Religion Week Starts Monday

Washburn To Speak At Four Day Program

Daily chapel services, personal meditation periods, informal discussions and evening devotional services are included in the program schedule for Religion-In-Life Week on campus Monday, March 23 to Thursday, March 26. Rev. Paul Washburn will be the guest speaker.

"The Words" is the title of Reverend Washburn's first address in chapel Monday; "The New Creature," Tuesday; "The Community of Love," Wednesday; and "The World Hope," Thursday.

Each noon a period of personal meditation will be held in Sylvan Chapel at 12:45. Monday afternoon Reverend Washburn will meet with faculty members at 4:15. Cell groups and Kappa Tau Chi fraternity plan to meet with the speaker Tuesday in Selwyn parlors at 3:30 p. m.

John 15:1-8 To Be Discussed

For the evening devotional services in the college chapel each day at 7:45, Reverend Washburn is using a series of Bible studies based on John 15:1-8. His messages are "Abiding in Christ," Monday; "Bearing Fruit," Tuesday; "Accepting Pruning," Wednesday; and "Getting Answers to Prayer," Thursday.

Informal discussion groups open to all students and faculty members will meet Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the lower social room at 8:45 following the evening service.

The Things That Matter Most

According to Rev. Eugene Barth, head of the religious activities, "A college education must provide students with technical knowledge. Albright believes it should also give direction in the development of character and in laying foundations for a mature faith. In the midst of a confused world, each of us is tempted to ask, as did the young man in Thornton Wilder's "Woman of Andors"—"What must I do first?"

"Our Religion-In-Life Week is dedicated to a real search for a reason for living. We are not merely 'tipping our hats to God' for four days of the year. We are looking for practical answers to real problems. We seek answers that will carry through all of life. We shall never find them unless we give ourselves to the search.

"Since 98% of our students claim allegiance to some religious faith, we expect of them a concern for truth. We urge our students and faculty members to welcome this week as an opportunity to seek for clearer insights. God ever seeks for man, but mankind has a perverse habit of starting at the ground. In a time of restless living, let us together seek for those things that matter most."

Inter-Fraternity Council To Hold Dance April 10

The Inter-fraternity dance, sponsored annually by the Inter-fraternity Council, will be held on Friday evening, April 10 from 8:30 to 11:30 in Krause Hall. Music will be furnished by Johnny Barker's orchestra. Admission price will be fifty cents per person. The dance will be open to the entire student body.

Three trophies will be awarded during intermission. Two trophies will go to the winners of intramural football and basketball. The third award will be presented to the fraternity with the highest scholastic standing.

Class Periods To Be Shortened

All students are expected to attend the daily chapel services during Religion-in-Life Week, the Office of the Dean and Registrar announced today.

Class schedules on Monday and Wednesday of next week will be modified as follows: the first period will be held from 8:10 to 8:45; second period, 8:55-9:30; third period, 9:40-10:15; fourth period, 10:25-11:00; and chapel services at 11:00.

Regular attendance will be taken at all services.

Cue Adds Its Finishing Touches; Mid May Delivery Is Expected

Finishing touches are being put on the 1953 Cue, the editorial staff announced this week. With 95% of the pictures in the hands of the printer, the Cue staff has to submit only a few items before reaching the deadline on March 31. The printer expects to deliver the finished product sometime near the fifteenth of May.

The only section not finished in its entirety is the athletics portion which has been delayed because of the necessity of waiting for the disclosure of the names of participants in the spring sports. William Housum and Dorothy Kuettel are men and women's sports editors respectively.

In Charge of Photography

The photographic department was headed by Ronald Schlossberg who made arrangements for the picture taking and George Spencer who was staff photographer taking informal shots and group pictures not photographed by professional photographer, Paul Bauer.

Serve in Editorial Capacities

Also serving on the staff in editorial positions were: Dolores High in charge of the organizations section, Patricia Miller in charge of the informal view section, Mary Jane Titlow supervising May Day pages and subscription sales and Richard Hilton serving as staff typist. Theana Koutroulelis will begin her staff work in these next two weeks proof-reading copy in her capacity as literary editor. Juniors on the staff were Jacqueline Zwayer, or-

Domino Dates Changed For Student Nights

A slight change has been made in the dates for the Domino production, "Barefoot in Athens." Directed by Annadora Vesper Shirk, the play will be presented for the student body tonight, tomorrow night and next Friday, March 27, at 8:15 p. m. in the college chapel. Saturday, March 28, the drama will not be open to the students as had previously been scheduled.

