Frosh Elect; Pollock Wins Presidency

Two Local Students Selected Officers

Thomas Pollock, an Education student from Glen Loch, Pa. was elected president of the Class of '57 on Tuesday, October 6. He defeated his opponent, Lee Haggins, Business Ad major from Reading, after a close two week campaign.

Second in command will be Richard Ehbright, Business Ad student from Reading, who bested Robert Morawczynski, Pre-dental student also from Reading, in the vice presidential race.

Barbara Ross, a Reading A. B. student won out as secretary over Jeanne Palm, A. B. student from Manheim.

Treasurer will be John Mosko, Business Ad major from Nesquehoning, Pa., who defeated Janet Lanfranke, Home Ec major from Rydal, Pa.

Council To View New Alma Mater

At a meeting of Student Council on Tuesday afternoon, October 6, Harry H. Houck presented a motion that a committee be appointed to investigate the possibility of changing the Alma Mater. Council approved the motion. Carole Alt-house and Paul Hetrich were named to look into the matter.

The Freshman Orientation committee announced that a pep rally will again be held tomorrow night preceding the Albright-Gettysburg game. Freshmen are to wear customs.

Vacancies Filled On Albrightian; Additions Made

Additions to the staff of the Albrightian have been announced by Dorothy DeLaney, editor-in-chief. Three editorial posts have been filled; the position of copy editor is still vacant.

Rachel Kaebnick, '56, has been named news editor for the coming year. She has been serving on the editorial board since last spring. John Lewis, '54, was appointed sports editor, with Leroy Brendle, '54, named as assistant sports editor.

Lois Hughes, '55, will fill the post of exchange editor on the business staff. Also named to the business department by Herbert Mackler, business manager, was Norman Ring, '56, who will serve as circulation manager. Ann Kocher, '54, will be added to the art staff.

Eleven freshmen have been appointed to the Albrightian staff, after tryouts were held last week. Those appointed to the news staff are: Mary Jo Barbera, Patricia Shoff, Jean Wise, Catherine Philipson, Eleanor Hinnershote, Sandra Zerby, Ralph Carl, Marilyn Teeter and Nancy Dobbs. Richard Tideman and Robert Fox will write sports.

Members of last year's staff who will be returning are: Thelma Arnold, Sally Lanz and Gerald Zaid; feature—Sylvia Gruel, Donald VanLieuw, Jacqueline Zwoyer, Paul Hetrich, Natalie Filbert, Pa-

Five Nominated For Homecoming Queen

BARBARA BURBANK, '56

EVELYN JAMES, '54

MARGARET KANE, '56

All-Campus Vote To Decide Queen; Crowning Oct. 23

One senior and four sophomore women have been chosen as contestants for Homecoming Queen by various campus organizations this past week. Winners in the elections were Evelyn James, '54, and Stephany Bartolett, Barbara Burbank, Alma Grove and Margaret Kane, all '56.

The candidates were selected by those campus groups which are represented in Student Council. There was considerable overlapping of candidates among the groups, since several groups decided to support the same candidates.

The Homecoming Queen will be selected from the five at an all-campus election to be held during the chapel program sometime next week. The winner will then be crowned at intermission of the annual Ivy Ball, to be held on Friday evening, October 23, in the gymnasium. Rev. Dean Allen, president of the Alumni Association will make the announcement and crown the queen.

The queen will then reign over the Homecoming festivities planned for the weekend. She will receive a trophy as part of her award and will also be given numerous gifts donated by Reading merchants. The runner-up will also be announced and will be given additional prizes, as will all other candidates.

The traditional Homecoming parade which precedes the Saturday afternoon football game will be led by a float on which the queen will ride, attended by the runner-up.

The committee in charge of selecting the Homecoming Queen is headed by Robert Bieler and Bruce Eickhoff, both '54.

Senior Photographs To Be Taken For Cue

Senior class pictures to be published in the Cue are now being taken, according to Margaret Israel, '54, editor. Appointments can be made with the photographer, George Deiminger, in Reading at an early date.

A number of students have already had pictures taken. It is necessary that the remainder of the seniors make appointments at their earliest convenience. All senior women will be photographed in a coat-drape effect. Senior men should appear in dark suits, white shirts and dark ties.

ALMA GROVE, '56

Professors Attend Conference At UN

Profs. Charles E. Kistler and Charles A. Raith, of the history and political science departments, attended a conference of the United Nations in New York, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 6 and 7.

With round table discussions on the educational responsibilities of higher education, the conference is being sponsored by the United Nations, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and New York University.

On Monday, October 5, Dr. Milton G. Geil addressed the Junior Woman's Club of Muhlenberg on the subject "Emotional Problems in Childhood."

