FRANK LA MARR PICKED BY SENIORS FOR GALA FETE

Winter Crystal to be Scene of Seniors' Festivities This Coming Friday

The Senior Hall, the climax of the social life of a college senior, this year promises to be the most gala occasion Albright College has enjoyed for some time. The ball will be held at Bachs, otherwise known as the Winter Crystal, one of Reading's attractive and spacious ballrooms, on February 15. The ballroom is advantageously located at 120 North Fifth Street. Programs sell for two dollars and may be obtained from any member of the committee. The committee, consisting of Elliot Goldstan, chairman; Madge Dieffenbach, James Mohn, Harold Krohn, Mary Yost, Newt Danford, John Deininger, Bailey Gass, and Tom Hepler, has been putting forth every effort to make the affair a success. The dance will be open not only to the senior class but also to the other classes, even we freshmen.

Frank La Marr and his Columbia Broadcasting Orchestra have been secured for the occasion. This orchestra has won wide acclaim for its individual style. After playing at several country clubs and restaurants in New York, La Marr's dance programs were broadcast almost daily over the Columbia network for almost a year. He has won many admirers and there is a rare treat in store for you if you take advantage of this opportunity.

Everyone is urged to attend the senior ball, a combination of a great time, a beautiful ballroom, and an excellent orchestra.

MUSIC DEPT. SPONSORS NUNEMAKER RECITAL

Byron Nunemacher, Reading instructor of piano, presented a program illustrating types and forms of classical and modern compositions in the chapel last night. Robert Work, our librarian, gave explanatory notes for each arrangement. The program consisted of: "Scenes from Childhood," by Schumann; "Preludes and Fugues in F Minor, C Minor, and D Minor," by Mozart; "Gardens in the Rain," by Debussy; "The White Peacock," from Roman Sketches by Charles Griffes; "The Island Spell," by John Ireland and "Tango American," by John Alden Carpenter. The recital was attended by a moderate number of students who were seemingly appreciative. The program was sponsored by the music appreciation classes of the college and is the first of a monthly series to be presented by this group.

PROMINENT SPEAKER TO ADDRESS LUTHERAN CLUB

The Lutheran Club will hold its regular monthly meeting on Friday, February 8, at 3.30. The club, meeting in Selwyn Hall parlor, will have for a speaker Miss Mildred E. Winston of Washington, D. C. Miss Winston is a member of the board of education of the Lutheran Church.

PAPERS READ FOR LOCAL ALUMNI BY QUILL MEMBERS

Club Plans to Use Barbara Ann Tea Room for Freshman Initiation Banquet

The Quill Club, campus literary society, presented a program of literary efforts last Friday evening for members of the Berks County Alumni Association of Albright College.

Miss Stella Hetrich read a short article, entitled, "What Happened to the Florida Cracker?" Martin Musket read several poems, "Black Magic," part one of a trilogy on voodooism, and a sonnet, "Ashes." Adam Levensgood read a short story, "My Fraternity Brother." George Frisch read a humorous poem, "The Fisher," and Charles Moravec read a dramatic review of "Mary of Scotland."

On Tuesday, February 5, the executive committee of the Quill Club met in Selwyn Hall to complete plans for the annual initiation banquet to be held at the Barbara Ann Tea Room for newly selected freshmen.

There will be an annual initiation banquet for new members on February 27, at the Barbara Ann Tea Room. On March 5, Dr. Charles E. Roth, pastor of St. Andrew's Reformed Church, will be the speaker. On March 13, there will be an open discussion on the plays of Noel Coward by Robert Work, Emily Yocum, Charles Moravec, Olaf Holman and George Deininger. This discussion will be held in the college chapel. Professor Dale Grammley, head of the journalism department of Lehigh University at Bethlehem, will speak on "Breaking into the Magazines," on April 9. This meeting will be followed by a social for all students.

The critique committee consisting of Dr. Eugene Page, Miss Klein, Adam Levensgood, Stella Hetrich, and Olaf Holman has extended bids to the following freshmen after reading their manuscripts: Chester Jump, Paul McCormack, Peter Alexinok, Martin Musket, Donald Book, Velma Turbitt, Ruth Yohn, Marion Heck, Jeanne Kurtz, Grace Degler, Selma Bagat, and Dorothy Garman.

