to eighteen hours.

Speeches Delivered In Kelchner Contest

The annual Charles S. Kelchner contest at Albright College was held yesterday. The contest was conducted under the direction of the English department with professors Applegate, Brown, Hostetter, and Mrs. A. Shirk acting as preliminary judges. It was a contest of oration among the various speech sections in the school. The contest took place in the new chapel-auditorium at 7:00 p.m. The topic of the speeches was "Man Against Darkness."

Speakers

Seven people were selected by the professors to speak in the final round. These were Richard Farr, '63, Howard Goldberg, '63, Alexandra Karetas, '60, Michael Kodroff, '63, Daniel Lessig, '60, Barbara Specht, '63, and Barbara Wilcox, '63. First, second, and third prizes will be awarded at the annual Student-Faculty Banquet to be held Monday, May 23. The chairman of the evening will be Nancy Ratajczak, '60.

Stanley Michalak

Stanley J. Michalak, '60, is class orator for graduation exercises. He is a political science major, and has maintained an A average for four years.

Michalak will enter Princeton School of Advanced Political Science in the fall as a Princeton Scholar. He will study in a class of 12 students from various parts of the world.

Continuously a representative of Albright at the Collegiate Model United Nations, Michalak served on the continuations committee of that body last year. He is a past president of International Relations Club, and secretary-general of the Albright-sponsored Berks County High School Model United Nations.

The orator has led a dance combo, "The Four Moods", for several years, is a professional pianist, and has arranged several jazz concerts here. He is a member of Y Cabinet and the Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity.

Cue Editor Features Big Yearbook, Record Addition

Ed Traves, the editor of Albright College's yearbook, the Cue, for 1960, will be going into graduate work with hopes of entering the Pennsylvania State University Journalism school. He is an English major and will, of course, be graduating this June. For four years he has worked on the Cue staff. Prior to becoming the editor, he had been an associate editor. He also worked on the Albrightian for three years, during which he served as the feature editor for one term.

Largest Yearbook

This year's Cue staff has created the largest yearbook in the college's history with 160 pages, colored pictures, and the new addition of a 45 r.p.m. record which will serve as an audio account of the important events of the 1959-60 term. The record was pressed by RCA Victor and compiled by students Alan Botto and Thomas Bamford.

The book will be bound in monk's cloth and will have red silk screening.

It's All In The Game

Remember what news was in the international headlines at this time last year? I believe that May 27 was the deadline which Khrushchev had set for the allies to get out of Berlin. However, nothing resulted from this threat and the pudgy premier himself visited the United States in September, 1959 (at the beginning of this college term). Yes, all of the rough spots had been smoothed over. Russian-American relations were better than they had been for a decade. The public sat back and breathed a sigh of relief. Khrushy was coming over to our side. He wasn't such a bad guy after all. He shook hands and joked with the big business leaders of our nation. He invited Ike to meet the Russian people as well. Peace, prosperity, and friendly co-existence were the slogans of the day.

Perhaps I shouldn't spend this much time on such common knowledge. Everybody knows that . . . What does everybody know? Everybody knows that we don't use the same slogans right now. But we'll put peace, prosperity, and friendly co-existence aside for the time being. Maybe we can use them some other time again when they will be more to our advantage. Right now, we've got to be tough. The American public is embarrassed. We Americans don't look too good in the eyes of other nations in view of the spy tactics.

Of course, there are some other minor problems, too. Norway and Pakistan aren't too happy about the threats which Khrushy has been hurling at them. Then there's that awful pest, Castro, down there in Cuba, stirring up anti-U. S. demonstrations. Can't understand it . . . How about these foolish demonstrations in Korea, in Turkey, and what are those kids trying to prove by interfering with the government investigations in San Francisco?

Somebody is always trying to stir up trouble. Why can't people let things as they are? Take that messy problem in South Africa. What have those Negroes proven anyway? Why get excited about such an unimportant matter as to who can sit at a lunch counter?

Pardon me if I've brought up some minor unpleasanties. I really don't know why I bother busy college students with these little things. After all, there are tests coming up next week. We've got to get good marks. We all know we've got to make a good impression. For you graduates it might mean a good job, the start of a successful career.

May I ask one more question of the graduates of 1960, specifically? What are your marks going to be when you get out of college and start your career. No, I don't mean what your salary is going to be. I don't care how many friends you're going to make. These aren't the points on which you are graded ultimately. I'm not talking about the games of status-seeking and profit-making, not about social cliques and prestige pointers.

