Disciplinary Power Sought

Council Wants Sanction Of Judiciary Authority

Student council may set up a judiciary system by amending its present constitution, the governing body learned Tuesday.

Jack Greenspan, '52, chairman of the disciplinary powers committee, reported that his group has met three times since it was set up by council action several weeks ago. Other members of the committee are Ray Weitzel, '54; Helen Hasselgren and Elliott Sauertieg, '52.

List of Rules Considered

Various plans are being considered for giving council judiciary power over offenders of a list of campus rules which the group is establishing.

Pres. Harry V. Masters informed council that telephone maintenance men have been instructed to reduce materially the sound of the bells on the third floor of the administration building. Several weeks ago council approved an Oscar Mogel motion that the sound be lessened since the bells disturbed third floor classes.

Men to Move Bells

In addition to reducing the actual sound of the ringing, the men will move the bells closer to the faculty offices at the end of each hall and consequently farther from the classrooms.

Vincent Gentile, '52, chairman of the social committee, decried the fact that few tickets have been sold for tomorrow's Ivy Ball. He noted that fewer than 50 tickets had been sold as of Tuesday morning. Tickets may be purchased tomorrow night at the door, he added.

Celebrities May Play

The possibility of the Celebrities' playing at the student council dance tonight in Union Hall was cited.

Robert Waldner, '53, reported to council that his publicity committee has made several posters for current campus activities.

A balance of $476.30 in the treasury was reported by Sauertieg. Council received an allotment of $525 from the student fees.

Albright Chess Association Organized; Induction Planned by Pi Gamma Mu

Under the leadership of Adolph Butkys, '55, acting president, and Robert Berkstresser, '55, acting secretary, a group of students interested in chess have formed the Albright Chess Association, which will meet every Friday from 2 to 5 o'clock in Union Hall.

The club has issued an invitation to all Albright students and faculty who are interested to attend its meetings. Within a month a constitution will be drawn up establishing the group on a formal basis.

Weigley to Talk

New members will be inducted into Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science society, at its next meeting, Wednesday, November 14 at 7:30 p. m. At the meeting Russell F. Weigley, '52, will read a paper on "Russian Far Eastern Policy: 1931-45." At subsequent meetings this semester Robert Lippincott, '52, will present a paper on aspects of industrial psychology and Francis Carney, '52, will discuss aspects of a philosophy of history.

Radio Workshop Meets Today at WRAW Studios

The first meeting of the radio workshop will be held this afternoon at 2:30, Richard Stinson, director, announced. It will be of an organizational nature, with subsequent meetings devoted to the teaching of all phases of radio work.

Frank Voss, program director of station WRAW, will supervise the group. Meetings will be held in the WRAW studios, Sixth and Court Streets.

The club will hear various speakers throughout the year, with one meeting per semester being devoted to the production of a play.

Dean Frantz, '54, is assistant director.

Haskell to Speak

Prof. Ellery B. Haskell will speak before the assembly in Union Hall at 11:10 a. m. next Tuesday, November 13. His theme will be "Life Founded Upon a Rock."

Mu's To Hold Fall Dance Nov. 17 At Women's Club

Further plans for the Phi Beta Mu rush dance to be held on Saturday evening, November 17, were discussed at the regular meeting held last Monday. The theme of the dance which will be held at the Woman's Club in Reading is "Old English." Dorothy Deam, '52, is general chairman for the affair. Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. John B. Douds, Prof. and Mrs. Clyde Harding, and Dr. Samuel Shirk.

The Mu rush dinner will be held on Wednesday, November 28 at the Thomas Jefferson Tea Room. The committee in charge consists of Jessi Nucci, '52, Evelyn Kressler, '53, Patricia Scheerer, '53, and Barbara Benner, '54.

A rummage sale will be held November 28 and 29 with Dorothy Kuettel, '53, in charge. Assisting her are Dorothy DeLaney, Barbara Farris and Lenore Lonker, '54.

