GIRLS' VARSITY DEBATING SQUAD IS ORGANIZED

Plan To Form "Little Three" Contest
With L. V. C. & Schuylkill-Will Debate on "Primary" Question

NEED STUDENTS' SUPPORT

Virginia Zener Elected Business Manager—Material Looks Good

Thru the efforts of Albright's debating coach, a new institution has made its appearance on the campus. This is a girls' varsity debating squad, composed of the fine team, which won a 3-0 decision from the Excelsiors, and lost by 2-1 to the Neocosmians in the annual contest for the Keller cup. A try-out was held two weeks ago, and two teams were selected from the participants. They will debate on the question that was chosen at the meeting of those interested in inter-collegiate debating, "Resolved, that the direct primary system of nominating state and federal officials should be abandoned." The affirmative and negative debaters of the question have not yet been named. Of the participants in the try-out, the following received positions on the teams: Irene Wright, Evelyn Bowser, alternate, Henrietta Spangler, Helen Ulrich, Blainda Foster, alternate, Norma Michael, Lenora Hemstreet, and Virginia Zener, who was elected business manager.

Since this is the first year for the Girls' Varsity Debate, a heavy schedule will not be arranged. However, an attempt will likely be made to form a "little three" debating contest between the Lebanon Valley, Schuylkill and Albright girls' teams. This should stimulate a great deal of interest, and, with possibly a trophy to work for, a most important group of debates can be staged. The girls may also challenge one or two other schools in order to receive practical

SENIORS RETAIN CLASS LEAD BY CLOSE VICTORY

Trim Juniors 20-21 On Garrett's Pretty Play; Fresh Sink Sophs In Cellular As Day's Spectacular Goals Win 14-12

The seniors remain at the top in the inter-class league, with the Juniors and Freshman tied for second place, and the Sophomores bringing up the rear.

In the second heat of the class games on Monday night, the Seniors beat out the Juniors in the last few seconds of play, when Garrett shot a foul with the score tied. Garrett was the scoring ace for the Seniors, while the outstanding player of the evening was "Putt" Bowman, the rangy Junior center. Besides holding his man scoreless he was the leading scorer for his team. The Seniors ran away with the Juniors at half time, but in the second half they failed to score a field goal.

STEPS TAKEN TOWARD ORGANIZATION OF WRITERS' CLUB

Aim of Club To Criticize Literary Works And Tell Writers How To Get Material Into Markets

HOPE FOR LARGE GROUP

A "Writers' Club" has been suggested as a desirable feature on Albright's campus, and several students have made the first move to organize a group of this nature. All those who are interested in writing are invited to help, and be helped. Names of these should be handed as soon as possible to Blanche McCauley or Virginia Zener.

The aim of the organization will be to criticize in a friendly way and also to tell students and prospective writers how to get their material into the various markets. It is hoped that a club of considerable size can be formed, to the best advantage of all. If a responsible club is organized, Dr. Chislett will be asked to offer suggestions and criticism that will be of great value.

Some example of one's literary ability must be offered by individuals wishing to assist in the organization of the writers' club. It may be a story, poem, essay, article, or some worthwhile piece of work.

Don't forget to hand your names in today if possible, and an hour for meeting will be arranged.

RED AND WHITE CONCERT DELIGHTS LARGE CROWD

Famed Musical Quartet Presents Fine
Array of Classical, Spiritual and Popular Numbers To Capacity Audience in Chapel

The much talked about Red and White Quartette finally made its appearance last Friday evening in the Chapel, before a large and appreciative audience. The concert had been advertised widely, and the people who attended were from not only Myers-town and the college, but from the surrounding cities and towns as well. The boys presented a concert that was well balanced, well rendered and well appreciated. The first part was a series of classical and negro spiritual selections, which delighted the listeners for their harmony.

In the second part the boys appeared in their red and white sweaters and wide trousers. They sang popular numbers, cracked jokes, gave a dialogue, and ended up the famous quartette from "Rigoletto."

Y. M. C. A. CONDUCTING ANTI-CRIBBING CAMPAIGN

"Work for the exams are coming." Don't be a Parrot, use your own head, and use your books now, not during exams, are some of the posters put out by the Y. M. C. A. in their campaign for honesty in exams. The Y. M. C. A. realizes that there has been cribbing and dishonesty going on in the exams, and in keeping with the principles of the Y. M. C. A. are taking this means of making known their views on dishonesty in exams. Also by this means trying to stimulate honesty of the students of Albright College.