GLEE CLUB PLANS EASTER WEEK TOUR

The Albright College Mens' Glee Club has formed a tentative plan for an extended tour during Passion week, April 13 to April 22. The Glee Club is under the direction of Willy Richter whom we all know as the director of our college chorus. The Club is composed of eighteen men including the director Willy Richter, and pianist, Olaf Holman. Along with the group is our good friend Bob Workman, singing first base, and Basom of the booming voice.

Washington, on Sunday, April 14, will be one of the first stops, followed by East Prospect on Tuesday, April 16, and the possibility of singing in Baltimore on the day in between. On Thursday, April 18, they will be at Red Lion and on Saturday, April 20, at Hanover. There is no doubt that the intervening days will be filled as arrangements are being made now to this effect.

FIRESIDE HOURS BEGIN SOCIAL LIFE OF SECOND SEMESTER

Two well-planned Fireside Hours marked the beginning of social life on the campus for the second semester. The first, held on the evening of January 30, celebrated the end of mid-semester examinations. As a special compensation for the loss of vacation, a second get-together was arranged for Friday evening, February 1.

Dr. Horn deserves a great deal of credit for the part he played in organizing the affairs and arousing enthusiasm concerning them. Jan Van Driel and his kitchen helpers also contributed largely to the success of the evenings by preparing generous refreshments. The whole-hearted support of Dr. Klein was greatly appreciated.

Both gatherings were well-attended. Tables were provided for games, and music was furnished by a group from the college directed by Robert Workman. Spirited cheers and the singing of the Alma Mater formed an appropriate conclusion.

On Sunday afternoon, February 3, the administration sponsored an All-college Tea in Selwyn Hall. Jean Goodling presided, assisted by girls from the Y. W. C. A. There was a good representation of both students and faculty. Many participated in group singing.

Y. W. CHOOSE DELEGATES TO COLLEGIATE SEMINAR

An important meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held Wednesday evening, February 6, in the "Y" room. A candle-light social hour consisted of the singing of semi-classical and folk numbers. Extensive plans for the immediate future were formulated at a cabinet meeting following the social hour.

On February 13, Jean Goodling and Miss Florence Innis, as representatives of the Albright Chapter, will attend an Intercollegiate Seminar at Millersville State Teachers' College. At this meeting, which is held in conjunction with the Student Christian Movement, Dr. Thomas W. Graham will be the speaker. It is expected that this seminar will be more than just a meeting; it will be a fine opportunity for fellowship and discussion.

Plans were made for a valentine party to be held in the Y social room, February 14.

Gladys Novaky was named chairman with Dorothy Brillhart and Betty Campbell assistants, for the girls' open house entertainment which is scheduled for Monday, March 18.

The Y. W. and the Y. M. will cooperate for a stunt night to be held Tuesday, March 12. The committee has been announced as follows: Lester Stabler, Charles Moravec, Betty Campbell, and Jeanette Henry.

Dr. Daniel S. Poling, president of the World Christian Endeavor Union, editor of the Christian Herald, prominent radio commentator, internationally recognized leader of Christian youth, and one of Albright's most distinguished Alumni, spoke to the student body in the college dining room immediately after the noon meal, last Tuesday. Dr. Poling's remarks concerned themselves generally with the situation of Europe on the question of war. According to him, the Europeans look upon a war as inevitable; the only question being as to how and where it will start. He showed clearly the motives for the dissatisfaction and distrust with which the European nations regard each other. As concrete examples he cited the post-war division of Hungary, and the ever-controversial Polish Corridor. Hungary has been divided into numerous small principalities. However, according to the speaker, those who sought to break power by decentralizing it, forgot that the people would retain their unity of language and thought even though were ruled by different factors. Thus a Transylvanian will always support Hungary and Hungarians, in spite of his new allegiance. The Polish corridor, long a bone of contention between Germany and Poland, seems impossible of amicable adjustment. This feeling of insecurity was well expressed by the speaker who quoted the late President Doumergue of France as saying that France does not seek war, nor does she seek any of her neighbor's possessions; but she "can't always tell what other nations are thinking."