Pats Induct Pledge

Pi Alpha Tau induction of upperclassmen pledges took place last Monday night at the home of Prof. Consuelo Rodriguez. New members inducted were: Annetta Deussen, '53, and June Dreyer, Patricia Eisenbise, Shirley Slivka and Phyllis Gruber, '54.

The Pat fall dance was held last Saturday night in Union Hall. The theme of the dance was "Golden Earrings."

Student Council Lists 12 Friday Night Dances

Vincent Gentile, '52, chairman of the social committee, has announced the schedule of student council dances for the coming year. As usual, these dances will be held in Union Hall from 8:30 to 11:30.

Friday night dances will be held November 16, January 4, 11 and 18, February 15, 22 and 29, April 18 and 25 and May 2, 16 and 23.

Mrs. Shirk Victorious In Republican Sweep

Polling 15,222 votes in Tuesday's balloting, Mrs. Annadora V. Shirk, assistant professor of English, was elected to the Reading school board.

Mrs. Shirk was victorious in a Republican sweep which saw the G.O.P. gain control of the city for the first time in 28 years.

Dogpatch Program Nears Completion

Plans are being completed for Sadie Hawkins Day, to be staged on Albright's campus on Friday, November 16. The program which is being sponsored by Women's Student Senate and is under the general direction of Marilyn Russo, '52, will include a race from 11 a. m. to 12 noon in front of the science hall and a hoedown from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m. in Union Hall.

Dogpatch attire is in order and the girls are designated to choose dates for the dance. Cast in the main roles are Cynthia Dedekind, '55, as Daisy Mae, Charles Parsons, '55, as L'il Abner, Sheila Samuels, '55, as Sadie Hawkins and Patricia Wright, '55, as Wolf Gal. As a special fund raising project for the support of Maria, the senate's adopted war orphan, popcorn will be sold during the day.

Four Associate Editors Named to Cue Staff

Four associate editors will assist Dorothy Deam, '52, in preparation of this year's edition of The Cue. They are Jacqueline Artz, Jane Brozene, Francis Carney and Marilyn Russo, all seniors.

In addition, Judith Canfield, '54, Nancy Hawman, '53, and William Heidelberg, Doris Hill, Marie Kaputo, Margery Mansfield and Jessie Nucci, '53, will serve as editorial assistants.

Lois Gehris, '52, has been named art editor, while Oscar Mogel and Heler Kasselgren, both '52, will be men's and women's sports editors respectively.

Photography editors will be John MacConnell and William Sailer, both seniors.

25 Bands Play in Bowl

Parade to Precede Shrine Pretzel Game

At least 25 high school bands, including some 1500 musicians, will perform at the Shrine Pretzel Bowl game between Albright and West Chester State Teachers College, Saturday, November 24 at Reading's Municipal Stadium. The event is being sponsored as a benefit for the Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children.

The bands will form at Centre Avenue and Oley Streets immediately before the game to march to the stadium. They will be escorted by police and accompanied by at least 13 floats. A formal opening ceremony will be conducted at the stadium at 1:50 by Walter E. Spotts, illustrious potentate of Rajah Temple. Harry J. Schad and James C. Eyler, co-chairmen for the event, will participate.

25 Bands to Present Concert

At halftime of the game the 25 high school bands will give a mass concert, directed by a band leader of national reputation. Following the game an awards dinner will be held in the ballroom of the Abraham Lincoln Hotel, where each member of the Albright and West Chester football squads will be presented with a gold football charm.

Friday evening, November 23, a parade will be held in downtown Reading, with bands and floats, Shrine units from as far away as New Jersey and the District of Columbia, veterans' organizations and several local drum and bugle corps taking part.