It is very commendable that some members of the student body think this way and try to eliminate as much as possible this dishonesty which has ran rampant previous to this year. The Y. M. C. A. solicits the students in their endeavors to clean up the exams on the campus.

My Dear Fellow-Alumnus:

You've been saying to yourself, "What's the use of going back to Myers-town over the third and fourth of February? There's never been anything of interest on the program, and the spirit around the old school is as dead as Job's cat!" And do you know that the students think that is pretty nearly the status of the mid-year assembly of the alumni association?

MRS. SOTTERY SERVING AS COLLEGE DIETICIAN

A dietician, a long felt need at Albright has been secured for Albright. Mrs. Sottery, the well known wife of Dr. Sottery, professor of Chemistry, who herself hold a master's degree from Columbia, and who is an expert along this line has consented to serve in this capacity for the welfare of the Albright students.

Mrs. Sottery began her new duties last Wednesday, when an immediate improvement in the variety of meals was noted. Although this new system has been in force only a little over a week, the students have become very enthusiastic over the new regime and rejoice in the fact that their long quest for this very end is realized.

GIRLS CONQUER GETTYSBURG FOE IN FIRST GAME

Show Speed In Passing And Accuracy
In Shooting To Win Opening
Game 41-20

LOSE TO MORAVIAN 21-11

In a game featured by fast passing and accurate shooting, the Red and White lassies triumphed over the Gettysburg girls to the tune of 41-20. The first few minutes of play indicated that the game would be fast, and after "Deckle" and her team hit their stride there was no chance for the Gettysburg girls to roll up the score. Replacing "Mopsy" Higgins at center, after a few minutes of play, "Ditty" Stauffer played a stellar game. Esther Deterline took "Ditty's" place as running mate to Capt. Deck and surprised all by her speed and accuracy in shooting. Both "Guke" Miles and Catherine Steltz performed in fine style at side center and it would be indeed hard to judge which is the better player. Rae Jay Painter and Clara Ray Wilkes exhibited some of the finest passing work on the floor. They held down the Gettysburg score and were later replaced by "Flo" Wilkes and Orpha Hangen. The cooperation and accurate passing of the sextette, working as one, aided in raising the score. Much could be said about the merits of Albright's players, but you may

The regular Tuesday evening Y. W. service was unusually interesting. The program, which was a report of the "Y" Conference at Carlisle, Pa., Dec. 2, 3 and 4, was in charge of the delegates, Le Nora Hemstreet, Helen Ulrich, Myrtle Wolf and Norma Michael.

The girls gave a very interesting report of the Conference, and we know they must have had a good and inspirational time. Following the regular devotionals, brief summaries of various phases of the program were given, as well as a general idea of the Conference as a unit.

A report, which was especially interesting to all present was that of the group discussion of campus problems. Some of the problems and suggested solutions were:

One Coming Soon

Last Tuesday evening in the college chapel the Piano and Voice Departments gave one of the most pleasing recitals of the year. The recital was originally planned to be given before the Holidays, but it was not possible.

The program was entirely ensemble and new to Albright audiences. We've had duets and quartettes before, but never an entire program of them. The audience showed its appreciation by generous applause.

Many of the town people who a few years ago heard Ruth Thiel Steltz in recitals, were glad to welcome her back to our programs again.

The Music Departments wish to announce a recital for January 31st at 8 o'clock in the College Chapel. The Departments are planning to give those who attend the recitals the best music possible. The departments are

Red And White Off Color Drops One
Sided Game To Muhlenberg

Philadelphia College of Osteopathy was the first team that was forced to bow to the Wellers on the basketball court this season, the Red and White putting up a determined battle to win out 34-25.

Wissler started the scoring for the Albright clan when he dribbled to the foul line and scored the first points of the game, he followed it later with a pretty shot under the basket for another two points, after that brief spurt the team lost its pep and was enabled to score only one more field goal than half, when Sprague, taking the top off made a pretty pass to Horn under the basket, who made the Red's final field goal for the half. Meanwhile boys from Philly were getting accustomed to the floor and at half time were leading 16-12, and it looked like another defeat for the Red and White, but a new team came on the floor for the second half and they carried the Osteopaths off their feet with a whirlwind passing attack, and soon reduced the lead to two points, from then on it was all Albright. Karlip, DeBolt and Brown started raining in buckets from all over the floor, and when the final whistle blew they were on the long end of a 34-25 score.