Dr. Poling deplored the recent action of the United States in rejecting a proposal to join the World Court. He contends that a policy of isolation for the United States is futile because of our widespread and diversified interests abroad. The only isolation we could attain would be economic and political isolation which would be worse than

NEW MEMBERS INITIATED INTO SIGMA TAU DELTA

The annual initiation ceremony of the Sigma Tau Delta, national honor English fraternity will be held Tuesday evening, February 12. At 6 o'clock dinner will be served in the Spanish dining room. Immediately after dinner a formal initiation service will be conducted in Selwyn parlor, at which time Margaret Maurer and Charles Moravec will become members of the society. Plans for the remainder of the semester will be formulated at the business meeting which will follow the initiation ceremony. Faculty advisors who will be in attendance are Miss Shaffer, Miss Garlach, Professor Voigt, and Doctor Page. The present officers of the society are Elliot Goldstan, president; Madge Dieffenbach, vice-president; Ruth Hicks, secretary; Stella Hetrick, treasurer.

The measles scare has been suppressed. All's quiet on the western front and once more we go to bed without the hope of a quarantine and subsequent vacation. While this was the hope of many, it was also the fear of as many more and doubtlessly those who hoped were foolish.

Someone deserves credit for the prompt and efficient suppression of this latest threat to the campus, and we believe it was chiefly through the work of Dr. Horn that this was done. The prompt quarantine of all infected, the inspection of every one else, the strict observance of all suspected, no doubt are steps required by the state, but these measures were made doubly effective by the thorough method in which they were done.

We have also to thank Dr. Horn for those two much-longed-for fire-side hours. These, besides affording a good time for over one hundred students, gave the newly-formed college orchestra a chance to begin what is universally hoped will become a regular feature of Albright's social program. We know they were given to us to recompense for our lost vacation, but if it were not for the spirit and push of the one who directed them we very possibly would not have enjoyed them nearly so much.

THANKS

In presenting this traditional freshman edition of the Albrightian, we wish to offer our profound thanks to the regular editor and his staff. Thanks for their comparatively professional advice and help, without which our efforts would be of much less intelligence and intelligibility. Our work with the ALBRIGHTIAN has convinced us that the surest way to appreciate a person's capabilities is to assume his responsibilities.

CHEMISTRY PRIZE

Paul Fye, a member of the Pi Tau Beta fraternity, was recently honored when he was elected to a one year's membership in the Lebanon Valley chapter of the American Chemical Society. He was accorded this honor because of his standing in the chemistry department of Albright College.

After completing his college course, Mr. Fye, although his plans are not definite, expects to teach chemistry.

THE SHORT STORY

Martin F. Musket

Just imagine for a moment that you had the power to penetrate the lives, the memoirs, and the secrets of those around you. What dramatic cross-sections or tragic events of an outwardly serene existence might you not see? You may not have this power in actuality but the vicarious experience is yours for the asking. You may obtain a kaleidoscopic visualization of a human's emotions, actuated by impulses from without, which are the evolution of character integration, beginning with no apparent scheme and ending with no obvious conclusion. That is the modern short story.

This, to the highly critical, intelligent reader, is the acme of creative perfection, the development of a plot, without the disinterring of a family skeleton of the old, original plots, which have become hackneyed by excessive usage. Esquire calls it a "re-write of the ancient Cinderella theme," which is based on the three principles of "A, bring-em-together, B, tear-em-apart, C, bring-em-together, again." In the modern literary world, this Cinderella shoe is on the wrong foot.

Then there is the other type of short story made famous by O'Henry, Maupassant, and Damon Runyon. These are the apparently senseless narratives that begin somewhere, and someplace, after something has happened, leaving the reader in the dark as to just exactly what has happened on what may be expected to transpire. At this point, the stories all revert to the beginning, elucidating on the action, explaining the situation, and working up to a crisis which leaves the reader in a breathless state. Then—the denouement, what an expressive word! The author goes back to the beginning, craftily explains something which he hints he has made clear before, and the reader chucks up this subtle mistake to his own stupidity. With a rapidity that is really amazing the plot unravels down to a conclusion, usually very satisfactory in which (A) One or both parties are pleased, (B) One or both parties are disappointed, (C) One or more parties are disillusioned, (D) the villain is killed, (E) the hero gets hooked by the heroine.