Tickets Available

Tickets for the Pretzel Bowl game sell for $2.75 and are available at Rajah Temple, 136 North Sixth Street, Reading. The Crippled Children's Hospitals to which the proceeds will go serve any children regardless of race, creed or color. Only children whose parents or guardians are unable to pay for hospitalization, surgical and nursing care are admitted to the hospitals. Everything is furnished without charge except shoes, which are seldom needed

Y Slates Toy Repair for Nov. 27; Student-Faculty Vespers Scheduled

Toys for underprivileged children are again being collected by the social responsibility commission of the Y's. Persons wishing to contribute toys to the drive have been asked to leave their names and addresses at the switchboard in the administration building.

Tuesday, November 27 will be toy repair night at the Y. The toys collected will be prepared to be distributed at the Y Christmas party on Sunday, December 9.

Working on the committee for the toy drive are William Britton, '54, James Barrett, '54, and Merle Thorpe, '53.

Meditation Program Aired

The Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. are again sponsoring a 15 minute radio program of meditation this year under the direction of Leonard Buxton, '52. The time has been relinquished by station WRAW free of charge every Sunday evening at 11:15 p. m.

The program is composed of symphonic music with interludes of philosophical thought.

Allen to Lead Vespers

Student-faculty vespers will be held at 5 o'clock Sunday in the chapel. The Reverend Dean A. Allen will be the speaker and the Y choir, directed by Leonard Buxton, '52, will sing "Come, Come Ye Saints."

Bible class will be held in Selwyn Hall on Sunday morning at 8:45 o'clock. Dr. Harry DeWire of the Evangelical School of Theology will speak.

Y Commissions Meet

A. Caroline Schmehl, instructor in psychology, addressed the Christian faith and heritage commission of the Y last Tuesday. Her subject was "The Psychological Preparation for Worship." The world relatedness commission attended the school of missions of the Evangelical and Reformed churches, while the racial equality group met at the Fellowship House.

Blood: The Need Is Growing It Happened There

On November 29 the Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Albright's campus, and students will be able to perform an invaluable home front service in support of the UN army in Korea. The need for blood on the Korean battlefield has been growing steadily more acute since the beginning of this year. Blood reserves have been running low, and contributions by civilians have fallen off with the decline in spectacular news from the war area. Increasingly our army has been forced to rely on blood donations from service men, for although the Korean fighting has become stabilized and the opposing armies are no longer making frequent headlines, casualties continue.

The need for blood, then, is great. Furthermore, the student who contributes will receive valuable information concerning his blood type and Rh factor.

Here, indeed, is a program that deserves the complete cooperation of the entire student body; only rarely are we called on to support so important a cause.

Spotlight Focused On Education

American Education Week will be observed from November 11-17. The general theme for this year's observance is "Unite for Freedom."

Observance of this week each fall presents a fresh opportunity to bring into focus the blessings of our American educational system, from the smallest nursery schools through the largest universities.

Sure, we're often cynical about the real value of the education we're receiving. We complain about its time-consuming requirements and its seemingly useless accumulation of facts. We resent the fact that it takes so long to prepare for a cherished career while countless others of our age have already taken their place in adult society. But the chances are excellent that in the last analysis we wouldn't trade for anything else the chance we have to gain an education.

"No nation in history has relied so heavily for its strength on universal education as does the United States," President Truman declared in his proclamation of American Education Week. "In this time of crisis—immediately and over the long pull—we must unite to develop that essential strength with all the vigor at our command."

The daily topics for the week will emphasize "Our Faith in God," "Schools and Defense," "Schools Keep Us Free," "Education for the Long Pull," "Teaching the Fundamentals," "Urgent School Needs" and "Home-School-Community."

Many of the college newspapers have recently become interested in the subject of "pop" tests. The Rider News wrote first an editorial condemning them, then featured student opinions and, finally, the instructors' views. The opinions varied.

The Boston University News reported that several film personalities including Dorothy Lamour, Debra Paget and Alfred Hitchcock joined the football players to present a gala rally before several thousand cheering students. Boston U. won the next game, 16-0.