Four Sophomores Receive Support Of Campus Groups

Miss Burbank, a resident of Westfield, New Jersey, is a home economics major. She is a member of the hockey and basketball squads, and is also active in HEO and the Domino Club. Barbara stands 5' 8" tall and has brown hair and brown eyes.

A business administration major from Wyomissing, Evelyn James is interested in a career in merchandising, following graduation. The only senior in the group, Miss James is 5' 3" tall and is a gray-eyed blond.

Another local girl is 5' 1" Margaret Kane, who lives in Lincoln Park. This black-haired, brown-eyed sophomore is a pre-nursing student, who plans to enter Reading Hospital next fall. Miss Kane is secretary of her class and a member of Pi Alpha Tau sorority.

A strawberry-blond, blue-eyed member of the group, Stephany Bartolett, comes to Albright from Haddonfield, New Jersey. This 5' 7" tall history major and business minor is also a member of the hockey squad.

Girls sports claim the interest of Alma Grove, a psychology major from York, Pa. Miss Grove stands 5' 6" tall and is a green-eyed blond. A member of Pi Alpha Tau sorority, she also plays hockey, basketball and tennis.

TV Workshop Programs Scheduled To Begin

The Television Workshop, under the direction of Dr. James Reppert is now in full swing. Several programs have been tentatively arranged with production scheduled to start the first week in November. WEEU-TV has granted Albright College one half hour program time each week. The format of the program is "Berks County Scrapbook." A series of historical happenings will be moderated and illustrated by top men in the various fields of Berks County history.

Those who are working with Dr. Reppert at the present time are: Mahlon Frankhouser, Ray Weitzel, Gerald Gervasi, Nancy Lou Walker and Robert R. Brown.

Dr. Reppert would like it to be known that there are numerous vacancies in the TV Workshop and anyone interested in joining this organization should contact him at the earliest convenience.

Y Retreat Registration Is Now Open

Rev. Homer Trickett To Lead In Seminars

Registration has begun for the annual Fall "Y" retreat at Camp Fernbrook, Saturday and Sunday, October 17 and 18. Those who wish to register may do so between classes on the first floor of the Administration Building.

Transportation will be provided for those going, cars leaving the parking lot at 2:00 p. m. sharp. Camp Fernbrook is located 10 miles from here in the direction of Hopewell.

Two Seminars Planned

The first seminar will get under way in the early afternoon under the direction of Rev. Homer L. Trickett. The general theme of the retreat will be "How God Guides." Devotions will precede the seminar. A discussion period will follow each seminar, being led by Rev. Trickett.

Following the afternoon seminar there will be a free period at which time volleyball, tennis, baseball and other activities will provide the entertainment.

After the evening meal, the second seminar will follow. The social hour after the evening seminar will consist of games and singing.

Rev. Barth Gives Communion

Sunday morning, Rev. Eugene Barth, faculty advisor of the Y will be in charge of a communion service assisted by several students.

Recreation will again be resumed after dinner. The group will disband in the afternoon.

Rachel Kaebnick and Max Miller are co-chairmen of the retreat.

Campus Organizations To Join In Parade

All campus organizations are invited to enter floats in the traditional Homecoming Day parade which will precede the football game on Saturday, October 24. The groups are to plan and decorate their own floats.

Johnstown Alumni Elect New Officers

The Johnstown Area Alumni Club met on Thursday, October 1, to elect officers for the coming year. Mahlon Baumgardner, '10, was elected president, to succeed Mary Livingston, '04. Rev. Paul Price represented the college at the meeting.

Rev. Price will also represent the college at a reorganization meeting of the Pittsburgh Area Alumni Club on Friday, October 16. The office of president of the club has been held vacant since the death of Denton Albright, '15, last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shirk will appear as representatives of Albright at a picnic held by the Washington, D. C. Area Club. Leonard Miller, '20, will be in charge of the program. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

Interested alumni in the Wilkes-Barre area will meet after the Albright College glee club concert in Wilkes-Barre on October 25 to discuss organization plans.

'Everybody Talks About It'

When Mark Twain so aptly described the weather with his famous cliché, "Everybody talks about it but nobody does anything about it," one would think he was referring to "The Albrightian" of his day.

Such is the plight of our much-maligned news sheet. Every Friday the students of our fair college pick up their copies. After a brief and inconsiderate perusal, our self-appointed literary experts roundly and soundly criticize the well-intentioned efforts of their classmates.

Without any remuneration at all and hardly any appreciation, a staff member devotes three evenings a week in an effort to report the news of the campus. Whether or not they attain journalistic perfection is beside the point. Now, this is not a defense of the rhetorical and grammatical failings of our paper. This is intended as a statement of the situation and a possible solution for those few who might decide to "do something about it."

In order to produce a concrete impression I would like to cite a specific example. During the composition of "The Albrightian" not more than four people are on hand to assemble, write, correct, re-write, headline and compose the four pages that make up the paper. When the paper reaches the six hundred students an immeasurably large number of students rake the issue over the coals. Now if half of these talkers became doers, "The Albrightian" would have more than enough staff members to give the paper the desired journalistic appearance.