All of this drivel, of course, leads us down to the final type that picks up the thread of a human's existence, analyzes his or her character, develops and complicates situations that are direct results of certain qualities of that person's character, and then suddenly cuts off the thread of narration at a point where it is subtly suggested that the character has reached a maximum development. Such a story can be made ridiculous by one who is not skilled as a maker of this type of literature. On the other hand, such a story can be made famous, can attain universal importance, because character and emotion are eternal qualities of the human being.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS

The finest thing I have observed about these freshmen since they have come to the campus is their ready acclimation to all the activities of Albright. Whether cheering the football squad or supporting the spiritual ideals, there is the same ready enthusiasm.

Albright offers many extra-curricular activities that make well-rounded collegians. All of which are worthwhile provided preparation for the class room is not neglected.

Edward Safford Jones, of the University of Buffalo, says: "The students who have taken college work, with the A. B. degree, in three years at the University of Buffalo have been found to enter into extra-curricular activities to the same extent as those equally bright students who took four years for the A. B. degree. The great majority did not feel that they were unduly hurried."

In other words, the time has come when the freshman entering upon his college career can determine for himself what college will mean to him. If the freshman will manifest genuine sincerity in his relation to all the activities of the college, academic and extra-curricular, he will enter his upper class experience fully oriented for the college life that will be a real foundation for all the future.

As Phillips Brooks asked: "When shall we learn that with all true men it is not what they intend to do, but it is what the qualities of their natures bind them to do, that determines their career?"

Some Library Revelations

Draw close, and hear some amusing quirks of the Librarian's "trade" that are sure to affect your sense of humor. We do not mean to make fun of unsuspecting persons' innocent mistakes, but librarians have revealed a few misconceptions that are too good to keep.

Have you heard about the lad who asked for "God's Night Out," when he wanted the book, "Night Life of the Gods," by Thorne Smith? Not to be outdone, a small girl inquired for "Dry Hill," instead of "Waterless Mountain." Even a college intellectual (?) had a lapse of memory when he breezed into the library and demanded "Skeleton of Sorrow," for "Anatomy of Melancholy." A lad preparing for a book report requested the biography of Mother Nature. Then there was the ten-year-old who asked for Mitts and Leggins when he wanted Myths and Legends.

And that is not the end. Try to find the answers to these queries if you can: "Have you a book called Elizabeth in Excess?"

"Where may I locate 20,000 jack rabbits?"

"Where may I find the Readers' Digestion?"

"Have you Anthony Adverse by Huey Long?"

"May I borrow Obscene Destinies by Willa Cather?"

"Where would I find In Tune With the Infant?"

"Please, I want to borrow Ben Lindsey's Compassionate Marriage?"

All that was not enough. The newspaper contributed its share and printed a list of new books, including the title, "So Red the Nose." Imagine the librarian's horror when the new title was announced in the evening news as "So Red the Nose."

FRESHMEN LIBRARY RULES

Don't take Britannica, International, or Americana encyclopedias out of the building—they are not to be taken out overnight. No one is so industrious as to study them at night anyway.

Don't tear papers or magazines unless you have had special permission. Only primary students are required to do paper tearing.

Don't talk loudly in the library at any time. If you feel the urge, go out for debate or public speaking.

Don't throw things around in the library. You might try basketball instead.

Don't write in books or magazines. The authors and editors will take care of that.

Heed these rules, and save Work.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL APPROVES JOINING NET CONFERENCE

Invitation Likely to be Accepted Soon; Tough Net Schedule Released by Page

The imminent probability of joining a five team tennis conference was announced by Dr. Eugene Page, head tennis coach, along with the releasing of the 1935 net schedule. The invitation to join the proposed conference has already been approved by the Albright College Athletic Council and its early acceptance is expected.

The proposed conference embraces five schools: Muhlenberg, Lehigh, Moravian, Lafayette, and Albright. The Lions are already slated to play three of the teams in matches away from home.

The schedule at present includes fourteen matches with leading schools in Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey and is the most ambitious ever attempted by Albright.

According to Coach Page there is a wealth of veteran material from which to select a team. The entire squad that captured 12 out of 13 matches last year, losing only to Dickinson, will return to play with the exception of Willard Berger, last year's captain who was lost through graduation.

Co-captains Herb Oritsky and Ray Hoffman, together with Leroy Garrigan and manager Stew Wick will form the nucleus of the team.

