Comm. Reports Favorably on Problem Study

Questionnaire Receives Favorable Reaction from Student Body—202 Instruments Signed

College to Work on Project in Conjunction with Many Leading Schools of the East

The questionnaire which has been submitted to the student body has received favorable reaction. The student faculty commission have received some 202 returns, which proves conclusively that students are vitally interested in the problems of their campus.

After the committee have made a complete survey of the instruments, and have given proper evaluations to the problems, the one outstanding will be subjected to complete study and analysis. The problems of less serious nature will be referred to the proper channels where they will receive thorough consideration.

Those students who have failed to fill out a questionnaire may find blanks in the book store for this purpose. A complete report of the results will be made in the next issue of the paper.

T. B. TESTS ADMINISTERED BY READING ASSOCIATION

As a part of Albright's regular program of student health, Dr. Samuel Pruet, examining officer of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Association, recently conducted physical examinations on the campus for all those students whose reactions to the tuberculosis tests earlier in the year were positive. The majority of this group were Freshmen. Dr. Horn stated that complete results of the examinations were not as yet available, but that anyone reacting positively to them would be subject to a further x-ray test. Dr. Pruet was brought here by the Reading Tuberculosis Association, under the direction of its executive secretary, Miss Helen Cleaver.

DR. R. ALBRIGHT SPEAKS TO PHILOSOPHY GROUP

Dr. Albright, of the Department of Church History in the Evangelical School of Theology, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Philosophy Club, Wednesday, March 21.

His subject was, "The Progress of Christianity," in which he outlined the advance of Christian thought from its roots in the Roman, Oriental, Greek, and Hebrew religions down to the present day. In a very interesting way he outlined the development of the various groups of religious organizations and stated that "any great institution is the shadow of a great personality and Christianity is in the shadow of the supreme personality of Christ."

The Phi Delta Sigma, alumnae sorority, requests that all girls who are interested in receiving the $100 Student Loan Fund offered by this organization during the 1934-35 school year, have their application filed in the college office before May 1st.

MRS. L. E. RIEGEL SPEAKS TO INT. RELATIONS CLUB

Mrs. L. E. Riegel, who spoke on "The World Today," was the guest of the International Relations Club at its regular meeting, March 15, in Selywn Hall.

Summarizing the trend of thought of the whole world, particularly of the United States, Mrs. Riegel emphasized the necessity for truly democratic ideals to help promote a spirit of unselfish nationalism, the absolute requisite of creating a feeling and desire for internationalism. She urged individual thought and consideration of current problems, not a blind following of the ever-changing mob.

It is hoped that Miss Germaine Benoit, native French woman; Dr. Terry, near a physician; and a Chinese will be the speakers at future meetings this semester, which will probably be April 12 and 26, and May 9. The club wishes to thank the student body for the interest it has been taking in recent club meetings.

14 MEN EARN ADMITTANCE TO VARSITY "A" CLUB

There are many clubs and social organizations at Albright. Perhaps the finest, yet least understood club is the Varsity A. It is not an organization whose purpose is to gather together all the feet and brawn, so that its members may strut by us poor mortals exclaiming, "We are the strong." But it is a club, fine because of its commendable purpose so clearly defined in its recently adopted constitution: It shall be the purpose of this organization to increase the scholastic standards of the athlete; to make the granting and wearing of the A an honorable privilege; to promote a harmonious feeling among the members of various sports; and to maintain a high standard in conjunction with those ideals which are characteristic of the best type of athlete.

Fourteen persons who have earned at least two letters in major sports comprise the Varsity A Club. The requirements for membership are slightly different under the new constitution. Membership may be gained by the earning of one letter in a major and one in a minor sport. This revision will permit the inclusion of six new members, so that by now the club probably has twenty members. Membership is restricted to the men of Albright. This, then, is a club where the rights of the bachelor are inviolate.

The second student-faculty Fireside Hour, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A., will be held in the college dining hall tonight at 7:30. An informal evening of entertainment is anticipated. Refreshments will be served.