If this paper is as imperfect, inaccurate, and failing in its purpose as it is criticized to be, then let us take action. Let us depose the few dunderheads who can do nothing right and let us go down to the composing room ourselves and turn some of our sharp words into productive effort. The dunderheads down there would be happy to turn it over for a week.—P.A.L.

Follow The Leader

... and a little child shall lead them.

It sounds ridiculous and almost irrelevant to the subject of school spirit, cheering and enthusiasm, but the old quotation could very easily be applied to the recent pep assembly and the Lafayette-Albright football game. The "little child" refers to the freshman class, whose response to the cheers is something of which Albright can be proud. Frosh spontaneity and willingness to cheer, whistle, wave dinks and perform certainly is an example for all of us to follow. In fact, during the first half of the game, their enthusiasm had mounted so that they started a new cheer long before the cheerleaders had sufficiently "recovered" from the previous one. And what's more, they actually seemed to enjoy themselves. For proof of that statement, remember that customs and regulations were off at half-time, but not so the cheering, even when Albright started dropping behind in the game.

Let's follow these "children" by yelling, hollering, singing, losing a few inhibitions, and getting into the spirit of the game. It would give us personal satisfaction to know that we are doing our part in helping Albright to win.

Editorialette . . .

"Perhaps the most valuable result of education is the ability to make yourself do the thing you have to do when it ought to be done, whether you like it or not."

And who's the Marlon Brando who's been spreading this sneaker wearing craze on campus? Any day now the standard prerequisite for being collegiate will be torn t-shirts, sneakers, and Bermuda shorts, which at one time were simply long shorts or short pedal pushers, but having been worn at Mrs. Van Rupert Rupert III's charades and cootie party at that bourgeoisie Riviera have since become "the thing for casual living . . ."

New Views on Old News

After several threadbare weeks, things are looking up, culturally speaking, in our little metropolis. Until now that exquisite example of the general public's taste in literature, "I, the Jury," was about the most interesting film fare. What the Hays' Office took out of the three-d glasses couldn't put back in, unless we had ours on upside down. The situation should improve soon though. The motion picture "Melba" and the controversial "From Here to Eternity" (based on the "Guide and Handbook to Profanity" of the same name) bow in at local theatres this week. The first concert of the Reading Symphony Orchestra's new season is scheduled for October 18 and a performance of Stephen Vincent Benet's "John Brown's Body" will be given in the near future. Then, for laughs, there's Kinsey who gambled—and according to some circles—lost at capitalizing again on the American public's adolescent curiosity about sex.

Very Random Thoughts

One of the few TV programs that it's still a pleasure to watch is "Mr. Peepers" which continues to do a terrific job of entertaining without 1) preaching the capitalistic order, 2) making money by parading across the screen the sad stories of hard luck characters who, in exchange for guaranteeing the sponsor a tear a minute, have a chance at the jackpot question, or 3) resorting to the Martin-Lewis variety of comedy. This witty commentary of life and times of a mild-mannered general science teacher is a welcome relief from the rehashed Keystone Cops routine that prevails in that medium.

Did you see that Fractured French napkin with the famous line, "Je t'adore, they're coming in the windows!"?

Contest News

Don't forget our "Name the Column" contest. Additional prizes will be a set of science fundamentals notes, a star chart for April, 1952, and a platinum pogo stick complete with a Leesport m.u.r. N.Z.

Is Love Really Self-Love?

"Our first and best love is—self-love."—Bovee.

Sounds rather conceited, doesn't it? Strangely enough, though, the students who gathered at Professor Harry W. Mengel's home Tuesday evening to discuss "What Is Love?" arrived at a similar decision.

For this year's first of the "Y" sponsored Fireside Chats, groups also met with Professor Eugene H. Barth, Donald S. Gates, and Ellery B. Haskell. Approximately thirty students braved the cold, wet night to discuss the subject that warms the world.

In trying to define love, Professor Mengel's group came to realize almost from the beginning that they knew much less about the illustrious subject than they had ever dreamed. Granted that twittering birds, mild insanity, and sex all seemed to be associated with it, they, nevertheless, were quite stumped.

Then the fun began. The mysterious depth of the subject was finally reached. After much groping and stumbling about in ab-

'Pleasant Atmosphere' At Albright Reminds Puerto Rican Of Home

(Ed. note: This is the first of a series of articles featuring foreign students attending Albright.)

"I love the mountains because they remind me of home and also the pleasant atmosphere here at Albright," said Nilda Calder, when asked how she liked Albright. To Nilda, home is Mayaguez, the third largest city in Puerto Rico, where she was born 19 years ago.