The tennis schedule is as follows: April 26—Franklin and Marshall, at home.

April 27—Rutgers, at New Brunswick, New Jersey.

April 30—Temple, at home.

May 4—Lehigh, at Bethlehem.

May 6—Ursinus, at Collegetown.

May 8—P. M. C., at Chester.

May 9—Juniata, at home.

May 13—Muhlenberg, at Allentown.

May 15—Dickinson, at Carlisle.

May 17—Villanova, at home.

May 21—Moravian, at Bethlehem.

May 22—Drexel, at home.

May 24—West Chester, at West Chester.

May 30—(Memorial Day), Lebanon Valley, at Annville.

'35 TRACK PLANS INCLUDE RELAYS, CONFERENCE MEET

Schedule Released by Coach Smith Lists Two Dual Meets on Home Track

Albright's 1935 track schedule, including four meets, was announced by Johnny Smith last week.

For several years past, Albright's stars of the cinder path were few and far between and well-balanced teams were the exception rather than the rule.

Ever since the days when Doc Grant trampled the inside track of the oval in a sprinting career that carried him to three Central Pennsylvania championships, Albright's wearers of the spikes have been woefully lacking in competitive spirit.

A few years ago Red Bartholomew carried the Red and White colors to triumphs in the mile and half mile in the C. P. I. title meet.

Then it was Bailey Gass' turn to shine. The blonde ace from Sunbury, last year's football captain, won considerable acclaim in the Eastern states track world, when he captured three conference titles in the shot put, javelin throw, and discus throw.

Along with Gass there were Frank Rics, a former Reading High miler, and Bob Shippe, from Muhlenberg High, who starred in the high jump, broad jump, and pole vault.

This year, besides the veterans Shippe, Gass, Hepler, and Rics, an influx of freshmen athletes, exceptionally talented, serves fair notice of continuing fine football and basketball performances by helping to build the nucleus of 1935 track team.

Unfortunately, the freshmen will not be eligible for competition in either the Penn Relays or the Central Pennsylvania Conference championship meet, but may be allowed to compete in the dual meets with West Chester and Ursinus.

The Track Schedule

The track schedule is as follows:

May 8—West Chester, at home.

May 14—Ursinus, at home.

May 18—Central Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Conference Title Meet (to be held probably at Juniata).

April 27—Penn Relays, at Philadelphia.

The Lions club practically assured itself of the first half crown in the Inter-frat Basketball League by defeating the Zetas 38-33 last Tuesday night. The Lions, defending champs, were led by Bailey Gass and Tom Hepler, each scoring ten points, while Muller and Powell shone for the Zetas, garnering fifteen points between them.

In the other game, Alpha Pi Omega defeated the non-frats 42-24. Thirty of the victors' points were divided between Gob Garrigan and Walbridge Riffle, lanky A. P. O. aces.

The Lions club, Zetas, and the rejuvenated A. P. O.'s are expected to be the main contenders for the second half championship, with the Lions favorites on the basis of past performances.

CHANGED LINEUP TO FACE GARNET AFTER LONG REST

Football Injury May Keep Slack Idle for Season; Riffle Becomes Eligible

After more than three weeks of idleness, Albright basketballers resume play in a non-conference game with Swarthmore next Saturday night, February 9. The services of the veteran guard, Pete Slack, will be sorely missed by the Red and White. He will probably be out of the lineup for the rest of the season owing to a knee injury suffered in football.

With the elimination of Slack, it is expected that a close fight will ensue for the open position. Dick Riffle, freshman football captain who has just become eligible for varsity competition is the most likely candidate for the post.—although Jim Garnet and Bill Moffet will keep him on his toes.

Otherwise the starting line-up will probably be the same as in previous games, with Shippe and Sutcliff as forwards, Ross or Riffle as center, and McClintock and Woods as guards. Should Ross start at center, one guard post would be in question between McClintock and Riffle.

With this line-up, Coach Johnny Smith, hopes to break the Lions four games losing streak.