Penn State, so says The Daily Collegian, is carrying on a campaign to stop drinking at the football games and the tearing down of the goal posts. Although some students still illegally smuggle it in, all beer laden persons are stopped at the gates. As for the goal posts, it has been suggested that a fire hose be on hand at the conclusion of the game.

Franklin and Marshall's Student Weekly featured an editorial and two letters concerning F. and M.'s parking conditions. For just a simple parking violation, the culprit faces a fine of from $25-$30; yet the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania's fee for speeding is only about $14.

The Temple University News stated that visiting German students were amazed at the number of tests given. It seems that in their native country some of the university professors think that a test every two or three years is adequate.—N.G.

The Moving Parade

The new political scare-word is security. Those farmers, workers, elders, those each and every who look to the government for support, are accused of looking for security. (This word being whispered vehemently through rounded lips 'neath rolling eyes—shades of the fall of Rome and the Russian Revolution!)

Sure they want security, and why not? The man who carved his own little civilization out of the forests—created it with his two hands—less than a life time—has been replaced by a man born into an industrial complex requiring him to twist a dial which makes a part that makes a part. And the modern man's well-being hinges on the probability that millions of his neighbors are twisting their dials regularly. The day of Summer's "forgotten man" is gone forever. The "forgotten man" has at last been recognized—he himself can be found with a Washington lobby.

The quest for security has extended not only to those of the conventionally needy groups; it is a major concern of such secure, needy elements as the steel companies and other basic businesses. Profits are assumed to be natural in business, the implication being that the modern business men no longer expose themselves to losses. They no longer take the risks they used to. That is why the essential industries will not expand until they are guaranteed by the government. That is why we have monopoly rather than competitive production. That is why we keep our tariffs. That is why sudden change is so dangerous in business circles. They too are looking for security.

Sure they want security, and why not? The efficacy of the human mind as a readjustment organ rests in the fact that it can propose solutions to problems brought by changing situations. This trait is sometimes termed intelligence. The situation has changed, has our collective mind? Come on, America, throw away that book and face the moving parade—it's marching past, you know.—F.C.

Dottie

Our senior personality for this week is Dorothy Deam, a liberal arts student who hails from Birdsboro. Dottie, a brown-eyed brunette who stands 5' 6" and tips the scale at 125 pounds, plans to teach after graduation.

Editor of The Cue for '52, Dottie is also vice-president of the Phi Beta Mu sorority, president of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English society; vice-president of Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social science society; and a member of F.T.A. For the past three summers she has been a waitress at the shore, and she has worked at Pomeroy's and other stores in Reading.

Lobster, dancing, flying and speedboat racing help to make up the bright side of life for Dottie, but army regulations and restrictions don't even begin to rate. Her favorite memories are of Albright as it was two years ago, of the fun and friendships of sorority life and of escapades with Betsy, Pat and Ziggy.

Science Hall 2000

In our last column, we looked back into the past, examining the contributions the science hall has made to humanity. With our present-day emphasis on the future, perhaps it would be interesting to look inside the science hall in the year 2000, if it still exists.

In the chem labs we can see students playing quibits with benzene rings, extracting gold from sand, brewing liquids containing all the essentials of health and gleefully spinning nuclei while scraping off adjacent electrons. In the more advanced sections more complex experiments are performed, such as deruberizing rubber, destructing indestructible ions and rebuilding amino acids.

We find our bio students constructing cats instead of destructing them and building up a new line of animals with parts taken from other organisms. By now, the undesirable formaldehyde has been replaced by a sweet-smelling and delightfully tasting liquid. Also, we can see giant plants growing in the botany room.

The most changed section of the science hall is the basement, where the physics department is situated. The humming noise we hear is coming from the giant beta-alphatron, which slices atoms neatly in half and shoots both parts into a mesa-alphatron, where the split atoms are crushed and melted.

Outside we can see students collecting light waves, which they will gather in jars and thence proceed to stretch or compress to form other types of waves, such as cosmic rays and X-rays.