I'm referring to the serious game of brotherhood and social consciousness. It really isn't a game, you know. You can't pretend very well in this field or you'll be discovered eventually. You can't send out spy missions and then walk into a summit conference to talk peace. You can't preach racial equality and then practically ignore the Negroes of South Africa in their cause or refuse to let them into your churches in certain parts of your own country. You can't embrace dictators in Spain and expect the friendship of your neighbors in Cuba, the same ones you've been exploiting in business circles.

No, graduates. You're going to have to play it straight and be concerned about such things for the sake of our country. Keep in touch with us on campus though. These things sort of slip our minds because "we've got more important things to do."

It was agreed that no more than $250.00 should be spent and that a slight admission be charged.

Committee chairmen for a number of next year's events and pro-

Weaver, '61, Campus Chest; William Vogt, '62, and Myron Rodos, '62, Orientation; John Walsh, '61, Stunt Night; Harold Bailey, '62, Homecoming; John Greaser, '62, Constitutional Revision; and Peggy Adams, '62, Publicity.

Yearly Report Is Given By Dr. Masters

Albright College's president, Dr. Harry V. Masters, addressed the student body in assembly, Thursday, May 5. This was the 1960 version of his annual report to the students in review of the college year and with regard to future plans. The president first explained the function of the Board of Trustees. He said that this board determines the policy of the institution, employs the administrative staff, and secures and manages the college funds.

The Board

At present there are 40 members on the board: 19 trustees from church groups, 18 trustees "at large", and three trustees from the alumni. The board has various committees. Among these are the executive committee (acts between trustee meetings), the finance and property committee, the faculty and curriculum committee, a committee for direct responsibility to funds, the faculty-trustee relations committee, and the development council. Then the president went to the topic of student facilities. He mentioned the dining hall which was opened for student use in January, 1959, the new chapel-auditorium, opened in February of this year, and the auxiliary facilities which have been made available for men's and women's dormitory use.

Building Projects

Two building projects loom for the near future. There will be a large addition made to the science hall or a separate science building will be constructed. Also, a new women's dormitory is scheduled to be built. Additional room is being planned for the books in the library on the second floor. Dr. Masters emphasized that the only source of finances in order to expand facilities is to appeal to the community, alumni, and church.

Next year's curriculum will offer some changes. Latin will be re-introduced, a new general education course will be offered; there will be two new courses in physics and two in geology, a class for students in seminar on great books, a revision of offerings in the math department, an alternative procedure in student teaching, and a new program to aid students for teaching in the natural sciences. The separate degree of bachelor of science in home economics will be eliminated (will be classified under bachelor of science) along with the social science major.

Programs

Albright will participate in the Washington Semester Plan, the Advanced Placement Program, the Honors Program, and there is the possibility of the "Book of the Semester" plan. Also, students will be allowed to go into the foreign study program.

The speaker program in chapel which brought such fine speakers to our chapel-auditorium this semester is to be continued next fall. There will be new faculty members in business administration, biology, and in the psychological service department, besides those who have been appointed to replace those professors who will be on sabbatical leave from the history and Spanish departments.

250 Freshmen

Approximately 250 freshmen are expected in September. The entrance standards will be essentially the same, but there will be less inclination to struggle with the "borderline" student. In closing, President Masters said, "What matters most to you is what you are doing with the opportunities that are presented to you while you are here on this campus."

Tea For Two -- Plus Five

By GAYLE GENSEMER

The following feature article was submitted to the Albrightian for publication through the courtesy of a St. Louis University nursing student who previously attended Albright College and is presently earning her Bachelor of Science degree in Nursing in St. Louis. This article, of a sociological nature, pertains to the general topic of marriage and the family, which is of specific interest to her and should be of interest to the student body of Albright College.

"With the great number of pessimists today decrying the general decline of the family in the United States, it is encouraging to note a recent study which has been done by Dr. Carle Zimmerman of Harvard and Dr. Lucius F. Cervantes, S.J., of St. Louis University, two of America's foremost sociologists.

"The Harvard Study was conducted to discern what makes successful families successful and to discover the answer to the need for a protective device for the solidarity of the family. The criteria for the classification of "good" or "successful" families were: no divorce or desertion; no juvenile arrest; no children dropping out of school before completing the senior year in high school. The two sociologists spent four years on this first investigation—a questionnaire survey on the high school level in public and private schools in six representative big cities and two typical smaller towns. Their major discovery was this: many millions of American families have created a new pattern for living which is actually a twentieth century version of the ancient family clan. Each of the good and successful families surrounds itself with about five other families which share their ideals and many of the same characteristics. Usually the "friend families" have: the same religion, the same region of origin (section of the United States), approximately the same income, and often a relationship by blood or marriage.