ALCHEMISTS AND READING CLUB HEAR DR. COOK

On Tuesday evening, March 20, the Alchemists Club held a short business meeting on the Science Lecture Hall room. One of the club members is to read a paper at a meeting of the Pennsylvania Academy of Natural Science, which will hold numerous sessions on the campus during the week of the 26th. An attempt is also being made to have several members voluntarily prepare and read papers at future meetings of the club.

At 8 o'clock on the same evening the Reading Chemists Club held its monthly meeting. After a short business session the club, in conjunction with junior members, the Alchemists, heard the speaker of the evening, Dr. Cook of the College Chemistry Department, deliver a lecture on "The A B C of pH." His talk involved a study of the fundamentals of hydrogen concentration of solutions. Many students and club members were in attendance.

BIBLE CLASS TO ELECT OFFICERS, SUN., APRIL 22

The College Bible Class will meet in regular session on Sunday morning, March 25th, at 9 o'clock. A special program is being planned for this Palm Sunday service. Mr. Otho Hoofnagle, president of the Y. M. C. A., will speak on the subject, "An Appreciation of Palm Sunday." Special music, including the rendition of "The Palms," will also be heard. Come and enter this joyful experience with us. Bring a friend. Plan to spend Palm Sunday and Easter Sunday in thoughtful appreciation of what a Saviour means to the world.

Attention is called to April 22nd, at which time officers for the year 1934-35 will be elected. These newly elected officers will be installed the following Sunday, April 29th, in a fitting ceremony.

NOTICE!

All candidates for the track team are asked to report to the Stadium today from 2.30 to 3.30. The nucleus of the team will be selected after Easter and will eat at a special training table. Coach Kelchner requests that all, including seniors, who intend to participate, make their appearance today.

Dr. Clyde Lynch Is Speaker at College Dinner

Lebanon Valley College President Presents Interesting Talk at Fellowship Banquet

Men's Glee Club Presents Two Selections at Special Occasion

The college dining room was the scene of a most successful Fellowship Dinner on Monday evening, March 19, at 5:30 o'clock. Otho Hoofnagle, president of the Y. M. C. A., presided as master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by Dr. F. Wilbur Gingrich. The fires in the fireplaces, the flowers, the light "A" and the informal group of singing created an atmosphere of genuine friendliness and real fellowship.

The president of the Lebanon Valley College, Dr. Clyde Lynch, was the guest of honor and speaker for the occasion. In welcome, the master of ceremonies read a pertinent selection from Goldsmith, after which President J. Warren Klein introduced the speaker.

Dr. Lynch spoke concerning a problem of vital importance to college students, "What Price Rights and Privileges?" He referred to the formula which the college president repeats in presenting diplomas to the senior class: "This diploma is presented to you with all the rights and privileges appertaining thereto." The speaker stated: "We are coming more and more to see that dollars and cents cannot commensurate for a college education." Personality has become a drug upon the market, and the college degree a mere trade mark of doubtful value. It is "not what a person knows when he gets out but what he is."

"How will you commend yourself to society?" questioned Dr. Lynch. Society expects three things in particular from a college graduate. First, society looks for sound scholarship which is not confined to a narrow field. "We must all grind a little more if anything is to come out of the mill." Second, a certain culture is necessary. A college graduate should have an appreciation of the beautiful and certain social graces. This year at Lebanon Valley College each graduating senior will receive, along with his diploma, a certificate with the number of extra curricular activities in which he has participated. "Through engaging in extra curricular activities he develops qualities of leadership and co-operation which makes him a better citizen."

Third, is a sense of the spiritual. In closing, Dr. Lynch said: "I hope that all of us, presidents, professors, and students alike, will face the world with a high purpose and moral seriousness to serve the world as our Master did, doing good for others, and who gave His life a ransom for many."

ETIQUETTE

It seems to be necessary once again to call attention to the dining room habits which the Seating Arrangement Committee and our chef have endeavored to regulate. There is a general negligence on the part of a particular group of students in conforming with the few rules of etiquette with which our committee have asked co-operation.

The dining room is the one place in which the boarding student of the college have the opportunity of complete assemblage. It is the one place where may be displayed a refined and cultured atmosphere that is so complimentary to the small college. Such breeches of etiquette as the absence of coat and tie, loud and unnecessary talking, and the lack of courtesy, should be foreign to our dining hall during the evening hour.