Rodney Bentz, '56, will play the leading role of Socrates in Maxwell Anderson's play.

Campus Social Groups Schedule Spring Activities

The Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity appointed Jack Peiffer, Ed McNeill, James Croke, Joe Kierstead and William Cohrs to take charge of Mardi Gras plans at the meeting last Monday night. Wallace Goss and Jack Peiffer were selected as the softball team's co-captains.

Next Tuesday night the Zeta's will hold an open-house for a fire side chat. Rev. Paul Washburn, the speaker for Religion-In-Life Week, will be the guest.

Kappa's Name Pledge-Master

At the Kappa Upsilon Phi's last meeting Monday night Peter Nicholas was named as pledge-master and Joseph Hayck as assistant.

The fraternity has set Saturday, May 15, as the date for the semi-formal Spring dance. Earl Strawn was put in charge of writing the invitations to the alumni.

The entire organization is planning to attend the Religion-In-Life service on Tuesday night.

Himmelman Heads Dance

The Alpha Pi Omega fraternity named William Himmelman as head of the annual Spring dinner-dance at its last meeting on Monday night.

Robert Bieler, James Hall and Thomas Pepe have been appointed as pledge-masters for the spring pledging season.

The Junior Optimist Club of Reading holds its meetings weekly at the fraternity house.

PAT's Discuss Week-end

The Pi Alpha Tau sorority has set Friday and Saturday, May 22 and 23, as the date for their annual Spring Week-end, decided upon at the meeting Monday night. The Friday-night festivities will be held at Blue Mountain. The formal dance Saturday night will be held at the Wyomissing Club.

Mus Plan Formal

The Phi Beta Mu sorority discussed their plans for the annual spring dinner-dance at their meeting on Monday night in Selwyn Parlor. The dance will be held Friday, May 22, at Bowers' Country Club.

Two To Vie For Top Post

Election Is Slated For April 13, 14, 15

James Barrett, '54 and Robert Bieler, '54, were also proposed as nominees, but did not survive the primary election in council. Guenter is a Zeta Omega Epsilon representative in council, while Weitzel represents the daymen. Six other juniors—Jo Ann Duffy, Shirley Haskin, Margaret Israel, Virginia Marrick, Barbara Ravel and Thomas Stults—were also eligible for the nomination.

A history major and English minor, Barrett's home is in Washington, D. C. He is a member of the Y.M.C.A. cabinet, chapel chairman of Student Council and corresponding secretary of the A.P.O. fraternity.

Bieler, a business administration student, hails from Pennsylvania, Pa. He is the social chairman of Student Council, president of the junior class, vice president of the A.P.O. fraternity and a member of the inter-fraternity council and Domino Club.

The two nominees will present their platforms to the student body during an assembly period in the near future. The all-campus ballot will also contain the new revised Student Council constitution.

After much compromising council came to a final conclusion concerning the representation system. The plan they accepted states that council representation will remain the same as before with the exception that three of the five daymen and three of the five daywomen will be non-fraternity and non-sorority. Also, both the two dorm women and dorm men will be non-fraternity and non-sorority.

Since the representation plan was the only item holding back the completion of the Student Council constitution, the revision is now ready to be approved by council. Following the organization's approval, the revised constitution will be brought before the student-faculty committee for their vote. It will then be placed on the all-campus ballot.

William Himmelman, '53, senior class representative, asked council whether menus could be posted in the dining hall before the meals. The result was that council will send a letter of recommendation to Leonard Van Driel.

Library Receives Set Of Nature Study Books

The library has just received a new series of nature books, Miss Raeppel, librarian, announced recently. The series consists of five illustrated volumes. They include facts about birds, trees, stars, insects and flowers.

Another new book, which is timely for Easter, is "Barabbas" by Par Lagerkvist. This novel tells about a criminal whom Christ replaced on the cross.

Good, But Why Not Better

The oscar for this week is extended to the A.P.O.'s for their well-staged and truly outstanding performances on Stunt Night. We would like to mention especially their Apache dance, and Jeb Lengel's pantomime.

Further commendation is to be extended to the chairman, Robert Bieler, for organizing and directing the entire program. It seems, however, that we must always add a somewhat less than pleasurable note to the editorials. This is a task not envied by anyone, yet we feel that it must be done.

What we are referring to, of course, is the gradual, but steady decline in the caliber of the programs as a whole over the last few years and, in particular, during the last two years. We do not feel that we are in a position to venture an opinion as to the cause of this decline, but we do feel that it should be given some serious consideration when planning is undertaken for future Stunt Nights.