On the field beside the building is a group of wildly cheering students, bidding bon voyage to their friends entering the space rocket which will land on the moon.

Yes, with the advancements of time come the advancements of science. We obviously can't go backward, so imagine the state of the science hall in 3000—no doubt we'll be synthesizing instead of analyzing the basic atomic structures, eh?—T.G.

The Lighter Side

Employer: "Who told you that you could neglect your office duties just because I kissed you once in a while?"

Steno: "My lawyer."

Hostess (to a small boy at party): "Would you care for a hot cookie?"

Small boy: "No, thanks, I brought my own date."

As we understand the doctors, you can live much longer if you quit everything that makes you want to.

Ivy Dates

Many couples have made plans to attend the Ivy Ball tomorrow night. The Albrightian has learned of only a few of the students who will be at this gala affair.

Among the steady couples who will be there are Virginia Marick and William Britton, Edwin Dunkle and Annetta Deussen, and Eleanor Williams and William Schmidt.

Other students who plan to attend this affair are Thomas Shultz and Jessie Nucci, Dorothy Kuettel and William Housum, Phoebe Hunter and Frederick Hess, Lloyd Sturtz and Lois Gehris, June Dreyer and Robert Day.

Representing last year's graduating class will be Robert Ruoff and Robert Bernhart with Patricia Miller and Patricia Kennedy as their respective dates. Many Albright students will be bringing out of town guests. Howard Platzker will be seen with Carol Dershwin from Bryn Mawr. Lucy Hoagland will have a Dickinson friend for this affair. Penn State will be represented by Ruth Rahn's date and Patricia Eisenbie will have a Villanova man as her escort. James Still, John Bash and Frederic Barth will also be on hand for the evening with their off-campus dates.—P.L.E.

The Ship

Suddenly I blacked out. Having regained consciousness, I found myself at a large pier. I knew nothing of how I got there or why I was there. I remembered nothing of the time just before I had lost consciousness.

What was I doing at a pier? I didn't want to go anywhere, being contented to stay here for the rest of my days since I soon could retire with all the money I'd made, thanks to all the suckers—er, supporters of mine. Politics was the right game for me. All my life I've had my hat in the ring, and it sure paid off. Why should I be a jerk and work for a living, when there's politics to fall back on? But why should I be running away from it all? The people couldn't have found out that I was a swindler; they're too stupid for that. Surely, there must be some reason for my being here.

Then all at once I saw it. It was enormous in size, the largest ship I've ever seen. The ship was about to sail for somewhere, but where? There was something strange about this ship. It appeared ready to sail, but I could see no passengers or crew. Abruptly I began to hear music, strange music that wasn't of this world. Looking a little closer at the vessel, I could see an inscription that read "Navis Dei." These were strange words to me, for I'd never studied a foreign language; thus my predicament became more confusing. Without further ado, the ship started to take leave of the pier, the music growing louder, now sounding like a great chorus, a host of voices. Now I had the strangest feeling that I wanted to board that ship, but something was holding me back. It's hard to describe the torture I experienced; it seemed as though I were paralyzed. Oh, God, why was I being held back now?

And the ship sailed, leaving me in my state of confusion and distress. All at once a man appeared on the pier. Now there was nothing unusual about this individual when I first saw him. But when I looked at his feet, my God! How horrible they were! No, no this couldn't be! And this fellow beckoned to me, as though he wanted me to follow him. I didn't want to, but I was compelled to. Collecting my senses, I realized this was no man, no flesh and blood man. This was—!! The rest being somewhat obvious, I'm not permitted to tell you about it; however, let those who miss The Ship find out for themselves, as I did.—E.E.

In the Lion's Den

By Tom Masters

Mud Bowl

Rising to the occasion with a spirited last quarter stand, the Albright Lions defeated a favored University of Scranton eleven, 2-0, last Saturday afternoon in a sea of mud.