The Seating Arrangement Committee have functioned extremely well this year and their new method of assigning seats has been quite successful. We wish to congratulate them on the progress they have made in connection with the dining room management. It is upon their request that we urge the student body to feel the importance of their personal appearance and their individual actions while in the dining hall.

DR. CLYDE LYNCH SPEAKS AT FELLOWSHIP BANQUET

Prof. Theodore A. Hunt directed the Men's Glee Club, accompanied by Olaf Holman, in two selections which were well received: "Bring Her Again, O Western Wind," by Arthur Hartman, and "Land Sighting," by Grieg.

Jan the Chef served an excellent dinner to the faculty and their wives as well as to the students. The program was closed by singing the Alma Mater with only the red "A" to light the dining hall.

Literary Column

By Lewis Jones

Tiffany Thayer sarcastically remarked in his last novel that a book worth the reading hadn't been published for a long time. And so, he says modestly, to correct this unpleasant situation, he had to sit down and write one. Whether he succeeded in his commendable purpose we don't care to say. But we think that his original statement was well put.

Indeed, it seemed last year that all the boys had gone to seed. Affairs had gotten to such a state that William Faulkner went on record to say that most books seemed to have been written either by stallions or pansies. The season had one saving grace, however; it gave everybody a chance to catch up on the classics.

This year, we are happy to say, is a great deal better off. A whole new crop of writers have sprung up, and the old ones seem to have gotten into their stride again. We won't go into detail about these latter; the new entries clamor for attention.

First, James M. Cain and his "The Postman Always Rings Twice." Now in its fourth printing, it is the best seller all over the country. Anyone who reads its first sentence will agree that it is the most engrossing unlayabledown book in a long time. Thrown off a truck on which he was hitch-hiking, the story of a bum and his adventures and intrigues with a Greek who keeps a filling station and a designing wife, it races along in a grimly realistic style that leave one breathless. For a stimulating evening, we recommend it, with reservations for those of weak stomachs.

To take the bad taste of Cain's book out of your mouth, try "The Fool of Venus," by George Cronyn. Peire Vidal, most famed of the famous Troubadours of Provence, is the fool. Of the courts of love he sings, and of the crusades of Richard the Lions. It tells of those unbelievable times of barbarism and startling loveliness—the twelfth century. Authentic history, exciting biography and gifted prose blend to make this life a great story of those amazing days.

For Cabellians, "Smirt," Cabell's latest, is perfect. I think that no writer living, of any magnitude at all, could show as many adverse press clippings as Branch Cabell brags of. The critics now, tho, are beginning, if not to understand him, at least to allow that he is a great novelist and a wise man. "Smirt" is sub-titled An Urbane Nightmare, and between his prose style and the confusion of the dream, it is a bit difficult to see his point, especially if you have not yet made Cabell's acquaintance. But by all means make it a point to read this sophisticated and mocking man.

CHEF ENTERTAINS NEWLY ORGANIZED WAITERS' CLUB

On Wednesday evening the members of the Waiters' Club journeyed to various countries of Europe with Jan Van Driel, the chef, as their guide. The beautiful country scenes of France, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, England, and Holland as well as many interesting cities, cathedrals, and the World's Colonial Exposition were viewed. Among the stars of the movies were Coach Smith, Leonard Van Driel, the chef, and his mother.

Following these entertaining pictures, candy and cream were enjoyed by all.

PROMINENT PEOPLE . . .

MARGARET WITTMANN
(Pi Alpha Tau)

Peg is another Senior co-ed who seems to have been endowed with that something necessary to make things go. As the head of the Social Committee of the Y. W. C. A., she has carried out a successful program. The Senior class has entrusted the fate of its social activities to this enthusiastic individual in order to insure success. She has also achieved quite a record for herself as a member of the Varsity Girls' basketball team for four years.

Peg is a devotee of the German language. She spent a summer studying (?) in Germany and that accounts for the indistinguishable phrases to which she sometimes gives utterance. She still professes that she intends to teach, and her career should be a successful one, according to all indications.