As a suggestion, perhaps it might be more convenient and practical to stage either Stunt Night or Sports Night in the fall, rather than attempting to crowd both into an already over-crowded spring semester. This might allow for more preparation than is now the case.

These comments are meant to be taken as constructive suggestions rather than negative criticism of something past. There was much good in Stunt Night, and we would simply like to see this augmented.

Don't Just Say It, Do It

"For the heart of the religious life is in commitment and worship, not in reflection and theory." These are the words of a great Quaker author, Thomas R. Kelly. Kelly always stressed the fact that practice comes first in religion, rather than theory or dogma. Many of us would agree with Kelly's idea, for thoughts about religion, or any belief, will not bring desired results unless action develops from those thoughts.

Of course, a person who holds the Kelly's belief will try to put it into practice 365 days of the year. However, during this Lenten season here at Albright, a week is set aside especially to make the life of commitment and worship more meaningful to each person. We are referring to Religion-in-Life Week which will be held next week on our campus.

Various organizations, such as the sororities, fraternities and Student Council, have been contacted concerning this week. Already they are planning special programs to make this week a significant one in our spiritual lives. Let's co-operate and remember the real purpose of the week. Make it a truly great week; one from which we can continue to grow in our religious experience throughout the rest of the year.

A Plan Has Been Adopted

We don't know whether the editorial of last week had anything to do with it or not but, council finally came to a decision as to what form of representation it wishes to put before the student body for approval sometime this spring. Obviously we are glad that a plan was finally accepted and we hope that all roadblocks have now been cleared to the adopting of a very badly needed new constitution. Further, we hope that the students will take cognizance of this need and wholeheartedly support the new constitution when it is ultimately brought before the student body for a vote.

A Lot To See

You'll be seeing a lot of Nancy Lou Walker in Domino's "Barefoot in Athens." She's an Athenian woman in the play and has to wear a costume with a slit in the skirt above the knee. It seems that in Socrates's time, the marriage rate was dropping in Athens which make the city fathers worried. Therefore, they passed a law requiring all unmarried women under thirty to slit one side of their skirts just below the hip. Smart Greeks—the law worked!

Although Socrates was bald, he had a long curly beard. This fact is giving Dolores Luhowy, head of the make-up committee, a real headache. Since Rodney Bentz, who plays the role of Socrates, wouldn't have his head shaved for the part, Dolores has been looking for a substitute. Anyone have a bald wig?

If you look closely at the back wall of the stage, you may see a T.V. antenna on top of the Greek temple. Bill Masters and Jack Schmidt, who painted the scenery, couldn't resist the temptation of modernizing Athens.

"Please don't take what I say in this play literally," pleads Bill Himmelman after every practice. You see, Bill's got a nickname in the play that he's afraid will stick. "Just call me Stupid," is his line in the play, and he doesn't want people to get the wrong idea.

You just can't please men! James Rogers, Jerry Gervasi, Gordon Oplinger and Stanley Order complain that their legs freeze in the short skirted tunics. At the same time, Neal Krape, Pete Schoffstall and Ray Horan gripe that they fall over the floor-length costumes.

This Is A Plea For Heretics-

Stanley A. Wolpert of Brooklyn, New York, a student at the College of the City of New York recently won first prize in the National Council of Jewish Women's nation-wide essay contest for college seniors on "The Meaning of Academic Freedom." We are going to quote here a few excerpts from this essay because it is not only timely but brilliantly written as well.

... To the teacher, to the scholar on the high road of reason leading to truth, academic freedom is society's green light. It signifies, "you go, you who have been tested and tried by your teachers and colleagues, you who have learned through arduous study and long years of disciplined labor how to use honestly and objectively the tools of scholarship, the books, the logic, the facts of history and the natural world, you who have mastered the art and science of education, investigation and clear thinking, you go on unafraid, go as Prometheus went—steal more of the fire from Olympus." And if at the end of his road the scholar arrives at conclusions in conflict with popular opinion, or not in keeping with the current phase of an evolving national policy, or inimical to powerful groups in society, academic freedom means that no government or newspaper or individual will be permitted to force a retraction of those conclusions, to ban or burn them, to punish in vengeance strictly limited to better ideas . . .