Karlip and Brown were the outstanding players in the Albright attack, while Ellis was the high scorer for the Osteopaths.

FOR EXAM WEEK

Much discussion is heard these days about the honor system of conducting examinations. From recent presentations we learn that Hunter College holds the record for the most efficient and conscientious honor system in captivity. Quoting from "The New Student", "Nine-tenths of the girls cheat." "Only sixty-five of all the girls in the college are honest."

"Such charges against themselves and the honor system of conducting examinations by students at Hunter College have stirred into a frenzy those who hold dear the student's right to find answers to his quiz questions wherever he may."

If such be the deplorable situation where the honor system enjoys its best reputation we will have none of it. All we ask is that the faculty act as real proctors in the coming exams, and by so doing give those who hold to honest work a square deal, and give those who stray from the "straight and narrow" their just deserts.

HOW ABOUT IT?

We sincerely hope the students have followed the advice offered some time ago—namely, that since there were only three short weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas, studies were not to be neglected because the semester was so nearly over. If this warning has been heeded, there will certainly be less "cramming" than here-to-fore. However, the editors extend heart-felt sympathy to those who will have to burn midnight oil during next week, and trust that the exams will not be as terrible as they threaten at present.

BEGIN THE NEW semester right! Keep on studying when exams are over, and you'll be surprised at the extent of your knowledge when you take some more exams next June!

BALANCED

The college has taken a decided step in advance when last week a change in the menu was authorized and instituted. Albright has a trained dietician at her service. Our grads would not know the place if they were to judge by the food served to the boarding students. This change is very welcome, for the old menu was quite unsatisfactory for fellows and girls who must live a student's life rather than that for which the old meals were planned.

The meals are well balanced and served scientifically according to the direction of one of the ladies of the faculty, who has had special training in dietetics, Mrs. Sottery.

Mrs. Sottery was very kind in donating her services. She has been in sympathy with the students' desire for a change in the old policy, and volunteered her services which have met with the approval of all those who board at the college.

It is a pleasure to go into the dining room not knowing what to expect in the form of a new, delicious, appetizing dish.

A GOOD START

We are glad to note the beginning of physical education for men as a forerunner of "athletics for all." It is true that some beginnings can not be pretentious or elaborate, but yet the beginnings are there here and that in itself means much.

Since it is started all the boys who can owe it to themselves as well as to the school to come out and help the work along. Only in this way can it be expanded and made permanent on a greater scale.

: Campus Chatter :

Parrot has had a long vacation and his tongue has had a hard time keeping still. It is so unused to inaction. But he can chatter now—the very air is full of things that have happened, can happen and are going to happen. In fact he almost grew dizzy because he couldn't keep track of things.

Parrot doesn't know where to start—oh yes, he does, 'cause he just this minute decided. He saw a basket ball game that got him so excited his feathers were all on end. It was a girls game, too, so it couldn't have been so slow as people expect girls games to be. Anyway they won by a big score and Parrot was as proud as any peacock dare be. Now, says Parrot, grinning cheerfully, where are the boys? Seems to him they have taken a back seat as far as scores, etc., are concerned. Come on boys, let's have a real game next time.

And how about the Quartet? Weren't they just the best ever? Now who dares to say that Albright isn't on the map with talent like that? Parrot was flying all about the town the morning after the performance picking up compliments and storing them up for future reference. Somebody said, "I could listen all night to those boys." And they meant it. Some one else said, "I wouldn't have missed that concert for anything." And they added "It was the most worth while thing I have heard this year." And they meant that. Wasn't this a proud Parrot? Well, I should say so. And why not? Howsoever, Parrot must not tell too many of the good things he knows or the Quartet will disappear because of swelled heads. And that would be just too bad.

No more grumbling because of too many potatoes! The Menu has been changed, and a real-honest-to-goodness dietician did the work. Satisfied now? But what on earth will some of them talk about since they can't talk about the meals? From now on it will have to be not only as a poster states "Work for Exams are coming," but will have to include "Think or your brains will grow dusty." Meaning there will be no subjects of conversation for some now since the menu has been changed.