A willing worker, always ready to help a good cause along, can be found in Peg. She has served in various capacities during her four years at college; vice-president of the freshman class, treasurer of the Lutheran Club, secretary of Pi Alpha Tau, and an active member of numerous organizations.

We feel sure Peg will continue to make her presence felt in any activity in which she may engage after graduation.

LUTHERANS HOLD FINAL LENTEN MEETING TODAY

The last Lenten Meeting of the Lutheran Club will be held today at 1 P. M. in the Lower Social Room of Selwyn Hall. Rev. Luke S. Sweitzer, pastor Nativity Lutheran Church, will be the leader of discussion on the topic, The Social Task as Related to the Church. We feel sure that such discussion has been profitable to those who have "followed through" in this project. We urge all students and members of the faculty to attend our last meeting. We will be looking for you. Don't forget the time and place.

The "Y" Column

The third Vesper Service of the new series, which was held last Sunday afternoon in the social room of Selwyn Hall, the College was fortunate in having as their guest speaker Mr. John Jones, who spoke on He Believed in His God. He illustrated his talk by many interesting incidents of the lives of former Christian leaders and some from living experiences made the informal gathering feel more at home. The worship service preceding the address was in charge of the Y. W. C. A.

There are only a few more Sundays left before our present semester will be over. Have you been able to come to a conclusion about your philosophy of true Christian living? If not, you have missed many excellent opportunities to get started on this very vital factor in the lives of youth today. "The youth of today are tomorrow's leaders" was one of the statements of Mr. Jones. If they are to become effective and honest leaders they must be alert to have the inner feeling of satisfaction. This comes about by believing in your Creator. As the next few days roll by, think of the importance of the question of the true meaning of life. Do you know how to go about in this sold, uninviting world to be a success? Come to Vespers next time and get a foundation started for the right road which is the high road.

The Y. W. wishes to announce for the benefit of all its members, including day students, that a pre-Easter Communion service will be held again this year. The service was very inspiring last year and almost every member attended. The service will be held Thursday, March 28th, at 6 o'clock in the morning in the chapel of the Theological Seminary. There will be a special speaker and all the girls are urged to be present at this consecration service.

The Y. W. meeting on Wednesday night was in charge of the Freshmen girls. A short religious playlet was given with the following girls taking part: Cora Schankel, Mary Bentzel, Julia Bowman, Maryet Klein, Leona Reed, and Betty Campbell.

At a meeting of the Y. W. Cabinet last week, nominations were made for next year's officers. Election of the officers will be next week. Those nominated for the various offices are as follows: president, Jean Goodling and Mildred Rothermel; vice-president, Marjorie Beglinger and Jean Rosenkrantz; secretary, Betty Campbell and Amy Leitner; treasurer, Gladys Novaky and Margaret Paul; day student representative, Jeanette Henry, Betty Blecker and Margaret Maurer.

Spring practice has come and almost gone. The boys have had a chance to get back into shape; that is, those who have not been jaking along with Moffet, Charley Gabriel, Slack, and Pittapaldi, and we can add Scholl to that list if all reports that have drifted up from the Stadium are true. The first few days the campus echoed with the reports of stiff joints and the cry that they could not sleep at night. At least, it gave some of the boys an excuse to go to bed early at night for a change. Coach Kelchner has been working the boys quite steady, but has not let them in for the real grind as yet. Babe Hopfan, Frosh, was the first casualty of the season with a tooth knocked out, and then his girl journeyed up from Brooklyn the next day. Well, so it is in lives of football heroes. Next week we expect to look them over and then we can give you some first-hand information. I suppose some wit will tell us that we are not able to do it anyway, but that wit will no doubt come under the head of "knocker" also.

Baseball is back to stay, at least we hope so, because we had a swell story last week and could not use it. Coach Smith will have his squad out right after Easter vacation, and he expects a large turnout because there is a great deal of available material from last year's varsity freshman teams. The pitchers have been working out the last two weeks and should round into shape quickly when the season starts. An effort is being made to arrange a game between Albright and the Reading Keys. At the present time it looks as if it will be scheduled. The last time the Lions hooked with the local club was in 1929, when the International League was in Reading. If the game can be arranged, it should prove a great drawing card, as the people of Reading would like to see the two teams clash. Albright has nothing to be ashamed of in her baseball team, and they should give the fans a run for their money. Don't be surprised if they win.