... But in time of tense conflict, or violently competing ideas, of fear, insecurity and confusion, many people contend that the staunchest advocates of intellectual freedom are corrupters, subverters of all social values, and must therefore be silenced. In Greece there was a Socrates, in Germany, a Martin Luther, in Italy, Galileo Galilei. Stubborn men these, curious men, peculiar and disturbing men who dared challenge the very gods and the rules of the earth, for the sake of conscience, in the service of truth . . .

... Unless the teacher is free to question and dissent, the student's mind will emerge from school, not strong with wisdom, but at best heavy with information. The teacher who tailors his opinions to the cut of popular pressure will hardly encourage bold inquiry in his classroom . . . Men who will one day govern themselves must first learn to think for themselves . . .

... There is no greater challenge to test the mettle of democracy's defenders than the current threat to academic freedom. Since the "cold war" has become warmer in Korea, havoc-crying patriots and understandably worried democrats have successfully managed to trim the wings of . . . (academic) . . . freedom . . . A far greater danger than any statutory restriction threatens the life of academic freedom—the subtle and silent fear, self-censorship. No university is an island divorced from the passions of the community out of which it has sprung. When the social atmosphere is charged with suspicion and clamors for conformity, when in the market place the greys of opinion are increasingly forced into areas of black or white, when the mere suspension of judgment on subjects of vital controversy is labelled "abetting the enemy" . . . instructors become more cautious, students cynical and apathetic about the very issue that will most strongly affect their future lives and the lives of their children . . .

... The "sins" of youth are not lightly absolved today, and the aspiring government employee, the apprentice public school teacher, tomorrow's engineer or "top secret" scientist, the ambitious law-

Readers Write—Frats And The Dayroom

WRITER KNEW LITTLE

Dear Editor:

Last week's article, "Keep the Fraternities Local," leads me to believe that its writer knew little of the national fraternity when he erroneously depicted it as, ". . . something to be avoided."

Perhaps in his lethargic research he should have troubled himself to read the preamble to the "Fraternity Criteria," enacted by the National Interfraternity Conference, which is, "We consider the fraternity responsible for a positive contribution to the primary functions of the colleges and universities, and therefore under an obligation to encourage the most complete personal development of its members, intellectual, physical and social." The positive contributions are carried out to a much greater extent by national fraternities than by the typically financially weak local fraternities.

One of his more flagrant violations on ethics was the quite unbalanced comparison between Albright and the large universities, while completely failing to take cognizance of national fraternities on campuses of Albright's class such as Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall and Gettysburg. His sarcastic reference to non-participation of independents in "College Life" is far more obvious at Albright than at Dickinson where more than 90 per cent of the student body are members of the Greek Letter world.

As for his allusion that lack of enthusiasm on the campus may be traced to the fraternities, it is important to again refer to Dickinson where a strong Interfraternity Council, composed of both Greeks and Independents, governs most of the college functions.

In answer to his allegation towards a split financial problem, it is of significance to note that most students on other campuses are of no different economic strata than are Albrightians.

He said, "If an Albright student ever feels closer to a student he never met out in California by virtue of the fact that they are both members of 'the frat', then we'll have to start all over again." It is interesting at this time to cite an example of two separate students, one a national fraternity man and the other a local fraternity man. Suppose, for some reason or another, they are on a strange campus where there is a chapter of the fraternity to which the first student belongs. It goes without saying that he will be hospitably received, while the second student will wander about friendless until such time as he creates attachments of his own. So I suppose we'll have to start all over again. Another interesting notation is the unwritten rule that high school brotherhoods are referred to as "frats", while collegiate brotherhoods are "fraternities."

Considering "nationals" versus "locals," it seems to me that a fraternity associated with many active chapters, many alumni chapters, a national governing organization composed of full-time operatives, and resting on many fine traditions accumulated by years of growth on many campuses can hardly be compared to a fraternity that stands alone.

Concluding, it is fairly evident that a national fraternity is an integral part of a campus, and it appears that my fellow writer, while perhaps unaware, has his bone to pick not with either national or local fraternities, but with fraternities in general.

A fraternity man,
J. P. Weiss.

OUT IN THE COLD AGAIN

Dear Editor:

Hurry, hurry, painter, get those walls finished. Rush, rush so the daywomen's room can be ready in time for the great week-end Homecoming and we can proudly show this remodeled room to our alumni. The room was finished on time, but by some mix-up, it happened to be locked the night of Homecoming. In spite of that, here was

Among those who slave away behind the printed pages of The Albrightian is Dorothy Kuettel, '53, copy editor.

"Ketts," an English major and a psychology and German minor, feels very much at home in the midst of piles of uncorrected copy. In fact, she hopes to make newspaper work her career.