FROSH RESUMES SCHEDULE AGAINST LEBANON VALLEY

Frosh, 37; E. Stroudsburg, 32
Frosh, 37; Adamstown (home), 16
Frosh, 62; Wyomissing Poly T., 26
Frosh, 39; Adamstown (away), 20

The thus far undefeated Freshman basketball team, after almost a month of inactivity, will resume action against the Lebanon Valley Frosh in the preliminary to the varsity game next Wednesday night. The members of the team are less reticent than their coach in express confidence in their ability to continue their undefeated record throughout the remainder of their long schedule.

Stanley "Stosh" Hino, erstwhile Albright athlete and present Frosh coach, lists the squad as follows, barring the inroads of ineligibility; the starters are Troisi and Slingerland, forwards; Knox, center; and Osliso and Shick, guards; the reserves: McCormack and Treida, forwards; Brogley and McDonough, centers; and Rudisill and Disend, guards. Coach Hino, however, fears that academic ineligibility will severely cripple his team.

Following the Lebanon Valley game, the Frosh beside McCann Business College here on Monday, February 18.

According to Hino, the present plan of selecting a captain for each game will be continued throughout the season.

After observing (and assimilating) the hard knocks of college life, we freshmen are glad for this opportunity of airing our views on this and that about the campus.

The freshman girl who argued with a fence about her sled's having the right of way emerged without the usual black eye, but a reddish appearance was evident in the region of the left optic.

Host Mumbulo of the Sherman Cottage seating arrangement reports that whatever his charges might lack in elegance they make up in sincerity.

Last Friday the "measles club" held open house in the infirmary. The attendance was disappointingly small.

What cultured sophomore made a sophomoreic "faux-pas" by including a freshman in his "Campus Culture Quartet."

This is to inform a boarding student freshman that a bump on his nose does not give him valid claims to culture.

This same freshman is still willing to take practically any coed to practically any show. He will meet her in the third seat from the left in the rear row. He makes the provision that she must be sufficiently affluent to provide for their transportation to the campus.

We were pleased to notice how efficiently the smoke and debris of the exams were cleared away by the well-planned and well-attended fireside hours.

Which prof says, "If you can't crib any better than that, don't crib at all?"

The popular expression, "Wanna buy a duck?" seems to have changed to, "Wanna sell a cat?"

What sick boys made a mess of what dorm last Sunday night?

We can imagine the author of this column in other issues turning green with envy as he pours over our masterpiece? ? ? ?

Perhaps a non-disappearing watch crystal in lieu of an unbreakable one would save an Albright basketball considerable embarrassment as well as money.

Who was the young Zeta caught in the girls' dorm shouting, "Man in the hall?"

What are these rumors circulating in regards to the stranger seen with the Athletic Council and a new football coach for next year?

We would like to suggest to a certain dark-haired waiter that he arrange a definite schedule with his red-headed attachment so that she'll only be in his way instead of every one else's; especially during business hours.

What soreheaded senior threatened to call up the Dean when those sick boys did mess up that dorm? B-o-o-o!

Culture is culture and you can't get away from it A. L.

Who is the assistant to the dean of women who so assiduously guards the back stairs?

The faculty member sent to look for that God-fearing senior was told to first locate the red-head, however he failed to look on the right stairway.

We hear of a typographical error in which the college chorus was reported to have gone on a "rip" instead of trip. You'd better not report that to the trustees.

Quite a few people would very much like to know who keeps the dean of women so well informed.

the worse foreign entanglements.

Dr. Poling then expressed the belief that the followers of the various governmental movements in Europe such as the Communists in Russia, the Nazis in Germany, and the Fascists in Italy, were motivated neither by nationalistic zeal nor love of a principle; but rather that they were following the leadership of a great personality. To support his contentions he showed that one man has almost absolute control over each of these governments.

Dr. Poling then reached the point of his discourse. He said that the solution to the prejudices and hatreds of one people for another were to be found in one and the only way, that is, by following the leadership of Christ. In sincere disarmament conferences, peace conferences, or any other attempts to avert war are sure to fail. Teaching and applying Christian principles in international relations could have no result but peace.

To accomplish such a magnificent end, the youth of the world must be taught to follow Christ and his teachings as the youth of Europe now follows the nationalistic dictators. Their devotion to their leader, however, should be founded on higher foundations than those of fear.

The eminent churchman closed his speech with a plea to the youth of the world to emulate the example of the Christian Endeavor in Germany. That is, to resolve to follow Christ, come what may.