Nilda Calder

is presently stationed at Camp Kilmer, New Jersey.

Nilda came to the states last November, at the advice of her cousin, a graduate of Ursinus College, who interested her in Albright College. Arriving in New York by plane after eight hours non-stop flight from Puerto Rico, Nilda was surprised to find such tall buildings. She was disappointed however, not to find the natural beauty found here on campus.

Although at times she has been

'53 Grads Push On

Gone but not forgotten, our '53 alumni are pushing on to find new worlds to conquer. Here are some items on how they are succeeding:

Bill Himmelman is now attending law school at Rutgers, while Tom Masters is doing graduate work in history at Lehigh. The women aren't being outdone, since Cynthia Reinhart is an assistant in the department of math at Ohio University and Bernadette Kaluzny has entered the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Industry has taken quite a few of last year's grads, among them Phil Rickenbach and Albert Weidman, who are working for the Armstrong Cor's Company of Lancaster. Dick Koton is working for Philco in Philadelphia, and has also become engaged recently to Eleanor Dick.

Pat Miller and Dolores High have both entered the teaching profession, teaching English. Another coed, Camille Thorpe, has enrolled in the nurses' training course at the Philadelphia General Hospital.

stractions and theories, it was decided that real love is actually an infinite capacity and basic ingredient in all mankind identified with the Spirit of God.

As for self-love—one loves in others the reflection of what he loves in himself. Even God is loved on this basis. For is not God the highest essence of goodness which is conceivable to each individual? Love, therefore, should begin with self-love or the recognition of the reflection of ourselves in God.

Emerging from such philosophical depths, the students at the chat seemed lost to the world. Love should surely afford a more mundane conception without denying the first.

Professor Mengel suggested that love is a reducer of tensions. From childhood on, each tries to reduce his tensions; therefore he develops an affection for those things or persons that help him in doing so. Sexual love reduces those tensions created by biological impulses. The idea of tension reduction as a motivation for love further explains the introductory quotation concerning self-love.

homesick for her family, Nilda has never regretted that she has come to America. The surprise of her life came last week when her father unexpectedly visited her here, having come back from fourteen months in Korea. He had previously written her that he would be coming to the United States, but didn't know when.

Having never seen snow before in her life, Nilda was very excited when she saw her first snowflakes last winter in Gloucester City, New Jersey, where she was staying with her cousin. When asked if she had a nice Christmas, Nilda replied, "It was much happier than if I had been in Puerto Rico, where there is no Santa Claus." The past summer, Nilda worked in a laundry in Gloucester City. She hasn't done much traveling around the country right now, having visited only as far as New York and Philadelphia.

As a freshman, Nilda is majoring in English and Spanish. Of the two, English is her favorite. An interesting note is that during high school days, Nilda received better grades in English than in her native language. If she returns to Puerto Rico she hopes to teach English.

Nilda said that, since the war, the American influence is great in Puerto Rico but she still finds a difference between American and Puerto Rican youth. "The girls in America are free to decide practically anything. In Puerto Rico, the girl's parents must approve of her future husband, whereas here the girl decides that question for herself. Also, so many young people work here. In Puerto Rico, we didn't work unless we were poor."

Nilda has a very keen ear for all types of music, from Bach to boogie. While in high school, she took an active part in dramatics, folk-dancing, Girl Scouts, and sports, especially softball and volleyball.

If it were possible, the Albright lion would surely give three rousing roars for this week's Dandy Lion, Miss Virginia Marick. Because this particular "Ginny" is president of our YWCA organization on campus, the Y this year has a new spark and enthusiasm.

This gal, it seems, turned out to be quite a "pusher" in her senior year, for besides pushing the wheels of the Y, almost every afternoon you can see her out on the athletic field pushing a hockey stick. To round out her college activities, Ginny is an important member of Pi Alpha Tau (Incidentally, in relation to her membership, she pushes a pen—corresponding secretary, you know.) It seems repetitious to mention it again but many pencils will also be pushed until this girl has finished her Cue stories (associate editor, you know.).

Pi Gamma Mu is also on Miss Marick's list . . . again, she's secretary. It may sound as if this chapel dormer is overworked as well as over pushed, but she isn't. She even has time to attend a number of soc. and psych. classes and, if you'll pardon the expression, take a few notes.

There is just one big item left, and that's a certain "push" which will be administered by a certain minister, in a certain church, in connection with a certain Bill Britton.

Gettysburg Defeat Would Even Lions' Record

By Jack Lewis

Tribute

In meeting Lafayette, the Albright gridgers met their finest opposition that they will encounter this season. Temple was good, but the Leopards displayed a running attack which ranks with the best of the East. It certainly is a credit for the Lions to hold a 7-7 tie throughout three quarters of the game. All Lafayette tallies came as a result of Albright fumbles coupled with a hard-hitting Lafayette line. This line, incidentally, is studded with All-American candidates.