Besides her journalism interests, "Ketts" is also fond of sports. She is a member of the Women's Athletic Association and plays on the softball team. Serving as co-captain, "Ketts" also played on the hockey team.

To pledges of the Phi Beta Mu sorority "Ketts" is known as Miss Dorothy Anne Kuettel.

Last summer she served as a re-write girl and occasional feature writer on the daily paper in Teaneck, New Jersey, her home town. While in high school, she had both a sports and a feature column in the school paper.

At Albright "Ketts" further pursues her literary interests as Women's sports editor for the Cue and as a member of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity.

In addition to this she rounds out her college activities as a member of dorm council and Women's Student Senate.

Diamondmen List 19 Contests On 1953 Schedule

by Pete La Rocco

Within a week or so the athletes of our campus will initiate their well-rounded spring sports program. Teams represent Albright in track, baseball, golf and tennis. For a college of this size, such a complete program is quite commendable and reflects credit on the Athletic Council and the faculty manager of sports. "In the spring a young man's fancy turns to love," but not so at Albright. When the first robin arrives and the last snow has melted, javelins, baseballs and cries of "fore" fill the air. Spring dances and similar formal affairs play second fiddle to spring sport life.

Special Note to Faculty

The members of the various teams mentioned above appreciate the cooperation and support of the entire campus, including the professors. In the past certain faculty members have not been overly-considerate in the scheduling of tests. This writer has noticed many instances in which basketball players boarded the bus for an away game immediately after a grueling exam. This is not conducive to top-flight basketball. We realize certain tests and quizzes are considered inevitable and can not be postponed. However, this need not be applied to all tests or quizzes. Thank you.

DePaul Scores Again

Mike DePaul has added two more honors to his ever-increasing list. Mike was voted to the second team all-state recognition by the outstanding sports' writers of Pennsylvania. He ranks with such company as Gus Lovett of Franklin and Marshall and Norm Grekin of LaSalle. Mike at five feet nine was the smallest player on both the first and second teams. Albright looks forward to great things from this diminutive speedster. Congratulations, Mike!

Zeta's Win Crown

After flying through their regular A league schedule undefeated, the Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity beat the Keglars, B league champions, by a 59-31 score. Krize and McNeil led a polished Zeta attack with 24 points respectively, while John Misko and Buzz Clark contributed 27 points to the losing cause.

This victory gave the Zeta's the Intra-mural basketball trophy. Previous to this, the Zeta's also won the intra-mural football award in the fall.

Heartfelt Sympathy

To Bernie Seaman, one of Albright's finest athletes, we of The Albrightian staff wish to convey our deepest sympathy upon the loss of his father. The campus was shocked to hear that Joseph A. Seaman had passed away Tuesday, and joins the staff in extending their sympathy to the Seaman family.

Netters Open With Moravian On April 18

Coach Leo Bloom's Albright netters are carded for fourteen matches this year opening at home against Moravian on April 18. However, the season is officially opened on April 15 with an away match at West Chester. Last year the tennis squad took the measure of Moravian twice, however they were whitewashed by West Chester, 9-0.

Last year the net squad went on a southern tour from April 7 to 12 during which they lost six encounters to East Carolina, Virginia Polytech, Guilford, Catholic U., W. Maryland and Wilson Teachers. The meets with E. Carolina, Guilford, and W. Maryland were lost 4 matches to 5.

Albright's overall record was a rather unimpressive 5-14 log, however, no less than five of them were by a single marker. The other wins besides those two over Moravian were over Juniata, Muhlenberg (5-4), and Seton Hall (5-3).

Three members of last year's squad will not be back this year. Paul Kissinger and Dale Moyer were lost through graduation and John Reusing left college after last semester. Probable returnees include Don Er mold, Don Grigsby and Bruce Weeber.

The schedule for 1953 is virtually the same as last year's with the exception of the southern tour. Albright did not meet Lafayette and Ursinus last year because of bad weather and scheduling difficulties. Moravian will be the only team met twice this year on the card of seven home and seven away tussles.