Parrot hears that Flora and Sheldon are progressing quite nicely, too. Think of that! And Eva and Mac. Well, Well. But Parrot must not chatter too much this first time. Besides he is so tired and must rest. Exams are coming and they are hard on Parrots. "No rest for the wicked and the righteous don't need it." Which class do you suppose a Parrot would belong to?

PHYSICAL EDUCATION STARTED FOR BOYS

cientially. Neither are they held for physical development alone, or for the development of big muscles and a powerful physique in itself. Again they are not held with the purpose of making the boys machines in their instantaneous response to commands issued by superiors as is done by the Prussian system of physical education with the ultimate aim of making them good soldiers who will obey commands mechanically. For this reason "Uncle Jake" is not going to institute the orthodox system of "setting up" exercises. There is something else in view.

The modern American trend in physical education is to development of coordination of mind and body, of quick and keen thinking as well as muscular development, and above all, the development of an individual initiative. This is the end in view which the little mentor is holding for the boys which are enrolling in his class. To realize this, much of the time is to be spent in games and kindred activities.

Two classes have been arranged for two days a week. These periods are Monday and Wednesday at one and two. The first class was held last Wednesday. Because of the time demanded by the boys' and girls' varsity basketball teams not very much time is available at present, which makes the hours unsatisfactory to a number who have laboratory periods and classes at that time. However, as soon as the warm weather comes most of the time will be spent out of doors, which will facilitate matters greatly and make it possible for all the boys to get in on it.

DR. TIBBETTS LECTURES ON NATIONAL STABILITY

Stresses Womanhood and Home As Indispensable Elements—Rev. Short,
'12, Here Sunday Morning

Dr. Tibbetts gave a very interesting and helpful address in the college church, last Sunday morning. Dr. Tibbetts came to Myerstown in the interest of the National Reform Association of America which is trying to bring about certain reforms in order to keep the nations stability. This association works through platform speakers, the press, and representatives in Washington.

In his address he dealt with the "Fundamentals of National Stability." There are only two—high standard of womanhood and home.

He brought out as elements that destroy the high standards of womanhood, smoking among women. He said that as far as the moral standpoint they have the same right to smoke as men, but biologically, physiologically, psychologically, and eugenically they do not have the same right as men. Another element has been the drink habit. He gave examples of good womanhood in the mothers of men like Abraham Lincoln and Thomas A. Edison.

Men don't need to think they haven't a part in this, for they have a part in making the homes of this country a success.

Dr. Tibbetts gave an address in the afternoon in the Lutheran church, and in the evening at the Reformed Church.

Prof. Short, a representative of the Anti-Saloon League will give an address on prohibition in the College Church next Sunday morning. Rev. Short is a member of the Evangelical Church, one time missionary to China, now Superintendent of the Harrisburg district of the Anti Saloon League.

SECOND CALL FOR ALUMNI TO ATTEND MEETING

tion? One fellow confided to me the other day that the students think the alumni assembly is a joke. It was an awful "slam", but I just had to take it—though I did not turn the other cheek!

It's a bad rule that doesn't work both ways. But, honestly, we'll have to assume a large share of the blame. We've been pretty drowsy over this affair in the past.

Now, we are going to fool everybody—even ourselves! Wouldn't it be a real joke if one hundred or more former students returned to their Alma Mater over that first week-end? (In my enthusiasm I almost wrote two hundred). It is not impossible. What do you say?

Did you see the program of events for our Assembly? The editor was kind enough to place it where even the blind might see it! So surely you haven't missed it.

I have consulted the chairman of the program committee, a member of the faculty, the presidents of the Christian Associations, and others, and they assure me that the program is no bluff, but a real honest-to-goodness proposition.

Let us make a genuine effort to come back for the mid-year rally. If you cannot come early, come late, but come!

There are circumstances which seem to make this a strategic time for the biggest and best alumni rally in years. If we need more time for our business meeting we may hold an adjourned session on Saturday morning.

Please do not overlook the matter of sending your ballot for alumni trustee, with one dollar dues, to the secretary.

I am personally counting upon you, unless your return is a physical impossibility by reason of circumstances beyond your control.

of the Association.