Bright Spot

Although the Lions suffered their second defeat last Saturday, they did reveal a passing game which we hope to see more often. A pass from Jack Sudol to Eddie McNeill produced Albright's lone tally. This was the high point of a passing attack which netted the Lions a total of 132 yards. If this new-found offensive threat were to be coupled with the usual Albright defense, the Lions could field a rejuvenated team against Gettysburg and all the opposition for the rest of the season.

Suspense

As the world series closed earlier this week, a group of boys were seated around a television set. The last inning of an exciting series—the stage was set. The emotions expressed were varied—some happy, others sad, all expectant. In each individual's mind was the hope that his team would win. Then Carl Furillo hit a 3-2 pitch into the right field seats. Needless to say the room turned into a sea of happy fans, but the tide slowly rolled out. Billy Martin singled in the last of the ninth, to drive in the winning run and bring the 1953 World Series to a close. A new group of fans registered their approval, while down-hearted fans filed glumly back to their rooms mumbling "wait-'til-next-year."

Thus the New York Yankees became the first baseball team to win five consecutive world titles.

Freshmen

At last Saturday's game the fans witnessed some very fine Albright spirit. The entire freshman class, practically to the man, engaged in a half-time "Bunny-Hop," along with sundry "buttons" and individual cheers!

If the freshmen can enjoy this as school spirit and unity, instead of punishment, they will set a splendid example for the upper-classmen to follow.

Thorpe Or Croke?

Jim Croke, Brooklyn born Albright athlete, may well be Albright's own "Jim Thorpe." Jim, during the past season proved that records were made to be broken. In track, he established new high and low hurdles records, along with a first place in the broad jump, as he garnered eighteen points against P.M.C. A single handed feat that will live in the annals of Albright sports history.

P. S. It DID look like the Dodgers.

Fighting Red and White Eleven Loses To Powerful Lafayette Squad

A game, but outfought, Albright College football squad fell to defeat before a powerful Lafayette team 28-7 as a flurry of last quarter touchdowns once again—as happened in the Temple game—marred a hard fought game on the home gridiron.

The Lafayette rushing attack was just about too much for the injury-ridden Lions, however the score remained tied for three quarters and it took three fumbles to set up the last three scoring plays. The Leopards gained 351 yards on the ground, however five of their own fumbles—three were recovered by the Lions—and heavy losses on penalties caused the contest to be nip and tuck.

The Leopards drew first blood in the opening quarter. They gained the ball just after Jack Sudol made a 13 yard run and fumbled on the 35. Three first downs followed and then Jack Smith took the handoff for a line plunge from the three. Tackle Dick Mears converted for the Maroons.

The Lions tied up the score on a 65-yard march which included five first downs. Jack Sudol's bullet passes to ends Joe Hayick and Ed McNeill and fullback Bob Krize ate up the yardage and it was a nine yard pass to McNeill which provided the Lions with their only TD. D'Apollito converted to tie the score.

The Maroons sewed up the game by promptly taking advantage of the fumbles to score three fast touchdowns in the last period. Smith scored the game winning TD on a line plunge from the one yard stripe. Dan McCarthy and Bryan Satterlee scored the last two, with Mears converting three more points.

The only real Lion scoring threat in the second half was in the third period when they took a Leopard fumble from the Maroon 45 to the eight yard line only to have a Sudol handoff go astray and Lafayette recover.

Harriers Open Season Saturday

The Lion Harriers open their 1953 season this Saturday, when they play host to the Gettysburg Bullets. The veteran squad will be seeking a repeat victory over the Gettysburg hill and dale boys. Last year the Lions were victors in a meet which was marked with the splendid running performance of Bill Shirk.

Shirk will be the nucleus of a team which includes veteran runners as: Mahlon Frankhouse, Jim Rocktashel, Paul Gehris and Dick Flammer.

The Albright harriers are expected to eclipse the past season's 4-4 record.

Former Albrightian Makes News In Dixie

A former Albright football player, Lou Venier, is playing for Mississippi State this year. He was on the Albright squad in 1951 and starred defensively in the backfield as a freshman.

Venier did not return to Albright in his sophomore year, but instead, enrolled at Mississippi last year. Against Tennessee on September 26, he scored a touchdown on a line plunge to aid Mississippi in a 26-0 win.

Albright won six games in 1951 and dropped four, the Brooklyn athlete appearing in all of those contests.

Campus Inquirer Turns Attention To Night Games

The question: Do you prefer night or day college football games?

The answers:

Jim Hall—Night. Due to the incapability of college students of keeping the pocketbook balanced, it is beneficial to take a girl to a Saturday night game with an activity book.

Ivan Moyer—Night, because of the greater opportunity of fraternizing after the game.

Ann Stalneck—Day, because you can get a fuller value of football with autumn surroundings.