The schedule:

Lassies Score 51 Against Alumnae

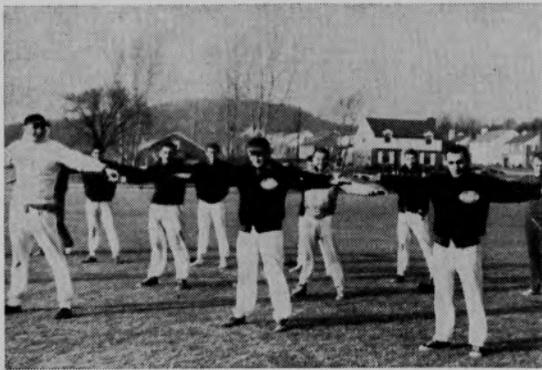

The Albright Lionesses played some of their former teammates in the annual alumnae game last Saturday in the gym. There were only seven alumnae present but they gave the Albright team a rough fight.

Margie Zeock was high scorer for the alumnae with 36 points. Judy Leinbach was high for the Lionesses with 22 points while Patricia Miller followed close with 20 points. The final score was Albright 51—alumnae 47.

Yesterday the Albright lassies played their last game at Elizabethtown. This was a good season for the Albright lassies with more wins than losses.

The lineups for the alumnae game are as follows:

Albright		Alumnae
G.	F.	G.	F.
Leinbach	9	Zeock	16

Shirk Schedules 13 Track Meets

The varsity cindermen of Albright College open up a strenuous spring sports program with their first informal track meet at Delaware on March 21. Eugene Shirk, track coach, has scheduled quite a few dual meets, two triangular meets and the invitationals. These include the Penn Relays, MASCAC Championships and the IC4A Championships.

Play Host Six Times

The Lion thinclads will be on the road for seven meets, while they will play host six times. The schedule is as follows:

Apr. 14—Muhlenberg Home
Apr. 18—Dickinson Home
(In conjunction with Berks County High School Meet)
Apr. 22—F. & M. Home
Fri. and Sat., April 24-25—Penn Relays, Franklin Field, Philadelphia
Apr. 29—Bucknell, Ursinus, Triangular Meet at Collegeville, Penna.
May 2—St. Joseph Home
May 6—Lebanon Valley Away (tentative)
May 9—Juniata Away
May 12—Gettysburg, Haverford, Triangular Meet at Haverford, Penna.
Fri. and Sat., May 15-16—MASCAC Championships at F. & M., Lancaster, Penna.
May 20—Scranton Home
May 23—PMC Home
Fri. and Sat., May 29-30—IC4A Championships at Randall's Island, N. Y.

Golf Teams To Battle Nine Top Opponents

Albright College will send its varsity golf team against nine top-flight opponents during the coming season. Paul Matten, local attorney, will then coach the team into the M.A.S.C.A.C. championships to be held at Juniata.

Five Home Meets Listed

The schedule features five home meets and five away meets. The opening match is set for April 13 against the Moravian Greyhounds.

The meets scheduled include:

Apr. 13—Moravian Away
Apr. 20—F & M Home
Apr. 24—West Chester Home
Apr. 27—St. Joseph Home
Apr. 28—Juniata Away
May 4—Lafayette Away
May 9—MASCAC Championships at Juniata, Huntingdon, Penna.
May 11—Dickinson Home
May 15—LaSalle Home
May 19—Bucknell Away

DePaul Takes State Honors; Tallies 383

Freshman Mike DePaul scored 383 points to lead Albright College in individual scoring during the 1952-53 basketball season. The former Reading Central Catholic High and Eastern Military Academy standout finished with 150 field goals and 83 foul goals. He led his mates in the number of field goals scored. He was voted second team, all-state honors.

In second place was Co-captain Connie Dettling, Reading, who netted 298 points on 103 field goals and 92 penalty points. Dettling had the most foul conversions. George Conrad, ex-Mt. Penn High athlete, a freshman, was third with 237 points; Ken Nase, Souderton, Pa., had 197, and William Spaide, Jeddo, Pa., was fifth with 146.

Co-captain George Amole, Birdsboro, Pa., broke into the century bracket with 129 tallies.

Dettling, one of the two seniors on the squad, had the best shooting average in field goals, .399, making 103 of 258 shots from the field. Other marks were DePaul, .333 on 150 of 451 tries; Spaide, .393 on 55 of 150 attempts; and Conrad, .341 on 84 of 246 attempts.

DePaul had a .754 percentage in free shooting, converting 83 of 110 tries.

Coach Eddie Gulian's Roaring Lions scored 1,623 points via 632 field goals and 425 foul goals for an average of 70.6 points per game. Albright was outscored by the opposition's total of 1,678 points made through 632 field goals and 435 foul goals. The opposition averaged 72.9 points per game.

In three seasons of varsity play, Dettling scored 745 points, while Amole, also a senior, had 385 tallies.