The reason is obvious: Examinations are soon here. It can't be long now, especially since this is an actual photograph of one of the Mohn Hallers burning the proverbial midnight oil, after reading the Y. M. C. A. posters. It's a worthy practice and is to be highly commended. After all, the best policy is to use the old text books before the exam in order to concentrate more fully during the exam by dividing the attention between the blue book and the text book.

It has not been learned whether or not there are any inmates of Main Hall who are making such extensive pre-exam preparations.

SENIORS RETAIN CLASS LEAD BY CLOSE VICTORY

The Soph-Fresh game was a nip and tuck game all the way, and with ten seconds to go, Day dropped a pretty bucket from the foul line, which won the game. Day was the outstanding man in the Fresh lineup, scoring twelve of his teams points. The scoring was divided by the Sophs.

Y. W. HEARS REPORT OF CARLISLE CONFERENCE

1. Should a cheater be allowed to dig his own grave?

No. That is a part of your responsibility to check it. College! Stop it before it proves fatal. Correct him and then give him a second chance.

2. How about having to lock room of Dorm?

Catch the thief. Talk to him about it—perfect it. Don't punish, but cure.

3. Girls who smoke in a girls Dorm?

Fine, clean, wholesome American girls and cigarette packages won't mix.

4. Indifference as to education?

Entirely youthful. Make them do the right thing by making them want to. "Line of least resistance makes crooked rivers and small streams."

5. Hazing—Customs of Freshmen? Hazing—detritmental. Customs—uplifting.

6. Studying all day on Sunday?

No long grinding hours of study. Too much time with books and too little with study. Allot and preserve your time.

7. Inferior type of literature?

Fad. Will grow out of it and form higher desires.

The best attacks for all campus problems are strong, clean living, student sentiment, and faculty supervision.

BEST "HONEST" THEME PUBLISHED IN BULLETIN

Winning Selection of Papers Handed
In Tomorrow Will Appear In Student Weekly Next Issue

PRIZE BY REV. BOYER

The best theme of one thousand words on the question "What would have to be done to convince every one here that honesty is really the best policy?" and which will be awarded a prize of five dollars, will be printed in next week's issue of the Bulletin.

These papers must be handed in tomorrow. Although it is late, it is not too late to write a good discourse on this subject and hand it in. Judgment will be made upon the practical value of the plans suggested in the essay. The judges of the contest are Rev. Boyer, Prof. Zener, and Dr. Weber. The theme which answers this burning question in the most satisfactory manner will be the one which will be awarded the prize and which will be printed verbatim in the Bulletin.

The committee is anxious that a large number of students enter this competition, for they are desirous of obtaining as many ideas as possible on this subject.

EDITOR REPRESENTS BULLETIN AT I. N. A.

tion" at Juniata which served as host to the convention.

The assembly was called to order by Eunice Walker, editor of the Juniata at eleven o'clock in the morning, and after "time out" for lunch was continued all afternoon. The meeting was conducted in an entirely informal style, giving the delegates perfect freedom to discuss any and all problems pertaining to college journalism which they cared to bring before the group which numbered over a dozen. A number of timely tips were given the embryonic journalists by the professor of journalism at Bucknell, who attended the conference, rather, however as a newspaper man than as a faculty member.

One of the problems which was discussed more than others was how the editorial page can be made more interesting. It was admitted that although it is possibly true in a college paper as well as in a city daily that the best work in the whole paper appears on this page, it is read by only a very few students. However, it was pointed out and generally agreed that the leaders on the campus do read the editorials as the leading citizens in a city read the editorials in their leading dailies. For this reason all is not lost, and despite the fact that only a limited minority do read the second page as a rule, a great amount of good is accomplished, and a certain amount of thinking stimulated.

Another interesting discussion was whether the college weekly should devote itself to constructive or destructive criticism. This turn of the meeting was occasioned by a certain incident connected with the Albright Bulletin which was known at the conference. Although it was admitted that the publications should serve the general interest of the students and that the editorials should be vital as well as truthful, and should occasion thinking about various campus problems and try to mould opinion, a vast amount of good can be accomplished through the media of constructive editorials. The Bucknell instructor thought that editorials of this type were more valuable than the destructive variety. However, these were far from outlawed. They have their place, and should be used discretely when necessary, the editors thought.