Writing a column that tends to take a critical attitude as far as athletics and athletes are concerned is not the easiest task in the world and at times may cause ill feelings between individuals. The writer has never written anything that he had not good reason to write and which he could not prove if requested to do so. Time and again students have approached the writer with leading facts, but in the long run it has been theory and not truth. During the year there have been many stories that sound good, but which held no basis of truth, and for that reason they were not written. Any time the writer can be quoted as saying anything concerning athletics that has not appeared in this column, you can brand it as untrue. Recently the writer was accused of making a statement concerning a prominent athlete and was publicly denounced for it. If such a statement could have been made privately to any individual, you can be assured that it would have appeared in this column. This story in particular was told to the writer at least on three occasions, but on investigation, at the time, it was found that the story was untrue and its source could not be determined. This column has always attempted to tell the truth concerning anything in the field of athletics if the facts were authentic. As it has done in the past, it will continue to do in the future.

Lions Capture League Honors for Third Year

Osliso Ranks as Highest Scoring Guard in the Individual List

For the third successive season, the Red and White have copped the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate league scoring honors. Having netted 459 tallies over a 12-game schedule, the Lions' nearest competitor was Franklin and Marshall College with a total of 454. Their average per game this season was 38.3 points.

Osliso, chosen All-Eastern guard for two straight years, was the highest scoring guard in the league. He was our highest point-getter this season, amassing a total of 98 points, to rank fourth in the individual scoring honors. Jacobs of F. and M. ranked number one this year among the individual scorers with a total of 141 tallies.

48 Candidates Out for Spring Grid Training

Kelchner Enthusiastic Over Prospects for the 1934 Football Season

Coach Jay Kelchner is quite enthused over the prospects of the coming football season. Although he can only judge by the looks of the squad at the present time, he is confident in the turnout of 46 students who are participating in spring practice. He is impressed with the spirit and the willingness of the boys and declares that they have the proper spirit in learning the fundamentals of the game. He states they will be a short scrimmage on Saturday and early in the coming week another one.

He expects Hobart Light, a former Pennsylvania fullback, to come this week. Light, in his day, was one of the greatest defensive fullbacks the country has ever seen and is still rated as one of Penn's greatest. He won national fame as the player that used a sponge in his helmet. Coach Kelchner also expects Roy Engles, Pennsylvania center, to come up in the near future and assist him with the centers.

He will use the double wing formation and the single wing back formation in the fall. He intends to have a heavy backfield and a set of fast moving guards who can be depended on to run interference for the backs.

Spring practice will come to an end on Wednesday because the school closes on Thursday for Easter vacation. Coach Kelchner expects to have a line on most of the boys at this time, and at the end of the practice he will be able to tell just what material he has on hand for the fall season. He is getting a line on the boys now and in a week will know just where he stands as far as material is concerned.

The following men have reported for spring practice:

Ross, Bernard, Levingood, Slack, Oberzits, Kehler, Beuchle, Danford, C. Gabriel, Gass, Haldeman, Hepler, Humphreys, Lund, Perette, Sutcliff, Van Ostrand, Vargyas, Yentsch, Blandon, Bonacci, Caracciolo, Charlton, Ehrhart, Fegley, Pittapaldi, K. At last it's out . . . Mrs. Winchell's little son Jimmie has a secret passion. She's the member of the freshman class with the boisterous laugh, and by the way she's a pal of Angel's gal. We wonder when our lad, Jim, will give the Zula mating call.

The Alpha Pi Omega Fraternity held its annual alumni basketball game and smoker last Saturday evening. The alumni nosed out the actives by the score of 40-35. After the game refreshments were served at the fraternity quarters.

Several of us wonder if that future lawyer, who is aiding in the excavation of Old Muddy Lane, is striving toward a sylph-like figure or if he is trying to give speedy competition.