Jim Barrett—Day. Have heard that sex will replace night football games.

Pat Brown—Day, because of the football atmosphere. More spirit.

Sally Aicher—Day. You have all night to have a ball.

Coach Eddie Gulian—Day. It tends to mean more college atmosphere and allows boys to perform better. Salvation of college football depends upon night games.

Ginny Marick—Night. More people can attend. Nice way to spend an evening. Financial reasons.

Thelma Arnold—Night. More exciting under the lights; always something to do afterwards.

George Conrad—Study by day and go to football games at night.

Max Miller—I just like to go out at night, that's all.

Helen Zielinski—Night games. It's dark.

Gerald Scheffey—Afternoon. Nice crisp afternoon weather.

Bob Sulyma—To a lineman night and day games are the same.

Dean Kriebel—Night. It's cool.

Bert Pergola—(Ed. note: Hey, how did he get in here?) I prefer night sports because I have afternoon activities.

Pete Nicholas—Well, from where I sit, it makes no difference. I enjoy a good ball game anytime, especially from my seat on the fifty-yard line.

Bob Bieler—Night. They provide more color. The lights add atmosphere. Besides this, night games offer a good excuse for not studying.

Lions Seek Second Win

Albright College's grid forces will be seeking its second win of the campaign and third in its history over Gettysburg tomorrow night in the stadium at 8:00 p. m.

Until 1949 the best the former Albright elevens could do against Gettysburg was three ties and six defeats, however in 1949 the Lions tied the Bullets 13-13, won 14-12 in 1950, lost by the narrowest of margins 21-20 in 1951, and rebounded to a 7-0 win last year. That brings the over-all record to two wins, four ties, and seven losses.

Coach Eddie Gulian will hope to duplicate last year's victory against his Alma Mater at which time the Lions ended the Bullets seven game winning streak 7-0. Bob Carney tossed a 22 yard pass to end Bruce Eickhoff who made a great stab to snare the ball and the game. Tony D'Apollito converted.

Gerry Potts scored all three touchdowns in the 21-20 loss and in the 14-12 triumph Bill Khroto and Bruce Tenley hit paydirt.

The Bullets will bring a veteran stacked team to Reading, including two halfbacks who scored touchdowns in the 1951 Gettysburg win. Earl Yost and Joe Ujobai scored these two TD's and they are causing the same kind of trouble for the opposition this year. Together they scored three TD's against Western Maryland in their 46-7 victory. Ujobai also converted three points.

The Lions hope to be roaring back on the strength of Jack Sudol's clever passing, with ends Joe Hayick and Ed McNeill being the main targets. Ed McNeill scored the only touchdown against Lafayette and Tony D'Apollito kicked the extra point. The Red and White did a very commendable job in holding the Leopards 7-7 for three periods and hope to have the squad back at full strength; however it is very doubtful that co-captain Bruce Eickhoff will be ready.

Tony D'Apollito, Jack Peiffer and Bob Krize will assist Sudol in the backfield. Fred Hess and Herb Mackler will be at tackles, Jack Clopper and Bob Sulyma at guards, and Jack Huntzinger at center. Fred Ardito and Frank Goldstein might be at guards if Clopper and Sulyma are not ready.

The Bullets' quarterback will be Frank Gagliardi, who passed for three touchdowns in the first period against Western Maryland, and the fullback will be Ernie Paliszewski who scored twice in the same game. Ron Jacobi and Walt Hemberger will be at opposite ends.

Lineup:
Hayick	LE	Hemberger
Hess	LT	Roomey
Clopper	LG	Miller
Huntzinger	C	Yingst
Sulyma	RG	Beck
Mackler	RT	Williams
McNeill	RE	Jacobi
Sudol	QB	Gagliardi
D'Apollito	RHB	Ujobai
Peiffer	LHB	Yost
Krize	FB	Paliszewski

Lionesses Hockey Season To Start Tomorrow

The Albright Lionesses will open their fall hockey program tomorrow morning at Allentown when the girls from Cedar Crest will stage a play day. Other teams participating in the best-of-three series will be Moravian Women's College and Kutztown State Teachers College.

Starting lineups for the Albright team have not yet been announced. The next game to be played will be against Ursinus at Collegeville on Wednesday, October 21.

Tony D'Apollito, hard-running senior halfback, and Frank Goldstein, hard-hitting sophomore guard, have both proved to be indispensable for the Lions in games played thus far. D'Apollito mixes his defensive duties with very fine offensive running. Goldstein couples his splendid offensive blocking with his share of key tackles. Both boys are from Jersey, D'Apollito residing in Far Hills and Goldstein in Asbury Park.