Some other interesting matters were brought up. One of the most relevant disclosures made was the fact that the Albright Bulletin and the Juniata are the only papers in the entire zone which do not pay the staff members. Most of them pay the heads of the paper from fifty to one hundred dollars a year. The Bulletin also has the smallest printing bill of all its zone contemporaries, as well as having the smallest ratio of advertising both in respect to the content, and to income compared to its circulation revenue.

After a varied discussion of other interests pertaining to the editing and publication of a college paper, the "Juniatian" hosts took the visiting editors on a tour of inspection through the large new men's dormitory, which will be opened next semester. This is the beginning of an "expansion drive" which is being conducted there for the development of a "Greater Juniata."

After dinner Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh, ex-governor of Penna., president of Juniata, traced in a very interesting manner the development of the newspaper and journalistic game in this state. He had a number of old German papers, one of which was the first copy of the Lebanon Margister, published in 1815, one of the earliest. The oldest one on hand was the "Norristown Gazette," printed in English, in 1799. Dr. Brumbaugh suggested the history of the development of Pennsylvania journals as a very good and worthwhile subject to anyone interested in this work.

After this the convention was adjourned.

Who Said the Alumni Were Dead?

: Who's Who At Albright :

E. VICTOR HANEY

Two years this tall, pleasant fellow has been with us. Coming to us from Lock Haven Normal School he immediately and wholeheartedly entered into Albright's athletic realm. "E-V" plays on the line in football, center in basketball and plays either in the out-field or on the mound when baseball season rolls around. As for batting, his eye is rather keen and it is very inoccasional that he fails in the pinch. Almost invariably when his job is to be filled Haney is there to fill it.

And studies—they are certainly not neglected! "E-V" is one of the most studious fellows in school and contrary to the general rule, frequently does more than is required of him. Much of his time not put on this incident of school life is spent writing letters—and not all of them go home to Mother, either. A dear, sweet, etc., girl at home comes in for a large flock of them.—Well that's as it should be; contradicting no known natural law in the least.

There is another "case" in his life just now, and that is his "Sample Case." As a salesman "E-V" has few peers and all spare moments are used in this pecuniary way.

Best of luck to you, "old man"! You will surely succeed in your chosen profession of teaching because the ability is easily seen in you.

"BEN'S" M'BERG CREW SWAMPS RED AND WHITE 42-18

"Haps" Benfer has assembled another good club up at Mukwonago, and it was demonstrated at the Red and White when they journeyed there for their annual basketball game of the season. The Cardinal and Gray lost to the Albright team on the floor and result was Albright 18—Muhlenberg 42.

The Albright team didn't have a chance from the start and all they could hope to do was keep the score as low as possible, Albright only getting four baskets for their evenings toll. The whole Muhlenberg team took part in running up their total. Lawson and Borrelli were the high scorers for the Cardinal and Gray, while the scoring for the home team was divided.

DROP ROUGH AND TUMBLE CONTEST TO MORAVIAN

In a rough and tumble game at Moravian, on Saturday night the Moravian girls scored twenty-one points to Albright's 11.

The game started with "Mopsy" Higgins at Center and Steltz as side center. Later in the fray Stauffer replaced Higgins and Esther Dettlerline went in as forward. At the beginning of the second half Ellen Miles took Steltz's place as side-center.

The floor was small, the game was muddled, and the Albright girls couldn't get going with their usual speed and alertness.

In the second quarter, which was the nearest approach to good basketball, our girls showed themselves superior in their passing and floor game, and rolled up 8 of their 11 points.

"WINNING OF BARBARA" WORTH COMES TO SCREEN AT LAST

"The Winning of Barbara Worth", Samuel Goldwyn's presentation of the Henry King production of Harold Bell Wright's best selling novel, with Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky, comes to the Myerstown Theatre, this Friday and Saturday. Manager Kreiser said that he had secured the big reclamation film after weeks of negotiations by telegraph and telephone, and that he felt the Myerstown Theatre honored in offering a production of such proportions to its patrons.

"The Winning of Barbara Worth" presents the most unique eternal triangle of any of the more important films, with Willard Holmes, eastern engineer, coming to love Barbara just as Abe Lee, desert-bred westerner does; and poor Barbara does not know her own mind, loving both. Friday and Saturday of next week brings the screen's most popular actress, in her latest Paramount Picture, Clara Bow in "Get Your Man." Coming Feb. 9, 10, 11, the screen's most spectacular production, "Ben Hur."—Adv.