The game was decided primarily by line play, as the backs of both teams had little chance to handle the pigskin with enough sureness to allow them to display their running and passing abilities. In the matter of line play, the Lions had a clear advantage as they prevented the Royals from getting anything close to a first down in the first half.

In the second half both teams seemed to handle the ball with a little more confidence and both began to move more consistently. The Royals, however, didn't show anything close to effectiveness in their attack until the fourth quarter. Then, after Albright had picked up a safety on a bad pass from center, Scranton seemed to realize the desperateness of the situation. Jack Downey broke through to block Sudol's punt and the Scrantonians began to move from their own 40.

With Ed Romanowski doing the brunt of the work, Scranton soon found themselves threatening on the Albright four yard line. Here it was fourth down and two yards to go.

But with their backs against the wall the Big Red defense braced to stop Romanowski in his tracks as he attempted the plunge for the first down. Sudol then kicked to mid-field and, with less than a minute to go, a great victory was won.

This Week

In winning last week the Red and White defense reached its peak form of the season. But this fine showing was against a club which depended primarily on line thrusts and "inside" football in general. Tomorrow the sturdy Lion defenders will be up against a completely different kind of adversary.

In Hen Bream's well-drilled Gettysburg Bullets, the defense will find itself confronted by a varied and tricky type of offense which features many shifty backs and accurate passers. As contrasted to Scranton, the Battlefields will rely generally on what is known as "outside" football. This means that the Albright defense will have to cope with many more situations than arose at Scranton and will have to show a "heads-up," "ready-for-anything" type of play in order to hold the Bullets in check.

The Albright pass defense, especially, will have to be forever alert. The Lion defensive backfield has been very effective against clubs which rely on long aeriels, but against teams which depend on tricky pass patterns and the short gain gotten by throwing to a delayed receiver, they have not given as good a showing. The line, of course, will have to help out in pass defense by rushing passers Ward and Sachs as hard as possible.

Again this Saturday Albright will meet an offensive line which is designed primarily for mobility, speed and skill in protecting the passers as opposed to straight-ahead, hole-opening power. This was the kind of line the Lions had trouble with against Lebanon Valley, and the Red forward wall will have to show just as much shiftiness as G-Burg in order to hold down the Orange and Blue offense.

Hill and Dale

The cross-country team has run into its greatest difficulty this year since the sport was taken over by Coach Eugene Shirk. About the

Lions, G-Burg Vie Tomorrow On Home Turf

Albright Seeks Second Victory Over Bullets

Sporting a good record of four wins as against three losses, the Bullets of Gettysburg College will arrive at the lair of the Lion tomorrow afternoon for the 12th game in a series which began in 1913.

It will again be the old story of master versus pupil as Coach Eddie Gulian played his college football under Hen Bream, G-Burg mentor. Last year Coach Gulian's charges upset the Battlefields, 14-12. As a matter of fact, Gulian's teams have yet to lose to any of Bream's outfits for in 1949, Gulian's first year at Albright, his team deadlocked a highly-favored Bream aggregation at 13-13.

Winning Season Possible

This year Albright faces the Orange and Blue with its best seven-game record in many a season. Fresh from a stunning 2-0 upset of favored Scranton last Saturday, the Red and White can be assured of a winning season by copping Saturday's contest.

To do this, the Big Red defense will have to bottle up passer Berkly Ward. This may be a tough assignment, for Ward has been instrumental in Gettysburg's decisive victories over Johns Hopkins, Drexel, Muhlenberg and, last week, Dickinson.

Bucknell Triumphs

The Battlefields were unfortunate enough to meet up with Bucknell's powerful Bisons in the first game of the season at Hershey, but they have come a long way since that 41-7 pasting. Other losses have been at the hands of Western Maryland and Lehigh.

Gettysburg, like Albright, has a large number of first year players on its squad. These youngsters, like Albright's first year men, have profited from tough early season encounters. Among the sophomores who have showed to good advantage to date have been Joe Ujbai at halfback and Jim Rooney at tackle. Experienced players who will again be headaches for Coach Gulian are Gene Coder, Joe Day and Al Hershberger.