At the first meeting of Phi Beta Mu sorority, held on Monday evening, committees to serve for the coming year were appointed. These include Fall Rush Party — Pat Brown, Beth Emmett, Sylvia Gruel, Jackie King and Claire Simmet; Homecoming — Jean Hook, Joan Neilson, Jane Zenke and Barbara Farris; Rummage Sale — Mary Althouse and Eleanor Dick; Fall Rush Dance—Roberta Crimbring, Dot DeLaney, Ruth Fry, Annjeannette Innis and Ann Stalneckner.

Pi Alpha Tau

Plans for fall events were discussed and committees appointed at the Pi Alpha Tau Sorority meeting on Monday evening. The Rush Party will be held on November 2 at Schlegel Park; Helen Schoener and Alma Grove are co-chairmen of the party, and Joan Delp and Margaret Kane are in charge of refreshments. Martha Little heads the Homecoming committee, with Phyllis Grueber in charge of Open House, and the Alumni get-together is under the direction of Evelyn Weida and Roslyn Cowen. November 14 is the date of the Fall Rush Dance. Sally Aicher is chairman, and the other committees are Andrea Schmoeyer and Tessie Winkler, refreshment; and Stella Tryka, decorations. Natalie Filbert is making the PAT certificates. Andrea Schmoeyer was appointed publicity chairman for the sorority.

Kappa Upsilon Phi

At the meeting of Kappa Upsilon Phi fraternity on Monday evening Erwin Knight was appointed to replace Tom Sturgis as representative to Student Council. Plans were discussed for the Fall Dance, and Ron Pisano was appointed chairman. John Jones was elected as chairman of the decoration committee for Homecoming, and he will be assisted by Bill Britton and Roy Rothenberger.

Pi Tau Beta

The Pi Tau Beta quarters in the Albright Court Apartments are now in the process of being redecorated. The fraternity is also making plans for a Homecoming float. At the meeting on Monday evening Elliot Perceley was appointed scholastic chairman.

Zeta Omega Epsilon

At a meeting of the Zeta Omega Epsilon fraternity, James Croke, '54, was elected captain of the fraternity intra-mural football team. The committee on house improvements has announced that the refinishing of the basement is nearly complete. A new ceiling has been installed and the walls have been painted.

Alpha Pi Omega

The Alpha Pi Omega fraternity have started plans for fraternity activities during Homecoming Weekend. Mahlon Frankhouser and Harold Kretzing are in charge of the program, which will include open house during the entire weekend and the construction of a float for the Homecoming Day parade. Plans have also been initiated for the annual fall fraternity dance which will be held on December 4.

Students Speak . . .

Asked by a student pollster whether she preferred male students in ROTC uniforms or in civilian dress, an Akron University coed replied, "If they wear uniforms then they don't have to buy so many clothes. That leaves them with more money to spend on me." Another girl told the pollster, "I like civilian clothes better because the only way you can tell the Air Force men from the bus drivers is the way they tilt their hats."

Albright Chapter Host To District FTA Convention

In conjunction with the 22nd annual convention of the Eastern Convention District of the Pennsylvania State Education Assn. to be held in Reading today, the district branch of the Future Teachers of America will meet on the Albright campus.

Registration of high school people coming to the convention will be taken care of in Krause Hall by Joan Nielsen, Lorraine Wagner, Pat Weiherer, Eleanor Hinner-shotz and Mary Jo Barbera.

A movie "What Greater Gift?" will be shown, followed by a panel discussion under the chairmanship of Margaret Allan, from Reading High School.

Dr. George W. Walton, dean of Albright College, will speak on the subject "The Geology of the Eastern Convention District" at the Geography meeting in the Science building.

Other members of the Albright faculty who will address off-campus meetings include Dr. Edith B. Douds, who will serve on a panel at the foreign language meeting, Paul I. Speicher, who will be part of a panel discussion on contents and goals of mathematical education and Dr. Charles E. Kistler, who will participate in the social studies meeting.

FTA members and prospective members attending the first meeting on Wednesday, October 7 were Emma Seifrit, Orchys Kramer, Barbara Bubel, Charlotte, McCane, Mary Jo Barbera, Eleanor Hinner-shotz, Lorraine Wagner, Joan Nielsen, Pat Weiherer, Miriam Worley, Peter Nicholas, James Barrett, Ralph A. Carl, Sonia Kay Flicker, Nancy Dobbs, Jeanne Walker and Jean Hook.

tricia Rentschler, Ray Weitzel and Emma Seifrit.

Also, business—Joan Thomas, Sharline Heath, Ruth Mengel and Gerald Silverman. Barbara Farris, '54, will serve as assistant editor. Helen Schoener, '56, and Patricia Weiherer, '55, will work together as co-feature editors.

Typists are still needed for work on Monday afternoon. Anyone interested will please leave his name in the Albrightian office. Other persons interested in writing for the publication can still join the staff.