Albright concluded its season by defeating West Chester Teachers, 82-69, its tenth win against 13 set-backs. DePaul was voted the most valuable player on the team and received the Ron Regar Trophy.

Candidates Open Drills

Albright College's 1953 Spring schedule opens with a traditional baseball game with Ursinus College on Wednesday, April 8 on Kelchner Field. Last year the game was cancelled because of rain; however, the two teams met in 1951 on the Albright field with the Gulianmen coming out on the long end of a 6-5 score. The game will be the Lion's opener on a schedule of nineteen games—ten at home and nine away—with the season coming to a close on June 6 when Albright and F & M meet in the traditional morning - afternoon (home and away) doubleheader.

Coach Eddie Gulian will be out to better the 9-5 record of last season, but he might find that to be a difficult job for he will need to revamp his pitching staff. He lost "Hook" Martone and Gerry Potts through graduation last year as well as Jim Bachman early this year. However, Ed McNeill who posted a two and one record last year will return to probably form the nucleus of the new staff. "Hook" posted a 6-3 record last year and a 7-3 record in 1951 when the team won 13 and lost 7. Last year Martone pitched himself in the college "Hall of Fame" by blanking Muhlenberg, 7-0, with a no-hitter in which he walked but one while striking out 9.

Since Eddie Gulian took over the coaching of the baseball teams in 1950 they have won 34 games over a span of three years and lost only 18. This will be his fourth year at the helm. Added to the schedule this year were Wilkes, Temple, St. Joseph and Lafayette, whereas Susquehanna and Wagner were dropped. The schedule should prove to be a tough one with teams like LaSalle, Seton Hall, Temple, St. Joseph and Lafayette.

Pitcher-outfielder Martone led the Lions last year with a .358 average on 19 hits, he batted .384 in 1951. Returning D'Apollito hit .333 and led in runs batted in with 16. Other leaders were Stoneback .257, Harbach and Sudol .250; but graduated "Blackie" Moyer was third with a .305 average on 18 hits. Gulian will be looking for a shortstop and two outfield replacements in particular:

Debaters Attend Penn State Confab

Mahlon Frankhauser and Ray Weitzel went to the Penn State Debaters' Convention last Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Penn State College. During most of the convention Frankhauser and Weitzel attended committee meetings which helped prepare a bill concerning national defense.

This bill was then presented and passed in the general legislature on Saturday morning. Friday evening they attended a special banquet which was followed by a general assembly meeting.

Plea For Heretics

 yer-in-embryo, all take great pains to avoid any costly "taint." The most controversial books are too often left unopened, the most controversial speeches too often heard by too few, and for lack of an opposing team, the most stimulating debates are resolved without argument . . . Freedom is lost or won in the minds of men long before it is legislated out of or into existence. A nation suspicious and fearful of her "intellectuals," of her scientists and educators, her thinkers and serious students, cannot retain the respect of the world or dare aspire to its leadership . . .

Daily the meaning of academic freedom is defined by the student who insists upon his right to be guided, not led or driven in the direction of truth and understanding; by the teacher who resists all doctrinaire shackles, faithfully following the light or reason and conscience; by the administrator who values free inquiry above the largess of monetary endowments.

APO's, Zeta's Capture Stunt Night Trophies

Pictured above are five of the organizations presenting their skits in last week's Stunt Night. In the center spot is a shot of the Alpha Pi Omega chorus line which helped that group win the first place trophy. Other organizations are (clockwise, upper right) Phi Beta Mu sorority, Pi Tau Beta fraternity, Pi Alpha Tau sorority and Kappa Upsilon Phi fraternity. (Albrightian Staff Photograph)

Pat's, Mu's Tie Up Third Place Spot

Beautiful dancing girls and terpsichorian sailors combined talents to produce the Stunt Night first place trophy into the hands of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity. Based on a scene from a French cafe, the winning skit featured that man of many talents, "Pierre"—owner, operator, and vocalist supreme. When the American sailors invaded Pierre's happy hunting ground, they took the situation well in hand. Jeb Lengel portrayed Pierre, with Jack Sudol and Bill Himmelman taking the part of the Apache dancers.

The strong ties of fraternity friendships was the theme of the Zeta's second place winning stunt. When two "Old Grads" reminisced over the good old college days, they brought to mind the lonely nights in the trenches in France, the girls of their youth, and the soft-shoe routine they used to do. Bob Reller and Mickey Harbach were featured as the old fraternity boys. Fred Loser, Jim Croke, Ed McNeill and Fritz Barth gave amazingly convincing performances as can-can dancers.