"This survey of sixty-thousand families reveals three major findings:

—Eighty-five per cent of all American families have learned a protective device to shield their children from immorality and delinquency now and broken marriages later.

—Fifteen per cent of families who have not learned this success formula are strongly and severely affected by the stresses of our non-tranquil times. They are largely the source of the social infections—immorality, divorce, desertion, narcotics and alcohol addiction, delinquency, and crime.

—Because evil generally receives more attention than good, the fifteen per cent of problem families have been awarded the attention of most sociological studies. From this perhaps misguided attention has arisen the decadence outlook which so many sociologists apply to American family structure.

"To be objective and honest about the matter, twentieth century America has found a pattern for survival during a period of tension and rapid change which holds forth the promise of a renaissance of the United States family. It was the lack of such a rebirth of stability which was one of the prime causes of decay of ancient civilization such as Rome and Greece.

"This survey takes it upon itself to answer and refute three well-known prophets of gloom—Oswald Spengler, Jean-Paul Sartre, and Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey. Spengler's "Decline of the West", Sartre's existentialism (existence is futile and without meaning), and Kinsey's interpretations of sexual behavior all tend to produce pessimism at a time when positive energy and strong character are needed as never before. Zimmerman and Cervantes point realistically and optimistically to the facts that good families are increasing, that children of good families promise to be better than the parents, and that bad families are not "lost" for the children may regain lost social status by gathering good family associates about them.

"Dr. Zimmerman and Dr. Cervantes found that this circle of close friends gave the children a dike of consistency in values against the flood of world tension and unrest. It is obvious that a child in a family grouping with a family friend system which reinforced the core family's values would feel an impressively greater sense of order and security in his personal psychological background because of consistency of the basic elements. The sociologists themselves sum up their findings: "No matter what circumstances—biological, physical, environmental, or social—make children run afoul of the law, good similar, intimate, friend families around the home help prevent circumstances from getting out of hand. These friends also help to keep the children more interested in life achievement through school and make for better husband-wife relations within the home."

Renkenmen Blank Wilkes; Show Record Of 10 and 2

Congratulations must certainly go to the most prolific winners of this spring sports season, Coach Will Renken's tennis team. Last Saturday the tennis team smashed Wilkes, 9-0, to rack up its tenth victory against only two defeats.

Against Wilkes, Bruce Bowen, Albright's number one man, didn't allow his opponent, Owen Francis, to win a single game, defeating him, 6-0, 6-0. In court two, Jack Reinhart had a difficult time defeating Ira Albright's tennis duo of Glenn Ruoss (left) and Bruce Bowen are shown defeating Wilkes' opponents, 6-1, 7-5, last Saturday at home. Albright won the match, 9-0.

Two Lions Victorious At MASCAC

Albright's Brad Breneman and Walt Diehm both claimed individual firsts to star in the college division of the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference (MASCAC) track and field championships held at Gettysburg College this past Friday and Saturday.

West Chester State College, which captured last year's team title, repeated again this spring by scoring a total of 55 6/7 points. The Albrightians matched Wagner's 30 1/2 points to share second place honors.

Breneman, who holds the school pole vault record of 12 feet, 8 inches, took first place in that event with a twelve foot effort. Diehm set the pace by clearing the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.6 seconds. Later he finished a close second to

Smallwood Second In Golf Tournament

Albright's Jim Smallwood, Biglerville, Pa., was second in the MASCAC golf tournament held at Newark, Del. Smallwood defeated Bob Eitzweiler, Bucknell, in a playoff for the second spot after each fired a 79 in the title test won by Stuart Illisse, Lehigh, with a 74. Bill Prothero, Sinking Spring, Pa., finished seventh for Albright with an 84. The Lions were forced to withdraw from the team event when Harold (Ace) Bailey, Union, N. J., withdrew because of illness.

Albright Defeats Wilkes In 4-1 Five-hitter Here

Freshman Tom Katanick pitched a five-hit game to defeat Wilkes College by a 4-1 score on his home field last Saturday afternoon. He was helped by the Lion defense with two key double plays.

The visitors' only run came across in the fourth inning when Bob Ontko scored on a home run.

The Lions, now hold a 7-5 record, earned just six hits off George Sacka, with Dick Hess getting the biggest blow, a second inning solo run.