Same Lineup to Start

Lining up for the Lions will be the same outfit that turned back Scranton. The offensive team will have George Rankin, Bruce Tenley, Tony D'Apollito and Chauncey Krout in the backfield with Bob Krize, Jim Goss, "Hook" Martone, Bill Himmelman, Norm Ruppert, Bob Zaporla and Gerry Potts from end to end.

On the defense the line will include Bruce Eickhoff, Ed Hanbicki, "Blackie" Weidman, Herb Mackler, Walt Drazek and Ed McNeill. Back of them will be Tom Savage and Ray Stoneback, while Jack Sudol, Jack Peiffer and Lou Venier will be deep.

Lions Win in 1950

Last year's game, Albright's first victory in 11, found the Lions roaring back from a 12-0 deficit at halftime to take it. The toe of Whitey Rightmire was the deciding margin as the Hanover fullback placekicked the two extra points.

only bright spot in a winless season so far has been the showing of freshman Don Seltzer. This boy has been outstanding in finishing first against F. and M.; and in the first five in every meet run so far. Don, however, has found little help from his team-mates, who, for the most part, are men with little experience in running. But the team still has hopes of salvaging at least one victory before the season runs out. It's our own private opinion that they will do just that.

RUGGED GUARD

Blackie Weidman, who was one of the immovables on Albright's eight-man line in the game last week at Scranton. He has been one of the main reasons why Albright has allowed no more than one touchdown in every game except Temple. Blackie is a junior and is having his best season this year.

Albright Harriers Bow to Lafayette

Run in Middle Atlantic Meet This Afternoon

The Lafayette College cross-country squad didn't prove to be a very gracious host as it handed Albright its fourth straight setback, 20-41, on October 27.

John Schafer and Charles Stroud took the first two places for the Leopards, followed by the visitors' Don Seltzer. Stan Applebaum, Lafayette, finished fourth, with the Red and White's Mahlon Frankhouser close on his heels. Bill Friedgen and Jim Panzeetti tied for sixth place as Lafayette seeded up the next six places before Chip Muller and Rae Hoopes came home for the Lions.

St. Joe's Win Both

This afternoon the squad will travel to Allentown to participate in the annual Middle Atlantic States Conference championships. Last year on the Muhlenberg College course St. Joseph's of Philadelphia won both the varsity and freshman events, led by Johnny Cunningham, who ran the 4.4 mile varsity race in the record time of 22:05. ## Gridders Defeat Royals, 2-0 On Muddy and Snowy Field

G-men Score Fifth Win Of Season at Scranton

By Ken Hughes

Capitalizing on their biggest break of the day, the Albright Lions scored an upset victory over a highly rated, fighting University of Scranton football team. Eleven hundred shivering fans saw an almost inevitable scoreless tie turn into a 2-0 Albright victory as a misguided snap from center resulted in a safety for the Lions.

There were about ten minutes to go in the last period when Capt. Ed Romanowski stepped back to punt with third and twelve on the thirteen. With Romanowski standing on the two yard line, center Norm Woodworth snapped the water logged pigskin low and to the punter's right. It hit on the five, again on the three and bounced crazily into the end zone. Romanowski attempted to field the ball, but with Blackie Weidman and Ed McNeill almost upon him, he realized his precarious position and batted the ball back to the three, hoping that it would be downed there. Instead Ed Hanbicki scooped up the ball and toted it across the goal. Everyone in the stands was confused but the Albright rooters cheered anyway, for they knew they had scored somehow. The safety was automatic, because Romanowski had tried to ground a forward pass.