The wives of the professors attending the Fellowship Banquet on Monday evening were: Mrs. Klein, Mrs. Gode Von Aesch, Mrs. Horn, Mrs. Knapper, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Cook.

That bespectacled would-be debater whose domicile is in the Theology building was quite relieved when our health prof. told him there was no danger of his getting trench mouth. From the amount of noise he makes, he should be a good debater.

Miss Gerberich, former instructor of music at Albright, was recently married. She is now making her home in the South.

One of our much-tied-down senior day-student girls is giving a Junior a grand run-around. Is it spring or is it just a want of change of scenery?

Joe Keating's orchestra has been engaged to play for the Kappa Spring Formal, which will be held at Galen Hall, on April 28th.

The young man, whose patron saint was a good horn blower, again breaks into print. He's going on another trip to Western Maryland to see his babe. What a line he must have to keep his local affairs straight.

Pauline Richards, of the class of '32, has announced her engagement to Homer Rosenberger, of the class of '29.

Did "Doc" Horn get a laugh when he asked one of his patients how the medicine was and the sick one replied, "It was a complete washout."

Jack Linder, former editor of the Albrightian, has opened a chiropodist office in Lebanon, Pa.

Did Angel ever breathe a sigh of relief when the new coach announced no training rules during spring training? Just ask him.

Dorothy Robinhold will visit Ruth Lloyd during the Easter holidays. Both are members of the Senior class.

Did you see the haircut on that rotund sophomore with the nickname synonymous to a comic strip character, who is now adrift on the high seas. We wonder if the haircut will change his whole life, too?

Dorcas Haines, Betty Rimelspacher, Edith Jones, and Margaret Paul, all entertained guests in Selwyn Hall, Sunday.

How 'bout the certain Junior center, whose abode has recently been changed and who is affectionately called B. A. by his team mates, suddenly remembered his limp now that football has started.

Mary Ellen Venus, Rene Fray and Steck Hagen spent Saturday and Sunday on the campus.

The Senior, who looks and acts like a caveman, reverted to type Sunday and almost knocked a babe into the aisle when he reached for his collection. He afterward apologized, and of course introduced himself. Rather crude procedure as the pros. would say. Not so?

Jake Orr and Jim Ross, both Kappas, spent the week-end at their respective homes. Ross attended the Sigma Lambda Nu dance at Pitman, N. J.

The Junior of Selywn Hall, who gets all the phone calls is now having difficulties making connections. A certain soph, called Rosie at times, is getting plenty of 'em, too, out there, not all from the same party.

Helen Yohn, of the Senior class, has also been pledged to the Phi Delta Sigma Alumni Sorority.

It seems that an elongated science student, whose nickname is identical to that garrulous character in "Our Boarding House," has gone ga-ga over a nurse in Philie.

Peg Wittmann and Dorcas Haines will spend the coming week-end at their respective homes.

And did that center of an undefeated Frosh team almost get apoplexy when asked by a hopeful Frosh football candidate, if he was going out for the Junior Varsity and if he had ever played football before.

Don't forget to keep the Senior date in mind. Get your date now. May 26th, at the Berkshire.

And now for the last crack at the keyhole peeper for he isn't here this week. "Red Lion" speaks and little girls are contemplating forsaking the burg this summer. It's rumored that Reading's home-grown Winchell expects to vacation there living off the fat of the land.

THERE'S ONE BEST TIME To Telephone Home!

You'll agree, once you've tried it, that half past eight is the time to telephone home.

At half past eight the day's rush is over. Your time is free for a leisurely telephone chat.

At half past eight the same is true at home. It's the best time to catch the family all together.

At half past eight (and this is most important) low Night Rates go into effect on Station to Station calls. You can then save as much as 40% on your call. For example: If your home is 100 miles away, a three-minute connection will cost only 35 cents!

TO TAKE ADVANTAGE
of the LOW NIGHT RATES . . .

Call after 8:30 P. M., and be sure to make a Station to Station call.

That means, ask the Operator for your home telephone, but not for any specific person.

If you've fixed a date in advance, the family will be sure to be there.

Charges may be reversed.