Lion first baseman, Claude Lynch, prepares to execute a put-out during last Saturday's contest with Wilkes at Kelchner Field. Albright won, 4-1, to up their season mark to 7 and 5.

Each of the teams committed three errors. None of Albright's was costly but all of Wilkes were. Two boots and an unsuccessful fielder's choice gave the Lions two runs in the first inning and Claude Lynch, after tripling, scored on an error in the eighth.

When the Albrightians traveled to Easton April 25 to meet the Leopards, the Lions banged out 13 hits and scored ten runs. But Lafayette scored 12 runs as Dick Greené was charged with the defeat.

Claude Lynch, who slapped three hits, including a home run, and knocked in five runs, was the batting star of the day, but the Lions saw the last of the lead when Lafayette scored two in the fourth and two more in the fifth to go ahead for good.

On May 7, Albright scored nine runs during the first eight innings and then matched the total in the ninth, on its way to an 18-4 triumph over Lebanon Valley College when they played at Annville.

Lynch, whose triple brought in the first two runs, totaled three RBIs, as did Harold Buch. Joe Wertz and Bob Shoup each blasted a home run.

At Kelchner Field Wednesday, May 9, home runs by Buch, Mike Weinhold and Shoup paved the Albright baseball team to a 9-7 victory over Muhlenberg. The victory-hungry Mules drove Lion starting hurler Ray Summerstad to cover with a four-run barrage in the second inning, but Katanick came on to put out the fire.

LaSalle College walloped the Albright baseball varsity, 13-5, Monday, April 4, to deal them their fourth defeat of the campaign. The Explorers' pitcher, Connie Newman, tamed the Lions with just five hits and was never in trouble. Wertz and Bob Eddows pitched for Albright.

INTRAMURALS

The men's intramural sports program came to an abrupt end when the Zetas again reigned undefeated. Since this team was unconquered by the Pi Tau, APO, Kappa, and Dorm teams for both halves of play, there was no need for the play-off game scheduled for Wednesday, May 11.

Following the clean slaters on the placement ladder was Pi Tau, boasting a 3-1 record for the second half and 2-2 for the former schedule. The deciding contest between these top two was waged on Monday, May 2, when the Zetas scored twice while holding Pi Tau to the zero mark.

Next in line is APO, who held the same position (that of third) last half, with an unimproved showing of one win, two losses and a tie. The tie game, played May 2, was against Kappa, and the win on Wednesday, May 4 over the unvictorious Dorm. The first half of play had left them with an even count of two and two.

The Kappas, although without a win, now held fourth place, having been defeated twice and included in two tie games. The game with Dorm Thursday, April 28 ended at 6-6 and the one with Kappa at four even. At the end of the first half they had held a more encouraging record of one win and three losses.

The Dorm team's showing differed only slightly between halves. Their first count was one win - three losses, while the latter was no wins, three losses and a tie.

Himmel, 4-6, 6-0, 8-6. Glenn Ruoss of Albright easily defeated Duke Dunlap, 6-1, 6-2, on court three. Al Kutner had little difficulty in defeating Mike Picceretta, 6-1, 6-1. Bill Ruoff conquered Steve Klein, 6-2, 6-3, while Jim Kurtz also continued the netters' success by posting a 6-2, 6-4 triumph over Bob Bienkowski.

In the doubles, Bowen and Ruoss had an easy first set, 6-1, but were extended to 7-5 to win the second set and the match. Ruoff and Kutner had some uneasy moments before they defeated Himmel and Picceretta, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. Sam Zehner and Kurtz in the final match of the day had the longest set when they were extended to 11-9 in winning the first set, and then they came back to take the second set, 6-4.

Shut Out Moravian

Previously, the Lion netters had crushed the Moravian tennis team by the same 9-0 shut-out. In this match the Albrightians did not lose a single set the whole afternoon. However, before this match the Lions' winning streak was snapped when the Lafayette Leopards defeated them, 6-3. In that match, Bruce Bowen in the number one court defeated Gene Gordon, 6-2, 6-3 and Jim Kurtz defeated Steve Anders, 9-7, 6-3, to post the only single victories against the Leopards. Bowen combined with Glenn Ruoss to post the Lions' only doubles victory as they defeated Brick and Williams, 7-5, 6-4. Before the Lafayette defeat the Red and White smashed Elizabethtown, 9-0, in obtaining its eighth victory.

Tomorrow the Lions' best spring sports team meets Ursinus at Collegeville in its final match of the season.