The Mu's and the Pats tied up the third place spot, with the Pat skit featuring a clever take-off on Cinerama. Jackie Zwoyer, Martha Little, Margie Israel and Jean Dirmitt were on hand to view the World Premier of "Gone with the Draft" in the persons of Louella Parsnips, Marilyn Monroe, Marlon Brando and Anna Maria Spaghetti, child prodigy. Jeff Filbert highlighted the show as the skating "Oscar."

The Mu's slapstick comedy was centered around King Arthur and his "Squares of the Night Table." Arthur was forced to cope with many problems in the course of the skit, including a love affair between his beloved Guinevere and the little-but-mighty Lancelot and visitors from America traveling via flying saucers. Barbara Ravel was King Arthur, with Phoebe Hunter, Pat Kennedy, Carole Althouse and Joan Nielsen as the Americans.

The Kappa take-off on "Dragonet" brought forth many chuckles as Inspector Thursday and his able assistant, Sam Screwdriver alias Sam Snowshovel, delved into the confidential files of the Okepodokee police farce. As in the case of all true detective stories, the criminal was apprehended and given due punishment.

KTX night club scene with Tallulah Bankhead emceeing in the person of Jimmy Rogers, also featured famous stage and screen personalities. Pi Tau Beta portrayed the Russian purge after the death of "Uncle Joe." The Daywomen showed what the well dressed (?) college coed will be wearing this spring.

something for the daywomen—really the only place to go on campus for a little relaxation and socializing.

It is also a well established fact that the women of today do smoke and it is an accepted thing in practically all circles. Okay—we know that all colleges have certain rules and regulations, but don't you think that as long as college students are expected to behave as mature people they should also be treated as mature people.

But back to the main point of the letter. As we said before this is the only place on campus that daywomen are allowed to smoke, socialize, discuss school etc. and now this has been closed. Doesn't it seem a rather trivial matter to close down a fairly decent place on the basis of the fact that some students did eat in the lounge in which quite frankly there is not enough furniture to really damage, and also because some coeds were smoking in the room in which only eating and studying were allowed. Such a dichotomy of privileges is, we feel, somewhat unrealistic as well as ridiculous.

We are sure that if we had done something drastic, we would feel that the school would be justified in imposing such a penalty. But we, the daywomen, are paying $600 a year and we believe that we are entitled to at least a few privileges. Evicted Daywomen.

IRC Sends 4 To Model UN

Robert Berkstresser, LeRoy Brendle and Thomas Stuitts will be sent as delegates to the Middle Atlantic United Nations Model General Assembly which will be held at Cornell University on April 1, 2, and 3. The fourth delegate has not been selected as yet. The Albrightian delegation from the International Relations Club will represent the Sovereign State of Chile.

The representatives will also serve on four different committees. These are the political committee, the economic and social committee, the trusteeship and non-self government committee and ad hoc committee. In these committee meetings, the delegate will speak for the interests of the country he represents, just as would his counterpart in the United Nations.

Judy Canfield was inducted into I.R.C. membership at their last meeting on Monday evening. At the same time, the group discussed plans for their Holland flood relief drive.

Kistler Reviews U. S. Foreign Policy

Dr. Charles Kistler and Prof. Nelson Robinson were the speakers at the monthly meeting of Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science fraternity. They spoke about the United States' foreign policy, particularly in connection with the Russian problem. The group met in the Dean's parlor on Monday evening.

Sturtz To Lead Book Discussion

Lloyd Sturtz, '53, will review the first chapter of the book, "The Unfolding Drama of the Bible," in Bible Class Sunday morning, March 22, at 8:45 in Selwyn Parlor. The chapter entitled "In the Beginning," discusses the stories found in Genesis. All attending are asked to bring their Bibles for reference.

Bash to Speak at Vespers
 John Bash, '54, will be in charge of the vesper service Sunday evening, March 22, in Sylvan Chapel at 7:00.

Y's to Hold Combined Discussion
 The "Y" meeting Tuesday, March 24, during Religion-in-Life Week will be combined with an evening faculty-student discussion in the lower social room at 7:30. Rev. Paul Washburn will lead the discussion.

Reports were also made concerning Mardi Gras and a cake sale, which is to be held in April. The Mu's also considered the possibility of having a sorority room next year.

The sorority will attend a Religion in Life Week service on Wednesday evening. The girls will also help serve at a tea that will be given in Selwyn Parlor the same evening following the service.