Chairmen Plan Retreat

Plans are being made for the fall Y Retreat, to be held at Fernbrook, next weekend. Pictured above are the co-chairmen for the program, Rachel Kaebnick and Max Miller, together with other members of the Y.

Library Has New Assistant; Open Stacks Remain

This year the librarian in charge of the desk during the morning periods will be Mrs. Paul Price, wife of Rev. Paul Price, minister of the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Mohnton.

In addition to her library work, Mrs. Price is kept busy as the chairman of the devotional committee for the Womens Auxiliary of Albright College, and as director of childrens work in the East Penn (E.U.B.) Conference.

The "open stack" system, which permits students to go directly to the shelves for books themselves rather than to present call slips at the desk to have the books brought to them, worked out so well last year that it will be continued throughout the current year, stated Miss Josephine Raepfel, head librarian.

Attention, Frosh

A pep rally will be staged to night at 7:00 p. m. on the hockey field. All freshmen are required to attend. Following the pep meeting, there will be a dance in Krause Hall.

Tomorrow night the freshmen will meet at Krause Hall at 7:00 p. m. for a pep rally before the game. The procedure will then follow that of last week's game, but the field events at half time will be omitted except for the arch formed for the players to come through. After half time they will again be allowed to disband.

Debating Club Delegates Go To Student Workshop

The national topic for debate this year is "The United States Should Adopt a Policy of Free Trade," Debating Club manager Ray Weitzel announced.

Dr. Shirk, Mahlon Frankhouser and Ray Weitzel will attend the convention and student workshop of the Debating Association of Pennsylvania Colleges October 10.

Students Try Out

Several upperclassmen as well as freshmen showed interest in the recent try-outs for membership. These include Ronald Johnson, Jeanne Palm, Gerald Gervasi, Anna Reinsel, Lowell Perry, Ruth Hotz, Bill Esberg, Catharine Phillipson, Arthur Saylor, Jan Musser, Nancy Dobbs, Sara Joralemon, Jonathan Kurtz, Robert Fox, Milvin Hurst and Allan Yentz. The three members remaining from last year are Weitzel, Frankhouser and Berk-stresser. No definite selections will be made for several weeks, so that anyone still interested in trying out, especially upperclassmen, should attend meetings Wednesday at four o'clock.

Preparations are being made to send a novice team to the Novice Debate Tournament at Temple the first week in December.

'Seventeen' Notes Sophomore Coed

Appearing in the October issue of "Seventeen," under the column, "Teens in the News," is a picture and article concerning Helen Schoener, '56. The item reads as follows: "Camp Fire Girl and self-appointed ambassador from UNESCO, nineteen-year-old Helen Schoener has spoken of the relation of young people to the UN on radio and television, to school and Camp Fire groups."

A sophomore from Temple, Pa., Miss Schoener is co-feature editor of the "Albrightian," secretary of the Y and a member of the Pi Alpha Tau sorority.

One Can Never Be Too Careful . . .

American Official: Have you ever been to Russia?

British Visitor: Yes.

AO: For what purpose?

BV: To see Mr. Stalin.

AO: Was it a social or political visit?

BV: Political.

AO: Were you then engaged in a joint activity with Stalin?

BV: Yes, I was giving him all the help in my power.

AO: Did he need this help?

BV: Most urgently.

AO: Do you consider that if you had refused to give him assistance his government might have collapsed?

BV: Most probably. Have a cigar?

AO: Not till this enquiry is over. Have you ever been a radical?

BV: Yes, in the early years of the 20th century. Later on, I changed my mind.

AO: Do you support any form of government repugnant to the principles of the American way of life?

BV: Yes.

AO: Which form?

BV: I am a strong believer in the Monarchical principle. I believe in Kings and especially Queens.

AO: You seem to be a very dubious character and you will have to go to Ellis Island while we check your file with MI 5 in London. What is your name and address?

BV: Winston Churchill, 10 Downing Street, London.

"WELL, WELL—THE SHINING KNIGHT IN WHITE ARMOR, THE GAY LOTHARIO FROM THE WEST, THE BEAU BRUNNEL OF PARK AVENUE—COME IN, JEAN!"

Name Omitted In Cast

The name of Robert Brown, '56, was omitted from the cast of the Domino Club's fall production in last week's issue. Brown will play the leading male role in "Bell, Book and Candle," opposite Nancy Lou Walker, the female lead. He appeared on the Domino Club stage last spring.

HEO To Meet Monday; Open House Is Success

The second meeting of the HEO Club will be held at 7:30 p. m. on Monday, October 12 in Sherman Cottage. The guest speaker for the evening will be a Wave officer from Philadelphia who will speak to the group on "Feeding in the Armed Services."

Senior home economics students entertained at an "open house" at Sherman Cottage last Friday, October 2. Over one hundred guests were present throughout the day to view the newly decorated interior of the home economics practice house. Patricia Eisenbise was hostess for the open house.