Sudol's Kicking Highlight

The first half was a very see-saw battle, which was highlighted only by Jack Sudol's fine kicking. Following the opening kick off by Romanowski, Tony D'Apollito tried the center of the line for five. As Chauncey Krout plunged for four more, it was almost impossible to tell one team from the other, much less one player from another. Sudol almost looked out of place with a clean white jersey as he stepped back to punt on third down. After losing seven yards on two plays, Romanowski punted to the Albright 38. Two Lion fumbles were followed by a Sudol punt. On the first play the Royals fumbled. They recovered and punted on third down.

Few Punts Returned

There were only a few punt returns in the entire game. The ball very seldom rolled more than three yards after it hit in the mud. An incomplete pass and a fumble preceded Sudol's attempted punt on the third down. The first bad break of the day was a high pass from center which forced Sudol to run for a two yard gain around end. He then punted on fourth down only to have Scranton punt right back after not being able to gain through the line. Sudol exchanged punts twice more with Romonowski before the first quarter ended with the Royals in possession of the ball. Midway in the first period Romanowski tried to intercept one of Krout's wobbly tosses only to fall and slide on his face in the mud for five yards.

Tenley Tries Line

After a Romanowski punt to open the second quarter, Bruce Tenley tried the line twice only to have a penalty force Sudol to drop back to kick. Scranton's big Jack Downey broke through and blocked the punt and recovered it on the twenty. It was only the second time this year that Sudol has had a punt blocked. Downey also blocked another later in the game. With second and nine on the 19, Lou Koval dropped back to pass only to have Sudol intercept his first pass of the day on the five and return it to the 20. On second down D'Apollito slipped through the center of the line for 16 yards and Albright's first first down on the longest run up to this point. D'Apollito then went for eight more up to the 43 where Krout plunged for the Lions' second first down. An incomplete pass and a quarterback sneak for no gain preceded another Sudol punt.

Teams Kick Early

Throughout the entire game both teams played conservative ball and kicked on early downs. Ray Makowski now entered the punting duel with Sudol. A Tenley fumble on the 47 was recovered by Ray Cordelli for the Purple and White. On the next play Jack Peiffer intercepted Dan Shea's pass on the 39 and returned it to the 45. It continued to be a game of give and take as Downey recovered a Krout fumble on the 45, Makowski, this time with fourth down on the 40, kicked to the Albright five. It looked like a great break for Scranton but it quickly proved to be the opposite as the referee ruled that a Scranton player had touched the ball inside the 20 then before Albright did. So the ball was moved out to the twenty. Sudol surprised the defense as he punted on first down for 38 yards. On third down Shea faded back to the 35, but Sudol intercepted and ran it back for eleven yards. Jerry Cocchiarella, in for Krout, threw a pass on first down that was short-circuited by Stan Russin, who returned it five yards to the 42. Makowski again kicked on third down to the Albright 20 as the half ended. As soon as the mud soaked

Gridders Defeat

 players left the field the sun came out to melt some of the inch thick snow that covered the ends and sides of the field.

Oddly enough, after Willie Smith returned the kickoff for eleven yards the sun went back into hiding. Each team now had on clean jerseys, Albright wearing red and Scranton white.

The third quarter was a repetition of the kickers' duel as the teams moved from one end of the muddy field to the other. The fourth quarter opened with Smith driving for thirteen yards on three plays. After Smith was thrown for a loss back to the 20, Krout threw a pass that was intercepted on the 5 and returned to the 15 by Russin. Captain Tom Savage then dropped Shea back of the line for a loss of three to set up the only scoring play of the game. Romonowski obviously was going to punt out of danger but that elusive oval sewed up the game for the Lions. The fans thought it was a touchdown but referee Jim Flowers ruled it as a safety.

Midway in the fourth quarter with the ball on the Scranton 40, Romonowski and Shea hit the center of the line for large yardage. They then drove to the nine, on four consecutive first downs and tried a field goal that was blocked by Peiffer. But an Albright lineman was offside on the play, moving the ball to the four yard line where it was fourth down and two yard to go. Romonowski tried the center of the line but was stopped in his tracks. Sudol then punted out of danger and the game ended one minute later. It was Albright's first victory in the six game series.
